

Freemasonry to QAnon

57 Wikipedia Articles on Conspiracy Theories

Edited by Good Times

June 2021

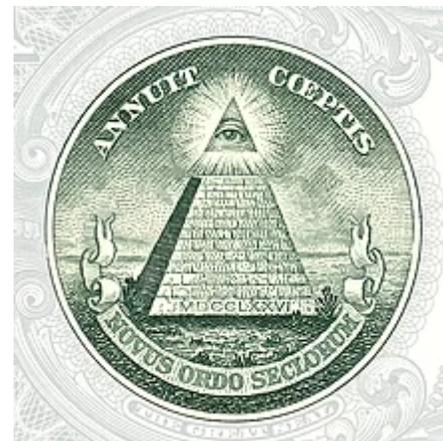

<http://goodtimesweb.org/covert-operations/2021/gt-wikipedia-articles-conspiracy-theories-jun-2021.pdf>

List of conspiracy theories

This is a list of conspiracy theories that are notable. Many conspiracy theories relate to clandestine government plans and elaborate murder plots. Conspiracy theories usually deny consensus or cannot be proven using the historical or scientific method and are not to be confused with research concerning verified conspiracies such as Germany's pretense for invading Poland in World War II.

In principle, conspiracy theories are not always false by default and their validity depends on evidence just as in any theory. However, they are often discredited a priori due to the cumbersome and improbable nature of many of them.

Psychologists attribute finding a conspiracy where there is none to a form of cognitive bias called illusory pattern perception.^{[3][4]}

The Eye of Providence, or the all-seeing eye of God, seen here on the US$1 bill, has been taken by some to be evidence of a conspiracy involving the founders of the United States and the Illuminati.^{[1]:58[2]:47–49}

Contents

Aviation

Black helicopters

Chemtrails

Korean Air Lines Flight 007

Malaysia Airlines Flight MH370

Malaysia Airlines Flight MH17

Business and industry

Deepwater Horizon

New Coke

Deaths and disappearances

Economics and society

New World Order

Denver Airport

George Soros

Freemasonry

Üst akıl

Espionage

Israel animal spying

Harold Wilson

Malala Yousafzai

Ethnicity, race and religion

Antisemitism

Anti-Armenianism

Anti-Bahá'ism

Anti-Catholicism

Antichrist

Bible and Jesus

Islam

Anti-Islamic

Racism

Extraterrestrials and UFOs

Government, politics and conflict

Illuminati

False flag operations

9/11

Sandy Hook

Clintons

Jeffrey Epstein death conspiracy theories

FEMA

African National Congress

Barack Obama

Cultural Marxism

Deep state

Sutherland Springs

Trump and Ukraine

Biden-Ukraine conspiracy theory

"Stolen election" conspiracy theory

Medicine

Alternative therapy suppression

Artificial diseases

COVID-19 pandemic

Fluoridation

Vaccination

Science and technology

Global warming

Weather and earthquake control projects

MKUltra

Flat Earth

RFID chips

Technology suppression

Weaponry

Targeted Individuals

False history

Outer space

Sports

BoxingShergarRigged selection processes1984 Firecracker 400Ronaldo and the 1998 World Cup FinalNew England PatriotsSee alsoReferencesFurther reading

Aviation

Numerous conspiracy theories pertain to air travel and aircraft. Incidents such as the 1955 bombing of the Kashmir Princess, the 1985 Arrow Air Flight 1285 crash, the 1986 Mozambican Tupolev Tu-134 crash, the 1987 Helderberg Disaster, the 1988 bombing of Pan Am Flight 103 and the 1994 Mull of Kintyre helicopter crash as well as various aircraft technologies and alleged sightings, have all spawned theories of foul play which deviate from official verdicts.^[5]

Black helicopters

This conspiracy theory emerged in the US in the 1960s. The John Birch Society originally promoted^[6] it, asserting that a United Nations force would soon arrive in black helicopters to bring the US under UN control. The theory re-emerged in the 1990s during the presidency of Bill Clinton, and has been promoted by talk show host Glenn Beck.^{[7][8]} A similar theory concerning so-called "phantom helicopters" appeared in the UK in the 1970s.^[9]

Chemtrails

Also known as SLAP (Secret Large-scale Atmospheric Program), this theory alleges that water condensation trails ("contrails") from aircraft consist of chemical or biological agents, or contain a supposedly toxic mix of aluminum, strontium and barium,^[10] under secret government policies. An estimated 17% of people globally believe the theory to be true or partly true. In 2016, the Carnegie Institution for Science published the first-ever peer-reviewed study of the chemtrail theory; 76 out of 77 participating atmospheric chemists and geochemists stated that they had seen no evidence to support the chemtrail theory, or stated that chemtrail theorists rely on poor sampling.^{[11][12]}

A high-flying jet's engines leaving a condensation trail (contrail)

Korean Air Lines Flight 007

The destruction of Korean Air Lines Flight 007 by Soviet jets in 1983 has long drawn the interest of conspiracy theorists. The theories range from allegations of a planned espionage mission, to a US government cover-up, to the consumption of the passengers' remains by giant crabs.^[13]

Malaysia Airlines Flight MH370

The disappearance of Malaysia Airlines Flight 370 in southeast Asia in March 2014 has prompted many theories. One theory suggests that this plane was hidden away and reintroduced as Flight MH17 later the same year in order to be shot down over Ukraine for political purposes. Prolific American conspiracy theorist James H. Fetzer has placed responsibility for the disappearance with Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu.^[14] Historian Norman Davies has promoted the conspiracy theory that hackers remotely took over a Boeing Honeywell Uninterruptible Autopilot, supposedly installed on board, remotely piloting the aircraft to Antarctica.^{[15][16]}

Malaysia Airlines Flight MH17

Malaysia Airlines Flight 17 was shot down over Ukraine in July 2014. This event has spawned numerous alternative theories. These variously include allegations that it was secretly Flight MH370, that the plane was actually shot down by the Ukrainian Air Force to frame Russia, that it was part of a conspiracy to conceal the "truth" about HIV (seven disease specialists were on board), or that the Illuminati or Israel was responsible.^{[14][17]}

Business and industry

Deepwater Horizon

Multiple conspiracy theories pertain to a fatal oil-rig industrial accident in 2010 in the Gulf of Mexico, alleging sabotage by those seeking to promote environmentalism, or a strike by North Korean or Russian submarines. Elements of such theories have been suggested or promoted by US radio host Rush Limbaugh.^{[18][19]}

New Coke was manufactured between 1985 and 2002.

New Coke

A theory claims that The Coca-Cola Company intentionally changed to an inferior formula with New Coke, with the intent either of driving up demand for the original product or permitting the reintroduction of the original with a new formula using cheaper ingredients.^[20] Coca-Cola president Donald Keough rebutted this charge: "The truth is, we're not that dumb, and we're not that smart."^[21]

Deaths and disappearances

Conspiracy theories frequently emerge following the deaths of prominent leaders and public figures. In ancient times, widespread conspiracy theories were circulated pertaining to the death of the Roman emperor Nero, who committed suicide in 68 AD.^[22] Some of these theories claimed that Nero had actually faked his death and was secretly still alive, but in hiding, plotting to return and reestablish his reign.^[22] In most of these stories, he was said to have fled to the East, where he was still loved and admired.^[22] Other theories held that Nero really was dead, but that he would return from the dead to retake his throne.^[22] Many early Christians believed in these conspiracy theories and feared Nero's return because Nero had viciously persecuted them.^[22] The Book of Revelation alludes to the conspiracy theories surrounding Nero's alleged return in its description of the slaughtered head returned to life.^[22]

In modern times, multiple conspiracy theories concerning the assassination of John F. Kennedy in 1963 have emerged.^[23] Vincent Bugliosi estimated that over 1,000 books had been written about the Kennedy assassination,^[24] at least ninety percent of which are works supporting the view that there was a conspiracy.^[24] As a result of this, the Kennedy assassination has been described as "the mother of all conspiracies".^{[25][26]} The countless individuals and organizations that have been accused of involvement in the Kennedy assassination include the CIA, the Mafia, sitting Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro, the KGB, or even some combination thereof.^{[27][24]} It is also frequently asserted that the United States federal government intentionally covered up crucial information in the aftermath of the assassination to prevent the conspiracy from being discovered.^[27]

John F. Kennedy in the presidential limousine shortly before his assassination

The deaths of prominent figures of all types attract conspiracy theorists, including, for example, the deaths of Abraham Lincoln,^[28] Martin Luther King, Jr.,^[29] Eric V of Denmark, Dmitry Ivanovich, Sheikh Rahman, Yitzhak Rabin,^[30] Zachary Taylor,^[31] George S. Patton,^{[32][33]} Diana, Princess of Wales,^[34] Dag Hammarskjöld,^[35] Kurt Cobain, Michael Jackson, Marilyn Monroe, Tupac Shakur,^[36] Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart,^[37] John Lennon, Jimi Hendrix, Notorious B.I.G.,^[38] Pope John Paul 1, Jill Dando, Olaf Palme,^[39] member of Linkin Park Chester Bennigton,^[40] Paul Walker, biological warfare authority David Kelly,^[41] and Bollywood star Sushant Singh Rajput.^[42]

Also in existence are claims that deaths were covered up. Such theories include the "Paul is dead" claim alleging that Paul McCartney died in a car accident in 1966 and was replaced by a look-alike Scottish orphan named William Shears Cambell who also went by Billy Shears, and that The Beatles left clues in their songs, most noticeably "Revolution 9", "Strawberry Fields Forever", "Glass Onion", and "I Am the Walrus", as well on the covers of Abbey Road, Sgt. Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band, and Magical Mystery Tour.^{[43][44]} Another is the conspiracy theory, widely circulated in Nigeria, which alleges that Nigerian president Muhammadu Buhari died in 2017 and was replaced by a look-alike Sudanese impostor.^{[45][46]} Many fans of punk-pop star Avril Lavigne claim that she died at the height of her fame and was replaced by a look-alike named Melissa.^[47] The Melania Trump replacement theory proposes the same of the former US First Lady.^{[48][49]}

Inverted theories concerning deaths are also known, prominent among which are claims that Elvis Presley's death was faked^[50] and that Adolf Hitler survived the Second World War and fled to the Americas, to Antarctica, or to the Moon.^[51] Theories that Hitler had survived are known to have been deliberately promoted by the government of the Soviet Union under Joseph Stalin as part of a disinformation campaign.^{[52][53][54]}

The disappearance, and often presumed death, of an individual may also become a cause for conspiracy theorists. Theories of a cover-up surrounding the 1974 disappearance of Lord Lucan following the murder of his family's nanny include, for example, allegations of a suicide plot whereby his body was fed to tigers at Howletts Zoo.^{[55][56][57]} Numerous conspiracy theories have also attended the 2007 disappearance of English girl Madeleine McCann.^[58]

The murder of Democratic National Committee employee Seth Rich spawned several right-wing conspiracy theories, including the claim that Rich had been involved with the leaked DNC emails in 2016, which runs contrary to US intelligence's conclusion that the leaked DNC emails were part of Russian interference in the 2016 United States elections.^{[59][60][61]} Law enforcement^{[59][60]} as well as fact-checking websites like PolitiFact.com,^{[60][62]} Snopes.com,^[63] and FactCheck.org stated that these theories were false and unfounded.^[59] The New York Times,^[64] Los Angeles Times,^[65] and The Washington Post called the fabrications fake news and falsehoods.^[66]

Economics and society

New World Order

The New World Order theory states that a group of international elites controls governments, industry, and media organizations, with the goal of establishing global hegemony. They are alleged to be implicated in most of the major wars of the last two centuries, to carry out secretly staged events, and to deliberately manipulate economies. Organizations alleged to be part of the plot include the Federal Reserve System, the Council on Foreign Relations, Trilateral Commission, the Bilderberg Group, the European Union, the United Nations, the World Bank, the International Monetary Fund, Bohemian Grove,^[67] Le Cercle^[68] and Yale University society Skull and Bones.

Adam Weishaupt, founder of the Bavarian Illuminati

The Discordian hoax has resulted in one of the world's foremost conspiracy theories, which claims that the "Illuminati" are secretly promoting the posited New World Order. Theorists believe that a wide range of musicians, including Beyoncé and Whitney Houston, have been associated with the "group".^[69] Prominent theorists include Mark Dice and David Icke.^[70]

Denver Airport

Some theorists believe that Denver International Airport stands above an underground city which serves as a headquarters of the New World Order. Theorists cite the airport's unusually large size, its distance from Denver city center, Masonic and alleged Satanic symbols, as well as a set of murals which include depictions of war and death.^[71]

George Soros

Hungarian-American investor George Soros has been the subject of conspiracy theories since the 1990s. Soros has used his wealth to promote many political, social, educational and scientific causes, disbursing grants totaling an estimated $11 billion up to 2016. However, theories tend to assert that Soros is in control of a large portion of the world's wealth and governments, and that he secretly funds a large range of persons and organizations for nefarious purposes, such as Antifa, which the conspiracy theorists claim is a single far-left militant group. Such ideas have been promoted by Viktor Orban, Donald Trump,^[72] Rudy Giuliani,^[73] Joseph diGenova,^[74] Bill O'Reilly, Roy Moore, Alex Jones, Paul Gosar, and Ben Garrison. Soros conspiracy theories are sometimes linked to antisemitic conspiracy theories.^[75]

Freemasonry

Conspiracy theories concerning the Freemasons have proliferated since the 18th century. Theorists have alleged that Freemasons control large parts of the economies or judiciaries of a number of countries, and have alleged Masonic involvement in events surrounding the sinking of the Titanic and the crimes of Jack the Ripper.^{[76][77]} Notable among theorists has been American inventor Samuel Morse, who in 1835 published a book of his own conspiracy theories.^[78] Freemason conspiracy theories have also been linked to certain antisemitic conspiracy theories.

Üst akıl

Conspiracy theories in Turkey started to dominate public discourse during the late reign of the Justice and Development Party and Recep Tayyip Erdoğan.^[79] In 2014, Erdoğan coined the term üst akıl ("mastermind") to denote the alleged command and control institution, somewhat ambiguously placed with the government of the United States, in a comprehensive conspiracy to weaken or even dismember Turkey, by orchestrating every political actor and action perceived hostile by Turkey.^{[80][81][79]} Erdoğan as well as the Daily Sabah newspaper have on multiple occasions alleged that very different non-state actors—like the Salafi jihadist Islamic State of Iraq and the Levant (ISIL), the libertarian socialist Kurdistan Workers' Party (PKK) and supporters of Fethullah Gülen—were attacking Turkey at the same time in a well-coordinated campaign.^[82]

One instance of promoting the "mastermind" conspiracy theory occurred in February 2017, when then-Ankara Mayor Melih Gökçek claimed that earthquakes in the western province of Çanakkale could have been organized by dark external powers aiming to destroy Turkey's economy with an "artificial earthquake" near Istanbul.^[83] In another example, in November 2017, the Islamist newspaper Yeni Akit claimed that the fashion trend of "ripped denim" jeans was in fact a means of communication, via specific forms of rips and holes, between agents of foreign states and their collaborators in Turkey.^[84]

Espionage

Israel animal spying

Conspiracy theories exist alleging that Israel uses animals to conduct espionage or to attack people. These are often associated with conspiracy theories about Zionism. Matters of interest to theorists include a series of shark attacks in Egypt in 2010, Hezbollah's accusations of the use of "spying" eagles,^[85] and the 2011 capture of a griffon vulture carrying an Israeli-labeled satellite tracking device.^[86]

Harold Wilson

Numerous persons, including former MI5 officer Peter Wright and Soviet defector Anatoliy Golitsyn, have alleged that former British Prime Minister Harold Wilson was secretly a KGB spy. Historian Christopher Andrew has lamented that a number of people have been "seduced by Golitsyn's fantasies".^{[87][88][89]}

Malala Yousafzai

Conspiracy theories concerning Malala Yousafzai are widespread in Pakistan, elements of which originate from a 2013 satirical piece in Dawn. These theories variously allege that she is a Western spy, or that her attempted murder by the Taliban in 2012 was a secret operation to further discredit the Taliban, and was organized by her father and the CIA and carried out by actor Robert de Niro disguised as an Uzbek homeopath.^{[90][91][92][93]}

Ethnicity, race and religion

Antisemitism

Since at least the Middle Ages, antisemitism has featured elements of conspiracy theory. In medieval Europe it was widely believed that Jews poisoned wells, had been responsible for the death of Jesus, and ritually consumed the blood of Christians. The second half of the 19th century saw the emergence of notions that Jews and/or Freemasons were plotting to establish control over the world, a similar conspiracy theory relates to cultural Marxism. Forged evidence has been presented to spread the notion that Jews were responsible for the propagation of Communism, or the hoax The Protocols of the Elders of Zion (1903), which outlines a supposed plot by Jews to control the world.^[94] Such antisemitic conspiracy theories became central to the worldview of Adolf Hitler. Antisemitic theories persist today in notions concerning banking,^[95] Hollywood, the news media and a purported Zionist Occupation Government.^{[96][97][98]} These theories have a tyrannical worldview in common.^[99]

First edition of The Protocols of the Elders of Zion

Holocaust denial is also considered an antisemitic conspiracy theory because of its position that the Holocaust is a hoax designed to advance the interests of Jews and justify the creation of the State of Israel.^{[100][101]} Holocaust deniers include former Iranian President Mahmoud Ahmedinejad,^[102] the convicted chemist Germar Rudolf^[103] and the discredited author David Irving.^[104]

Anti-Armenianism

Conspiracy theories that allege that the Armenians wield secret political power are prevalent in Azerbaijan^[105] and have been promoted by the government,^[106] including President Ilham Aliyev.^{[107][108][109]}

Turkish Foreign Minister Mevlüt Çavuşoğlu has claimed that the Russian media is run by Armenians.^[110] American writer and disbarred lawyer Samuel Weems^[111] has claimed that the Armenian genocide was a hoax designed to defraud Christian nations of billions of dollars, and that the Armenian Church instigates terrorist attacks.^[112] Filmmaker Davud Imanov has accused the Armenians of plotting against Azerbaijan and has claimed that the Karabakh movement was a plot by the CIA to destroy the Soviet Union.^[113]

Anti-Bahá'ism

Iran's Bahá'í Faith minority has been the target of conspiracy theories alleging involvement with hostile powers. Iranian government officials and others have claimed that Bahá'ís have been agents variously of Russian imperialism, British colonialism, American expansionism and Zionism.^[114] An apocryphal and historically-inaccurate book published in Iran, entitled The Memoirs of Count Dolgoruki, details a theory that the Bahá'ís intend to destroy Islam. Such anti-Bahá'í accusations have been dismissed as having no factual foundation.^{[115][116][117]}

Anti-Catholicism

Bible conspiracy theories posit that significant parts of the New Testament are false, or have been omitted. Various groups both real (such as the Vatican) and fake (such as the Priory of Sion) are said to suppress relevant information concerning, for example, the dating of the Shroud of Turin.^[138]

Much of this line of conspiracy theory has been stimulated by a debunked book titled The Holy Blood and the Holy Grail (1982), which claimed that Jesus and Mary Magdalene were lovers and that their offspring and descendants were secretly hidden in Europe following the death of Jesus, from whom the then-living French draughtsman Pierre Plantard claimed descent. Interest in this hoax saw a resurgence following the publication of Dan Brown's 2003 novel The Da Vinci Code.^[139]

Islam

"War against Islam" is a conspiracy theory in Islamist discourse which describes an alleged plot to either harm or annihilate the social system within Islam. The perpetrators of this conspiracy are alleged to be non-Muslims and "false Muslims", allegedly in collusion with political actors in the Western world. While this theory is often referred to in relation to modern social problems and changes, the Crusades are often presented as its starting point.^[140]

Anti-Islamic

Since the September 11 Attacks, many anti-Islamic conspiracy theories have emerged, concerning a variety of topics. Love Jihad, also called Romeo Jihad, refers to a conspiracy theory concerning Muslim males who are said to target non-Muslim girls for conversion to Islam by feigning love.^{[141][142][143][144]} The "Eurabia" theory alleges a massive Muslim plot to islamize Europe (and often the rest of the western world) through mass immigration and high birth rates.^[145] In addition, before and during his presidency, Barack Obama was accused by opponents of secretly being a Muslim.

Racism

White genocide conspiracy theory is a white nationalist notion that immigration, integration, low fertility rates and abortion are being promoted in predominantly white countries in order to turn white people into a minority or cause their extinction.^{[146][147][148][149][150][151]} A 2017 study in France by IFOP, for example, found that 48% of participants believed that political and media elites are conspiring to replace white people with immigrants.^[152]

In the United States, black genocide conspiracy theory^{[153][154]} holds the view that African Americans are the victims of genocide instituted by white Americans. Lynchings and racial discrimination were formally described as genocide by the Civil Rights Congress in 1951. Malcolm X also talked about "black genocide" in the early 1960s.^[155] Public funding of the Pill was also described as "black genocide" at the first Black Power Conference, in 1967.^{[156][157]} In 1970, after abortion was more widely legalized, some black militants depicted abortion as being part of the conspiracy.^[158]

Some Rastafari maintain the view that a white racist patriarchy ("Babylon") controls the world in order to oppress black people.^[159] They believe that Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia did not die in 1975, instead believing that the allegedly racist media propagated false reports of his death in order to quash the Rastafari movement.^[160]

"The Plan" is an alleged plot by white power brokers in Washington, D.C., to "take back" the city's local government from African Americans, who were a majority of the city's population from the late 1950s to the early 2010s and remain its largest ethnic group.^{[161][162]} The theory asserts that the decline of low-income black residents and their replacement by wealthier whites from outside of the city is intentional through the calculated use of gentrification and urban renewal.^[163] Most city residents, regardless of race, consider The Plan to be false, but some believe it has quiet but considerable support among black residents and influences local elections.^[164]

Extraterrestrials and UFOs

Among the foremost concerns of conspiracy theorists are questions of alien life; for example, allegations of government cover-ups of the supposed Roswell UFO incident or activity at Area 51.^[165] Also disseminated are theories concerning so-called 'men in black', who allegedly silence witnesses.

Multiple reports of dead cattle found with absent body parts and seemingly drained of blood have emerged worldwide since at least the 1960s. This phenomenon has spawned theories variously concerning aliens and secret government or military experiments.^[166] Prominent among such theorists is Linda Moulton Howe, author of Alien Harvest (1989).^{[167][168]}

Many conspiracy theories have drawn inspiration from the writings of ancient astronaut proponent Zecharia Sitchin,^[169] who declared that the Anunnaki from Sumerian mythology were actually a race of extraterrestrial beings who came to Earth around 500,000 years ago in order to mine gold.^{[169][170][171]} In his 1994 book Humanity's Extraterrestrial Origins: ET Influences on Humankind's Biological and Cultural Evolution, Arthur Horn proposed that the Anunnaki were a race of blood-drinking, shape-shifting alien reptiles.^[169] This theory was adapted and elaborated on by British conspiracy theorist David Icke,^[169] who maintains that the Bush family, Margaret Thatcher, Bob Hope, and the British Royal Family, among others, are or were such creatures, or have been under their control.^[172] Icke's critics have suggested that 'reptilians' may be seen as an antisemitic code word, a charge he has denied.^[50]

Government, politics and conflict

In the modern era, political conspiracy theories are often spread using fake news on social media. A 2017 study of fake news published by the Shorenstein Center found that "misinformation is currently predominantly a pathology of the right".^[173]

Political conspiracy theories may take generalized and wide-ranging forms concerning wars and international bodies, but may also be seen at a localized level, such as the conspiracy theory pertaining to the 118th Battalion, a British regiment stationed in Kitchener, Ontario, during World War I, which is believed by some in Kitchener to still be present and controlling local politics.^[174]

Illuminati

Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia

English conspiracy theorist David Icke

Conspiracy theories concerning the Illuminati, a short-lived 18th-century Enlightenment-era secret society, appear to have originated in the late 19th century, when some conservatives in Europe came to believe that the group had been responsible for the French Revolution of 1789–1799.^[175] Hoaxes about the Illuminati were later spread in the 1960s by a group of American practical jokers known as the Discordians, who, for example, wrote a series of fake letters about the Illuminati to Playboy.^[176]

False flag operations

False flag operations are covert operations designed to appear as if they are being carried out by other entities. Some allegations of false flag operations have been verified or have been subjects of legitimate historical dispute (such as the 1933 Reichstag arson attack).^[177] Discussions of unsubstantiated allegations of such operations feature strongly in conspiracy theory discourse.

Other allegations of similar operations have attached to the bombing of Pearl Harbor, the Oklahoma City bombing, the 2004 Madrid train bombings,^[178] and the 1964 Gulf of Tonkin incident.^[179]

The rise of ISIS gave rise to conspiracy theories that it had been created by the US, CIA, Mossad, or Hillary Clinton.^{[180][181]} The same happened after the rise of Boko Haram.^{[182][183]}

The World Trade Center towers prior to 9/11

9/11

The multiple attacks made on the US by terrorists using hijacked aircraft on 11 September 2001 have proved attractive to conspiracy theorists. Theories may include reference to missile or hologram technology. By far, the most common theory is that the attacks were in fact controlled demolitions,^{[184][185]} a theory which has been rejected by the engineering profession^[186] and the 9/11 Commission.

Sandy Hook

A 2012 fatal mass shooting at Sandy Hook Elementary School in Newtown, Connecticut, prompted numerous conspiracy theories, among which is the claim that it was a manufactured event with the aim of promoting gun control. Former Ku Klux Klan leader David Duke has theorized that Zionists were responsible.^[187] Theorists such as Alex Jones have suggested that the event was staged with actors.^{[188][189]} Harassment of the bereaved families by conspiracy theorists has resulted in actions for defamation. Rush Limbaugh also stated that the event happened because the Mayan Calendar phenomenon made shooter Adam Lanza do it.^[190]

Clintons

The Clinton Body Count refers to a conspiracy theory, parts of which have been advanced by Newsmax publisher Christopher Ruddy among others, that asserts that former US President Bill Clinton and his wife Hillary Clinton have assassinated fifty or more of their associates.^{[191][192][193]} Such accusations have been around at least since the 1990s, when a pseudo-documentary film called The Clinton Chronicles, produced by Larry Nichols and promoted by Rev. Jerry Falwell, accused Bill Clinton of multiple crimes including murder.^{[194][195]}

Jeffrey Epstein death conspiracy theories

The death of Jeffrey Epstein, an American financier billionaire and convicted sex offender with ties to Donald Trump, Bill Clinton and other members of the elite, has become the subject of conspiracy theories.^{[196][197]}

FEMA

The United States' Federal Emergency Management Agency is the subject of many theories, including the allegation that the organization has been engaged in the building of concentration camps on US soil, in advance of the imposition of martial law and genocide.^[198]

African National Congress

Members of South Africa's African National Congress party have long propagated conspiracy theories, frequently concerning the CIA and alleged white supremacists. In 2014, Deputy Minister of Defence Kebby Maphatsoe joined others in accusing without evidence Public Protector Thuli Madonsela of being a US agent working to create a puppet government in South Africa.^{[199][200][201]}

Barack Obama

Former US President Barack Obama has been the subject of numerous conspiracy theories. His presidency was the subject of a 2009 film, The Obama Deception, by Alex Jones, which alleged that Obama's administration was a puppet government for a wealthy elite. Another theory which came to prominence in 2009 (known as "birtherism") denies the legitimacy of Obama's presidency by claiming that he was not born in the US.^[202] This theory has persisted despite the evidence of his Hawaiian birth certificate and of contemporaneous birth announcements in two Hawaiian newspapers in 1961.^[203] Notable promoters of the theory are dentist-lawyer Orly Taitz^[6] and former President Donald Trump, who has since publicly acknowledged its falsity but is said to continue to advocate for it privately.^{[204][205][206]} Other theories claim that Obama, a Protestant Christian, is secretly a Muslim.

A pair of fatal attacks on US government facilities in Benghazi, Libya, by Islamist terrorists in 2012 has spawned numerous conspiracy theories, including allegations that Obama's administration arranged the attack for political reasons, and Senator Rand Paul's repeated assertion that the government's response to the incident was designed to distract from a secret CIA operation.^{[207][208][209]}

Cultural Marxism

Bill and Hillary Clinton, main people involved in this conspiracy

Donald Trump has been a proponent of the conspiracy theory that Barack Obama was not born in the United States.

The intellectual group known as the Frankfurt School which emerged in the 1930s has increasingly been the subject of conspiracy theories which have alleged the promotion of communism in capitalist societies. The term "Cultural Marxism" has been notably employed by conservative American movements such as the Tea Party,^{[210][211]} and by Norwegian mass murderer Anders Behring Breivik.^[212]

Deep state

While the term is occasionally used as a neutral term to denote a nation's bureaucracy,^[213] the conspiratorial notion of a "deep state" is a concept originating principally in Middle Eastern and North African politics with some basis in truth, and has been known in the US since the 1960s. It has been revived under the Trump presidency.^{[214][215]} "Deep state" in the latter sense refers to an unidentified "powerful elite" who act in co-ordinated manipulation of a nation's politics and government. Proponents of such theories have included Canadian author Peter Dale Scott, who has promoted the idea in the US since at least the 1990s, as well as Breitbart News, Infowars and former US President Donald Trump.^[216] A 2017 poll by ABC News and The Washington Post indicated that 48% of Americans believe in the existence of a conspiratorial "deep state" in the US.^{[217][218]}

Sutherland Springs

The 2017 Sutherland Springs church shooting has also been the subject of multiple conspiracy theories. The shooter has been linked to multiple conspiracies, such as identifying him as a Democrat, Hillary Clinton supporter, Bernie Sanders supporter, "alt-left" supporter, Antifa member, or radical Muslim;^{[219][220]} or claiming that he carried an Antifa flag and told churchgoers: "This is a communist revolution".^[221] Some reports also falsely claimed^[222] that he targeted the church because they were white conservatives.^[222]

Trump and Ukraine

Beginning in 2017, a sprawling conspiracy theory emerged from 4chan and was spread via right-wing message boards and websites, then via Breitbart and Fox News to then-President Donald Trump and his allies. The conspiracy theory holds both that Ukraine (rather than Russia) had interfered in the 2016 United States elections, and that then-Vice President Joe Biden had intervened to protect a company in which his son Hunter was involved. The New Yorker found that reporting of the conspiracy in the right wing media was initiated by Peter Schweizer, a former Breitbart News contributor and president of The Government Accountability Institute, "a self-styled corruption watchdog group chaired and funded by conservative mega-donor Rebekah Mercer"^[223] and founded by Steve Bannon.^[224]

Biden-Ukraine conspiracy theory

Refers to a series of allegations alleging that former vice president Joe Biden and his son Hunter Biden coordinated efforts against anti-corruption investigations in Ukraine into the Ukrainian gas company Burisma.^[225]

"Stolen election" conspiracy theory

The stolen election conspiracy theory falsely claims that the 2020 United States presidential election was "stolen" from Donald Trump, who lost that election to Joe Biden. It serves to justify attempts to overturn the 2020 United States presidential election, including the 2021 storming of the United States Capitol. A particular variant of it is the "Soros stole the election" conspiracy theory that claims that George Soros stole the election from Trump.^[226]

Medicine

Alternative therapy suppression

A 2013 study approved by the University of Chicago suggested that almost half of Americans believe at least one medical conspiracy theory, with 37% believing that the Food and Drug Administration deliberately suppresses 'natural' cures due to influence from the pharmaceutical industry.^[227] A prominent proponent of comparable conspiracy theories has been convicted fraudster Kevin Trudeau.^[228]

Artificial diseases

Scientists have found evidence that HIV was transferred from monkeys to humans in the 1930s. Evidence exists, however, that the KGB deliberately disseminated a notion in the 1980s that it was invented by the CIA.^[229] This idea, and similar ideas concerning Ebola, have since been promoted by persons such as actor Steven Seagal,^{[230][231][232]} Nation of Islam leader Louis Farrakhan and former South Africa President Thabo Mbeki.^{[229][233][234]}

In January 2020, BBC News published an article about SARS-CoV-2 misinformation, citing two 24 January articles in The Washington Times that said the virus was part of a Chinese biological weapons program, based at the Wuhan Institute of Virology (WIV).^[235]

Similar conspiracy theories allege that pharmaceutical companies assist in the creation of conditions and diseases including ADHD, HSV and HPV.

COVID-19 pandemic

A number of conspiracy theories have been promoted about the origin and purported motive behind the SARS-CoV-2 virus and its spread. Some claimed that the virus was engineered,^{[236][237][238]} that it escaped or was stolen from a research laboratory,^{[239][240][241][242]} that it may have been a Chinese or United States bioweapon,^{[243][244][245]} a Jewish plot including to force mass vaccinations or sterilizations,^{[246][247][248]} spread as part of a Muslim conspiracy,^{[249][250]} a population control scheme,^{[235][251]} or related to 5G mobile phone networks.^{[252][253]}

Fluoridation

Water fluoridation is the controlled addition of fluoride to a public water supply to reduce tooth decay.^[254] Although many dental-health organizations support such fluoridation, the practice is opposed by conspiracy theorists.^[255] Allegations may include claims that it has been a way to dispose of industrial waste,^{[256][257]} or that it exists to obscure a failure to provide dental care to the poor.^[255] A further theory promoted by the John Birch Society in the 1960s described fluoridation as a communist plot to weaken the American population.^[258]

Vaccination

It is claimed that the pharmaceutical industry has mounted a cover-up of a causal link between vaccines and autism. The conspiracy theory developed after the publication in Britain in 1998 of a fraudulent paper by discredited former doctor Andrew Wakefield.^[259] The resulting anti-vaccine movement has been promoted by a number of prominent persons including Rob Schneider,^[260] Jim Carrey^[261] and former US President Donald Trump,^{[262][263]} and has led to increased rates of infection and death from diseases such as measles in many countries, including the US, Italy, Germany, Romania and the UK.^{[264][265][266][267]}

Vaccine conspiracy theories have been widespread in Nigeria since at least 2003, as well as in Pakistan. Such theories may feature claims that vaccines are part of a secret anti-Islam plot, and have been linked to fatal mass shootings and bombings at vaccine clinics in both countries.^{[268][269][270]}

Science and technology

Global warming

A global warming conspiracy theory typically alleges that the science behind global warming has been invented or distorted for ideological or financial reasons.^[12] Many have promoted such theories, including former US President Donald Trump,^{[271][272]} US Senator James Inhofe,^[273] British journalist Christopher Booker,^[273] and Viscount Christopher Monckton.^[274]

Weather and earthquake control projects

Numerous theories pertain to real or alleged weather-controlling projects. Theories include the debunked assertion that HAARP, a radio-technology research program funded by the US government, is a secret weather-controlling system. Some theorists have blamed 2005's Hurricane Katrina on HAARP.^[275] HAARP has also been suggested to have somehow caused earthquakes, such as the 2010 Haiti earthquake, the 2011 Tōhoku earthquake and tsunami or the 2013 Saravan earthquake.^[276] Some HAARP-related claims refer to mind-control technology.^[277]

Also of interest to conspiracy theorists are cloud-seeding technologies. These include a debunked allegation^[278] that the British military's Project Cumulus caused the fatal 1952 Lynmouth Flood in Devon, England,^[279] and claims concerning a secret project said to have caused the 2010 Pakistan

Ripper explains to Mandrake that he discovered the Communist plot to pollute Americans' "precious bodily fluids", a reference to the John Birch Society's anti-fluoridation conspiracy theories (Dr. Strangelove, 1964).

Aerial view of the HAARP site, Alaska

floods.^[280]

MKUltra

Genuine American research in the 1950s and 1960s into chemical interrogation and mind-control techniques were followed by many conspiracy theories (like Project Monarch), especially following CIA Director Richard Helm's 1973 order to destroy all files related to the project. These theories include the allegation that the mass fatality at Jonestown in 1978 was connected to an MKUltra experiment.^[281]

Flat Earth

Flat Earth theory first emerged in 19th-century England, despite the Earth's spherical nature having been known since at least the time of Pythagoras. It has in recent years been promoted by American software consultant Mark Sargent through the use of YouTube videos.^[282] Flat-earther conspiracy theorists hold that planet Earth is not a sphere, and that evidence has been faked or suppressed to hide the fact that it is instead a disc, or a single infinite plane. The conspiracy often implicates NASA. Other claims include that GPS devices are rigged to make aircraft pilots wrongly believe they are flying around a globe.^{[283][284]}

Logo of the Flat Earth Society, 2013

RFID chips

An RFID tag, exposed by the damage to this Oyster card

Radio frequency identification chips (RFID), such as are implanted into pets as a means of tracking, have drawn the interest of conspiracy theorists who posit that this technology is secretly widely implanted in humans. Former Whitby, England town councilor Simon Parkes has promoted this theory, which may be related to conspiracy theories concerning vaccination, electronic banking and the Antichrist.^{[285][286]}

Technology suppression

Numerous theories pertain to the alleged suppression of certain technologies and energies. Such theories may focus on the Vril Society Conspiracy, allegations of the suppression of the electric car by fossil-fuel companies (as detailed in the 2006 documentary Who Killed the Electric Car?), and the Phoebus cartel, set up in 1924, which has been accused of suppressing longer-lasting light bulbs.^[287] Other long-standing allegations include the suppression of perpetual motion and cold fusion technology by government agencies, special interest groups, or fraudulent inventors.^[288]

Promoters of alternative energy theories have included Thomas Henry Moray,^[289] Eugene Mallove, and convicted American fraudster Stanley Meyer.^[290]

Weaponry

Conspiracy theorists often attend to new military technologies, both real and imagined. Subjects of theories include: the alleged Philadelphia Experiment, a supposed attempt to turn a US Navy warship invisible;^[291] the alleged Montauk Project, a supposed government program to learn about mind control and time travel; and the so-called "tsunami bomb", which is alleged to have caused the 2004 Indian Ocean tsunami.^[292]

Other theories include Peter Vogel's debunked claim that an accidental explosion of conventional munitions at Port Chicago was in fact a nuclear detonation,^[293] and a theory promoted by the Venezuelan state-run TV station ViVe that the 2010 Haiti earthquake was caused by a secret US "earthquake weapon".^[294]

Targeted Individuals

Conspiracy theorists claim that government agents are utilizing directed energy weapons and electronic surveillance to harass members of the population. Theorists often cite research into psychotronic weapons, the Cuban Health Attacks, and the Microwave Auditory Effect as proof of their theory. There are over 10,000 people who identify as Targeted Individuals.^[295]

The "Targeted Individual" phenomenon has been featured on episodes of Conspiracy Theory with Jesse Ventura^[296] and History Channel's In Search Of...^[297]

False history

Some theories claim that the dates of historical events have been deliberately distorted. These include the phantom time hypothesis of German conspiracy theorist Heribert Illig, who in 1991 published an allegation that 297 years had been added to the calendar by establishment figures such as Pope Sylvester II in order to position themselves at the millennium.^[298]

Pope Sylvester II (from 999 to 1003)

A comparable theory, known as the New Chronology, is most closely associated with Russian theorist Anatoly Fomenko. Fomenko holds that history is many centuries shorter than is widely believed and that numerous historical documents have been fabricated, and legitimate documents destroyed, for political ends. Adherents of such ideas have included chess grandmaster Garry Kasparov.^[299]

Outer space

Scientific space programs are of particular interest to conspiracy theorists. The most prolific theories allege that the US Moon landings were staged by NASA in a film studio, with some alleging the involvement of director Stanley Kubrick.^[300] The Soviet space program has also attracted theories that the government concealed evidence of failed flights. A more recent theory, emergent following the activities of hacker Gary McKinnon,^[301] suggests that a secret program of crewed space fleets exists, supposedly acting under the United Nations.^[302]

Conspiracy theorists have long posited a plot by organizations such as NASA to conceal the existence of a large planet in the Solar System known as Nibiru or Planet X which, is alleged to pass close enough to the Earth to destroy it. Predictions for the date of destruction have included 2003, 2012 and 2017. The theory began to develop following the publication of The 12th Planet (1976), by Russian-American author Zecharia Sitchin, was given its full form by Nancy Lieder, and has since been promoted by American conspiracy theorist and End Times theorist David Meade.^[303] The notion received renewed attention during the period prior to the solar eclipse of 21 August 2017.^{[304][305]} Other conspiracy theorists in 2017 also predicted Nibiru would appear, including Terral Croft and YouTube pastor Paul Begley.^{[306][307]}

Sports

Boxing

Boxing has featured in conspiracy theories, such as the claims that the second Ali-Liston fight^[308] and the first Bradley-Pacquiao fight were fixed.^[309]

Shergar

The theft and disappearance of the Irish-bred racehorse Shergar in 1983 has prompted many conspiracy theorists to speculate about involvement by the Mafia, the IRA and Colonel Gaddafi.^[310]

Rigged selection processes

The "frozen envelope theory" suggests that the National Basketball Association rigged its 1985 draft lottery so that Patrick Ewing would join the New York Knicks. Theorists claim that a lottery envelope was chilled so that it could be identified by touch.^[311] A similar "hot balls theory", promoted by Scottish football manager David Moyes, suggests that certain balls used in draws for UEFA competitions have been warmed to achieve specific outcomes.^[312]

1984 Firecracker 400

The 1984 Firecracker 400 at Daytona International Speedway in Daytona, Florida, was the first NASCAR race to be attended by a sitting US president, Ronald Reagan, and was driver Richard Petty's 200th and final career victory. Rival driver Cale Yarborough's premature retirement to the pit road has prompted conspiracy theorists to allege that organizers fixed the race in order to receive good publicity for the event.^[313]

Ronaldo and the 1998 World Cup Final

On the day of the 1998 World Cup Final, Brazilian striker Ronaldo suffered a convulsive fit.^[314] Ronaldo was initially removed from the starting lineup 72 minutes before the match, with the teamsheet released to a stunned world media, before he was reinstated by the Brazil coach shortly before kick off.^{[315][316]} Ronaldo "sleepwalked" through the final, with France winning the game.^[316] The nature of the incident set off a trail of questions and allegations which persisted for years, with Alex Bellos writing in The Guardian, "When Ronaldo's health scare was revealed after the match, the situation's unique circumstances lent itself to fabulous conspiracy theories. Here was the world's most famous sportsman, about to take part in the most important match of his career, when he suddenly, inexplicably, fell ill. Was it stress, epilepsy, or had he been drugged?"^[317] Questions also circulated into who made Ronaldo play the game. The Brazil coach insisted he had the final say, but much speculation focused on sportswear company Nike, Brazil's multimillion-dollar sponsor—whom many Brazilians thought had too much control—putting pressure on the striker to play against medical advice.^[317]

New England Patriots

The New England Patriots have also been involved in numerous conspiracy theories.^[318] During their AFC Championship 24–20 victory over the Jacksonville Jaguars, several conspiracy theories spread stating that the referees helped the Patriots advance to Super Bowl LII.^[319] However, sports analyst Stephen A. Smith stated the Jaguars were not robbed, but that they had no one to blame but themselves for the loss.^[320] There were also conspiracy theories regarding the Super Bowl LI matchup between the Patriots and the Atlanta Falcons stating that the game was rigged^[321] while others said the Falcons made questionable play-calls at the end of the game that resulted in them blowing a 28–3 lead.^[322]

NRG Stadium before Super Bowl LI

See also

- Conspiracy theories in the Arab world
- Conspiracy theories in Turkey

References

- Barkun, Michael (2003). A Culture of Conspiracy: Apocalyptic Visions in Contemporary America. Berkeley: University of California Press.
- Issitt, Micah; Main, Carlyn (2014). Hidden Religion: The Greatest Mysteries and Symbols of the World's Religious Beliefs. ABC-CLIO. ISBN 978-1-61069-478-0.
- Dean, Signe (23 October 2017). "Conspiracy Theorists Really Do See The World Differently, New Study Shows" (<https://www.sciencealert.com/conspiracy-theory-beliefs-illusory-pattern-perception-cognitive-science>). Science Alert. Retrieved 17 June 2020.
- Sloat, Sarah (17 October 2017). "Conspiracy Theorists Have a Fundamental Cognitive Problem, Say Scientists" (<https://www.inverse.com/article/37463-conspiracy-beliefs-illusory-pattern-perception>). Inverse. Retrieved 17 June 2020.
- "10 Controversial Air Crash Conspiracy Theories" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170615205721/http://listverse.com/2014/07/23/10-controversial-air-crash-conspiracy-theories/>). Listverse. 23 July 2014. Archived from the original (<http://listverse.com/2014/07/23/10-controversial-air-crash-conspiracy-theories/>) on 15 June 2017. Retrieved 29 June 2017.
- "Bring out the cranks and conspiracy theorists" (<https://www.ft.com/content/468c2fb4-8372-11de-a24e-00144feabdc0>). The Financial Times. 7 August 2009. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20171231212650/https://www.ft.com/content/468c2fb4-8372-11de-a24e-00144feabdc0>) from the original on 31 December 2017. Retrieved 18 December 2017.
- "Fox gives Glenn Beck's show the boot" (<https://articles.latimes.com/2011/apr/07/entertainment/la-et-glenn-beck-20110407>). Los Angeles Times. 7 April 2011. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20160510012227/http://articles.latimes.com/2011/apr/07/entertainment/la-et-glenn-beck-20110407>) from the original on 10 May 2016. Retrieved 18 December 2017.
- "Ben Carson is ready for the coming American apocalypse" (<https://theweek.com/articles/580740/ben-carson-ready-coming-american-apocalypse>). The Week. 2 October 2015. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180101025905/http://theweek.com/articles/580740/ben-carson-ready-coming-american-apocalypse>) from the original on 1 January 2018. Retrieved 18 December 2017.
- "History's greatest conspiracy theories" (<https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/2016/03/16/historys-greatest-conspiracy-theories/black-or-unmarked-helicopters/>). The Daily Telegraph. 19 November 2008. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180430195723/https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/2016/03/16/historys-greatest-conspiracy-theories/black-or-unmarked-helicopters/>) from the original on 30 April 2018. Retrieved 5 April 2018.

10. "My month with chemtrails conspiracy theorists" (<https://www.theguardian.com/environment/2017/may/22/california-conspiracy-theorist-farmers-chemtrails>). The Guardian. 22 May 2017. Archived (<http://web.archive.org/web/20171215045239/https://www.theguardian.com/environment/2017/may/22/california-conspiracy-theorist-farmers-chemtrails>) from the original on 15 December 2017. Retrieved 14 December 2017.
11. Shearer, Christine; West, Mick; Caldeira, Ken; Davis, Steven J (10 August 2016). "Quantifying expert consensus against the existence of a secret, large-scale atmospheric spraying program" (<https://doi.org/10.1088%2F1748-9326%2F11%2F8%2F084011>). Environmental Research Letters. 11 (8): 084011. Bibcode:2016ERL....11h4011S (<https://ui.adsabs.harvard.edu/abs/2016ERL....11h4011S>). doi:10.1088/1748-9326/11/8/084011 (<https://doi.org/10.1088%2F1748-9326%2F11%2F8%2F084011>).
12. "History's greatest conspiracy theories" (<https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/2016/03/16/historys-greatest-conspiracy-theories/>). The Daily Telegraph. 19 November 2008. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180312171616/https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/2016/03/16/historys-greatest-conspiracy-theories/>) from the original on 12 March 2018.
13. Izvestia, February 8, 1991, pg. 7
14. "MH17: five of the most bizarre conspiracy theories" (<https://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/2014/jul/22/mh17-five-bizarre-conspiracy-theories-zionist-plots-illuminati-russian-tv>). The Guardian. 22 July 2014. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170325105142/https://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/2014/jul/22/mh17-five-bizarre-conspiracy-theories-zionist-plots-illuminati-russian-tv>) from the original on 25 March 2017. Retrieved 23 June 2017.
15. https://www.nzherald.co.nz/world/news/article.cfm?c_id=2&objectid=12191656 NZ Herald, 17 Jan 2019 6:43am
16. <https://www.newshub.co.nz/home/world/2017/12/new-theories-claim-mh370-was-remotely-hijacked-buried-in-antarctica.html> Newshub, 13 December 2017
17. "Malaysia Airlines flight MH17 was shot down from pro-Russian rebel controlled territory, investigation finds" (<https://www.smh.com.au/world/malaysia-airlines-flight-mh17-was-shot-down-from-prorussian-rebel-controlled-territory-investigation-finds-20160928-grqter.html>). Sydney Morning Herald. 29 September 2016. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20190306185535/https://www.smh.com.au/world/malaysia-airlines-flight-mh17-was-shot-down-from-prorussian-rebel-controlled-territory-investigation-finds-20160928-grqter.html>) from the original on 6 March 2019. Retrieved 3 December 2018.
18. Phillips, David (1 July 2010). "Conspiracy Theories Behind BP Oil Spill in Gulf – From Dick Cheney To UFOs" (<http://www.cbsnews.com/news/conspiracy-theories-behind-bp-oil-spill-in-gulf-from-dick-cheney-to-ufos/>). CBS News.
19. "The conspiracy theories behind the BP oil spill" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170623045142/http://www.theweek.co.uk/13253/conspiracy-theories-behind-bp-oil-spill>). The Week. 14 July 2010. Archived from the original (<http://www.theweek.co.uk/13253/conspiracy-theories-behind-bp-oil-spill>) on 23 June 2017. Retrieved 4 July 2017.
20. "New Coke Origins" (<http://www.snopes.com/cokelore/newcoke.asp>). Snopes.com. Retrieved 3 August 2010.
21. Greenwald, John (12 April 2005). "Coca-Cola's Big Fizzle" (<http://www.time.com/time/magazine/article/0,9171,1048370-2,00.html>). Time. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20111210055428/http://www.time.com/time/magazine/article/0,9171,1048370-2,00.html>) from the original on 10 December 2011. Retrieved 5 May 2011.
22. Blount, Brian K. (2009). Revelation: A Commentary (https://books.google.com/books?id=ate5WYoD_jgC&pg=PA248). Louisville, Kentucky: Westminster Knox Press. pp. 248–249. ISBN 978-0-664-22121-8.

23. "Is 2017 a Bumper Year for Conspiracy Theories?" (<https://www.yahoo.com/news/2017-bumper-conspiracy-theories-110509496.html>). Yahoo News. 11 October 2017. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20171201032421/https://www.yahoo.com/news/2017-bumper-conspiracy-theories-110509496.html>) from the original on 1 December 2017. Retrieved 24 November 2017.
24. Bugliosi, Vincent (2007). Reclaiming History: The Assassination of President John F. Kennedy (<http://archive.org/details/reclaiminghistor00bugl>). New York: W. W. Norton & Company. pp. xiv, 1273. ISBN 978-0-393-04525-3.
25. Broderick, James F.; Miller, Darren W. (2008). "Chapter 16: The JFK Assassination" (<https://books.google.com/books?id=hOLDnJM91bkC&pg=PA203>). Web of Conspiracy: A Guide to Conspiracy Theory Sites on the Internet (<https://books.google.com/books?id=hOLDnJM91bkC>). Medford, New Jersey: Information Today, Inc./CyberAge Books. p. 203. ISBN 978-0-910965-81-1.
26. Perry, James D. (2003). Peter, Knight (ed.). Conspiracy Theories in American History: An Encyclopedia. Santa Barbara, California: ABC-CLIO, Inc. p. 383. ISBN 978-1-57607-812-9.
27. Summers, Anthony (2013). "Six Options for History" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20131101151417/http://www.openroadmedia.com/not-in-your-lifetime>). Not in Your Lifetime. New York: Open Road. p. 238. ISBN 978-1-4804-3548-3. Archived from the original (<http://www.openroadmedia.com/not-in-your-lifetime>) on 1 November 2013.
28. Kauffman, Michael W. (2004). American Brutus: John Wilkes Booth and the Lincoln Conspiracies, p.185 (New York: Random House), ISBN 978-0-375-50785-4
29. David Aaronovitch (2010) [2009]. Voodoo Histories: How Conspiracy Theory Has Shaped the Modern World. Vintage. pp. 7–8.
30. Burston, Bradley (11 October 2010). "Rightist website marks anniversary of Rabin's murder – with a conspiracy theory contest" (<http://www.haaretz.com/news/national/rightist-website-marks-anniversary-of-rabin-s-murder-with-a-conspiracy-theory-contest-1.318394>). Haaretz. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20120615063048/http://www.haaretz.com/news/national/rightist-website-marks-anniversary-of-rabin-s-murder-with-a-conspiracy-theory-contest-1.318394>) from the original on 15 June 2012. Retrieved 15 June 2012.
31. "Presidential conspiracy theories, from Zachary Taylor to JFK" (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/news/on-leadership/wp/2016/03/28/presidential-conspiracy-theories-from-zachary-taylor-to-jfk/>). The Washington Post. 28 March 2017. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170407103744/https://www.washingtonpost.com/news/on-leadership/wp/2016/03/28/presidential-conspiracy-theories-from-zachary-taylor-to-jfk/>) from the original on 7 April 2017. Retrieved 7 April 2017.
32. Hendrikx, Peter. "The Death of George S. Patton" (<https://www.ossociety.org/pdfs/Patton.pdf>) (PDF). ossociety.org. OSS Society. Archived (<https://archive.today/20210321043932/https://www.ossociety.org/pdfs/Patton.pdf>) (PDF) from the original on 21 March 2021. Retrieved 21 March 2021.
33. Shipman, Tim (20 December 2008). "General George S. Patton was assassinated to silence his criticism of allied war leaders, claims new book" (<https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/worldnews/northamerica/usa/3869117/General-George-S.-Patton-was-assassinated-to-silence-his-criticism-of-allied-war-leaders-claims-new-book.html>). The Telegraph. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180125115503/http://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/worldnews/northamerica/usa/3869117/General-George-S.-Patton-was-assassinated-to-silence-his-criticism-of-allied-war-leaders-claims-new-book.html>) from the original on 25 January 2018. Retrieved 5 April 2018.
34. "History's greatest conspiracy theories" (<https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/2016/03/16/historys-greatest-conspiracy-theories/diana-princess-of-wales-was-murdered/>). The Daily Telegraph. 19 November 2008. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180430195849/https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/2016/03/16/historys-greatest-conspiracy-theories/diana-princess-of-wales-was-murdered/>) from the original on 30 April 2018. Retrieved 5 April 2018.

35. Borger, Julian (17 August 2011). "Dag Hammarskjöld: evidence suggests UN chief's plane was shot down" (<https://www.theguardian.com/world/2011/aug/17/dag-hammarskjold-un-secretary-general-crash>). The Guardian (UK). Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20161204142624/https://www.theguardian.com/world/2011/aug/17/dag-hammarskjold-un-secretary-general-crash>) from the original on 4 December 2016. Retrieved 15 December 2016.
36. "The 70 Greatest Conspiracy Theories in Pop-Culture History" (<https://www.vulture.com/2016/10/pop-culture-conspiracy-theories-c-v-r.html>). Vulture. 23 October 2016. Retrieved 27 March 2021.
37. "Mozartian Conspiracy Theories I Robert Greenberg I Speaker, Composer, Author, Professor, Historian" (<https://robertgreenbergmusic.com/mozartian-conspiracy-theories/>). robertgreenbergmusic.com. Retrieved 27 March 2021.
38. "The 70 Greatest Conspiracy Theories in Pop-Culture History" (<https://www.vulture.com/2016/10/pop-culture-conspiracy-theories-c-v-r.html>). Vulture. 23 October 2016. Retrieved 27 March 2021.
39. "Who killed the prime minister? The unsolved murder that still haunts Sweden" (<https://www.theguardian.com/news/2019/may/16/olof-palme-sweden-prime-minister-unsolved-murder-new-evidence>). the Guardian. 16 May 2019. Retrieved 27 March 2021.
40. "Bizarre Rumors & Conspiracy Theories That Claim Linkin Park Lead Singer Chester Bennington Was Murdered" (<https://www.yahoo.com/lifestyle/bizarre-rumors-conspiracy-theories-claim-045340117.html>). www.yahoo.com. Retrieved 27 March 2021.
41. Collins, Nick (9 June 2011). "David Kelly – what is behind the conspiracy theories?" (<https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/8565727/David-Kelly-what-is-behind-the-conspiracy-theories.html>). The Telegraph (London). Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180619031206/https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/8565727/David-Kelly-what-is-behind-the-conspiracy-theories.html>) from the original on 19 June 2018. Retrieved 5 April 2018.
42. "Undermining Sushant Rajput's tragic death" (<https://www.hindustantimes.com/editorials/undermining-sushant-rajput-s-tragic-death/story-CkxnynGXXIipH4DDeUhoM.html>). Hindustan Times. 22 July 2020. Retrieved 22 August 2020.
43. http://content.time.com/time/specials/packages/article/0,28804,1860871_1860876_1860997,00.html
44. "History's greatest conspiracy theories" (<https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/2016/03/16/historys-greatest-conspiracy-theories/paul-is-dead/>). The Daily Telegraph. 19 November 2008. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180430195752/https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/2016/03/16/historys-greatest-conspiracy-theories/paul-is-dead/>) from the original on 30 April 2018. Retrieved 5 April 2018.
45. Staff, Guardian (3 December 2018). "'It's the real me': Nigerian president denies dying and being replaced by clone" (<https://www.theguardian.com/world/2018/dec/03/its-real-me-nigerian-president-denies-dying-and-being-replaced-by-clone>). The Guardian. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20181203221704/https://www.theguardian.com/world/2018/dec/03/its-real-me-nigerian-president-denies-dying-and-being-replaced-by-clone>) from the original on 3 December 2018. Retrieved 4 December 2018.
46. "Nigerian President Buhari denies death and body double rumours" (<https://www.bbc.com/news/world-africa-46424562>). BBC News. BBC. 3 December 2018. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20181203225642/https://www.bbc.com/news/world-africa-46424562>) from the original on 3 December 2018. Retrieved 4 December 2018.
47. Cresci, Elena (16 May 2017). "Why fans think Avril Lavigne died and was replaced by a clone named Melissa" (<https://www.theguardian.com/lifeandstyle/shortcuts/2017/may/15/avril-lavigne-melissa-cloning-conspiracy-theories>). The Guardian. ISSN 0261-3077 (<https://www.worldcat.org/issn/0261-3077>). Retrieved 16 March 2020.
48. "Is Donald Trump using a fake Melania? Conspiracy theories flood social media" (<http://www.bbc.co.uk/newsbeat/article/41677174/is-donald-trump-using-a-fake-melania-conspiracy-theories-flood-social-media>). BBC. 19 October 2017.
49. Bruney, Gabrielle (9 March 2019). "The 'Fake Melania' Conspiracy Theory is Back" (<https://www.esquire.com/news-politics/a26772325/fake-melania-trump-theory/>). Esquire.

50. "'Elvis Presley is alive' and 10 more conspiracy theories" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170607165215/http://www.theweek.co.uk/conspiracy-theories/62926/elvis-presley-is-alive-and-10-more-conspirac-y-theories>). The Week. 24 April 2017. Archived from the original (<http://www.theweek.co.uk/conspirac-y-theories/62926/elvis-presley-is-alive-and-10-more-conspiracy-theories>) on 7 June 2017. Retrieved 28 June 2017.
51. "Adolf Hitler alive: weird conspiracy theories" (<https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/worldnews/europe/germany/6242144/Adolf-Hitler-alive-weird-conspiracy-theories.html>). The Daily Telegraph. 29 September 2009. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180521201635/https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/worldnews/europe/germany/6242144/Adolf-Hitler-alive-weird-conspiracy-theories.html>) from the original on 21 May 2018. Retrieved 5 April 2018.
52. Eberle, Henrik; Uhl, Matthias, eds. (2005). The Hitler Book: The Secret Dossier Prepared for Stalin from the Interrogations of Hitler's Personal Aides (<https://archive.org/details/hitlerbooksecret00parp/page/288>). New York: Public Affairs. p. 288 (<https://archive.org/details/hitlerbooksecret00parp/page/288>). ISBN 978-1-58648-366-1.
53. Kershaw, Ian (2008). Hitler: A Biography. New York: W. W. Norton & Company. p. 1037. ISBN 978-0-393-06757-6.
54. Joachimsthaler, Anton (1999) [1995]. The Last Days of Hitler: The Legends, The Evidence, The Truth. Brockhampton Press. pp. 22, 23. ISBN 978-1-86019-902-8.
55. "Lord Lucan: the strangest theories about his disappearance" (<http://www.theweek.co.uk/69274/lord-lucan-the-strangest-theories-about-his-disappearance>). The Week. 4 February 2016. Archived (<http://web.archive.org/web/20170803100959/http://www.theweek.co.uk/69274/lord-lucan-the-strangest-theories-about-his-disappearance>) from the original on 3 August 2017. Retrieved 29 June 2017.
56. "Lord Lucan was fed to tiger at Howletts zoo in Canterbury, it has been claimed" (<http://www.kentonline.co.uk/canterbury/news/missing-man-fed-to-tiger-70103/>). Kent Online. 30 January 2016. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170803090413/http://www.kentonline.co.uk/canterbury/news/missing-man-fed-to-tiger-70103/>) from the original on 3 August 2017. Retrieved 29 June 2017.
57. "Lord Lucan – The Mystery Unravelling" (https://www.bbc.co.uk/insideout/southeast/series7/lucan_clues.shtml). BBC. 7 March 2005. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20170214005334/http://www.bbc.co.uk/insideout/southeast/series7/lucan_clues.shtml) from the original on 14 February 2017. Retrieved 21 November 2017.
58. "Ten years since Maddie's disappearance, the McCanns still face an onslaught of conspiracy theories" (<http://www.ibtimes.co.uk/ten-years-maddies-disappearance-mccanns-still-face-onslaught-conspiracy-theories-1618976>). International Business Times. 3 May 2017. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170926143433/http://www.ibtimes.co.uk/ten-years-maddies-disappearance-mccanns-still-face-onslaught-conspiracy-theories-1618976>) from the original on 26 September 2017. Retrieved 26 September 2017.
59. Kiely, Eugene (22 May 2017). "Gingrich Spreads Conspiracy Theory" (<http://www.factcheck.org/2017/05/gingrich-spreads-conspiracy-theory/>). FactCheck.org. Annenberg Public Policy Center. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170524211735/http://www.factcheck.org/2017/05/gingrich-spreads-conspiracy-theory/>) from the original on 24 May 2017. Retrieved 23 May 2017. "At this point in the investigation, it is believed that Seth Rich was the victim of an attempted robbery. The assertions put forward by Mr. Wheeler are unfounded."
60. Carroll, Lauren (23 May 2017). Sanders, Katie (ed.). "The baseless claim that slain DNC staffer Seth Rich gave emails to WikiLeaks" (<http://www.politifact.com/punditfact/statements/2017/may/23/newt-gingrich/claim-slain-dnc-staffer-seth-rich-gave-emails-wiki/>). PolitiFact.com. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180322155457/http://www.politifact.com/punditfact/statements/2017/may/23/newt-gingrich/claim-slain-dnc-staffer-seth-rich-gave-emails-wiki/>) from the original on 22 March 2018. Retrieved 22 March 2018. "There is no trustworthy evidence supporting the theory that Rich was WikiLeaks' source for thousands of DNC emails. The police believe his death was the result of a botched robbery, not a political assassination."

61. "Cyber-spying: Bear on bear" (<https://www.economist.com/news/united-states/21707574-whats-worse-being-attacked-russian-hacker-being-attacked-two-bear-bear>). The Economist. 22 September 2016. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170520234836/http://www.economist.com/news/united-states/21707574-whats-worse-being-attacked-russian-hacker-being-attacked-two-bear-bear>) from the original on 20 May 2017. Retrieved 21 May 2017.
62. Gillin, Joshua (26 May 2017). "Conspiracy theory that Comey hid Seth Rich's ties to WikiLeaks based on retracted story" (<http://www.politifact.com/punditfact/statements/2017/may/26/patriotcriercom/conspiracy-theory-comey-hid-seth-richs-ties-wikile/>). PolitiFact.com. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180616231320/http://www.politifact.com/punditfact/statements/2017/may/26/patriotcriercom/conspiracy-theory-comey-hid-seth-richs-ties-wikile/>) from the original on 16 June 2018. Retrieved 25 April 2018.
63. "Fox News web site retracts debunked reporting on DNC staffer Seth Rich" (<https://www.snopes.com/news/2017/05/23/fox-story-seth-rich-retraction/>). Snopes.com. 23 May 2017.
64. Rutenberg, Jim (24 May 2017). "Sean Hannity, a Murder and Why Fake News Endures" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2017/05/24/business/media/seth-rich-fox-news-sean-hannity.html>). The New York Times. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180328160625/https://www.nytimes.com/2017/05/24/business/media/seth-rich-fox-news-sean-hannity.html>) from the original on 28 March 2018. Retrieved 22 March 2018.
65. Shalby, Colleen (24 May 2017). "How Seth Rich's death became an Internet conspiracy theory" (<http://www.latimes.com/business/hollywood/la-fi-ct-seth-rich-conspiracy-20170523-htmllstory.html>). Los Angeles Times. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170529184553/http://www.latimes.com/business/hollywood/la-fi-ct-seth-rich-conspiracy-20170523-htmllstory.html>) from the original on 29 May 2017. Retrieved 15 April 2018. "Despite police statements and Rich's family concluding that his death was the result of an attempted robbery, the rumor spread within the same circles that churned out the bogus 'PizzaGate' story"
66. Weigel, David (20 May 2017). "The Seth Rich conspiracy shows how fake news still works" (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/news/the-fix/wp/2017/05/20/the-seth-rich-conspiracy-shows-how-fake-news-still-works/>). The Washington Post. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170520234833/https://www.washingtonpost.com/news/the-fix/wp/2017/05/20/the-seth-rich-conspiracy-shows-how-fake-news-still-works/>) from the original on 20 May 2017. Retrieved 21 May 2017.
67. Jane Kay; Chronicle Environment Writer (6 July 2009). "San Francisco Bay Area" (<http://www.sfgate.com/cgi-bin/article.cgi?file=/c/a/2009/07/06/MNUU18ICIV.DTL>). San Francisco Chronicle. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110427054924/http://www.sfgate.com/cgi-bin/article.cgi?file=%2Fc%2Fa%2F2009%2F07%2F06%2FMNUU18ICIV.DTL>) from the original on 27 April 2011. Retrieved 3 August 2010.
68. Roberts, Andrew. "The Green-Ink Brigade" (https://web.archive.org/web/20110824195542/http://www.literaryreview.co.uk/roberts_05_09.html). Literary Review. Archived from the original (http://www.literaryreview.co.uk/roberts_05_09.html) on 24 August 2011. Retrieved 15 June 2012.
69. "Beyonce and the Illuminati: Music's Most WTF Conspiracy Theories, Explained" (<https://www.rollingstone.com/music/videos/beyonce-musics-most-wtf-conspiracy-theories-explained-w507641>). Rolling Stone. 9 October 2017. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20171212053427/http://www.rollingstone.com/music/videos/beyonce-musics-most-wtf-conspiracy-theories-explained-w507641>) from the original on 12 December 2017. Retrieved 20 December 2017.
70. Sykes, Leslie (17 May 2009). "Angels & Demons Causing Serious Controversy" (<https://www.webcitation.org/5w48xQyH7?url=http://abclocal.go.com/kfsn/story?section=news%2Fentertainment&id=6817493>). KFSN-TV/ABC News. Archived from the original (<http://abclocal.go.com/kfsn/story?section=news/entertainment&id=6817493>) on 28 January 2011. Retrieved 27 January 2011.
71. Jared Jacang Maher (30 August 2007). "DIA Conspiracies Take Off" (<http://www.westword.com/2007-08-30/news/dia-conspiracies-take-off/full>). Denver Westword. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20071225170611/http://www.westword.com/2007-08-30/news/dia-conspiracies-take-off/full>) from the original on 25 December 2007. Retrieved 30 January 2008.

72. Citations:

- "Trump says he 'wouldn't be surprised' if unfounded conspiracy theory about George Soros funding caravan is true" (https://www.washingtonpost.com/politics/trump-wouldnt-be-surprised-if-democratic-megadonor-george-soros-is-funding-the-migrant-caravan/2018/11/01/9ea196a0-ddcf-11e8-85df-7a6b4d25cfbb_story.html). The Washington Post. 1 November 2018. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20181115153850/https://www.washingtonpost.com/politics/trump-wouldnt-be-surprised-if-democratic-megadonor-george-soros-is-funding-the-migrant-caravan/2018/11/01/9ea196a0-ddcf-11e8-85df-7a6b4d25cfbb_story.html) from the original on 15 November 2018. Retrieved 15 November 2018.
- "Kavanaugh confirmation: What Trump's 'elevator screamers' tweet tells us" (<https://www.bbc.com/news/world-us-canada-45714482>). BBC News. 5 October 2018. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20181115202302/https://www.bbc.com/news/world-us-canada-45714482>) from the original on 15 November 2018. Retrieved 15 November 2018.

73. Campbell, Jason (20 November 2019). "Rudy Giuliani claims the US embassy in Ukraine works for George Soros - "They're all Soros people"pic.twitter.com/xpa1TS9PLh" (<https://twitter.com/JasonSCampbell/status/1197300843286056961>).

74. "Lou Dobbs guest Joe diGenova says George Soros controls a large part of the State Department and activities of FBI agents" (<https://www.mediamatters.org/lou-dobbs/lou-dobbs-guest-joe-digenova-says-george-soros-controls-large-part-state-department-and>). Media Matters for America.

75. Citations:

- "George Soros is a favorite target of the right – here's how that happened" (<http://uk.businessinsider.com/how-did-george-soros-become-the-favorite-boogeyman-of-the-right-2017-5?r=US&IR=T>). Business Insider. 20 May 2017. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20171212193104/http://uk.businessinsider.com/how-did-george-soros-become-the-favorite-boogeyman-of-the-right-2017-5?r=US&IR=T>) from the original on 12 December 2017. Retrieved 12 December 2017.
- "Roy Moore is fueling a crazy conspiracy theory about George Soros" (http://www.huffingtonpost.co.uk/entry/roy-moore-george-soros_us_5a26fb54e4b08220bd787c0d). HuffPost. 5 December 2017. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20171213010231/http://www.huffingtonpost.co.uk/entry/roy-moore-george-soros_us_5a26fb54e4b08220bd787c0d) from the original on 13 December 2017. Retrieved 12 December 2017.
- "It's no surprise that the far right are mobilising against George Soros – he's the biggest threat to their global domination" (<https://www.independent.co.uk/voices/george-soros-caused-refugee-crisis-breitbart-muslim-takeover-biggest-threat-alt-right-global-a7419291.html>). The Independent. 15 November 2016. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180101194511/https://www.independent.co.uk/voices/george-soros-caused-refugee-crisis-breitbart-muslim-takeover-biggest-threat-alt-right-global-a7419291.html>) from the original on 1 January 2018. Retrieved 20 December 2017.
- "Conspiracy about George Soros Makes It to Congress" (<https://www.yahoo.com/news/conspiracy-george-soros-makes-congress-181015165.html>). Yahoo News. 6 October 2017. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20171212194717/https://www.yahoo.com/news/conspiracy-george-soros-makes-congress-181015165.html>) from the original on 12 December 2017. Retrieved 12 December 2017.
- "Anti-semitism used in attack against National Security Adviser H. R. McMaster" (<https://www.adl.org/blog/anti-semitism-used-in-attack-against-national-security-adviser-h-r-mcmaster>). ADL. 3 August 2017.
- "Why is the Alt-Right attacking H. R. McMaster?" (<https://www.yahoo.com/news/why-alt-attacking-h-r-125057461.html>). Yahoo News. 3 August 2017. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180112214942/https://www.yahoo.com/news/why-alt-attacking-h-r-125057461.html>) from the original on 12 January 2018. Retrieved 12 January 2018.

76. "Masonic Conspiracy Theories" (https://www.huffingtonpost.com/2012/05/18/masonic-conspiracy-theories_n_1527162.html). HuffPost. 18 July 2012. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20150616083805/http://www.huffingtonpost.com/2012/05/18/masonic-conspiracy-theories_n_1527162.html) from the original on 16 June 2015. Retrieved 29 November 2017.
77. "Was Titanic inquiry scuppered by the Freemasons?" (<https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/uknews/12010573/Was-Titanic-inquiry-scuppered-by-the-Freemasons.html>). The Daily Telegraph. 23 November 2015. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180421082510/https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/uknews/12010573/Was-Titanic-inquiry-scuppered-by-the-Freemasons.html>) from the original on 21 April 2018. Retrieved 5 April 2018.
78. David Aaronovitch (2010) [2009]. Voodoo Histories: How Conspiracy Theory Has Shaped the Modern World. Vintage. p. 82.
79. Mustafa Akyol (12 September 2016). "The Tin-Foil Hats Are Out in Turkey" (<https://foreignpolicy.com/2016/09/12/the-tin-foil-hats-are-out-in-turkey/>). Foreign Policy. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170109063325/http://foreignpolicy.com/2016/09/12/the-tin-foil-hats-are-out-in-turkey/>) from the original on 9 January 2017. Retrieved 10 January 2017.
80. Mustafa Akyol (31 October 2014). "The Middle East 'mastermind' who worries Erdogan" (<http://www.al-monitor.com/pulse/originals/2014/10/turkey-erdogan-middle-east-mastermind.html>). Al-Monitor. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170107090936/http://www.al-monitor.com/pulse/originals/2014/10/turkey-erdogan-middle-east-mastermind.html>) from the original on 7 January 2017. Retrieved 10 January 2017.
81. Mustafa Akyol (19 March 2015). "Unraveling the AKP's 'Mastermind' conspiracy theory" (<http://www.al-monitor.com/pulse/originals/2015/03/turkey-zion-protocols-akp-version.html>). Al-Monitor. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170108213847/http://www.al-monitor.com/pulse/originals/2015/03/turkey-zion-protocols-akp-version.html>) from the original on 8 January 2017. Retrieved 10 January 2017.
82. Mustafa Akyol (9 January 2017). "Why Turkish government pushes 'global conspiracy' narrative" (<http://www.al-monitor.com/pulse/originals/2017/01/turkey-believes-all-terrorists-are-united-against-it.html>). Al-Monitor. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170110123306/http://www.al-monitor.com/pulse/originals/2017/01/turkey-believes-all-terrorists-are-united-against-it.html>) from the original on 10 January 2017. Retrieved 10 January 2017.
83. "Foreign powers performing 'earthquake tests' near Istanbul to destroy economy: Ankara mayor" (<http://www.hurriyetdailynews.com/foreign-powers-performing-earthquake-tests-near-istanbul-to-destroy-economy-ankara-mayor.aspx?pageID=238&nID=109436&NewsCatID=341>). Hurriyet Daily News. 7 February 2017. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170207111125/http://www.hurriyetdailynews.com/foreign-powers-performing-earthquake-tests-near-istanbul-to-destroy-economy-ankara-mayor.aspx?pageID=238&nID=109436&NewsCatID=341>) from the original on 7 February 2017. Retrieved 7 February 2017.
84. "Geheimbotschaften in der Jeanshose" (<http://www.tagesspiegel.de/politik/verschwoerungstheorie-in-der-tuerkei-geheimbotschaften-in-der-jeanshose/20637406.html>). tagesspiegel. 27 November 2017. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20171204171236/http://www.tagesspiegel.de/politik/verschwoerungstheorie-in-der-tuerkei-geheimbotschaften-in-der-jeanshose/20637406.html>) from the original on 4 December 2017. Retrieved 5 December 2017.
85. Okbi, Yasser (16 October 2013). "Hezbollah: We have captured an Israeli 'spy eagle' in Lebanon" (<http://www.jpost.com/Middle-East/Hezbollah-We-have-captured-an-Israeli-spy-eagle-in-Lebanon-328880>). The Jerusalem Post. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20160127161036/http://www.jpost.com/Middle-East/Hezbollah-We-have-captured-an-Israeli-spy-eagle-in-Lebanon-328880>) from the original on 27 January 2016. Retrieved 27 January 2016.
86. "Saudis hold Israel 'spy vulture'" (<https://www.bbc.com/news/world-middle-east-12120259>). BBC. 5 January 2011. Retrieved 16 August 2019.

87. Morgan, Clive (13 October 2016). "Roswell and the world's other great conspiracy theories" (<https://www.telegraph.co.uk/tv/2016/10/13/the-worlds-greatest-conspiracy-theories/>). The Daily Telegraph. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180212133031/http://www.telegraph.co.uk/tv/2016/10/13/the-worlds-greatest-conspiracy-theories/>) from the original on 12 February 2018. Retrieved 5 April 2018.
88. "Harold Wilson resignation 'linked to MI6, burglary and insider trading'" (<https://www.thetimes.co.uk/article/harold-wilson-resignation-linked-to-mi6-burglary-and-insider-trading-q068hv9pxvn>). The Times. 22 August 2008. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20171109023248/https://www.thetimes.co.uk/article/harold-wilson-resignation-linked-to-mi6-burglary-and-insider-trading-q068hv9pxvn>) from the original on 9 November 2017. Retrieved 8 November 2017.
89. "MI5 put union leaders and protesters under surveillance during cold war" (<https://www.theguardian.com/uk/2009/oct/06/mi5-union-leaders-surveillance>). The Guardian. 6 October 2009. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20171109023505/https://www.theguardian.com/uk/2009/oct/06/mi5-union-leaders-surveillance>) from the original on 9 November 2017. Retrieved 8 November 2017.
90. "Pakistani Islamist politician claims Malala was not injured" (<https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/worldnews/asia/pakistan/9655417/Pakistani-Islamist-politician-claims-Malala-was-not-injured.html>). The Daily Telegraph. 5 November 2012. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20171203041923/http://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/worldnews/asia/pakistan/9655417/Pakistani-Islamist-politician-claims-Malala-was-not-injured.html>) from the original on 3 December 2017. Retrieved 5 April 2018.
91. "Pakistan thrives on conspiracy theory" (<https://www.ft.com/content/d2f274b2-1de4-11e2-8e1d-00144feabdc0>). Financial Times. 24 October 2012. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20171201042715/https://www.ft.com/content/d2f274b2-1de4-11e2-8e1d-00144feabdc0>) from the original on 1 December 2017. Retrieved 24 November 2017.
92. "The antagonism towards Malala in Pakistan" (<https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/world-asia-29568637>). BBC. 10 October 2014. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20181124055716/https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/world-asia-29568637>) from the original on 24 November 2018. Retrieved 22 June 2018.
93. "Malala Yousafzai is a hero to many, but has few fans in her homeland" (<https://www.smh.com.au/lifestyle/celebrity/malala-yousafzai-is-a-hero-to-many-but-has-few-fans-in-her-homeland-20170816-gxx8fo.html>). The Sydney Morning Herald. 18 August 2017. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20171201104132/http://www.smh.com.au/lifestyle/celebrity/malala-yousafzai-is-a-hero-to-many-but-has-few-fans-in-her-homeland-20170816-gxx8fo.html>) from the original on 1 December 2017. Retrieved 24 November 2017.
94. "History's greatest conspiracy theories" (<https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/2016/03/16/historys-greatest-conspiracy-theories/the-protocols-of-the-elders-of-zion/>). The Daily Telegraph. 19 November 2008. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180430195703/https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/2016/03/16/historys-greatest-conspiracy-theories/the-protocols-of-the-elders-of-zion/>) from the original on 30 April 2018. Retrieved 5 April 2018.
95. Levy, Richard (2005). Antisemitism: a historical encyclopedia of prejudice. p. 55. ISBN 978-1-85109-439-4.
96. Baker, Lee D. (2010). Anthropology and the Racial Politics of Culture. Duke University Press. p. 158. ISBN 978-0822346982.
97. Waltman, Michael; John Haas (2010). The Communication of Hate. Peter Lang. p. 52. ISBN 978-1433104473.
98. Stein, Joel (19 December 2008). "Who runs Hollywood? C'mon" (<https://articles.latimes.com/2008/dec/19/opinion/oe-stein19>). Los Angeles Times. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20130810010726/http://articles.latimes.com/2008/dec/19/opinion/oe-stein19>) from the original on 10 August 2013. Retrieved 12 March 2015.
99. Horn, Dara. "Anti-Semites Don't Just Hate Jews. They're Targeting Freedom." (<https://www.nytimes.com/2019/04/30/opinion/san-diego-synagogue-shooting.html>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20190501211454/https://www.nytimes.com/2019/04/30/opinion/san-diego-synagogue-shooting.html>) 1 May 2019 at the Wayback Machine New York Times. 30 April 2019. 1 May 2019.

00. "'Denial': how to deal with a conspiracy theory in the era of 'post-truth'" (<http://www.cam.ac.uk/research/news/denial-how-to-deal-with-a-conspiracy-theory-in-the-era-of-post-truth>). Cambridge University Press. 16 February 2017. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170709233650/http://www.cam.ac.uk/research/news/denial-how-to-deal-with-a-conspiracy-theory-in-the-era-of-post-truth>) from the original on 9 July 2017. Retrieved 17 June 2017.
01. Doward, Jamie (22 January 2017). "New online generation takes up Holocaust denial" (<https://www.theguardian.com/world/2017/jan/22/online-conspiracy-theories-feed-holocaust-denial>). The Observer. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170621211501/https://www.theguardian.com/world/2017/jan/22/online-conspiracy-theories-feed-holocaust-denial>) from the original on 21 June 2017. Retrieved 17 June 2017.
02. "Holocaust Revisionism" (http://content.time.com/time/specials/packages/article/0,28804,1860871_1860876_1861026,00.html). Time. 2009. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20170622191019/http://content.time.com/time/specials/packages/article/0,28804,1860871_1860876_1861026,00.html) from the original on 22 June 2017. Retrieved 21 June 2017.
03. "A German court sentenced Holocaust denier Germar Rudolf to two and a half years in prison for inciting racial hatred in publications and Web sites which "systematically" called into question the Nazi genocide." "German Holocaust Denier Imprisoned for Inciting Racial Hatred" (<http://www.dw-world.de/dw/article/0,2144,2386563,00.html>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090202111101/http://www.dw-world.de/dw/article/0,2144,2386563,00.html>) 2 February 2009 at the Wayback Machine, Deutsche Welle, 16 February 2007.
04. Hare, Ivan; Weinstein, James (2010). Extreme Speech and Democracy (<https://books.google.com/books?id=F6d08lrYNQC&pg=PA553>). Oxford University Press. p. 553. ISBN 978-0199601790.
05. McLaughlin, Daniel (12 May 2012). "Baku pins hopes on Eurovision to boost image" (<https://www.irishtimes.com/newspaper/weekend/2012/0512/1224315955277.html>). The Irish Times. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20120620211737/http://www.irishtimes.com/newspaper/weekend/2012/0512/1224315955277.html>) from the original on 20 June 2012. Retrieved 21 June 2012.
06. "Aliyev Blames 'Armenian Lobby' For Fresh Corruption Scandal" (<https://www.azatutyun.am/a/28718167.html>). azatutyun.am. RFE/RL. 5 September 2017. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/2019062911555/https://www.azatutyun.am/a/28718167.html>) from the original on 29 June 2019. Retrieved 29 June 2019.
07. "Closing Speech by Ilham Aliyev at the conference on the results of the third year into the "State Program on the socioeconomic development of districts for 2009–2013" " (<https://web.archive.org/web/20140611150354/http://en.president.az/articles/4423>). Archived from the original (<http://en.president.az/articles/4423>) on 11 June 2014. Retrieved 6 October 2014.
08. "Closing Speech by Ilham Aliyev" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20150526090537/http://en.president.az/articles/4423>). Archived from the original (<http://en.president.az/articles/4423>) on 26 May 2015. Retrieved 17 June 2015.
09. "Armenia pulls out of Azerbaijan-hosted Eurovision show" (<https://www.bbc.com/news/world-europe-17292360>). BBC News. BBC. 7 March 2012. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20150924164357/http://www.bbc.com/news/world-europe-17292360>) from the original on 24 September 2015. Retrieved 17 June 2015.
10. "Turkish minister says Russian media run by Armenians, German media not free" (<http://www.hurriyetdailynews.com/turkish-minister-says-russian-media-run-by-armenians-german-media-not-free.aspx?pageID=238&nID=100181&NewsCatID=510>). Hürriyet Daily News. 7 June 2016. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20160610102207/http://www.hurriyetdailynews.com/turkish-minister-says-russian-media-run-by-armenians-german-media-not-free.aspx?pageID=238&nID=100181&NewsCatID=510>) from the original on 10 June 2016. Retrieved 13 June 2016.
11. "Arkansas Legal Ethics" (https://www.law.cornell.edu/ethics/ar/narr/AR_NARR_0.HTM). Law.cornell.edu. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20100722015430/http://www.law.cornell.edu/ethics/ar/narr/AR_NARR_0.HTM) from the original on 22 July 2010. Retrieved 3 August 2010.

12. Weems, Samuel A. 2002. Armenia: secrets of a Christian terrorist state. The Armenian Great deception series, v. 1. Dallas: St. John Press.
13. Waal, Thomas (2013). Black garden Armenia and Azerbaijan through peace and war. New York London: New York University Press. ISBN 978-0-8147-6032-1.
14. Ghanea, Nazila (2003). Human Rights, the UN and the Bahá'ís in Iran (<https://books.google.com/books?id=GeHNNoviEXw0C>). Martinus Nijhoff. p. 294. ISBN 978-90-411-1953-7.
15. Cooper, Roger (1993). Death Plus 10 years. HarperCollins. p. 200. ISBN 978-0-00-255045-1.
16. Simpson, John; Shubart, Tira (1995). Lifting the Veil. Hodder & Stoughton Ltd. p. 223. ISBN 978-0-340-62814-0.
17. Tavakoli-Targhi, Mohamad (2008). "Anti-Baha'ism and Islamism in Iran". In Brookshaw, Dominic P.; Fazel, Seena B. (eds.). The Baha'is of Iran: Socio-historical studies. New York, NY: Routledge. p. 200. ISBN 978-0-203-00280-3.
18. Henrietta Heald (1992). Chronicle of Britain: Incorporating a Chronicle of Ireland. Jacques Legrand. p. 605. ISBN 9781872031354.
19. Grabbe, Lester L. (1997). Mein, Andrew; Camp, Claudia V. (eds.). Can a 'History of Israel' Be Written? (https://books.google.com/books?id=K2hIY_E_ngYC&pg=PA28). London, England: Continuum International Publishing Group. pp. 27–28. ISBN 978-0567043207.
20. "Lent and Ash Wednesday are NOT pagan relics" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180217010926/http://www.patheos.com/blogs/geneveith/2013/02/lent-and-ash-wednesday-are-not-pagan-relics/>). 13 February 2013. Archived from the original (<http://www.patheos.com/blogs/geneveith/2013/02/lent-and-ash-wednesday-are-not-pagan-relics/>) on 17 February 2018. Retrieved 7 February 2018.
21. Barkun, Michael (1997). Religion and the Racist Right (<https://books.google.com/books?id=bdGSbDaCQVsC>). UNC Press. pp. 192–193. ISBN 9780807846384.
22. Jenkins, Philip (1 April 2003). The New Anti-Catholicism: The Last Acceptable Prejudice (<https://books.google.com/books?id=p5SW0I7ciokC&pg=PA23>). Oxford University Press. p. 23. ISBN 978-0-19-515480-1.
23. John Tracy Ellis, "American Catholicism", University of Chicago Press 1956.
24. Bilhartz, Terry D. (1986). Urban Religion and the Second Great Awakening (https://books.google.com/books?id=pK_DqHjUfg4C). Madison, NJ: Fairleigh Dickinson University Press. p. 115. ISBN 978-0-8386-3227-7.
25. Anbinder; Tyler. Nativism and Slavery: The Northern Know Nothings and the politics of the 1850s (1992). Online version; also online at ACLS History e-Book (<https://www.questia.com/PM.qst?a=o&d=52767975>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090404191905/http://www.questia.com/PM.qst?a=o&d=52767975>) 4 April 2009 at the Wayback Machine, the standard scholarly study
26. Al-Khattar, Aref M. (2003). Religion and terrorism: an interfaith perspective. Westport, CT: Praeger. pp. 21, 30, 55, 91.
27. "Warning Against the Roman Catholic Party," (<http://historymatters.gmu.edu/d/5073/>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20151126004212/http://historymatters.gmu.edu/d/5073/>) 26 November 2015 at the Wayback Machine a 1928 speech by Sen. Thomas J. Heflin (hosted at History Matters)
28. Randall Balmer. "Billy Graham Regrets Political Involvement, Again," (http://www.religiondispatches.org/archive/atheologies/4118/billy_graham_regrets_political_involvement__again/) Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20140604045032/http://www.religiondispatches.org/archive/atheologies/4118/billy_graham_regrets_political_involvement__again/) 4 June 2014 at the Wayback Machine Religion Dispatches.
29. Gregory Campbell McDermott. "I am not the Catholic candidate": Local Issues and the Catholic Question in John F. Kennedy's 1960 Presidential Campaign. (<http://scholar.simmons.edu/bitstream/handle/10090/13026/s10hist2009mcdermott.pdf?sequence=1>)

30. "Transcript: JFK's Speech on His Religion" (<https://www.npr.org/templates/story/story.php?storyId=16920600>). NPR. 5 December 2007. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20160503160856/http://www.npr.org/templates/story/story.php?storyId=16920600>) from the original on 3 May 2016. Retrieved 6 May 2016.
31. "Pope Renounces Papal Throne" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20141006211840/http://visnews-en.blogspot.ca/2013/02/pope-renounces-papal-throne.html>). Vatican Information Service, 2 November 2013 Bulletin – English Edition. Archived from the original (<http://visnews-en.blogspot.ca/2013/02/pope-renounces-papal-throne.html>) on 6 October 2014. Retrieved 15 July 2014.
32. "Scandal threatens to overshadow pope's final days" (<http://www.cnn.com/2013/02/25/world/europe/vatican-archbishop-resigns>). CNN. 25 February 2013. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20141007071032/http://www.cnn.com/2013/02/25/world/europe/vatican-archbishop-resigns>) from the original on 7 October 2014. Retrieved 6 October 2014.
33. "Did a Secret Vatican Report on Gay Sex and Blackmail Bring Down the Pope?" (<https://news.yahoo.com/did-secret-vatican-report-gay-sex-blackmail-bring-160458902.html>). Yahoo News. 22 February 2013. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20141007010933/http://news.yahoo.com/did-secret-vatican-report-gay-sex-blackmail-bring-160458902.html>) from the original on 7 October 2014. Retrieved 6 October 2014.
34. "Antichrist" (<https://www.britannica.com/topic/Antichrist>). Encyclopaedia Britannica. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170801184745/https://www.britannica.com/topic/Antichrist>) from the original on 1 August 2017. Retrieved 28 June 2017.
35. "One in four Americans think Obama may be the antichrist, survey says" (<https://www.theguardian.com/world/2013/apr/02/americans-obama-anti-christ-conspiracy-theories>). The Guardian. 2 April 2013. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170919115244/https://www.theguardian.com/world/2013/apr/02/americans-obama-anti-christ-conspiracy-theories>) from the original on 19 September 2017. Retrieved 24 November 2017.
36. "Obama the antichrist? Global warming a myth? Lizard people controlling the world? Conspiracy theory research reveals bizarre beliefs prevalent in US" (<https://www.independent.co.uk/news/world/americas/obama-the-antichrist-global-warming-a-myth-lizard-people-controlling-the-world-conspiracy-theory-8558384.html>). The Independent. 4 April 2013. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20171201040551/http://www.independent.co.uk/news/world/americas/obama-the-antichrist-global-warming-a-myth-lizard-people-controlling-the-world-conspiracy-theory-8558384.html>) from the original on 1 December 2017. Retrieved 20 December 2017.
37. "The Book of Revelation does not describe the anti-Christ as someone with characteristics matching those of Barack Obama" (<https://www.snopes.com/politics/obama/antichrist.asp>). Snopes. 25 May 2016.
38. "History's greatest conspiracy theories" (<https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/2016/03/16/historys-greatest-conspiracy-theories/the-jesus-conspiracy/>). The Daily Telegraph. 19 November 2008. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180430195857/https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/2016/03/16/historys-greatest-conspiracy-theories/the-jesus-conspiracy/>) from the original on 30 April 2018. Retrieved 5 April 2018.
39. David Aaronovitch (2010) [2009]. Voodoo Histories: How Conspiracy Theory Has Shaped the Modern World. Vintage. pp. 187–218, Chapter 6: Holy Blood, Holy Grail, Holy Shit.
40. John L. Esposito, Emad El-Din Shahin (September 2013). The Oxford Handbook of Islam and Politics (<https://books.google.com/books?id=wUcSDAAQBAJ&pg=PA559>). Oxford University Press. ISBN 9780190631932.
41. "'Love Jihad' and religious conversion polarise in Modi's India" (<https://in.reuters.com/article/india-religion-modi/love-jihad-and-religious-conversion-polarise-in-modis-india-idINKBN0GZ2OC20140904>). Reuters. 4 September 2014. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20171109023350/https://in.reuters.com/article/india-religion-modi/love-jihad-and-religious-conversion-polarise-in-modis-india-idINKBN0GZ2OC20140904>) from the original on 9 November 2017. Retrieved 8 November 2017.

42. "Muzaffarnagar: 'Love jihad', beef bogey sparked riot flames" (<http://www.hindustantimes.com/india-news/muzaffarnagar-love-jihad-beef-bogey-sparked-riot-flames/article1-1120889.aspx>). Hindustan Times. 12 September 2013. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20140405033728/http://www.hindustantimes.com/india-news/muzaffarnagar-love-jihad-beef-bogey-sparked-riot-flames/article1-1120889.aspx>) from the original on 5 April 2014. Retrieved 18 April 2014.
43. Ananthkrishnan G (13 October 2009). "'Love Jihad' racket: VHP, Christian groups find common cause" (<http://timesofindia.indiatimes.com/india/Love-Jihad-racket-VHP-Christian-groups-find-common-cause/articleshow/5117548.cms>). The Times of India. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20140805051759/http://timesofindia.indiatimes.com/india/Love-Jihad-racket-VHP-Christian-groups-find-common-cause/articleshow/5117548.cms>) from the original on 5 August 2014. Retrieved 18 April 2014.
44. Mahanta, Siddhartha (5 September 2014). "India's Fake 'Love Jihad'" (<https://foreignpolicy.com/2014/09/04/indias-fake-love-jihad/>). Foreign Policy. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20151124213314/http://foreignpolicy.com/2014/09/04/indias-fake-love-jihad/>) from the original on 24 November 2015. Retrieved 24 November 2015.
45. Liz Fekete (15 December 2011). "The Muslim conspiracy theory and the Oslo massacre" (<https://semanticscholar.org/paper/02380e499bb67c069c1e2a881094ab776600fb87>). Race & Class. 53 (3): 30–47. doi:10.1177/0306396811425984 (<https://doi.org/10.1177%2F0306396811425984>). S2CID 146443283 (<https://api.semanticscholar.org/CorpusID:146443283>).
46. Kaplan, Jeffrey (2000). Encyclopedia of White Power: A Sourcebook on the Radical Racist Right (<https://books.google.com/books?id=nNWbbhUYv8oC&pg=PA539>). AltaMira Press. p. 539. ISBN 9780742503403.
47. Kivisto, Peter; Rundblad, Georganne (2000). Multiculturalism in the United States: Current Issues, Contemporary Voices (<https://books.google.com/books?id=Co-4x6OXLiIC&pg=PA59>). SAGE Knowledge. pp. 57–60. ISBN 9780761986485.
48. Capehart, Jonathan. "A petition to 'stop white genocide'?" (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/blogs/post-partisan/wp/2013/01/18/petition-stop-white-genocide/>). The Washington Post. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20150415064840/http://www.washingtonpost.com/blogs/post-partisan/wp/2013/01/18/petition-stop-white-genocide/>) from the original on 15 April 2015. Retrieved 1 May 2015.
49. Sexton, Jared (2008). Amalgamation Schemes: Antiblackness and the Critique of Multiracialism (<https://archive.org/details/amalgamationsche00jare>). Univ of Minnesota Press. pp. 207 (<https://archive.org/details/amalgamationsche00jare/page/207>)–08. ISBN 978-0816651047.
50. Perry, Barbara. "'White Genocide': White Supremacists and the Politics of Reproduction." Home-grown hate: Gender and organized racism (2001): 75–85.
51. Eager, Paige Whaley (2013). From Freedom Fighters to Terrorists: Women and Political Violence. Ashgate Publishing, Ltd. p. 90 (<https://books.google.com/books?id=WQ2UytrgOkIC&pg=PA90>). ISBN 9781409498575.
52. "8 in 10 French people believe a conspiracy theory: survey" (<https://uk.news.yahoo.com/8-10-french-people-believe-conspiracy-theory-survey-152745449.html>). Yahoo News. 8 January 2018. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180118014404/https://uk.news.yahoo.com/8-10-french-people-believe-conspiracy-theory-survey-152745449.html>) from the original on 18 January 2018. Retrieved 17 January 2018.
53. Kumeh, Titania (12 October 2010). "Conspiracy Watch: Is Abortion Black Genocide?" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170520212408/http://www.motherjones.com/media/2010/09/abortion-black-genocide>). Mother Jones. Archived from the original (<https://www.motherjones.com/media/2010/09/abortion-black-genocide>) on 20 May 2017. Retrieved 9 July 2018.
54. "Rick Tyler: Gingrich Backer Airs 'Black Genocide' Theory on MSNBC" (<http://www.ibtimes.com/social-tags/maafa-21>). International Business Times. 1 February 2012. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20140416184003/http://www.ibtimes.com/social-tags/maafa-21>) from the original on 16 April 2014. Retrieved 18 February 2013.

55. Agins, Donna Brown (2006). Maya Angelou: Diversity Makes for a Rich Tapestry (<https://archive.org/details/mayaangeloudiver0000agin>). Enslow Publishers. pp. 52 (<https://archive.org/details/mayaangeloudiver0000agin/page/52>)–53. ISBN 978-0766024694.
56. Smith, Mary (March 1968). "Birth Control and the Negro Woman" (<https://books.google.com/books?id=nNkDAAAAMBAJ&pg=PA29>). Ebony. Vol. 23 no. 5. p. 29.
57. Wright, Nathan (December 1969). "Black Power vs. Black Genocide". The Black Scholar. 1 (2): 47–52. doi:10.1080/00064246.1969.11430663 (<https://doi.org/10.1080%2F00064246.1969.11430663>). JSTOR 41202828 (<https://www.jstor.org/stable/41202828>).
58. Scott, Laell (25 May 1970). "Legal Abortions, Ready or Not" (<https://books.google.com/books?id=BbbuOzD8HHUC&pg=PA68>). New York Magazine. Vol. 3 no. 21. p. 68. ISSN 0028-7369 (<https://www.worldcat.org/issn/0028-7369>).
59. Rastafari, Jah (7 October 2005). "Questions about Rastafari" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20100416032838/http://rastafaritimes.com/rasnews/viewnews.cgi?newsid1128744000,9191,.shtml>). Rastafaritimes.com. Archived from the original (<http://rastafaritimes.com/rasnews/viewnews.cgi?newsid1128744000,9191,.shtml>) on 16 April 2010. Retrieved 3 August 2010.
60. "Haile Selassie: Who was the Rastafarian Messiah?" (<https://www.bbc.co.uk/guides/zqqx6sg>). BBC News. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20141228001440/http://www.bbc.co.uk/guides/zqqx6sg>) from the original on 28 December 2014. Retrieved 21 January 2015.
61. Harry Jaffe, So-called "plan" for white supremacy lives on in D.C. (<https://www.washingtonexaminer.com/harry-jaffe-so-called-plan-for-white-supremacy-lives-on-in-dc>), Washington Examiner, 30 August 2010.
62. Jeffrey R. Henig and Wilbur C. Rich, Mayors in the middle: politics, race, and mayoral control of urban schools. Princeton University Press, 2004, pp. 204–207.
63. <https://skeptoid.com/blog/2013/07/29/the-plan-to-retake-washington/>
64. Jonetta Rose Barras, Recruiting Diversity: Michelle Rhee's campaign to diversify DCPS means wooing white parents (<http://www.washingtoncitypaper.com/articles/39647/michelle-rhees-campaign-to-diversify-dc-public-schools-means-wooing/full>). Washington CityPaper, 27 August 2010.
65. "US base leads poll's top conspiracy theories" (<https://www.theguardian.com/uk/2008/jul/31/1>). The Guardian. 31 July 2008. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170924135649/https://www.theguardian.com/uk/2008/jul/31/1>) from the original on 24 September 2017. Retrieved 4 July 2017.
66. "Colorado cow mutilations baffle ranchers, cops, UFO believer" (<http://www.denverpost.com/2009/12/08/colorado-cow-mutilations-baffle-ranchers-cops-ufo-believer/>). The Denver Post. 8 December 2009. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170702183107/http://www.denverpost.com/2009/12/08/colorado-cow-mutilations-baffle-ranchers-cops-ufo-believer/>) from the original on 2 July 2017. Retrieved 4 July 2017.
67. Peter Knight (2003). Conspiracy Theories in American History: An Encyclopedia (<https://books.google.com/books?id=qMIDrggs8TsC&pg=PA125>). ABC-CLIO. p. 125. ISBN 978-1-57607-812-9.
68. Michael Barkun (4 May 2006). A Culture of Conspiracy: Apocalyptic Visions in Contemporary America (<https://books.google.com/books?id=LiwjVsNBw-cC&pg=PA86>). University of California Press. p. 86. ISBN 978-0-520-24812-0.
69. Robertson, David G. (2016). Cox, James; Sutcliffe, Steven; Sweetman, William (eds.). UFOs, Conspiracy Theories and the New Age: Millennial Conspiracism (<https://books.google.com/books?id=4ngwCwAAQBAJ&pg=PT94>). Bloomsbury Advances in Religious Studies. London, England: Bloomsbury Publishing. p. 94. ISBN 978-1474253208.
70. Fritze, Ronald H. (2009). Invented Knowledge: False History, Fake Science and Pseudo-Religions (<https://books.google.com/books?id=l2BrqdFg5AkC>). London, England: Reaktion Books. p. 212. ISBN 978-1-86189-430-4.
71. Fritze, Ronald H. (2016). Egyptomania: A History of Fascination, Obsession and Fantasy (<https://books.google.com/books?id=vkSkDQAAQBAJ&pg=PA292>). London, England: Reaktion Books. p. 292. ISBN 978-1-78023-639-1.

72. "The Reptilian Elite" (http://content.time.com/time/specials/packages/article/0,28804,1860871_1860876_1861029,00.html). Time. 2009. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20170623132151/http://content.time.com/time/specials/packages/article/0,28804,1860871_1860876_1861029,00.html) from the original on 23 June 2017. Retrieved 21 June 2017.
73. "Combating Fake News: An Agenda for Research and Action – Shorenstein Center" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180712001640/https://shorensteincenter.org/combating-fake-news-agenda-for-research/>). 2 May 2017. Archived from the original (<https://shorensteincenter.org/combating-fake-news-agenda-for-research/>) on 12 July 2018. Retrieved 11 July 2018.
74. Lawrence Johnstone Burpee, "The Oxford Encyclopedia of Canadian History," Oxford University Press, 1926, pg 477.
75. David Aaronovitch (2010) [2009]. Voodoo Histories: How Conspiracy Theory Has Shaped the Modern World. Vintage. p. 20.
76. "The Accidental Invention of the Illuminati Conspiracy" (<http://www.bbc.com/future/story/20170809-the-accidental-invention-of-the-illuminati-conspiracy>). BBC. 9 August 2017. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180125034147/http://www.bbc.com/future/story/20170809-the-accidental-invention-of-the-illuminati-conspiracy>) from the original on 25 January 2018. Retrieved 25 January 2018.
77. "Historians Find 'Proof' that Nazis Burnt Reichstag" (<https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/worldnews/europe/germany/1310995/Historians-find-proof-that-Nazis-burnt-Reichstag.html>). The Telegraph. UK. 15 April 2001. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180309224029/https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/worldnews/europe/germany/1310995/Historians-find-proof-that-Nazis-burnt-Reichstag.html>) from the original on 9 March 2018. Retrieved 5 April 2018.
78. "Agujeros Negros del 11-M" (<http://www.elmundo.es/elmundo/2004/04/19/enespecial/1082356558.html>). Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110606070646/http://www.elmundo.es/elmundo/2004/04/19/enespecial/1082356558.html>) from the original on 6 June 2011. Retrieved 24 May 2011.
79. Conspiracy Theories in American History: An Encyclopedia, edited by Peter Knight, pp 689
80. Peter Weber (2 September 2014). "America created the Islamic State of Iraq and Syria? Meet the ISIS 'truthers'" (<https://theweek.com/article/index/267310/america-created-the-islamic-state-of-iraq-and-syria-meet-the-isis-truthers>). The Week. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20141226110102/http://theweek.com/article/index/267310/america-created-the-islamic-state-of-iraq-and-syria-meet-the-isis-truthers>) from the original on 26 December 2014. Retrieved 26 November 2017.
81. Hassan, Mehdi. "Inside jobs and Israeli stooges: why is the Muslim world in thrall to conspiracy theories?" (<http://www.newstatesman.com/politics/2014/09/inside-jobs-and-israeli-stooges-why-muslim-world-thrall-conspiracy-theories>). New Statesman. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170916065905/http://www.newstatesman.com/politics/2014/09/inside-jobs-and-israeli-stooges-why-muslim-world-thrall-conspiracy-theories>) from the original on 16 September 2017. Retrieved 26 November 2017.
82. "African Shia Cleric: Boko Haram atrocity is a conspiracy against Islamic resurgence in Nigeria" (<http://www.webcitation.org/65QK5BdKk>). ABNA World Service. 8 February 2012.
83. "Nigeria: Boko Haram Conceived to Destroy Islam – Prof. Bunza" (<http://allafrica.com/stories/201202080541.html>). Daily Trust. AllAfrica. 8 February 2012. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20130903035933/http://allafrica.com/stories/201202080541.html>) from the original on 3 September 2013. Retrieved 26 November 2017.
84. Summers, Anthony; Swan, Robbyn (2011). The Eleventh Day: The Full Story of 9/11 and Osama bin Laden (<https://archive.org/details/eleventhdayfulls0000summ>). New York: Ballantine. p. 104 (<https://archive.org/details/eleventhdayfulls0000summ/page/104>). ISBN 978-1-4000-6659-9.
85. Staff Editors (3 February 2005). "Debunking the 9/11 Myths: Special Report – The World Trade Center" (<http://www.popularmechanics.com/technology/military/news/debunking-911-myths-world-trade-center>). Popular Mechanics. Hearst Communication. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20150111003550/http://www.popularmechanics.com/technology/military/news/debunking-911-myths-world-trade-center>) from the original on 11 January 2015. Retrieved 24 June 2017.

86. Bažant, Z. K. P.; Verdure, M. (2007). "Mechanics of Progressive Collapse: Learning from World Trade Center and Building Demolitions" (<http://www.civil.northwestern.edu/people/bazant/PDFs/Papers/466.pdf>) (PDF). Journal of Engineering Mechanics. 133 (3): 308–19. CiteSeerX 10.1.1.121.4166 (<http://citeseerx.ist.psu.edu/viewdoc/summary?doi=10.1.1.121.4166>). doi:10.1061/(ASCE)0733-9399(2007)133:3(308) (<https://doi.org/10.1061%2F%28ASCE%290733-9399%282007%29133%3A3%28308%29>). Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20070809030224/http://www.civil.northwestern.edu/people/bazant/PDFs/Papers/466.pdf>) (PDF) from the original on 9 August 2007. Retrieved 24 June 2017.
87. "Conspiracy Theorists Blame Jews For Sandy Hook Massacre" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20171204114600/https://www.adl.org/blog/conspiracy-theorists-blame-jews-for-sandy-hook-massacre>). Anti-Defamation League. 18 December 2012. Archived from the original (<https://www.adl.org/blog/conspiracy-theorists-blame-jews-for-sandy-hook-massacre>) on 4 December 2017. Retrieved 24 June 2017.
88. Dylan Baddour & W. Gardner Selby, Hillary Clinton correct that Austin's Alex Jones said no one died at Sandy Hook Elementary (<http://www.politifact.com/texas/statements/2016/sep/01/hillary-clinton/hillary-clinton-correct-austins-alex-jones-said-no/>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170303201414/http://www.politifact.com/texas/statements/2016/sep/01/hillary-clinton/hillary-clinton-correct-austins-alex-jones-said-no/>) 3 March 2017 at the Wayback Machine, PolitiFact (1 September 2016).
89. David Mikkelson, FBI Admits Sandy Hook Hoax?: Rumor: The FBI revealed that no murders occurred in Newtown, Connecticut, in 2012, proving the Sandy Hook massacre was an elaborate hoax (<http://www.snopes.com/info/news/sandyhoax.asp>), Snopes (7 February 2015).
90. "Limbaugh: Maybe the Mayan apocalypse made Adam Lanza do it" (https://www.salon.com/2012/12/20/limbaugh_maybe_the_mayan_apocalypse_made_adam_lanza_do_it/). 20 December 2012. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20180416134617/https://www.salon.com/2012/12/20/limbaugh_maybe_the_mayan_apocalypse_made_adam_lanza_do_it/) from the original on 16 April 2018. Retrieved 15 April 2018.
91. Nelson, Lars-Erik (4 January 1999). "Conspiracy Nuts Hit New Low With The Body Count" (<http://www.nydailynews.com/archives/opinions/conspiracy-nuts-hit-new-body-count-article-1.822876>). Daily News. New York. Retrieved 20 January 2015.
92. "The Clinton BS Files: "Lock her up" isn't really about emails – the right's been accusing the Clintons of murder for decades" (<http://www.salon.com/2016/08/29/the-clinton-bs-files-lock-her-up-isnt-really-about-emails-the-rights-been-accusing-the-clintons-of-murder-for-decades/>). Salon. 29 August 2016. Retrieved 7 August 2017.
93. Moore, Kayleigh (25 October 2018). "Investigating Rhetoric's of the 'Clinton Body Count'" (<https://medium.com/@kayleighmoore2803/investigating-rhetorics-of-the-clinton-body-count-403f037943d>). Medium. Retrieved 14 August 2019.
94. Philip Weiss (23 February 1997). "Clinton Crazy" (<https://www.nytimes.com/1997/02/23/magazine/clinton-crazy.html>). The New York Times.
95. "The People President Clinton Didn't Have to Pardon...Because They're All Dead" (<https://www.truthorfiction.com/clintonfriends/>). TruthOrFiction.com. 17 March 2015. Retrieved 17 May 2018.
96. "MSNBC News Host Joe Scarborough Criticized For Tweeting Conspiracy Theories Following Jeffrey Epstein's Apparent Suicide" (<https://www.newsweek.com/msnbc-news-host-joe-scarborough-criticized-tweeting-conspiracy-theories-following-jeffery-1453639>). Newsweek. 10 August 2019.
97. "Jeffrey Epstein: How conspiracy theories spread after financier's death" (<https://www.bbc.com/news/world-us-canada-49312746>). BBC News. 12 August 2019.
98. "History's greatest conspiracy theories" (<https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/2016/03/16/historys-greatest-conspiracy-theories/plastic-coffins-and-concentration-camps/>). The Daily Telegraph. 19 November 2008. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180430195609/https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/2016/03/16/historys-greatest-conspiracy-theories/plastic-coffins-and-concentration-camps/>) from the original on 30 April 2018. Retrieved 5 April 2018.

99. Van Onselen, Gareth (25 May 2016). "The top 10 bogus ANC conspiracy theories" (<https://www.businesslive.co.za/bd/opinion/columnists/2016-05-25-the-top-10-bogus-anc-conspiracy-theories/>). Business Live. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20171204171132/https://www.businesslive.co.za/bd/opinion/columnists/2016-05-25-the-top-10-bogus-anc-conspiracy-theories/>) from the original on 4 December 2017. Retrieved 24 June 2017.
00. Ndaba, Baldwin (8 September 2014). "Thuli a CIA spy, says deputy minister" (<http://www.iol.co.za/news/politics/thuli-a-cia-spy-says-deputy-minister-1747300>). IOL. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170529100856/http://www.iol.co.za/news/politics/thuli-a-cia-spy-says-deputy-minister-1747300>) from the original on 29 May 2017. Retrieved 24 June 2017.
01. Masoga, Elvis (3 October 2012). "Malema thrives on political conspiracy theories" (<http://www.sabc.co.za/news/a/b05583004cf16478beb0fea1cd5c70fe/Malema-thrives-on-political-conspiracy-theories-20121003>). South African Broadcasting Corporation.
02. David Aaronovitch (2010) [2009]. Voodoo Histories: How Conspiracy Theory Has Shaped the Modern World. Vintage. pp. 287–91.
03. David Aaronovitch (2010) [2009]. Voodoo Histories: How Conspiracy Theory Has Shaped the Modern World. Vintage. pp. 285–90.
04. "Trump Is Still Touting the Obama 'Birther' Conspiracy Theory Behind Closed Doors" (<https://www.yahoo.com/news/trump-still-touting-obama-apos-093042315.html>). Yahoo News. 29 November 2017. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20171129164320/https://www.yahoo.com/news/trump-still-touting-obama-apos-093042315.html>) from the original on 29 November 2017. Retrieved 29 November 2017.
05. "Trump Still Believes 'Birther' Obama Conspiracy" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20171201041624/http://www.msn.com/en-us/news/politics/trump-still-believes-birther-obama-conspiracy/ar-BBFTYaN>). Newsweek on MSN. 29 November 2017. Archived from the original (<https://www.msn.com/en-us/news/politics/trump-still-believes-birther-obama-conspiracy/ar-BBFTYaN>) on 1 December 2017. Retrieved 29 November 2017.
06. "Trump, Grand Wizard of Birtherism" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2016/09/19/opinion/trump-grand-wizard-of-birtherism.html>). The New York Times. 17 September 2016. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20171201044019/https://www.nytimes.com/2016/09/19/opinion/trump-grand-wizard-of-birtherism.html>) from the original on 1 December 2017. Retrieved 29 November 2017.
07. "Inside The Top Benghazi Conspiracy Theories That Refuse To Go Away" (<http://www.ibtimes.com/inside-top-benghazi-conspiracy-theories-refuse-go-away-1252671>). International Business Times. 11 May 2013. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170906092421/http://www.ibtimes.com/inside-to-p-benghazi-conspiracy-theories-refuse-go-away-1252671>) from the original on 6 September 2017. Retrieved 15 July 2017.
08. "Benghazi Conspiracy Theories Definitively Debunked. Again" (https://www.huffingtonpost.com/chris-weigant/benghazi-conspiracy-theor_b_6215662.html). HuffPost. 24 January 2015. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20170816075100/http://www.huffingtonpost.com/chris-weigant/benghazi-conspiracy-theor_b_6215662.html) from the original on 16 August 2017. Retrieved 15 July 2017.
09. "Rand Paul is a conspiracy theorist: Time for the world to call him what he is" (http://www.salon.com/2014/12/03/rand_paul_is_a_conspiracy_theorist_time_for_the_world_to_call_him_what_he_is/). Salon. 3 December 2014. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20170614062535/http://www.salon.com/2014/12/03/rand_paul_is_a_conspiracy_theorist_time_for_the_world_to_call_him_what_he_is/) from the original on 14 June 2017. Retrieved 15 July 2017.
10. Berlet, Chip (July 2012). "Collectivists, Communists, Labor Bosses, and Treason: The Tea Parties as Right-Wing Populist Counter-Subversion Panic". Critical Sociology. 38 (4): 565–87. doi:10.1177/0896920511434750 (<https://doi.org/10.1177%2F0896920511434750>). S2CID 144238367 (<https://api.semanticscholar.org/CorpusID:144238367>).

11. Berkowitz, Bill (2003), "Reframing the Enemy: 'Cultural Marxism', a Conspiracy Theory with an Anti-Semitic Twist, Is Being Pushed by Much of the American Right." Intelligence Report. Southern Poverty Law Center, Summer. "Archived copy" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20040207095318/http://www.splcenter.org/intel/intelreport/article.jsp?aid=53&printable=1>). Archived from the original (<http://www.splcenter.org/intel/intelreport/article.jsp?aid%3D53%26printable%3D1>) on 7 February 2004. Retrieved 7 February 2004.
12. "'Breivik manifesto' details chilling attack preparation" (<https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/world-europe-14267007>). BBC. 24 July 2011. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180826222931/https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/world-europe-14267007>) from the original on 26 August 2018. Retrieved 22 June 2018.
13. "What is the 'deep state'?" (<https://www.economist.com/blogs/economist-explains/2017/03/economist-explains-6>). The Economist. 9 March 2017. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20171222051752/https://www.economist.com/blogs/economist-explains/2017/03/economist-explains-6>) from the original on 22 December 2017. Retrieved 20 December 2017.
14. "What is the 'Deep State' and how does it influence Donald Trump?" (<https://www.independent.co.uk/news/world/americas/us-politics/deep-state-what-donald-trump-influence-us-president-control-public-intelligence-military-a7614311.html>). The Independent. 6 March 2017. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20171222104910/http://www.independent.co.uk/news/world/americas/us-politics/deep-state-what-donald-trump-influence-us-president-control-public-intelligence-military-a7614311.html>) from the original on 22 December 2017. Retrieved 20 December 2017.
15. "What Is the Deep State?" (<https://www.thenation.com/article/what-is-the-deep-state/>). The Nation. 17 February 2017. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20171222054731/https://www.thenation.com/article/what-is-the-deep-state/>) from the original on 22 December 2017. Retrieved 20 December 2017.
16. "Trump to Fight 'Deep State' With Secret, Private Spy Network Around the World?" (<https://www.yahoo.com/news/trump-fight-deep-state-secret-140626347.html>). Yahoo News. 6 December 2017. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20171206215123/https://www.yahoo.com/news/trump-fight-deep-state-secret-140626347.html>) from the original on 6 December 2017. Retrieved 6 December 2017.
17. "Deep State: How a Conspiracy Theory Went From Political Fringe to Mainstream" (<http://www.newsweek.com/deep-state-conspiracy-theory-trump-645376>). Newsweek. 2 August 2017. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170929180753/http://www.newsweek.com/deep-state-conspiracy-theory-trump-645376>) from the original on 29 September 2017. Retrieved 25 September 2017.
18. "Deep State: Inside Donald Trump's Paranoid Conspiracy Theory" (<https://www.rollingstone.com/culture/deep-state-inside-donald-trumps-paranoid-conspiracy-theory-w471375>). Rolling Stone. 9 March 2017. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20171120190749/http://www.rollingstone.com/culture/deep-state-inside-donald-trumps-paranoid-conspiracy-theory-w471375>) from the original on 20 November 2017. Retrieved 20 December 2017.
19. "Google shared conspiracy theories that sought to tie Texas shooter to antifa movement" (<https://www.usatoday.com/story/tech/news/2017/11/06/google-shared-conspiracy-theories-sought-tie-texas-shooter-antifa-movement/836624001/>). Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20171108063152/https://www.usatoday.com/story/tech/news/2017/11/06/google-shared-conspiracy-theories-sought-tie-texas-shooter-antifa-movement/836624001/>) from the original on 8 November 2017. Retrieved 6 November 2017.
20. Ansari, Talal (5 November 2017). "Here Is The Misinformation Going Around About The Texas Church Shooting" (<https://www.buzzfeed.com/talalansari/fake-news-about-the-texas-church-shooting>). BuzzFeed News. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20171105235520/https://www.buzzfeed.com/talalansari/fake-news-about-the-texas-church-shooting>) from the original on 5 November 2017. Retrieved 6 November 2017.
21. Mikkelson, David (5 November 2017). "Was the Texas Church Shooter an Antifa Member Who Vowed to Start Civil War?" (<https://www.snopes.com/texas-church-shooter-antifa>). Snopes.com. Retrieved 6 November 2017.

22. Griffin, Miriam T (2013). Nero: the end of a dynasty. London: Routledge. ISBN 978-0-415-21464-3.
23. Korte, Gregory; Mider, Zachary (4 October 2019). "Trump's Story of Hunter Biden's Chinese Venture Is Full of Holes" (<https://www.bloomberg.com/news/articles/2019-10-03/trump-s-story-of-hunter-biden-s-chinese-venture-is-full-of-holes>). Retrieved 14 October 2019.
24. Mayer, Jane (4 October 2019). "The Invention of the Conspiracy Theory on Biden and Ukraine" (<https://www.newyorker.com/news/news-desk/the-invention-of-the-conspiracy-theory-on-biden-and-ukraine>). The New Yorker. ISSN 0028-792X (<https://www.worldcat.org/issn/0028-792X>). Retrieved 14 October 2019. Mayer, Jane (4 October 2019). "The Invention of the Conspiracy Theory on Biden and Ukraine" (<https://www.newyorker.com/news/news-desk/the-invention-of-the-conspiracy-theory-on-biden-and-ukraine>). The New Yorker. ISSN 0028-792X (<https://www.worldcat.org/issn/0028-792X>). Retrieved 14 October 2019.
25. "Rudy Found Hunter Biden Emails That Totally Weren't Stolen by Russia" (<https://nymag.com/intelligencer/2020/10/biden-emails-burisma-rudy-giulliani-russian-hackers-ukraine-new-york-post.html>). NY Mag. NY Mag. Retrieved 15 October 2020.
26. "Gingrich Pushes 'Soros Stole the Election' Conspiracy Theory on Fox News" (<https://www.haaretz.com/jewish/gingrich-soros-election-fox-news-1.9297734>). Haaretz. Retrieved 12 January 2021.
27. "Half of Americans Believe in Medical Conspiracy Theories" (<https://www.npr.org/sections/health-shots/2014/03/19/291405689/half-of-americans-believe-in-medical-conspiracy-theories>). NPR. 19 March 2014. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180107041515/https://www.npr.org/sections/health-shots/2014/03/19/291405689/half-of-americans-believe-in-medical-conspiracy-theories>) from the original on 7 January 2018. Retrieved 5 April 2018.
28. "Cures and Cons" (<https://www.scientificamerican.com/article/cures-and-cons/>). Scientific American. 1 March 2006. Retrieved 7 June 2019.
29. "'Paul McCartney is dead' and 10 more conspiracy theories" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20171201035257/http://www.theweek.co.uk/conspiracy-theories/62926/paul-mccartney-is-dead-and-10-more-conspiracy-theories>). The Week. 21 August 2017. Archived from the original (<http://www.theweek.co.uk/conspiracy-theories/62926/paul-mccartney-is-dead-and-10-more-conspiracy-theories>) on 1 December 2017. Retrieved 24 November 2017.
30. "Steven Seagal Gets a Shot at Stardom" (https://articles.latimes.com/1988-02-14/entertainment/ca-42829_1_steven-seagal/4). The Los Angeles Times. 14 February 1988. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20171204003156/http://articles.latimes.com/1988-02-14/entertainment/ca-42829_1_steven-seagal/4) from the original on 4 December 2017. Retrieved 27 September 2017.
31. "Separating Fact from Fiction, The CIA and AIDS" (http://content.time.com/time/specials/packages/article/0,28804,1860871_1860876_1861031,00.html). Time. 2016. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20160422120859/http://content.time.com/time/specials/packages/article/0,28804,1860871_1860876_1861031,00.html) from the original on 22 April 2016. Retrieved 27 April 2016.
32. Kruszelnicki, Karl S (15 March 2007). "Dr Karl's Great Moments in Science. CIA did (not) make AIDS?" (<http://www.abc.net.au/science/articles/2007/03/15/1871533.htm>). Australian Broadcasting Corporation. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20160504054711/http://www.abc.net.au/science/articles/2007/03/15/1871533.htm>) from the original on 4 May 2016. Retrieved 27 April 2016.
33. Horowitz, Leonard G. (1996). Emerging Viruses : AIDS and Ebola – Nature, Accident or Intentional? (<https://archive.org/details/emergingvirusesa00horo>). Medical Veritas International. ISBN 9780923550127. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170731184414/https://archive.org/details/emergingvirusesa00horo>) from the original on 31 July 2017. Retrieved 2 August 2019.
34. "Farrakhan claims Ebola invented to kill off blacks" (<http://www.foxnews.com/world/2014/10/02/farrakhan-claims-ebola-invented-to-kill-off-blacks.html>). Fox News Channel. 2 October 2014. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20160504145911/http://www.foxnews.com/world/2014/10/02/farrakhan-claims-ebola-invented-to-kill-off-blacks.html>) from the original on 4 May 2016. Retrieved 2 May 2016.

35. "China coronavirus: Misinformation spreads online about origin and scale" (<https://www.bbc.com/news/blogs-trending-51271037>). BBC News. 30 January 2020. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20200204163412/https://www.bbc.com/news/blogs-trending-51271037>) from the original on 4 February 2020. Retrieved 10 February 2020.
36. Andersen KG, Rambaut A, Lipkin WI, Holmes EC, Garry RF (April 2020). "The proximal origin of SARS-CoV-2" (<https://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/pmc/articles/PMC7095063>). Nature Medicine. 26 (4): 450–452. doi:10.1038/s41591-020-0820-9 (<https://doi.org/10.1038/s41591-020-0820-9>). PMC 7095063 (<https://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/pmc/articles/PMC7095063>). PMID 32284615 (<https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/32284615>).
37. Cookson C (14 February 2020). "Coronavirus was not genetically engineered in a Wuhan lab, says expert" (<https://www.ft.com/content/a6392ee6-4ec6-11ea-95a0-43d18ec715f5>). Financial Times. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20200214112755/https://www.ft.com/content/a6392ee6-4ec6-11ea-95a0-43d18ec715f5>) from the original on 14 February 2020. Retrieved 14 February 2020.
38. Calisher, Charles; Carroll, Dennis; Colwell, Rita; Corley, Ronald B; Daszak, Peter; Drosten, Christian; Enjuanes, Luis; Farrar, Jeremy; Field, Hume; Golding, Josie; Gorbalenya, Alexander; Haagmans, Bart; Hughes, James M; Karesh, William B; Keusch, Gerald T; Lam, Sai Kit; Lubroth, Juan; Mackenzie, John S; Madoff, Larry; Mazet, Jonna; Palese, Peter; Perlman, Stanley; Poon, Leo; Roizman, Bernard; Saif, Linda; Subbarao, Kanta; Turner, Mike (19 February 2020). "Statement in support of the scientists, public health professionals, and medical professionals of China combatting COVID-19" (<https://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/pmc/articles/PMC7159294>). The Lancet. 395 (10226): e42–e43. doi:10.1016/S0140-6736(20)30418-9 (https://doi.org/10.1016/S0140-6736\(20\)30418-930418-9)). PMC 7159294 (<https://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/pmc/articles/PMC7159294>). PMID 32087122 (<https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/32087122>).
39. Bryner J. "The coronavirus did not escape from a lab. Here's how we know" (<https://www.livescience.com/coronavirus-not-human-made-in-lab.html>). Live Science. Retrieved 27 March 2020.
40. Yates K, Pauls J. "Online claims that Chinese scientists stole coronavirus from Winnipeg lab have 'no factual basis'" (<https://www.cbc.ca/news/canada/manitoba/china-coronavirus-online-chatter-conspiracy-1.5442376>). Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. Event occurs at 27 January 2020. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20200208134329/https://www.cbc.ca/news/canada/manitoba/china-coronavirus-online-chatter-conspiracy-1.5442376>) from the original on 8 February 2020. Retrieved 8 February 2020.
41. Yates K, Pauls J. "Chinese translation: 中国科学家从温尼伯实验室中窃取 冠状病毒的网络传言'没有事实根据'" (<https://www.cbc.ca/news/canada/%E4%B8%AD%E5%9B%BD%E7%A7%91%E5%AD%A6%E5%AE%B6%E4%BB%8E%E6%B8%A9%E5%B0%BC%E4%BC%AF%E5%AE%9E%E9%AA%8C%E5%AE%A4%E4%B8%AD%E7%AA%83%E5%8F%96-%E5%86%A0%E7%8A%B6%E7%97%85%E6%AF%92%E7%9A%84%E7%BD%91%E7%BB%9C%E4%BC%A0%E8%A8%80-%E6%B2%A1%E6%9C%89%E4%BA%8B%E5%AE%9E%E6%A0%B9%E6%8D%AE-1.5448165>). Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. Event occurs at 27 January 2020. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20200201040447/https://www.cbc.ca/news/canada/%E4%B8%AD%E5%9B%BD%E7%A7%91%E5%AD%A6%E5%AE%B6%E4%BB%8E%E6%B8%A9%E5%B0%BC%E4%BC%AF%E5%AE%9E%E9%AA%8C%E5%AE%A4%E4%B8%AD%E7%AA%83%E5%8F%96-%E5%86%A0%E7%8A%B6%E7%97%85%E6%AF%92%E7%9A%84%E7%BD%91%E7%BB%9C%E4%BC%A0%E8%A8%80-%E6%B2%A1%E6%9C%89%E4%BA%8B%E5%AE%9E%E6%A0%B9%E6%8D%AE-1.5448165>) from the original on 1 February 2020. Retrieved 8 February 2020.
42. Spencer SH (28 January 2020). "Coronavirus Wasn't Sent by 'Spy' From Canada" (<https://www.factcheck.org/2020/01/coronavirus-wasnt-sent-by-spy-from-canada/>). Factcheck.org. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20200130160015/https://www.factcheck.org/2020/01/coronavirus-wasnt-sent-by-spy-from-canada/>) from the original on 30 January 2020. Retrieved 8 February 2020.

43. "Experts debunk fringe theory linking China's coronavirus to weapons research" (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/world/2020/01/29/experts-debunk-fringe-theory-linking-chinas-coronavirus-weapons-research/>). The Washington Post. 29 January 2020. Archived (<https://archive.today/20200131185716/https://www.washingtonpost.com/world/2020/01/29/experts-debunk-fringe-theory-linking-chinas-coronavirus-weapons-research/>) from the original on 31 January 2020. Retrieved 2 February 2020.
44. "China's rulers see the coronavirus as a chance to tighten their grip" (<https://www.economist.com/china/2020/02/08/chinas-rulers-see-the-coronavirus-as-a-chance-to-tighten-their-grip>). The Economist. 8 February 2020. Archived (<https://archive.today/20200229034330/https://www.economist.com/china/2020/02/08/chinas-rulers-see-the-coronavirus-as-a-chance-to-tighten-their-grip>) from the original on 29 February 2020. Retrieved 29 February 2020.
45. Kao J, Li MS (26 March 2020). "How China Built a Twitter Propaganda Machine Then Let It Loose on Coronavirus" (<https://www.propublica.org/article/how-china-built-a-twitter-propaganda-machine-then-let-it-loose-on-coronavirus>). ProPublica. Retrieved 31 March 2020.
46. Edmunds DR (18 March 2020). "Coronavirus is a Zionist plot, say Turkish politicians, media, public" (<https://www.jpost.com/Diaspora/Antisemitism/Coronavirus-is-a-Zionist-plot-say-Turkish-politicians-media-public-621393>). The Jerusalem Post.
47. "Coronavirus: Antisemitism" (<https://www.adl.org/blog/coronavirus-antisemitism>). ADL. 22 April 2020. Retrieved 25 May 2020.
48. Mantyla, Kyle (16 March 2020). "Rodney Howard-Browne: Coronavirus Pandemic Is a Globalist Plot to Kill People With Vaccines" (<https://www.rightwingwatch.org/post/rodney-howard-browne-coronavirus-pandemic-is-a-globalist-plot-to-kill-people-with-vaccines/>). Right Wing Watch. Retrieved 4 December 2020.
49. Parveen N (5 April 2020). "Police investigate UK far-right groups over anti-Muslim coronavirus claims" (<https://www.theguardian.com/world/2020/apr/05/police-investigate-uk-far-right-groups-over-anti-muslim-coronavirus-claims/>). The Guardian.
50. "Islamophobes React to Coronavirus Pandemic with Anti-Muslim Bigotry" (<https://www.adl.org/blog/islamophobes-react-to-coronavirus-pandemic-with-anti-muslim-bigotry>). 30 April 2020. Retrieved 25 May 2020.
51. Broderick R (23 January 2020). "QAnon Supporters And Anti-Vaxxers Are Spreading A Hoax That Bill Gates Created The Coronavirus" (<https://www.buzzfeednews.com/article/ryanhatesthis/qanon-supporters-and-anti-vaxxers-are-spreading-a-hoax-that>). BuzzFeed News. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20200130075624/https://www.buzzfeednews.com/article/ryanhatesthis/qanon-supporters-and-anti-vaxxers-are-spreading-a-hoax-that>) from the original on 30 January 2020. Retrieved 8 February 2020.
52. Cellan-Jones R (26 February 2020). "Coronavirus: Fake news is spreading fast" (<https://www.bbc.com/news/technology-51646309>). BBC. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20200317062547/https://www.bbc.com/news/technology-51646309>) from the original on 17 March 2020. Retrieved 20 March 2020.
53. Waterson, Jim (24 April 2020). "Revealed: former Vodafone executive in 5G conspiracy video is UK pastor" (<https://www.theguardian.com/world/2020/apr/24/vodafone-exec-5g-coronavirus-conspiracy-theory-video-revealed-pastor-luton-jonathon-james>). The Guardian. Retrieved 24 April 2020.
54. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (2001). "Recommendations for using fluoride to prevent and control dental caries in the United States" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20070208171020/http://www.cdc.gov/mmwr/preview/mmwrhtml/rr5014a1.htm>). MMWR Recomm Rep. 50 (RR-14): 1–42. PMID 11521913 (<https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/11521913>). Archived from the original (<http://cdc.gov/mmwr/preview/mmwrhtml/rr5014a1.htm>) on 8 February 2007. Lay summary (http://cdc.gov/fluoridation/guidelines/tooth_decay.htm) – CDC (9 August 2007).

55. Armfield JM (2007). "When public action undermines public health: a critical examination of anti-fluoridationist literature" (<https://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/pmc/articles/PMC2222595>). Aust New Zealand Health Policy. 4 (1): 25. doi:10.1186/1743-8462-4-25 (<https://doi.org/10.1186%2F1743-8462-4-25>). PMC 2222595 (<https://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/pmc/articles/PMC2222595>). PMID 18067684 (<https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/18067684>).
56. Freeze RA, Lehr JH (2009). "Fluorophobia". The Fluoride Wars: How a Modest Public Health Measure Became America's Longest-Running Political Melodrama. John Wiley & Sons. pp. 127–69. ISBN 978-0-470-44833-5.
57. Murray N. Rothbard (January 1993). "Fluoridation Revisited" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20140313192649/http://archive.lewrockwell.com/rothbard/rothbard85.html>). The Rothbard-Rockwell Report. Archived from the original (<http://archive.lewrockwell.com/rothbard/rothbard85.html>) on 13 March 2014.
58. "Donald Trump Has Finally Erased the Line Between Conservatism and Conspiracy Theories" (<http://nymag.com/daily/intelligencer/2017/08/trump-erases-the-line-between-conservatism-and-conspiracy.html>). New York. 1 August 2017. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170804102527/http://nymag.com/daily/intelligencer/2017/08/trump-erases-the-line-between-conservatism-and-conspiracy.html>) from the original on 4 August 2017. Retrieved 6 August 2017.
59. Triggles, Nick (24 May 2010). "MMR doctor struck off register" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20100526020901/http://news.bbc.co.uk/1/hi/health/8695267.stm>). BBC News. Archived from the original (<http://news.bbc.co.uk/1/hi/health/8695267.stm>) on 26 May 2010. Retrieved 24 May 2010.
60. "Rob Schneider Links Autism To Vaccines, Rails Against Big Government" (https://www.huffingtonpost.com/2012/07/01/rob-schneider-links-autism-vaccines_n_1641922.html). HuffPost. 2 July 2012. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20170726165254/http://www.huffingtonpost.com/2012/07/01/rob-schneider-links-autism-vaccines_n_1641922.html) from the original on 26 July 2017. Retrieved 26 June 2017.
61. "Jim Carrey, Please Shut Up About Vaccines" (<http://time.com/3944067/jim-carrey-vaccines/>). Time. 1 July 2015. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170707195748/http://time.com/3944067/jim-carrey-vaccines/>) from the original on 7 July 2017. Retrieved 26 June 2017.
62. "John Oliver blasts Trump as a 'human megaphone' for the anti-vaccine movement" (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/news/to-your-health/wp/2017/06/26/john-oliver-dubs-trump-a-human-megaphone-for-the-anti-vaccine-movement/>). The Washington Post. 26 June 2017. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170626173031/https://www.washingtonpost.com/news/to-your-health/wp/2017/06/26/john-oliver-dubs-trump-a-human-megaphone-for-the-anti-vaccine-movement/>) from the original on 26 June 2017. Retrieved 26 June 2017.
63. "Donald Trump says vaccinations are causing an autism 'epidemic'" (<https://www.independent.co.uk/news/world/americas/donald-trump-says-vaccinations-are-causing-an-autism-epidemic-10505087.html>). The Independent. 17 September 2015. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170809225857/http://www.independent.co.uk/news/world/americas/donald-trump-says-vaccinations-are-causing-an-autism-epidemic-10505087.html>) from the original on 9 August 2017. Retrieved 3 September 2017.
64. "Germany vaccination: Fines plan as measles cases rise" (<https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/world-europe-40056680>). BBC. 26 May 2017. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180404194315/http://www.bbc.co.uk/news/world-europe-40056680>) from the original on 4 April 2018. Retrieved 22 June 2018.
65. "Watch John Oliver Explore How Trump, Memes Fueled Anti-Vaccine Movement" (<https://www.rollingstone.com/tv/news/watch-john-oliver-explore-how-trump-memes-fueled-anti-vaccine-movement-w489715>). Rolling Stone. 26 June 2017. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170829200018/http://www.rollingstone.com/tv/news/watch-john-oliver-explore-how-trump-memes-fueled-anti-vaccine-movement-w489715>) from the original on 29 August 2017. Retrieved 3 September 2017.
66. "Should Vaccines Be Required? In Italy, Parents Can Now Be Fined for Skipping Kids' Shots" (<http://www.newsweek.com/vaccines-italy-parents-fined-627319>). Newsweek. 19 June 2017. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170626205516/http://www.newsweek.com/vaccines-italy-parents-fined-627319>) from the original on 26 June 2017. Retrieved 26 June 2017.

67. "Measles outbreak in maps and graphics" (<https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/health-22277186>). BBC. 2 May 2013. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180727222410/https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/health-22277186>) from the original on 27 July 2018. Retrieved 22 June 2018.
68. "Nigeria's polio campaign undermined by conspiracy theories" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170802175105/http://english.alarabiya.net/articles/2013/02/26/268358.html>). Al Arabiya News Channel. 26 February 2013. Archived from the original (<http://english.alarabiya.net/articles/2013/02/26/268358.html>) on 2 August 2017. Retrieved 2 August 2017.
69. "Vaccines, the CIA, and how the War on Terror helped spread polio in Nigeria" (<https://www.theguardian.com/science/the-lay-scientist/2011/jul/15/1>). The Guardian. 15 July 2011. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170802172602/https://www.theguardian.com/science/the-lay-scientist/2011/jul/15/1>) from the original on 2 August 2017. Retrieved 2 August 2017.
70. "Pakistan bomb blast: why health workers keep getting attacked" (<https://www.csmonitor.com/World/2013/1007/Pakistan-bomb-blast-why-health-workers-keep-getting-attacked>). The Christian Science Monitor. 7 October 2013. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20171201041129/https://www.csmonitor.com/World/2013/1007/Pakistan-bomb-blast-why-health-workers-keep-getting-attacked>) from the original on 1 December 2017. Retrieved 24 November 2017.
71. "After chilly forecast, Trump tweets U.S. 'could use a little bit of that good old Global Warming'" (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/news/energy-environment/wp/2017/12/28/after-chilly-forecast-trump-tweets-u-s-could-use-a-little-bit-of-that-good-old-global-warming/>). The Washington Post. 28 December 2017. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20171229035203/https://www.washingtonpost.com/news/energy-environment/wp/2017/12/28/after-chilly-forecast-trump-tweets-u-s-could-use-a-little-bit-of-that-good-old-global-warming/>) from the original on 29 December 2017. Retrieved 29 December 2017.
72. "Yes, Donald Trump did call climate change a Chinese hoax" (<http://www.politifact.com/truth-o-meter/statements/2016/jun/03/hillary-clinton/yes-donald-trump-did-call-climate-change-chinese-h/>). PolitiFact.com. 3 June 2016. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20161205214741/http://www.politifact.com/truth-o-meter/statements/2016/jun/03/hillary-clinton/yes-donald-trump-did-call-climate-change-chinese-h/>) from the original on 5 December 2016. Retrieved 2 December 2016.
73. "Fiddling with global warming conspiracy theories while Rome burns" (<https://www.theguardian.com/environment/climate-consensus-97-per-cent/2015/feb/11/fiddling-with-global-warming-conspiracies-while-rome-burns>). The Guardian. 11 February 2011. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170618015905/https://www.theguardian.com/environment/climate-consensus-97-per-cent/2015/feb/11/fiddling-with-global-warming-conspiracies-while-rome-burns>) from the original on 18 June 2017. Retrieved 28 June 2017.
74. "The 5 most deranged conspiracy theories from GOP mega-donors' bizarre climate conference" (http://www.salon.com/2017/03/28/the-5-most-deranged-conspiracy-theories-from-gop-mega-donors-bizarro-climate-conference_partner/). Salon. 29 March 2017. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20170617215642/http://www.salon.com/2017/03/28/the-5-most-deranged-conspiracy-theories-from-gop-mega-donors-bizarro-climate-conference_partner/) from the original on 17 June 2017. Retrieved 28 June 2017.
75. "Illuminati, Mind Control and Hurricanes: Conspiracy Theories Follow HAARP" (<http://www.ibtimes.co.uk/illuminati-mind-control-hurricanes-conspiracy-theories-follow-haarp-1448711>). International Business Times. 30 July 2015. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170803091535/http://www.ibtimes.co.uk/illuminati-mind-control-hurricanes-conspiracy-theories-follow-haarp-1448711>) from the original on 3 August 2017. Retrieved 27 June 2017.
76. Pappas, Stephanie (22 May 2014). "Conspiracy Theories Abound as U.S. Military Closes HAARP" (<https://www.nbcnews.com/science/weird-science/conspiracy-theories-abound-u-s-military-closes-haarp-n112576>). NBC News. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20171128132159/https://www.nbcnews.com/science/weird-science/conspiracy-theories-abound-u-s-military-closes-haarp-n112576>) from the original on 28 November 2017. Retrieved 29 November 2017.

77. "History's greatest conspiracy theories" (<https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/2016/03/16/historys-greatest-conspiracy-theories/haarp/>). The Daily Telegraph. 19 November 2008. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180430195600/https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/2016/03/16/historys-greatest-conspiracy-theories/haarp/>) from the original on 30 April 2018. Retrieved 5 April 2018.
78. Eden, Philip. "The day they made it rain" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170719163634/http://www.weatheronline.co.uk/reports/philip-eden/Lynmouth-Flood-man-made.htm>). WeatherOnline. Archived from the original (<http://www.weatheronline.co.uk/reports/philip-eden/Lynmouth-Flood-man-made.htm>) on 19 July 2017. Retrieved 20 July 2017.
79. "RAF rainmakers 'caused 1952 flood'" (<https://www.theguardian.com/uk/2001/aug/30/sillyseason.physicalsciences>). The Guardian. 30 August 2001. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20150520150540/http://www.theguardian.com/uk/2001/aug/30/sillyseason.physicalsciences>) from the original on 20 May 2015. Retrieved 20 July 2017.
80. Maqbool, Aleem (21 October 2010). "Is Pakistan in denial about tackling its problems?" (http://news.bbc.co.uk/2/hi/programmes/from_our_own_correspondent/9110766.stm). BBC News. Archived (http://web.archive.org/web/20101115180353/http://news.bbc.co.uk/2/hi/programmes/from_our_own_correspondent/9110766.stm) from the original on 15 November 2010. Retrieved 15 November 2010.
81. "History's greatest conspiracy theories" (<https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/2016/03/16/historys-greatest-conspiracy-theories/project-mk-ultra/>). The Daily Telegraph. 19 November 2008. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180430195825/https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/2016/03/16/historys-greatest-conspiracy-theories/project-mk-ultra/>) from the original on 30 April 2018. Retrieved 5 April 2018.
82. "Why bad ideas refuse to die" (<https://www.theguardian.com/science/2016/jun/28/why-bad-ideas-refuse-die>). The Guardian. 28 June 2016. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20171123120305/http://www.theguardian.com/science/2016/jun/28/why-bad-ideas-refuse-die>) from the original on 23 November 2017. Retrieved 24 November 2017.
83. "Do they really think the earth is flat?" (<http://news.bbc.co.uk/1/hi/magazine/7540427.stm>). BBC. 4 August 2008. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170729172557/http://news.bbc.co.uk/1/hi/magazine/7540427.stm>) from the original on 29 July 2017. Retrieved 4 July 2017.
84. "Flat Earth Society Says Evidence of Round Planet Part of Vast Conspiracy Theory" (https://www.huffingtonpost.com/2012/10/29/flat-earth-society-psychology_n_2038198.html). HuffPost. 29 October 2012. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20170707094809/http://www.huffingtonpost.com/2012/10/29/flat-earth-society-psychology_n_2038198.html) from the original on 7 July 2017. Retrieved 4 July 2017.
85. "MARK OF THE BEAST: Secret plan to 'implant us all with ID chips by 2017'" (<http://www.express.co.uk/news/weird/703856/MARK-OF-THE-BEAST-Secret-plan-to-implant-us-all-with-ID-chips-by-2017>). Daily Express. 25 August 2016. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170703111750/http://www.express.co.uk/news/weird/703856/MARK-OF-THE-BEAST-Secret-plan-to-implant-us-all-with-ID-chips-by-2017>) from the original on 3 July 2017. Retrieved 27 June 2017.
86. "Vladimir Putin is advised by ALIENS' Councillor blames space reptiles for Ukraine crisis" (<http://www.express.co.uk/news/world/559949/Vladimir-Putin-Simon-Parkes-alien-Ukraine-Russia-Labour-councillor>). Daily Express. 23 February 2015. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170802204001/http://www.express.co.uk/news/world/559949/Vladimir-Putin-Simon-Parkes-alien-Ukraine-Russia-Labour-councillor>) from the original on 2 August 2017. Retrieved 27 June 2017.
87. Gaughen, Patrick. "Structural Inefficiency in the Early Twentieth Century: Studies in the Aluminum and Incandescent Lamp Markets" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20050224031701/http://www.andover.edu/aep/papers/610/pgaughen98.pdf>) (PDF). Archived from the original (<http://www.andover.edu/aep/papers/610/pgaughen98.pdf>) (PDF) on 24 February 2005. Retrieved 27 January 2015.
88. Tutt, Keith (2003). The Scientist, The Madman, The Thief and Their Lightbulb: The Search for Free Energy (https://books.google.com/books?id=DMwSmB6_94QC). UK: Simon & Schuster UK. ISBN 978-0684020907.

89. B. King, Moray (2005). The Energy Machine of T. Henry Moray: Zero-Point Energy & Pulsed Plasma Physics (<https://books.google.com/books?id=eD1GeJ1UZ-UC&pg=PA13>). Adventures Unlimited Press. p. 13. ISBN 978-1931882422.
90. Edwards, Tony (1 December 1996). "End of road for car that ran on Water" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20121022022854/http://groups.google.com/group/sci.energy.hydrogen/msg/8ee0acb80e943e21?hl=endc310437cd1cee1e7&>). The Sunday Times. Archived from the original (<https://groups.google.com/group/sci.energy.hydrogen/msg/8ee0acb80e943e21?hl=endc310437cd1cee1e7&>) on 22 October 2012. Retrieved 23 March 2013 – via Google Groups.
91. Vallée, Jacques F (1994). "Anatomy of a Hoax: The Philadelphia Experiment Fifty Years Later" (http://web.archive.org/web/20091222023540/http://www.scientificexploration.org/journal/jse_08_1_vallee.pdf) (PDF). Journal of Scientific Exploration. 8 (1): 47–71. Archived from the original (http://www.scientificexploration.org/journal/jse_08_1_vallee.pdf) (PDF) on 22 December 2009.
92. "History's greatest conspiracy theories" (<https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/picturegalleries/howaboutthat/3477148/The-greatest-conspiracy-theories-in-history.html?image=5>). The Telegraph. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/201301211104948/http://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/picturegalleries/howaboutthat/3477148/The-greatest-conspiracy-theories-in-history.html?image=5>) from the original on 21 January 2013. Retrieved 29 July 2013.
93. Allen, Robert; Vogel, Peter (June–July 1996). "America's Dark Secret: The Port Chicago Disaster" (<http://cruinthe.tripod.com/nexus/articles/portchicago.html>). Nexus Magazine. Vol. 3 no. 4. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20150107000000/http://cruinthe.tripod.com/nexus/articles/portchicago.html>) from the original on 7 January 2015. Retrieved 27 January 2015.
94. "Hugo Chavez Says U.S. Hit Haiti With 'Earthquake Weapon'" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20100127200732/http://www.foxnews.com/story/0,2933,583588,00.html>). Fox News Channel. 7 April 2010. Archived from the original (<http://www.foxnews.com/story/0,2933,583588,00.html>) on 27 January 2010. Retrieved 3 August 2010.
95. Yan, Laura (4 March 2018). "Mind Games: The Tortured Lives of 'Targeted Individuals'" (<https://www.wired.com/story/mind-games-the-tortured-lives-of-targeted-individuals/>). Wired. ISSN 1059-1028 (<https://www.worldcat.org/issn/1059-1028>). Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20181102204240/http://www.wired.com/story/mind-games-the-tortured-lives-of-targeted-individuals/>) from the original on 2 November 2018. Retrieved 19 December 2018.
96. Brain Invaders (<https://www.imdb.com/title/tt2556422/>), archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170211220512/http://www.imdb.com/title/tt2556422/>) from the original on 11 February 2017, retrieved 31 December 2018
97. Mind Control (<https://www.imdb.com/title/tt8943646/>), retrieved 31 December 2018
98. "Did the middle ages not really happen?" (<https://www.straightdope.com/columns/read/2992/did-the-middle-ages-not-really-happen/>). The Straight Dope. 22 April 2011. Retrieved 8 January 2020.
99. "King Arthur was really a Russian, say Slavs" (<https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/worldnews/1316610/King-Arthur-was-really-a-Russian-say-Slavs.html>). The Daily Telegraph. 19 April 2001. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180813110002/https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/worldnews/1316610/King-Arthur-was-really-a-Russian-say-Slavs.html>) from the original on 13 August 2018. Retrieved 5 April 2018.
00. "Stunts! Bumps! Fake Trumps! 25 pop-culture myths too weird to be true" (<https://www.theguardian.com/tv-and-radio/2017/dec/02/pop-culture-myths-friends-melania-nicki-minaj>). The Guardian. 2 December 2017. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20171202074206/https://www.theguardian.com/tv-and-radio/2017/dec/02/pop-culture-myths-friends-melania-nicki-minaj>) from the original on 2 December 2017. Retrieved 2 December 2017.
01. "Profile: Gary McKinnon" (<https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/uk-19946902>). BBC. 14 December 2012. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180410082031/http://www.bbc.co.uk/news/uk-19946902>) from the original on 10 April 2018. Retrieved 22 June 2018.

02. "16 Batshit Space Conspiracy Theories That Will Freak You The Fuck Out" (<https://www.buzzfeed.com/hilarywardle/in-space-only-italian-radio-operators-can-hear-you-scream>). Buzzfeed News. 1 March 2017. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170714224713/https://www.buzzfeed.com/hilarywardle/in-space-only-italian-radio-operators-can-hear-you-scream>) from the original on 14 July 2017. Retrieved 20 July 2017.
03. "The man whose biblical doomsday claim has some nervously eyeing 23 Sept" (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/news/acts-of-faith/wp/2017/09/20/the-christian-numerologist-whose-biblical-doomsday-claim-has-some-nervously-eyeing-sept-23/>). The Washington Post. 20 September 2017. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170923081540/https://www.washingtonpost.com/news/acts-of-faith/wp/2017/09/20/the-christian-numerologist-whose-biblical-doomsday-claim-has-some-nervously-eyeing-sept-23/>) from the original on 23 September 2017. Retrieved 18 November 2017.
04. "Will 2017 solar eclipse cause secret planet 'Nibiru' to destroy Earth next month? (No, but conspiracy theorists think so)" (<https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/0/will-2017-solar-eclipse-cause-secret-planet-called-nibiru-destroy/>). The Daily Telegraph. 20 August 2017. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170815171355/http://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/0/will-2017-solar-eclipse-cause-secret-planet-called-nibiru-destroy/>) from the original on 15 August 2017. Retrieved 5 April 2018.
05. "Please stop annoying this NASA scientist with your ridiculous Planet X doomsday theories" (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/news/speaking-of-science/wp/2017/11/18/please-stop-annoying-this-nasa-scientist-with-your-ridiculous-planet-x-doomsday-theories/>). The Washington Post. 18 November 2017. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20171228170417/https://www.washingtonpost.com/news/speaking-of-science/wp/2017/11/18/please-stop-annoying-this-nasa-scientist-with-your-ridiculous-planet-x-doomsday-theories/>) from the original on 28 December 2017. Retrieved 18 November 2017.
06. MAX LONDBERG (2017). "Conspiracy theorists use the Bible to claim the eclipse is a sign of the apocalypse" (<http://www.kansascity.com/news/nation-world/article166475397.html>). The Kansas City Star. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170813133715/http://www.kansascity.com/news/nation-world/article166475397.html>) from the original on 13 August 2017. Retrieved 21 August 2017. "Paul Begley says there is "overwhelming evidence that Planet X will destroy the Earth in 2017"."
07. Avi Selk (2017). "Armageddon via imaginary planet has been pushed back – yet again – to November" (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/amhtml/news/acts-of-faith/wp/2017/10/28/armageddon-via-imaginary-planet-has-been-pushed-back-yet-again-to-november/>). The Washington Post. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20171028194302/https://www.washingtonpost.com/amhtml/news/acts-of-faith/wp/2017/10/28/armageddon-via-imaginary-planet-has-been-pushed-back-yet-again-to-november/>) from the original on 28 October 2017. Retrieved 29 October 2017.
08. Dan Carson. "10 Sports Conspiracy Theories That Are Totally True" (<http://bleacherreport.com/articles/1622877-10-sports-conspiracy-theories-that-are-totally-true/page/2>). Bleacher Report. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20150509074937/http://bleacherreport.com/articles/1622877-10-sports-conspiracy-theories-that-are-totally-true/page/2>) from the original on 9 May 2015. Retrieved 6 October 2014.
09. Dan Carson. "10 Sports Conspiracy Theories That Are Totally True" (<http://bleacherreport.com/articles/1622877-10-sports-conspiracy-theories-that-are-totally-true/page/10>). Bleacher Report. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20150509092525/http://bleacherreport.com/articles/1622877-10-sports-conspiracy-theories-that-are-totally-true/page/10>) from the original on 9 May 2015. Retrieved 6 October 2014.
10. "History's greatest conspiracy theories" (<https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/2016/03/16/historys-greatest-conspiracy-theories/the-disappearance-of-shergar/>). The Daily Telegraph. 19 November 2008. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180430195801/https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/2016/03/16/historys-greatest-conspiracy-theories/the-disappearance-of-shergar/>) from the original on 30 April 2018. Retrieved 5 April 2018.
11. Roeper, Richard (2008). Debunked!: Conspiracy Theories, Urban Legends, and Evil Plots of the 21st Century (<https://books.google.com/books?id=rEJp00sYu7AC&pg=PA80>). Chicago Review Press. p. 80. ISBN 978-1-55652-970-2.

12. "Moyes – UEFA hot balls cost us" (<http://www1.skysports.com/football/news/11671/7590220/moyes-uefa-hot-balls-cost-us>). SkySports. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20140314191251/http://www1.skysports.com/football/news/11671/7590220/moyes-uefa-hot-balls-cost-us>) from the original on 14 March 2014. Retrieved 6 October 2014.
13. "The 13 most stunning sports conspiracy theories, ranked" (<https://uk.sports.yahoo.com/news/13-most-stunning-sports-conspiracy-140957968.html>). Yahoo Sporting News. 12 May 2016. Archived (<http://web.archive.org/web/20170927202859/https://uk.sports.yahoo.com/news/13-most-stunning-sports-conspiracy-140957968.html>) from the original on 27 September 2017. Retrieved 27 September 2017.
14. "The great World Cup Final mystery" (http://news.bbc.co.uk/sport3/worldcup2002/hi/history/newsid_1749000/1749324.stm). BBC Sport. British Broadcasting Corporation. 2 April 2002. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20110217052606/http://news.bbc.co.uk/sport3/worldcup2002/hi/history/newsid_1749000/1749324.stm) from the original on 17 February 2011. Retrieved 15 July 2014.
15. "World Cup moments: Mystery surrounds Ronaldo in 1998" (<https://www.irishtimes.com/sport/soccer/international/world-cup-moments-mystery-surrounds-ronaldo-in-1998-1.3494639>). Irish Times. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20190410060225/https://www.irishtimes.com/sport/soccer/international/world-cup-moments-mystery-surrounds-ronaldo-in-1998-1.3494639>) from the original on 10 April 2019. Retrieved 4 September 2018.
16. "World Cup: 25 stunning moments [...] No15: Ronaldo falters as France win" (<https://www.theguardian.com/football/blog/2014/may/08/world-cup-stunning-moments-25-ronaldo-france>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180929021532/https://www.theguardian.com/football/blog/2014/may/08/world-cup-stunning-moments-25-ronaldo-france>) 29 September 2018 at the Wayback Machine. The Guardian. Retrieved 10 June 2014
17. "The mystery of Paris that refuses to go away" (<https://www.theguardian.com/football/2002/jun/29/worldcupfootball2002.sport3>). The Guardian. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20181002064524/https://www.theguardian.com/football/2002/jun/29/worldcupfootball2002.sport3>) from the original on 2 October 2018. Retrieved 1 October 2018.
18. "Mike Freeman's 10-Point Stance: Pats Conspiracy Theories Are the NFL's UFOs" (<http://bleacherreport.com/articles/2755593-mike-freemans-10-point-stance-pats-conspiracy-theories-are-the-nfls-ufos>). Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180124124306/http://bleacherreport.com/articles/2755593-mike-freemans-10-point-stance-pats-conspiracy-theories-are-the-nfls-ufos>) from the original on 24 January 2018. Retrieved 24 January 2018.
19. "Patriots had a few calls go their way vs. the Jaguars, and everyone is in conspiracy mode again" (<https://www.sbnation.com/2018/1/22/16917848/jaguars-patriots-refs-afc-championship-nfl-playoffs-2018>). Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180130093940/https://www.sbnation.com/2018/1/22/16917848/jaguars-patriots-refs-afc-championship-nfl-playoffs-2018>) from the original on 30 January 2018. Retrieved 22 January 2018.
20. "Super Bowl LII: Save your Patriots conspiracy theories" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180208123511/https://www.patspulpit.com/2018/1/24/16926738/super-bowl-lii-save-your-patriots-conspiracy-theories>). Archived from the original (<https://www.patspulpit.com/2018/1/24/16926738/super-bowl-lii-save-your-patriots-conspiracy-theories>) on 8 February 2018. Retrieved 24 January 2018.
21. "3 reasons why the internet thinks the Super Bowl was totally rigged" (<https://www.sbnation.com/nfl/2017/2/6/14523088/super-bowl-rigged-patriots-falcons-james-white-donald-trump>). Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170208070408/http://www.sbnation.com/nfl/2017/2/6/14523088/super-bowl-rigged-patriots-falcons-james-white-donald-trump>) from the original on 8 February 2017. Retrieved 6 February 2017.
22. "Falcons' Quinn defends questionable play-calling late in Super Bowl loss" (<https://www.thescore.com/nfl/news/1223937-falcons-quinn-defends-questionable-play-calling-late-in-super-bowl-loss>). Retrieved 5 February 2017.

Further reading

- Tudge McConnachie, Robin James (2008) [2005]. The Rough Guide to Conspiracy Theories (<https://archive.org/details/roughguidetocons0000mcco>). Rough Guide. ISBN 978-1-85828-281-7.
 - Hodapp, Christopher; Alice Von Kannon (2008). Conspiracy Theories & Secret Societies For Dummies (https://archive.org/details/isbn_9780470184080). Hoboken, NJ: Wiley. ISBN 978-0-470-18408-0.
 - Gray, John (2000) [1998]. False Dawn: The Delusions of Global Capitalism. New Press. ISBN 978-1-56584-592-3.
 - David Aaronovitch (2010) [2009]. Voodoo Histories: How Conspiracy Theory Has Shaped the Modern World. Vintage. ISBN 978-0099478966.
 - Brian Dunning (2018). Conspiracies Declassified. Adams Media. ISBN 978-1-5072-0699-7.
-

Retrieved from "https://en.wikipedia.org/w/index.php?title=List_of_conspiracy_theories&oldid=1028210940"

This page was last edited on 12 June 2021, at 15:03 (UTC).

Text is available under the Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike License; additional terms may apply. By using this site, you agree to the Terms of Use and Privacy Policy. Wikipedia® is a registered trademark of the Wikimedia Foundation, Inc., a non-profit organization.

Masonic conspiracy theories

Masonic conspiracy theories are conspiracy theories involving Freemasonry; hundreds of such conspiracy theories have been described since the late 18th century.^[1] Usually, these theories fall into three distinct categories: political (usually involving allegations of control of government, particularly in the United States and the United Kingdom), religious (usually involving allegations of anti-Christian or Satanic beliefs or practices), and cultural (usually involving popular entertainment). Many conspiracy theories have connected the Freemasons (and the Knights Templar) with worship of the devil;^{[2][3][4][5][6]} these ideas are based on different interpretations of the doctrines of those organizations.^[7]

Of the claims that Freemasonry exerts control over politics, perhaps the best-known example is the New World Order theory, but there are others. These mainly involve aspects and agencies of the United States government, but actual events outside the US (such as the Propaganda Due scandal in Italy) are often used to lend credence to claims.

Another set of theories has to do with Freemasonry and Religion, particularly that Freemasonry deals with "the occult".^[8] These theories have their beginnings in the Taxil hoax.^{[9][10]} In addition to these, there are various theories that focus on the embedding of symbols in otherwise ordinary items, such as street patterns, national seals, corporate logos, etc.

There are Masonic conspiracy theories dealing with every aspect of society. The majority of these theories are based on one or more of the following assumptions:

- That Freemasonry is its own religion, requires belief in a unique Masonic god, and that belief in this Masonic god is contrary to the teachings of various mainstream religions (although usually noted in terms of being specifically contrary to Christian belief)^[11]
- That the 33rd degree of the Scottish Rite is more than an honorary degree, coupled with the belief that most Freemasons are unaware of hidden or secretive ruling bodies within their organization that govern them, conduct occult ritual, or control various positions of governmental power^[12]
- That there is a centralized worldwide body that controls all Masonic Grand Lodges, and thus, all of Freemasonry worldwide acts in a unified manner.

Contents

List of conspiracy theories associated with Freemasonry

Political

Religious

Alleged occult influences on popular culture

Other

Masonic conspiracy theories in mass culture

See also

Notes and references

External links

List of conspiracy theories associated with Freemasonry

Notable conspiracy theories involving Freemasonry include:

Political

- That the British judiciary is heavily infiltrated with Masons, who give fellow Masons "the benefit of the doubt" in court, subverting the legal system.^{[13][14]}
- That Freemasonry overlaps with, or is controlled by, the Illuminati, especially in the higher degrees; Illuminati Freemasons secretly control many major aspects of society and government and are working to establish the New World Order.^{[15][16][17][18][19][20]} Some conspiracy theories involving the Freemasons and the Illuminati also include the Knights Templar and Jews as part of the supposed plan for universal control of society. This type of conspiracy theory was described as early as 1792 by multiple authors, beginning in France and Scotland.^[1]
- That Freemasonry is a Jewish front for world domination or is at least controlled by Jews for this goal. An example of this is the anti-Semitic literary forgery The Protocols of the Elders of Zion. Adolf Hitler believed that Freemasonry was a tool of Jewish influence,^[21] and outlawed Freemasonry and persecuted Freemasons partially for this reason.^[22] The covenant of the Palestinian Islamist movement Hamas claims that Freemasonry is a "secret society" founded as part of a Zionist plot to control the world.^[23] Hilaire Belloc thought Jews had "inaugurated" freemasonry "as a bridge between themselves and their hosts".^[24]
- That Freemasons are behind income taxes in the US. One convicted tax protester has charged that law enforcement officials who surrounded his property in a standoff over his refusal to surrender after his conviction were part of a "Zionist, Illuminati, Free Mason [sic] movement".^[25] The New Hampshire Union Leader also reported that "the Browns believe the IRS and the federal income tax are part of a deliberate plot perpetrated by Freemasons to control the American people and eventually the world."^[26]
- That the BOULE (Sigma Pi Phi Fraternity) is and has been a cornerstone of Prince Hall Masonry's political influence with Masonic congressmen guiding the group including Bro. Louis Stokes,^[27] Bro. John Conyers, Bro. Charles Rangel, Bro. August Hawkins, Bro. John Lewis, Bro. Ralph Metcalfe, Bro. Kweisi Mfume and Bro. Elijah Cummings served as chair of the caucus.^{[28][29]} not to mention member Bro. Jesse Jackson.
- That Freemasons have strong links with a more selective secret and semi-secret societies such as the Bohemian Grove meeting,^{[30][31]} the Skull and Bones society,^[20] and Rhodes Scholars.^[32]
- That groups such as the Ku Klux Klan^[33] and the Orange Order^[34] are intimately tied to Freemasonry.

Religious

There are a number of claims, predominantly made by conservative Protestants,^[35] that Freemasons at higher degrees deceive those at lower degrees, and gradually reveal a separate, occult religion:

- That Freemasons worship Lucifer or Satan,^[7] often attributed to quotes by Albert Pike.^{[2][3][4][5]}
- That Freemasons worship Baal, Baphomet, Dajjal, or Rahu ^[36]
- That Freemasonry is occult in nature and worships their own particular god, such as GAOTU the "Great Architect of the Universe", Gnosis, or Jahbulon, an amalgam of the gods YHWH, Baal, and Osiris.^{[37][38][39][40][41]}

Alleged occult influences on popular culture

- That Freemasons intertwine various symbols and numerology into modern culture, such as corporate logos.^[42]
- That the United States was founded by Freemasons who have interwoven Masonic symbols into American society, particularly in national seals, streets in Washington, D.C., architecture, and the dollar bill (indeed several Founding Fathers such as George Washington, Benjamin Franklin and James Monroe were Freemasons).^{[43][44][45][46]}

Other

- That Freemasons faked the Apollo moon landings.^[47]
- That Freemasons (at NASA) deceive the public to hide the Earth being flat.^{[48][49]}
- That the September 11 attacks were astrological in nature, as part of a hidden war between Masonry (as descendants of the Knights Templar) and Islam.^[50]
- That humanoid reptiles are behind secret societies like the Freemasons and the Illuminati.^[51]
- That some prominent murders involved Freemasons, including the cases of Jack the Ripper,^[52] Roberto Calvi,^[53] and John F. Kennedy.^{[3][54]}
- That the Masons are intimately connected to the Illuminati.^{[17][55]}

Masonic conspiracy theories in mass culture

- The Prague Cemetery, a novel by Umberto Eco
- The Lost Symbol, a novel by Dan Brown

See also

- Anti-Masonry
- Judeo-Masonic conspiracy theory

Notes and references

1. Hodapp, Christopher; Alice Von Kannon (2008). Conspiracy Theories & Secret Societies For Dummies (https://archive.org/details/isbn_9780470184080/page/174). For Dummies. pp. 174, 178 (https://archive.org/details/isbn_9780470184080/page/174). ISBN 0-470-18408-6.
2. Robinson, John. A Pilgrim's Path: Freemasonry and the Religious Right. M. Evans, 1993. ISBN 0-87131-732-X
3. Hodapp, Christopher L. and VonKannon, Alice, Conspiracy Theories & Secret Societies For Dummies, Wiley, 2008, ISBN 978-0-470-18408-0
4. Freemasonry The worship of Lucifer, SATAN Part 1 of 5 (<http://www.theforbiddenknowledge.com/symbology/1o5.htm>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20070531182624/http://www.theforbiddenknowledge.com/symbology/1o5.htm>) 2007-05-31 at the Wayback Machine
5. The Masonic Fairy Tale Known As The Leo Taxil Confession (http://www.freedom-ministries.com/index.php?action=Confession_Leo_Taxilm_and_Albert_Pike)
6. Freemasonry: Midwife to an Occult Empire (<http://www.conspiracyarchive.com/NWO/Freemasonry.htm>)

7. Addison, Charles G.; David Hatcher Childress (1997). The History of the Knights Templars: The Temple Church and the Temple. Adventures Unlimited Press. pp. 19–20. ISBN 0-932813-40-2.
8. Here used to denote a particular range of the occult involving Satanic or anti-Christian beliefs.
9. S. Brent Morris, The Complete Idiot's Guide to Freemasonry (2006), pp. 171-172; ISBN 1-59257-490-4
10. Christopher Hodapp, Freemasons for Dummies (2005), pp. 160-161; 298-299; ISBN 0-7645-9796-5
11. See, for example, the claims made by William A. Whalen, in his essay The Masonic Religion, available on the ewtn.com website (<http://www.ewtn.com/library/newage/masonrel.txt>); or the claims made at evangelicaltruth.com (<http://www.evangelicaltruth.com/fmog.html>).
12. Freemasonry - Conspiracy Within (http://www.meta-religion.com/Secret_societies/Groups/Masonry/freemasonry_conspiracy_within.htm)
13. Trial could force judges to declare that they are Masons (<https://www.independent.co.uk/news/uk/crime/trial-could-force-judges-to-declare-they-are-masons-634140.html>)
14. Freemasons - moral guardians or centre of corruption? (http://news.bbc.co.uk/2/hi/uk_news/57463.stm)
15. Why the NSA tried to recruit me (<http://www.thetruthseeker.co.uk/article.asp?ID=5424>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20070927210557/http://www.thetruthseeker.co.uk/article.asp?ID=5424>) 2007-09-27 at the Wayback Machine by James Casbolt in St Ives, UK – October 31, 2006
16. "The Road to Heart Mountain? Rumors, FEMA and the Future" (http://www.conspiracyarchive.com/NWO/Heart_Mountain_FEMA.htm)
17. United States Presidents and The Illuminati / Masonic Power Structure (<http://www.theforbiddenknowledge.com/hardtruth/uspresidentasmasons.htm>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110113210059/http://www.theforbiddenknowledge.com/hardtruth/uspresidentasmasons.htm>) 2011-01-13 at the Wayback Machine
18. United States Presidents and The Illuminati / Masonic Power Structure Pt.4 (<http://www.theforbiddenknowledge.com/hardtruth/uspresidentasmasonspt4.htm>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20070529061207/http://www.theforbiddenknowledge.com/hardtruth/uspresidentasmasonspt4.htm>) 2007-05-29 at the Wayback Machine
19. Berlet, Chip; Matthew Nemiroff Lyons (2000). Right-wing Populism in America: Too Close for Comfort (<https://archive.org/details/rightwingpopulis00berlich>). Guilford Press. p. 258 (<https://archive.org/details/rightwingpopulis00berlich/page/258>). ISBN 1-57230-562-2. "...Robertson resuscitated the Freemason conspiracy.... 'In earlier chapters we have traced the infiltration of Continental Freemasonry by the new world philosophy of the order of the Illuminati...'"
20. Pugh, Joye Jeffries (2006). Eden: The Knowledge of Good and Evil 666. Tate Publishing. p. 244. ISBN 1-59886-253-7.
21. Hitler, Adolf. Mein Kampf: Volume One - A Reckoning. Chapter XI: Nation and Race (<http://www.adolfhitler.ws/lib/books/43kampf/kampf43.htm>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20081208173010/http://www.adolfhitler.ws/lib/books/43kampf/kampf43.htm>) 2008-12-08 at the Wayback Machine. 1924 (trans. 1943). - "Finally, the Jewish influence on economic affairs grows with terrifying speed through the stock exchange. He becomes the owner, or at least the controller, of the national labor force. To strengthen his political position he tries to tear down the racial and civil barriers which for a time continue to restrain him at every step. To this end he fights with all the tenacity innate in him for religious tolerance-and in Freemasonry, which has succumbed to him completely, he has an excellent instrument with which to fight for his aims and put them across. The governing circles and the higher strata of the political and economic bourgeoisie are brought into his nets by the strings of Freemasonry, and never need to suspect what is happening."

22. Hitler, Adolf. Mein Kampf Volume Two - The National Socialist Movement. (<http://www.adolfhitler.ws/lib/books/43kampf/kampf43.htm>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20081208173010/http://www.adolfhitler.ws/lib/books/43kampf/kampf43.htm>) 2008-12-08 at the Wayback Machine "Chapter XIII: German Alliance Policy after the War", 1924, trans. 1943. - "The fight which Fascist Italy waged against Jewry's three principal weapons, the profound reasons for which may not have been consciously understood (though I do not believe this myself) furnishes the best proof that the poison fangs of that Power which transcends all State boundaries are being drawn, even though in an indirect way. The prohibition of Freemasonry and secret societies, the suppression of the supernational Press and the definite abolition of Marxism, together with the steadily increasing consolidation of the Fascist concept of the State – all this will enable the Italian Government, in the course of some years, to advance more and more the interests of the Italian people without paying any attention to the hissing of the Jewish world-hydra."
23. 'The Covenant of the Islamic Resistance Movement (HAMAS)-Palestine' (https://www.jewishvirtuallibrary.org/jsource/Terrorism/Hamas_covenant_complete.html), articles seventeen, twenty-two and twenty-eight, 18 Aug 1988.
24. Belloc, Hilaire (1922). "The Jews" (<https://archive.org/stream/jewsbello00belluoft#page/223/mode/1up>). Book. Constable & Company, Limited. p. 223. Retrieved 4 April 2016.
25. Kristen Senz, "Ed Brown says Feds have no jurisdiction in New Hampshire," New Hampshire Union Leader, June 8, 2007 [1] (<http://www.unionleader.com/article.aspx?headline=Ed+Brown+says+feds+have+no+jurisdiction+in+New+Hampshire&articleId=844a9c5f-5475-4d71-a149-102ea693ee4b>)
26. Kristen Senz, "Browns say they will either walk free, or die," New Hampshire Union Leader, June 19, 2007 at [2] (<http://www.unionleader.com/article.aspx?headline=Browns+say+they+will+either+walk+free%2c+or+die&articleId=a02db0e8-8042-474e-8a82-1fb5dc2f6306>).
27. <https://www.laporteyorkrite.com/famous-masons/name/louis-stokes/>
28. <https://phaohio.org/famous-prince-hall-masons>
29. <https://jacksonvillefreepress.com/former-naacp-chief-and-congressional-black-caucus-chair-kweisi-mfume-wins-primary-for-cummings-seat/>
30. Bohemian Grove Exposed! (http://www.jesus-is-savior.com/False%20Religions/Wicca%20&%20Witchcraft/bohemian_grove_exposed.htm)
31. Freemasons, Illuminati and Associates (<http://www.trosch.org/msn/mason-graphics.html>)
32. Trosch - Masonry exposed (<http://www.trosch.org/bks/msnc/masonry-exposed.html>)
33. Freemasonry and the Ku Klux Klan, hosted on www.jesus-is-saviour.com (http://www.jesus-is-savior.com/False%20Religions/Freemasonry/ku_klux_klan.htm)
34. Satanic secrets of the Orange Order (<https://www.theguardian.com/uk/1999/oct/24/northernireland.theobserver1>), The Observer, Sunday 24 October 1999
35. Is It True What They Say About Freemasonry? The Methods of Anti-Masons (<http://204.3.136.66/web/SRpublications/DeHoyos.htm#i5>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20131202094337/http://204.3.136.66/web/SRpublications/DeHoyos.htm>) 2013-12-02 at the Wayback Machine, Arturo de Hoyos and S. Brent Morris, M. Evans & Company pub, 2004
36. Baal: Kjos Ministries website: Freemasons - Roots & Links to the Occult (<http://www.crossroad.to/articles2/006/freemasons.htm>); Baphomet: www.religiouscounterfeits.org (http://www.religiouscounterfeits.org/ml_intro.htm); Dajjal: Atheistic freemasonry - Harun Yahya website (<https://archive.today/20130125073543/http://harunyahya.com/en/works/15546/atheistic-freemasonry-the-system-of>)
37. G.A.O.T.U. (<http://www.indianamasons.org/imoanti/gaotu.html>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20040819004739/http://www.indianamasons.org/imoanti/gaotu.html>) 2004-08-19 at the Wayback Machine
38. Freemasonry is a Non-Christian Occult Religion (<http://www.godonthenet.com/links/masons.htm>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20040806235839/http://www.godonthenet.com/links/masons.htm>) 2004-08-06 at the Wayback Machine

39. Islamic Party of Britain: What then is Freemasonry \(http://www.islamicparty.com/commonsense/19mason.htm\)
40. Satanic Voices: UNMASKING JEHOVAH JAH-BUL-ON \(http://www.islamicparty.com/satvoices/unmasking.htm\)
41. Name of Deity \(http://www.masonicinfo.com/name.htm\) (MasonicInfo.com)
42. Corporate Logos \(http://www.theforbiddenknowledge.com/hardtruth/13_33_freemason_sig.htm\) Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20040814051351/http://www.theforbiddenknowledge.com/hardtruth/13_33_freemason_sig.htm) 2004-08-14 at the Wayback Machine
43. Aho, Barbara, "George Washington" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20040803164416/http://watch.pair.com/GW.html>), Watch Unto Prayer [watch.pair.com], archived from the original (<http://watch.pair.com/GW.html>) on 2004-08-03
44. Masonic Symbols in Washington \(http://www.theforbiddenknowledge.com/hardtruth/masonic_symbols_washington.htm\) Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20040907075330/http://www.theforbiddenknowledge.com/hardtruth/masonic_symbols_washington.htm) 2004-09-07 at the Wayback Machine
45. Hodapp, Christopher L., Solomon's Builders: Freemasons, Founding Fathers and the Secrets of Washington D.C., Ulysses Press, 2007, ISBN 1-56975-579-5
46. United States Presidents and The Illuminati / Masonic Power Structure. \(http://www.theforbiddenknowledge.com/hardtruth/uspresidentasmasons.htm\) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110113210059/http://www.theforbiddenknowledge.com/hardtruth/uspresidentasmasons.htm>) 2011-01-13 at the Wayback Machine
47. "NASA Masonic Conspiracy - Apollo Missions Masonic Symbols" (<http://www.mt.net/~watcher/masonapollo.html>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20061103101846/http://www.mt.net/~watcher/masonapollo.html>) 2006-11-03 at the Wayback Machine
48. Dubay, Eric (2014). The Flat-Earth Conspiracy. Lulu.com. p. 11. ISBN 978-1312627161. "The greatest cover-up of all time, NASA and Freemasonry's biggest secret, is that we are living on a plane, not a planet, that Earth is the flat, stationary center of the universe."
49. Wang, Amy B.; Selk, Avi (November 24, 2017). "A flat-Earther's plan to launch himself in a homemade rocket just hit a speed bump" (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/news/science/wp/2017/11/24/a-flat-earthers-plan-to-launch-himself-in-a-homemade-rocket-just-hit-a-speed-bump/>). Science. The Washington Post. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20180124193131/https://www.washingtonpost.com/news/science/wp/2017/11/24/a-flat-earthers-plan-to-launch-himself-in-a-homemade-rocket-just-hit-a-speed-bump/?utm_term=.3cd63dafee28) from the original on January 24, 2018. Retrieved May 27, 2020.
50. "Who's the Enemy: -- The End of Days Begun?" (<http://www.enterprisemission.com/tower2.htm>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20080914072745/http://www.enterprisemission.com/tower2.htm>) 2008-09-14 at the Wayback Machine "What is not commonly known is that the roots of modern Freemasonry extend far beyond the mid-eighteenth Century, all the way back to ancient Egypt, and more importantly; through a Middle Ages movement commonly known as the "Knight's[sic] Templar. It is, we now suspect, the remnants of this Templar/Masonic/American axis that were the true target of these attacks -- in other words, September 11th was a direct thrust at the heart of the American Revolutionary Experiment ... in the critical year of 2001."
51. "Separating Fact from Fiction: The Reptilian Elite" (http://www.time.com/time/specials/packages/article/0,28804,1860871_1860876_1861029,00.html). TIME.com. July 15, 2009. Accessed July 26, 2016.
52. A claim first made by Steven Knight in his book Jack the Ripper: The Final Solution (1976), but repeated by others since. See: Jack the Ripper, Masonic conspiracy \(http://www.masonicinfo.com/ripper.htm\) page at www.Masonicinfo.com
53. An end to the mystery of God's Banker? \(http://news.bbc.co.uk/1/hi/magazine/3568409.stm\), BBC Magazine, 31 March 2004

54. James Shelby Downard, and Michael A. Hoffman II. "King-Kill/33°: Masonic Symbolism in the Assassination of John F. Kennedy (<http://www.revisionisthistory.org/kingkill33.html>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20070318013027/http://www.revisionisthistory.org/kingkill33.html>) 2007-03-18 at the Wayback Machine", 1987. Website excerpt, 1998. Retrieved 16 July 2007.
55. Freemasonry and the Illuminati (http://www.bibliotecapleyades.net/sociopolitica/esp_sociopol_illuminati_20.htm)

External links

- Conspiracy of Hate (http://www.mastermason.com/BrotherGene/masonic/conspiracy_of_hate.htm) – A Christian Perspective on the un-Christian Tactics of the anti-Masons, A.W.Harper, 1995.
-

Retrieved from "https://en.wikipedia.org/w/index.php?title=Masonic_conspiracy_theories&oldid=1023295781"

This page was last edited on 15 May 2021, at 16:09 (UTC).

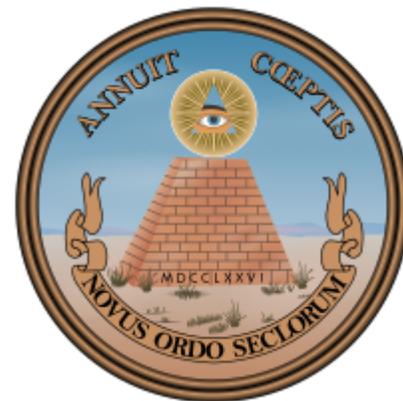

Text is available under the Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike License; additional terms may apply. By using this site, you agree to the Terms of Use and Privacy Policy. Wikipedia® is a registered trademark of the Wikimedia Foundation, Inc., a non-profit organization.

New World Order (conspiracy theory)

The New World Order (NWO) is a conspiracy theory which hypothesizes a secretly emerging totalitarian world government.^{[3][4][5][6][7]}

The common theme in conspiracy theories about a New World Order is that a secretive power elite with a globalist agenda is conspiring to eventually rule the world through an authoritarian one world government—which will replace sovereign nation-states—and an all-encompassing propaganda whose ideology hails the establishment of the New World Order as the culmination of history's progress. Many influential historical and contemporary figures have therefore been alleged to be part of a cabal that operates through many front organizations to orchestrate significant political and financial events, ranging from causing systemic crises to pushing through controversial policies, at both national and international levels, as steps in an ongoing plot to achieve world domination.^{[3][4][5][6][7]}

Before the early 1990s, New World Order conspiracism was limited to two American countercultures, primarily the militantly anti-government right and secondarily that part of fundamentalist Christianity concerned with the end-time emergence of the Antichrist.^[8] Skeptics, such as Michael Barkun and Chip Berlet, observed that right-wing populist conspiracy theories about a New World Order had not only been embraced by many seekers of stigmatized knowledge but had seeped into popular culture, thereby inaugurating a period during the late 20th and early 21st centuries in the United States where people are actively preparing for apocalyptic millenarian scenarios.^{[4][6]} Those political scientists are concerned that mass hysteria over New World Order conspiracy theories could eventually have devastating effects on American political life, ranging from escalating lone-wolf terrorism to the rise to power of authoritarian ultranationalist demagogues.^{[4][6][9]}

The reverse side of the Great Seal of the United States (1776). The Latin phrase "novus ordo seclorum", appearing on the reverse side of the Great Seal since 1782 and on the back of the U.S. one-dollar bill since 1935, translates to "New Order of the Ages"^[1] and alludes to the beginning of an era where the United States of America is an independent nation-state; conspiracy theorists claim this is an allusion to the "New World Order".^[2]

Contents

History of the term

General usage (Pre-Cold War)

Usage as reference to a conspiracy (Cold War era)

Post–Cold War usage

Conspiracy theories

End time

Freemasonry

Illuminati

The Protocols of the Elders of Zion

Round Table

The Open Conspiracy

New Age

Fourth Reich

Alien invasion

Brave New World

Postulated implementations

Gradualism

Coup d'état

Mass surveillance

Occultism

Population control

Mind control

Alleged conspirators

Criticism

See also

References

Further reading

External links

History of the term

General usage (Pre-Cold War)

During the 20th century, political figures such as Woodrow Wilson and Winston Churchill used the term "new world order" to refer to a new period of history characterized by a dramatic change in world political thought and in the global balance of power after World War I and World War II.^[10] The interwar and post-World War II period were seen as opportunities to implement idealistic proposals for global governance by collective efforts to address worldwide problems that go beyond the capacity of individual nation-states to resolve, while nevertheless respecting the right of nations to self-determination. Such collective initiatives manifested in the formation of intergovernmental organizations such as the League of Nations in 1920, the United Nations (UN) in 1945, and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) in 1949, along with international regimes such as the Bretton Woods system and the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT), implemented to maintain a cooperative balance of power and facilitate reconciliation between nations to prevent the prospect of another global conflict. These cosmopolitan efforts to instill liberal internationalism were regularly criticized and opposed by American paleoconservative business nationalists from the 1930s on.^[11]

Progressives welcomed international organizations and regimes such as the United Nations in the aftermath of the two World Wars, but argued that these initiatives suffered from a democratic deficit and were therefore inadequate not only to prevent another world war but to foster global justice, as the UN was chartered to be a free association of sovereign nation-states rather than a transition to democratic world government. Thus, cosmopolitan activists around the globe, perceiving the IGOs as too ineffectual for global change, formed a world federalist movement.^[12]

British writer and futurist H. G. Wells went further than progressives in the 1940s, by appropriating and redefining the term "new world order" as a synonym for the establishment of a technocratic world state and of a planned economy, garnering popularity in state socialist circles.^{[13][14]}

Usage as reference to a conspiracy (Cold War era)

During the Second Red Scare, both secular and Christian right American agitators, largely influenced by the work of Canadian conspiracy theorist William Guy Carr, increasingly embraced and spread dubious fears of Freemasons, Illuminati and Jews as the alleged driving forces behind an "international communist conspiracy". The threat of "Godless communism", in the form of an atheistic, bureaucratic collectivist world government, demonized as the "Red Menace", became the focus of apocalyptic millenarian conspiracism. The Red Scare came to shape one of the core ideas of the political right in the United States, which is that liberals and progressives, with their welfare-state policies and international cooperation programs such as foreign aid, supposedly contribute to a gradual process of global collectivism that will inevitably lead to nations being replaced with a communistic/collectivist one-world government.^[15] James Warburg, appearing before the United States Senate Committee on Foreign Relations in 1950, famously stated: "We shall have world government, whether or not we like it. The question is only whether world government will be achieved by consent or by conquest."^[16]

Right-wing populist advocacy groups with a paleoconservative world-view, such as the John Birch Society, disseminated a multitude of conspiracy theories in the 1960s claiming that the governments of both the United States and the Soviet Union were controlled by a cabal of corporate internationalists, "greedy" bankers and corrupt politicians who were intent on using the UN as the vehicle to create a "One World Government". This anti-globalist conspiracism fueled the campaign for U.S. withdrawal from the UN. American writer Mary M. Davison, in her 1966 booklet The Profound Revolution, traced the alleged New World Order conspiracy to the establishment of the U.S. Federal Reserve in 1913 by international bankers, whom she claimed later formed the Council on Foreign Relations in 1921 as a shadow government. At the time the booklet was published, many readers would have interpreted "international bankers" as a reference to a postulated "international Jewish banking conspiracy" masterminded by the Rothschild family.^[15]

Arguing that the term "New World Order" is used by a secretive global elite dedicated to the eradication of the sovereignty of the world's nations, American writer Gary Allen—in his books None Dare Call It Conspiracy (1971), Rockefeller: Campaigning for the New World Order (1974), and Say "No!" to the New World Order (1987)—articulated the anti-globalist theme of contemporary right-wing conspiracism in the U.S. After the fall of communism in the early 1990s, the de facto subject of New World Order conspiracism shifted from crypto-communists, perceived to be plotting to establish an atheistic world communist government, to globalists, perceived to be plotting to generally implement a collectivist, unified world government ultimately controlled by an untouchable oligarchy of international bankers, corrupt politicians, and corporatists, or alternatively, the United Nations itself. The shift in perception was inspired by growing opposition to corporate internationalism on the American right in the 1990s.^[15]

In his speech, Toward a New World Order, delivered on 11 September 1990 during a joint session of the US Congress, President George H. W. Bush described his objectives for post-Cold War global governance in cooperation with post-Soviet states. He stated:

Until now, the world we've known has been a world divided—a world of barbed wire and concrete block, conflict and cold war. Now, we can see a new world coming into view. A world in which there is the very real prospect of a new world order. In the words of Winston Churchill, a "world order" in which "the principles of justice and fair play ... protect the weak against the strong ..." A world where the United Nations, freed from cold war stalemate, is poised to fulfill the historic vision of its founders. A world in which freedom and respect for human rights find a home among all nations.^[17]

The New York Times observed that progressives were denouncing this new world order as a rationalization of American imperial ambitions in the Middle East at the time, while conservatives rejected any new security arrangements altogether and fulminated about any possibility of a UN revival.^[18] Chip Berlet, an American investigative reporter specializing in the study of right-wing movements in the U.S., wrote that the Christian and secular far-right were especially terrified by Bush's speech. Fundamentalist Christian groups interpreted Bush's words as signaling the End Times, while more secular theorists approached it from an anti-communist and anti-collectivist standpoint and feared for a hegemony over all countries by the United Nations.^[4]

Post–Cold War usage

American televangelist Pat Robertson, with his 1991 best-selling book The New World Order, became the most prominent Christian disseminator of conspiracy theories about recent American history. He describes a scenario where Wall Street, the Federal Reserve System, the Council on Foreign Relations, the Bilderberg Group and the Trilateral Commission control the flow of events from behind the scenes, constantly nudging people covertly in the direction of world government for the Antichrist.^[6]

American televangelist Pat Robertson wrote the 1991 best-selling book The New World Order

It was observed that, throughout the 1990s, the galvanizing language used by conspiracy theorists such as Linda Thompson, Mark Koernke and Robert K. Spear led to militancy and the rise of the American militia movement.^[19] The militia movement's anti-government ideology was (and is) spread through speeches at rallies and meetings, books and videotapes sold at gun shows, shortwave and satellite radio, fax networks and computer bulletin boards.^[15] It has been argued that it was overnight AM radio shows and propagandistic viral content on the internet that most effectively contributed to more extremist responses to the perceived threat of the New World Order. This led to the substantial growth of New World Order conspiracism, with it retroactively finding its way into the previously apolitical literature of numerous Kennedy assassinologists, ufologists, lost land theorists and—partially inspired by fears surrounding the "Satanic panic"—occultists. From the mid-1990s onward, the amorphous appeal of those subcultures transmitted New World Order conspiracism to a larger audience of seekers of stigmatized knowledge, with the common characteristic of disillusionment of political efficacy.^[6]

From the mid-1990s to the early 2000s, Hollywood conspiracy-thriller television shows and films also played a role in introducing a general audience to various fringe and esoteric theories related to New World Order conspiracism—which by that point had developed to include black helicopters, FEMA "concentration camps", etc.—theories which for decades previously were confined to largely right-wing subcultures. The 1993–2002 television series The X-Files, the 1997 film Conspiracy Theory and the 1998 film The X-Files: Fight the Future are often cited as notable examples.^[6]

Following the start of the 21st century, and specifically during the late-2000s financial crisis, many politicians and pundits, such as Gordon Brown^[20] and Henry Kissinger,^[21] used the term "new world order" in their advocacy for a comprehensive reform of the global financial system and their calls for a "New Bretton Woods" taking into account emerging markets such as China and India. These public declarations reinvigorated New World Order conspiracism, culminating in talk-show host Sean Hannity stating on his Fox News program Hannity that the "conspiracy theorists were right".^[22] Progressive media-watchdog groups have repeatedly criticized Fox News in general, and its now-defunct opinion show Glenn Beck in particular, for not only disseminating New World Order conspiracy theories to mainstream audiences, but possibly agitating so-called "lone wolf" extremism, particularly from the radical right.^{[23][24]}

In 2009, American film directors Luke Meyer and Andrew Neel released New World Order, a critically acclaimed documentary film which explores the world of conspiracy theorists—such as American radio host Alex Jones—who vigorously oppose what they perceive as an emerging New World Order.^[25] The growing dissemination and popularity of conspiracy theories has also created an alliance between right-wing agitators and hip hop music's left-wing rappers (such as KRS-One, Professor Griff of Public Enemy and Immortal Technique), illustrating how anti-elitist conspiracism can create unlikely political allies in efforts to oppose a political system.^[26]

Conspiracy theories

There are numerous systemic conspiracy theories through which the concept of a New World Order is viewed. The following is a list of the major ones in roughly chronological order:^[27]

End time

Since the 19th century, many apocalyptic millennial Christian eschatologists, starting with John Nelson Darby, have predicted a globalist conspiracy to impose a tyrannical New World Order governing structure as the fulfillment of prophecies about the "end time" in the Bible, specifically in the Book of Ezekiel, the Book of Daniel, the Olivet discourse found in the Synoptic Gospels, 2 Esdras 11:32 and Revelation 13:7.^[28] They claim that people who have made a deal with the Devil to gain wealth and power have become pawns in a supernatural chess game to move humanity into accepting a utopian world government that rests on the spiritual foundations of a syncretic-messianic world religion, which will later reveal itself to be a dystopian world empire that imposes the imperial cult of an "Unholy Trinity" of Satan, the Antichrist and the False Prophet. In many contemporary Christian conspiracy theories, the False Prophet will be either the last pope of the Catholic Church (groomed and installed by an Alta Vendita or Jesuit conspiracy), a guru from the New Age movement, or even the leader of an elite fundamentalist Christian organization like the Fellowship, while the Antichrist will be either the President of the European Union, the Caliph of a pan-Islamic state, or even the Secretary-General of the United Nations.^{[6][28]}

John Nelson Darby

Some of the most vocal critics of end-time conspiracy theories come from within Christianity.^[15] In 1993, historian Bruce Barron wrote a stern rebuke of apocalyptic Christian conspiracism in the Christian Research Journal, when reviewing Robertson's 1991 book The New World Order.^[29] Another critique can be found in historian Gregory S. Camp's 1997 book Selling Fear: Conspiracy Theories and End-

Times Paranoia.^[3] Religious studies scholar Richard T. Hughes argues that "New World Order" rhetoric libels the Christian faith, since the "New World Order" as defined by Christian conspiracy theorists has no basis in the Bible whatsoever. Furthermore, he argues that not only is this idea unbiblical, it is positively anti-biblical and fundamentally anti-Christian, because by misinterpreting key passages in the Book of Revelation, it turns a comforting message about the coming kingdom of God into one of fear, panic and despair in the face of an allegedly approaching one-world government.^[28] Progressive Christians, such as preacher-theologian Peter J. Gomes, caution Christian fundamentalists that a "spirit of fear" can distort scripture and history through dangerously combining biblical literalism, apocalyptic timetables, demonization and oppressive prejudices,^{[30][31]} while Camp warns of the "very real danger that Christians could pick up some extra spiritual baggage" by credulously embracing conspiracy theories.^[3] They therefore call on Christians who indulge in conspiracism to repent.^{[32][33]}

Freemasonry

Freemasonry is one of the world's oldest secular fraternal organizations and arose during late 16th–early 17th century Britain. Over the years a number of allegations and conspiracy theories have been directed towards Freemasonry, including the allegation that Freemasons have a hidden political agenda and are conspiring to bring about a New World Order, a world government organized according to Masonic principles or governed only by Freemasons.^[15]

The esoteric nature of Masonic symbolism and rites led to Freemasons first being accused of secretly practicing Satanism in the late 18th century.^[15] The original allegation of a conspiracy within Freemasonry to subvert religions and governments in order to take over the world traces back to Scottish author John Robison, whose reactionary conspiracy theories crossed the Atlantic and influenced outbreaks of Protestant anti-Masonry in the United States during the 19th century.^[15] In the 1890s, French writer Léo Taxil wrote a series of pamphlets and books denouncing Freemasonry and charging their lodges with worshipping Lucifer as the Supreme Being and Great Architect of the Universe. Despite the fact that Taxil admitted that his claims were all a hoax, they were and still are believed and repeated by numerous conspiracy theorists and had a huge influence on subsequent anti-Masonic claims about Freemasonry.^[34]

Some conspiracy theorists eventually speculated that some Founding Fathers of the United States, such as George Washington and Benjamin Franklin, were having Masonic sacred geometric designs interwoven into American society, particularly in the Great Seal of the United States, the United States one-dollar bill, the architecture of National Mall landmarks and the streets and highways of Washington, D.C., as part of a master plan to create the first "Masonic government" as a model for the coming New World Order.^[6]

Freemasons rebut these claims of a Masonic conspiracy. Freemasonry, which promotes rationalism, places no power in occult symbols themselves, and it is not a part of its principles to view the drawing of symbols, no matter how large, as an act of consolidating or controlling power.^[35] Furthermore, there is no published information establishing the Masonic membership of the men responsible for the design of the Great Seal.^{[35][36]} While conspiracy theorists assert that there are elements of Masonic influence on the Great Seal of the United States and that these elements were intentionally or unintentionally used because the creators were familiar with the symbols,^[37] in fact, the all-seeing Eye of Providence and the unfinished pyramid were symbols used as much outside

A Masonic Lodge room

Masonic lodges as within them in the late 18th century, therefore the designers were drawing from common esoteric symbols.^[38] The Latin phrase "novus ordo seclorum", appearing on the reverse side of the Great Seal since 1782 and on the back of the one-dollar bill since 1935, translates to "New Order of the Ages",^[1] and alludes to the beginning of an era where the United States of America is an independent nation-state; it is often mistranslated by conspiracy theorists as "New World Order".^[2]

Although the European continental branch of Freemasonry has organizations that allow political discussion within their Masonic Lodges, Masonic researcher Trevor W. McKeown argues that the accusations ignore several facts. Firstly, the many Grand Lodges are independent and sovereign, meaning they act on their own and do not have a common agenda. The points of belief of the various lodges often differ. Secondly, famous individual Freemasons have always held views that span the political spectrum and show no particular pattern or preference. As such, the term "Masonic government" is erroneous; there is no consensus among Freemasons about what an ideal government would look like.^[39]

Illuminati

The Order of the Illuminati was an Enlightenment-age secret society founded by university professor Adam Weishaupt on 1 May 1776, in Upper Bavaria, Germany. The movement consisted of advocates of freethought, secularism, liberalism, republicanism, and gender equality, recruited from the German Masonic Lodges, who sought to teach rationalism through mystery schools. In 1785, the order was infiltrated, broken up and suppressed by the government agents of Charles Theodore, Electeur of Bavaria, in his preemptive campaign to neutralize the threat of secret societies ever becoming hotbeds of conspiracies to overthrow the Bavarian monarchy and its state religion, Roman Catholicism.^[40] There is no evidence that the Bavarian Illuminati survived its suppression in 1785.^[41]

Adam Weishaupt, founder of the Illuminati, an 18th-century Bavarian liberal and secular secret society

In the late 18th century, reactionary conspiracy theorists, such as Scottish physicist John Robison and French Jesuit priest Augustin Barruel, began speculating that the Illuminati had survived their suppression and become the masterminds behind the French Revolution and the Reign of Terror. The Illuminati were accused of being subversives who were attempting to secretly orchestrate a revolutionary wave in Europe and the rest of the world in order to spread the most radical ideas and movements of the Enlightenment—anti-clericalism, anti-monarchism, and anti-patriarchalism—and to create a world noocracy and cult of reason. During the 19th century, fear of an Illuminati conspiracy was a real concern of the European ruling classes, and their oppressive reactions to this unfounded fear provoked in 1848 the very revolutions they sought to prevent.^[41]

During the interwar period of the 20th century, fascist propagandists, such as British revisionist historian Nesta Helen Webster and American socialite Edith Starr Miller, not only popularized the myth of an Illuminati conspiracy but claimed that it was a subversive secret society which served the Jewish elites that supposedly propped up both finance capitalism and Soviet communism in order to divide and rule the world. American evangelist Gerald Burton Winrod and other conspiracy theorists within the fundamentalist Christian movement in the United States—which emerged in the 1910s as a backlash against the principles of Enlightenment secular humanism, modernism, and liberalism—became the main channel of dissemination of Illuminati conspiracy theories in the U.S.. Right-wing populists, such as members of the John Birch Society, subsequently began speculating that some collegiate fraternities

(Skull and Bones), gentlemen's clubs (Bohemian Club), and think tanks (Council on Foreign Relations, Trilateral Commission) of the American upper class are front organizations of the Illuminati, which they accuse of plotting to create a New World Order through a one-world government.^[6]

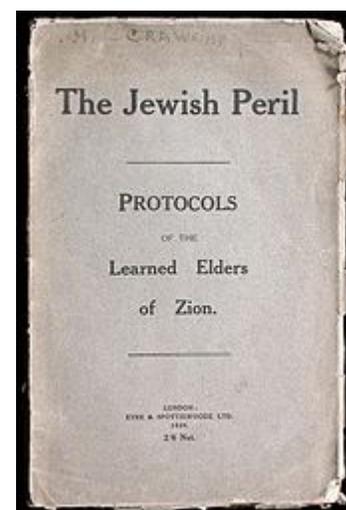

The Protocols of the Elders of Zion

The Protocols of the Elders of Zion is an antisemitic canard, originally published in Russian in 1903, alleging a Judeo-Masonic conspiracy to achieve world domination. The text purports to be the minutes of the secret meetings of a cabal of Jewish masterminds, which has co-opted Freemasonry and is plotting to rule the world on behalf of all Jews because they believe themselves to be the chosen people of God.^[42] The Protocols incorporate many of the core conspiracist themes outlined in the Robison and Barruel attacks on the Freemasons, and overlay them with antisemitic allegations about anti-Tsarist movements in Russia. The Protocols reflect themes similar to more general critiques of Enlightenment liberalism by conservative aristocrats who support monarchies and state religions. The interpretation intended by the publication of The Protocols is that if one peels away the layers of the Masonic conspiracy, past the Illuminati, one finds the rotten Jewish core.^[45]

Numerous polemicists, such as Irish journalist Philip Graves in a 1921 article in The Times, and British academic Norman Cohn in his 1967 book Warrant for Genocide, have proven The Protocols to be both a hoax and a clear case of plagiarism. There is general agreement that Russian-French writer and political activist Matvei Golovinski fabricated the text for Okhrana, the secret police of the Russian Empire, as a work of counter-revolutionary propaganda prior to the 1905 Russian Revolution, by plagiarizing, almost word for word in some passages, from The Dialogue in Hell Between Machiavelli and Montesquieu, a 19th-century satire against Napoleon III of France written by French political satirist and Legitimist militant Maurice Joly.^[43]

Responsible for feeding many antisemitic and anti-Masonic mass hysterias of the 20th century, The Protocols has been influential in the development of some conspiracy theories, including some New World Order theories, and appears repeatedly in certain contemporary conspiracy literature.^[6] For example, the authors of the 1982 controversial book The Holy Blood and the Holy Grail concluded that The Protocols was the most persuasive piece of evidence for the existence and activities of the Priory of Sion. They speculated that this secret society was working behind the scenes to establish a theocratic "United States of Europe". Politically and religiously unified through the imperial cult of a Merovingian Great Monarch—supposedly descended from a Jesus bloodline—who occupies both the throne of Europe and the Holy See, this "Holy European Empire" would become the hyperpower of the 21st century.^[44] Although the Priory of Sion itself has been exhaustively debunked by journalists and scholars as a hoax,^[45] some apocalyptic millenarian Christian eschatologists who believe The Protocols is authentic became convinced that the Priory of Sion was a fulfillment of prophecies found in the Book of Revelation and further proof of an anti-Christian conspiracy of epic proportions signaling the imminence of a New World Order.^[46]

Skeptics argue that the current gambit of contemporary conspiracy theorists who use The Protocols is to claim that they "really" come from some group other than the Jews, such as fallen angels or alien invaders. Although it is hard to determine whether the conspiracy-minded actually believe this or are simply trying to sanitize a discredited text, skeptics argue that it does not make much difference, since they leave the actual, antisemitic text unchanged. The result is to give The Protocols credibility and circulation.^[8]

Cover of a 1920 copy of The Jewish Peril

Round Table

During the second half of Britain's "imperial century" between 1815 and 1914, English-born South African businessman, mining magnate and politician Cecil Rhodes advocated the British Empire reannexing the United States of America and reforming itself into an "Imperial Federation" to bring about a hyperpower and lasting world peace. In his first will, written in 1877 at the age of 23, he expressed his wish to fund a secret society (known as the Society of the Elect) that would advance this goal:

To and for the establishment, promotion and development of a Secret Society, the true aim and object whereof shall be for the extension of British rule throughout the world, the perfecting of a system of emigration from the United Kingdom, and of colonisation by British subjects of all lands where the means of livelihood are attainable by energy, labour and enterprise, and especially the occupation by British settlers of the entire Continent of Africa, the Holy Land, the Valley of the Euphrates, the Islands of Cyprus and Candia, the whole of South America, the Islands of the Pacific not heretofore possessed by Great Britain, the whole of the Malay Archipelago, the seaboard of China and Japan, the ultimate recovery of the United States of America as an integral part of the British Empire, the inauguration of a system of Colonial representation in the Imperial Parliament which may tend to weld together the disjointed members of the Empire and, finally, the foundation of so great a Power as to render wars impossible, and promote the best interests of humanity.^[47]

In 1890, thirteen years after "his now famous will," Rhodes elaborated on the same idea: establishment of "England everywhere," which would "ultimately lead to the cessation of all wars, and one language throughout the world." "The only thing feasible to carry out this idea is a secret society gradually absorbing the wealth of the world ["and human minds of the higher order"] to be devoted to such an object."^[48]

Rhodes also concentrated on the Rhodes Scholarship, which had British statesman Alfred Milner as one of its trustees. Established in 1902, the original goal of the trust fund was to foster peace among the great powers by creating a sense of fraternity and a shared world view among future British, American, and German leaders by having enabled them to study for free at the University of Oxford.^[47]

Milner and British official Lionel George Curtis were the architects of the Round Table movement, a network of organizations promoting closer union between Britain and its self-governing colonies. To this end, Curtis founded the Royal Institute of International Affairs in June 1919 and, with his 1938 book The Commonwealth of God, began advocating for the creation of an imperial federation that eventually reannexes the U.S., which would be presented to Protestant churches as being the work of the Christian God to elicit their support.^[49] The Commonwealth of Nations was created in 1949 but it would only be a free association of independent states rather than the powerful imperial federation imagined by Rhodes, Milner and Curtis.

Magnate and colonist Cecil Rhodes advocated a secret society which would make Britain control the Earth

The Council on Foreign Relations began in 1917 with a group of New York academics who were asked by President Woodrow Wilson to offer options for the foreign policy of the United States in the interwar period. Originally envisioned as a group of American and British scholars and diplomats, some of whom belonging to the Round Table movement, it was a subsequent group of 108 New York financiers, manufacturers and international lawyers organized in June 1918 by Nobel Peace Prize recipient and U.S. secretary of state Elihu Root, that became the Council on Foreign Relations on 29 July 1921. The first of the council's projects was a quarterly journal launched in September 1922, called Foreign Affairs.^[50] The Trilateral Commission was founded in July 1973, at the initiative of American banker David Rockefeller, who was chairman of the Council on Foreign Relations at that time. It is a private organization established to foster closer cooperation among the United States, Europe and Japan. The Trilateral Commission is widely seen as a counterpart to the Council on Foreign Relations.

In the 1960s, right-wing populist individuals and groups with a paleoconservative worldview, such as members of the John Birch Society, were the first to combine and spread a business nationalist critique of corporate internationalists networked through think tanks such as the Council on Foreign Relations with a grand conspiracy theory casting them as front organizations for the Round Table of the "Anglo-American Establishment", which are financed by an "international banking cabal" that has supposedly been plotting from the late 19th century on to impose an oligarchic new world order through a global financial system. Anti-globalist conspiracy theorists therefore fear that international bankers are planning to eventually subvert the independence of the U.S. by subordinating national sovereignty to a strengthened Bank for International Settlements.^[51]

The research findings of historian Carroll Quigley, author of the 1966 book Tragedy and Hope, are taken by both conspiracy theorists of the American Old Right (W. Cleon Skousen) and New Left (Carl Oglesby) to substantiate this view, even though Quigley argued that the Establishment is not involved in a plot to implement a one-world government but rather British and American benevolent imperialism driven by the mutual interests of economic elites in the United Kingdom and the United States. Quigley also argued that, although the Round Table still exists today, its position in influencing the policies of world leaders has been much reduced from its heyday during World War I and slowly waned after the end of World War II and the Suez Crisis. Today the Round Table is largely a ginger group, designed to consider and gradually influence the policies of the Commonwealth of Nations, but faces strong opposition. Furthermore, in American society after 1965, the problem, according to Quigley, was that no elite was in charge and acting responsibly.^[51]

Larry McDonald, the second president of the John Birch Society and a conservative Democratic member of the United States House of Representatives who represented the 7th congressional district of Georgia, wrote a foreword for Allen's 1976 book The Rockefeller File, wherein he claimed that the Rockefellers and their allies were driven by a desire to create a one-world government that combined "super-capitalism" with communism and would be fully under their control. He saw a conspiracy plot that was "international in scope, generations old in planning, and incredibly evil in intent."^[52]

In his 2002 autobiography Memoirs, David Rockefeller wrote:

For more than a century ideological extremists at either end of the political spectrum have seized upon well-publicized incidents ... to attack the Rockefeller family for the inordinate influence they claim we wield over American political and economic institutions. Some even believe we are part of a secret cabal working against the best interests of the United States, characterizing my family and me as 'internationalists' and of conspiring with others around the world to build a more integrated global political and economic structure—one world, if you will. If that's the charge, I stand guilty, and I am proud of it.^[53]

Barkun argues that this statement is partly facetious (the claim of "conspiracy" and "treason") and partly serious—the desire to encourage trilateral cooperation among the U.S., Europe, and Japan, for example—an ideal that used to be a hallmark of the internationalist wing of the Republican Party (known as "Rockefeller Republicans" in honor of Nelson Rockefeller) when there was an internationalist wing. The statement, however, is taken at face value and widely cited by conspiracy theorists as proof that the Council on Foreign Relations uses its role as the brain trust of American presidents, senators and representatives to manipulate them into supporting a New World Order in the form of a one-world government.

In a 13 November 2007 interview with Canadian journalist Benjamin Fulford, Rockefeller countered that he felt no need for a world government and wished for the governments of the world to work together and collaborate. He also stated that it seemed neither likely nor desirable to have only one elected government rule the whole world. He criticized accusations of him being "ruler of the world" as nonsensical.^[54]

Some American social critics, such as Laurence H. Shoup, argue that the Council on Foreign Relations is an "imperial brain trust" which has, for decades, played a central behind-the-scenes role in shaping U.S. foreign policy choices for the post-World War II international order and the Cold War by determining what options show up on the agenda and what options do not even make it to the table;^[55] others, such as G. William Domhoff, argue that it is in fact a mere policy discussion forum^[56] which provides the business input to U.S. foreign policy planning. Domhoff argues that "[i]t has nearly 3,000 members, far too many for secret plans to be kept within the group. All the council does is sponsor discussion groups, debates and speakers. As far as being secretive, it issues annual reports and allows access to its historical archives." However, all these critics agree that "[h]istorical studies of the CFR show that it has a very different role in the overall power structure than what is claimed by conspiracy theorists."^[56]

The Open Conspiracy

In his 1928 book The Open Conspiracy British writer and futurist H. G. Wells promoted cosmopolitanism and offered blueprints for a world revolution and world brain to establish a technocratic world state and planned economy.^[57] Wells warned, however, in his 1940 book The New World Order that:

... when the struggle seems to be drifting definitely towards a world social democracy, there may still be very great delays and disappointments before it becomes an efficient and beneficent world system. Countless people ... will hate the new world order, be rendered unhappy by the frustration of their passions and ambitions through its advent and will die protesting against it. When we attempt to evaluate its promise, we have to bear in mind the distress of a generation or so of malcontents, many of them quite gallant and graceful-looking people.^[13]

H. G. Wells wrote the books The Open Conspiracy and The New World Order

Wells's books were influential in giving a second meaning to the term "new world order", which would only be used by state socialist supporters and anti-communist opponents for generations to come. However, despite the popularity and notoriety of his ideas, Wells failed to exert a deeper and more lasting influence because he was unable to concentrate his energies on a direct appeal to intelligentsias who would, ultimately, have to coordinate the Wellsian new world order.^[58]

New Age

British neo-Theosophical occultist Alice Bailey, one of the founders of the so-called New Age movement, prophesied in 1940 the eventual victory of the Allies of World War II over the Axis powers (which occurred in 1945) and the establishment by the Allies of a political and religious New World Order. She saw a federal world government as the culmination of Wells' Open Conspiracy but favorably argued that it would be synarchist because it was guided by the Masters of the Ancient Wisdom, intent on preparing humanity for the mystical second coming of Christ, and the dawning of the Age of Aquarius. According to Bailey, a group of ascended masters called the Great White Brotherhood works on the "inner planes" to oversee the transition to the New World Order but, for now, the members of this Spiritual Hierarchy are only known to a few occult scientists, with whom they communicate telepathically, but as the need for their personal involvement in the plan increases, there will be an "Externalization of the Hierarchy" and everyone will know of their presence on Earth.^[59]

Bailey's writings, along with American writer Marilyn Ferguson's 1980 book The Aquarian Conspiracy, contributed to conspiracy theorists of the Christian right viewing the New Age movement as the "false religion" that would supersede Christianity in a New World Order.^[60] Skeptics argue that the term "New Age movement" is a misnomer, generally used by conspiracy theorists as a catch-all rubric for any new religious movement that is not fundamentalist Christian. By this logic, anything that is not Christian is by definition actively and willfully anti-Christian.^[61]

New Age author Alice Bailey's writings have been condemned by Christian right conspiracy theorists

Paradoxically, since the first decade of the 21st century, New World Order conspiracism is increasingly being embraced and propagandized by New Age occultists, who are people bored by rationalism and drawn to stigmatized knowledge—such as alternative medicine, astrology, quantum mysticism, spiritualism, and theosophy.^[6] Thus, New Age conspiracy theorists, such as the makers of documentary films like Esoteric Agenda, claim that globalists who plot on behalf of the New World Order are simply misusing occultism for Machiavellian ends, such as adopting 21 December 2012 as the exact date for the establishment of the New World Order for the purpose of taking advantage of the growing 2012 phenomenon, which has its origins in the fringe Mayanist theories of New Age writers José Argüelles, Terence McKenna, and Daniel Pinchbeck.

Skeptics argue that the connection of conspiracy theorists and occultists follows from their common fallacious premises. First, any widely accepted belief must necessarily be false. Second, stigmatized knowledge—what the Establishment spurns—must be true. The result is a large, self-referential network in which, for example, some UFO religionists promote anti-Jewish phobias while some antisemites practice Peruvian shamanism.^[6]

Fourth Reich

Conspiracy theorists often use the term "Fourth Reich" simply as a pejorative synonym for the "New World Order" to imply that its state ideology and government will be similar to Germany's Third Reich.

Conspiracy theorists, such as American writer Jim Marrs, claim that some ex-Nazis, who survived the fall of the Greater German Reich, along with sympathizers in the United States and elsewhere, given haven by organizations like ODESSA and Die Spinne, have been working behind the scenes since the end of World War II to enact at least some principles of Nazism (e.g., militarism, imperialism, widespread spying on citizens, corporatism, the use of propaganda to manufacture a national consensus) into culture, government, and business worldwide, but primarily in the U.S. They cite the influence of ex-Nazi scientists brought in under Operation Paperclip to help advance aerospace manufacturing in the U.S. with technological principles from Nazi UFOs, and the acquisition and creation of conglomerates by ex-Nazis and their sympathizers after the war, in both Europe and the U.S.^[62]

This neo-Nazi conspiracy is said to be animated by an "Iron Dream" in which the American Empire, having thwarted the Judeo-Masonic conspiracy and overthrown its Zionist Occupation Government, gradually establishes a Fourth Reich formerly known as the "Western Imperium"—a pan-Aryan world empire modeled after Adolf Hitler's New Order—which reverses the "decline of the West" and ushers a golden age of white supremacy.^[63]

Skeptics argue that conspiracy theorists grossly overestimate the influence of ex-Nazis and neo-Nazis on American society, and point out that political repression at home and imperialism abroad have a long history in the United States that predates the 20th century. Some political scientists, such as Sheldon Wolin, have expressed concern that the twin forces of democratic deficit and superpower status have paved the way in the U.S. for the emergence of an inverted totalitarianism which contradicts many principles of Nazism.^[64]

Alien invasion

Since the late 1970s, extraterrestrials from other habitable planets or parallel dimensions (such as "Greys") and intraterrestrials from Hollow Earth (such as "Reptilians") have been included in the New World Order conspiracy, in more or less dominant roles, as in the theories put forward by American writers Stan Deyo and Milton William Cooper, and British writer David Icke.^{[6][65][66]}

The common theme in these conspiracy theories is that aliens have been among us for decades, centuries or millennia, but a government cover-up enforced by "Men in Black" has shielded the public from knowledge of a secret alien invasion. Motivated by speciesism and imperialism, these aliens have been and are secretly manipulating developments and changes in human society in order to more efficiently control and exploit human beings. In some theories, alien infiltrators have shapeshifted into human form and move freely throughout human society, even to the point of taking control of command positions in governmental, corporate, and religious institutions, and are now in the final stages of their plan to take over the world.^[66] A mythical covert government agency of the United States code-named Majestic 12 is often imagined being the shadow government which collaborates with the alien occupation and permits alien abductions, in exchange for assistance in the development and testing of military "flying saucers" at Area 51, in order for United States armed forces to achieve full-spectrum dominance.^[6]

Skeptics, who adhere to the psychosocial hypothesis for unidentified flying objects, argue that the convergence of New World Order conspiracy theory and UFO conspiracy theory is a product of not only the era's widespread mistrust of governments and the popularity of the extraterrestrial hypothesis for

American writer Jim Marrs claimed that former Nazis and their sympathizers have been continuing Nazi policies worldwide, especially in the United States

British writer David Icke claims that shapeshifting aliens called Reptilians control the Earth

UFOs but of the far right and ufologists actually joining forces. Barkun notes that the only positive side to this development is that, if conspirators plotting to rule the world are believed to be aliens, traditional human scapegoats (Freemasons, Illuminati, Jews, etc.) are downgraded or exonerated.^[6]

Brave New World

Antiscience and neo-Luddite conspiracy theorists emphasize technology forecasting in their New World Order conspiracy theories. They speculate that the global power elite is reactionary modernists pursuing a transhumanist agenda to develop and use human enhancement technologies in order to become a "posthuman ruling caste", while change accelerates toward a technological singularity—a theorized future point of discontinuity when events will accelerate at such a pace that normal unenhanced humans will be unable to predict or even understand the rapid changes occurring in the world around them. Conspiracy theorists fear the outcome will either be the emergence of a Brave New World-like dystopia—a "Brave New World Order"—or the extinction of the human species.^[67]

One World !

Democratic transhumanists, such as American sociologist James Hughes, counter that many influential members of the United States Establishment are bioconservatives strongly opposed to human enhancement, as demonstrated by President Bush's Council on Bioethics's proposed international treaty prohibiting human cloning and germline engineering. Furthermore, he argues that conspiracy theorists underestimate how fringe the transhumanist movement really is.^[68]

Postulated implementations

Just as there are several overlapping or conflicting theories among conspiracists about the nature of the New World Order, so are there several beliefs about how its architects and planners will implement it:

Gradualism

Conspiracy theorists generally speculate that the New World Order is being implemented gradually, citing the formation of the U.S. Federal Reserve System in 1913; the League of Nations in 1919; the International Monetary Fund in 1944; the United Nations in 1945; the World Bank in 1945; the World Health Organization in 1948; the European Union and the euro currency in 1993; the World Trade Organization in 1998; the African Union in 2002; and the Union of South American Nations in 2008 as major milestones.^[6]

An increasingly popular conspiracy theory among American right-wing populists is that the hypothetical North American Union and the amero currency, proposed by the Council on Foreign Relations and its counterparts in Mexico and Canada, will be the next milestone in the implementation of the New World Order. The theory holds that a group of shadowy and mostly nameless international elites are planning to replace the federal government of the United States with a transnational government. Therefore, conspiracy theorists believe the borders between Mexico, Canada and the United States are in the process of being erased, covertly, by a group of globalists whose ultimate goal is to replace national governments in Washington, D.C., Ottawa and Mexico City with a European-style political union and a bloated E.U.-style bureaucracy.^[69]

Skeptics argue that the North American Union exists only as a proposal contained in one of a thousand academic and policy papers published each year that advocate all manner of idealistic but ultimately unrealistic approaches to social, economic and political problems. Most of these are passed around in their own circles and eventually filed away and forgotten by junior staffers in congressional offices. Some of these papers, however, become touchstones for the conspiracy-minded and form the basis of all kinds of unfounded xenophobic fears especially during times of economic anxiety.^[69]

For example, in March 2009, as a result of the late-2000s financial crisis, the People's Republic of China and the Russian Federation pressed for urgent consideration of a new international reserve currency and the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development proposed greatly expanding the I.M.F.'s special drawing rights. Conspiracy theorists fear these proposals are a call for the U.S. to adopt a single global currency for a New World Order.^{[70][71]}

Judging that both national governments and global institutions have proven ineffective in addressing worldwide problems that go beyond the capacity of individual nation-states to solve, some political scientists critical of New World Order conspiracism, such as Mark C. Partridge, argue that regionalism will be the major force in the coming decades, pockets of power around regional centers: Western Europe around Brussels, the Western Hemisphere around Washington, D.C., East Asia around Beijing, and Eastern Europe around Moscow. As such, the E.U., the Shanghai Cooperation Organisation, and the G-20 will likely become more influential as time progresses. The question then is not whether global governance is gradually emerging, but rather how will these regional powers interact with one another.^[72]

Coup d'état

American right-wing populist conspiracy theorists, especially those who joined the militia movement in the United States, speculate that the New World Order will be implemented through a dramatic coup d'état by a "secret team", using black helicopters, in the U.S. and other nation-states to bring about a totalitarian world government controlled by the United Nations and enforced by troops of foreign U.N. peacekeepers. Following the Rex 84 and Operation Garden Plot plans, this military coup would involve the suspension of the Constitution, the imposition of martial law, and the appointment of military commanders to head state and local governments and to detain dissidents.^[73]

The American militia movement claim that a coup d'état will be launched by a "Secret Team" in black helicopters

These conspiracy theorists, who are all strong believers in a right to keep and bear arms, are extremely fearful that the passing of any gun control legislation will be later followed by the abolishment of personal gun ownership and a campaign of gun confiscation, and that the refugee camps of emergency management agencies such as FEMA will be used for the internment of suspected subversives, making little effort to distinguish true threats to the New World Order from pacifist dissidents.^[24]

Before 2000, some survivalists wrongly believed this process would be set in motion by the predicted Y2K problem causing societal collapse.^[74] Since many left-wing and right-wing conspiracy theorists believe that the 11 September attacks were a false flag operation carried out by the United States intelligence community, as part of a strategy of tension to justify political repression at home and preemptive war abroad, they have become convinced that a more catastrophic terrorist incident will be responsible for triggering Executive Directive 51 in order to complete the transition to a police state.^[75]

Skeptics argue that unfounded fears about an imminent or eventual gun ban, military coup, internment, or U.N. invasion and occupation are rooted in the siege mentality of the American militia movement but also an apocalyptic millenarianism which provides a basic narrative within the political right in the U.S., claiming that the idealized society (i.e., constitutional republic, Jeffersonian democracy, "Christian nation", "white nation") is thwarted by subversive conspiracies of liberal secular humanists who want "Big Government" and globalists who plot on behalf of the New World Order.^[15]

Mass surveillance

Conspiracy theorists concerned with surveillance abuse believe that the New World Order is being implemented by the cult of intelligence at the core of the surveillance-industrial complex through mass surveillance and the use of Social Security numbers, the bar-coding of retail goods with Universal Product Code markings, and, most recently, RFID tagging by microchip implants.^[6]

Claiming that corporations and government are planning to track every move of consumers and citizens with RFID as the latest step toward a 1984-like surveillance state, consumer privacy advocates, such as Katherine Albrecht and Liz McIntyre,^[76] have become Christian conspiracy theorists who believe spychips must be resisted because they argue that modern database and communications technologies, coupled with point of sale data-capture equipment and sophisticated ID and authentication systems, now make it possible to require a biometrically associated number or mark to make purchases. They fear that the ability to implement such a system closely resembles the Number of the Beast prophesied in the Book of Revelation.^[6]

In January 2002, the Information Awareness Office (IAO) was established by the Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency (DARPA) to bring together several DARPA projects focused on applying information technology to counter asymmetric threats to national security. Following public criticism that the development and deployment of these technologies could potentially lead to a mass surveillance system, the IAO was defunded by the United States Congress in 2003.^[77] The second source of controversy involved IAO's original logo, which depicted the "all-seeing" Eye of Providence atop of a pyramid looking down over the globe, accompanied by the Latin phrase scientia est potentia (knowledge is power). Although DARPA eventually removed the logo from its website, it left a lasting impression on privacy advocates.^[78] It also inflamed conspiracy theorists,^[79] who misinterpret the "eye and pyramid" as the Masonic symbol of the Illuminati,^{[36][80]} an 18th-century secret society they speculate continues to exist and is plotting on behalf of a New World Order.^{[40][41]}

American historian Richard Landes, who specializes in the history of apocalypticism and was co-founder and director of the Center for Millennial Studies at Boston University, argues that new and emerging technologies often trigger alarmism among millenarians and even the introduction of Gutenberg's printing press in 1436 caused waves of apocalyptic thinking. The Year 2000 problem, bar codes and Social Security numbers all triggered end-time warnings which either proved to be false or simply were no longer taken seriously once the public became accustomed to these technological changes.^[81] Civil libertarians argue that the privatization of surveillance and the rise of the surveillance-industrial complex in the United States does raise legitimate concerns about the erosion of privacy.^[82] However, skeptics of mass surveillance conspiracism caution that such concerns should be disentangled from secular paranoia about Big Brother or religious hysteria about the Antichrist.^[6]

Occultism

Conspiracy theorists of the Christian right, starting with British revisionist historian Nesta Helen Webster, believe there is an ancient occult conspiracy—started by the first mystagogues of Gnosticism and perpetuated by their alleged esoteric successors, such as the Kabbalists, Cathars, Knights Templar, Hermeticists, Rosicrucians, Freemasons, and, ultimately, the Illuminati—which seeks to subvert the Judeo-Christian foundations of the Western world and implement the New World Order through a one-world religion that prepares the masses to embrace the imperial cult of the Antichrist.^[6] More broadly, they speculate that globalists who plot on behalf of a New World Order are directed by occult agencies of some sort: unknown superiors, spiritual hierarchies, demons, fallen angels or Lucifer. They believe that these conspirators use the power of occult sciences (numerology), symbols (Eye of Providence), rituals (Masonic degrees), monuments (National Mall landmarks), buildings (Manitoba Legislative Building^[83]) and facilities (Denver International Airport) to advance their plot to rule the world.^{[6][84]}

For example, in June 1979, an unknown benefactor under the pseudonym "R. C. Christian" had a huge granite megalith built in the U.S. state of Georgia, which acts like a compass, calendar, and clock. A message comprising ten guides is inscribed on the occult structure in many languages to serve as instructions for survivors of a doomsday event to establish a more enlightened and sustainable civilization than the one which was destroyed. The "Georgia Guidestones" have subsequently become a spiritual and political Rorschach test onto which any number of ideas can be imposed. Some New Agers and neo-pagans revere it as a ley-line power nexus while a few conspiracy theorists are convinced that they are engraved with the New World Order's anti-Christian "Ten Commandments." Should the Guidestones survive for centuries as their creators intended, many more meanings could arise, equally unrelated to the designer's original intention.^[85]

Skeptics argue that the demonization of Western esotericism by conspiracy theorists is rooted in religious intolerance but also in the same moral panics that have fueled witch trials in the Early Modern period, and satanic ritual abuse allegations in the United States.^[6]

Population control

Conspiracy theorists believe that the New World Order will also be implemented through the use of human population control in order to more easily monitor and control the movement of individuals.^[6] The means range from stopping the growth of human societies through reproductive health and family planning programs, which promote abstinence, contraception and abortion, or intentionally reducing the bulk of the world population through genocides by mongering unnecessary wars, through plagues by engineering emergent viruses and tainting vaccines, and through environmental disasters by controlling the weather (HAARP, chemtrails), etc. Conspiracy theorists argue that globalists plotting on behalf of a New World Order are neo-Malthusians who engage in overpopulation and climate change alarmism in order to create public support for coercive population control and ultimately world government. United Nations Agenda 21 is condemned as "reconcentrating" people into urban areas and depopulating rural ones, even generating a dystopian novel by Glenn Beck where single-family homes are a distant memory.

Skeptics argue that fears of population control can be traced back to the traumatic legacy of the eugenics movement's "war against the weak" in the United States during the first decades of the 20th century but also the Second Red Scare in the U.S. during the late 1940s and 1950s, and to a lesser extent in the 1960s, when activists on the far right of American politics routinely opposed public health programs, notably water fluoridation, mass vaccination and mental health services, by asserting they were all part of a far-reaching plot to impose a socialist or communist regime.^[86] Their views were influenced by opposition to a number of major social and political changes that had happened in recent years: the growth of internationalism, particularly the United Nations and its programs; the introduction of social welfare provisions, particularly the various programs established by the New Deal; and government efforts to reduce inequalities in the social structure of the U.S.^[87] Opposition towards mass vaccinations in particular got significant attention in the late 2010s, so much so the World Health Organization listed vaccine hesitancy as one of the top ten global health threats of 2019. By this time, people that refused or refused to allow their children to be vaccinated were known colloquially as "anti-vaxxers", though citing the New World Order conspiracy theory or resistance to a perceived population control agenda as a reason to refuse vaccination were few and far between.^{[88][89]}

Mind control

Social critics accuse governments, corporations, and the mass media of being involved in the manufacturing of a national consensus and, paradoxically, a culture of fear due to the potential for increased social control that a mistrustful and mutually fearing population might offer to those in power. The worst fear of some conspiracy theorists, however, is that the New World Order will be implemented through the use of mind control—a broad range of tactics able to subvert an individual's control of his or her own thinking, behavior, emotions, or decisions. These tactics are said to include everything from Manchurian candidate-style brainwashing of sleeper agents (Project MKULTRA, "Project Monarch") to engineering psychological operations (water fluoridation, subliminal advertising, "Silent Sound Spread Spectrum", MEDUSA) and parapsychological operations (Stargate Project) to influence the masses.^[90] The concept of wearing a tin foil hat for protection from such threats has become a popular stereotype and term of derision; the phrase serves as a byword for paranoia and is associated with conspiracy theorists.

Skeptics argue that the paranoia behind a conspiracy theorist's obsession with mind control, population control, occultism, surveillance abuse, Big Business, Big Government, and globalization arises from a combination of two factors, when he or she: 1) holds strong individualist values and 2) lacks power. The first attribute refers to people who care deeply about an individual's right to make their own choices and direct their own lives without interference or obligations to a larger system (like the government), but combine this with a sense of powerlessness in one's own life, and one gets what some psychologists call "agency panic," intense anxiety about an apparent loss of autonomy to outside forces or regulators. When fervent individualists feel that they cannot exercise their independence, they experience a crisis and assume that larger forces are to blame for usurping this freedom.^{[91][92]}

Alleged conspirators

According to Domhoff, many people seem to believe that the United States is ruled from behind the scenes by a conspiratorial elite with secret desires, i.e., by a small secretive group that wants to change the government system or put the country under the control of a world government. In the past, the conspirators were usually said to be crypto-communists who were intent upon bringing the United States under a common world government with the Soviet Union, but the dissolution of the USSR in 1991 undercut that theory. Domhoff notes that most conspiracy theorists changed their focus to the United Nations as the likely controlling force in a New World Order, an idea which is undermined by the powerlessness of the U.N. and the unwillingness of even moderates within the American Establishment to give it anything but a limited role.^[56]

Although skeptical of New World Order conspiracism, political scientist David Rothkopf argues, in the 2008 book Superclass: The Global Power Elite and the World They Are Making, that the world population of 6 billion people is governed by an elite of 6,000 individuals. Until the late 20th century, governments of the great powers provided most of the superclass, accompanied by a few heads of international movements (i.e., the Pope of the Catholic Church) and entrepreneurs (Rothschilds, Rockefellers). According to Rothkopf, in the early 21st century, economic clout—fueled by the explosive expansion of international trade, travel and communication—rules; the nation-state's power has diminished shrinking politicians to minority power broker status; leaders in international business, finance and the defense industry not only dominate the superclass, but they also move freely into high positions in their nations' governments and back to private life largely beyond the notice of elected legislatures (including the U.S. Congress), which remain abysmally ignorant of affairs beyond their borders. He asserts that the superclass' disproportionate influence over national policy is constructive but always self-interested and that across the world, few object to corruption and oppressive governments provided they can do business in these countries.^[93]

Viewing the history of the world as the history of warfare between secret societies, conspiracy theorists go further than Rothkopf, and other scholars who have studied the global power elite, by claiming that established upper-class families with "old money" who founded and finance the Bilderberg Group, Bohemian Club, Club of Rome, Council on Foreign Relations, Rhodes Trust, Skull and Bones, Trilateral Commission, and similar think tanks and private clubs, are illuminated conspirators plotting to impose a totalitarian New World Order—the implementation of an authoritarian world government controlled by the United Nations and a global central bank, which maintains political power through the financialization of the economy, regulation and restriction of speech through the concentration of media ownership, mass surveillance, widespread use of state terrorism, and an all-encompassing propaganda that creates a cult of personality around a puppet world leader and ideologizes world government as the culmination of history's progress.^[6]

Marxists, who are skeptical of right-wing populist conspiracy theories, also accuse the global power elite of not having the best interests of all at heart, and many intergovernmental organizations of suffering from a democratic deficit, but they argue that the superclass are plutocrats only interested in brazenly imposing a neoliberal or neoconservative new world order—the implementation of global capitalism through economic and military coercion to protect the interests of transnational corporations—which systematically undermines the possibility of a socialist one-world government.^[94] Arguing that the world is in the middle of a transition from the American Empire to the rule of a global ruling class that has emerged from within the American Empire, they point out that right-wing populist conspiracy theorists, blinded by their anti-communism, fail to see is that what they demonize as the "New World Order" is, ironically, the highest stage of the very capitalist economic system they defend.^[94]

Criticism

Skeptics of New World Order conspiracy theories accuse its proponents of indulging in the furtive fallacy, a belief that significant facts of history are necessarily sinister; conspiracism, a world view that centrally places conspiracy theories in the unfolding of history, rather than social and economic forces; and fusion paranoia, a promiscuous absorption of fears from any source whatsoever.^[6]

Domhoff, a research professor in psychology and sociology who studies theories of power, wrote in 2005 an essay entitled There Are No Conspiracies. He says that for this theory to be true it required several "wealthy and highly educated people" to do things that don't "fit with what we know about power structures". Claims that this will happen go back decades and have always been proved wrong.

Partridge, a contributing editor to the global affairs magazine Diplomatic Courier, wrote a 2008 article entitled One World Government: Conspiracy Theory or Inevitable Future? He says that if anything nationalism, which is the opposite of a global government, is rising. He also says that attempts at creating global governments or global agreements "have been categorical failures" and where "supranational governance exist they are noted for their bureaucracy and inefficiency."

Although some cultural critics see superconspiracy theories about a New World Order as "postmodern metanarratives" that may be politically empowering, a way of giving ordinary people a narrative structure with which to question what they see around them,^[95] skeptics argue that conspiracism leads people into cynicism, convoluted thinking, and a tendency to feel it is hopeless even as they denounce the alleged conspirators.^[96]

Alexander Zaitchik from the Southern Poverty Law Center wrote a report titled "'Patriot' Paranoia: A Look at the Top Ten Conspiracy Theories", in which he personally condemns such conspiracies as an effort of the radical right to undermine society.^[97]

Concerned that the improvisational millennialism of most conspiracy theories about a New World Order might motivate lone wolves to engage in leaderless resistance leading to domestic terrorist incidents like the Oklahoma City bombing,^[98] Barkun writes that "the danger lies less in such beliefs themselves ... than in the behavior they might stimulate or justify" and warns "should they believe that the prophesied evil day had in fact arrived, their behavior would become far more difficult to predict."

Warning of the threat to American democracy posed by right-wing populist movements led by demagogues who mobilize support for mob rule or even a fascist revolution by exploiting the fear of conspiracies, Berlet writes that "Right-wing populist movements can cause serious damage to a society because they often popularize xenophobia, authoritarianism, scapegoating, and conspiracism. This can lure mainstream politicians to adopt these themes to attract voters, legitimize acts of discrimination (or even violence), and open the door for revolutionary right-wing populist movements, such as fascism, to recruit from the reformist populist movements."

Hughes, a professor of religion, warns that no religious idea has greater potential for shaping global politics in profoundly negative ways than "the new world order". He writes in a February 2011 article entitled Revelation, Revolutions, and the Tyrannical New World Order that "the crucial piece of this puzzle is the identity of the Antichrist, the tyrannical figure who both leads and inspires the new world order". This has in turn been the Soviet Union and the Arab world. He says that inspires believers to "welcome war with the Islamic world" and opens the door to nuclear holocaust."

Criticisms of New World Order conspiracy theorists also come from within their own community. Despite believing themselves to be "freedom fighters", many right-wing populist conspiracy theorists hold views that are incompatible with their professed libertarianism, such as dominionism, white supremacism, and even eliminationism.^{[15][99]} This paradox has led Icke, who argues that Christian Patriots are the only Americans who understand the truth about the New World Order (which he believes is controlled by a race of reptilians known as the "Babylonian Brotherhood"), to reportedly tell a Christian Patriot group, "I don't know which I dislike more, the world controlled by the Brotherhood or the one you want to replace it with."

See also

- Anti-globalization movement
- Criticisms of globalization
- Zionist Occupation Government conspiracy theory

References

1. Lewis and Short, A Latin Dictionary

2. "Novus Ordo Seclorum – Origin and Meaning of the Motto Beneath the American Pyramid" (<http://www.greatseal.com/mottoes/seclorum.html>). GreatSeal.com.
3. Camp, Gregory S. (1997). Selling Fear: Conspiracy Theories and End-Times Paranoia. Commish Walsh. ASIN B000J0N8NC (<https://www.amazon.com/dp/B000J0N8NC>).
4. Berlet, Chip; Lyons, Matthew N. (2000). Right-Wing Populism in America: Too Close for Comfort (<http://s://archive.org/details/rightwingpopulis00berlich>). Guilford Press. ISBN 1-57230-562-2.
5. Goldberg, Robert Alan (2001). Enemies Within: The Culture of Conspiracy in Modern America (http://s://archive.org/details/enemieswithincul00gold_0). Yale University Press. ISBN 0-300-09000-5.
6. Barkun, Michael (2003). A Culture of Conspiracy: Apocalyptic Visions in Contemporary America. University of California Press; 1 edition. ISBN 0-520-23805-2.
7. Fenster, Mark (2008). Conspiracy Theories: Secrecy and Power in American Culture (2nd ed.). University of Minnesota Press. ISBN 978-0-8166-5494-9.
8. Berlet, Chip (September 2004). "Interview: Michael Barkun" (http://www.publiceye.org/antisemitism/nw_barkun.html). Retrieved 1 October 2009.
9. Pete Williams, Andrew Blankstein (1 November 2014). "Sources: Alleged LAX gunman had 'new world order' conspiracy tract" (<https://www.nbcnews.com/news/other/sources-alleged-lax-gunman-had-new-world-order-conspiracy-theory-f8C11514443>). NBC News. Retrieved 10 July 2014.
10. Thomas J. Knock (2019). To End All Wars, New Edition: Woodrow Wilson and the Quest for a New World Order (https://books.google.com/books?id=_rluDwAAQBAJ). Princeton University Press. ISBN 978-0-691-19192-8.
11. Buchanan, Patrick J. (1999). A Republic, Not an Empire: Reclaiming America's Destiny (<https://books.google.com/books?id=stgGsu74ui4C>). Regnery Publishing, Inc. ISBN 978-1621571001.
12. Hughes, J. "Better Living Through World Government: Transnationalism as 21st Socialism" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20131231101826/http://ieet.org/index.php/IEET/more/hughes1991worgov/>). Institute for Ethics & Emerging Technologies. Archived from the original (<http://ieet.org/index.php/IEET/more/hughes1991worgov/>) on 31 December 2013. Retrieved 10 July 2014.
13. Wells, H. G. (2006). The New World Order. Hesperides Press. ISBN 1-4067-2262-6.
14. Wagar, W. Warren (1977). H. G. Wells and the World State. Ayer Co Pub. ISBN 0-8369-5915-9.
15. Berlet, Chip (15 April 1999). "Dances with Devils: How Apocalyptic and Millennialist Themes Influence Right Wing Scapegoating and Conspiracism" (http://www.publiceye.org/apocalyptic/Dances_with_Devils_1.html). The Public Eye. Retrieved 2 April 2016.
16. Senate Report (Senate Foreign Relations Committee) (1950). Revision of the United Nations Charter: Hearings Before a Subcommittee of the Committee on Foreign Relations, Eighty-First Congress. United States Government Printing Office. p. 494. Testimony on Wikisource
17. (clip) "George Bush Sr. New World Order Live Speech Sept 11 1991" (https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=byxeOG_pZ1o). YouTube. 3 December 2011. Retrieved 14 January 2016.
18. Judis, John B. (20 November 1990). "George Bush, Meet Woodrow Wilson" (<https://www.nytimes.com/1990/11/20/opinion/george-bush-meet-woodrow-wilson.html>). The New York Times. Retrieved 10 July 2014.
19. Pitcavage, Mark; Institute for Intergovernmental Research: "Camouflage and Conspiracy. The Militia Movement From Ruby Ridge to Y2K". American Behavioral Scientist, Vol. 44, No. 6, pp. 957–81, SAGE Publications, 2001.
20. Grice, Andrew (4 April 2009). "This was the Bretton Woods of our times" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090405105014/http://www.independent.co.uk/opinion/commentators/andrew-grice/andrew-grice-this-was-the-bretton-woods-of-our-times-1662231.html>). The Independent. Archived from the original (<https://www.independent.co.uk/opinion/commentators/andrew-grice/andrew-grice-this-was-the-bretton-woods-of-our-times-1662231.html>) on 5 April 2009. Retrieved 10 July 2014.
21. Kissinger, Henry (12 January 2009). "The chance for a new world order" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2009/01/12/opinion/12iht-edkissinger.1.19281915.html>). The New York Times. Retrieved 10 July 2014.

22. Romero, George (2011). The Rescue (<https://books.google.com/books?id=fHZStF5WgTEC&pg=PA246>). p. 246. ISBN 978-1-4564-9962-4.
23. Krugman, Paul (11 June 2009). "The Big Hate" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2009/06/12/opinion/12krugman.html>). The New York Times. Retrieved 10 July 2014.
24. Anti-Defamation League (16 November 2009). "Rage Grows in America: Anti-Government Conspiracies" (http://www.adl.org/special_reports/rage-grows-in-America/default.asp). ADL Special Reports. Anti-Defamation League. Retrieved 20 November 2009.
25. Monfette, Christopher (16 March 2009). "SXSW 09: New World Order Review" (<http://uk.ign.com/articles/2009/03/16/sxsw-09-new-world-order-review>). ign.com. Retrieved 10 July 2014.
26. Gosa, Travis L. (June 2011). "Counterknowledge, racial paranoia, and the cultic milieu: Decoding hip hop conspiracy theory". Poetics. 39 (3): 187–204. doi:10.1016/j.poetic.2011.03.003 (<https://doi.org/10.1016%2Fj.poetic.2011.03.003>).
27. Johnson, George (1983). Architects of Fear: Conspiracy Theories and Paranoia in American Politics (<https://archive.org/details/architectsoffear00john>). Los Angeles: Jeremy P. Tarcher, Inc. ISBN 0-87477-275-3.
28. Hughes, Richard T. (24 February 2011). "Revelation, Revolutions, and the Tyrannical New World Order" (http://www.huffingtonpost.com/richard-t-hughes/revolutions-in-the-middle_b_827201.html). The Huffington Post. Retrieved 10 July 2014.
29. Barron, Bruce (1993). "A Summary Critique" (<https://christian.net/pub/resources/text/crj/crj-jrnl/web/crj0120a.html>). Christian Research Journal (Winter 1993): 44–45. Retrieved 15 July 2020.
30. Sine, Tom (July 1995). "Suspicions of Conspiracy: How a spirit of fear can distort scripture and history" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090724154347/http://www.sojo.net/index.cfm?action=magazine.article&issue=soj9507&article=950722>). Sojourners (July–August 1995). Archived from the original (<http://www.sojo.net/index.cfm?action=magazine.article&issue=soj9507&article=950722>) on 24 July 2009. Retrieved 10 July 2014.
31. Gomes, Peter J. (1996). The Good Book: Reading the Bible with Mind and Heart (<https://archive.org/details/goodbookreadingb00gome>). William Morrow & Co.
32. Vandruff, Dean; Vandruff, Laura. "Christians & Conspiracy Theories: A Call to Repentance" (<http://www.acts17-11.com/conspire.html>). Retrieved 30 November 2009.
33. Coughlin, Paul T. (1999). Secrets, Plots & Hidden Agendas: What You Don't Know About Conspiracy Theories. InterVarsity Press. ISBN 0-8308-1624-0.
34. De Hoyos, Arturo (2011). As it True What They Say About Freemasonry?. M. Evans and Company, revided edition. ISBN 978-1-59077-153-2.
35. McKeown, Trevor W. (5 May 2004). "Doesn't the satanic design of Washington, DC's street plan prove that there's a masonic conspiracy?" (<http://www.freemasonry.bcy.ca/anti-masonry/anti-masonry06.html#68>). Anti-masonry Frequently Asked Questions. Grand Lodge of British Columbia and Yukon A.F. & A. M. Retrieved 23 July 2009.
36. McKeown, Trevor W. (5 May 2004). "Is the eye and pyramid a masonic symbol?" (http://www.freemasonry.bcy.ca/anti-masonry/anti-masonry02.html#eye_pyramid). Anti-masonry Frequently Asked Questions. Grand Lodge of British Columbia and Yukon A.F. & A. M. Retrieved 23 July 2009.
37. Knight, Peter (2003). Conspiracy Theories in American History: An Encyclopedia (https://archive.org/details/conspiracytheori00knig_851). ABC-CLIO. pp. 227 (https://archive.org/details/conspiracytheori00knig_851/page/n244). ISBN 978-1576078129.
38. McConachie, James; Tudge, Robin (2013). Rough Guide to Conspiracy Theories, The (3rd). Rough Guides UK. ISBN 978-1409362456.
39. McKeown, Trevor W. (5 May 2004). "Does Freemasonry have a secret political agenda?" (<http://www.freemasonry.bcy.ca/anti-masonry/anti-masonry04.html#politics>). Anti-masonry Frequently Asked Questions. Grand Lodge of British Columbia and Yukon A.F. & A. M. Retrieved 23 July 2009.

40. Stauffer, Vernon L. (1918). "The European Illuminati" (<http://freemasonry.bcy.ca/anti-masonry/stauffer.html>). New England and the Bavarian Illuminati. Grand Lodge of British Columbia and Yukon A.F. & A. M. doi:10.7312/stau92126-005 (<https://doi.org/10.7312%2Fstau92126-005>). Retrieved 23 July 2009.
41. McKeown, Trevor W. (2004). "A Bavarian Illuminati primer" (<http://freemasonry.bcy.ca/texts/illuminati.html>). Retrieved 23 July 2009.
42. Soviet Jewry: Hearing before the Subcommittee on Human Rights and International Organizations, United States Congress. House. Committee on Foreign Affairs. Commission on Security and Cooperation in Europe. 1984. p. 56
43. Spargo, John (1921). The Jew and American Ideals (<https://archive.org/details/jewandamericani03spargoog>). Harper & Brothers.
44. Henry Lincoln, Michael Baigent, Richard Leigh, The Holy Blood and the Holy Grail, Corgi, 1982. ISBN 0-552-12138-X.
45. "The Priory Of Sion" (<http://www.cbsnews.com/stories/2006/04/27/60minutes/main1552009.shtml>). www.cbsnews.com.
46. Aho, Barbara (1997). "The Merovingian Dynasty: Satanic Bloodline of the AntiChrist & False Prophet" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20091212030333/http://watch.pair.com/merovingian.html>). Archived from the original (<http://watch.pair.com/merovingian.html>) on 12 December 2009. Retrieved 11 November 2009.
47. Flint, John E. (1976). Cecil Rhodes (1st ed.). Little Brown & Company. ISBN 0-316-28630-3.
48. "MR. RHODES'S IDEAL OF ANGLO-SAXON GREATNESS; Statement of His Aims, Written for W.T. Stead In 1890. He Believed a Wealthy Secret Society Should Work to Secure the World's Peace and a British-American Federation" (<https://timesmachine.nytimes.com/timesmachine/1902/04/09/101945773.pdf>) (PDF). The New York Times. 9 April 1902.
49. Curtis, Lionel. Civitas Dei: The Commonwealth of God London (1938). MacMillan & Sons
50. "About CFR" (<http://www.cfr.org/about/history/cfr/index.html>). Council on Foreign Relations.
51. Scientia Press staff. "Carroll Quigley: Theorist of Civilizations" (<http://www.scientiapress.com/carroll-quigley>).
52. McDonald, Lawrence P. Introduction. The Rockefeller File (http://www.mega.nu:8080/ampp/gary_allen_rocker/). By Gary Allen. Seal Beach, CA: '76 Press, 1976. ISBN 0-89245-001-0.
53. Rockefeller, David (2002). Memoirs (<https://archive.org/details/davidrockefeller00davi>). Random House. ISBN 0-679-40588-7.
54. Fulford, Benjamin (2007). Benjamin Fulford interviews David Rockefeller (<http://video.google.com/videoplay?docid=-3704527408635856046>).
55. Shoup, Laurence H.; Minter, William (2004). Imperial Brain Trust: The Council on Foreign Relations and United States Foreign Policy. Authors Choice Press. ISBN 0-595-32426-6.
56. Domhoff, G. William (2005). "There Are No Conspiracies" (<http://sociology.ucsc.edu/whorulesamerica/theory/conspiracy.html>). Retrieved 30 January 2009.
57. Wells, H. G. (2006). The Open Conspiracy. Book Tree. ISBN 1-58509-275-4.
58. Earle, Edward Mead (26 April 2018). "H. G. Wells, British Patriot in Search of a World State". World Politics. 2 (2): 181–208. doi:10.2307/2009188 (<https://doi.org/10.2307%2F2009188>). JSTOR 2009188 (<https://www.jstor.org/stable/2009188>).
59. Bailey, Alice A. (1957). "The Externalization of the Hierarchy" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090805093622/http://www.bibliotecapleyades.net/sociopolitica/externalisation/contents.html>). USNISA. Archived from the original (<http://www.bibliotecapleyades.net/sociopolitica/externalisation/contents.html>) on 5 August 2009. Retrieved 23 July 2009.
60. Cumbey, Constance (1985). The Hidden Dangers of the Rainbow: The New Age Movement and our Coming Age of Barbarism (<https://archive.org/details/hiddendangersofr00cumb>). Huntington House Publishers; Revised edition. ISBN 0-910311-03-X.

61. McKeown, Trevor W. (5 May 2004). "Has Freemasonry become part of the New Age movement?" (<http://www.freemasonry.bcy.ca/anti-masonry/anti-masonry08.html#new>). Anti-masonry Frequently Asked Questions. Grand Lodge of British Columbia and Yukon A.F. & A. M. Retrieved 2 November 2009.
62. Marrs, Jim (2008). The Rise of the Fourth Reich: The Secret Societies That Threaten to Take Over America (<https://archive.org/details/riseoffourthreic00marr>). William Morrow. ISBN 978-0-06-124558-9.
63. Zeskind, Leonard (2009). Blood and Politics: The History of the White Nationalist Movement from the Margins to the Mainstream (https://archive.org/details/isbn_9780374109035). Farrar, Straus and Giroux. ISBN 978-0-374-10903-5.
64. Pipes, Daniel (1 May 2003). "Inverted Totalitarianism" (<http://www.thenation.com/article/inverted-totalitarianism>). The Nation. Retrieved 21 December 2009.
65. Santillano, Vicki; Caroline, Divine. "The 10 Most Popular Conspiracy Theories" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20120502090010/http://www.alternet.org/module/printversion/140296#>). Alternet. Archived from the original (<https://www.alternet.org/module/printversion/140296>) on 2 May 2012. Retrieved 26 April 2018.
66. Frel, January (1 September 2010). "Inside the Great Reptilian Conspiracy: From Queen Elizabeth to Barack Obama – They Live!" (<http://www.alternet.org/module/printversion/147967>). Retrieved 1 September 2010.
67. Collins, Phillip D. (2006). The Ascendancy of the Scientific Dictatorship: An Examination of Epistemic Autocracy, From the 19th to the 21st Century. BookSurge Publishing. ISBN 1-4196-3932-3.
68. Hughes, James (2004). Citizen Cyborg: Why Democratic Societies Must Respond to the Redesigned Human of the Future. Westview Press. ISBN 0-8133-4198-1.
69. Holland, Joshua (15 June 2007). "Debunking the North American Union Conspiracy Theory" (<http://www.alternet.org/module/printversion/54184/>). Retrieved 9 January 2009.
70. "Bachmann: No foreign currency" (<http://www.startribune.com/politics/state/41919847.html?page=1&c=y>). Star Tribune. 26 March 2009. Retrieved 3 May 2009.
71. "The Right-Wing Echo Chamber In Action: How A Conspiracy Travels From Drudge To Obama, Via Fox News" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110515052509/http://thinkprogress.org/2009/03/25/from-drudge-to-fox>). Archived from the original (<http://thinkprogress.org/2009/03/25/from-drudge-to-fox/>) on 15 May 2011. Retrieved 18 August 2009.
72. Partridge, Mark C (14 December 2008). "One World Government: Conspiracy Theory or Inevitable Future?" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090817053548/http://www.diplomaticcourier.org/kmitan/articleback.php?newsid=259>). Archived from the original (<http://www.diplomaticcourier.org/kmitan/articleback.php?newsid=259>) on 17 August 2009. Retrieved 4 May 2014.
73. Levitas, Daniel (2004). The Terrorist Next Door: The Militia Movement and the Radical Right (<https://archive.org/details/terroristnextdoo00dani>). St. Martin's Griffin. ISBN 0-312-32041-8.
74. BBC News Special Report (5 October 1998). "Death to the New World Order" (http://news.bbc.co.uk/1/hi/special_report/1998/09/98/conspiracy_-_radio_5_live/185161.stm). Retrieved 24 June 2006.
75. Ron Rosenbaum (19 October 2007). "Who Will Rule Us After the Next 9/11?" (<http://www.slate.com/id/2176185/pagenum/all/#p2>). Retrieved 4 April 2009.
76. Albrecht, Katherine; McIntyre, Liz (2006). The Spychips Threat: Why Christians Should Resist RFID and Electronic Surveillance. Nelson Current. ISBN 1-59555-021-6.
77. "Total/Terrorism Information Awareness (TIA): Is It Truly Dead?" (https://web.archive.org/web/20090325113304/http://w2.eff.org/Privacy/TIA/20031003_comments.php). Electronic Frontier Foundation (official website). 2003. Archived from the original (https://w2.eff.org/Privacy/TIA/20031003_comments.php) on 25 March 2009. Retrieved 15 March 2009.
78. Seifert, Jeffrey W. (16 December 2004). "Data Mining: An Overview" (<https://fas.org/irp/crs/RL31798.pdf>) (PDF). Retrieved 11 October 2009.

79. Terry Melanson (22 July 2002). "Information Awareness Office (IAO): How's This for Paranoid?" (<http://www.conspiracyarchive.com/NWO/Paranoid.htm>). Illuminati Conspiracy Archive. Retrieved 11 October 2009.
80. Morris, S. Brent (1 January 2009). "The Eye in the Pyramid" (<http://web.mit.edu/dryfoo/masonry/Essays/eyepyr.html>). Short Talk Bulletin. Masonic Service Association. Retrieved 27 October 2009.
81. Baard, Mark (6 June 2006). "RFID: Sign of the (End) Times?" (<https://www.wired.com/news/culture/0,70308-0.html>). wired.com. Retrieved 18 December 2006.
82. Stanley, Jay (August 2004). "The Surveillance-Industrial Complex: How the American Government Is Conscripting Businesses and Individuals in the Construction of a Surveillance Society" (https://www.aclu.org/FilesPDFs/surveillance_report.pdf) (PDF). American Civil Liberties Union. Retrieved 14 July 2014.
83. Albo, Frank (2007). The Hermetic Code. Winnipeg Free Press. ISBN 978-0-9682575-3-1.
84. Marrs, Jim (2013). Our Occulted History. William Morrow. ISBN 978-0-06-213032-7.
85. Laycock, Joseph (6 July 2009). "10 Commandments of the Anti-Christ: Mysterious "Guidestones" Madden Conspiracy Theorists and Christian Fundamentalists" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110629170823/http://www.alternet.org/module/printversion/141107>). AlterNet. Archived from the original (<http://www.alternet.org/module/printversion/141107>) on 29 June 2011. Retrieved 14 July 2014.
86. Henig, Robin Marantz (1997). The People's Health. Joseph Henry Press. p. 85. ISBN 0-309-05492-3.
87. Rovere, Richard H. (1959). Senator Joe McCarthy. University of California Press. pp. 21–22. ISBN 0-520-20472-7.
88. "Ten health issues WHO will tackle this year" (<https://www.who.int/emergencies/ten-threats-to-global-health-in-2019>). Who.int. Retrieved 19 January 2019.
89. PM, Aristos Georgiou (15 January 2019). "The anti-vax movement has been listed by WHO as one of its top 10 health threats for 2019" (<https://www.newsweek.com/world-health-organization-who-un-global-health-air-pollution-anti-vaxxers-1292493>). Retrieved 16 January 2019.
90. Harrington, Evan (1996). "Conspiracy Theories and Paranoia: Notes from a Mind-Control Conference" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20080317115600/http://csicop.org/si/9609/conspiracy.html>). Archived from the original (<http://www.csicop.org/si/9609/conspiracy.html>) on 17 March 2008. Retrieved 23 July 2009.
91. Shrira, Ilan (11 September 2008). "Paranoia and the roots of conspiracy theories – September 11 and the psychological roots of conspiracy theories" (<http://www.psychologytoday.com/blog/the-narcissus-in-all-us/200809/paranoia-and-the-roots-conspiracy-theories>). Psychology Today. Retrieved 14 July 2014.
92. Melley, Timothy (December 1999). Empire of Conspiracy: The Culture of Paranoia in Postwar America. Cornell University Press. ISBN 0-8014-8606-8.
93. Rothkopf, David J. (2008). Superclass: The Global Power Elite and the World They Are Making. Farrar, Straus and Giroux. ISBN 978-0-374-27210-4.
94. Party for Socialism and Liberation (1 September 2010). "Daniel Estulin and the phony 'Bilderberg conspiracy'" (https://web.archive.org/web/20110807131645/http://www2.pslweb.org/site/News2/2021559999?page=NewsArticle&id=14431&news_iv_ctrl=1261). Archived from the original (http://www.pslweb.org/site/News2/2021559999?page=NewsArticle&id=14431&news_iv_ctrl=1261) on 7 August 2011. Retrieved 7 October 2010.
95. Lewis, Tyson; Kahn, Richard (2005). "The Reptoid Hypothesis: Utopian and Dystopian Representational Motifs in David Icke's Alien Conspiracy Theory" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110727215245/http://richardkahn.org/writings/culturalstudies/reptoidhypothesis.pdf>) (PDF). Archived from the original (<http://richardkahn.org/writings/culturalstudies/reptoidhypothesis.pdf>) (PDF) on 27 July 2011. Retrieved 4 June 2010.
96. Berlet, Chip (September 2004). "Interview: G. William Domhoff" (http://www.publiceye.org/antisemitism/nw_domhoff.html). Retrieved 1 October 2009.

97. "'Patriot' Paranoia: A Look at the Top Ten Conspiracy Theories" (<http://www.splcenter.org/get-informed/intelligence-report/browse-all-issues/2010/fall/patriot-paranoia>). Southern Poverty Law Center. Retrieved 2 April 2018.
98. Boyer, Paul S. (27 July 2004). "The Strange World of Conspiracy Theories" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20130310080017/http://www.religion-online.org/showarticle.asp?title=3075>). Archived from the original (<http://www.religion-online.org/showarticle.asp?title=3075>) on 10 March 2013. Retrieved 1 October 2009.
99. Holland, Joshua (12 June 2009). "The Terrorist Threat: Right-Wing Radicals and the Eliminationist Mindset" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090723075225/http://www.alternet.org/module/printversion/140578>). Archived from the original (<http://www.alternet.org/module/printversion/140578>) on 23 July 2009. Retrieved 23 July 2009.

Further reading

The following is a list of non-self-published non-fiction books that discuss New World Order conspiracy theories.

- Carr, William Guy (1954). Pawns in the Game. Legion for the Survival of Freedom, an affiliate of the Institute for Historical Review. ISBN 0-911038-29-9.
- Still, William T. (1990). New World Order: The Ancient Plan of Secret Societies (<https://archive.org/details/newworldorderanc00stil>). Huntington House Publishers. ISBN 0-910311-64-1.
- Cooper, Milton William (1991). Behold a Pale Horse. Light Technology Publications. ISBN 0-929385-22-5.
- Kah, Gary H. (1991). En Route to Global Occupation. Huntington House Publishers. ISBN 0-910311-97-8.
- Martin, Malachi (1991). Keys of This Blood: Pope John Paul II Versus Russia and the West for Control of the New World Order. Simon & Schuster. ISBN 0-671-74723-1.
- Robertson, Pat (1992). The New World Order. W Publishing Group. ISBN 0-8499-3394-3.
- Wardner, James (1994) [1993]. The Planned Destruction of America. Longwood Communications. ISBN 0-9632190-5-7.
- Keith, Jim (1995). Black Helicopters over America: Strikeforce for the New World Order (<https://archive.org/details/blackhelicopters00keit>). Illuminet Press. ISBN 1-881532-05-4.
- Cuddy, Dennis Laurence (1999) [1994]. Secret Records Revealed: The Men, The Money and The Methods Behind the New World Order. Hearthstone Publishing, Ltd. ISBN 1-57558-031-4.
- Marrs, Jim (2001) [2001]. Rule by Secrecy: The Hidden History That Connects the Trilateral Commission, the Freemasons, and the Great Pyramids (<https://archive.org/details/rulebysecrecy00jim>). HarperCollins. ISBN 0-06-093184-1.
- Lina, Jüri (2004). Architects of Deception. Referent Publishing. ASIN B0017YZELI (<https://www.amazon.com/dp/B0017YZELI>).

External links

- World Government summit \(https://worldgovernmentsummit.org/\) Official Website
-  Quotations related to New World Order at Wikiquote

Retrieved from "https://en.wikipedia.org/w/index.php?title=New_World_Order_\(conspiracy_theory\)&oldid=1026544708&oldid=1026544708)"

This page was last edited on 2 June 2021, at 22:19 (UTC).

Text is available under the Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike License; additional terms may apply. By using this site, you agree to the Terms of Use and Privacy Policy. Wikipedia® is a registered trademark of the Wikimedia Foundation, Inc., a non-profit organization.

Jewish deicide

Jewish deicide was a theological position that had been formalised in early Christianity that the Jewish people were collectively and forever responsible for the death of Jesus,^{[1][2]} a charge that was made as early as Justin Martyr and Melito of Sardis.^[3] This anti-Judaic accusation, that the Jews were Christ-killers, fed into Christian antisemitism.^[4] The slur proliferated and was used to incite mobs into hostility and even all forms of violence against Jews, including pogroms, massacres of Jews during the Crusades, expulsion of the Jewish population from England, France, Spain, Portugal and other places, and tortures of the Spanish and Portuguese Inquisitions and genocide of the Holocaust.^[5]

In the catechism produced by the Council of Trent in the mid-16th century, the Catholic Church taught that the collectivity of sinful humanity was responsible for the death of Jesus, not only the Jews.^[6]

In the Second Vatican Council (1962–1965), the Catholic Church under Pope Paul VI issued the declaration Nostra aetate that repudiated the previous doctrine of collective Jewish guilt for the crucifixion of Jesus.^[1] It declared that the accusation could not be made "against all the Jews, without distinction, then alive, nor against the Jews of today". Nevertheless, a number of Christian groups, including within the Catholic Church, reject the Second Vatican Council declaration and continue to espouse anti-Jewish views, including the charge of Jewish deicide.

Contents

Sources

Matthew 27:24–25

Historicity of Matthew 27:24–25

Historicity of Barabbas

Paul's First Letter to the Thessalonians

2nd century

4th century

Liturgy

Eastern Christianity

Western Christianity

Repudiation

See also

References

External links

Sources

Matthew 27:24–25

Justification of the charge of Jewish deicide has been sought in Matthew 27:24–25:

So when Pilate saw that he was gaining nothing, but rather that a riot was beginning, he took water and washed his hands before the crowd, saying, "I am innocent of this man's blood; see to it yourselves." And all the people answered, "His blood be on us and on our children!"

The verse which reads: "And all the people answered, 'His blood be on us and on our children!'" is also referred to as the blood curse. In an essay regarding antisemitism, biblical scholar Amy-Jill Levine argues that this passage has caused more Jewish suffering throughout history than any other passage in the New Testament.^[7]

Many also point to the Gospel of John as evidence of Christian charges of deicide. As Samuel Sandmel writes, "John is widely regarded as either the most anti-Semitic or at least the most overtly anti-Semitic of the gospels."^[8] Support for this claim comes in several places throughout John, such as in John 5:16–18:

So, because Jesus was doing these things on the Sabbath, the Jewish leaders began to persecute him. In his defense Jesus said to them, "My father is always at his work to this very day, and I too am working." For this reason they tried all the more to kill him; not only was he breaking the Sabbath, but he was even calling God his own Father, making himself equal with God.

Some scholars describe this passage as irrefutably referencing and implicating the Jews in deicide, although many, such as scholar Robert Kysar, also argue that part of the severity of this charge comes more from those who read and understand the text than the text itself. For instance, John renders the character of the Ioudaioi, the Jew, as a clear antagonist and Christ-killer, although the notion that the Jew is meant to in fact represent all Jews is often disputed.^[9] While the New Testament is often more subtle or leveled in accusations of deicide, many scholars hold that these works cannot be held in isolation, and must be considered in the context of their interpretation by later Christian communities.^[10]

Historicity of Matthew 27:24–25

According to the gospel accounts, Jewish authorities in Roman Judea charged Jesus with blasphemy and sought his execution, but lacked the authority to have Jesus put to death (John 18:31), so they brought Jesus to Pontius Pilate, the Roman governor of the province, who authorized Jesus' execution (John 19:16).^[11] The Jesus Seminar's Scholars Version translation note for John 18:31 adds: "it's illegal for us: The accuracy of this claim is doubtful." It is noted, for example, that Jewish authorities were responsible for the stoning of Saint Stephen in Acts 7:54 and of James the Just in Antiquities of the Jews^[12] without the consent of the governor. Josephus however, notes that the execution of James happened while the newly appointed governor Luceius Albinus "was but upon the road" to assume his office. Also Acts relates that the stoning happened in a lynching-like manner, in the course of Stephen's public criticism of Jews who refused to believe in Jesus.

It has also been suggested that the Gospel accounts may have downplayed the role of the Romans in Jesus' death during a time when Christianity was struggling to gain acceptance among the then pagan or polytheist Roman world.^[13] Matthew 27:24–25, quoted above, has no counterpart in the other Gospels and some scholars see it as probably related to the destruction of Jerusalem in the year 70 A.D.^[14] Ulrich

Luz describes it as "redactional fiction" invented by the author of the Gospel of Matthew.^[15] Some writers, viewing it as part of Matthew's anti-Jewish polemic, see in it the seeds of later Christian antisemitism.^[16]

In his 2011 book, Pope Benedict XVI, besides repudiating placing blame on the Jewish people, interprets the passage found in the Gospel of Matthew which has the crowd saying "Let his blood be upon us and upon our children" as not referring to the whole Jewish people.^{[17][18]}

Historicity of Barabbas

Some biblical scholars including Benjamin Urrutia and Hyam Maccoby go a step further by not only doubting the historicity of the blood curse statement in Matthew but also the existence of Barabbas.^[19] This theory is based on the fact that Barabbas's full name was given in early writings as Jesus Barabbas,^[20] meaning literally Jesus, son of the father. The theory is that this name originally referred to Jesus himself, and that when the crowd asked Pilate to release "Jesus, son of the father" they were referring to Jesus himself, as suggested also by Peter Cresswell.^{[21][22]} The theory suggests that further details around Barabbas are historical fiction based on a misunderstanding. The theory is disputed by other scholars.^[23]

Pilate Washes His Hands
by James Tissot – Brooklyn Museum

Paul's First Letter to the Thessalonians

Paul's First Letter to the Thessalonians also contains accusations of Jewish deicide:

For you, brethren, became imitators of the churches of God in Christ Jesus which are in Judea; for you suffered the same things from your own countrymen as they did from the Jews, who killed both the Lord Jesus and the prophets, and drove us out, and displease God and oppose all men. (1 Thessalonians 2:14-15)

According to Jeremy Cohen:

Even before the Gospels appeared, the apostle Paul (or, more probably, one of his disciples) portrayed the Jews as Christ's killers ... But though the New Testament clearly looks to the Jews as responsible for the death of Jesus, Paul and the evangelists did not yet condemn all Jews, by the very fact of their Jewishness, as murderers of the son of God and his messiah. That condemnation, however, was soon to come.^[24]

2nd century

The identification of the death of Jesus as the killing of God is first explicit in "God is murdered"^[25] as early as 167 AD, in a tract bearing the title Peri Pascha that may have been designed to bolster a minor Christian sect's presence in Sardis, where Jews had a thriving community with excellent relations with Greeks, and which is attributed to a Quartodeciman, Melito of Sardis,^[26] a statement is made that appears to have transformed the charge that Jews had killed their own Messiah into the charge that the Jews had killed God himself.

He who hung the earth in place is hanged; he who fixed the heavens has been fixed; he who fastened the universe has been fastened to a tree; the Sovereign has been insulted; the God has been murdered; the King of Israel has been put to death by an Israelite right hand. (lines 95–96)

If so, the author would be the first writer in the Lukan-Pauline tradition to raise unambiguously the accusation of deicide against Jews.^{[27][28]} This text blames the Jews for allowing King Herod and Caiaphas to execute Jesus, despite their calling as God's people (i.e., both were Jewish). It says "you did not know, O Israel, that this one was the firstborn of God". The author does not attribute particular blame to Pontius Pilate, but only mentions that Pilate washed his hands of guilt.^[29]

4th century

John Chrysostom made the charge of deicide the cornerstone of his theology.^[30] He was the first to use the term deicide^[31] and the first Christian preacher to apply the word deicide to the Jewish nation.^{[32][33]} He held that for this putative 'deicide', there was no expiation, pardon or indulgence possible.^[34] The first occurrence of the Latin word deicida occurs in a Latin sermon by Peter Chrysologus.^{[35][36]} In the Latin version he wrote: Iudaeos [invidia] ... fecit esse deicidas, i.e., "[Envy] made the Jews deicides".^[37]

The accuracy of the Gospel accounts' portrayal of Jewish complicity in Jesus' death has been vigorously debated in recent decades, with views ranging from a denial of responsibility to extensive culpability. According to the Jesuit scholar Daniel Harrington, the consensus of Jewish and Christian scholars is that there is some Jewish responsibility, regarding not the Jewish people, but regarding only the probable involvement of the high priests in Jerusalem at the time and their allies.^[2] Many scholars read the story of the passion as an attempt to take the blame off Pilate and place it on the Jews, one which might have been at the time politically motivated. It is thought possible that Pilate ordered the crucifixion to avoid a riot, for example.^[38] Some scholars hold that the synoptic account is compatible with traditions in the Babylonian Talmud.^[39] The writings of Moses Maimonides (a medieval Sephardic Jewish philosopher) mentioned the hanging of a certain Jesus (identified in the sources as Yashu'a) on the eve of Passover. Maimonides considered Jesus as a Jewish renegade in revolt against Judaism; religion commanded the death of Jesus and his students; and Christianity was a religion attached to his name in a later period.^[40] In a passage widely censored in pre-modern editions for fear of the way it might feed into very real anti-Semitic attitudes, Maimonides wrote of "Jesus of Nazareth, who imagined that he was the Messiah, and was put to death by the court"^[41] (that is, "by a beth din"^[42]).

Liturgy

Eastern Christianity

The Holy Friday liturgy of the Orthodox Church, as well as the Byzantine Rite Catholic churches, uses the expression "impious and transgressing people",^[43] but the strongest expressions are in the Holy Thursday liturgy, which includes the same chant, after the eleventh Gospel reading, but also speaks of "the murderers of God, the lawless nation of the Jews",^[44] and, referring to "the assembly of the Jews", prays: "But give them, Lord, their reward, because they devised vain things against Thee."^[45]

Western Christianity

A liturgy with a similar pattern but with no specific mention of the Jews is found in the Improperia of the Roman Rite of the Catholic Church. In the Anglican Church, the first Anglican Book of Common Prayer did not contain this formula, but it appears in later versions, such as the 1989 Anglican Prayer Book of the Anglican Church of Southern Africa, as The Solemn Adoration of Christ Crucified or The Reproaches.^[46] Although not part of Christian dogma, many Christians, including members of the clergy, preached that the Jewish people were collectively guilty for Jesus' death.^[1]

Repudiation

In the aftermath of World War II, Jules Isaac, a French-Jewish historian and Holocaust survivor, played a seminal role in documenting the anti-Semitic traditions which existed in the Catholic Church's thinking, instruction and liturgy. The move to draw up a formal document of repudiation gained momentum after Isaac obtained a private audience with Pope John XXIII in 1960.^[47] In the Second Vatican Council (1962–1965), the Catholic Church under Pope Paul VI issued the declaration Nostra aetate ("In Our Time"), which among other things repudiated belief in the collective Jewish guilt for the crucifixion of Jesus.^[1] Nostra aetate stated that, even though some Jewish authorities and those who followed them called for Jesus' death, the blame for what happened cannot be laid at the door of all Jews living at that time, nor can the Jews in our time be held guilty. It made no explicit mention of Matthew 27:24–25, but only of John 19:6.

On November 16, 1998, the Church Council of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America adopted a resolution which was prepared by its Consultative Panel on Lutheran-Jewish Relations. The resolution urged that any Lutheran church which was presenting a Passion play should adhere to its Guidelines for Lutheran-Jewish Relations, stating that "the New Testament ... must not be used as a justification for hostility towards present-day Jews", and it also stated that "blame for the death of Jesus should not be attributed to Judaism or the Jewish people."^{[48][49]}

Pope Benedict XVI also repudiated the Jewish deicide charge in his 2011 book Jesus of Nazareth, in which he interpreted the translation of "ochlos" in Matthew to mean the "crowd", rather than the Jewish people.^{[17][50]}

See also

- Antisemitism and the New Testament
- Antisemitism in Christianity
- Sigmund Freud's Moses and Monotheism
- Romany crucifixion legend
- Faithful Word Baptist Church
- Westboro Baptist Church

References

- "Nostra Aetate: a milestone - Pier Francesco Fumagalli" (https://www.vatican.va/jubilee_2000/magazine/documents/ju_mag_01111997_p-31_en.html). Vatican.va. Retrieved 2018-04-16.
- Greenspoon, Leonard; Hamm, Dennis; Le Beau, Bryan F. (1 November 2000). The Historical Jesus Through Catholic and Jewish Eyes (<https://books.google.com/books?id=jHtg7jYw4TgC&pg=PA78>). A&C Black. p. 78. ISBN 978-1-56338-322-9.
- Louis H. Feldman, Studies in Hellenistic Judaism, (<https://books.google.com/books?id=pACJYw0bg3QC&pg=PA310>) BRILL, 1996 ISBN 978-9-004-10418-1 pp.309ff.

4. Rainer Kampling, 'Deicide,' in Richard S. Levy (ed.), Antisemitism: A Historical Encyclopedia of Prejudice and Persecution, Vol. 1 ABC-CLIO, 2005 ISBN 978-1-851-09439-4 pp.168-169 p.169
5. Singer, Thomas; Kimbles, Samuel L. (31 July 2004). The Cultural Complex: Contemporary Jungian Perspectives on Psyche and Society (<https://books.google.com/books?id=gISPAGAAQBAJ&pg=PA33>). Routledge. p. 33. ISBN 1-135-44486-2.
6. Norman C. Tobias, Jewish Conscience of the Church: Jules Isaac and the Second Vatican Council, (<https://books.google.com/books?id=jXihDgAAQBAJ&pg=PA115>) Springer, 2017 p.115.
7. Fredriksen, Paula; Reinhartz, Adele (2002). Jesus, Judaism, and Christian Anti-Judaism: Reading the New Testament After the Holocaust (https://books.google.com/books?id=6glHmK_rZYUC&pg=PA91). Westminster John Knox Press. p. 91. ISBN 978-0-664-22328-1.
8. Walker, William O. (1979). "Anti-Semitism in the New Testament? By Samuel Sandmel. Philadelphia: Fortress Press, 1978. xxi + 168 pages". Horizons. 6 (1): 123–124. doi:10.1017/s0360966900015759 (<https://doi.org/10.1017%2Fs0360966900015759>). ISSN 0360-9669 (<https://www.worldcat.org/issn/0360-9669>).
9. Kysar, Robert (2005). Voyages with John: charting the Fourth Gospel. Baylor University Press. ISBN 1-932792-43-0. OCLC 62324647 (<https://www.worldcat.org/oclc/62324647>).
10. Feldman, Louis H.; Evans, Craig A.; Hagner, Donald A. (January 1995). "Anti-Semitism and Early Christianity: Issues of Polemic and Faith". Journal of the American Oriental Society. 115 (1): 115. doi:10.2307/605317 (<https://doi.org/10.2307%2F605317>). ISSN 0003-0279 (<https://www.worldcat.org/issn/0003-0279>). JSTOR 605317 (<https://www.jstor.org/stable/605317>).
11. The Historical Jesus Through Catholic and Jewish Eyes by Bryan F. Le Beau, Leonard J. Greenspoon and Dennis Hamm (Nov 1, 2000) ISBN 1563383225 pages 105-106
12. "20.9.1" (<http://earlyjewishwritings.com/text/josephus/ant20.html>). Earlyjewishwritings.com. Retrieved 2018-04-16.
13. Anchor Bible Dictionary vol. 5. (1992) pp. 399–400. Bantam Doubleday Dell.
14. Craig Evans, Matthew (Cambridge University Press, 2012) page 455.
15. Ulrich Luz, Studies in Matthew (William B. Eerdmans Publishing, 2005) page 58.
16. Graham Stanton, A Gospel for a New People (Westminster John Knox Press, 1993), page 148.
17. Joseph Ratzinger, Pope Benedict XVI (2011). Jesus of Nazareth (<http://www.ignatius.com/promotions/jesus-of-nazareth/excerpts.htm>). Retrieved 2011-04-18.
18. "Pope Benedict XVI Points Fingers on Who Killed Jesus" (<http://www.ctlibrary.com/ct/2011/marchweb-only/popepointsfinger.html>). 2011. Retrieved 2011-04-18.
19. Urrutia, Benjamin. "Pilgrimage", The Peaceable Table (October 2008)
20. Evans, Craig A. (2012). Matthew (New Cambridge Bible Commentary). Cambridge University Press. p. 453. ISBN 978-0521011068.
21. Peter Cresswell, Jesus The Terrorist, 2009
22. Peter Cresswell, The Invention of Jesus: How the Church Rewrote the New Testament, 2013
23. Purcell, J. Q. (1 June 1985). "Case of the Duplicate Pseudo-Barabbas, Cont" (<https://www.nytimes.com/1985/06/01/opinion/l-case-of-the-duplicate-pseudo-barabbas-cont-021853.html>). Letter to the Editor. The New York Times. Retrieved January 9, 2017.
24. Jeremy Cohen, Christ Killers: The Jews and the Passion from the Bible to the Big Screen (<https://books.google.com/books?id=83FjAgAAQBAJ&pg=PA55>), Oxford University Press 2007. p.55.
25. Stephen G. Wilson Anti-Judaism in Early Christianity: Volume 2: Separation and Polemic 0889205523 2006 "could all have been developed without reference to the Marcionites, but in the context in which Melito worked it seems ... and the assertion that 'God is murdered' (line 715) fully justify Hall's succinct summary: 'Melito does attribute to Christ all...'"
26. Lynn Cohick, 'Melito of Sardis's 'PERI PASCHA' and Its 'Israel'" (<https://www.jstor.org/stable/1509855>), The Harvard Theological Review, Vol. 91, No. 4 (October 1998), pp. 351–372.

27. Abel Mordechai Bibliowicz, Jews and Gentiles in the Early Jesus Movement: An Unintended Journey (<https://books.google.com/books?id=oSVptkVifFoC&pg=PA180&lpg=PA180>), Palgrave Macmillan, 2013 pp. 180–182.
28. Christine Shepardson, Anti-Judaism and Christian Orthodoxy: Ephrem's Hymns in Fourth-century Syria (<https://books.google.com/books?id=FNkGRTQ-ir4C&pg=PA27>), CUA Press 2008 p.27.
29. "On the passover" (<http://www.kerux.com/documents/KeruxV4N1A1.asp>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20070312203732/http://www.kerux.com/documents/KeruxV4N1A1.asp>) 2007-03-12 at the Wayback Machine pp. 57, 82, 92, 93 from Kerux: The Journal of Northwest Theological Seminary
30. Gilman, Sander L.; Katz, Steven T. (1 March 1993). Anti-Semitism in Times of Crisis (<https://books.google.com/books?id=UIRk8rudnalC&pg=PA47>). NYU Press. p. 47. ISBN 978-0-8147-3056-0.
31. Fred Gladstone Bratton, [The Crime of Christendom: The Theological Sources of Christian Anti-Semitism], Beacon Press, 1969 p. 85.
32. David F. Kessler (12 October 2012). The Falashas: A Short History of the Ethiopian Jews (<https://books.google.com/books?id=iJ0rBgAAQBAJ&pg=PA76>). Routledge. p. 76. ISBN 978-1-136-30448-4.
33. Malcolm Vivian Hay, Thy brother's blood: the roots of Christian anti-Semitism, Hart Pub. Co., 1975 p.30.
34. Flannery, Edward H. (1985). The Anguish of the Jews: Twenty-three Centuries of Antisemitism (<https://books.google.com/books?id=J40gNC7cxfYC&pg=PA52>). Paulist Press. p. 52. ISBN 978-0-8091-4324-5.
35. Wolfram Drews, The unknown neighbour: the Jew in the thought of Isidore of Seville, Brill, 2006 p.187.
36. Charleton Lewis and Charles Short, Latin Dictionary (<https://www.perseus.tufts.edu/cgi-bin/resolveform?lang=Latin>)
37. Sermons of Peter Chrysologus, vol. 6, p. 116 (<https://books.google.com/books?id=r7hNwPRc8l4C&pg=PA116-IA7&dq=%22deicidas+diximus%22&lr=&sig=rwfeA5lXsnVRv7RO17qXDJ4IMMM>), "Sermo CLXXII"
38. Kierspel, Lars (2006). The Jews and the World in the Fourth Gospel: Parallelism, Function, and Context (<https://books.google.com/books?id=68f2cdIMtfMC&pg=PA7>). Mohr Siebeck. p. 7. ISBN 978-3-16-149069-9.
39. Laato, Antii; Lindqvist, Pekka (14 September 2010). Encounters of the Children of Abraham from Ancient to Modern Times (<https://books.google.com/books?id=SlsyeCQTrclC&pg=PA152>). BRILL. p. 152. ISBN 978-90-04-18728-3. "The Babylonian Talmud, as distinct from the Palestinian Talmud, conserves these traditions, arguably, because Palestine was under Christian domination, whereas the Sassanid Empire, which hosted major academies of the Jewish diaspora, viewed Christianity inimicably. The different political situation in the latter allowed for freer dissent"
40. Davidson, Herbert (9 December 2004). Moses Maimonides: The Man and His Works (<https://books.google.com/books?id=ehlbFPJPPgQC&pg=PA293>). Oxford University Press. pp. 293, 321. ISBN 978-0-19-534361-8.
41. Menachem Marc Kellner (1996-03-28). Maimonides on the "Decline of the Generations" and the Nature of Rabbinic Authority (<https://books.google.com/books?id=E0H6jfeTonsC&pg=PA73>). SUNY Press. p. 73. ISBN 978-0-7914-2922-8.
42. Micah Goodman (2015-05-01). Maimonides and the Book That Changed Judaism: Secrets of The Guide for the Perplexed (<https://books.google.com/books?id=dnXIBgAAQBAJ&pg=PA123>). U of Nebraska Press. p. 123. ISBN 978-0-8276-1197-9.
43. Ware, Metropolitan Kallistos and Mother Mary. The Lenten Triodion. St. Tikhon's Seminary Press, 2002, p. 612 (second stichos of Lord, I Have Cried at Vespers on Holy Friday)
44. Ware, Metropolitan Kallistos and Mother Mary. The Lenten Triodion. St. Tikhon's Seminary Press, 2002, p. 589 (third stichos of the Beatitudes at Matins on Holy Friday)

45. Ware, Metropolitan Kallistos and Mother Mary. The Lenten Triodion. St. Tikhon's Seminary Press, 2002, p. 586 (thirteenth antiphon at Matins on Holy Friday). The phrase "plotted in vain" is drawn from Psalm 2:1 (<https://bible.oremus.org/?passage=Psalms%202:1&version=nrsv>).
46. An Anglican Prayer Book (1989) Church of the Province of Southern Africa
47. Tapie, Matthew A. (26 February 2015). Aquinas on Israel and the Church: Aquinas on Israel and the Church (<https://books.google.com/books?id=AZPXBgAAQBAJ&pg=PA14>). James Clarke & Co. pp. 12–14. ISBN 978-0-227-90396-4.
48. Evangelical Lutheran Church in America "Guidelines for Lutheran-Jewish Relations" (<http://www.elca.org/Who-We-Are/Our-Three-Expressions/Churchwide-Organization/Ecumenical-and-Inter-Religious-Relations/Inter-Religious-Relations/Christian-Jewish-Relations/Guidelines.aspx>) November 16, 1998
49. World Council of Churches "Guidelines for Lutheran-Jewish Relations" (<http://www.wcc-coe.org/wcc/what/interreligious/cd33-23.html>) in Current Dialogue, Issue 33 (<http://www.wcc-coe.org/wcc/what/interreligious/cd33-01.html>) July, 1999
50. "Pope Benedict XVI Points Fingers on Who Killed Jesus" (<http://www.ctlibrary.com/ct/2011/marchweb-only/popepointsfinger.html>). March 2, 2011. Retrieved 2012-09-28. "While the charge of collective Jewish guilt has been an important catalyst for anti-Semitic persecution throughout history, the Catholic Church has consistently repudiated this teaching since the Second Vatican Council."

External links

- Greenblatt, Jonathan, ed. (2020). "Deicide: Jews Killed Jesus - Antisemitism Uncovered: A Guide to Old Myths in a New Era" (<https://antisemitism.adl.org/deicide/>). Adl.org. New York: Anti-Defamation League. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20200419082000/https://antisemitism.adl.org/deicide/>) from the original on 19 April 2020. Retrieved 1 October 2020.
-

Retrieved from "https://en.wikipedia.org/w/index.php?title=Jewish_deicide&oldid=1028310237"

This page was last edited on 13 June 2021, at 06:17 (UTC).

Text is available under the Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike License; additional terms may apply. By using this site, you agree to the Terms of Use and Privacy Policy. Wikipedia® is a registered trademark of the Wikimedia Foundation, Inc., a non-profit organization.

Blood libel

Blood libel or ritual murder libel (also blood accusation)^{[1][2]} is an antisemitic canard^{[3][4][5]} which falsely accuses Jews of murdering Christian children (or other gentiles) in order to use their blood in the performance of religious rituals.^{[1][2][6]} Historically, echoing very old myths of secret cultic practices in many prehistoric societies, the claim as it is leveled against Jews was rarely attested to in antiquity but it was frequently attached to early communities of Christians in the Roman Empire, reemerging as a Christian accusation against Jews in the medieval period.^{[7][8]} This libel—alongside those of well poisoning and host desecration—became a major theme of the persecution of Jews in Europe from that period to the present day.^[4]

Blood libels typically claim that Jews require human blood for the baking of matzos, an unleavened flatbread which they eat during Passover, although this element of the accusation was allegedly absent in the earliest blood libels in which then-contemporary Jews were accused of reenacting the crucifixion. The accusations often assert that the blood of the children of Christians is especially coveted, and, historically, blood libel claims have been made in order to account for the otherwise unexplained deaths of children. In some cases, the alleged victims of human sacrifice have become venerated as Christian martyrs. Three of these – William of Norwich, Little Saint Hugh of Lincoln, and Simon of Trent – became objects of local cults and veneration; and although he was never canonized, the veneration of Simon was added to the General Roman Calendar. One child who was allegedly murdered by Jews, Gabriel of Białystok, was canonized by the Russian Orthodox Church.

In Jewish lore, blood libels served as the impetus for the writing of the Golem of Prague by Rabbi Judah Loew ben Bezalel in the 16th century.^[9] According to Walter Laqueur:

Altogether, there have been about 150 recorded cases of blood libel (not to mention thousands of rumors) that resulted in the arrest and killing of Jews throughout history, most of them in the Middle Ages. In almost every case, Jews were murdered, sometimes by a mob, sometimes following torture and a trial.^[10]

The term 'blood libel' has also been used in reference to any unpleasant or damaging false accusation, and as a result, it has acquired a broader metaphoric meaning. However, this wider usage of the term remains controversial, because Jewish groups object to it.^{[11][12][13]}

Statue of Simon of Trent, an Italian child whose disappearance and death was blamed on the leaders of the city's Jewish community

Contents

Jewish biblical teachings against murder, sacrifice, and consumption of blood

History

Possible precursors

Origins in England

Continental Europe

Renaissance and Baroque

19th century

20th century and beyond

Views of the Catholic Church

Papal pronouncements

Blood libels in Muslim lands

See also

References

Further reading

External links

Jewish biblical teachings against murder, sacrifice, and consumption of blood

It has been one of history's cruel ironies that the blood libel — accusations against Jews using the blood of murdered gentile children for the making of wine and matzot — became the false pretext for numerous pogroms. And due to the danger, those who live in a place where blood libels occur are halachically exempted from using red wine, lest it be seized as "evidence" against them.

— Pesach: What We Eat and Why We Eat It, Project Genesis^[14]

The supposed torture and human sacrifice alleged in the blood libels run contrary to the teachings of Judaism. According to the Bible, God commanded Abraham in the Binding of Isaac to sacrifice his son, but he ultimately provided a ram as a substitute. The Ten Commandments in the Torah forbid murder. In addition, the use of blood (human or otherwise) in cooking is prohibited by the kosher dietary laws (kashrut). Blood from slaughtered animals may not be consumed, and it must be drained out of the animal and covered with earth.^[15] According to the Book of Leviticus, blood from sacrificed animals may only be placed on the altar of the Great Temple in Jerusalem (which no longer existed at the time of the Christian blood libels). Furthermore, the consumption of human flesh would violate kashrut.^[16]

Also stated in Leviticus is that "it shall be a perpetual statute throughout your generations, in all your settlements: you must not eat any fat or any blood,"^[17] and "you must not eat any blood whatever, either of bird or of animal, in any of your settlements."^[18]

While animal sacrifice was part of the practice of ancient Judaism, the Tanakh (Old Testament) and Jewish teachings portray human sacrifice as one of the evils that separated the pagans of Canaan from the Hebrews,^[19] Jews were prohibited from engaging in these rituals and they were also punished for doing so.^[20] In fact, ritual cleanliness for priests even prohibited them from being in the same room with a human corpse.^[21]

History

The earliest versions of the accusation involved Jews crucifying Christian children on Easter/Passover because of a prophecy. There is no reference to the use of blood in unleavened matzo bread, which evolves later as a major motivation for the crime.^[22]

Possible precursors

The earliest known example of a blood libel is from a certain Democritus (not the philosopher) only mentioned by the Suda,^[23] who alleged that "every seven years the Jews captured a stranger, brought him to the temple in Jerusalem, and sacrificed him, cutting his flesh into bits."^[24] The Graeco-Egyptian author Apion claimed that Jews sacrificed Greek victims in their temple. This accusation is known from Josephus' rebuttal of it in Against Apion. Apion states that when Antiochus Epiphanes entered the temple in Jerusalem, he discovered a Greek captive who told him that he was being fattened for sacrifice. Every year, Apion claimed, the Jews would sacrifice a Greek and consume his flesh, at the same time swearing eternal hatred towards the Greeks.^[25] Apion's claim probably repeats ideas already in circulation because similar claims are made by Posidonius and Apollonius Molon in the 1st century BCE.^[26] Another example concerns the murder of a Christian boy by a group of Jewish youths. Socrates Scholasticus (fl. 5th century) reported that some Jews in a drunken frolic bound a Christian child on a cross in mockery of the death of Christ and scourged him until he died.^[27]

Professor Israel Jacob Yuval of the Hebrew University of Jerusalem published an article in 1993 which argues that the blood libel may have originated in the 12th century from Christian views of Jewish behavior during the First Crusade. Some Jews committed suicide and killed their own children rather than be subjected to forced conversions. Yuval investigated Christian reports of these events and stated that they were greatly distorted, with claims that, if Jews could kill their own children, they could also kill the children of Christians. Yuval rejects the blood libel story as a fantasy of some Christians which could not contain any element of truth in it due to the precarious nature of the Jewish minority's existence in Christian Europe.^{[28][29]}

Origins in England

In England in 1144, the Jews of Norwich were falsely accused of ritual murder after a boy, William of Norwich, was found dead with stab wounds in the woods. William's hagiographer, Thomas of Monmouth, falsely claimed that every year there is an international council of Jews at which they choose the country in which a child will be killed during Easter, because of a Jewish prophecy that states that the killing of a Christian child each year will ensure that the Jews will be restored to the Holy Land. In 1144, England was chosen, and the leaders of the Jewish community delegated the Jews of Norwich to perform the killing. They then abducted and crucified William.^[30] The legend was turned into a cult, with William acquiring the status of a martyr and pilgrims bringing offerings to the local church.^[31]

This was followed by similar accusations in Gloucester (1168), Bury St Edmunds (1181) and Bristol (1183). In 1189, the Jewish deputation attending the coronation of Richard the Lionheart was attacked by the crowd. Massacres of Jews at London and York soon followed. In 1190 on 16 March 150 Jews were attacked in York and then massacred when they took refuge in the royal castle, where Clifford's Tower now stands, with some committing suicide rather than being taken by the mob.^[32] The remains of 17 bodies thrown in a well in Norwich between the 12th and 13th century (five that were shown by DNA testing to likely be members of a single Jewish family) were very possibly killed as part of one of these pogroms.^[33]

After the death of Little Saint Hugh of Lincoln, there were trials and executions of Jews.^[34] The case is mentioned by Matthew Paris and Chaucer, and thus has become well-known. Its notoriety sprang from the intervention of the Crown, the first time an accusation of ritual killing had been given royal credibility.

The eight-year-old Hugh disappeared at Lincoln on 31 July 1255. His body was probably discovered on 29 August, in a well. A Jew named Copin or Koppin confessed to involvement. He confessed to John of Lexington, a servant of the crown, and relative of the Bishop of Lincoln. The church stood to gain from the establishment of a martyr's cult. Copin's confession was probably in return for the promise that his life should be spared. He is said to have confessed that the boy had been crucified by the Jews, who had assembled at Lincoln for that purpose. King Henry III, who had reached Lincoln at the beginning of October, had Copin executed and 91 of the Jews of Lincoln seized and sent up to London, where 18 of them were executed. The rest were pardoned at the intercession of the Franciscans or Dominicans.^[35] Within a few decades, Jews would be expelled from all of England in 1290 and not allowed to return until 1657.

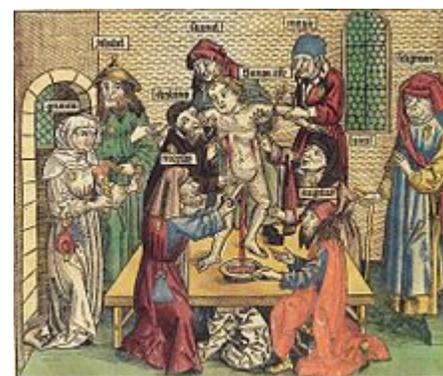

The crucifixion of William of Norwich depicted on a rood screen in Holy Trinity church, Loddon, Norfolk

Continental Europe

Much like the blood libel of England, the history of blood libel in continental Europe consists of unsubstantiated claims made about the corpses of Christian children. There were frequently associated supernatural events speculated about these discoveries and corpses, events which were often attributed by contemporaries to miracles. Also, just as in England, these accusations in continental Europe typically resulted in the execution of numerous Jews — sometimes even all, or close to all, the Jews in one town. These accusations and their effects also, in some cases, led to royal interference on behalf of the Jews.

Thomas of Monmouth's story of the annual Jewish meeting to decide which local community would kill a Christian child also quickly spread to the continent. An early version appears in Bonum Universale de Apibus ii. 29, § 23, by Thomas of Cantimpré (a monastery near Cambrai). Thomas wrote, in around 1260, "It is quite certain that the Jews of every province annually decide by lot which congregation or city is to send Christian blood to the other congregations." Thomas of Cantimpré also believed that since the time when the Jews called out to Pontius Pilate, "His blood be on us, and on our children" (Matthew 27:25 (<https://www.biblica.com/bible/?osis=niv:Matthew%2027:25>)), they have been afflicted with hemorrhages, a condition equated with male menstruation:^[36]

Simon of Trent blood libel. Illustration in Hartmann Schedel's Weltchronik, 1493

A very learned Jew, who in our day has been converted to the (Christian) faith, informs us that one enjoying the reputation of a prophet among them, toward the close of his life, made the following prediction: 'Be assured that relief from this secret ailment, to which you are exposed, can only be obtained through Christian blood ("solo sanguine Christiano").' This there was apparently light coming from the body.^[52] Reportedly, the child was hung upside down, forced to throw up the host and was cut open.^[51] In consequence, the Jews of Oberwesel and many other adjacent localities were severely persecuted during the years 1286-89. The Jews of Oberwesel were particularly targeted because there were no Jews remaining in Bacharach following a 1283 pogrom. Additionally, there were pogroms following this case as well at and around Oberwesel.^[53] Rudolph of Habsburg, to whom the Jews had appealed for protection, in order to manage the miracle story, had the archbishop of Mainz declare great wrong had been done to the Jew. This apparent declaration was very limited in effectiveness.^[53]

A statement was made, in the Chronicle of Konrad Justinger of 1423, that at Bern in 1293^[54] or 1294 the Jews tortured and murdered a boy called Rudolph (sometimes also referred to as Rudolph, Ruff, or Ruof). The body was reportedly found by the house of Jöly, a Jew. The Jewish community was then implicated. The penalties imposed upon the Jews included torture, execution, expulsion, and steep financial fines. Justinger argued Jews were out to harm Christianity.^[54] The historical impossibility of this widely credited story was demonstrated by Jakob Stammer, pastor of Bern, in 1888.^[55]

There have been several explanations put forth as to why these blood libel accusations were made and perpetuated. For example, it has been argued Thomas of Monmouth's account and other similar false accusations, as well as their perpetuation, largely had to do with the economic and political interests of leaders who did, in fact, perpetuate these myths.^[56] Additionally, it was largely believed in Europe that Jews used Christian blood for medicinal and other purposes.^[57] Despite the unsubstantiated, mythical nature of these claims, as well as their sources, they evidently materially impacted the communities in which they occurred including both the Jewish and non-Jewish populations.

Renaissance and Baroque

Simon of Trent, aged two, disappeared in 1475, and his father alleged that he had been kidnapped and murdered by the local Jewish community. Fifteen local Jews were sentenced to death and burned. Simon was regarded locally as a saint, although he was never canonised by the church of Rome. He was removed from the Roman Martyrology in 1965 by Pope Paul VI.

Christopher of Toledo, also known as Christopher of La Guardia or "the Holy Child of La Guardia", was a four-year-old Christian boy supposedly murdered in 1490 by two Jews and three conversos (converts to Christianity). In total, eight men were executed. It is now believed^[58] that this case was constructed by the Spanish Inquisition to facilitate the expulsion of Jews from Spain.

In a case at Tyrnau (Nagyszombat, today Trnava, Slovakia), the absurdity, even the impossibility, of the statements forced by torture from women and children shows that the accused preferred death as a means of escape from the torture, and admitted everything that was asked of them. They even said that Jewish men menstruated, and that the latter therefore practiced the drinking of Christian blood as a remedy.^[59]

At Bösing (Bazin, today Pezinok, Slovakia), it was charged that a nine-year-old boy had been bled to death, suffering cruel torture; thirty Jews confessed to the crime and were publicly burned. The true facts of the case were disclosed later when the child was found alive in Vienna. He had been taken there by the accuser, Count Wolf of Bazin, as a means of ridding himself of his Jewish creditors at Bazin.^{[60][61]}

From an 18th-century etching from Brückenturm. Above: The murdered body of Simon of Trent. Below: The "Judensau"

In Rinn, near Innsbruck, a boy named Andreas Oxner (also known as Anderl von Rinn) was said to have been bought by Jewish merchants and cruelly murdered by them in a forest near the city, his blood being carefully collected in vessels. The accusation of drawing off the blood (without murder) was not made until the beginning of the 17th century when the cult was founded. The older inscription in the church of Rinn, dating from 1575, is distorted by fabulous embellishments – for example, that the money paid for the boy to his godfather turned into leaves, and that a lily blossomed upon his grave. The cult continued until officially prohibited in 1994, by the Bishop of Innsbruck.^[62]

Fresco in St Paul's Church in Sandomierz, Poland, depicting blood libel

On 17 January 1670 Raphael Levy, a member of the Jewish community of Metz, was executed on charges of the ritual murder of a peasant child who had gone missing in the woods outside the village of Glatigny on 25 September 1669, the eve of Rosh Hashanah.^[63]

19th century

One of the child-saints in the Russian Orthodox Church is the six-year-old boy Gavriil Belostoksky from the village Zverki. According to the legend supported by the church, the boy was kidnapped from his home during the holiday of Passover while his parents were away. Shutko, who was a Jew from Białystok, was accused of bringing the boy to Białystok, piercing him with sharp objects and draining his blood for nine days, then bringing the body back to Zverki and dumping it at a local field. A cult developed, and the boy was canonized in 1820. His relics are still the object of pilgrimage. On All Saints Day, 27 July 1997, the Belarusian state TV showed a film alleging the story is true.^[64] The revival of the cult in Belarus was cited as a dangerous expression of antisemitism in international reports on human rights and religious freedoms^{[65][66][67][68][69]} which were passed to the UNHCR.^[70]

- 1823–35 Velizh blood libel: After a Christian child was found murdered outside of this small Russian town in 1823, accusations by a drunk prostitute led to the imprisonment of many local Jews. Some were not released until 1835.^[71]
- 1840 Damascus affair: In February, at Damascus, a Catholic monk named Father Thomas and his servant disappeared. The accusation of ritual murder was brought against members of the Jewish community of Damascus.
- 1840 Rhodes blood libel: The Jews of Rhodes, under the Ottoman Empire, were accused of murdering a Greek Christian boy. The libel was supported by the local governor and the European consuls posted to Rhodes. Several Jews were arrested and tortured, and the entire Jewish quarter was blockaded for twelve days. An investigation carried out by the central Ottoman government found the Jews to be innocent.
- In 1844 David Paul Drach, the son of the Head Rabbi of Paris and a convert to Christianity, wrote in his book De L'harmonie Entre L'eglise et la Synagogue, that a Catholic priest in Damascus had been ritually killed and the murder covered up by powerful Jews in Europe; referring to the 1840 Damascus affair [See above]
- In March 1879, ten Jewish men from a mountain village were brought to Kutaisi, Georgia to stand trial for the alleged kidnapping and murder of a Christian girl. The case attracted a great deal of attention in Russia (of which Georgia was then a part): "While periodicals as diverse in tendency as Herald of Europe and Saint Petersburg Notices expressed their amazement that medieval prejudice should have found a place in the modern judiciary of a civilized state, New Times hinted darkly of strange Jewish sects with unknown practices."^[72] The trial ended in acquittal, and the orientalist Daniel Chwolson published a refutation of the blood libel.

- 1882 Tiszaeszlár blood libel: The Jews of the village of Tiszaeszlár, Hungary were accused of the ritual murder of a fourteen-year-old Christian girl, Eszter Solymosi. The case was one of the main causes of the rise of antisemitism in the country. The accused persons were eventually acquitted.
- In 1899 Hilsner Affair: Leopold Hilsner, a Czech Jewish vagabond, was accused of murdering a nineteen-year-old Christian woman, Anežka Hružová, with a slash to the throat. Despite the absurdity of the charge and the relatively progressive nature of society in Austria-Hungary, Hilsner was convicted and sentenced to death. He was later convicted of an additional unsolved murder, also involving a Christian woman. In 1901, the sentence was commuted to life imprisonment. Tomáš Masaryk, a prominent Austro-Czech philosophy professor and future president of Czechoslovakia, spearheaded Hilsner's defense. He was later blamed by Czech media because of this. In March 1918, Hilsner was pardoned by Austrian emperor Charles I. He was never exonerated, and the true guilty parties were never found.

20th century and beyond

- The 1903 Kishinev pogrom, an anti-Jewish revolt, started when an anti-Semitic newspaper wrote that a Christian Russian boy, Mikhail Rybachenko, was found murdered in the town of Dubossary, alleging that the Jews killed him in order to use the blood in preparation of matzo. Around 49 Jews were killed and hundreds were wounded, with over 700 houses being looted and destroyed.
- In the 1910 Shiraz blood libel, the Jews of Shiraz, Iran, were falsely accused of murdering a Muslim girl. The entire Jewish quarter was pillaged; the pogrom left 12 Jews dead and about 50 injured.^[73]
- In Kyiv, a Jewish factory manager, Menahem Mendel Beilis, was accused of murdering Andrei Yushchinsky, a Christian child, and using his blood to make matzos. He was acquitted by an all-Christian jury after a sensational trial in 1913.^[74]
- In 1928, the Jews of Massena, New York were falsely accused of kidnapping and killing a Christian girl in the Massena blood libel.
- Jews were frequently accused of the ritual murder of Christians for their blood in Der Stürmer, an antisemitic newspaper which was published in Nazi Germany. The infamous May 1934 issue of the paper was later banned by the Nazi authorities, because it went so far as to compare alleged Jewish ritual murder with the Christian rite of communion.^[75]
- In 1938 the British fascist politician and veterinarian Arnold Leese published an antisemitic booklet in defense of the Blood Libel which he titled My Irrelevant Defence: Meditations inside Gaol and Out on Jewish Ritual Murder.
- The 1944–1946 Anti-Jewish violence in Poland, which according to some estimates killed as many as 1000–2000 Jews (237 documented cases),^[76] involved, among other elements, accusations of blood libel, especially in the case of the 1946 Kielce pogrom.
- King Faisal of Saudi Arabia (r. 1964–1975) made accusations against Parisian Jews that took the form of a blood libel.^[77]
- The Matzah Of Zion was written by the Syrian Defense Minister, Mustafa Tlass in 1986. The book concentrates on two issues: renewed ritual murder accusations against the Jews in the Damascus affair of 1840, and The Protocols of the Elders of Zion.^[78] The book was cited at a United Nations conference in 1991 by a Syrian delegate. On 21 October 2002, the London-based Arabic paper Al-Hayat reported that the book The Matzah of Zion was undergoing its eighth reprinting and it was also being translated into English, French and Italian. Egyptian filmmaker Munir Radhi has announced plans to adapt the book into a film.^[79]

Antisemitic flier in Kyiv, 1915: "Christians, take care of your children!!! It will be Jewish Passover on 17 March."

- In 2003, a private Syrian film company created a 29-part television series Ash-Shatat ("The Diaspora"). This series originally aired in Lebanon in late 2003 and it was subsequently broadcast by Al-Manar, a satellite television network owned by Hezbollah. This TV series, based on the antisemitic forgery The Protocols of the Learned Elders of Zion, shows the Jewish people engaging in a conspiracy to rule the world, and it also presents Jews as people who murder the children of Christians, drain their blood and use it to bake matzah.
- In early January 2005, some 20 members of the Russian State Duma publicly made a blood libel accusation against the Jewish people. They approached the Prosecutor General's Office and demanded that Russia "ban all Jewish organizations." They accused all Jewish groups of being extremist, "anti-Christian and inhumane, and even accused them of practices that include ritual murders." Alluding to previous antisemitic Russian court decrees that accused the Jews of ritual murder, they wrote that "Many facts of such religious extremism were proven in courts." The accusation included traditional antisemitic canards, such as the claim that "the whole democratic world today is under the financial and political control of international Jewry. And we do not want our Russia to be among such unfree countries". This demand was published as an open letter to the prosecutor general, in Rus Pravoslavnaya (Русь православная, "Orthodox Russia"), a national-conservative newspaper. This group consisted of members of the ultra-nationalist Liberal Democrats, the Communist faction, and the nationalist Motherland party, with some 500 supporters. The mentioned document is known as "The Letter of Five Hundred" ("Письмо пятисот").^{[80][81]} Their supporters included editors of nationalist newspapers as well as journalists. By the end of the month, this group was strongly criticized, and it retracted its demand in response.
- At the end of April 2005, five boys, ages 9 to 12, in Krasnoyarsk (Russia) disappeared. In May 2005, their burnt bodies were found in the city sewage. The crime was not disclosed, and in August 2007 the investigation was extended until 18 November 2007.^[82] Some Russian nationalist groups claimed that the children were murdered by a Jewish sect with a ritual purpose.^{[83][84]} Nationalist M. Nazarov, one of the authors of "The Letter of Five Hundred" alleges "the existence of a 'Hasidic sect', whose members kill children before Passover to collect their blood", using the Beilis case mentioned above as evidence. M.Nazarov also alleges that "the ritual murder requires throwing the body away rather than its concealing". "The Union of the Russian People" demanded officials thoroughly investigate the Jews, not stopping at the search in synagogues, Matzah bakeries and their offices.^[85]
- During a speech in 2007, Raed Salah, the leader of the northern branch of the Islamic Movement in Israel, referred to Jews in Europe having in the past used children's blood to bake holy bread. "We have never allowed ourselves to knead [the dough for] the bread that breaks the fast in the holy month of Ramadan with children's blood", he said. "Whoever wants a more thorough explanation, let him ask what used to happen to some children in Europe, whose blood was mixed in with the dough of the [Jewish] holy bread."^[86]
- In the 2000s, a Polish team of anthropologists and sociologists investigated the currency of the blood libel myth in Sandomierz where a painting depicting the blood libel adorns the Cathedral and Orthodox faithful in villages near Bialystok, and they discovered that these beliefs persist among some Catholic and Orthodox Christians.^{[87][88][89]}
- In an address that aired on Al-Aqsa TV, a Hamas run TV station in Gaza, on 31 March 2010, Salah Eldeen Sultan (Arabic: صلاح الدين سلطان), founder of the American Center for Islamic Research in Columbus, Ohio, the Islamic American University in Southfield, Michigan, and the Sultan Publishing Co.^[90] and described in 2005 as "one of America's most noted Muslim scholars", alleged that Jews kidnap Christians and others in order to slaughter them and use their blood for making matzos. Sultan, who is currently a lecturer on Muslim jurisprudence at Cairo University stated that: "The Zionists kidnap several non-Muslims [sic] – Christians and others... this happened in a Jewish neighborhood in Damascus. They killed the French doctor, Toma, who used to treat the Jews and others for free, in order to spread Christianity. Even though he was their friend and they benefited from him the most, they took him on one of these holidays and slaughtered him, along with the nurse. Then they kneaded the matzos with the blood of Dr. Toma and his nurse. They do this every year. The world must know these facts about the Zionist entity and its terrible corrupt creed. The world should know this." (Translation by the Middle East Media Research Institute)^{[91][92][93][94][95]}

Painting of blood libel in Sandomierz Cathedral

- During an interview which aired on Rotana Khalijiya TV on 13 August 2012, Saudi Cleric Salman Al-Odeh stated (as translated by MEMRI) that "It is well known that the Jews celebrate several holidays, one of which is the Passover, or the Matzos Holiday. I read once about a doctor who was working in a laboratory. This doctor lived with a Jewish family. One day, they said to him: 'We want blood. Get us some human blood.' He was confused. He didn't know what this was all about. Of course, he couldn't betray his work ethics in such a way, but he began inquiring, and he found that they were making matzos with human blood." Al-Odeh also stated that "[Jews] eat it, believing that this brings them close to their false god, Yahweh" and that "They would lure a child in order to sacrifice him in the religious rite that they perform during that holiday."^{[96][97]}
- In April 2013, the Palestinian non-profit organization MIFTAH, founded by Hanan Ashrawi apologized for publishing an article which criticized US President Barack Obama for holding a Passover Seder in the White House by saying "Does Obama, in fact, know the relationship, for example, between 'Passover' and 'Christian blood'...?! Or 'Passover' and 'Jewish blood rituals?!' Much of the chatter and gossip about historical Jewish blood rituals in Europe is real and not fake as they claim; the Jews used the blood of Christians in the Jewish Passover." MIFTAH's apology expressed its "sincerest regret."^[98]
- In an interview which aired on Al-Hafez TV on 12 May 2013, Khaled Al-Zaafrani of the Egyptian Justice and Progress Party, stated (as translated by MEMRI): "It's well known that during the Passover, they [the Jews] make matzos called the 'Blood of Zion.' They take a Christian child, slit his throat and slaughter him. Then they take his blood and make their [matzos]. This is a very important rite for the Jews, which they never forgo... They slice it and fight over who gets to eat Christian blood." In the same interview, Al-Zaafrani stated that "The French kings and the Russian czars discovered this in the Jewish quarters. All the massacring of Jews that occurred in those countries were because they discovered that the Jews had kidnapped and slaughtered children, in order to make the Passover matzos."^{[99][100][101]}
- In an interview which aired on the Al-Quds TV channel on 28 July 2014 (as translated by MEMRI), Osama Hamdan, the top representative of Hamas in Lebanon, stated that "we all remember how the Jews used to slaughter Christians, in order to mix their blood in their holy matzos. This is not a figment of imagination or something taken from a film. It is a fact, acknowledged by their own books and by historical evidence."^[102] In a subsequent interview with CNN's Wolf Blitzer, Hamdan defended his comments, stating that he "has Jewish friends".^[103]
- In a sermon broadcast on the official Jordanian TV channel on 22 August 2014, Sheik Bassam Ammouh, a former Minister of Administrative Development who was appointed to Jordan's House of Senate ("Majlis al-Aayan") in 2011, stated (as translated by MEMRI): "In [the Gaza Strip] we are dealing with the enemies of Allah, who believe that the matzos that they bake on their holidays must be kneaded with blood. When the Jews were in the diaspora, they would murder children in England, in Europe, and in America. They would slaughter them and use their blood to make their matzos... They believe that they are God's chosen people. They believe that the killing of any human being is a form of worship and a means to draw near their god."^[104]
- In March 2020, Italian painter Giovanni Gasparro unveiled a painting of the martyrdom of Simon of Trent, titled "Martirio di San Simonino da Trento (Simone Unverdorben), per omicidio rituale ebraico" (The Martyrdom of St. Simon of Trento in accordance with Jewish ritual murder)". The painting was condemned by the Italian Jewish community and the Simon Wiesenthal Center, among others.^{[105][106]}

Views of the Catholic Church

The attitude of the Catholic Church towards these accusations and the cults venerating children supposedly killed by Jews has varied over time. The Papacy generally opposed them, although it had problems in enforcing its opposition.

In 1911, the Dictionnaire apologétique de la foi catholique, an important French Catholic encyclopedia, published an analysis of the blood libel accusations.^[107] This may be taken as being broadly representative of educated Catholic opinion in continental Europe at that time. The article noted that the popes had generally refrained from endorsing the blood libel, and it concluded that the accusations were unproven in a general sense, but it left open the possibility that some Jews had committed ritual murders of Christians. Other contemporary Catholic sources (notably the Jesuit periodical La Civiltà Cattolica) promoted the blood libel as truth.^[108]

Today, the accusations are almost entirely discredited in Catholic circles, and the cults associated with them have fallen into disfavour. For example, Simon of Trent's local status as a saint was removed in 1965.

Papal pronouncements

- Pope Innocent IV took action against the blood libel: "5 July 1247 Mandate to the prelates of Germany and France to annul all measures adopted against the Jews on account of the ritual murder libel, and to prevent the accusation of Arabs on similar charges" (The Apostolic See and the Jews, Documents: 492–1404; Simonsohn, Shlomo, pp. 188–189, 193–195, 208). In 1247, he wrote also that "Certain of the clergy, and princes, nobles and great lords of your cities and dioceses have falsely devised certain godless plans against the Jews, unjustly depriving them by force of their property, and appropriating it themselves;... they falsely charge them with dividing up among themselves on the Passover the heart of a murdered boy...In their malice, they ascribe every murder, wherever it chance to occur, to the Jews. And on the ground of these and other fabrications, they are filled with rage against them, rob them of their possessions without any formal accusation, without confession, and without legal trial and conviction, contrary to the privileges granted to them by the Apostolic See... Since it is our pleasure that they shall not be disturbed,... we ordain that ye behave towards them in a friendly and kind manner. Whenever any unjust attacks upon them come under your notice, redress their injuries, and do not suffer them to be visited in the future by similar tribulations."^[109]
- Pope Gregory X (1271–1276) issued a letter which criticized the practice of blood libels and forbade arrests and persecution of Jews based on a blood libel, ... unless which we do not believe they be caught in the commission of the crime.^[110]
- Pope Paul III, in a bull of 12 May 1540, made clear his displeasure at having learned, through the complaints of the Jews of Hungary, Bohemia, and Poland, that their enemies, looking for a pretext to lay their hands on the Jews' property, were falsely attributing terrible crimes to them, in particular that of killing children and drinking their blood.
- Pope Pius V in the bull Hebraeorum gens sola (26 February 1569), by which he expelled Jews from all the cities of the Papal States except Rome and Ancona,^[111] made multiple accusations of wrongdoing against the Jews, including usury, theft, receiving stolen goods, pimping, divination, and magic. He did not mention the blood libel.
- Pope Benedict XIV wrote the bull Beatus Andreas (22 February 1755) in response to an application for the formal canonization of the 15th-century Andreas Oxner, a folk saint alleged to have been murdered by Jews "out of hatred for the Christian faith". Benedict did not dispute the factual claim that Jews murdered Christian children, and in anticipating that further cases on this basis would be brought appears to have accepted it as accurate, but decreed that in such cases beatification or canonization would be inappropriate.^[112]

Blood libels in Muslim lands

In late 1553 or 1554, Suleiman the Magnificent, the reigning Sultan of the Ottoman Empire, issued a firman (royal decree) which formally denounced blood libels against the Jews.^[113] In 1840, following the Western outrage arising from the Damascus affair, British politician and leader of the British Jewish community, Sir Moses Montefiore, backed by other influential westerners including Britain's Lord Palmerston and Damascus consul Charles Henry Churchill,^[114] the French lawyer Adolphe Crémieux, Austrian consul Giovanni Gasparo Merlato, Danish missionary John Nicolayson,^[114] and Solomon Munk, persuaded Sultan Abdulmejid I in Constantinople, to issue a firman on 6 November 1840 intended to halt the spread of blood libel accusations in the Ottoman Empire. The edict declared that blood libel accusations were a slander against Jews and they would be prohibited throughout the Ottoman Empire, and read in part:

"... and for the love we bear to our subjects, we cannot permit the Jewish nation, whose innocence for the crime alleged against them is evident, to be worried and tormented as a consequence of accusations which have not the least foundation in truth..."

In the remainder of the 19th century and into the 20th century, there were many instances of the blood libel in Ottoman lands.^[115] However the libel almost always came from the Christian community, sometimes with the connivance of Greek or French diplomats.^[115] The Jews could usually count on the goodwill of the Ottoman authorities and increasingly on the support of British, Prussian and Austrian representatives.^[115]

In the 1910 Shiraz blood libel, the Jews of Shiraz, Iran, were falsely accused of murdering a Muslim girl. The entire Jewish quarter was pillaged, with the pogrom leaving 12 Jews dead and about 50 injured.

In 1983, Mustafa Tlass, the Syrian Minister of Defense, wrote and published The Matzah of Zion, which is a treatment of the Damascus affair of 1840 that repeats the ancient "blood libel", that Jews use the blood of murdered non-Jews in religious rituals such as baking Matza bread.^[116] In this book, he argues that the true religious beliefs of Jews are "black hatred against all humans and religions", and no Arab country should ever sign a peace treaty with Israel.^[117] Tlass re-printed the book several times and stands by its conclusions. Following the book's publication, Tlass told Der Spiegel, that this accusation against Jews was valid and he also claimed that his book is "an historical study ... based on documents from France, Vienna and the American University in Beirut."^{[117][118]}

In 2003, the Egyptian newspaper Al-Ahram published a series of articles by Osama El-Baz, a senior advisor to the then Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak. Among other things, Osama El-Baz explained the origins of the blood libel against the Jews. He said that Arabs and Muslims have never been antisemitic, as a group, but he accepted the fact that a few Arab writers and media figures attack Jews "on the basis of the racist fallacies and myths that originated in Europe". He urged people not to succumb to "myths" such as the blood libel.^[119]

Nevertheless, on many occasions in modern times, blood libel stories have appeared in the state-sponsored media of a number of Arab and Muslim nations, as well as on their television shows and websites, and books which allege instances of Jewish blood libels are not uncommon there.^[120] The blood libel was featured in a scene in the Syrian TV series Ash-Shatat, shown in 2003.^{[121][122]}

In 2007, Lebanese poet Marwan Chamoun, in an interview aired on Télé Liban, referred to the "... slaughter of the priest Tomaso de Camangiano ... in 1840... in the presence of two rabbis in the heart of Damascus, in the home of a close friend of this priest, Daud Al-Harari, the head of the Jewish community of Damascus. After he was slaughtered, his blood was collected, and the two rabbis took it."^[123] A novel, Death of a Monk, based on the Damascus affair, was published in 2004.

See also

- Blood atonement
- Blood curse
- Blood ritual
- Cake of Light
- Conspiracy theory
- Human cannibalism
- Kiddush#History of using white wine
- Sefer HaRazim
- Moral panic
- Pizzagate conspiracy theory
- QAnon
- Satanic ritual abuse

References

Notes

1. Gottheil, Richard; Strack, Hermann L.; Jacobs, Joseph (1901–1906). "Blood Accusation" (<http://jewishencyclopedia.com/articles/3408-blood-accusation>). Jewish Encyclopedia. New York: Funk & Wagnalls.
2. Dundes, Alan, ed. (1991). The Blood Libel Legend: A Casebook in Anti-Semitic Folklore (<https://archive.org/details/bloodlibellegend00alan>). University of Wisconsin Press. ISBN 978-0-299-13114-2.
3. Turvey, Brent E. Criminal Profiling: An Introduction to Behavioral Evidence Analysis, Academic Press, 2008, p. 3. "Blood libel: An accusation of ritual murder made against one or more persons, typically of the Jewish faith".
4. Chanes, Jerome A. Antisemitism: A Reference Handbook, ABC-CLIO, 2004, pp. 34–45. "Among the most serious of these [anti-Jewish] manifestations, which reverberate to the present day, were those of the libels: the leveling of charges against Jews, particularly the blood libel and the libel of desecrating the host."
5. Goldish, Matt. Jewish Questions: Responsa on Sephardic Life in the Early Modern Period, Princeton University Press, 2008, p. 8. "In the period from the twelfth to the twentieth centuries, Jews were regularly charged with blood libel or ritual murder – that Jews kidnapped and murdered non-Jews as part of a Jewish religious ritual."
6. Zeitlin, S "The Blood Accusation" (<https://www.jstor.org/pss/1453766>) Vigiliae Christianae, Vol. 50, No. 2 (1996), pp. 117–124
7. Norman Cohn, Europe's Inner Demons, (1975) Paladin Books 1976 pp.1-8.
8. Albert Ehrman, 'The Origins of the Ritual Murder Accusation and Blood Libel,' Tradition vol.14, No.4 Spring 1976 p.83

9. Angelo S. Rappoport The Folklore of the Jews (London: Soncino Press, 1937), pp. 195–203 (<http://www.pitt.edu/~dash/golem.html>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110418003740/http://www.pitt.edu/~dash/golem.html>) 18 April 2011 at the Wayback Machine
10. Walter Laqueur (2006): The Changing Face of Antisemitism: From Ancient Times to the Present Day, Oxford University Press, ISBN 0-19-530429-2. p. 56
11. "What does 'blood libel' mean?" (<https://www.bbc.com/news/world-us-canada-12176503>). 12 January 2011. Retrieved 16 April 2018 – via www.bbc.com.
12. Jim Geraghty (12 January 2011). "The Term 'Blood Libel': More Common Than You Might Think" (<https://www.nationalreview.com/the-campaign-spot/term-blood-libel-more-common-you-might-think-jim-geraghty/>). National Review. Retrieved 16 April 2018.
13. Boteach, Shmuley (14 January 2011). "Sarah Palin Is Right About 'Blood Libel' " (<https://www.wsj.com/articles/SB10001424052748703583404576079823067585318>). wsj.com.
14. Rutman, Rabbi Yisrael. "Pesach: What We Eat and Why We Eat It" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20130509103442/http://torah.org/features/holydays/passover/pesacheat.html>). torah.org. Project Genesis Inc. Archived from the original (<http://www.torah.org/features/holydays/passover/pesacheat.html>) on 9 May 2013. Retrieved 14 April 2013.
15. Leviticus 17:12–13 (<https://www.biblica.com/bible/?osis=niv:Leviticus%2017:12-13>)
16. What is (http://magentzedek.org/?page_id=81)kashrut; "Eating blood is forbidden. Blood is blood, whether it comes from a human being or an animal. In prohibiting the consumption of blood, the Torah seems to be concerned that it can excite a blood-lust in human beings and may desensitize us to the suffering of human beings when their blood is spilled."
17. "Bible Gateway passage: Leviticus 3:17 – New Revised Standard Version" (<https://www.biblegateway.com/passage/?search=Leviticus+3:17&version=NRSV>). Bible Gateway. Retrieved 12 March 2018.
18. "Bible Gateway passage: Leviticus 7:26 – New Revised Standard Version" (<https://www.biblegateway.com/passage/?search=Leviticus+7:26&version=NRSV>). Bible Gateway. Retrieved 12 March 2018.
19. Deuteronomy 12:31 (<https://www.biblica.com/bible/?osis=niv:Deuteronomy%2012:31>), 2 Kings 16:3 (<https://www.biblica.com/bible/?osis=niv:2%20Kings%2016:3>)
20. Exodus 34:15 (<https://www.biblica.com/bible/?osis=niv:Exodus%2034:15>), Leviticus 20:2 (<https://www.biblica.com/bible/?osis=niv:Leviticus%2020:2>), Deuteronomy 18:12 (<https://www.biblica.com/bible/?osis=niv:Deuteronomy%2018:12>), Jeremiah 7:31 (<https://www.biblica.com/bible/?osis=niv:Jeremiah%207:31>)
21. Leviticus 21:11 (<https://www.biblica.com/bible/?osis=niv:Leviticus%2021:11>).
22. Paul R. Bartrop, Samuel Totten, Dictionary of Genocide, ABC-CLIO, 2007, p. 45.
23. BLOOD ACCUSATION (<http://www.jewishencyclopedia.com/articles/3408-blood-accusation#3489>) in Jewish Encyclopedia. (Richard Gottheil, Hermann L. Strack, Joseph Jacobs). Accessed 10/31/18. Note that the version of the Jewish Encyclopedia here quoted misspells the name Damocritus as Democritus, the name of an unrelated philosopher.
24. David Patterson (2015). Anti-Semitism and Its Metaphysical Origins (https://books.google.com/books?id=F_1DBgAAQBAJ&pg=PA1). Cambridge University Press. p. 1. ISBN 978-1-107-04074-8.
25. Louis H. Feldman, Jew and Gentile in the Ancient World: Attitudes and Interactions from Alexander to Justinian, Princeton University Press, Princeton, New Jersey, 1993. pp. 126–27.
26. Feldman, Louis H. Studies in Hellenistic Judaism, Brill, 1996, p. 293.
27. "Blood libel in Syria" (<https://www.jewishvirtuallibrary.org/jsource/History/syriabloodlibel.html>). Jewishvirtuallibrary.org. Retrieved 23 January 2010.
28. Lily Galili (18 February 2007). "And if it's not good for the Jews?" (<http://www.haaretz.com/hasen/spages/827036.html>). Haaretz. Retrieved 18 February 2007.
29. Two Nations in Your Womb: Perceptions of Jews and Christians in Late Antiquity and the Middle Ages by Israel J. Yuval; translated by Barbara Harshav and Jonathan Chipman, University of California Press, 2006

30. Langham, Raphael (10 March 2008). "William of Norwich" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110718203040/http://www.jhse.org/node/44?page=0%2C0>). The Jewish Historical Society of England. Archived from the original (<http://www.jhse.org/node/44?page=0%2C0>) on 18 July 2011. Retrieved 1 July 2019.;
Langmuir, Gavin I (1996), Toward a Definition of Antisemitism, University of California Press, pp. 216ff.
31. This article incorporates text from a publication now in the public domain: Herbermann, Charles, ed. (1913). "St. William of Norwich" (<http://www.newadvent.org/cathen/15635a.htm>). Catholic Encyclopedia. New York: Robert Appleton Company.
32. Design, SUMO. "The 1190 Massacre: History of York" (<http://www.historyofyork.org.uk/themes/norman/the-1190-massacre>). www.historyofyork.org.uk.
33. "Jewish bodies found in medieval well in Norwich" (<https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/uk-13855238>). BBC News. 23 June 2011.
34. "The Knight's Tale of Young Hugh of Lincoln", Gavin I. Langmuir, Speculum, Vol. 47, No. 3 (July 1972), pp. 459–482.
35. See Langmuir (1972), p479; Jacobs, Jewish Ideals, pp. 192–224
36. Albert Ehrman, "The Origins of the Ritual Murder Accusation and Blood Libel," Tradition: A Journal of Orthodox Jewish Thought, Vol. 15, No. 4 (Spring 1976): 86
37. Albert Ehrman, "The Origins of the Ritual Murder Accusation and Blood Libel," Tradition: A Journal of Orthodox Jewish Thought, Vol. 15, No. 4 (Spring 1976): 88.
38. Albert Ehrman, "The Origins of the Ritual Murder Accusation and Blood Libel," Tradition: A Journal of Orthodox Jewish Thought, Vol. 15, No. 4 (Spring 1976): 85.
39. Susan L. Einbinder "Pucellina of Blois: Romantic Myths and Narrative Conventions," Jewish History, Vol. 12, No. 1 (Spring 1998): 29
40. Hallo, William W.; Ruderman, David B.; Stanislawski, Michael, eds. (1984). Heritage: Civilization and the Jews: Source Reader. Santa Barbara, California: Praeger Special Studies. p. 134. ISBN 978-0275916084.
41. "The Martyrs of Blois" (<http://www.chabad.org/library/article.asp?AID=112387>). Chabad.org. 16 June 2006. Retrieved 23 January 2010.
42. Trachtenberg, Joshua, ed. (1943). The Devil and the Jews, The Medieval Conception of the Jew and its Relation to Modern Anti-Semitism. Yale University Press. ISBN 0-8276-0227-8.
43. Susan L. Einbinder "Pucellina of Blois: Romantic Myths and Narrative Conventions," Jewish History, Vol. 12, No. 1 (Spring 1998): 30-31.
44. Susan L. Einbinder "Pucellina of Blois: Romantic Myths and Narrative Conventions," Jewish History, Vol. 12, No. 1 (Spring 1998): 31.
45. "1235: 34 Jews Burned to Death in First 'Blood Cannibalism' Case" (<https://www.haaretz.com/jewish/premium-1235-34-jews-burned-to-death-1.5352841>). Haaretz. 28 December 2014. Retrieved 22 June 2020.
46. "Blood Libel" (<https://www.jewishvirtuallibrary.org/blood-libel>). www.jewishvirtuallibrary.org.
47. Steven K. Baum, "When Fairy Tales Kill," Journal for the Study of Antisemitism, Vol. 1, No. 2 (2009): 190-191.
48. Siegmund Salfeld, Das Martyrologium des Nürnberger Memorbuches (1898), pp. 15, 128–130
49. "Blood Libel," Zionism and Israel — Encyclopedic Dictionary, n.d. http://www.zionism-israel.com/dic/blood_libel.htm.
50. Jörg R. Müller, "Erez gezerah— 'Land of Persecution': Pogroms against the Jews in the regnum Teutonicum from c. 1280 to 1350," The Jews of Europe in the Middle Ages (Tenth to Fifteenth Centuries): Proceedings of the International Symposium, ed. Christoph Cluse (20–25 October 2002): 249.
51. Ariel Toaff, Blood Passover, trans. Gian Marco Lucchese and Pietro Gianetti (AAARG, 2007): 64.

52. Jörg R. Müller, "Erež gezerah—‘Land of Persecution’: Pogroms against the Jews in the regnum Teutonicum from c. 1280 to 1350," The Jews of Europe in the Middle Ages (Tenth to Fifteenth Centuries): Proceedings of the International Symposium, ed. Christoph Cluse (20–25 October 2002): 249-250.
53. Jörg R. Müller, "Erež gezerah—‘Land of Persecution’: Pogroms against the Jews in the regnum Teutonicum from c. 1280 to 1350," The Jews of Europe in the Middle Ages (Tenth to Fifteenth Centuries): Proceedings of the International Symposium, ed. Christoph Cluse (20–25 October 2002): 250.
54. Albert Winkler, "The Approach of the Black Death in Switzerland and the Persecution of Jews, 1348–1349," Swiss American Historical Society Review, Vol. 43, No. 3 (2007): 14.
55. "Katholische Schweizer-Blätter", Lucerne, 1888.
56. Jeffrey Cohen, Review of The Murder of William of Norwich: The Origins of the Blood Libel in Medieval Europe, by E.M. Rose Journal of Interdisciplinary History, Vol. 47, No. 3 (Winter 2017): 410.
57. Joshua Trachtenberg, The Devil and the Jews: The Medieval Conception of the Jew and its Relation to Modern Anti-Semitism. (Vardo Books, 2001): 142-143.
58. Reston, James: "Dogs of God: Columbus, the Inquisition, and the defeat of the Moors", p. 207. Doubleday, 2005. ISBN 0-385-50848-4
59. (:Unav) (2017). "Sexing_the_Jewish_Body.PDF" (<https://academiccommons.columbia.edu/doi/10.7916/D89Z9CT6/download>). doi:10.7916/D89Z9CT6 (<https://doi.org/10.7916%2FD89Z9CT6>).
60. richardsh (27 May 2015). "27 May 1529 Blood Libel and Burning to Death of 30 Jews in Bazin, Hungary #otdimjh" (<https://jewinthepeew.org/2015/05/27/27-may-1529-blood-libel-and-burning-to-death-of-30-jews-in-bazin-hungary-otdimjh/>). On This Day In Messianic Jewish History. Retrieved 29 September 2020.
61. "Pezinok" (<https://www.jewishvirtuallibrary.org/pezinok>). www.jewishvirtuallibrary.org. Retrieved 29 September 2020.
62. Medieval Sourcebook: A Blood Libel Cult: Anderl von Rinn, d. 1462 (<http://www.fordham.edu/halsall/source/rinn.html>) www.fordham.edu.
63. Edmund Levin, The Exoneration of Raphael Levy (<https://www.wsj.com/articles/SB10001424052702303973704579357000706882812>), The Wall Street Journal, 2 February 2014. Accessed 10 October 2016.
64. Is the New in the Post-Soviet Space Only the Forgotten Old? (<http://www.vestnik.com/issues/97/0902/win/stonov.htm>) by Leonid Stonov, International Director of Bureau for the Human Rights and Law-Observance in the Former Soviet Union, the President of the American Association of Jews from the former USSR
65. Belarus. International Religious Freedom Report 2003 (<http://www.4humanrights.org/by/eng/reports/relig2003.shtml>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20070907160230/http://www.4humanrights.org/by/eng/reports/relig2003.shtml>) 7 September 2007 at the Wayback Machine Released by the Bureau of Democracy, Human Rights and Labor
66. Belarus. International Religious Freedom Report 2004 (<https://2001-2009.state.gov/g/drl/rls/irf/2004/37195.htm>) Released by the Bureau of Democracy, Human Rights, and Labor
67. Belarus. International Religious Freedom Report 2005 (<https://2001-2009.state.gov/g/drl/rls/irf/2005/51542.htm>) Released by the Bureau of Democracy, Human Rights, and Labor
68. Belarus. International Religious Freedom Report 2006 (<https://2001-2009.state.gov/g/drl/rls/irf/2006/71370.htm>) Released by the Bureau of Democracy, Human Rights, and Labor
69. "Belarus". Annual Report on International Religious Freedom for 2004 (<https://web.archive.org/web/20100106153449/http://foreignaffairs.house.gov/archives/108/91075d.pdf>) (PDF). U.S. Department of State. p. 281. Archived from the original (<http://www.foreignaffairs.house.gov/archives/108/91075d.pdf>) (PDF) on 6 January 2010. Retrieved 23 January 2010.

70. "U.S. Department of State Annual Report on International Religious Freedom for 2006 - Belarus" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20070907060158/http://www.unhcr.org/home/RSDCOI/450fb0b128.html>). UNHCR. Archived from the original (<http://www.unhcr.org/home/RSDCOI/450fb0b128.html>) on 7 September 2007. Retrieved 10 August 2013.
71. Avrutin, Eugene (2017). The Velizh Affair: Blood Libel in a Russian Town. Oxford: Oxford University Press. ISBN 9780190640521.
72. Effie Ambler, Russian Journalism and Politics: The Career of Aleksei S. Suvorin, 1861–1881 (Detroit: Wayne State University Press, 1972: ISBN 0-8143-1461-9), p. 172.
73. Littman, David (1979). "Jews Under Muslim Rule: The Case Of Persia" (http://www.dhimmitude.org/archive/littman_jews_under_muslims_case_of_persia.pdf) (PDF). Institute of Contemporary History. p. 14.
74. Malamud, Bernard, ed. (1966). The Fixer. POCKET BOOKS, a Simon & Schuster division of GULF & WESTERN CORPORATION. ISBN 0-671-82568-2.
75. German propaganda archive – Caricatures from Der Stürmer (<http://research.calvin.edu/german-propaganda-archive/sturmer.htm>), Calvin College website.
76. Bankier, David (1 January 2005). The Jews are Coming Back: The Return of the Jews to Their Countries of Origin After WW II (<https://books.google.com/books?id=UFVFMxjppqLgC>). Berghahn Books. ISBN 9781571815279.
77. Gerber, Gane S. (1986). "Anti-Semitism and the Muslim World". In Berger, David (ed.). History and hate: the dimensions of anti-Semitism. Philadelphia: Jewish Publication Society. p. 88. ISBN 0-8276-0267-7. LCCN 86002995 (<https://lccn.loc.gov/86002995>). OCLC 13327957 (<https://www.worldcat.org/oclc/13327957>).
78. Frankel, Jonathan. The Damascus Affair: "Ritual Murder", Politics, and the Jews in 1840, pp. 418, 421. Cambridge University Press, 1997. ISBN 978-0-521-48396-4
79. Jeffrey Goldberg (2008). Prisoners: A Story of Friendship and Terror (<https://books.google.com/books?id=NQABTDuvi68C&pg=PA250>). Vintage Books. p. 250. ISBN 978-0-375-72670-5.
80. "Письмо пятисот. Вторая серия. Лучше не стало" (http://xeno.sova-center.ru/45A29F2/5295297?pub_copy=on). Xeno.sova-center.ru. Retrieved 23 January 2010.
81. "Русская линия / Актуальные темы / "Письмо пятисот": Обращение в Генеральную прокуратуру представителей русской общественности с призывом запретить в России экстремистские еврейские организации" (<http://www.rusk.ru/tema.php?idaid=14>). Rusk.ru. Retrieved 23 January 2010.
82. "The investigation of the murder of five schoolboys in Krasnoyarsk was extended again (Regnum, 20 August 2007)" (<http://regnum.ru/news/872810.html>). Regnum.ru. 20 August 2007. Retrieved 23 January 2010.
83. "'Jewish people were accused with murder of children in Krasnoyarsk' ("Regnum", 12 May 2005)" (<http://regnum.ru/news/454284.html>). Regnum.ru. 16 May 2005. Retrieved 23 January 2010.
84. "Russian nationalistic publishers "Russian Idea", the article about the antisemitic movement "Living Without the Fear of the Jews.", June 2007: "...the murder of five children in Krasnoyarsk, which bodies were bloodless. Our layer V. A. Solomatov said that there is undoubtedly a ritual murder..." (<http://www.rusidea.org/index.php?a=2001>). Rusidea.org. Retrieved 23 January 2010.
85. "В убийстве красноярских детей обвинили евреев и вспомнили дело Бейлиса" (<http://regnum.ru/news/454284.html>) [Hasids were accused in Krasnoyarsk children murder, the Beilis Affair was reanimated]. regnum.ru. 16 May 2005.
86. "Islamic Movement head charged with incitement to racism, violence" (<http://www.haaretz.com/news/islamic-movement-head-charged-with-incitement-to-racism-violence-1.238209>), Haaretz, 29 January 2008.
87. Joanna Tokarska-Bakir, Legendy o krwi, antropologia przesądu (Anthropology of Prejudice: Blood Libel Myths) Warsaw, WAB, 2008, 796 pp, 89 złotys, reviewed here by Jean-Yves Potel (http://www.booksandideas.net/spip.php?page=print&id_article=1054&lang=fr)

88. "Legendy o krwi. Antropologia przesądu" (<http://lubimyczytac.pl/ksiazka/23894/legendy-o-krwi-antropologia-przesadu>). Lubimyczytać.pl (in Polish). Retrieved 13 July 2019.
89. Jaskułowski, Krzysztof (21 April 2010). "Legendy o krwi" (<http://www.miesiecznik.znak.com.pl/6592010krzysztof-jaskulowskillegendy-o-krwi/>). Miesięcznik Znak (in Polish). Retrieved 13 July 2019.
90. "Egyptian extremists an ill wind in Arab Spring" by Harry Sterling, Calgary Herald, 2 September 2011. p. A13
91. Blood Libel on Hamas' Al-Aqsa TV – American Center for Islamic Research President Dr. Sallah Sultan: Jews Murder Non-Jews and Use Their Blood for Passover Matzos (<http://www.memri.org/report/en/print4099.htm>), MEMRI, Special Dispatch No. 2907, 14 April 2010.
92. Blood Libel on Hamas TV - President of the American Center for Islamic Research Dr. Sallah Sultan: Jews Murder Non-Jews and Use Their Blood to Knead Passover Matzos (http://www.memritv.org/clip_transcript/en/2443.htm), MEMRITV, clip no. 2443 – Transcript, 31 March 2010 (video clip available here (<http://www.memritv.org/clip/en/2443.htm>)).
93. Islamic group invited anti-Semitic speaker (<http://www.thelocal.se/32806/20110325/>) Archived (<http://web.archive.org/web/20110816220334/http://www.thelocal.se/32806/20110325/>) 16 August 2011 at the Wayback Machine, The Local (Sweden's News in English), 25 March 2011.
94. Egypt: More Calls to Murder Israelis (<http://www.israelnationalnews.com/News/News.aspx/147288>) by Maayana Miskin, Arutz Sheva 7 (Israelnationalnews.com), 28 August 2011.
95. Why the Muslim Association doesn't express reservations towards Antisemitism (<http://antisemitism.org.il/article/64564/why-muslim-association-doesn%E2%80%99t-expresses-reservations-towards-antisemitism>) by Willie Silberstein, Coordination Forum for Countering Antisemitism (CFCA), 17 April 2011.
96. Saudi Cleric Salman Al-Odeh: Jews Use Human Blood for Passover Matzos (http://www.memritv.org/clip_transcript/en/3536.htm), MEMRITV, Clip No. 3536, (transcript), 13 August 2012.
97. Saudi cleric accuses Jewish people of genocide, drinking human blood (<http://www.timesofisrael.com/saudi-cleric-accuses-jewish-people-of-genocide-drinking-human-blood/>) by Ilan Ben Zion, The Times of Israel, 16 August 2012.
98. Palestinian non-profit belatedly apologizes for blood libel article (<http://www.jta.org/news/article/2013/04/02/3123361/palestinian-non-profit-belatedly-apologizes-for-blood-libel-article>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20130406011957/http://www.jta.org/news/article/2013/04/02/3123361/palestinian-non-profit-belatedly-apologizes-for-blood-libel-article>) 6 April 2013 at the Wayback Machine
99. Egyptian Politician Khaled Zaafrani: Jews Use Human Blood for Passover Matzos (http://www.memritv.org/clip_transcript/en/3873.htm), MEMRITV, Clip No. 3873 (transcript), 24 May 2013 (see also: Video Clip (<http://www.memritv.org/clip/en/0/0/0/0/0/0/3873.htm>)).
00. Egyptian Politician: Jews Use Human Blood for Passover Matzos (<http://www.israelnationalnews.com/News/News.aspx/169004#.Ub6MqHFza-8>) by Elad Benari, Arutz Sheva, 17 June 2013.
01. Egyptian politician revives Passover blood libel (<http://www.timesofisrael.com/egyptian-politician-revives-passover-blood-libel/>) by Gavriel Fiske, Times of Israel, 19 June 2013.
02. Top Hamas Official Osama Hamdan: Jews Use Blood for Passover Matzos (http://www.memritv.org/clip_transcript/en/4384.htm), MEMRITV, Clip No. 4384 (transcript), 28 July 2014. (video clip available here (<http://www.memritv.org/clip/en/0/0/0/0/0/0/4384.htm>))
03. Blood libel: the myth that fuels anti-Semitism (<http://religion.blogs.cnn.com/2014/08/06/blood-libel-the-short-history-of-a-dangerous-myth/>) by Candida Moss and Joel Baden, special to CNN, 6 August 2014.
04. Friday Sermon by Former Jordanian Minister: Jews Use Children's Blood for Their Holiday Matzos (http://www.memritv.org/clip_transcript/en/4454.htm), MEMRI Clip No. 4454 (transcript), 22 August 2014. (video clip available here (<http://www.memritv.org/clip/en/0/0/0/0/0/0/4454.htm>)).
05. Reich, Aaron (27 March 2020). "Italian artist accused of antisemitism for new painting of blood libel" (<https://www.jpost.com/Diaspora/Antisemitism/Italian-artist-accused-of-antisemitism-for-new-painting-of-blood-libel-622578>). The Jerusalem Post. Retrieved 12 April 2020.

06. Liphshiz, Cnaan (28 March 2020). "talian painter unveils depiction of 1475 blood libel" (<http://www.israelnationalnews.com/News/News.aspx/277933>). Israel National News. Retrieved 12 April 2020.
07. English translation here (<http://counterenlightenment.blogspot.com/2011/04/blood-libel-view-from-1911.html>).
08. As shown by David Kertzer in The Popes Against the Jews (New York, 2001), pp. 161–63.
09. Pope Innocent IV (<https://www.newadvent.org/cathen/08017a.htm>), Catholic Encyclopedia (1910), Vol. 8, pp. 393–394
10. Pope Gregory X. "Medieval Sourcebook: Gregory X: Letter on Jews, (1271-76) - Against the Blood Libel" (<http://www.fordham.edu/halsall/source/g10-jews.html>). Retrieved 7 May 2007.
11. Gianfranco Miletto, "The Human Body as a Musical Instrument in the Sermons of Judah Moscato", in The Jewish Body: Corporeality, Society, and Identity in the Renaissance and Early Modern Period, edited by Giuseppe Veltri and Maria Diemling (Leiden, 2009), p. 384.
12. Marina Caffiero, Forced Baptisms: Histories of Jews, Christians, and Converts in Papal Rome, translated by Lydia G. Cochrane (University of California Press, 2012), pp. 34-36.
13. Mansel, Philip (1998). Constantinople: City of the World's Desire, 1453–1924. New York: St. Martin's Griffin. p. 124. ISBN 978-0-312-18708-8.
14. Lewis, Donald (2 January 2014). The Origins of Christian Zionism: Lord Shaftesbury And Evangelical Support For A Jewish Homeland. Cambridge: Cambridge University Press. p. 380. ISBN 9781107631960.
15. Bernard Lewis (1984). The Jews of Islam. Princeton University Press. pp. 158–159.
16. An Anti-Jewish Book Linked to Syrian Aide (<https://www.nytimes.com/1986/07/15/world/an-anti-jewish-book-linked-to-syrian-aide.html>), The New York Times, 15 July 1986.
17. "Literature Based on Mixed Sources – Classic Blood Libel: Mustafa Tlass' Matzah of Zion" (https://web.archive.org/web/20110413063812/http://www.adl.org/css/mix_blood_libel.asp). ADL. Archived from the original (http://www.adl.org/css/mix_blood_libel.asp) on 13 April 2011. Retrieved 5 July 2012.
18. Blood Libel (<http://hnn.us/articles/664.html>) Judith Apter Klinghoffer, History News Network, 19 December 2006.
19. Osama El-Baz. "Al-Ahram Weekly Online, 2–8 January 2003 (Issue No. 619)" (<http://weekly.ahram.org.eg/2003/619/focus.htm>). Weekly.ahram.org.eg. Retrieved 23 January 2010.
20. Antisemitic blood libel in the modern world:
 - In 1986, the Defense Minister of Syria Mustafa Tlass authored the book The Matzah of Zion. The book renews the anti-Jewish ritual murder accusations of 1840 Damascus affair and alleges that The Protocols of the Elders of Zion is a factual document. (Frankel, Jonathan. The Damascus Affair: "Ritual Murder", Politics, and the Jews in 1840, pp. 418, 421. Cambridge University Press, 1997. ISBN 978-0-521-48396-4)
 - In 2001 an Egyptian film company produced and aired a film titled Horseman Without a Horse, partly based on Tlass's book.
 - The Syrian TV series Ash-Shatat ("The Diaspora") depicts Jews engaging in a conspiracy to rule the world, murder Christian children, and use their blood to bake matzah.
 - Iranian TV Blood Libel (<http://www.memri.org/report/en/0/0/0/0/177/1561.htm>) 22 December 2005
 - King Faisal of Saudi Arabia accused Jews of a blood libel in Paris. Gane S. Gerber (1986): History and hate: the dimensions of anti-Semitism. Jewish Publication Society of America ISBN 0827602677 p. 88
21. Anti-Semitic Series airs on Arab Television (http://archive.adl.org/special_reports/protocols/protocols_recycled.html#.VhNkrPIVgol) Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20150630002519/http://archive.adl.org/special_reports/protocols/protocols_recycled.html#.VhNkrPIVgol) 30 June 2015 at the Wayback Machine, Anti Defamation League, 9 January 2004
22. Clip (https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=KHqXt_JNSt8) from Ash-Shatat, MEMRI

23. Lebanese Poet Marwan Chamoun: Jews Slaughtered Christian Priest in Damascus in 1840 and Used His Blood for Matzos (<http://memri.org/bin/articles.cgi?Page=archives&Area=sd&ID=SP145307>) (MEMRI Special Dispatch Series - No. 1453) February 6, 2007

Further reading

- Bemporad, Elissa (2019). Legacy of Blood: Jews, Pogroms, and Ritual Murder in the Lands of the Soviets. Oxford University Press. ISBN 978-0-19-046647-3.
- Dundes, Alan (1991). The Blood Libel Legend: A Casebook in Anti-Semitic Folklore (<https://archive.org/details/bloodlibellegend00alan>). University of Wisconsin Press. ISBN 978-0-299-13114-2.
- Gensler, Paul and Ernst, Gabriel (2011) Die Damaskusaffäre: Judeophobie in einer anonymen Damszener Chronik. Grin Verlag. ISBN 9783656026105
- Hsia, R. Po-chia (1998) The Myth of Ritual Murder: Jews and Magic in Reformation Germany. New Haven: Yale University Press. ISBN 0-300-04120-9
- O'Brien, Darren (2011) The Pinnacle of Hatred: The Blood Libel and the Jews. Jerusalem: Vidal Sassoon International Center for the Study of Antisemitism, Hebrew University Magnes Press. ((isbn|978-9654934770}})
- Rose, E. M. (2015) The Murder of William of Norwich: The Origins of the Blood Libel in Medieval Europe. Oxford University Press ((isbn| ISBN 9780190219628}}
- Teter, Magda (2020). Blood Libel: On the Trail of an Antisemitic Myth. Harvard University Press. ISBN 978-0-674-24355-2.
- Yuval, Israel Jacob (2006) Two Nations in Your Womb: Perceptions of Jews and Christians in Late Antiquity and the Middle Ages. Berkeley: University of California Press. pp. 135-204

External links

- Urban Legends Reference Pages: Religion (Blood Feast) (<https://www.snopes.com/fact-check/blood-feast/>)
- Example of anti-Semitic propaganda (<https://web.archive.org/web/20121213064109/http://www.stsimonoftrent.com/>)
- Resources > Medieval Jewish History > Blood Libels Jewish History Resource Center, Project of the Dinur Center for Research in Jewish History Hebrew University of Jerusalem (http://jewishhistory.huji.ac.il/Internetresources/historyresources/medieval.htm#Blood_Libels)
- The Port Jews of Corfu and the 'Blood Libel' of 1891: A Tale of Many Centuries and of One Event Athanasios (Sakis) Gekas (<https://www.tandfonline.com/doi/abs/10.1080/1462169X.2004.10512017?journalCode=rjch20>)
- The Ritual Murder Libel and the Jew: The Report by Cardinal Lorenzo Ganganelli (Pope Clement XIV.) edited by Cecil Roth (1935) (<https://archive.org/stream/TheRitualMurderLibelAndTheJew/RothRitualMurderLibelJr#page/n0/mode/2up>)
- Raphael Langham William of Norwich The Jewish Historical Society of England (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110515102803/http://www.jhse.org/node/44?page=0%2C6>)
- The Life and Miracles of St William of Norwich by Thomas of Monmouth (edited by Augustus Jessopp DD) (<https://archive.org/stream/lifemiraclesofst00thomuoft#page/n11/mode/2up>)
- Antisemitic painting in Sandomierz Cathedral (17th century) Karol (Charles) de Prévôt; an Italian painter of French extraction (https://commons.wikimedia.org/wiki/File:Sandomierz_katedra_-_mord_rytualny.jpg)
- The Jewish Virtual Library (<https://www.jewishvirtuallibrary.org/blood-libel/>)

Retrieved from "https://en.wikipedia.org/w/index.php?title=Blood_libel&oldid=1027437188"

This page was last edited on 7 June 2021, at 22:40 (UTC).

Text is available under the Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike License; additional terms may apply. By using this site, you agree to the Terms of Use and Privacy Policy. Wikipedia® is a registered trademark of the Wikimedia Foundation, Inc., a non-profit organization.

Jewish Bolshevism

Jewish Bolshevism, also Judeo–Bolshevism, is an anti-communist and antisemitic canard, which alleges that the Jews were the originators of the Russian Revolution in 1917, and that they held primary power among the Bolsheviks who led the revolution. Similarly, the conspiracy theory of Jewish Communism alleges that Jews have dominated the Communist movements in the world, and is related to the Zionist Occupation Government conspiracy theory (ZOG), which alleges that Jews control world politics.^[1]

In 1917, after the Russian Revolution, the antisemitic canard was the title of the pamphlet The Jewish Bolshevism, which featured in the racist propaganda of the anti-communist White movement forces during the Russian Civil War (1918–1922). During the 1930s, the Nazi Party in Germany and the German American Bund in the United States propagated the antisemitic theory to their followers, sympathisers, and fellow travellers.^{[2][3][4][5]} In Poland, Żydokomuna was a term for the antisemitic opinion that the Jews had a disproportionately high influence in the administration of Communist Poland. In far-right politics, the antisemitic canards of "Jewish Bolshevism", "Jewish Communism", and the ZOG conspiracy theory are catchwords falsely asserting that Communism is a Jewish conspiracy.^[6]

Contents

Origins

Jewish involvement in Russian Communism

Nazi Germany

Outside Nazi Germany

Great Britain, 1920s

Works propagating the Jewish Bolshevism canard

The Octopus

Behind Communism

Analysis of the Jewish Bolshevism canard

See also

Notes

References

Further reading

External links

Origins

The conflation of Jews and revolution emerged in the atmosphere of destruction of Russia during World War I. When the revolutions of 1917 crippled Russia's war effort, conspiracy theories developed far from Berlin and Petrograd. Many Britons for example ascribed the Russian Revolution to an "apparent conjunction of Bolsheviks, Germans and Jews".^[8] By December 1917, five of the twenty-one members of the Communist Central Committee were Jews: the commissar for foreign affairs, the president of the Supreme Soviet, the deputy chairman of the Council of People's Commissars, the president of Petrograd Soviet, and the deputy director of the Cheka secret police.^[9]

The worldwide spread of the concept in the 1920s is associated with the publication and circulation of The Protocols of the Elders of Zion, a fraudulent document that purported to describe a secret Jewish conspiracy aimed at world domination. The expression made an issue out of the Jewishness of some leading Bolsheviks (such as Leon Trotsky) during and after the October Revolution. Daniel Pipes said that "primarily through The Protocols of the Elders of Zion, the Whites spread these charges to an international audience."^[10] James Webb wrote that it is rare to find an antisemitic source after 1917 that "does not stand in debt to the White Russian analysis of the Revolution".^[11]

Jewish involvement in Russian Communism

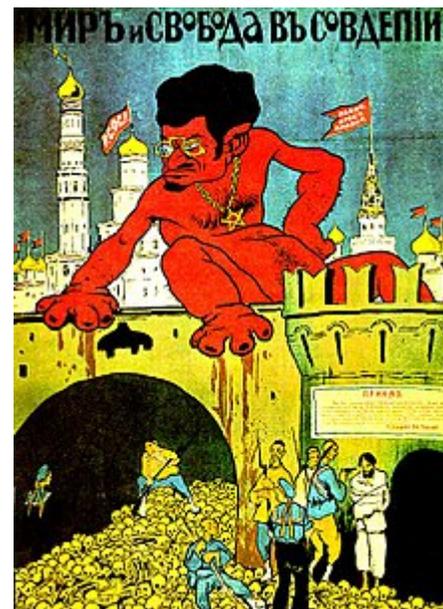

Antisemitism in the Russian Empire existed both culturally and institutionally. The Jews were restricted to live within the Pale of Settlement,^[12] and suffered pogroms.^[13]

As a result, many Jews supported gradual or revolutionary changes within the Russian Empire. Those movements ranged among the far left (Jewish Anarchism,^[14] Bundists, Bolsheviks, Mensheviks,^[15]) and moderate left (Trudoviks^[16]) and constitutionalist (Constitutional Democrats^[17]) parties. According to the 1922 Bolshevik party census, there were 19,564 Jewish Bolsheviks, comprising 5.21% of the total, and in the 1920s of the 417 members of the Central Executive Committee, the party Central Committee, the Presidium of the Executive of the Soviets of the USSR and the Russian Republic, the People's Commissars, 6% were ethnic Jews.^[18] Between 1936 and 1940, during the Great Purge, Yezhovshchina and after the rapprochement with Nazi Germany, Stalin had largely eliminated Jews from senior party, government, diplomatic, security and military positions.^[19]

Some scholars have grossly exaggerated Jewish presence in the Soviet Communist Party. For example, Alfred Jensen said that in the 1920s "75 per cent of the leading Bolsheviks" were "of Jewish origin". According to Aaronovitch, "a cursory examination of membership of the top committees shows this figure to be an absurd exaggeration".^[20]

In 2013, speaking about the Schneerson Collection at the Moscow Jewish Museum and the Center for Tolerance, Russian President Vladimir Putin erroneously noted that

"The decision to nationalize the library was made by the first Soviet government, and Jews were approximately 80–85% members".^[21]

White movement propaganda poster from the Russian Civil War era (1919), a caricature of Leon Trotsky, who was viewed as a symbol of Jewish Bolshevism.^[7]

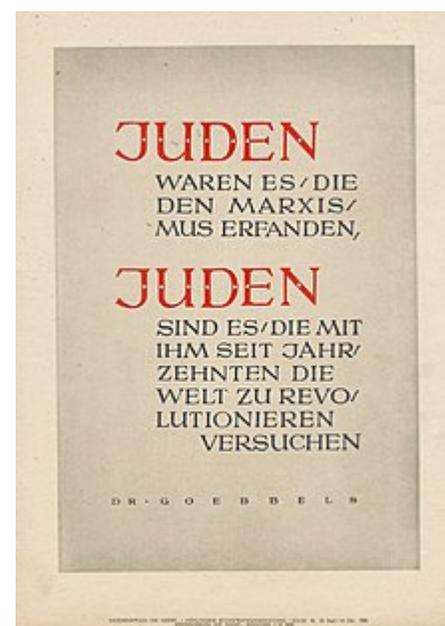

According to historian Vladimir Ryzhkov, Putin's ignorant statement about the predominance of Jews in the Council of People's Commissars is due to the fact that "during the years of perestroika, he read the tabloid press".^[22] Some media outlets also criticized the statements of the President of the Russian Federation. So the editors of the newspaper Vedomosti, condemning the head of state for marginality, posted the following statistics:^{[23][24]}

"If we discard the speculations of pseudoscientists who know how to find the Jewish origin of every revolutionary, it turns out that in the first composition of the Council of People's Commissars of Jews there were 8%: of its 16 members, only Leon Trotsky was a Jew. In the government of the Russian Socialist Federative Soviet Republic of 1917–1922 Jews were 12% (six out of 50 people). Apart from the government, the Central Committee of the Russian Social Democratic Labour Party (Bolsheviks) on the eve of October 1917 had 20% Jews (6 out of 30), and in the first composition of the political bureau of the Central Committee of the Russian Communist Party (Bolsheviks) – 40% (3 out of 7)".— Vedomosti (dated 17 June 2013).

Nazi Germany

Walter Laqueur traces the Jewish-Bolshevik conspiracy theory to Nazi ideologue Alfred Rosenberg, for whom Bolshevism was "the revolt of the Jewish, Slavic and Mongolian races against the German (Aryan) element in Russia". Germans, according to Rosenberg, had been responsible for Russia's historic achievements and had been sidelined by the Bolsheviks, who did not represent the interests of the Russian people, but instead those of its ethnic Jewish and Chinese population.^[25]

Michael Kellogg, in his Ph.D. thesis, argues that the racist ideology of Nazis was to a significant extent influenced by White émigrés in Germany, many of whom, while being former subjects of the Russian Empire, were of non-Russian descent: ethnic Germans, residents of Baltic lands including Baltic Germans, and Ukrainians. Of particular role was their Aufbau organization (Aufbau: Wirtschafts-politische Vereinigung für den Osten (Reconstruction: Economic-Political Organization for the East)). For example, its leader was instrumental in making The Protocols of The Elders of Zion available in German language. He argues that early Hitler was rather philosemitic, and became rabidly antisemitic after 1919 under the influence of the White émigré convictions about the conspiracy of the Jews, an unseen unity from financial capitalists to Bolsheviks, to conquer the world.^[26] Therefore, his conclusion is that White émigrés were at the source of the Nazi concept of Jewish Bolshevism. Annemarie Sammartino argues that this view is contestable. While there is no doubt that White emigres were instrumental in reinforcing the idea of 'Jewish Bolshevism' among Nazis, the concept is also found in many German early post–World War I documents. Also, Germany had its own share of Jewish Communists "to provide fodder for the paranoid fantasies of German antisemites" without Russian Bolsheviks.^[27]

Wochenspruch der NSDAP of 28 September 1941, accuses Jews of creating Marxism

During the 1920s, Hitler declared that the mission of the Nazi movement was to destroy "Jewish Bolshevism".^[28] Hitler asserted that the "three vices" of "Jewish Marxism" were democracy, pacifism and internationalism,^[29] and that the Jews were behind Bolshevism, communism and Marxism.^[30]

In Nazi Germany, this concept of Jewish Bolshevism reflected a common perception that Communism was a Jewish-inspired and Jewish-led movement seeking world domination from its origin. The term was popularized in print in German journalist Dietrich Eckhart's 1924 pamphlet "Der Bolschewismus von Moses bis Lenin" ("Bolshevism from Moses to Lenin") which depicted Moses and Lenin as both being Communists and Jews. This was followed by Alfred Rosenberg's 1923 edition of The Protocols of the Elders of Zion and Hitler's Mein Kampf in 1925, which saw Bolshevism as "Jewry's twentieth century effort to take world dominion unto itself".

According to French spymaster and writer Henri Rollin, "Hitlerism" was based on "anti-Soviet counter-revolution" promoting the "myth of a mysterious Jewish–Masonic–Bolshevik plot", entailing that the First World War had been instigated by a vast Jewish–Masonic conspiracy to topple the Russian, German, and Austro-Hungarian Empires and implement Bolshevism by fomenting liberal ideas.^[31]

A major source for propaganda about Jewish Bolshevism in the 1930s and early 1940s was the pro-Nazi and antisemitic international Welt-Dienst news agency founded in 1933 by Ulrich Fleischhauer.

Within the German Army, a tendency to see Soviet Communism as a Jewish conspiracy had grown since the First World War, something that became officialized under the Nazis. A 1932 pamphlet by Ewald Banse of the Government-financed German National Association for the Military Sciences described the Soviet leadership as mostly Jewish, dominating an apathetic and mindless Russian population.^[32]

Propaganda produced in 1935 by the psychological war laboratory of the German War Ministry described Soviet officials as "mostly filthy Jews" and called on Red Army soldiers to rise up and kill their "Jewish commissars". This material was not used at the time, but served as a basis for propaganda in the 1940s.^[33]

Members of the SS were encouraged to fight against the "Jewish Bolshevik sub-humans". In the pamphlet The SS as an Anti-Bolshevist Fighting Organization, published in 1936, Reichsführer-SS Heinrich Himmler wrote:

We shall take care that never again in Germany, the heart of Europe, will the Jewish-Bolshevik revolution of subhumans be able to be kindled either from within or through emissaries from without.^[34]

In his speech to the Reichstag justifying Operation Barbarossa in 1941, Hitler said:

For more than two decades the Jewish Bolshevik regime in Moscow had tried to set fire not merely to Germany but to all of Europe ... The Jewish Bolshevik rulers in Moscow have unswervingly undertaken to force their domination upon us and the other European nations and that is not merely spiritually, but also in terms of military power ... Now the time has come to confront the plot of the Anglo-Saxon Jewish war-mongers and the equally Jewish rulers of the Bolshevik centre in Moscow!^[35]

German antisemitic and anti-Soviet propaganda poster, written in the Polish language. The text reads "Death! to Jewish-Bolshevik pestilence of murdering!"

Field-Marshal Wilhelm Keitel gave an order on 12 September 1941 which declared: "the struggle against Bolshevism demands ruthless and energetic, rigorous action above all against the Jews, the main carriers of Bolshevism".^[36]

Historian Richard J. Evans wrote that Wehrmacht officers regarded the Russians as "sub-human", and were from the time of the invasion of Poland in 1939 telling their troops the war was caused by "Jewish vermin", explaining to the troops that the war against the Soviet Union was a war to wipe out what were variously described as "Jewish Bolshevik subhumans", the "Mongol hordes", the "Asiatic flood" and the "red beast", language clearly intended to produce war crimes by reducing the enemy to something less than human.^[37]

Joseph Goebbels published an article in 1942 called "the so-called Russian soul" in which he claimed that Bolshevism was exploiting the Slavs and that the battle of the Soviet Union determined whether Europe would become under complete control by international Jewry.^[38]

Nazi propaganda presented Barbarossa as an ideological-racial war between German Nazism and "Judeo-Bolshevism", dehumanising the Soviet enemy as a force of Slavic Untermensch (sub-humans) and "Asiatic" savages engaging in "barbaric Asiatic fighting methods" commanded by evil Jewish commissars whom German troops were to grant no mercy.^[39] The vast majority of the Wehrmacht officers and soldiers tended to regard the war in Nazi terms, seeing their Soviet opponents as sub-human.^[40]

While National Socialism brought about a new version and formulation of European culture, Bolshevism is the declaration of war by Jewish-led international subhumans against culture itself. It is not only anti-bourgeois, but it is also anti-cultural. It means, in the final consequence, the absolute destruction of all economic, social, state, cultural, and civilizing advances made by western civilization for the benefit of a rootless and nomadic international clique of conspirators, who have found their representation in Jewry.

— Joseph Goebbels, Nazi Party Congress in Nuremberg, September 1935^[41]

Outside Nazi Germany

Great Britain, 1920s

In the early 1920s, a leading British antisemite, Henry Hamilton Beamish, stated that Bolshevism was the same thing as Judaism.^[42] In the same decade, future wartime Prime Minister Winston Churchill penned an editorial entitled "Zionism versus Bolshevism", which was published in the Illustrated Sunday Herald. In the article, which asserted that Zionism and Bolshevism were engaged in a "struggle for the soul of the Jewish people", he called on Jews to repudiate "the Bolshevik conspiracy" and make clear that "the Bolshevik movement is not a Jewish movement" but stated that:

[Bolshevism] among the Jews is nothing new. From the days of Spartacus-Weishaupt to those of Karl Marx, and down to Trotsky (Russia), Bela Kun (Hungary), Rosa Luxemburg (Germany), and Emma Goldman (United States), this world-wide conspiracy for the overthrow of civilisation and for the reconstitution of society on the basis of arrested development, of envious malevolence, and impossible equality, has been steadily growing.^[43]

Author Gisela C. Lebzelter noted that Churchill's analysis failed to analyze the role that Russian oppression of Jews had played in their joining various revolutionary movements, but instead "to inherent inclinations rooted in Jewish character and religion".^[44]

Works propagating the Jewish Bolshevism canard

The Octopus

The Octopus is a 256-page book self-published in 1940 by Elizabeth Dilling under the pseudonym "Rev. Frank Woodruff Johnson". In it she describes her theories of Jewish Bolshevism.^[45]

Behind Communism

Frank L. Britton, editor of The American Nationalist published a book, Behind Communism, in 1952 which disseminated the myth that Communism was a Jewish conspiracy originating in Palestine.^[46]

Analysis of the Jewish Bolshevism canard

Researchers in the field, such as Polish philosopher Stanisław Krajewski^[47] or André Gerrits,^[48] denounce the concept of Jewish Bolshevism as a prejudice. Law professor Ilya Somin agrees, and compares Jewish involvement in other communist countries:

"Overrepresentation of a group in a political movement does not prove either that the movement was 'dominated' by that group or that it primarily serves that group's interests. The idea that communist oppression was somehow Jewish in nature is belied by the record of communist regimes in countries like China, North Korea, and Cambodia, where the Jewish presence was and is minuscule."^[49]

Several scholars have observed that Jewish involvement in Communist movements was primarily a response to antisemitism and rejection by established politics.^{[50][51][52]} Others note that this involvement was greatly exaggerated to accord with existing antisemitic narratives.^{[53][54][55][56][57][58]}

Philip Mendes observed this on a policy level:

The increasing Jewish involvement in political radicalism... left government authorities with a number of potential options for response. One option was to recognize the structural link between the oppression of the Jews and their involvement in the Left, and to introduce social and political reforms which ended discrimination against Jews... This option would have meant accepting that Jews had as much right as any other religious or ethnic grouping to freely participate in political activities. The second option... was to reject any social or political emancipation of Jews... Instead, this policy blamed the Jewish victims for their persecution, and assumed that anti-Semitic legislation and violence was justified as a response to the alleged threat of 'Jewish Bolshevism'. In short, cause and effect were reversed, and Jewish responses to anti-Semitism were utilized to rationalize anti-Semitic practices.^[52]

See also

- Cultural Bolshevism
- Cultural Marxism conspiracy theory

Notes

1. Alderman 1983.
2. Partridge, Christopher; Geaves, Ron (2007). "Antisemitism, Conspiracy Culture, Christianity, and Islam: The History and Contemporary Religious Significance of the Protocols of the Learned Elders of Zion" (<https://www.cambridge.org/core/books/the-invention-of-sacred-tradition/antisemitism-conspiracy-culture-christianity-and-islam-the-history-and-contemporary-religious-significance-of-the-protocols-of-the-learned-elders-of-zion/0E2AA1576054F229D6F97F6C5379DAFA>). In Lewis, James R.; Hammer, Olav (eds.). The Invention of Sacred Tradition. Cambridge: Cambridge University Press. pp. 75–95. doi:10.1017/CBO9780511488450.005 (<https://doi.org/10.1017%2FCBO9780511488450.005>). ISBN 9780511488450. Retrieved 12 April 2016.
3. Frederickson, Kari (1996). "Cathrine Curtis and Conservative Isolationist Women, 1939–1941". The Historian. 58 (4): 826. doi:10.1111/j.1540-6563.1996.tb00977.x (<https://doi.org/10.1111%2Fj.1540-6563.1996.tb00977.x>). ISSN 0018-2370 (<https://www.worldcat.org/issn/0018-2370>).
4. Glen Jeansonne (9 June 1997). Women of the Far Right: The Mothers' Movement and World War II (<https://books.google.com/books?id=B7JZoQuU3eMC>). University of Chicago Press. p. 8. ISBN 978-0-226-39589-0. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20200118035539/https://books.google.com/books?id=B7JZoQuU3eMC>) from the original on 18 January 2020. Retrieved 5 August 2016.
5. Laqueur, Walter Ze'ev (1965). Russia and Germany (<https://books.google.com/books?id=5madOAUfKZUC>). Transaction Publishers. p. 105. ISBN 9781412833547. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20160508040539/https://books.google.com/books?id=5madOAUfKZUC>) from the original on 8 May 2016. Retrieved 25 November 2015.
6. Philip Mendes (2010). "Debunking the myth of Jewish communism" (<https://www.eurekastreet.com.au/article/debunking-the-myth-of-jewish-communism>). Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20190428201948/https://www.eurekastreet.com.au/article/debunking-the-myth-of-jewish-communism>) from the original on 28 April 2019. Retrieved 28 April 2019.
7. Serhii Plokyh (1 December 2015). The Gates of Europe: A History of Ukraine (<https://books.google.com/books?id=bm0uCgAAQBAJ&pg=PA223%C2%B7>). Basic Books. p. 223. ISBN 978-0-465-07394-8. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20160516214532/https://books.google.com/books?id=bm0uCgAAQBAJ&pg=PA223%C2%B7>) from the original on 16 May 2016. Retrieved 29 December 2015.
8. Fromkin (2009) pp. 247–248.
9. Sachar, Howard (2006). A History of the Jews in the Modern World. Vintage. ISBN 9781400030972.
10. Pipes 1997, p. 93.
11. Webb 1976, p. 295.
12. "Who could live outside the Pale of Settlement?" (<http://jewishfamilysearch.com/pale-of-settlement/>). Jewish Family Search. 3 May 2014. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20151208080822/http://jewishfamilysearch.com/pale-of-settlement/>) from the original on 8 December 2015. Retrieved 19 August 2015.
13. Wein, Berel (1 September 1990). Triumph of Survival: The Story of the Jews in the Modern Era 1650–1990 (<https://books.google.com/books?id=11f9xBbOBBEC>). Mesorah Publications. p. 173. ISBN 9780899064987. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20160617154658/https://books.google.com/books?id=11f9xBbOBBEC>) from the original on 17 June 2016. Retrieved 25 November 2015.

14. Goncharok, Moshe (1996). "Vek voli. Russky anarkhizm I evreyi (XIX–XX vv.)" Век воли. Русский анархизм и евреи (XIX–XX вв.) (http://makhno.ru/lit/vek_voli/3.php) [Century of Will: Russian Anarchism and the Jews (19th–20th centuries)] (in Russian). Jerusalem: Mishmeret Shalom. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20080113183532/http://www.makhno.ru/lit/vek_voli/3.php) from the original on 13 January 2008. Retrieved 12 February 2009.
15. Levin 1988, p. 13.
16. Ascher 1992, p. 148.
17. Witte 1907.
18. Herf 2008, p. 96.
19. Levin 1988, pp. 318–325.
20. Aaronovitch, David (23 September 2011). "Our Jewish Communist past" (<http://www.thejc.com/comment-and-debate/columnists/55272/our-jewish-communist-past>). The Jewish Chronicle. Archived (<http://s://web.archive.org/web/20140103062205/http://www.thejc.com/comment-and-debate/columnists/55272/our-jewish-communist-past>) from the original on 3 January 2014. Retrieved 18 September 2013.
21. "Владимир Путин решил судьбу библиотеки Шнеерсона" (<https://rg.ru/2013/06/14/biblioteka.html>). Российская газета (in Russian). Retrieved 18 August 2020.
22. "The Interception Program of June 15, 2013. Radio Station "Echo of Moscow" (<https://echo.msk.ru/programs/interception/1095292-echo/>).
23. "Sprigge, Sir Squire, (22 June 1860–17 June 1937), Editor of the Lancet", Who Was Who, Oxford University Press, 1 December 2007, doi:10.1093/ww/9780199540884.013.u217438 (<https://doi.org/10.1093/ww/9780199540884.013.u217438>)
24. "Message "From the Editor: Fifth Fad. The Rhetoric of the First Persons of the Russian State Feeds the Prejudices of the Backward Part of the Inhabitants". "Vedomosti" dated June 17, 2013" (<https://www.vedomosti.ru/opinion/articles/2013/06/17/ot-redakcii-pyatyj-punktik>).
25. Laqueur 1990, pp. 33–34.
26. Kellogg, Michael (2005). The Russian Roots of Nazism: White Émigrés and the Making of National Socialism, 1917–1945 (<http://www.cambridge.org/catalogue/catalogue.asp?isbn=9780511079498&ss=exc>). New York: Cambridge University Press. ISBN 978-0-521-84512-0.
27. Sammartino, Annemarie (September 2006). "Michael Kellogg: The Russian Roots of Nazism (review)" (<https://www.h-net.org/reviews/showrev.php?id=12282>). Humanities and Social Sciences Net. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20181105223657/https://www.h-net.org/reviews/showrev.php?id=12282>) from the original on 5 November 2018. Retrieved 4 November 2019.
28. Kershaw 1999, p. 257.
29. Kershaw 1999, p. 303.
30. Kershaw 1999, p. 259.
31. Kellogg 2008.
32. Förster 2005, p. 119.
33. Förster 2005, pp. 122–127.
34. Himmler 1936, p. 8.
35. Hillgruber 1987.
36. Kershaw 2000, p. 465.
37. Evans 1989, pp. 59–60.
38. Goebbels, Joseph (1943). "Die sogenannte russische Seele" (<http://www.calvin.edu/academic/cas/gpa/goeb11.htm>) [The So-Called Russian Soul]. Das eherne Herz [The iron heart]. Translated by Bytwerk, Randall. Munich: Zentralverlag der NSDAP. pp. 398–405. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20131124174842/http://www.calvin.edu/academic/cas/gpa/goeb11.htm>) from the original on 24 November 2013. Retrieved 14 December 2013 – via German Propaganda Archive at Calvin University.

39. Förster 2005, p. 126.
40. Förster 2005, p. 127.
41. "Goebbels Claims Jews Will Destroy Culture" (http://www.ushmm.org/wlc/en/media_fi.php?MediaId=192). United States Holocaust Memorial Museum. September 1935. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20140223000619/http://www.ushmm.org/wlc/en/media_fi.php?MediaId=192) from the original on 23 February 2014. Retrieved 11 February 2014.
42. Webb 1976, p. 130.
43. Churchill 1920.
44. Lebzelter 1978, p. 181.
45. Glen Jeansonne (9 June 1997). Women of the Far Right: The Mothers' Movement and World War II (<https://books.google.com/books?id=B7JZoQuU3eMC>). University of Chicago Press. p. 25. ISBN 978-0-226-39589-0. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20200118035539/https://books.google.com/books?id=B7JZoQuU3eMC>) from the original on 18 January 2020. Retrieved 5 August 2016.
46. Primary Source Microfilm 2005.
47. Krajewski, Stanislaw (October 2007). "Jews, Communists and Jewish Communists, in Poland, Europe and Beyond" (<http://www.covenant.idc.ac.il/en/vol1/issue3/Jews-Communists-and-Jewish-Communists.html>). Covenant. 1 (3). Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20190921105309/http://www.covenant.idc.ac.il/en/vol1/issue3/Jews-Communists-and-Jewish-Communists.html>) from the original on 21 September 2019. Retrieved 4 November 2019. Originally in a CEU annual Jewish Studies at the Central European University, ed. by Andras Kovacs, co-editor Eszter Andor, CEU 2000, 119–133
48. Gerrits 2009, p. 195.
49. Somin, Ilya (29 October 2011). "Communism and the Jews" (<http://www.volokh.com/2011/10/29/communism-and-the-jews/>). The Volokh Conspiracy. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20140330064320/http://www.volokh.com/2011/10/29/communism-and-the-jews/>) from the original on 30 March 2014. Retrieved 30 March 2014.
50. Jaff Schatz, The Generation: The Rise and Fall of the Jewish Communists of Poland, University of California Press, 1991, p. 95.
51. Jaff Schatz, "Jews and the Communist Movement in Interwar Poland," in Jonathan Frankel, (https://books.google.com/books?id=POkxdm6DoAsC&pg=PA13&lpg=PA13&dq=jaff+schatz+jews+communism&source=web&ots=B5QNMKyJ49&sig=KW-p4_cdwuVM_kHyU9zifzYbX8M&hl=en&sa=X&oi=book_result&resnum=1&ct=result#PPA30,M1) Dark Times, Dire Decisions: Jews and Communism: Studies in Contemporary Jewry (https://books.google.com/books?id=POkxdm6DoAsC&pg=PA13&lpg=PA13&dq=jaff+schatz+jews+communism&source=web&ots=B5QNMKyJ49&sig=KW-p4_cdwuVM_kHyU9zifzYbX8M&hl=en&sa=X&oi=book_result&resnum=1&ct=result#PPA30,M1) Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20200301224303/https://books.google.com/books?id=POkxdm6DoAsC&pg=PA13&lpg=PA13&dq=jaff+schatz+jews+communism&source=web&ots=B5QNMKyJ49&sig=KW-p4_cdwuVM_kHyU9zifzYbX8M&hl=en&sa=X&oi=book_result&resnum=1&ct=result#PPA30,M1) 1 March 2020 at the Wayback Machine, Oxford University Press US, 2005, p. 30.
52. Mendes, Philip (2014). Jews and the left : the rise and fall of a political alliance. New York: Springer. ISBN 978-1-137-00829-9. OCLC 865063358 (<https://www.worldcat.org/oclc/865063358>).
53. Niall Ferguson, The War of the World, The Penguin Press, New York 2006, page 422
54. Antony Polonsky, Poles, Jews and the Problems of a Divided Memory (http://www.yale.edu/isps/seminars/antisemitism/seminar_papers/Polonsky_seminar.pdf) Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20090417124241/http://www.yale.edu/isps/seminars/antisemitism/seminar_papers/Polonsky_seminar.pdf) 17 April 2009 at the Wayback Machine, Brandeis University, Waltham, Massachusetts, page: 20 (PDF file: 208 KB)
55. Andre Gerrits. "Antisemitism and Anti-Communism: The Myth of 'Jiudeo-Communism' in Eastern Europe". East European Jewish Affairs. 1995, Vol. 25, No. 1:49–72. Page 71.

56. Magdalena Opalski, Israel Bartal. Poles and Jews: A Failed Brotherhood. (https://books.google.com/books?id=VQqO8LBNBbsC&pg=PA29&vq=3333&dq=Julian+Niemcewicz+The+Year+3333+jews&source=gbs_search_s&cad=5&sig=ACfU3U3yhxiOFiS0KXyX0U2Gj-Mlqa9W5Q#PPA30,M1) Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20200308010251/https://books.google.com/books?id=VQqO8LBNBbsC&pg=PA29&vq=3333&dq=Julian+Niemcewicz+The+Year+3333+jews&source=gbs_search_s&cad=5&sig=ACfU3U3yhxiOFiS0KXyX0U2Gj-Mlqa9W5Q#PPA30,M1) 8 March 2020 at the Wayback Machine University Press of New England, 1992. P29-30
57. Joanna B. Michlic. Poland's Threatening Other: The Image of the Jew from 1880 to the Present. (https://books.google.com/books?id=t6h2pl7o_zQC&pg=PA48&dq=Niemcewicz+3333&sig=ACfU3U10zREx8wvB12kDCCzAfpyoJ0FxCa#PPA48,M1) Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20200309205445/https://books.google.com/books?id=t6h2pl7o_zQC&pg=PA48&dq=Niemcewicz+3333&sig=ACfU3U10zREx8wvB12kDCCzAfpyoJ0FxCa#PPA48,M1) 9 March 2020 at the Wayback Machine University of Nebraska Press, 2006. Pages 47–48.
58. Ezra Mendelsohn, Studies in Contemporary Jewry, Oxford University Press US, 2004, ISBN 0-19-517087-3, Google Print, p.279 (https://books.google.com/books?id=NfD3lk_KhI0C&pg=PA279&dq=%22Jewish+historiography%22+Jan+Gross&as_brr=3&sig=ACfU3U0Xc12ASQImDxGTa25ZJohxuO9MLg) Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20200306003932/https://books.google.com/books?id=NfD3lk_KhI0C&pg=PA279&dq=%22Jewish+historiography%22+Jan+Gross&as_brr=3&sig=ACfU3U0Xc12ASQImDxGTa25ZJohxuO9MLg) 6 March 2020 at the Wayback Machine

References

- Alderman, G. (1983). The Jewish Community in British Politics. Oxford: Clarendon Press. p. 102.
- Ascher, Abraham (1992). The Revolution of 1905. Palo Alto: Stanford University Press.
- Churchill, Winston (8 February 1920). "Zionism versus Bolshevism" (https://en.wikisource.org/wiki/Zionism_versus_Bolshevism). Illustrated Sunday Herald.
- Evans, Richard J. (1989). In Hitler's Shadow West German Historians and the Attempt to Escape the Nazi Past (<https://archive.org/details/inhitlersshadow00rich>). New York: Pantheon. ISBN 978-0-394-57686-2.
- Figes, Orlando (2008). The Whisperers: Private Life in Stalin's Russia. London: Picador.
- Förster, Jürgen (2005). "The German Military's Image of Russia". In Erickson, Ljubica; Erickson, Mark (eds.). Russia War, Peace and Diplomacy. London: Weidenfeld & Nicolson.
- Friedman, Isaiah (1997). Germany, Turkey, and Zionism 1897-1918. Transaction Publishers. ISBN 978-0765804075
- Fromkin, David (2009). A Peace to End All Peace: The Fall of the Ottoman Empire and the Creation of the Modern Middle East. Holt Paperbacks. ISBN 978-0805088090
- Gerrits, André (2009). The Myth of Jewish Communism: A Historical Interpretation. Peter Lang.
- Herf, Jeffrey (2008). The Jewish Enemy: Nazi Propaganda During World War II and the Holocaust. Cambridge: Harvard University Press.
- Hillgruber, Andreas (1987). "War in the East and the Extermination of the Jews" (http://www.yadvashem.org/untoldstories/documents/studies/Andreas_Hillgruber.pdf) (PDF). 18. Yad Vashem Studies: 103–132.
- Himmler, Heinrich (1936). The SS as an Anti-Bolshevist Fighting Organization (<https://archive.org/details/Himmler-Heinrich-Die-Schutzstaffel>) [Die Schutzstaffel als antibolschewistische Kampforganisation] (in German). Franz Eher Verlag.
- Hoffman, Stefani; Mendelsohn, Ezra (2008). The Revolution of 1905 and Russia's Jews. Philadelphia: University of Pennsylvania Press.
- Kellogg, Michael (2008). The Russian Roots of Nazism. White Émigrés and the Making of National Socialism, 1917–1945. Cambridge: Cambridge University Press. ISBN 9780521070058.
- Kershaw, Ian (1999). Hitler 1889-1936: Hubris. Penguin Books Limited. ISBN 978-0-14-192579-0.

- Kershaw, Ian (2000). Hitler 1936-1945: Nemesis. Penguin Books Limited. ISBN 978-0-14-027239-0.
- Laqueur, Walter (1990). Russia and Germany: A Century of Conflict (<https://archive.org/details/russiagermanyce00laqu>). New Brunswick: Transaction Publishers.
- Lebzelter, Gisela (1978). Political anti-Semitism in England: 1918-1939. Oxford: Macmillan. ISBN 9780333242513.
- Levin, Nora (1988). The Jews in the Soviet Union Since 1917. New York University Press: New York.
- McMeekin, Sean (2012). The Berlin-Baghdad Express: The Ottoman Empire and Germany's Bid for World Power. Belknap Press. ISBN 978-0674064324
- Moss, Walter (2005). A History of Russia: Since 1855. Anthem Press. ISBN 1-84331-034-1.
- Pinkus, Benjamin (1990). The Jews of the Soviet Union: The History of a National Minority. Cambridge: Cambridge University Press.
- Pipes, Daniel (1997). Conspiracy: How the Paranoid Style Flourishes and Where it Comes From (<https://archive.org/details/conspiracy00dani>). New York: Simon & Schuster. ISBN 0-684-83131-7.
- "Radicalism and Reactionary Politics in America" (<http://microformguides.gale.com/Data/Download/9049000C.rtf>). The Hall-Hoag Collection of Dissenting and Extremist Printed Propaganda. Woodbridge: Primary Source Microfilm. 2005.
- Resis, Albert (2000). "The Fall of Litvinov: Harbinger of the German-Soviet Non-Aggression Pact". Europe-Asia Studies. 52 (1): 33–56. doi:10.1080/09668130098253 (<https://doi.org/10.1080%2F09668130098253>). JSTOR 153750 (<https://www.jstor.org/stable/153750>). S2CID 153557275 (<https://api.semanticscholar.org/CorpusID:153557275>).
- Ro'i, Yaacov (1995). Jews and Jewish Life in Russia and the Soviet Union. Routledge. ISBN 0-7146-4619-9.
- Webb, James (1976). Occult Establishment: The Dawn of the New Age and the Occult Establishment. Open Court Publishing.
- Wein, Berel (1976). Triumph of Survival: The Jews in the Modern Era 1600-1990. Brooklyn: Mesorah.
- Witte, Sophie (24 March 1907). "Just Before the Duma Opened" (<https://timesmachine.nytimes.com/timesmachine/1907/03/24/106111482.pdf>) (PDF). New York Times.

Further reading

- Mikhail Agursky: The Third Rome: National Bolshevism in the USSR, Boulder: Westview Press, 1987 ISBN 0-8133-0139-4
- Harry Defries, Conservative Party Attitudes to Jews, 1900-1950 Jewish Bolshevism (https://books.google.com/books?id=xZD_ZswA-VgC&q=Jewish+Bolshevism#v=snippet&q=Jewish%20Bolshevism&f=false), p. 70, ISBN 0-7146-5221-0
- Fay, Brendan (26 July 2019). "The Nazi Conspiracy Theory: German Fantasies and Jewish Power in the Third Reich". Library & Information History. 35 (2): 75–97. doi:10.1080/17583489.2019.1632574 (<https://doi.org/10.1080%2F17583489.2019.1632574>). S2CID 201410358 (<https://api.semanticscholar.org/CorpusID:201410358>).
- Johannes Rogalla von Bieberstein: "'Juedischer Bolschewismus'. Mythos und Realität'. Dresden: Antaios, 2003, ISBN 3-935063-14-8; 2.ed. Graz: Ares, 2010.
- Muller, Jerry Z. (2010). "Radical Anticapitalism: the Jew as Communist". Capitalism and the Jews. Princeton University Press. ISBN 978-1-4008-3436-5.
- Yuri Slezkine: The Jewish Century, Princeton: Princeton University Press, 2004 ISBN 0-691-11995-3
- Scott Ury, Barricades and Banners: The Revolution of 1905 and the Transformation of Warsaw Jewry (Stanford, 2012). ISBN 978-0-804763-83-7
- Hanebrink, Paul (2018). A Specter Haunting Europe: The Myth of Judeo-Bolshevism. Harvard University Press. ISBN 978-0-674-04768-6.

External links

Retrieved from "https://en.wikipedia.org/w/index.php?title=Jewish_Bolshevism&oldid=1026782719"

This page was last edited on 4 June 2021, at 06:40 (UTC).

Text is available under the Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike License; additional terms may apply. By using this site, you agree to the Terms of Use and Privacy Policy. Wikipedia® is a registered trademark of the Wikimedia Foundation, Inc., a non-profit organization.

The Protocols of the Elders of Zion

The Protocols of the Elders of Zion (Протоколы сионских мудрецов) or The Protocols of the Meetings of the Learned Elders of Zion is a fabricated antisemitic text purporting to describe a Jewish plan for global domination. The hoax, which was shown to be plagiarized from several earlier sources, some not antisemitic in nature,^[1] was first published in Russia in 1903, translated into multiple languages, and disseminated internationally in the early part of the 20th century.

Henry Ford funded printing of 500,000 copies that were distributed throughout the United States in the 1920s.^[2] Distillations of it were assigned by some German teachers, as if factual, to be read by German schoolchildren after the Nazis came to power in 1933,^[3] despite having been exposed as fraudulent by the British newspaper The Times in 1921 and the German Frankfurter Zeitung in 1924. It remains widely available in numerous languages, in print and on the Internet, and continues to be presented by neofascist, fundamentalist and antisemitic groups as a genuine document. It has been described as "probably the most influential work of antisemitism ever written".^[4]

Contents

Creation

- Political conspiracy background
- Sources employed
- Literary forgery
- Maurice Joly
- Hermann Goedsche

Structure and content

- Conspiracy references

History

- Publication history
- First Russian language editions
 - Krushevan and Nilus editions
 - Stolypin's fraud investigation, 1905
- The Protocols in the West
 - English language imprints
 - United States
 - The Times exposes a forgery, 1921
 - Switzerland

The Protocols of the Elders of Zion

Cover of first book edition, The Great within the Minuscule and Antichrist

Author	Unknown; plagiarised from various authors
Original title	Програма завоеванія мира евреями (Programa zavoevaniya mira evreyami) "The Jewish Programme to Conquer the World"
Country	Russian Empire
Language	Russian ^[a]
Subject	Antisemitic conspiracy theory
Genre	Propaganda

The Berne Trial, 1934–35

The Basel Trial

Germany

German-language publications

Italy

Post World War II

Middle East

Contemporary conspiracy theories

Adaptations

Print

Television

Notes

References

Citations

Works cited

See also

Pertinent concepts

Individuals

Related or similar texts

Further reading

Books and journal articles

External links

Publisher	Znamya
Publication date	August–September 1903
Published in English	1919

Creation

The Protocols is a fabricated document purporting to be factual. Textual evidence shows that it could not have been produced prior to 1901. It is known that the title of Sergei Nilus's widely distributed edition contains the dates "1902–1903", and it is likely that the document was actually written at this time in Russia, despite Nilus' attempt to cover this up by inserting French-sounding words into his edition.^[5] Cesare G. De Michelis argues that it was manufactured in the months after a Russian Zionist congress in September 1902, and that it was originally a parody of Jewish idealism meant for internal circulation among antisemites until it was decided to clean it up and publish it as if it were real. Self-contradictions in various testimonies show that the individuals involved—including the text's initial publisher, Pavel Krushevan—deliberately obscured the origins of the text and lied about it in the decades afterwards.^[6]

If the placement of the forgery in 1902–1903 Russia is correct, then it was written at the beginning of the anti-Jewish pogroms in the Russian Empire, in which thousands of Jews were killed or fled the country. Many of the people whom De Michelis suspects of involvement in the forgery were directly responsible for inciting the pogroms.^[7]

Political conspiracy background

Towards the end of the 18th century, following the Partitions of Poland, the Russian Empire inherited the world's largest Jewish population. The Jews lived in shtetls in the West of the Empire, in the Pale of Settlement and until the 1840s, local Jewish affairs were organised through the qahal, the semi-autonomous Jewish government, including for purposes of taxation and conscription into the Imperial Russian Army. Following the ascent of liberalism in Europe, the Russian ruling class became more hardline in its reactionary policies, upholding the banner of Orthodoxy, Autocracy, and Nationality, whereby non-Orthodox and non-Russian subjects, including Jews, were not always embraced. Jews who attempted to assimilate were regarded with suspicion as potential "infiltrators" supposedly trying to "take over society", while Jews who remained attached to traditional Jewish culture were resented as undesirable aliens.

Resentment towards Jews, for the aforementioned reasons, existed in Russian society, but the idea of a Protocols-esque international Jewish conspiracy for world domination was minted in the 1860s. Jacob Brafman, a Russian Jew from Minsk, had a falling out with agents of the local qahal and consequently turned against Judaism. He subsequently converted to the Russian Orthodox Church and authored polemics against the Talmud and the qahal.^[8] Brafman claimed in his books The Local and Universal Jewish Brotherhoods (1868) and The Book of the Kahal (1869), published in Vilna, that the qahal continued to exist in secret and that it had as its principal aim undermining Christian entrepreneurs, taking over their property and ultimately seizing power. He also claimed that it was an international conspiratorial network, under the central control of the Alliance Israélite Universelle, which was based in Paris and then under the leadership of Adolphe Crémieux, a prominent freemason.^[8] The Vilna Talmudist, Jacob Barit, attempted to refute Brafman's claim.

The Book of the Kahal (1869)
by Jacob Brafman, in the Russian language original

The impact of Brafman's work took on an international aspect when it was translated into English, French, German and other languages. The image of the "qahal" as a secret international Jewish shadow government working as a state within a state was picked up by anti-Jewish publications in Russia and was taken seriously by some Russian officials such as P. A. Cherevin and Nikolay Pavlovich Ignatyev who in the 1880s urged governors-general of provinces to seek out the supposed qahal. This was around the time of the Narodnaya Volya assassination of Tsar Alexander II of Russia and the subsequent pogroms. In France, it was translated by Monsignor Ernest Jouin in 1925, who supported the Protocols. In 1928, Siegfried Passarge, a geographer who later gave his support to the Nazis, translated it into German.

Aside from Brafman, there were other early writings which posited a similar concept to the Protocols. This includes The Conquest of the World by the Jews (1878),^[9] published in Basel and authored by Osman Bey (born Frederick Millingen). Millingen was a British subject and son of English physician Julius Michael Millingen, but served as an officer in the Ottoman Army where he was born. He converted to Islam, but later became a Russian Orthodox Christian. Bey's work was followed up by Hippolytus Lutostansky's The Talmud and the Jews (1879) which claimed that Jews wanted to divide Russia among themselves.^[10]

Sources employed

Source material for the forgery consisted jointly of Dialogue aux enfers entre Machiavel et Montesquieu (Dialogue in Hell Between Machiavelli and Montesquieu), an 1864 political satire by Maurice Joly;^[11] and a chapter from Biarritz, an 1868 novel by the antisemitic German novelist Hermann Goedsche, which had been translated into Russian in 1872.^[12]

A major source for the Protocols was Der Judenstaat (1896) by Theodor Herzl, which was referred to as Zionist Protocols in its initial French and Russian editions. Paradoxically, early Russian editions of the Protocols assert that they did not come from a Zionist organization.^[13] The text, which nowhere advocates for Zionism, resembles a parody of Herzl's ideas.^[14]

Literary forgery

The Protocols is one of the best-known and most-discussed examples of literary forgery, with analysis and proof of its fraudulent origin dating as far back as 1921.^[15] The forgery is an early example of "conspiracy theory" literature.^[16] Written mainly in the first person plural,^[b] the text includes generalizations, truisms, and platitudes on how to take over the world: take control of the media and the financial institutions, change the traditional social order, etc. It does not contain specifics.^[18]

Maurice Joly

Elements of the Protocols were plagiarized from Joly's fictional Dialogue in Hell, a thinly veiled attack on the political ambitions of Napoleon III, who, represented by the non-Jewish character Machiavelli,^[19] plots to rule the world. Joly, a republican who later served in the Paris Commune, was sentenced to 15 months as a direct result of his book's publication.^[20] Umberto Eco considered that Dialogue in Hell was itself plagiarised in part from a novel by Eugène Sue, Les Mystères du Peuple (1849–56).^[21]

Identifiable phrases from Joly constitute 4% of the first half of the first edition, and 12% of the second half; later editions, including most translations, have longer quotes from Joly.^[22]

The Protocols 1–19 closely follow the order of Maurice Joly's Dialogues 1–17. For example:

Dialogue in Hell Between Machiavelli and Montesquieu	The Protocols of the Elders of Zion
How are loans made? By the issue of bonds entailing on the Government the obligation to pay interest proportionate to the capital it has been paid. Thus, if a loan is at 5%, the State, after 20 years, has paid out a sum equal to the borrowed capital. When 40 years have expired it has paid double, after 60 years triple: yet it remains debtor for the entire capital sum. — Montesquieu, Dialogues, p. 209	A loan is an issue of Government paper which entails an obligation to pay interest amounting to a percentage of the total sum of the borrowed money. If a loan is at 5%, then in 20 years the Government would have unnecessarily paid out a sum equal to that of the loan in order to cover the percentage. In 40 years it will have paid twice; and in 60 thrice that amount, but the loan will still remain as an unpaid debt. — Protocols, p. 77
Like the god Vishnu, my press will have a hundred arms, and these arms will give their hands to all the different shades of opinion throughout the country. — Machiavelli, Dialogues, p. 141	These newspapers, like the Indian god Vishnu, will be possessed of hundreds of hands, each of which will be feeling the pulse of varying public opinion. — Protocols, p. 43
Now I understand the figure of the god Vishnu; you have a hundred arms like the Indian idol, and each of your fingers touches a spring. — Montesquieu, Dialogues, p. 207	Our Government will resemble the Hindu god Vishnu. Each of our hundred hands will hold one spring of the social machinery of State. — Protocols, p. 65

Philip Graves brought this plagiarism to light in a series of articles in The Times in 1921, being the first to expose the Protocols as a forgery to the public.^{[1][23]}

Hermann Goedsche

Daniel Keren wrote in his essay "Commentary on The Protocols of the Elders of Zion", "Goedsche was a postal clerk and a spy for the Prussian Secret Police. He had been forced to leave the postal work due to his part in forging evidence in the prosecution against the Democratic leader Benedict Waldeck in 1849."^[24] Following his dismissal, Goedsche began a career as a conservative columnist, and wrote literary fiction under the pen name Sir John Retcliffe.^[25] His 1868 novel Biarritz (To Sedan) contains a chapter called "The Jewish Cemetery in Prague and the Council of Representatives of the Twelve Tribes of Israel." In it, Goedsche (who was unaware that only two of the original twelve Biblical "tribes" remained) depicts a clandestine nocturnal meeting of members of a mysterious rabbinical cabal that is planning a diabolical "Jewish conspiracy." At midnight, the Devil appears to contribute his opinions and insight. The chapter closely resembles a scene in Alexandre Dumas' Giuseppe Balsamo (1848), in which Joseph Balsamo a.k.a. Alessandro Cagliostro and company plot the Affair of the Diamond Necklace.^[26]

In 1872 a Russian translation of "The Jewish Cemetery in Prague" appeared in Saint Petersburg as a separate pamphlet of purported non-fiction. François Bournand, in his Les Juifs et nos Contemporains (1896), reproduced the soliloquy at the end of the chapter, in which the character Levit expresses as factual the wish that Jews be "kings of the world in 100 years" —crediting a "Chief Rabbi John Readcliff." Perpetuation of the myth of the authenticity of Goedsche's story, in particular the "Rabbi's speech", facilitated later accounts of the equally mythical authenticity of the Protocols.^[25] Like the Protocols, many asserted that the fictional "rabbi's speech" had a ring of authenticity, regardless of its origin: "This speech was published in our time, eighteen years ago," read an 1898 report in La Croix, "and all the events occurring before our eyes were anticipated in it with truly frightening accuracy."^[27]

Fictional events in Joly's Dialogue aux enfers entre Machiavel et Montesquieu, which appeared four years before Biarritz, may well have been the inspiration for Goedsche's fictional midnight meeting, and details of the outcome of the supposed plot. Goedsche's chapter may have been an outright plagiarism of Joly, Dumas père, or both.^{[28][c]}

Structure and content

The Protocols purports to document the minutes of a late-19th-century meeting attended by world Jewish leaders, the "Elders of Zion", who are conspiring to take over the world.^{[29][30]} The forgery places in the mouths of the Jewish leaders a variety of plans, most of which derive from older antisemitic canards.^{[29][30]} For example, the Protocols includes plans to subvert the morals of the non-Jewish world, plans for Jewish bankers to control the world's economies, plans for Jewish control of the press, and — ultimately — plans for the destruction of civilization.^{[29][30]} The document consists of 24 "protocols", which have been analyzed by Steven Jacobs and Mark Weitzman, who documented several recurrent themes that appear repeatedly in the 24 protocols,^[d] as shown in the following table:^[31]

Protocol	Title ^[31]	Themes ^[31]
1	The Basic Doctrine: "Right Lies in Might"	Freedom and Liberty; Authority and power; Gold=money
2	Economic War and Disorganization Lead to International Government	International Political economic conspiracy; Press/Media as tools
3	Methods of Conquest	Jewish people, arrogant and corrupt; Chosenness/Election; Public Service
4	The Destruction of Religion by Materialism	Business as Cold and Heartless; Gentiles as slaves
5	Despotism and Modern Progress	Jewish Ethics; Jewish People's Relationship to Larger Society
6	The Acquisition of Land, The Encouragement of Speculation	Ownership of land
7	A Prophecy of Worldwide War	Internal unrest and discord (vs. Court system) leading to war vs Shalom/Peace
8	The transitional Government	Criminal element
9	The All-Embracing Propaganda	Law; education; Freemasonry
10	Abolition of the Constitution; Rise of the Autocracy	Politics; Majority rule; Liberalism; Family
11	The Constitution of Autocracy and Universal Rule	Gentiles; Jewish political involvement; Freemasonry
12	The Kingdom of the Press and Control	Liberty; Press censorship; Publishing
13	Turning Public Thought from Essentials to Non-essentials	Gentiles; Business; Chosenness/Election; Press and censorship; Liberalism
14	The Destruction of Religion as a Prelude to the Rise of the Jewish God	Judaism; God; Gentiles; Liberty; Pornography
15	Utilization of Masonry: Heartless Suppression of Enemies	Gentiles; Freemasonry; Sages of Israel; Political power and authority; King of Israel
16	The Nullification of Education	Education
17	The Fate of Lawyers and the Clergy	Lawyers; Clergy; Christianity and non-Jewish Authorship
18	The Organization of Disorder	Evil; Speech;
19	Mutual Understanding Between Ruler and People	Gossip; Martyrdom
20	The Financial Program and Construction	Taxes and Taxation; Loans; Bonds; Usury; Moneylending
21	Domestic Loans and Government Credit	Stock Markets and Stock Exchanges
22	The Beneficence of Jewish Rule	Gold=Money; Chosenness/Election
23	The Inculcation of Obedience	Obedience to Authority; Slavery; Chosenness/Election
24	The Jewish Ruler	Kingship; Document as Fiction

Conspiracy references

According to Daniel Pipes,

The book's vagueness—almost no names, dates, or issues are specified—has been one key to this wide-ranging success. The purportedly Jewish authorship also helps to make the book more convincing. Its embrace of contradiction—that to advance, Jews use all tools available, including capitalism and communism, philo-Semitism and antisemitism, democracy and tyranny—made it possible for The Protocols to reach out to all: rich and poor, Right and Left, Christian and Muslim, American and Japanese.^[18]

Pipes notes that the Protocols emphasizes recurring themes of conspiratorial antisemitism: "Jews always scheme", "Jews are everywhere", "Jews are behind every institution", "Jews obey a central authority, the shadowy 'Elders'", and "Jews are close to success."^[32]

As fiction in the genre of literature, the tract was analyzed by Umberto Eco in his novel Foucault's Pendulum (1988):

The great importance of The Protocols lies in its permitting antisemites to reach beyond their traditional circles and find a large international audience, a process that continues to this day. The forgery poisoned public life wherever it appeared; it was "self-generating; a blueprint that migrated from one conspiracy to another."^[33]

Eco also dealt with the Protocols in 1994 in chapter 6, "Fictional Protocols", of his Six Walks in the Fictional Woods and in his 2010 novel The Cemetery of Prague.

History

Publication history

The Protocols appeared in print in the Russian Empire as early as 1903, published as a series of articles in Znamya, a Black Hundreds newspaper owned by Pavel Krushevan. It appeared again in 1905 as the final chapter (Chapter XII) of the second edition of Velikoe v malom i antikhris ("The Great in the Small & Antichrist"), a book by Sergei Nilus. In 1906, it appeared in pamphlet form edited by Georgy Butmi de Katzman.^[34]

These first three (and subsequently more) Russian language imprints were published and circulated in the Russian Empire during the 1903–06 period as a tool for scapegoating Jews, blamed by the monarchists for the defeat in the Russo-Japanese War and the Revolution of 1905. Common to all three texts is the idea that Jews aim for world domination. Since The Protocols are presented as merely a document, the front matter and back matter are needed to explain its alleged origin. The diverse imprints, however, are mutually inconsistent. The general claim is that the document was stolen from a secret Jewish organization. Since the alleged original stolen manuscript does not exist, one is forced to restore a purported original edition. This has been done by the Italian scholar, Cesare G. De Michelis in 1998, in a work which was translated into English and published in 2004, where he treats his subject as Apocrypha.^{[34][35]}

As the Russian Revolution unfolded, causing White movement-affiliated Russians to flee to the West, this text was carried along and assumed a new purpose. Until then, The Protocols had remained obscure;^[35] it now became an instrument for blaming Jews for the Russian Revolution. It became a tool, a political weapon, used against the Bolsheviks who were depicted as overwhelmingly Jewish, allegedly executing the "plan" embodied in The Protocols. The purpose was to discredit the October Revolution, prevent the West from recognizing the Soviet Union, and bring about the downfall of Vladimir Lenin's regime.^{[34][35]}

First Russian language editions

The chapter "In the Jewish Cemetery in Prague" from Goedsche's Biarritz, with its strong antisemitic theme containing the alleged rabbinical plot against the European civilization, was translated into Russian as a separate pamphlet in 1872.^[12] However, in 1921, Princess Catherine Radziwill gave a private lecture in New York in which she claimed that the Protocols were a forgery compiled in 1904–05 by Russian journalists Matvei Golovinski and Manasevich-Manuilov at the direction of Pyotr Rachkovsky, Chief of the Russian secret service in Paris.^[36]

In 1944, German writer Konrad Heiden identified Golovinski as an author of the Protocols.^[37] Radziwill's account was supported by Russian historian Mikhail Lepekhine, who published his findings in November 1999 in the French newsweekly L'Express.^[38] Lepekhine considers the Protocols a part of a scheme to persuade Tsar Nicholas II that the modernization of Russia was really a Jewish plot to control the world.^[39] Stephen Eric Bronner writes that groups opposed to progress, parliamentarianism, urbanization, and capitalism, and an active Jewish role in these modern institutions, were particularly drawn to the antisemitism of the document.^[40] Ukrainian scholar Vadim Skuratovsky offers extensive literary, historical and linguistic analysis of the original text of the Protocols and traces the influences of Fyodor Dostoyevsky's prose (in particular, The Grand Inquisitor and The Possessed) on Golovinski's writings, including the Protocols.^[39]

Golovinski's role in the writing of the Protocols is disputed by Michael Hagemester, Richard Levy and Cesare De Michelis, who each write that the account which involves him is historically unverifiable and to a large extent provably wrong.^{[41][42][43]}

In his book The Non-Existent Manuscript, Italian scholar Cesare G. De Michelis studies early Russian publications of the Protocols. The Protocols were first mentioned in the Russian press in April 1902, by the Saint Petersburg newspaper Novoye Vremya (Новое Время – The New Times). The article was written by famous conservative publicist Mikhail Menshikov as a part of his regular series "Letters to Neighbors" ("Письма к ближним") and was titled "Plots against Humanity". The author described his meeting with a lady (Yuliana Glinka, as it is known now) who, after telling him about her mystical revelations, implored him to get familiar with the documents later known as the Protocols; but after reading some excerpts, Menshikov became quite skeptical about their origin and did not publish them.^[44]

Krushevan and Nilus editions

The Protocols were published at the earliest, in serialized form, from August 28 to September 7 (O.S.) 1903, in Znamya, a Saint Petersburg daily newspaper, under Pavel Krushevan. Krushevan had initiated the Kishinev pogrom four months earlier.^[45]

The frontispiece of a 1912 edition using occult symbols

In 1905, Sergei Nilus published the full text of the Protocols in Chapter XII, the final chapter (pp. 305–417), of the second edition (or third, according to some sources) of his book, Velikoe v malom i antikhrist, which translates as "The Great within the Small: The Coming of the Anti-Christ and the Rule of Satan on Earth". He claimed it was the work of the First Zionist Congress, held in 1897 in Basel, Switzerland.^[34] When it was pointed out that the First Zionist Congress had been open to the public and was attended by many non-Jews, Nilus changed his story, saying the Protocols were the work of the 1902–03 meetings of the Elders, but contradicting his own prior statement that he had received his copy in 1901:

In 1901, I succeeded through an acquaintance of mine (the late Court Marshal Alexei Nikolayevich Sukotin of Chernigov) in getting a manuscript that exposed with unusual perfection and clarity the course and development of the secret Jewish Freemasonic conspiracy, which would bring this wicked world to its inevitable end. The person who gave me this manuscript guaranteed it to be a faithful translation of the original documents that were stolen by a woman from one of the highest and most influential leaders of the Freemasons at a secret meeting somewhere in France—the beloved nest of Freemasonic conspiracy.^[46]

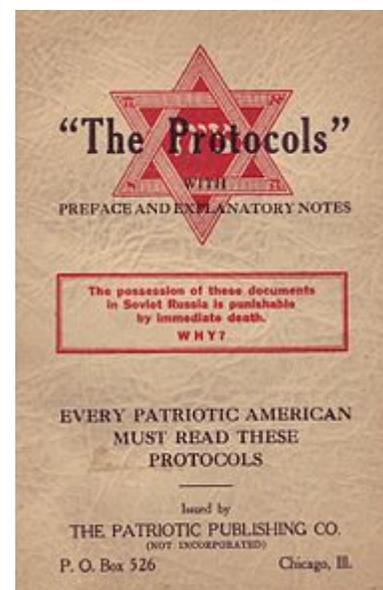

Stolypin's fraud investigation, 1905

A subsequent secret investigation ordered by Pyotr Stolypin, the newly appointed chairman of the Council of Ministers, came to the conclusion that the Protocols first appeared in Paris in antisemitic circles around 1897–98.^[47] When Nicholas II learned of the results of this investigation, he requested, "The Protocols should be confiscated, a good cause cannot be defended by dirty means."^[48] Despite the order, or because of the "good cause", numerous reprints proliferated.^[45]

The Protocols in the West

In the United States, The Protocols are to be understood in the context of the First Red Scare (1917–20). The text was purportedly brought to the United States by a Russian army officer in 1917; it was translated into English by Natalie de Bogory (personal assistant of Harris A. Houghton, an officer of the Department of War) in June 1918,^[49] and Russian expatriate Boris Brasol soon circulated it in American government circles, specifically diplomatic and military, in typescript form,^[50] a copy of which is archived by the Hoover Institute.^[51] It also appeared in 1919 in the Public Ledger as a pair of serialized newspaper articles. But all references to "Jews" were replaced with references to Bolsheviki as an exposé by the journalist and subsequently highly respected Columbia University School of Journalism dean Carl W. Ackerman.^{[52][51]}

In 1923, there appeared an anonymously edited pamphlet by the Britons Publishing Society, a successor to The Britons, an entity created and headed by Henry Hamilton Beamish. This imprint was allegedly a translation by Victor E. Marsden, who had died in October 1920.^[51]

A 1934 edition by the Patriotic Publishing Company of Chicago

Most versions substantially involve "protocols", or minutes of a speech given in secret involving Jews who are organized as Elders, or Sages, of Zion,^[53] and underlies 24 protocols that are supposedly followed by the Jewish people. The Protocols has been proven to be a literary forgery and hoax as well as a clear case of plagiarism.^{[1][54][55][56][57]}

English language imprints

On October 27 and 28, 1919, the Philadelphia Public Ledger published excerpts of an English language translation as the "Red Bible," deleting all references to the purported Jewish authorship and re-casting the document as a Bolshevik manifesto.^[58] The author of the articles was the paper's correspondent at the time, Carl W. Ackerman, who later became the head of the journalism department at Columbia University. On May 8, 1920, an article^[59] in The Times followed German translation and appealed for an inquiry into what it called an "uncanny note of prophecy". In the leader (editorial) titled "The Jewish Peril, a Disturbing Pamphlet: Call for Inquiry", Wickham Steed wrote about The Protocols:

What are these 'Protocols'? Are they authentic? If so, what malevolent assembly concocted these plans and gloated over their exposition? Are they forgery? If so, whence comes the uncanny note of prophecy, prophecy in part fulfilled, in part so far gone in the way of fulfillment?^[60]

Steed retracted his endorsement of The Protocols after they were exposed as a forgery.^[61]

United States

In 1920 in the United States, Henry Ford published in a newspaper he owned – The Dearborn Independent – an American version of the Protocols, as part of a series of antisemitic articles titled "The International Jew: The World's Foremost Problem". He later published the articles in book form, with a half million in circulation in the United States, as well as translations into a number of other languages.^{[62][63]} In 1921, Ford cited evidence of a Jewish threat: "The only statement I care to make about the Protocols is that they fit in with what is going on. They are 16 years old, and they have fitted the world situation up to this time."^[64] Robert A. Rosenbaum wrote that "In 1927, bowing to legal and economic pressure, Ford issued a retraction and apology—while disclaiming personal responsibility—for the anti-Semitic articles and closed the Dearborn Independent in 1927.^[65] He was also an admirer of Nazi Germany.^[66]

Title page of 1920 edition from Boston

In 1934, an anonymous editor expanded the compilation with "Text and Commentary" (pp 136–41). The production of this uncredited compilation was a 300-page book, an inauthentic expanded edition of the twelfth chapter of Nilus's 1905 book on the coming of the anti-Christ. It consists of substantial liftings of excerpts of articles from Ford's antisemitic periodical The Dearborn Independent. This 1934 text circulates most widely in the English-speaking world, as well as on the internet. The "Text and Commentary" concludes with a comment on Chaim Weizmann's October 6, 1920, remark at a banquet: "A beneficent protection which God has instituted in the life of the Jew is that He has dispersed him all over the world". Marsden, who was dead by then, is credited with the following assertion:

It proves that the Learned Elders exist. It proves that Dr. Weizmann knows all about them. It proves that the desire for a "National Home" in Palestine is only camouflage and an infinitesimal part of the Jew's real object. It proves that the Jews of the world have no intention of settling in Palestine or any separate country, and that their annual prayer that they may all meet "Next Year in Jerusalem" is merely a piece of their characteristic make-believe. It also demonstrates that the Jews are now a world menace, and that the Aryan races will have to domicile them permanently out of Europe.^[67]

The Times* exposes a forgery, 1921

In 1920–1921, the history of the concepts found in the Protocols was traced back to the works of Goedsche and Jacques Crétineau-Joly by Lucien Wolf (an English Jewish journalist), and published in London in August 1921. But a dramatic exposé occurred in the series of articles in The Times by its Constantinople reporter, Philip Graves, who discovered the plagiarism from the work of Maurice Joly.^[1]

According to writer Peter Grose, Allen Dulles, who was in Constantinople developing relationships in post-Ottoman political structures, discovered "the source" of the documentation and ultimately provided him to The Times. Grose writes that The Times extended a loan to the source, a Russian émigré who refused to be identified, with the understanding the loan would not be repaid.^[68] Colin Holmes, a lecturer in economic history at Sheffield University, identified the émigré as Mikhail Raslovlev, a self-identified antisemite, who gave the information to Graves so as not to "give a weapon of any kind to the Jews, whose friend I have never been."^[69]

In the first article of Graves' series, titled "A Literary Forgery", the editors of The Times wrote, "our Constantinople Correspondent presents for the first time conclusive proof that the document is in the main a clumsy plagiarism. He has forwarded us a copy of the French book from which the plagiarism is made."^[1] In the same year, an entire book^[70] documenting the hoax was published in the United States by Herman Bernstein. Despite this widespread and extensive debunking, the Protocols continued to be regarded as important factual evidence by antisemites. Dulles, a successful lawyer and career diplomat, attempted to persuade the US State Department to publicly denounce the forgery, but without success.^[71]

Switzerland

The Berne Trial, 1934–35

The selling of the Protocols (edited by German antisemite Theodor Fritsch) by the National Front during a political meeting in the Casino of Berne on June 13, 1933,^[e] led to the Berne Trial in the Amtsgericht (district court) of Berne, the capital of Switzerland, on October 29, 1934. The plaintiffs (the Swiss Jewish Association and the Jewish Community of Berne) were

"JEWISH WORLD PLOT."

AN EXPOSURE.

THE SOURCE OF THE PROTOCOLS.

TRUTH AT LAST.

The so-called "Protocols of the Elders of Zion" were published in London last year under the title of "The Jewish Plot."

This book is a translation of a book published in Russia in 1905, by Sergei Nilus, a Government official, who professed to have received from a friend a copy of a summary of the minutes of a secret meeting, held in Paris, by a Jewish organization that was plotting to overthrow civilization in order to establish a Jewish world state.

These "Protocols" attracted little attention until after the Russian Revolution of 1917, when the appearance of the Bolsheviks, among whom were many Jews, professing and practising political doctrines that in some points resembled those advocated in the "Protocols," led many to believe that Nilus's alleged discovery was genuine. The "Protocols" were widely disseminated and translated into several European languages. Their authenticity has been frequently attacked and many arguments have been adduced for the theory that they are a forgery.

In the following articles our Constantinople Correspondent for the first time presents conclusive proof that the document is in the main a clumsy plagiarism. He has forwarded us a copy of the French book from which the plagiarism is made. The British Museum has a complete copy of the book, which is entitled "Dialogue avec Enfer, entre Machiavel et Montesquieu, ou la Politique de Machiavel au XIX. Siècle. Par un Contemporain," and was published at Brussels in 1865. Shortly after its publication the author, Maurice Joly, a Paris lawyer and publicist, was arrested by the police of Napoleon III, and sentenced to 18 months' imprisonment.

A LITERARY FORGERY.

(From Our Constantinople Correspondent.)
"There is one thing about Constantinople that is worth your while to remember," said a diplomatist to the writer in 1908. "If you represented by Hans Matti and Georges Brunschvig, helped by Emil Raas. Working on behalf of the defense was German antisemitic propagandist Ulrich Fleischhauer. On May 19, 1935, two defendants (Theodore Fischer and Silvio Schnell) were convicted of violating a Bernese statute prohibiting the distribution of "immoral, obscene or brutalizing" texts^[72] while three other defendants were acquitted. The court declared the Protocols to be forgeries, plagiarisms, and obscene literature. Judge Walter Meyer, a Christian who had not previously heard of the Protocols, said in conclusion,

The Times exposed the Protocols as a forgery on August 16–18, 1921.

I hope the time will come when nobody will be able to understand how in 1935 nearly a dozen sane and responsible men were able for two weeks to mock the intellect of the Bern court discussing the authenticity of the so-called Protocols, the very Protocols that, harmful as they have been and will be, are nothing but laughable nonsense.^[45]

Vladimir Burtsev, a Russian émigré, anti-Bolshevik and anti-Fascist who exposed numerous Okhrana agents provocateurs in the early 1900s, served as a witness at the Berne Trial. In 1938 in Paris he published a book, The Protocols of the Elders of Zion: A Proved Forgery, based on his testimony.

On November 1, 1937, the defendants appealed the verdict to the Obergericht (Cantonal Supreme Court) of Berne. A panel of three judges acquitted them, holding that the Protocols, while false, did not violate the statute at issue because they were "political publications" and not "immoral (obscene) publications (Schundliteratur)" in the strict sense of the law.^[72] The presiding judge's opinion stated, though, that the forgery of the Protocols was not questionable and expressed regret that the law did not provide adequate protection for Jews from this sort of literature. The court refused to impose the fees of defense of the acquitted defendants to the plaintiffs, and the acquitted Theodor Fischer had to pay 100 Fr. to the total state costs of the trial (Fr. 28,000) that were eventually paid by the Canton of Berne.^[73] This decision gave grounds for later allegations that the appeal court "confirmed authenticity of the Protocols" which is contrary to the facts. A view favorable to the pro-Nazi defendants is reported in an appendix to Leslie Fry's Waters Flowing Eastward.^[74] A more scholarly work on the trial is in a 139-page monograph by Urs Lüthi.^[75]

Evidence presented at the trial, which strongly influenced later accounts up to the present, was that the Protocols were originally written in French by agents of the Tzarist secret police (the Okhrana).^[43] However, this version has been questioned by several modern scholars.^[43] Michael Hagemeister discovered that the primary witness Alexandre du Chayla had previously written in support of the blood libel, had received four thousand Swiss francs for his testimony, and was secretly doubted even by the plaintiffs.^[42] Charles Ruud and Sergei Stepanov concluded that there is no substantial evidence of Okhrana involvement and strong circumstantial evidence against it.^[76]

The Basel Trial

A similar trial in Switzerland took place at Basel. The Swiss Frontists Alfred Zander and Eduard Rüeßegger distributed the Protocols (edited by the German Gottfried zur Beek) in Switzerland. Jules Dreyfus-Brodsky and Marcus Cohen sued them for insult to Jewish honor. At the same time, chief rabbi Marcus Ehrenpreis of Stockholm (who also witnessed at the Berne Trial) sued Alfred Zander who contended that Ehrenpreis himself had said that the Protocols were authentic (referring to the foreword of the edition of the Protocols by the German antisemite Theodor Fritsch). On June 5, 1936 these proceedings ended with a settlement.^[f]

Germany

According to historian Norman Cohn,^[78] the assassins of German Jewish politician Walter Rathenau (1867–1922) were convinced that Rathenau was a literal "Elder of Zion".

It seems likely Adolf Hitler first became aware of the Protocols after hearing about it from ethnic German white émigrés, such as Alfred Rosenberg and Max Erwin von Scheubner-Richter.^[79] Hitler refers to the Protocols in Mein Kampf:

... [The Protocols] are based on a forgery, the Frankfurter Zeitung moans [] every week ... [which is] the best proof that they are authentic ... the important thing is that with positively terrifying certainty they reveal the nature and activity of the Jewish people and expose their inner contexts as well as their ultimate final aims.^[80]

The Protocols also became a part of the Nazi propaganda effort to justify persecution of the Jews. In The Holocaust: The Destruction of European Jewry 1933–1945, Nora Levin states that "Hitler used the Protocols as a manual in his war to exterminate the Jews":

Despite conclusive proof that the Protocols were a gross forgery, they had sensational popularity and large sales in the 1920s and 1930s. They were translated into every language of Europe and sold widely in Arab lands, the US, and England. But it was in Germany after World War I that they had their greatest success. There they were used to explain all of the disasters that had befallen the country: the defeat in the war, the hunger, the destructive inflation.^[81]

Hitler did not mention the Protocols in his speeches after his defense of it in Mein Kampf.^{[43][82]} "Distillations of the text appeared in German classrooms, indoctrinated the Hitler Youth, and invaded the USSR along with German soldiers."^[3] Nazi Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels proclaimed: "The Zionist Protocols are as up-to-date today as they were the day they were first published."^[83]

Richard S. Levy criticizes the claim that the Protocols had a large effect on Hitler's thinking, writing that it is based mostly on suspect testimony and lacks hard evidence.^[43] Randall Bytwerk agrees, writing that most leading Nazis did not believe it was genuine despite having an "inner truth" suitable for propaganda.^[82]

Publication of the Protocols was stopped in Germany in 1939 for unknown reasons.^[84] An edition that was ready for printing was blocked by censorship laws.^[85]

German-language publications

Having fled Ukraine in 1918–19, Piotr Shabelsky-Bork brought the Protocols to Ludwig Muller Von Hausen who then published them in German.^[86] Under the pseudonym Gottfried Zur Beek he produced the first and "by far the most important"^[87] German translation. It appeared in January 1920 as a part of a larger antisemitic tract^[88] dated 1919. After The Times discussed the book respectfully in May 1920 it became a bestseller. "The Hohenzollern family helped defray the publication costs, and Kaiser Wilhelm II had portions of the book read out aloud to dinner guests".^[83] Alfred Rosenberg's 1923 edition^[89] "gave a forgery a huge boost".^[83]

Italy

Fascist politician Giovanni Preziosi published the first Italian edition of the Protocols in 1921.^[90] The book however had little impact until the mid-1930s. A new 1937 edition had a much higher impact, and three further editions in the following months sold 60,000 copies total.^[90] The fifth edition had an introduction by Julius Evola, which argued around the issue of forgery, stating: "The problem of the authenticity of this document is secondary and has to be replaced by the much more serious and essential problem of its truthfulness".^[90]

Post World War II

Middle East

Neither governments nor political leaders in most parts of the world have referred to the Protocols since World War II. The exception to this is the Middle East, where a large number of Arab and Muslim regimes and leaders have endorsed them as authentic, including endorsements from Presidents Gamal Abdel Nasser and Anwar Sadat of Egypt, President Abdul Salam Arif of Iraq,^[91] King Faisal of Saudi Arabia, and Colonel Muammar al-Gaddafi of Libya.^{[92][93]} A translation made by an Arab Christian appeared in Cairo in 1927 or 1928, this time as a book. The first translation by an Arab Muslim was also published in Cairo, but only in 1951.^[92]

The 1988 charter of Hamas, a Palestinian Islamist group, stated that the Protocols embodies the plan of the Zionists.^[94] The reference was removed in the new covenant issued in 2017.^[95] Recent endorsements in the 21st century have been made by the Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, Sheikh Ekrima Sa'id Sabri, the education ministry of Saudi Arabia,^[93] and a member of the Greek Parliament, Ilias Kasidiaris.^[96] The Palestinian Solidarity Committee of South Africa reportedly distributed copies of the Protocols at the World Conference against Racism 2001.^[97] The book was sold during the conference in the exhibition tent set up for the distribution of the antiracist literature.^{[98][99]}

However, figures within the region have publicly asserted that The Protocols of the Elders of Zion is a forgery such as former Grand Mufti of Egypt Ali Gomaa, who made an official court complaint concerning a publisher who falsely put his name on an introduction to its Arabic translation.^[100]

Contemporary conspiracy theories

The Protocols continue to be widely available around the world, particularly on the Internet.

The Protocols is widely considered influential in the development of other conspiracy theories, and reappears repeatedly in contemporary conspiracy literature. Notions derived from the Protocols include claims that the "Jews" depicted in the Protocols are a cover for the Illuminati,^[37] Freemasons, the Priory of Sion or, in the opinion of David Icke, "extra-dimensional entities".^[101] In his book And the truth shall set you free (1995), Icke asserted that the Protocols are genuine and accurate.^[102]

Adaptations

Print

Masami Uno's book If You Understand Judea You Can Comprehend the World: 1990 Scenario for the 'Final Economic War' became popular in Japan around 1987 and was based upon the Protocols.^[103]

Television

In 2001–2002, Arab Radio and Television produced a 30-part television miniseries entitled Horseman Without a Horse, starring prominent Egyptian actor Mohamed Sobhi, which contains dramatizations of the Protocols. The United States and Israel criticized Egypt for airing the program.^[104] Ash-Shatat (Arabic: الشتات The Diaspora) is a 29-part Syrian television series produced in 2003 by a private Syrian film company and was based in part on the Protocols. Syrian national television declined to air the program. Ash-Shatat was shown on Lebanon's Al-Manar, before being dropped. The series was shown in Iran in 2004, and in Jordan during October 2005 on Al-Mamnou, a Jordanian satellite network.

Notes

- With plagiarism from German and French texts
- The text contains 44 instances of the word "I" (9.6%), and 412 instances of the word "we" (90.4%).^[17]
- This complex relationship was originally exposed by Graves 1921. The exposé has since been elaborated in many sources.
- Jacobs analyses the Marsden English translation. Some other less common imprints have more or fewer than 24 protocols.
- The main speaker was the former chief of the Swiss General Staff Emil Sonderegger.
- Zander had to withdraw his contention and the stock of the incriminated Protocols were destroyed by order of the court. Zander had to pay the fees of this Basel Trial.^[77]

References

Citations

- Graves 1921*.
- Boyle, Kevin (2004). Arc of justice : a saga of race, civil rights, and murder in the Jazz Age (1st ed.). New York: H. Holt. ISBN 0805071458.
- Segel, BW (1995). A Lie and a Libel: The History of the Protocols of the Elders of Zion. Translated by Levy, RS. University of Nebraska Press. p. 30. ISBN 0803242433.
- Bronner 2003*, p. 1.
- De Michelis 2004*, p. 65.
- De Michelis 2004*, pp. 76–80.
- Hadassa Ben-Itto, The Lie that Wouldn't Die: The Protocols of The Elders of Zion*, p. 280 (London: Vallentine Mitchell, 2005). ISBN 0-85303-602-0
- Petrovsky-Shtern 2011*, p. 60.
- Donskis, Leonidas (2003). Forms of Hatred: The Troubled Imagination in Modern Philosophy and Literature (<https://books.google.com/books?id=M7TdI6vgbmUC>). Rodopi. ISBN 978-9042010666.
- "Ritual murder encouraged..." (<https://newspaperarchive.com/us/new-york/new-york/new-york-times/1911/08-27/page-42>) The New York Times. August 27, 1911.
- Jacobs & Weitzman 2003*, p. 15.
- Segel, Benjamin W (1996) [1926], Levy, Richard S (ed.), A Lie and a Libel: The History of the Protocols of the Elders of Zion, University of Nebraska Press, p. 97, ISBN 978-0-8032-9245-1.
- De Michelis 2004*, p. 47.
- De Michelis 2004*, p. 114.

15. A Hoax of Hate (<https://www.jewishvirtuallibrary.org/jsource/anti-semitism/hoax.html>), Jewish Virtual Library.
16. Boym, Svetlana (1999), "Conspiracy theories and literary ethics: Umberto Eco, Danilo Kis and 'The Protocols of Zion'", Comparative Literature, 51 (Spring): 97–122, doi:10.2307/1771244 (<https://doi.org/10.2307%2F1771244>), JSTOR 1771244 (<https://www.jstor.org/stable/1771244>).
17. The Protocols of the Learned Elders of Zion (<http://www.shoaheducation.com/protocols.html>), Marsden, VE transl, Shoah education.
18. Pipes 1997, p. 85.
19. Ye'r, Bat; Kochan, Miriam; Littman, David (2001), Islam and Dhimmitude (<https://books.google.com/books?id=n4kTdYgwQPkC&q=The+Protocols+of+the+Learned+Elders+of+Zion++forgery+%22Maurice+Joly%22&pg=PA142>), US: Fairleigh Dickinson University Press, p. 142, ISBN 978-0-8386-3942-9.
20. Bronner, Stephen Eric (2018-08-30). A Rumor about the Jews: Conspiracy, Anti-Semitism, and the Protocols of Zion (<https://books.google.com/books?id=yzpsDwAAQBAJ&q=commune.+joly&pg=PA70>). Springer. pp. 68–70. ISBN 978-3-319-95396-0.
21. Eco, Umberto (1994), "Fictional Protocols", Six Walks in the Fictional Woods, Cambridge, MA: Harvard University Press, p. 135, ISBN 978-0-674-81050-1
22. De Michelis 2004, p. 8 (<https://books.google.com/?id=9uG1jsrOenwC&pg=PA113&lpg=PA113&dq=first+zionist+congress+nilus#v=onepage&q=first%20zionist%20congress%20nilus&f=false>).
23. Bein, Alex (1990), The Jewish question: biography of a world problem, Fairleigh Dickinson Univ Press, p. 339, ISBN 978-0-8386-3252-9
24. Keren, David (February 10, 1993), Commentary on The Protocols of the Elders of Zion (https://web.archive.org/web/20140729103854/http://ddickerson.igc.org/The_Protocols_of_the_Learned_Elders_of_Zion.pdf) (PDF), IGC, p. 4, archived from the original (http://ddickerson.igc.org/The_Protocols_of_the_Learned_Elders_of_Zion.pdf) (PDF) on July 29, 2014. Republished as "Introduction", The Protocols of the Learned Elders of Zion, Marsden, Victor E transl.
25. Cohn, Norman (1966), Warrant for Genocide: The Myth of the Jewish World-Conspiracy and the Protocols of the Elder of Zion, New York: Harper & Row, pp. 32–36.
26. Eco, Umberto (1998), Serendipities: Language and Lunacy (<https://books.google.com/books?id=rCyBla34aAMC&pg=PA14>), New York: Columbia University Press, p. 14, ISBN 978-0-231-11134-8
27. Olender, Maurice (2009), Race and Erudition, Harvard University Press, p. 11.
28. Mendes-Flohr, Paul R; Reinhartz, Jehuda (1995), The Jew in the Modern World: A Documentary History (<https://books.google.com/books?id=0Bu5GnLZCw0C&pg=PA363>), p. 363 see footnote, ISBN 978-0-19-507453-6
29. Chanes 2004, p. 58.
30. Shibuya 2007, p. 571.
31. Jacobs & Weitzman 2003, pp. 21–25.
32. Pipes 1997, pp. 86–87.
33. Eco, Umberto (1990), Foucault's Pendulum, London: Picador, p. 490.
34. De Michelis 2004.
35. Cohn 1967.
36. "Princess Radziwill Quizzed at Lecture; Stranger Questions Her Title After She Had Told of Forgery of "Jewish Protocols." Creates Stir at Astor Leaves Without Giving His Name – Mrs. Huribut Corroborates the Princess. Stranger Quizzes Princess. Corroborates Mme. Radziwill. Never Reached Alexander III. The Corroboration. Says Orgewsky Was Proud of Work" (<https://query.nytimes.com/gst/abstract.html?res=9800EFDD133CE533A25757C0A9659C946095D6CF>). The New York Times. March 4, 1921. Retrieved 2008-08-05.
37. Freund, Charles Paul (February 2000), "Forging Protocols" (<https://archive.is/20130104231406/http://www.reason.com/news/show/27585.html>), Reason Magazine, archived from the original (<http://www.reason.com/news/show/27585.html>) on 2013-01-04, retrieved 2008-09-28.

38. Conan, Éric (November 16, 1999), "Les secrets d'une manipulation antisémite" (<http://www.phdn.org/antisem/protocoles/origines.html>) [The secrets of an antisemite manipulation], L'Express (in French).
39. Skuratovsky, Vadim (2001), The Question of the Authorship of "The Protocols of the Elders of Zion", Kiev: Judaica Institute, ISBN 978-966-7273-12-5.
40. Bronner 2003, p. ix (<https://books.google.com/books?id=kkl-ZxE6h0oC&pg=PR9>), 56 (<https://books.google.com/books?id=kkl-ZxE6h0oC&pg=PA56>).
41. De Michelis, Cesare. The Non-Existent Manuscript. pp. passim.
42. Hagemeister 2008, pp. 83-95: "How can we explain that when it comes to the origins and dissemination of the Protocols of the Elders of Zion, the rules of careful historical research are so completely ignored and we are regularly served up stories"
43. Richard S. Levy (2014). "Setting the Record Straight Regarding The Protocols of the Elders of Zion: A Fool's Errand?". In William C. Donahue; Martha B. Helfer (eds.). Nexus – Essays in German Jewish Studies. 2. Camden House. pp. 43–61.
44. Karasova, T; Chernyakhovsky, D, Afterword (http://www.vehi.net/asion/kon/08.html#_ftnref14) (in Russian) in Cohn, Norman, Warrant for Genocide (in Russian) (translated ed.).
45. Kadzhaya, Valery. "The Fraud of a Century, or a book born in hell" (https://web.archive.org/web/20051217032523/http://www.newtimes.ru/eng/detail.asp?art_id=470). Archived from the original (http://www.newtimes.ru/eng/detail.asp?art_id=470) on December 17, 2005..
46. Kominsky, Morris (1970), The Hoaxers, p. 209, ISBN 978-0-8283-1288-2.
47. Fyodorov, Boris, P. Stolypin's attempt to resolve the Jewish question (<https://web.archive.org/web/20120210161318/http://www.fedorov.ru/stolypin.html>) (in Russian), RU, archived from the original (<http://www.fedorov.ru/stolypin.html>) on 2012-02-10, retrieved 2006-11-23.
48. Burtsev, Vladimir (1938), "4" (<http://www.jewniverse.ru/RED/Burtsev/BPSM-1-4.htm>), The Protocols of the Elders of Zion: A Proved Forgery (in Russian), Paris: Jewniverse, p. 106.
49. Baldwin, N. Henry Ford and the Jews. The mass production of hate. PublicAffair (2001), p. 82. ISBN 1891620525.
50. Wallace, M. The American axis: Henry Ford, Charles Lindbergh, and the rise of the Third Reich. St. Martin's Press (2003), p. 60. ISBN 0312290225.
51. Singerman 1980, pp. 48–78.
52. Toczek, Nick (2015). Haters, Baiters and Would-Be Dictators: Anti-Semitism and the UK Far Right (<https://books.google.com/books?id=p61ACwAAQBAJ&q=ackerman.+zion.+bolshevik&pg=PT190>). Routledge. ISBN 978-1317525875.
53. Rivera, David Allen (1998) [1994], "5" (<http://www.silverbearcafe.com/private/NWO/nwotoc.html>), Final Warning: A History of The New World Order.
54. Handwerk, Brian (September 11, 2006), "Anti-Semitic "Protocols of Zion" Endure, Despite Debunking" (<http://news.nationalgeographic.com/news/2006/09/060911-zion.html>), National Geographic News.
55. "Protocols of the Elders of Zion", Holocaust Encyclopedia (<http://www.ushmm.org/wlc/article.php?lang=en&ModuleId=10007058>), US: Holocaust Memorial Museum, May 4, 2009.
56. David 2000.
57. Carroll 2006.
58. Jenkins, Philip (1997), Hoods and Shirts: The Extreme Right in Pennsylvania, 1925–1950, UNC Press, p. 114, ISBN 978-0-8078-2316-3
59. Steed, Henry Wickham (May 8, 1920), "A Disturbing Pamphlet: A Call for Enquiry", The Times.
60. Friedländer, Saul (1997), Nazi Germany and the Jews, New York: HarperCollins, p. 95.
61. Liebich, Andre (2012). "The antisemitism of Henry Wickham Steed". Patterns of Prejudice. 46 (2): 180–208. doi:10.1080/0031322X.2012.672226 (<https://doi.org/10.1080%2F0031322X.2012.672226>). S2CID 144543860 (<https://api.semanticscholar.org/CorpusID:144543860>).

62. Staff (ndg) "A Hoax of Hate: The Protocols of the Learned Elders of Zion" (<https://www.adl.org/resources/backgrounders/a-hoax-of-hate-the-protocols-of-the-learned-elders-of-zion>) Anti-Defamation League
63. "Henry Ford publishes the last issue of the Dearborn Independent" (<http://www.history.com/this-day-in-history/henry-ford-publishes-the-last-issue-of-the-dearborn-independent>). History.com. Retrieved 25 September 2017.
64. Wallace, Max (2003), The American Axis, St. Martin's Press.
65. Rosenbaum, Robert A (2010). Waking to Danger: Americans and Nazi Germany, 1933-1941 (<https://books.google.com/books?id=sx27AHzby8YC&q=1927%2C+++Ford+to+retract+his+publication+and+apologize%3B&pg=PA41>). Greenwood Press. p. 41. ISBN 978-0313385025.
66. Dobbs, Michael (November 30, 1998), "Ford and GM Scrutinized for Alleged Nazi Collaboration" (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-srv/national/daily/nov98/nazicars30.htm>), The Washington Post, p. A01, retrieved March 20, 2006.
67. Marsden, Victor E, "Introduction", The protocols of the learned Elders of Zion (English ed.).
68. Grose, Peter (1994), Gentleman Spy: The Life of Allen Dulles, Houghton Mifflin.
69. Poliakov, Leon (1997), "Protocols of the Learned Elders of Zion", in Roth, Cecil (ed.), Encyclopedia Judaica (CD-ROM 1.0 ed.), Keter, ISBN 978-965-07-0665-4.
70. Bernstein 1921.
71. Richard Breitman et al. (2005). OSS Knowledge of the Holocaust. In: U.S. Intelligence and the Nazis. pp. 11–44. Cambridge: Cambridge University Press.doi:10.1017/CBO9780511618178.006 (<https://doi.org/10.1017%2FCBO9780511618178.006>) [Accessed 20 April 2016]. p. 25
72. Hafner, Urs (December 23, 2005). "Die Quelle allen Übels? Wie ein Berner Gericht 1935 gegen antisemitische Verschwörungsphantasien vorging" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110201033419/http://www.nzz.ch/2005/12/23/fe/articleDEYRW.html>) (in German). Neue Zürcher Zeitung. Archived from the original (<http://www.nzz.ch/2005/12/23/fe/articleDEYRW.html>) on February 1, 2011. Retrieved 2008-10-11.
73. Ben-Itto 2005, chapter 11.
74. Fry, Leslie. "Appendix II: The Berne Trials" (http://www.iamthewitness.com/books/Denis.Fahey/Waters.Flowing.Eastward/Appendix.2_The.Berne.Trials.htm). Waters Flowing Eastward. Retrieved 2009-08-11.
75. Lüthi, Urs (1992), Der Mythos von der Weltverschwörung: die Hetze der Schweizer Frontisten gegen Juden und Freimaurer, am Beispiel des Berner Prozesses um die "Protokolle der Weisen von Zion" (in German), Basel/Frankfurt am Main: Helbing & Lichtenhahn, ISBN 978-3-7190-1197-0, OCLC 30002662 (<https://www.worldcat.org/oclc/30002662>)
76. Ruud & Stepanov 1999, pp. 203–273.
77. Lüthi 1992, p. 45. sfn error: multiple targets (2×): CITEREFLüthi1992 (help)
78. Cohn 1967, p. 169.
79. Gellately, Robert (2012). Lenin, Stalin and Hitler: The Age of Social Catastrophe, ISBN 1448138787, p. 99
80. Hitler, Adolf, "XI: Nation and Race", Mein Kampf, I, pp. 307–08.
81. Nora Levin, The Holocaust: The Destruction of European Jewry 1933–1945. Quoting from IGC.org (<https://web.archive.org/web/20021001121141/http://ddickerson.igc.org/hitler-protokollen.html>)
82. Randall L. Bytwerk (2015). "Believing in "Inner Truth": The Protocols of the Elders of Zion in Nazi Propaganda, 1933–1945" (<https://doi.org/10.1093%2Fhgs%2Fdvcv024>). Holocaust and Genocide Studies. 29 (2): 212–229. doi:10.1093/hgs/dcv024 (<https://doi.org/10.1093%2Fhgs%2Fdvcv024>). S2CID 145338770 (<https://api.semanticscholar.org/CorpusID:145338770>).
83. Pipes 1997, p. 95.
84. Hagemeister 2011, pp. 241–53.

85. Michael Hagemeister, lecture at Cambridge University, 11 November 2014. video \(http://www.crassh.cam.ac.uk/gallery/video/dr-michael-hagemeister-the-protocols-of-the-elders-of-zion-the-facts-surround\)
86. Kellogg 2005, pp. 63–65.
87. Pipes 1997, p. 94.
88. Geheimnisse der Weisen von Zion (in German), Auf Vorposten, 1919.
89. Rosenberg, Alfred (1923), Die Protokolle der Weisen von Zion und die jüdische Weltpolitik, Munich: Deutscher Volksverlag.
90. Valentina Pisanty (2006), La difesa della razza: Antologia 1938–1943, Bompiani
91. Katz, S. and Gilman, S. Anti-Semitism in Times of Crisis. NYU Press (1993), pp. 344–45. ISBN 0814730566
92. Lewis, Bernard (1986), Semites and Anti-Semites: An Inquiry into Conflict and Prejudice (<https://archive.org/details/semiteantisemit00lewi/page/199>), WW Norton & Co., p. 199 (<https://archive.org/details/semiteantisemit00lewi/page/199>), ISBN 978-0-393-02314-5
93. Islamic Antisemitism in Historical Perspective (https://web.archive.org/web/20030705140049/http://adl.org/anti_semitism/arab/Arab_Anti-Semitism.pdf) (PDF), Anti-Defamation League, pp. 8–9, archived from the original (http://www.adl.org/anti_semitism/arab/Arab_Anti-Semitism.pdf) (PDF) on 2003-07-05
94. " Hamas Covenant " (http://avalon.law.yale.edu/20th_century/hamas.asp). Yale. 1988. Retrieved May 27, 2010. "Today it is Palestine, tomorrow it will be one country or another. The Zionist plan is limitless. After Palestine, the Zionists aspire to expand from the Nile to the Euphrates. When they will have digested the region they overtook, they will aspire to further expansion, and so on. Their plan is embodied in the 'Protocols of the Elders of Zion', and their present conduct is the best proof of what we are saying."
95. The Islamic Resistance Movement (1 May 2017). "A Document of General Principles and Policies" (<https://hamas.ps/en/post/678>).
96. "Protocols of the Elders of Zion read aloud in Greek Parliament" (<http://www.haaretz.com/jewish-world/jewish-world-news/protocols-of-the-elders-of-zion-read-aloud-in-greek-parliament-1.472552>). Haaretz. 2012-10-26.
97. Steven L. Jacobs; Mark Weitzman (2003). Dismantling the Big Lie: The Protocols of the Elders of Zion (<https://books.google.com/books?id=8N0TwbYCycAC&pg=PA8>). KTAV Publishing House, Inc. p. 8. ISBN 978-0-88125-786-1.
98. Schoenberg, Harris O. "Demonization in Durban: The World Conference Against Racism." The American Jewish Year Book 102 (2002): 85-111. Accessed October 27, 2020. <http://www.jstor.org/stable/23604538>.
99. Bayefsky, Anne. "THE UN WORLD CONFERENCE AGAINST RACISM: A RACIST ANTI-RACISM CONFERENCE." Proceedings of the Annual Meeting (American Society of International Law) 96 (2002): 65-74. Accessed October 27, 2020. <http://www.jstor.org/stable/25659754>.
00. al-Ahram, 1 January 2007
01. Miren, Frankie (20 January 2015). "The Psychology and Economy of Conspiracy Theories" (https://www.vice.com/en_uk/article/qbeqk7/the-psychology-and-economy-of-conspiracy-theories-890). Vice. Retrieved 9 December 2019.
02. Offley, Will (29 February 2000). "David Icke And The Politics Of Madness Where The New Age Meets The Third Reich" (<http://www.publiceye.org/icke/ickeBackgrounder.htm>). Political Research Associates. Retrieved 9 December 2019.
03. "Jews, Japan, Boycott and Bigotry" (<https://www.chicagotribune.com/news/ct-xpm-1987-04-28-8702010709-story.html>). Chicago Tribune. 1987-04-28.
04. "Egypt criticised for 'anti-Semitic' film" (http://news.bbc.co.uk/2/hi/middle_east/2386767.stm), BBC News Online, November 1, 2002.

Works cited

- Ben-Itto, Hadassa (2005). The Lie That Wouldn't Die: One Hundred Years of The Protocols of the Elders of Zion (<https://books.google.com/books?id=V8ltAAAAMAAJ>). London; Portland, OR: Vallentine Mitchell. ISBN 978-0-85303-602-9.
-
- Bernstein, Herman (1921): The History of a Lie (<https://gutenberg.org/ebooks/19200>) at Project Gutenberg
 - Bernstein, Herman (1921). The history of a lie, 'The protocols of the wise men of Zion' (<https://archive.org/details/historyofliethep00berniala>) (page images) (study). Archive. Retrieved 2009-02-01.
- Bronner, Stephen Eric (2003) [2000]. A Rumor About the Jews: Reflections on Antisemitism and the Protocols of the Learned Elders of Zion. New York: Oxford University Press. ISBN 978-0-19-516956-0.
- Carroll, Robert Todd (2006). "Protocols of the Learned Elders of Zion" (<http://www.skepdic.com/protocols.html>). The Skeptic's Dictionary. Retrieved February 25, 2021.
- Chanes, Jerome A (2004). Antisemitism: a reference handbook. ABC-Clío.
- Cohn, Norman (1967). Warrant for Genocide, The myth of the Jewish world conspiracy and the 'Protocols of the Elders of Zion'. Eyre & Spottiswoode. ISBN 978-1-897959-25-1.
- David (June 30, 2000). "What's the story with the 'Protocols of the Elders of Zion'?" (<https://www.straightdope.com/columns/read/1797/whats-the-story-with-the-protocols-of-the-elders-of-zion>). The Straight Dope. Retrieved February 25, 2021.
- De Michelis, Cesare G. (2004). The Non-Existent Manuscript: A Study of the Protocols of the Sages of Zion (<https://books.google.com/books?id=9uG1jsrOenwC&pg=PA113>). University of Nebraska Press. ISBN 978-0-8032-1727-0.
- Graves, Philip (August 16–18, 1921). "The Truth about the Protocols: A Literary Forgery" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20030809215759/http://www.h-net.org/~antis/doc/graves/graves.a.html>). The Times. London. Archived from the original (<http://www.h-net.org/~antis/doc/graves/graves.a.html>) on August 9, 2003.
- Graves, Philip (September 4, 1921b). "'Jewish World Plot': An Exposure. The Source of 'The Protocols of Zion'. Truth at Last" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20060304102238/http://emperor.vwh.net/antisem/first.pdf>) (PDF). The New York Times. Front p, Sec 7. Archived from the original (<http://emperor.vwh.net/antisem/first.pdf>) (PDF) on March 4, 2006.
 - Graves, Philip (1921c). The truth about 'The Protocols': a literary forgery (<https://web.archive.org/web/20130510140102/https://archive.org/details/truthaboutthepro00londiala>). The Times (articles collection). London: London : The Times. Archived from the original (<https://archive.org/details/truthaboutthepro00londiala>) (pamphlet) on May 10, 2013.
- Hagemeister, Michael (2006). Brinks, Jan Herman; Rock, Stella; Timms, Edward (eds.). Nationalist Myths and Modern Media. Contested Identities in the Age of Globalization. London/New York. pp. 243–55.
- Hagemeister, Michael (2008). "The Protocols of the Elders of Zion: Between History and Fiction". New German Critique. 35 (103): 83–95. doi:10.1215/0094033X-2007-020 (<https://doi.org/10.1215%2F0094033X-2007-020>). JSTOR 27669221 (<https://www.jstor.org/stable/27669221>).
- Hagemeister, Michael (2011). "The Protocols of the Elders of Zion in court: The Bern trials, 1933–1937". In Webman, Esther (ed.). The Global Impact of 'The Protocols of the Elders of Zion'. London, New York: Routledge. pp. 241–53.
- Jacobs, Steven Leonard; Weitzman, Mark (2003). Dismantling the Big Lie: The Protocols of the Elders of Zion. ISBN 978-0-88125-785-4..
- Kellogg, Michael (2005). The Russian Roots of Nazism White Émigrés and the Making of National Socialism, 1917–1945. Cambridge University Press.

- Klier, John Doyle (2005). Imperial Russia's Jewish Question, 1855-1881. Cambridge University Press. ISBN 978-0521023818.
- Lüthi, Urs (1992). Der Mythos von der Weltverschwörung: die Hetze der Schweizer Frontisten gegen Juden und Freimaurer, am Beispiel des Berner Prozesses um die "Protokolle der Weisen von Zion" (in German). Basel/Frankfurt am Main: Helbing & Lichtenhahn. ISBN 978-3-7190-1197-0. OCLC 30002662 (<https://www.worldcat.org/oclc/30002662>).
- Petrovsky-Shtern, Yohanan (2011). "The enemy of humanity: The Protocols paradigm in nineteenth-century Russian Mentality". In Webman, Esther (ed.). The Global Impact of The Protocols of the Elders of Zion. A century-old myth. London and New York: Routledge. ISBN 978-0-415-59892-7.
- Pipes, Daniel (1997). Conspiracy: How the Paranoid Style Flourishes and Where It Comes From (<https://archive.org/details/conspiracy00dani>). The Free Press, Simon & Schuster. ISBN 978-0-684-83131-2.
- Ruud, Charles; Stepanov, Sergei (1999). "10. Protocols, Masons and Liberals". The Tsar's Secret Police. McGill-Queen's University Press.
- Singerman, Robert (1980). "The American Career of the Protocols of the Elders of Zion". American Jewish History. 71.

See also

Pertinent concepts

- Black propaganda
- Blood libel
- Cultural Marxism conspiracy theory
- Jewish Bolshevism
- Disinformation
- Hate speech
- Shadow government (conspiracy)
- World government

Individuals

- Martin Heidegger and Nazism

Related or similar texts

- A Racial Program for the Twentieth Century
- Alta Vendita
- Tanaka Memorial
- Protocols of Zion
- Hamas Covenant
- The Prague Cemetery
- Memoirs of Mr. Hempher, The British Spy to the Middle East
- Warrant for Genocide

Further reading

Books and journal articles

- Ben-Itto, Hadassa: The Lie That Wouldn't Die: The Protocols of the Elders of Zion ISBN 9780853035954 (pub. Vallentine Mitchell & Co Ltd)
- A Hoax of Hate (https://web.archive.org/web/20051228055640/http://www.adl.org/special_reports/protocols/protocols_intro.asp). The Anti-Defamation League. 2002. Archived from the original (http://www.adl.org/special_reports/protocols/protocols_intro.asp) on 2005-12-28.
- Eisner, Will (2005). The Plot: The Secret Story of the Protocols of the Elders of Zion (<https://archive.org/details/plotsecretsto00eisn>). ISBN 978-0-393-06045-4.
- Fox, Frank (1997). "The Protocols of the Elders of Zion and the Shadowy world of Elie de Cyon". East European Jewish Affairs. 27 (1): 3–22. doi:10.1080/13501679708577838 (<https://doi.org/10.1080/13501679708577838>).
- Goldberg, Isaac (1936). The so-called "Protocols of the Elders of Zion": a Definitive Exposure of One of the Most Malicious Lies in History. Girard, KS: E. Haldeman-Julius.
- Kiš, Danilo (1989). "The Book of Kings and Fools". The Encyclopedia of the Dead. Faber & Faber.
- Landes, Richard; Katz, Steven, eds. (2012). Paranoid Apocalypse: A Hundred-Year Retrospective on 'The Protocols of the Elders of Zion'. New York: New York University Press.
- Shibuya, Eric (2007). "The Struggle with Violent Right-Wing Extremist Groups in the United States". In Forest, James (ed.). Countering terrorism and insurgency in the 21st century. Greenwood.
- Sykes, Christopher. "The Protocols of the Elders of Zion" History Today (Feb 1967), Vol. 17 Issue 2, p81-88 online
- Timmerman, Kenneth R (2003). Preachers of Hate: Islam and the War on America (<https://archive.org/details/preachersofhatei00timm>). Crown Forum. ISBN 978-1-4000-4901-1.
- Wolf, Lucien (1921). The Myth of the Jewish Menace in World Affairs or, The Truth About the Forged Protocols of the Elders of Zion (https://books.google.com/books?id=6_IHAAAIAAJ&q=The+Protocols+and+World+Revolution&pg=PA15). New York: Macmillan.

External links

- Protocols of the Elders of Zion: Key Dates (<https://encyclopedia.ushmm.org/content/en/article/protocols-of-the-elders-of-zion-key-dates>) – The Holocaust Encyclopedia (United States Holocaust Memorial Museum)
- The Protocols of the Learned Elders of Zion (<https://archive.org/details/protocolsofthelearnedeldersofzion>) translated by Victor E. Marsden at archive.org
- The Protocols of the Elders of Zion (Original Russian Edition) (https://archive.org/details/Protocols_of_the_Elders_of_Zion) at archive.org
- Public Statement (http://ajcarchives.org/AJC_DATA/Files/F-45.PDF) (PDF), The American Jewish Committee, 4pp. A disclaimer published as a result of a conference held in New York City on November 30, 1920.
- Protocols of the Elders of Zion; a fabricated "historic" document (<https://web.archive.org/web/20080528134535/http://www.ushmm.org/museum/exhibit/focus/antisemitism/pdf/senate-protocols.pdf>) (PDF) (report), United States Holocaust Museum: Subcommittee to Investigate the Administration of the Internal Security Act and Other Internal Security Laws, 88th Congress, 2d Session, August 6, 1964, archived from the original (<http://www.ushmm.org/museum/exhibit/focus/antisemitism/pdf/senate-protocols.pdf>) (PDF) on May 28, 2008.

- The Protocols of the Elders of Zion (<https://www.jewishvirtuallibrary.org/jsource/anti-semitism/protocols.html>), Jewish Virtual Library.
- Antisemitic Propaganda: "The Protocols of the Learned Elders of Zion" (http://www.religioustolerance.org/jud_blib4.htm), Ontario Consultants on Religious Tolerance, September 2004.
- Dickerson, D (ed.), Protocols (<https://web.archive.org/web/20060424122316/http://ddickerson.igc.org/protocols.html>) (Index of several resources), Institute for Global Communications, archived from the original (<http://ddickerson.igc.org/protocols.html>) on 2006-04-24.
- Dickerson, D (ed.), The protocols of the learned Elders of Zion (https://web.archive.org/web/20140729103854/http://ddickerson.igc.org/The_Protocols_of_the_Learned_Elders_of_Zion.pdf) (PDF), Marsden, transl., IGC, archived from the original (http://ddickerson.igc.org/The_Protocols_of_the_Learned_Elders_of_Zion.pdf) (PDF) on 2014-07-29.
- Eco, Umberto (August 17, 2002), "The poisonous Protocols" (<https://www.theguardian.com/books/2002/aug/17/society.umbertoeco>), The Guardian, retrieved August 17, 2016
- Rothstein, Edward (April 21, 2006), "The Antisemitic Hoax That Refuses to Die" (https://www.nytimes.com/2006/04/21/arts/design/21holo.html?_r=1&oref=slogin), The New York Times (exhibition review).
- Weiss, Anthony (March 4, 2009), "Elders of Zion to Retire" (<https://forward.com/articles/103587/>), The Jewish Daily Forward (Purim spoof article).
- History of the Protocols of the Learned Elders of Zion (<http://www.freemasonry.bcy.ca/texts/protocols.html>), BCY, CA: Freemasonry.
- "Protocols of the Learned Elders of Zion" (<http://www.britannica.com/EBchecked/topic/480269/Protocols-of-the-Learned-Elders-of-Zion>), Encyclopaedia Britannica.
- Matussek, Carmen (2013), Carmen Matussek: The Protocols of the Elders of Zion in the Arab world (http://www.worldjewishcongress.org/en/news/14007/wjc_analysis_carmen_matussek_the_protocols_of_the_elders_of_zion_in_the_arab_world), World Jewish Congress website

Retrieved from "https://en.wikipedia.org/w/index.php?title=The_Protocols_of_the_Elders_of_Zion&oldid=1028267100"

This page was last edited on 12 June 2021, at 22:37 (UTC).

Text is available under the Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike License; additional terms may apply. By using this site, you agree to the Terms of Use and Privacy Policy. Wikipedia® is a registered trademark of the Wikimedia Foundation, Inc., a non-profit organization.

Holocaust denial

Holocaust denial is an antisemitic conspiracy theory^{[1][2]} that asserts that the Nazi genocide of Jews, known as "the Holocaust", is a myth or fabrication.^{[3][4][5]} Holocaust deniers make one or more of the following false statements:^{[6][7][8]}

- Nazi Germany's Final Solution was aimed only at deporting Jews and did not include their extermination.
- Nazi authorities did not use extermination camps and gas chambers for the genocidal mass murder of Jews.
- The actual number of Jews murdered is significantly lower than the accepted figure of 5 to 6 million, typically around a tenth of that figure.
- The Holocaust is a hoax perpetrated by the Allies, a Jewish conspiracy, or the Soviet Union.^{[9][4]}

The methodologies of Holocaust deniers are based on a predetermined conclusion that ignores overwhelming historical evidence to the contrary.^[10] Scholars use the term denial to describe the views and methodology of Holocaust deniers in order to distinguish them from legitimate historical revisionists, who challenge orthodox interpretations of history using established historical methodologies.^[11] Holocaust deniers generally do not accept denial as an appropriate description of their activities and use the euphemism revisionism instead.^[12] In some former Eastern Bloc countries, Holocaust deniers do not deny the mass murder of Jews, but deny the participation of their own nationals in the Holocaust.^[13] In 2019 the Holocaust Remembrance Project Report highlighted this form of denial which they described as "revisionism". They picked out Hungary, Poland, Croatia and Lithuania as the worst offenders.^[14]

Holocaust denial is considered a serious societal problem in many places where it occurs and is illegal in several European countries and Israel.

Contents

Terminology and etymology

Background

Denial as a means of genocide

Efforts to conceal the historical record

German efforts

French collaboration in archive destruction

Efforts to preserve the historical record

During the war

Immediate post-war period

Nuremberg trials

Trial of Adolf Eichmann

Significant individuals and organizations

Maurice Bardèche

Harry Elmer Barnes

Beginnings of modern denialism

Institute for Historical Review

James Keegstra

Zündel trials

Bradley Smith and the CODOH

Ernst Nolte

Mayer controversy

False equivalence and effect

Denialist focus on Allied war crimes

Propaganda

Middle East

General

Palestinian territories

Iran

Turkey

Eastern Europe

Western Europe

Other

Reactions to Holocaust denial

Scholars

Public figures

Former Auschwitz SS personnel

Holocaust denial and antisemitism

Examination of claims

Laws against Holocaust denial

David Irving conviction

Genocide denials

See also

References

Citations

Bibliography

External links

Terminology and etymology

Holocaust deniers prefer to refer to their work as historical revisionism, and object to being referred to as "deniers".^[12] Emory University professor Deborah Lipstadt has written that: "The deniers' selection of the name revisionist to describe themselves is indicative of their basic strategy of deceit and distortion and of their attempt to portray themselves as legitimate historians engaged in the traditional practice of illuminating the past."^[15] Scholars consider this misleading since the methods of Holocaust denial differ from those of legitimate historical revision.^[16] Legitimate historical revisionism is explained in a resolution adopted by the Duke University History Department, November 8, 1991, and reprinted in Duke Chronicle, November 13, 1991 in response to an advertisement produced by Bradley R Smith's Committee for Open Debate on the Holocaust:^[17]

That historians are constantly engaged in historical revision is certainly correct; however, what historians do is very different from this advertisement. Historical revision of major events ... is not concerned with the actuality of these events; rather, it concerns their historical interpretation – their causes and consequences generally.

Lipstadt writes that modern Holocaust denial draws its inspiration from various sources, including a school of thought which used an established method to question government policies.^[18]

In 1992, Donald L. Niewyk gave some examples of how legitimate historical revisionism—the re-examination of accepted history and its updating with newly discovered, more accurate, or less-biased information—may be applied to the study of the Holocaust as new facts emerge to change the historical understanding of it:

With the main features of the Holocaust clearly visible to all but the willfully blind, historians have turned their attention to aspects of the story for which the evidence is incomplete or ambiguous. These are not minor matters by any means, but turn on such issues as Hitler's role in the event, Jewish responses to persecution, and reactions by onlookers both inside and outside Nazi-controlled Europe.^[19]

In contrast, the Holocaust denial movement bases its approach on the predetermined idea that the Holocaust, as understood by mainstream historiography, did not occur.^[10] Sometimes referred to as "negationism", from the French term négationnisme introduced by Henry Rousso,^[20] Holocaust deniers attempt to rewrite history by minimizing, denying, or simply ignoring essential facts. Koenraad Elst writes:

Negationism means the denial of historical crimes against humanity. It is not a reinterpretation of known facts, but the denial of known facts. The term negationism has gained currency as the name of a movement to deny a specific crime against humanity, the Nazi genocide on the Jews in 1941–45, also known as the Holocaust (Greek: complete burning) or the Shoah (Hebrew: disaster). Negationism is mostly identified with the effort at re-writing history in such a way that the fact of the Holocaust is omitted.^[21]

In "Secondary Anti-Semitism: From Hard-Core to Soft-Core Denial of the Shoah", Clemens Heni writes:

Contrary to the hard-core version, soft-core denial is often not easily identifiable. Often it is tolerated, or even encouraged and reproduced in the mainstream, not only in Germany. Scholars have only recently begun to unravel this disturbing phenomenon. Manfred Gerstenfeld discusses Holocaust trivialization in an article published in 2008. In Germany in 2007 two scholars, Thorsten Eitz and Georg Stötzel, published a voluminous dictionary of German language and discourse regarding National Socialism and the Holocaust. It includes chapters on Holocaust trivialization and contrived comparisons, such as the infamous "atomic Holocaust", "Babycaust," "Holocaust of abortion", "red Holocaust" or "biological Holocaust."^[22]

Background

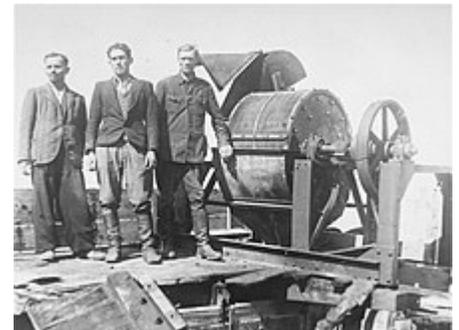

Denial as a means of genocide

Lawrence Douglas argues that denial was invented by the perpetrators and employed as a means of genocide. For example, trucks of Zyklon B were labeled with Red Cross symbols and victims were told that they would be "resettled". Douglas also cites the Posen speeches as an example of denial while genocide was ongoing, with Himmler referring to the Holocaust as "an unnamed and never to be named page of glory". Denial of the mass murder of gas chambers, according to Douglas, repeats the Nazi efforts to persuade the victims that they were actually harmless showers.^[23]

Efforts to conceal the historical record

German efforts

While the Second World War was still underway, the Nazis had already formed a contingency plan that if defeat was imminent they would carry out the total destruction of German records.^[24] Historians have documented evidence that as Germany's defeat became imminent and Nazi leaders realized they would most likely be captured and brought to trial, great effort was made to destroy all evidence of mass extermination. Heinrich Himmler instructed his camp commandants to destroy records, crematoria, and other signs of mass extermination.^[25] As one of many examples, the bodies of the 25,000 mostly Latvian Jews whom Friedrich Jeckeln and the soldiers under his command had shot at Rumbula (near Riga) in late 1941 were dug up and burned in 1943.^[26] Similar operations were undertaken at Belzec, Treblinka and other death camps.^[25]

Members of a Sonderkommando 1005 unit pose next to a bone-crushing machine in the Janowska concentration camp (photo taken in August 1944, after camp's liberation)

French collaboration in archive destruction

In occupied France, the situation with respect to preserving war records was not much better, partly as a result of French state secrecy rules dating back to well before the war aimed at protecting the French government and the state from embarrassing revelations, and partly to avoid culpability. For example, at Liberation, the Prefecture of Police destroyed nearly all of the massive archive of Jewish arrest and deportation.^[24]

Efforts to preserve the historical record

During the war

One of the earliest efforts to save historical record of the Holocaust occurred during the war, in France, where Drancy internment camp records were carefully preserved and turned over to the new National Office for Veterans and Victims of War; however, the bureau then held them in secret, refusing to release copies later, even to the Center of Contemporary Jewish Documentation (CDJC).

In 1943, Isaac Schneersohn, anticipating the need for a center to document and preserve the memory of the persecution for historical reasons and also support claims post-war, gathered together 40 representatives from Jewish organizations in Grenoble which was under Italian occupation at the time^[27] in order to form a centre de documentation.^[28] Exposure meant the death penalty, and as a result little actually happened before liberation.^[29] Serious work began after the center moved to Paris in late 1944 and was renamed the CDJC.^{[28][29]}

Immediate post-war period

In 1945, General Dwight D. Eisenhower, Supreme Allied Commander, anticipated that someday an attempt would be made to recharacterize the documentation of Nazi crimes as propaganda and took steps against it.^[30] Eisenhower, upon finding the victims of Nazi concentration camps, ordered all possible photographs to be taken, and for the German people from surrounding villages to be ushered through the camps and made to bury the dead.^{[31][32]}

Nuremberg trials

The Nuremberg trials took place in Germany after the war in 1945–1946. The stated aim was to dispense justice in retribution for atrocities of the German government. This Allied intention to administer justice post-war was first announced in 1943 in the Declaration on German Atrocities in Occupied Europe and reiterated at the Yalta Conference and at Berlin in 1945.^[33] While the intention was not specifically to preserve the historical record of the Holocaust, some of the core documents required to prosecute the cases were provided to them by the CDJC, and much of the huge trove of archives were then transferred to the CDJC after the trials and became the core of future Holocaust historiography.^[34]

The Nuremberg trials were important historically, but the events were still very recent, television was in its infancy and not present, and there was little public impact. There were isolated moments of limited public awareness from Hollywood films such as The Diary of Anne Frank (1959) or the 1961 Judgment at Nuremberg which had some newsreel footage of actual scenes from liberated Nazi concentration camps including scenes of piles of naked corpses laid out in rows and bulldozed into large pits, which was considered exceptionally graphic for the time. Public awareness changed when the Eichmann trial riveted the world's attention fifteen years after Nuremberg.^{[35][36]}

Trial of Adolf Eichmann

April 12, 1945: Generals Dwight D. Eisenhower, Omar Bradley and George S. Patton inspect an improvised crematory pyre at Ohrdruf concentration camp.

United States Army clerks with evidence collected for the Nuremberg trials

In 1961, the Israeli government captured Adolf Eichmann in Argentina and brought him to Israel to stand trial for war crimes. Chief prosecutor Gideon Hausner's intentions were not only to demonstrate Eichmann's guilt personally but to present material about the entire Holocaust, thus producing a comprehensive record.^[37]

The Israeli government arranged for the trial to have prominent media coverage.^[38] Many major newspapers from all over the globe sent reporters and published front-page coverage of the story.^[37] Israelis had the opportunity to watch live television broadcasts of the proceedings, and videotape was flown daily to the United States for broadcast the following day.^{[37][39]}

Significant individuals and organizations

In the immediate aftermath of the war, prior to the extensive documentation efforts by the Allied forces, a sense of disbelief caused many to deny the initial reports of the Holocaust.^[40] Compounding this disbelief was the memory of forged newspaper accounts of the German Corpse Factory, an anti-German atrocity propaganda campaign during WWI, which was widely known to be false by 1945.^[41]

During the 1930s, the Nazi government used this propaganda against the British, claiming allegations of concentration camps were malicious lies put forward by the British government, and historians Joachim Neander and Randal Marlin note that this story "encouraged later disbelief when early reports circulated about the Holocaust under Hitler".^[41] Victor Cavendish-Bentinck, chairman of the British Joint Intelligence Committee, noted that these reports were similar to "stories of employment of human corpses during the last war for the manufacture of fat which was a grotesque lie"; likewise, The Christian Century commented that "The parallel between this story and the 'corpse factory' atrocity tale of the First World War is too striking to be overlooked."^[42] Neander notes that "There can be no doubt that the reported commercial use of the corpses of the murdered Jews undermined the credibility of the news coming from Poland and delayed action that might have rescued many Jewish lives."^[42]

The Neo-Nazi movement has been revitalized by Holocaust denial. Small but vocal numbers of Neo-Nazis realized that recreation of a Hitlerite-style regime may be impossible, but a replica might be produced in the future; the rehabilitation of Nazism, they concluded, required the discrediting of the Holocaust.^[43]

Maurice Bardèche

The first person to openly write after the end of World War II that he doubted the reality of the Holocaust was French journalist Maurice Bardèche in his 1948 book Nuremberg ou la Terre promise ("Nuremberg or the Promised Land").^[44] Viewed as "the father-figure of Holocaust denial", Bardèche introduced in his works many aspects of neo-fascist and Holocaust denial propaganda techniques and ideological structures; his work is deemed influential in regenerating post-war European far-right ideas at a time of identity crisis in the 1950–1960s.^{[45][46][47]} His arguments formed the basis of numerous works of Holocaust denial that followed: "testimonies are not reliable, essentially coming from the mouth of Jews and communists", "atrocities committed in camps were the fact of deportees [essentially the kapos]", "disorganization occurred in Nazi camps following the first German defeats", "the high mortality is due to the 'weakening' of prisoners and epidemics", "only lice were gassed in Auschwitz", etc.^[48]

Harry Elmer Barnes

Harry Elmer Barnes, at one time a mainstream American historian, assumed a Holocaust-denial stance in his later years. Between World War I and World War II, Barnes was an anti-war writer and a leader of the historical revisionism movement. Starting in 1924, Barnes worked closely with the Centre for the Study of the Causes of the War, a German government-funded think tank whose sole purpose was to disseminate the official government position that Germany was the victim of Allied aggression in 1914 and that the Versailles Treaty was morally invalid.^[49] Headed by Major Alfred von Wegerer, a völkisch activist, the organization portrayed itself as a scholarly society, but historians later described it as "a clearinghouse for officially desirable views on the outbreak of the war."^[50]

Following World War II, Barnes became convinced that allegations made against Germany and Japan, including the Holocaust, were wartime propaganda that had been used to justify the United States' involvement in World War II. Barnes claimed that there were two false claims made about World War II, namely that Germany started the war in 1939, and the Holocaust, which Barnes claimed did not happen.^[51]

In his 1962 pamphlet, Revisionism and Brainwashing, Barnes claimed that there was a "lack of any serious opposition or concerted challenge to the atrocity stories and other modes of defamation of German national character and conduct".^[52] Barnes argued that there was "a failure to point out the atrocities of the Allies were more brutal, painful, mortal and numerous than the most extreme allegations made against the Germans".^[53] He claimed that in order to justify the "horrors and evils of the Second World War", the Allies made the Nazis the "scapegoat" for their own misdeeds.^[51]

Barnes cited the French Holocaust denier Paul Rassinier, whom Barnes called a "distinguished French historian" who had exposed the "exaggerations of the atrocity stories".^[53] In a 1964 article, "Zionist Fraud", published in the American Mercury, Barnes wrote: "The courageous author [Rassinier] lays the chief blame for misrepresentation on those whom we must call the swindlers of the crematoria, the Israeli politicians who derive billions of marks from nonexistent, mythical and imaginary cadavers, whose numbers have been reckoned in an unusually distorted and dishonest manner."^[53] Using Rassinier as his source, Barnes claimed that Germany was the victim of aggression in both 1914 and 1939 and that reports of the Holocaust were propaganda to justify a war of aggression against Germany.^[53]

Beginnings of modern denialism

In 1961, a protégé of Barnes, David Hoggan, published Der erzwungene Krieg (The Forced War) in West Germany, which claimed that Germany had been the victim of an Anglo-Polish conspiracy in 1939. Though Der erzwungene Krieg was primarily concerned with the origins of World War II, it also downplayed or justified the effects of Nazi antisemitic measures in the pre-1939 period.^[54] For example, Hoggan justified the huge one billion Reichsmark fine imposed on the entire Jewish community in Germany after the 1938 Kristallnacht as a reasonable measure to prevent what he called "Jewish profiteering" at the expense of German insurance companies and alleged that no Jews were killed in the Kristallnacht (in fact, 91 German Jews were murdered in the Kristallnacht).^[54] Subsequently, Hoggan explicitly denied the Holocaust in 1969 in a book entitled The Myth of the Six Million, which was published by the Noontide Press, a small Los Angeles publisher specializing in antisemitic literature.^[55]

In 1964, Paul Rassinier published The Drama of the European Jews. Rassinier was himself a concentration camp survivor (he was held in Buchenwald for having helped French Jews escape the Nazis), and modern-day deniers continue to cite his works as scholarly research that questions the accepted facts of the Holocaust. Critics argued that Rassinier did not cite evidence for his claims and ignored information that contradicted his assertions; he nevertheless remains influential in Holocaust denial circles for being one of the first deniers to propose that a vast Zionist/Allied/Soviet conspiracy faked the Holocaust, a theme that would be picked up in later years by other authors.^[56]

Austin App, a La Salle University medieval English literature professor, is considered the first major mainstream American holocaust denier.^{[57][58]} App defended the Germans and Nazi Germany during World War II. He published numerous articles, letters, and books on Holocaust denial, quickly building a loyal following. App's work inspired the Institute for Historical Review, a California center founded in 1978 whose sole task is the denial of the Holocaust.^[59]

The publication of Arthur Butz's The Hoax of the Twentieth Century: The case against the presumed extermination of European Jewry in 1976; and David Irving's Hitler's War in 1977 brought other similarly inclined individuals into the fold.^[60] Butz was a tenured associate professor of electrical engineering at Northwestern University. In December 1978 and January 1979, Robert Faurisson, a French professor of literature at the University of Lyon, wrote two letters to Le Monde claiming that the gas chambers used by the Nazis to exterminate the Jews did not exist. A colleague of Faurisson, Jean-Claude Pressac, who initially shared Faurisson's views, later became convinced of the Holocaust's evidence while investigating documents at Auschwitz in 1979. He published his conclusions along with much of the underlying evidence in his 1989 book, Auschwitz: Technique and operation of the gas chambers.^[61]

Henry Bienen, the former president of Northwestern University, has described Arthur Butz's view of the Holocaust as an "embarrassment to Northwestern".^[62] In 2006, sixty of Butz's colleagues from the Department of Electrical Engineering and Computer Science faculty signed a censure describing Butz's Holocaust denial as "an affront to our humanity and our standards as scholars".^[63] The letter also called for Butz to "leave our Department and our University and stop trading on our reputation for academic excellence".^[63]

Institute for Historical Review

In 1978 the American far-right activist Willis Carto founded the Institute for Historical Review (IHR), an organization dedicated to publicly challenging the commonly accepted history of the Holocaust.^[64] The IHR's founding was inspired by Austin App, a La Salle professor of medieval English literature and considered the first major American holocaust denier.^[58] The IHR sought from the beginning to establish itself within the broad tradition of historical revisionism, by soliciting token supporters who were not from a neo-Nazi background such as James J. Martin and Samuel Edward Konkin III, and by promoting the writings of French socialist Paul Rassinier and American anti-war historian Harry Elmer Barnes, in an attempt to show that Holocaust denial had a base of support beyond neo-Nazis. The IHR republished most of Barnes's writings, which had been out of print since his death. While it included articles on other topics and sold books by mainstream historians, the majority of material published and distributed by IHR was devoted to questioning the facts surrounding the Holocaust.^[65]

In 1980, the IHR promised a $50,000 reward to anyone who could prove that Jews were gassed at Auschwitz. Mel Mermelstein wrote a letter to the editors of the Los Angeles Times and others including The Jerusalem Post. The IHR wrote back, offering him $50,000 for proof that Jews were, in fact, gassed in the gas chambers at Auschwitz. Mermelstein, in turn, submitted a notarized account of his internment at Auschwitz and how he witnessed Nazi guards ushering his mother and two sisters and others towards (as he learned later) gas chamber number five. Despite this, the IHR refused to pay the reward. Represented by public interest attorney William John Cox, Mermelstein subsequently sued the IHR in the Superior Court of Los Angeles County for breach of contract, anticipatory repudiation, libel, injurious denial of established fact, intentional infliction of emotional distress, and declaratory relief. On October 9, 1981, both parties in the Mermelstein case filed motions for summary judgment in consideration of which Judge Thomas T. Johnson of the Superior Court of Los Angeles County took "judicial notice of the fact that Jews were gassed to death at the Auschwitz Concentration Camp in Poland during the summer of 1944,"^{[66][67]} judicial notice meaning that the court treated the gas chambers as common knowledge, and therefore did not require evidence that the gas chambers existed. On August 5, 1985, Judge Robert A. Wenke entered a judgment based upon the Stipulation for Entry of Judgment agreed upon by the parties on July 22, 1985. The judgment required IHR and other defendants to pay $90,000 to Mermelstein and to issue a letter of apology to "Mr. Mel Mermelstein, a survivor of Auschwitz-Birkenau and Buchenwald, and all other survivors of Auschwitz" for "pain, anguish and suffering" caused to them.^[67]

In the "About the IHR" statement on their website, the IHR states, "The IHR does not 'deny' the Holocaust. Indeed, the IHR as such has no 'position' on any specific event..."^[68] British historian Richard J. Evans wrote that the Institute's acknowledgment "that a relatively small number of Jews were killed" was a means to draw attention away from its primary beliefs, i.e. that the number of victims was not in the millions and that Jews were not systematically murdered in gas chambers.^[69]

James Keegstra

In 1984, James Keegstra, a Canadian high-school teacher, was charged under the Canadian Criminal Code for "promoting hatred against an identifiable group by communicating anti-Semitic statements to his students". During class, he would describe Jews as a people of profound evil who had "created the Holocaust to gain sympathy." He also tested his students in exams on his theories and opinion of Jews.

Keegstra was charged under s 281.2(2) of the Criminal Code (now s 319(2)), which provides that "Every one who, by communicating statements, other than in private conversation, wilfully promotes hatred against any identifiable group" commits a criminal offence.^[70] He was convicted at trial before the Alberta Court of Queen's Bench. The court rejected the argument, advanced by Keegstra and his lawyer, Doug Christie, that promoting hatred is a constitutionally protected freedom of expression as per s 2(b) of the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms. Keegstra appealed to the Alberta Court of Appeal. That court agreed with Keegstra, and he was acquitted. The Crown then appealed the case to the Supreme Court of Canada, which ruled by a 4–3 majority that promoting hatred could be justifiably restricted under s 1 of the Charter. The Supreme Court restored Keegstra's conviction.^[71] He was fired from his teaching position shortly afterward.^[72]

Zündel trials

The Toronto-based photo retoucher Ernst Zündel operated a small-press called Samisdat Publishers, which published and distributed Holocaust-denial material such as Did Six Million Really Die? by Richard Harwood (a pseudonym of Richard Verrall – a British neo-Nazi). In 1985, he was tried in R. v. Zundel and convicted under a "false news" law and sentenced to 15 months imprisonment by an Ontario court for "disseminating and publishing material denying the Holocaust".^[73] The Holocaust historian Raul Hilberg was a witness for the prosecution at the 1985 trial. Zündel's conviction was overturned in an appeal on a legal technicality, leading to a second trial in 1988, in which he was again convicted. The 1988 trial included, as witnesses for the defence, Fred A. Leuchter, David Irving and Robert Faurisson. The pseudo-scientific Leuchter report was presented as a defence document and was published in Canada in 1988 by Zundel's Samisdat Publishers, and in Britain in 1989 by Irving's Focal Point

Publishing. In both of his trials, Zündel was defended by Douglas Christie and Barbara Kulaszka. His conviction was overturned in 1992 when the Supreme Court of Canada declared the "false news" law unconstitutional.^[73]

Zündel had a website, web-mastered by his wife Ingrid, which publicises his viewpoints.^[74] In January 2002, the Canadian Human Rights Tribunal delivered a ruling in a complaint involving his website, in which it was found to be contravening the Canadian Human Rights Act. The court ordered Zündel to cease communicating hate messages. In February 2003, the American INS arrested him in Tennessee, USA, on an immigration violations matter, and few days later, Zündel was sent back to Canada, where he tried to gain refugee status. Zündel remained in prison until March 1, 2005, when he was deported to Germany and prosecuted for disseminating hate propaganda. On February 15, 2007, Zündel was convicted on 14 counts of incitement under Germany's Volksverhetzung law, which bans the incitement of hatred against a portion of the population and given the maximum sentence of five years in prison.^[75]

Bradley Smith and the CODOH

In 1987, Bradley R. Smith, a former media director of the Institute for Historical Review,^[76] founded the Committee for Open Debate on the Holocaust (CODOH).^[77] In the United States, CODOH has repeatedly attempted to place advertisements questioning whether the Holocaust happened, especially in college campus newspapers.^[78]

Bradley Smith took his message to college students—with little success. Smith referred to his tactics as the CODOH campus project. He said, "I don't want to spend time with adults anymore, I want to go to students. They are superficial. They are empty vessels to be filled." "What I wanted to do was I wanted to set forth three or four ideas that students might be interested in, that might cause them to think about things or to have questions about things. And I wanted to make it as simple as possible, and to set it up in a way that could not really be debated."^[79] Holocaust deniers have placed "Full page advertisements in college and university newspapers, including those of Brandeis University, Boston College, Pennsylvania State University, and Queens College (part of CUNY). Some of these ads arguing that the Holocaust never happened ran without comment; others generated op-ed pieces by professors and students".^[80] On September 8, 2009, student newspaper The Harvard Crimson ran a paid ad from Bradley R Smith. It was quickly criticized and the editor issued an apology, saying publishing the ad was a mistake.^[81]

Ernst Nolte

The German philosopher and historian Ernst Nolte, starting in the 1980s, advanced a set of theories, which though not denying the Holocaust appeared to flirt with an Italian Holocaust denier, Carlo Mattogno, as a serious historian.^[82] In a letter to the Israeli historian Otto Dov Kulka of December 8, 1986, Nolte criticized the work of the French Holocaust denier Robert Faurisson on the ground that the Holocaust did occur, but went on to argue that Faurisson's work was motivated by what Nolte claimed were the admirable motives of sympathy towards the Palestinians and opposition to Israel.^[83] In his 1987 book Der europäische Bürgerkrieg (The European Civil War), Nolte claimed that the intentions of Holocaust deniers are "often honourable", and that some of their claims are "not obviously without foundation".^{[82][84]} Nolte himself, though he has never denied the occurrence of the Holocaust, has claimed that the Wannsee Conference of 1942 never happened and that the minutes of the conference were post-war forgeries done by "biased" Jewish historians designed to discredit Germany.^[84]

The British historian Ian Kershaw has argued that Nolte was operating on the borderlines of Holocaust denial with his implied claim that the "negative myth" of the Third Reich was created by Jewish historians, his allegations of the domination of Holocaust scholarship by "biased" Jewish historians, and his statements that one should withhold judgment on Holocaust deniers, whom Nolte takes considerable pains to stress are not exclusively Germans or fascists.^[85] In Kershaw's opinion, Nolte is attempting to imply that perhaps Holocaust deniers are on to something.^[85]

In a 1990 interview, Nolte implied that there was something to the Leuchter report: "If the revisionists [Holocaust deniers] and Leuchter among them have made it clear to the public that even 'Auschwitz' must be an object of scientific inquiry and controversy then they should be given credit for this. Even if it finally turned out that the number of victims was even greater and the procedures were even more horrific than has been assumed until now."^[86] In his 1993 book Streitpunkte (Points of Contention), Nolte praised the work of Holocaust deniers as superior to "mainstream scholars".^[87] Nolte wrote that "radical revisionists have presented research which, if one is familiar with the source material and the critique of the sources, is probably superior to that of the established historians of Germany".^{[87][88]} In a 1994 interview with Der Spiegel magazine, Nolte stated "I cannot rule out the importance of the investigation of the gas chambers in which they looked for remnants of the [chemical process engendered by Zyklon B]", and that "'Of course, I am against revisionists, but Fred Leuchter's 'study' of the Nazi gas ovens has to be given attention because one has to stay open to 'other' ideas."^[89]

The British historian Richard J. Evans in his 1989 book In Hitler's Shadow expressed the view that Nolte's reputation as a scholar was in ruins as a result of these and other controversial statements on his part.^[90] The American historian Deborah Lipstadt in a 2003 interview stated:

Historians such as the German Ernst Nolte are, in some ways, even more dangerous than the deniers. Nolte is an anti-Semite of the first order, who attempts to rehabilitate Hitler by saying that he was no worse than Stalin; but he is careful not to deny the Holocaust. Holocaust-deniers make Nolte's life more comfortable. They have, with their radical argumentation, pulled the center a little more to their side. Consequently, a less radical extremist, such as Nolte, finds himself closer to the middle ground, which makes him more dangerous.^[91]

Mayer controversy

In 1988, the American historian Arno J. Mayer published a book entitled Why Did the Heavens Not Darken?, which did not explicitly deny the Holocaust, but according to Lucy Dawidowicz lent support to Holocaust denial by stating that most people who died at Auschwitz were the victims of "natural causes" such as disease, not gassing.^[92] Dawidowicz argued that Mayer's statements about Auschwitz were "a breathtaking assertion".^[93] Holocaust historian Robert Jan van Pelt has written that Mayer's book is as close as a mainstream historian has ever come to supporting Holocaust denial.^[94] Holocaust deniers such as David Irving have often cited Mayer's book as one reason for embracing Holocaust denial.^[94] Though Mayer has been often condemned for his statement about the reasons for the Auschwitz death toll, his book does not deny the use of gas chambers at Auschwitz, as Holocaust deniers often claim.^[95]

Some mainstream Holocaust historians have labeled Mayer a denier. The Israeli historian Yehuda Bauer wrote that Mayer "popularizes the nonsense that the Nazis saw in Marxism and Bolshevism their main enemy, and the Jews unfortunately got caught up in this; when he links the destruction of the Jews to the ups and downs of German warfare in the Soviet Union, in a book that is so cocksure of itself that it does not need a proper scientific apparatus, he is really engaging in a much more subtle form of Holocaust denial".^[96]

Defenders of Mayer argue that his statement that "Sources for the study of the gas chambers are at once rare and unreliable" has been taken out of context, particularly by Holocaust deniers.^[97] Michael Shermer and Alex Grobman observe that the paragraph from which the statement is taken asserts that the SS destroyed the majority of the documentation relating to the operation of the gas chambers in the death camps, which is why Mayer feels that sources for the operation of the gas chambers are "rare" and "unreliable".^[98]

False equivalence and effect

Denialist focus on Allied war crimes

The focus on so-called Allied atrocities during the war has been a theme in Holocaust denial literature, particularly in countries where outright denial of the Holocaust is illegal.^[99] According to historian Deborah Lipstadt, the concept of "comparable Allied wrongs", such as the expulsion of Germans after World War II and the bombing of Dresden,^[100] is at the center of, and a continuously repeated theme of, contemporary Holocaust denial; a phenomenon she calls "immoral equivalencies".^[101] Pierre Vidal-Naquet pointed out the same phenomenon in the earlier version of Les Assassins de la mémoire under the title Auschwitz et le tiers monde (Les Assassins de la mémoire, Paris, 2005, pp. 170–180), and accurately about the declarations of Klaus Barbie's lawyer Jacques Vergès. In 1977, Martin Broszat, in a review of David Irving's book Hitler's War, maintained that the picture of World War II drawn by Irving was done in a such way to imply moral equivalence between the actions of the Axis and Allied states with both sides equally guilty of terrible crimes, leading to Hitler's "fanatical, destructive will to annihilate" being downgraded to being "no longer an exceptional phenomenon".^[102]

Propaganda

According to James Najarian, Holocaust deniers working for the Institute for Historical Review are not trained in history and "put out sham scholarly articles in the mock-academic publication, the Journal of Historical Review".^[103] They appeal to "our objectivity, our sense of fair play, and our distrust of figurative language".^[104] Thus, they rely on facts to grab the readers' attention. These facts, however, are strung by what Najarian calls "fabricated decorum" and are re-interpreted for their use. For example, they pay particular attention to inconsistencies in numbers.^[105]

Holocaust denial propaganda in all forms has been shown to influence the audiences that it reaches. In fact, even the well-educated—that is, college graduates and current university students alike—are susceptible to such propaganda when it is presented before them. This stems from the growing disbelief that audiences feel after being exposed to such information, especially since Holocaust witnesses themselves are decreasing in number.^[106] Studies centered on the psychological effects of Holocaust denial propaganda confirm this assertion. Linda M. Yelland and William F. Stone, in particular, show that Denial essays decrease readers' belief in the Holocaust, regardless of their prior Holocaust awareness.^[107]

Middle East

General

Gamal Abdel Nasser, the President of Egypt, told a German newspaper in 1964 that "no person, not even the most simple one, takes seriously the lie of the six million Jews that were murdered [in the Holocaust]."^{[108][109]}

Denials of the Holocaust have been promoted by various Middle Eastern figures and media. Holocaust denial is sponsored by some Middle Eastern governments, including Iran^[110] and Syria.^[111] In 2006 Robert Satloff writing in The Washington Post, reported that "A respected Holocaust research institution recently reported that Egypt, Qatar and Saudi Arabia all promote Holocaust denial and protect Holocaust deniers."^[112]

Prominent figures from the Middle East have rarely made publicized visits to Auschwitz—Israel's Arab community being the exception. In 2010, Hadash MK Mohammed Barakeh visited, following a previous visit of two other Arab-Israeli lawmakers, and a group of about 100 Arab-Israeli writers and clerics in 2003.^[113]

Palestinian territories

Individuals from the Palestinian Authority, Hamas, and a number of Palestinian groups have all engaged in various aspects of Holocaust denial.^[114]

Hamas have promoted Holocaust denial;^[115] Abdel Aziz al-Rantissi held that the Holocaust never occurred, that Zionists were behind the action of Nazis, and that Zionists funded Nazism.^[116] A press release by Hamas in April 2000 decried "the so-called Holocaust, which is an alleged and invented story with no basis".^[117] In August 2009, Hamas' told UNRWA that it would "refuse" to allow Palestinian children to study the Holocaust, which it called "a lie invented by the Zionists" and referred to Holocaust education as a "war crime".^[118] Hamas continued to hold this position in 2011, when the organization's Ministry for Refugee Affairs said that Holocaust education was "intended to poison the minds of our children."^[119]

The thesis of the 1982 doctoral dissertation of Mahmoud Abbas, a co-founder of Fatah and president of the Palestinian National Authority, was "The Secret Connection between the Nazis and the Leaders of the Zionist Movement".^{[120][121][116]} In his 1983 book The Other Side: the Secret Relationship Between Nazism and Zionism based on the dissertation, Abbas denied that six million Jews had died in the Holocaust; dismissing it as a "myth" and a "fantastic lie".^[122] At most, he wrote, 890,000 Jews were murdered by the Germans. Abbas claimed that the number of deaths has been exaggerated for political purposes. "It seems that the interest of the Zionist movement, however, is to inflate this figure [of Holocaust deaths] so that their gains will be greater. This led them to emphasize this figure [six million] in order to gain the solidarity of international public opinion with Zionism. Many scholars have debated the figure of six million and reached stunning conclusions—fixing the number of Jewish victims at only a few hundred thousand."^{[116][123][124][125][126]}

In his March 2006 interview with Haaretz, Abbas stated, "I wrote in detail about the Holocaust and said I did not want to discuss numbers. I quoted an argument between historians in which various numbers of casualties were mentioned. One wrote there were 12 million victims and another wrote there were 800,000. I have no desire to argue with the figures. The Holocaust was a terrible, unforgivable crime against the Jewish nation, a crime against humanity that cannot be accepted by humankind. The Holocaust was a terrible thing and nobody can claim I denied it."^[127] While acknowledging the existence of the Holocaust in 2006 and 2014,^[128] Abbas has defended the position that Zionists collaborated with the Nazis to perpetrate it. In 2012, Abbas told Al Mayadeen, a Beirut TV station affiliated with Iran and Hezbollah, that he "challenges anyone who can deny that the Zionist movement had ties with the Nazis before World War II".^[129]

Surveys conducted by Sammy Smootha of the University of Haifa found that the fraction of Israeli Arabs denying that millions of Jews were murdered by the Nazis increased from 28% in 2006 to 40% in 2008.^[130] Smootha commented:

In Arab eyes disbelief in the very happening of the Shoah is not hate of Jews (embedded in the denial of the Shoah in the West) but rather a form of protest. Arabs not believing in the event of Shoah intend to express strong objection to the portrayal of the Jews as the ultimate victim and to the underrating of the Palestinians as a victim. They deny Israel's right to exist as a Jewish state that the Shoah gives legitimacy to. Arab disbelief in the Shoah is a component of the Israeli-Palestinian conflict, unlike the ideological and anti-Semitic denial of the Holocaust and the desire to escape guilt in the West.^[130]

Iran

Former Iranian President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad frequently denied the Holocaust,^[131] formally 'questioning' the reliability of the historical evidence,^[132] although he on occasion confirmed belief in it.^{[133][134]} In a December 2005 speech, Ahmadinejad said that a legend was fabricated and had been promoted to protect Israel. He said:

They have fabricated a legend, under the name of the Massacre of the Jews, and they hold it higher than God himself, religion itself and the prophets themselves.... If somebody in their country questions God, nobody says anything, but if somebody denies the myth of the massacre of Jews, the Zionist loudspeakers and the governments in the pay of Zionism will start to scream.^[135]

Protest in Brazil against former Iranian President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, criticising his Holocaust denial

The remarks immediately provoked international controversy as well as swift condemnation from government officials in Israel, Europe, and the United States. All six political parties in the German parliament signed a joint resolution condemning Ahmadinejad's Holocaust denial.^[136] In contrast, Hamas political leader Khaled Mashaal described Ahmadinejad's comments as "courageous" and stated, "Muslim people will defend Iran because it voices what they have in their hearts, in particular the Palestinian people."^[137] In the United States, the Muslim Public Affairs Council condemned Ahmadinejad's remarks.^[138] In 2005, the Egyptian Muslim Brotherhood leader, Mohammed Mahdi Akef, denounced what he called "the myth of the Holocaust" in defending Ahmadinejad's denial of the Holocaust.^[139]

On December 11, 2006, the Iranian state-sponsored "International Conference to Review the Global Vision of the Holocaust" began to widespread condemnation.^[140] The conference, called for and held at the behest of Ahmadinejad,^[141] was widely described as a "Holocaust denial conference" or a "meeting of Holocaust deniers",^[142] though Iran denied it was a Holocaust denial conference.^[143] A few months before it opened, the Iranian Foreign Ministry spokesman Hamid Reza Asefi stated: "The Holocaust is not a sacred issue that one can't touch. I have visited the Nazi camps in Eastern Europe. I think it is exaggerated."^[144]

In 2013, in an interview with CNN, newly elected Iranian President Hassan Rouhani condemned the Holocaust, stating: "I can tell you that any crime that happens in history against humanity, including the crime the Nazis created towards the Jews as well as non-Jews is reprehensible and condemnable. Whatever criminality they committed against the Jews, we condemn."^[145] Iranian media later accused CNN of fabricating Rouhani's comments.^[146]

In his official 2013 Nowruz address, Supreme Leader of Iran Grand Ayatollah Ali Khamenei questioned the veracity of the Holocaust, remarking that "The Holocaust is an event whose reality is uncertain and if it has happened, it's uncertain how it has happened."^{[147][148]} This was consistent with Khamenei's previous comments regarding the Holocaust.^[149]

In 2015, the House of Cartoon and the Sarcheshmeh Cultural Complex in Iran organized the Second International Holocaust Cartoon Competition,^[150] a competition in which artists were encouraged to submit cartoons on the theme of Holocaust denial. The winner of the contest will receive $12,000. Hamshahri, a popular Iranian newspaper, held a similar contest in 2006.^[151]

Turkey

In Turkey, in 1996, the Islamic preacher Adnan Oktar under the pen name of Harun Yahya, distributed thousands of copies of a book which was originally published the previous year, entitled Soykırım Yalanı ("The Genocide Lie", referring to the Holocaust) and mailed unsolicited texts to American and European schools and colleges.^[152] The publication of Soykırım Yalanı sparked much public debate.^[153] This book claims, "what is presented as Holocaust is the death of some Jews due to the typhus plague during the war and the famine towards the end of the war caused by the defeat of the Germans."^[154] In March 1996, a Turkish painter and intellectual, Bedri Baykam, published a strongly worded critique of the book in the Ankara daily newspaper Siyah-Beyaz ("Black and White"). A legal suit for slander was brought against him. During the trial in September, Baykam exposed the real author of the book as Adnan Oktar.^[153] The suit was withdrawn in March 1997.^{[155][156]}

Eastern Europe

In some Eastern European countries, such as Ukraine, Lithuania, Latvia, and Romania, Holocaust deniers do not deny the very fact of mass murder of Jews, but deny some national or regional elements of the Holocaust.^[13]

According to Zvi Gitelman, Soviet writers tended either to ignore or downplay the Holocaust, treating it as one small part of a larger phenomenon of 20 million dead Soviet citizens during the Great Patriotic War. According to Gitelman, Soviet authorities were concerned about raising the consciousness of Soviet Jews and retarding their assimilation to the greater Soviet population. The Holocaust also raised the issue of collaboration with the Nazi occupiers, an uncomfortable topic for Soviet historiography.^[157]

In 2018, the United States Department of State warned about "the glorification of the Ustasha regime and denial of the Holocaust" in Croatia, citing the placement of a plaque with the Ustasha-era salute 'Za dom spremni' on the grounds of a concentration camp memorial site, far-right rallies and the concert of the controversial band Thompson among other events.^[158] Efraim Zuroff of the Simon Wiesenthal Center describes Croatia as a "cradle of Holocaust distortion".^[159] Holocaust denial in Croatia typically involves the downplaying or denial of the Holocaust carried out by the Ustasha regime, particularly against Serbs and Jews at the Jasenovac concentration camp and it is done by public figures, though the regime's victims also included Roma and anti-fascist Croats.^{[159][160][161]} The Society for Research of the Threefold Jasenovac Camp in Croatia, an NGO with authors and academics among its members, claims that Jasenovac was a labour camp during World War II and that it was later used by Yugoslav Communists to imprison Ustasha members and regular Croatian Home Guard army troops until 1948, then alleged Stalinists until 1951.^[162] Following a series of book publications denying the Ustashe regime's crimes, the Simon Wiesenthal Center urged Croatian authorities in 2019 to ban such works, noting that they "would immediately be banned in Germany and Austria and rightfully so".^{[163][164]}

In Hungary, Holocaust distortion and denial take place in the form of downplaying the country's role in the killing and deportation of Jews. The Arrow Cross Party committed numerous crimes and killed or deported Jews. A total of 437,000 Jews were deported by Miklós Horthy's government in the Kingdom of Hungary, an Axis collaborator.^{[165][166]}

In Serbia, Holocaust distortion and denial is manifested in the downplaying of Milan Nedić and Dimitrije Ljotić's roles in the extermination of Serbia's Jews in concentration camps in Nedić's Serbia, by a number of Serbian historians.^{[167][168]} Serb collaborationist armed forces, including the Chetniks, were involved, either directly or indirectly, in the mass killings of mainly Jews and Roma as well as Croats, Muslims and those Serbs who sided with any anti-German resistance.^{[169][170]} Since the end of the war, Serbian collaboration in the Holocaust has been the subject of historical revisionism by Serbian leaders.^[171]

In Slovakia, some anti-communist writers claim that Jozef Tiso was a savior of Jews or that the Slovak State was not responsible for the Holocaust in Slovakia.^{[172][173]}

The post-Soviet radical right activists do not question the existence of Nazi death camps or Jewish ghettos. However, they deny the participation of local population in anti-Jewish pogroms or the contribution of national paramilitary organizations in capture and execution of Jews.^[13] Thus, denial of the antisemitic nature and participation in the Holocaust of the Organization of Ukrainian Nationalists has become a central component of the intellectual history of the Ukrainian diaspora and nationalists.^[174]

Western Europe

In France, Holocaust denial became more prominent in the 1990s as négationnisme, though the movement has existed in ultra-left French politics since at least the 1960s, led by figures such as Pierre Guillaume (who was involved in the bookshop La Vieille Taupe during the 1960s). Elements of the extreme far-right in France have begun to build on each other's negationist arguments, which often span beyond the Holocaust to cover a range of antisemitic views, incorporating attempts to tie the Holocaust to the Biblical massacre of the Canaanites, critiques of Zionism, and other material fanning what has been called a "conspiratorial Judeo-phobia" designed to legitimize and "banalize" antisemitism.^[175]

In Belgium in 2001, Roeland Raes, the ideologue and vice-president of one of the country's largest political parties, the Vlaams Blok, gave an interview on Dutch TV where he cast doubt over the number of Jews murdered by the Nazis during the Holocaust. In the same interview, he questioned the scale of the Nazis' use of gas chambers and the authenticity of Anne Frank's diary. In response to the media assault following the interview, Raes was forced to resign his position but vowed to remain active within the party.^[176] Three years later, the Vlaams Blok was convicted of racism and chose to disband. Immediately afterwards, it legally reformed under the new name Vlaams Belang (Flemish Interest) with the same leaders and the same membership.^[177]

The trial of a Canadian woman, Monika Schaefer, and her German-Canadian brother, Alfred Schaefer started in Germany in early July 2018. They were charged with Volksverhetzung, "incitement to hatred". The pair had published video clips on YouTube of their denial of the genocide of Jews. In the clips, Alfred Schaefer said that Jews wanted to destroy Germans, blamed them for starting both World Wars, and referred to the Holocaust as a "Jewish fantasy".^[178] Monika Schaefer was arrested in January 2018 in Germany while attending a court hearing of Sylvia Stolz.^{[179][180][181]} Schaefer had been the Green Party candidate in the Alberta riding of Yellowhead during the federal elections in 2006, 2008, and 2011, but was expelled from the party after news reports surfaced of a July 2016 video^[182] where she describes the Holocaust as "the most persistent lie in all of history" and insisted that those in concentration camps had been kept as healthy and as well-fed as possible.^{[183][184]} In late October 2018, Monika Schaefer was convicted of the charge of "incitement of the people" (often reworded as incitement of hatred by the news media). She was sentenced to ten months while Alfred Schaefer, also convicted, received a sentence of three years and two months.^[185]

In January 2019, a survey conducted by Opinion Matters, on behalf of the Holocaust Memorial Day Trust found that 5% of UK adults did not believe the Holocaust took place and one in 12 (8%) believed its scale has been exaggerated. One in five respondents incorrectly answered that less than 2 million Jews were murdered, and 45% couldn't say how many people were murdered in the Holocaust. Speaking in light of the survey's findings, Karen Pollock, chief executive of the Holocaust Educational Trust, said: "One person questioning the truth of the Holocaust is one too many, and so it is up to us to redouble our efforts to ensure future generations know that it did happen and become witnesses to one of the darkest episodes in our history."^[186] The BBC Radio 4 More or Less programme, specialising on statistics, investigated the survey finding it was unlikely to be accurate. Participants were incentivised to complete the online survey by shopping vouchers encouraging speedy answering, and the principal question was a "reverse question" with most participants having to give the reverse answer to surrounding questions requiring careful answering. Another question asked how many Jewish people had been murdered in the holocaust with only 0.2% of participants giving the answer zero, which was considered to be a closer estimate of the number of UK adults that did not believe the Holocaust took place.^[187]

Other

Japanese Holocaust denial first appeared in 1989 and reached its peak in 1995 with the publication in February 1995 by the Japanese magazine Marco Polo, a 250,000-circulation monthly published by Bungei Shunju, of a Holocaust denial article by physician Masanori Nishioka^[188] which stated: "The 'Holocaust' is a fabrication. There were no execution gas chambers in Auschwitz or in any other concentration camp. Today, what is displayed as 'gas chambers' at the remains of the Auschwitz camp in Poland are a post-war fabrication by the Polish communist regime or by the Soviet Union, which controlled the country. Not once, neither at Auschwitz nor in any territory controlled by the Germans during the Second World War, was there 'mass murder of Jews' in 'gas chambers.'^[189] The Los Angeles-based Simon Wiesenthal Center instigated a boycott of Bungei Shunju advertisers, including Volkswagen, Mitsubishi, and Cartier. Within days, Bungei Shunju shut down Marco Polo and its editor, Kazuyoshi Hanada, quit, as did the president of Bungei Shunju, Kengo Tanaka.^[190]

According to a 2020 survey of American adult Millennials and Generation Z members, 24% said the Holocaust might be a myth or had been exaggerated.^{[191][192]}

Reactions to Holocaust denial

Scholars

Scholarly response to Holocaust denial can be roughly divided into three categories. Some academics refuse to engage Holocaust deniers or their arguments at all, on grounds that doing so lends them unwarranted legitimacy.^[193] The second group of scholars, typified by the American historian Deborah Lipstadt, have tried to raise awareness of the methods and motivations of Holocaust denial without legitimizing the deniers themselves. "We need not waste time or effort answering the deniers' contentions," Lipstadt wrote. "It would be never-ending.... Their commitment is to an ideology and their 'findings' are shaped to support it."^[194] A third group, typified by the Nizkor Project, responds to arguments and claims made by Holocaust denial groups by pointing out inaccuracies and errors in their evidence.^{[195][196][197]}

In December 1991 the American Historical Association, the oldest and largest society of historians and teachers of history in the United States, issued the following statement: The American Historical Association Council strongly deplores the publicly reported attempts to deny the fact of the Holocaust. No serious historian questions that the Holocaust took place. This followed a strong reaction by many of its members and commentary in the press against a near-unanimous decision that the AHA had made in May 1991 that studying the significance of the Holocaust should be encouraged. The association's May 1991 statement was in response to an incident where certain of its members had questioned the reality of the Holocaust. The December 1991 declaration is a reversal of the AHA's earlier stance that the association should not set a precedent by certifying historical facts.^[198] The AHA has also stated that Holocaust denial is "at best, a form of academic fraud".^[199]

Literary theorist Jean Baudrillard described Holocaust denial as "part of the extermination itself".^[200] Holocaust survivor and Nobel Prize winner Elie Wiesel, during a 1999 discussion at the White House in Washington D.C., called the Holocaust "the most documented tragedy in recorded history. Never before has a tragedy elicited so much witness from the killers, from the victims and even from the bystanders—millions of pieces here in the museum what you have, all other museums, archives in the thousands, in the millions."^[201]

Deborah Lipstadt's 1993 book, Denying the Holocaust, sharply criticized various Holocaust deniers, including British author David Irving, for deliberately misrepresenting evidence to justify their preconceived conclusions. In the book, Lipstadt named Irving as "one of the more dangerous" Holocaust deniers, because he was a published author, and was viewed by some as a legitimate military historian. He was "familiar with historical evidence", she wrote, and "bends it until it conforms with his ideological leanings and political agenda". In 1996, Irving filed a libel suit against Lipstadt and her publisher, Penguin Books. Irving, who appeared as a defense witness in Ernst Zündel's trial in Canada, and once declared at a rally of Holocaust deniers that "more women died in the back seat of Edward Kennedy's car than ever died in a gas chamber at Auschwitz,"^[202] claimed that Lipstadt's allegation damaged his reputation. American historian Christopher Browning, an expert witness for the defense, wrote a comprehensive essay for the court summarizing the voluminous evidence for the reality of the Holocaust, and under cross-examination, effectively countered all of Irving's principal arguments to the contrary. [96] Cambridge historian Richard J. Evans, another defense expert witness, spent two years examining Irving's writings and confirmed his misrepresentations, including evidence that he had knowingly used forged documents as source material. After a two-month trial in London the trial judge, Justice Charles Gray, issued a 333-page ruling against Irving, which referred to him as a "Holocaust denier" and "right-wing pro-Nazi polemicist."^{[97][203]}

Ken McVay, an American resident in Canada, was disturbed by the efforts of organizations like the Simon Wiesenthal Center to suppress the speech of the Holocaust deniers, feeling that it was better to confront them openly than to try to censor them. On the Usenet newsgroup alt.revisionism he began a campaign of "truth, fact, and evidence", working with other participants on the newsgroup to uncover factual information about the Holocaust and counter the arguments of the deniers by proving them to be based upon misleading evidence, false statements, and outright lies. He founded the Nizkor Project to expose the activities of the Holocaust deniers, who responded to McVay with personal attacks, slander, and death threats.^[204]

Public figures

A number of public figures have spoken out against Holocaust denial. In 2006, UN Secretary-General Kofi Annan said: "Remembering is a necessary rebuke to those who say the Holocaust never happened or has been exaggerated. Holocaust denial is the work of bigots; we must reject their false claims whenever, wherever and by whomever they are made."^[205] In January 2007, the United Nations General Assembly condemned "without reservation any denial of the Holocaust", though Iran disassociated itself from the resolution.^[206]

In July 2013, Iran's then president-elect Hassan Rohani described Ahmadinejad's remarks about the Holocaust and Israel as "hate rhetoric"^[207] and in September 2013 Rohani stated that "The Nazis carried out a massacre that cannot be denied, especially against the Jewish people" and "The massacre by the Nazis was condemnable. We never want to sit by side with the Nazis..They committed a crime against Jews — which is a crime against..all of humanity."^[208] While declining to give a specific number of Jewish victims, Iranian analysts suggested that "Rouhani pushed the envelope as far as it could go..without infuriating the supreme leader, Ayatollah Ali Khamenei, and other conservatives back home."^[145]

Former Auschwitz SS personnel

Critics of Holocaust denial also include members of the Auschwitz SS. Camp physician and SS-Untersturmführer Hans Münch considered the facts of Auschwitz "so firmly determined that one cannot have any doubt at all", and described those who negate what happened at the camp as "malevolent" people who have "personal interest to want to bury in silence things that cannot be buried in silence".^[209] Zyklon B handler and SS-Oberscharführer Josef Klehr said that anyone who maintains that nobody was gassed at Auschwitz must be "crazy or in the wrong".^[210] SS-Unterscharführer Oswald Kaduk stated that he did not consider those who maintain such a thing as normal people.^[211] Hearing about Holocaust denial compelled former SS-Rottenführer Oskar Gröning to publicly speak about what he witnessed at Auschwitz, and denounce Holocaust deniers,^[212] stating:

I would like you to believe me. I saw the gas chambers. I saw the crematoria. I saw the open fires. I was on the ramp when the selections took place. I would like you to believe that these atrocities happened because I was there.^{[213][214]}

Holocaust denial and antisemitism

Holocaust denial is given as an example of antisemitism in the Working Definition of Antisemitism,^[215] adopted by the International Holocaust Remembrance Alliance as well as the United Kingdom, Israel, Austria, Scotland, Romania, Germany and Bulgaria. The European Parliament voted in favor of a resolution calling for member states to adopt the definition on June 1, 2017.^{[216][217][218]}

The Encyclopedia of Genocide and Crimes Against Humanity defines Holocaust denial as "a new form of anti-Semitism, but one that hinges on age-old motifs".^[219] The Anti-Defamation League has stated that "Holocaust denial is a contemporary form of the classic anti-Semitic doctrine of the evil, manipulative and threatening world Jewish conspiracy"^[220] and French historian Valérie Igounet has written that "Holocaust denial is a convenient polemical substitute for anti-semitism."^[221]

According to Walter Reich, psychiatrist and then a senior scholar at the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars, one-time director of the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum, and now professor of international affairs at George Washington University:

The primary motivation for most deniers is anti-Semitism, and for them the Holocaust is an infuriatingly inconvenient fact of history. After all, the Holocaust has generally been recognized as one of the most terrible crimes that ever took place, and surely the very emblem of evil in the modern age. If that crime was a direct result of anti-Semitism taken to its logical end, then anti-Semitism itself, even when expressed in private conversation, is inevitably discredited among most people. What better way to rehabilitate anti-Semitism, make anti-Semitic arguments seem once again respectable in civilized discourse and even make it acceptable for governments to pursue anti-Semitic policies than by convincing the world that the great crime for which anti-Semitism was blamed simply never happened—indeed, that it was nothing more than a frame-up invented by the Jews, and propagated by them through their control of the media? What better way, in short, to make the world safe again for anti-Semitism than by denying the Holocaust?^[222]

The French historian Pierre Vidal-Naquet described the motivation of deniers more succinctly, explaining, "One revives the dead in order the better to strike the living."^[223] German political scientist Matthias Küntzel has argued, "Every denial of the Holocaust... contains an appeal to repeat it."^[224]

Examination of claims

The key claims, which cause Holocaust denial to differ from established fact, are:^{[7][8]}

- The Nazis had no official policy or intention of exterminating Jews.
- The Nazis did not use gas chambers to mass murder Jews.^[225]
- The figure of 5 to 6 million Jewish deaths is a gross exaggeration, and the actual number is an order of magnitude lower.

Other claims include the following:

- Stories of the Holocaust were a myth initially created by the Allies of World War II to demonize Germans,^[8] Jews having spread this myth as part of a grander plot intended to enable the creation of a Jewish homeland in Palestine, and now to garner continuing support for the state of Israel.^[226]
- Documentary evidence of the Holocaust, from photographs to The Diary of Anne Frank, is fabricated.^[8]

- Survivor testimonies are filled with errors and inconsistencies, and are thus unreliable.^[8]
- Interrogators obtained Nazi prisoners' confessions of war crimes through the use of torture.^[8]
- The Nazi treatment of Jews was no different from what the Allies did to their enemies in World War II.^[227]

Holocaust denial is widely viewed as failing to adhere to principles for the treatment of evidence that mainstream historians (as well as scholars in other fields) regard as basic to rational inquiry.^[228]

The Holocaust was well documented by the bureaucracy of the Nazi government itself.^{[229][230]} It was further witnessed by the Allied forces who entered Germany and its associated Axis states towards the end of World War II.^{[231][232][233]} It was also witnessed from the inside by non-Jewish captives such as Catholic French Resistance member André Rogerie who wrote extensively and testified about his experiences in seven camps including Auschwitz-Birkenau^[234] and also produced the oldest contemporary sketch of a camp crematorium.^[235]

According to researchers Michael Shermer and Alex Grobman, there is a "convergence of evidence" that proves that the Holocaust happened. This evidence includes:^[236]

1. Written documents—hundreds of thousands of letters, memos, blueprints, orders, bills, speeches, articles, memoirs, and confessions.
2. Eyewitness testimony—accounts from survivors, Jewish Sonderkommandos (who helped load bodies from the gas chambers into the crematoria in exchange for a chance of survival), SS guards, commandants, local townspeople, and even high-ranking Nazis who spoke openly about the mass murder of the Jews.
3. Photographs—including official military and press photographs, civilian photographs, secret photographs taken by survivors, aerial photographs, German and Allied film footage, and unofficial photographs taken by the German military.
4. The camps themselves—concentration camps, work camps, and extermination camps that still exist in varying degrees of originality and reconstruction.
5. Inferential evidence or argument from silence — population demographics, reconstructed from the pre-World War II era; if six million Jews were not murdered, what happened to them?

Jewish World Population without Holocaust (mln people) by Sergio DellaPergola

Much of the controversy surrounding the claims of Holocaust deniers centers on the methods used to present arguments that the Holocaust allegedly never happened as commonly accepted. Numerous accounts have been given by Holocaust deniers (including evidence presented in court cases) of claimed facts and evidence; however, independent research has shown these claims to be based upon flawed research, biased statements, or even deliberately falsified evidence. Opponents of Holocaust denial have documented numerous instances in which such evidence was altered or manufactured (see Nizkor Project and David Irving). According to Pierre Vidal-Naquet, "in our society of image and spectacle, extermination on paper leads to extermination in reality."^[237]

Laws against Holocaust denial

Holocaust denial is explicitly or implicitly illegal in 17 countries: Austria, Belgium, the Czech Republic, France, Germany, Hungary, Israel, Liechtenstein, Lithuania, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, Poland, Portugal, Romania, Russia, Slovakia, and Switzerland.^{[238][239]} Romania officially denied the Holocaust occurred on its territory up until the Wiesel Commission in 2004.^{[240][241]} The European Union's Framework decision on Racism and Xenophobia states that denying or grossly trivializing "crimes of genocide" should be made "punishable in all EU Member States".^[242]

Countries where Holocaust denial is illegal

Such legislation remains controversial. In October 2007, a tribunal declared Spain's genocide denial law unconstitutional.^[243] In 2007 Italy rejected a denial law proposing a prison sentence of up to four years. In 2006 the Netherlands rejected a draft law proposing a maximum sentence of one year on denial of genocidal acts in general, although specifically denying the Holocaust remains a criminal offense there. The United Kingdom has twice rejected Holocaust denial laws. Denmark and Sweden have also rejected such legislation.^[244]

A number of deniers have been prosecuted under various countries' denial laws. French literature professor Robert Faurisson, for example, was convicted and punished under the Gayssot Act in 1990. Some historians oppose such laws, among them Pierre Vidal-Naquet, an outspoken critic of Faurisson, on the grounds that denial legislation imposes "historical truth as legal truth".^[245] Other academics favor criminalization. Holocaust denial, they contend, is "the worst form of racism and its most respectable version because it pretends to be a research".^[246] Holocaust historian Deborah E. Lipstadt expressed her opposition to laws against expressing Holocaust denial, saying, "I don't think they work. I think they turn whatever is being outlawed into forbidden fruit." She also said that politicians should not be able to decide what can and cannot be said.^[247]

David Irving conviction

In February 2006 Irving was convicted in Austria, where Holocaust denial is illegal, for a speech he had made in 1989 in which he denied the existence of gas chambers at Auschwitz.^[248] Irving was aware of the outstanding arrest warrant, but chose to go to Austria anyway "to give a lecture to a far-right student fraternity".^[248] Although he pleaded guilty to the charge, Irving said he had been "mistaken", and had changed his opinions on the Holocaust. "I said that then, based on my knowledge at the time, but by 1991 when I came across the Eichmann papers, I wasn't saying that anymore and I wouldn't say that now. The Nazis did murder millions of Jews."^[249] Irving served 13 months of a 3-year sentence in an Austrian prison, including the period between his arrest and conviction, and was deported in early 2007.^[248] The episode sparked intense international debate over the limits of freedom of speech. Upon hearing of Irving's sentence, Lipstadt said, "I am not happy when censorship wins, and I don't believe in winning battles via censorship.... The way of fighting Holocaust deniers is with history and with truth."^[249]

According to CNN, upon Irving's return to the UK, he "vow[ed] to repeat views denying the Holocaust that led to his conviction" stating he felt "no need any longer to show remorse" for his Holocaust views.^[250]

Genocide denials

Other acts of genocide have met similar attempts to deny and minimize them. Gregory H. Stanton, formerly of the US State Department and the founder of Genocide Watch, lists denial as the final stage of a genocide development: "Denial is the eighth stage that always follows a genocide. It is among the surest indicators of further genocidal massacres. The perpetrators of genocide dig up the mass graves, burn the bodies, try to cover up the evidence and intimidate the witnesses. They deny that they committed any crimes, and often blame what happened on the victims."^[251]

Holocaust denial is often compared to Armenian genocide denial because of similar tactics of misrepresenting evidence, false equivalence, claiming that atrocities were invented by war propaganda and that powerful lobbies manufacture genocide allegations for their own profit, subsuming one-sided systematic extermination into war deaths, and shifting blame from the perpetrators to the victims of genocide. Both forms of negationism share the goal of rehabilitating the ideologies which brought genocide about.^{[252][253]}

See also

Holocaust:

- Double genocide theory
- Holocaust trivialization
- Secondary antisemitism

Other sources:

- Denialism
- Pseudohistory
- Temple denial

References

Citations

1. Antisemitic:

- "Contemporary examples of antisemitism in public life, the media, schools, the workplace, and in the religious sphere could, taking into account the overall context, include ... denying the fact, scope, mechanisms (e.g. gas chambers) or intentionality of the genocide of the Jewish people at the hands of National Socialist Germany and its supporters and accomplices during World War II (the Holocaust)." "Working Definition of Antisemitism" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110125001633/http://fra.europa.eu/fraWebsite/material/pub/AS/AS-WorkingDefinition-draft.pdf>) (PDF). Archived from the original (<http://fra.europa.eu/fraWebsite/material/pub/AS/AS-WorkingDefinition-draft.pdf>) (PDF) on January 25, 2011. (33.8 KB), European Fundamental Rights Agency
- "It would elevate their antisemitic ideology – which is what Holocaust denial is – to the level of responsible historiography – which it is not." Deborah Lipstadt, Denying the Holocaust, ISBN 0-14-024157-4, p. 11.
- "The denial of the Holocaust is among the most insidious forms of anti-Semitism...." Roth, Stephen J. "Denial of the Holocaust as an Issue of Law" in the Israel Yearbook on Human Rights, Volume 23, Martinus Nijhoff Publishers, 1993, ISBN 0-7923-2581-8, p. 215.

- "Holocaust denial can be a particularly insidious form of antisemitism precisely because it often tries to disguise itself as something quite different: as genuine scholarly debate (in the pages, for example, of the innocuous-sounding Journal for Historical Review)." "The nature of Holocaust denial: What is Holocaust denial? \(http://www.jpr.org.uk/Reports/CS_Reports/no_3_2000/index.htm\) Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20110718044959/http://www.jpr.org.uk/Reports/CS_Reports/no_3_2000/index.htm) July 18, 2011, at the Wayback Machine", JPR report No. 3, 2000. Retrieved May 16, 2007.
- "This books treats several of the myths that have made antisemitism so lethal.... In addition to these historic myths, we also treat the new, maliciously manufactured myth of Holocaust denial, another groundless belief that is used to stir up Jew-hatred." Schweitzer, Frederick M. & Perry, Marvin. Anti-Semitism: myth and hate from antiquity to the present, Palgrave Macmillan, 2002, ISBN 0-312-16561-7, p. 3.
- "One predictable strand of Arab Islamic antisemitism is Holocaust denial...." Schweitzer, Frederick M. & Perry, Marvin. Anti-Semitism: myth and hate from antiquity to the present, Palgrave Macmillan, 2002, ISBN 0-312-16561-7, p. 10.
- "Anti-Semitism, in the form of Holocaust denial, had been experienced by just one teacher when working in a Catholic school with large numbers of Polish and Croatian students." Geoffrey Short, Carole Ann Reed. Issues in Holocaust Education, Ashgate Publishing, 2004, ISBN 0-7546-4211-9, p. 71.
- "Indeed, the task of organized antisemitism in the last decade of the century has been the establishment of Holocaust Revisionism – the denial that the Holocaust occurred." Stephen Trombly, "antisemitism", The Norton Dictionary of Modern Thought, W. W. Norton & Company, 1999, ISBN 0-393-04696-6, p. 40.
- "After the Yom Kippur War an apparent reappearance of antisemitism in France troubled the tranquility of the community; there were several notorious terrorist attacks on synagogues, Holocaust revisionism appeared, and a new antisemitic political right tried to achieve respectability." Howard K. Wettstein, Diasporas and Exiles: Varieties of Jewish Identity, University of California Press, 2002, ISBN 0-520-22864-2, p. 169.
- "Holocaust denial is a convenient polemical substitute for anti-semitism." Igounet, Valérie. "Holocaust denial is part of a strategy" (<http://mondediplo.com/1998/05/08igou>), Le Monde diplomatique, May 1998.
- "Holocaust denial is a contemporary form of the classic anti-Semitic doctrine of the evil, manipulative and threatening world Jewish conspiracy." Introduction: Denial as Anti-Semitism \(http://www.adl.org/holocaust/theory.asp\), "Holocaust Denial: An Online Guide to Exposing and Combating Anti-Semitic Propaganda", Anti-Defamation League, 2001. Retrieved June 12, 2007.
- "In a number of countries, in Europe as well as in the United States, the negation or gross minimization of the Nazi genocide of Jews has been the subject of books, essay and articles. Should their authors be protected by freedom of speech? The European answer has been in the negative: such writings are not only a perverse form of anti-semitism but also an aggression against the dead, their families, the survivors and society at large." Roger Errera, "Freedom of speech in Europe", in Georg Nolte, European and US Constitutionalism, Cambridge University Press, 2005, ISBN 0-521-85401-6, pp. 39–40.
- "Particularly popular in Syria is Holocaust denial, another staple of Arab anti-Semitism that is sometimes coupled with overt sympathy for Nazi Germany." Efraim Karsh, Rethinking the Middle East, Routledge, 2003, ISBN 0-7146-5418-3, p. 104.
- "Holocaust denial is a new form of anti-Semitism, but one that hinges on age-old motifs." Dinah Shelton, Encyclopedia of Genocide and Crimes Against Humanity, Macmillan Reference, 2005, p. 45.

- "The stress on Holocaust revisionism underscored the new anti-Semitic agenda gaining ground within the Klan movement. Holocaust denial refurbished conspiratorial anti-Semitism. Who else but the Jews had the media power to hoodwink unsuspecting masses with one of the greatest hoaxes in history? And for what motive? To promote the claims of the illegitimate state of Israel by making non-Jews feel guilty, of course." Lawrence N. Powell, Troubled Memory: Anne Levy, the Holocaust, and David Duke's Louisiana, University of North Carolina Press, 2000, ISBN 0-8078-5374-7, p. 445.
- "Since its inception ... the Institute for Historical Review (IHR), a California-based Holocaust denial organization founded by Willis Carto of Liberty Lobby, has promoted the antisemitic conspiracy theory that Jews fabricated tales of their own genocide to manipulate the sympathies of the non-Jewish world." Antisemitism and Racism Country Reports: United States (<http://www.tau.ac.il/Anti-Semitism/asw2000-1/usa.htm>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110628184616/http://www.tau.ac.il/Anti-Semitism/asw2000-1/usa.htm>) June 28, 2011, at the Wayback Machine, Stephen Roth Institute, 2000. Retrieved May 17, 2007.
- "The primary motivation for most deniers is anti-Semitism, and for them the Holocaust is an infuriatingly inconvenient fact of history. After all, the Holocaust has generally been recognized as one of the most terrible crimes that ever took place, and surely the very emblem of evil in the modern age. If that crime was a direct result of anti-Semitism taken to its logical end, then anti-Semitism itself, even when expressed in private conversation, is inevitably discredited among most people. What better way to rehabilitate anti-Semitism, make anti-Semitic arguments seem once again respectable in civilized discourse and even make it acceptable for governments to pursue anti-Semitic policies than by convincing the world that the great crime for which anti-Semitism was blamed simply never happened – indeed, that it was nothing more than a frame-up invented by the Jews, and propagated by them through their control of the media? What better way, in short, to make the world safe again for anti-Semitism than by denying the Holocaust?" Reich, Walter. "Erasing the Holocaust" (<https://www.nytimes.com/1993/07/11/books/erasing-the-holocaust.html>), The New York Times, July 11, 1993.
- "There is now a creeping, nasty wave of anti-Semitism ... insinuating itself into our political thought and rhetoric.... The history of the Arab world ... is disfigured ... by a whole series of outmoded and discredited ideas, of which the notion that the Jews never suffered and that the Holocaust is an obfuscatory confection created by the elders of Zion is one that is acquiring too much, far too much, currency." Edward Said, "A Desolation, and They Called it Peace" in Those who forget the past, Ron Rosenbaum (ed), Random House 2004, p. 518.

2. Conspiracy theory:

- "While appearing on the surface as a rather arcane pseudo-scholarly challenge to the well-established record of Nazi genocide during the Second World War, Holocaust denial serves as a powerful conspiracy theory uniting otherwise disparate fringe groups...." Introduction: Denial as Anti-Semitism (<http://www.adl.org/holocaust/theory.asp>), "Holocaust Denial: An Online Guide to Exposing and Combating Anti-Semitic Propaganda", Anti-Defamation League, 2001. Retrieved June 12, 2007.
- "Before discussing how Holocaust denial constitutes a conspiracy theory, and how the theory is distinctly American, it is important to understand what is meant by the term 'Holocaust denial.'" Mathis, Andrew E. Holocaust Denial, a Definition (<http://phdn.org/archives/holocaust-history.org/denial/abc-clio/>), The Holocaust History Project, July 2, 2004. Retrieved December 18, 2006.
- "Since its inception ... the Institute for Historical Review (IHR), a California-based Holocaust denial organization founded by Willis Carto of Liberty Lobby, has promoted the antisemitic conspiracy theory that Jews fabricated tales of their own genocide to manipulate the sympathies of the non-Jewish world." Antisemitism and Racism Country Reports: United States (<http://www.tau.ac.il/Anti-Semitism/asw2000-1/usa.htm>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110628184616/http://www.tau.ac.il/Anti-Semitism/asw2000-1/usa.htm>) June 28, 2011, at the Wayback Machine, Stephen Roth Institute, 2000. Retrieved May 17, 2007.

3. Coady, David (2019). "Conspiracy Theories and Official Stories *". Conspiracy Theories: The Philosophical Debate. Routledge. ISBN 978-1-315-25957-4. "Holocaust denial is one, unfortunately widespread, example of a conspiracy theory."
4. "Holocaust Deniers and Public Misinformation" (<https://encyclopedia.ushmm.org/content/en/article/holocaust-deniers-and-public-misinformation>). encyclopedia.ushmm.org. Retrieved May 29, 2021.
5. *"Holocaust Denial and Distortion" (<https://www.ushmm.org/antisemitism/holocaust-denial-and-distortion>), United States Holocaust Memorial Museum website. Accessed September 28, 2017. "Holocaust denial is an attempt to negate the established facts of the Nazi genocide of European Jewry. Holocaust denial and distortion are forms of antisemitism. They are generally motivated by hatred of Jews and build on the claim that the Holocaust was invented or exaggerated by Jews as part of a plot to advance Jewish interests."
6. "How many Jews were murdered in the Holocaust? How do we know? Do we have their names?" (http://www1.yadvashem.org/yv/en/holocaust/resource_center/faq.asp), The Holocaust Resource Center Faqs, Yad Vashem website. Accessed February 17, 2011. See also appropriate section of the Holocaust article for the death toll.

7. Key elements of Holocaust denial:

- "Before discussing how Holocaust denial constitutes a conspiracy theory, and how the theory is distinctly American, it is important to understand what is meant by the term 'Holocaust denial'. Holocaust deniers, or 'revisionists', as they call themselves, question all three major points of definition of the Nazi Holocaust. First, they contend that, while mass murders of Jews did occur (although they dispute both the intentionality of such murders as well as the supposed deservedness of these killings), there was no official Nazi policy to murder Jews. Second, and perhaps most prominently, they contend that there were no homicidal gas chambers, particularly at Auschwitz-Birkenau, where mainstream historians believe over 1 million Jews were murdered, primarily in gas chambers. And third, Holocaust deniers contend that the death toll of European Jews during World War II was well below 6 million. Deniers float numbers anywhere between 300,000 and 1.5 million, as a general rule." Mathis, Andrew E. Holocaust Denial, a Definition (<http://phdn.org/archives/holocaust-history.org/denial/abc-clio/>), The Holocaust History Project, July 2, 2004. Retrieved December 18, 2006.
- "In part III we directly address the three major foundations upon which Holocaust denial rests, including ... the claim that gas chambers and crematoria were used not for mass extermination but rather for delousing clothing and disposing of people who died of disease and overwork; ... the claim that the six million figure is an exaggeration by an order of magnitude—that about six hundred thousand, not six million, died at the hands of the Nazis; ... the claim that there was no intention on the part of the Nazis to exterminate European Jewry and that the Holocaust was nothing more than the unfortunate by-product of the vicissitudes of war." Michael Shermer and Alex Grobman. Denying History: who Says the Holocaust Never Happened and why Do They Say It?, University of California Press, 2000, ISBN 0-520-23469-3, p. 3.
- "Holocaust Denial: Claims that the mass extermination of the Jews by the Nazis never happened; that the number of Jewish losses has been greatly exaggerated; that the Holocaust was not systematic nor a result of an official policy; or simply that the Holocaust never took place." What is Holocaust Denial (http://www1.yadvashem.org/about_holocaust/faqs/answers/faq_35.html) Archived (https://archive.today/20050216030123/http://www1.yadvashem.org/about_holocaust/faqs/answers/faq_35.html) February 16, 2005, at archive.today, Yad Vashem website, 2004. Retrieved December 18, 2006.
- "Among the untruths routinely promoted are the claims that no gas chambers existed at Auschwitz, that only 600,000 Jews were killed rather than six million, and that Hitler had no murderous intentions toward Jews or other groups persecuted by his government." Holocaust Denial (<http://www.adl.org/hate-patrol/holocaust.asp>), Anti-Defamation League, 2001. Retrieved June 28, 2007.
- "In general, Holocaust denial consists of four central points: minimization of numbers killed, denial of use of gassing, denial of the systematic nature of the genocide, and claims that the evidence was fabricated, above all after the war." Mark M. Hull, Vera Moynes. Masquerade: Treason, the Holocaust, and an Irish Impostor, University of Oklahoma Press, 2017, p. 181. ISBN 978-0-80615836-5
- "According to the deniers, the Nazis did not murder six million Jews, the notion of homicidal gas chambers is a myth, and any deaths of Jews that did occur under the Nazis were the result of wartime privations, not of systematic persecution and state-organised mass murder." Deborah Lipstadt. "Denying the Holocaust" (https://www.bbc.co.uk/history/worldwars/genocide/deniers_01.shtml), History, BBC Online. Retrieved June 7, 2018.

8. "The kinds of assertions made in Holocaust-denial material include the following:

- Several hundred thousand rather than approximately six million Jews died during the war.
- Scientific evidence proves that gas chambers could not have been used to kill large numbers of people.
- The Nazi command had a policy of deporting Jews, not exterminating them.
- Some deliberate killings of Jews did occur, but were carried out by the peoples of Eastern Europe rather than the Nazis.
- Jews died in camps of various kinds, but did so as the result of hunger and disease (most died to the unavailability of food due to allied bombings). The Holocaust is a myth created by the Allies for propaganda purposes, and subsequently nurtured by the Jews for their own ends.
- Errors and inconsistencies in survivors' testimonies point to their essential unreliability.
- Alleged documentary evidence of the Holocaust, from photographs of concentration camp victims to Anne Frank's diary, is fabricated.
- The confessions of former Nazis to war crimes were extracted through torture." The nature of Holocaust denial: What is Holocaust denial? (http://www.jpr.org.uk/Reports/CS_Reports/no_3_2000/index.htm) Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20110718044959/http://www.jpr.org.uk/Reports/CS_Reports/no_3_2000/index.htm) July 18, 2011, at the Wayback Machine, JPR report No. 3, 2000. Retrieved December 18, 2006.

9. A hoax designed to advance the interests of Jews:

- "The title of App's major work on the Holocaust, The Six Million Swindle, is informative because it implies on its very own the existence of a conspiracy of Jews to perpetrate a hoax against non-Jews for monetary gain." Mathis, Andrew E. Holocaust Denial, a Definition (<http://phdn.org/archives/holocaust-history.org/denial/abc-clio/>), The Holocaust History Project, July 2, 2004. Retrieved May 16, 2007.
- Another belief of deniers is the death of the millions of Jews was caused by sickness and disease. "Holocaust Denial and Distortion" (<http://www.ushmm.org/antisemitism/holocaust-denial-and-distortion>). United States Holocaust Memorial Museum. Retrieved November 6, 2013.
- "Jews are thus depicted as manipulative and powerful conspirators who have fabricated myths of their own suffering for their own ends. According to the Holocaust deniers, by forging evidence and mounting a massive propaganda effort, the Jews have established their lies as 'truth' and reaped enormous rewards from doing so: for example, in making financial claims on Germany and acquiring international support for Israel." The nature of Holocaust denial: What is Holocaust denial? (http://www.jpr.org.uk/Reports/CS_Reports/no_3_2000/index.htm) Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20110718044959/http://www.jpr.org.uk/Reports/CS_Reports/no_3_2000/index.htm) July 18, 2011, at the Wayback Machine, JPR report No. 3, 2000. Retrieved May 16, 2007.
- "Why, we might ask the deniers, if the Holocaust did not happen would any group concoct such a horrific story? Because, some deniers claim, there was a conspiracy by Zionists to exaggerate the plight of Jews during the war in order to finance the state of Israel through war reparations." Michael Shermer & Alex Grobman. Denying History: who Says the Holocaust Never Happened and why Do They Say It?, University of California Press, 2000, ISBN 0-520-23469-3, p. 106.
- "Since its inception ... the Institute for Historical Review (IHR), a California-based Holocaust denial organization founded by Willis Carto of Liberty Lobby, has promoted the antisemitic conspiracy theory that Jews fabricated tales of their own genocide to manipulate the sympathies of the non-Jewish world." Antisemitism and Racism Country Reports: United States (<http://www.tau.ac.il/Anti-Semitism/asw2000-1/usa.htm>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110628184616/http://www.tau.ac.il/Anti-Semitism/asw2000-1/usa.htm>) June 28, 2011, at the Wayback Machine, Stephen Roth Institute, 2000. Retrieved May 17, 2007.
- "The central assertion for the deniers is that Jews are not victims but victimizers. They 'stole' billions in reparations, destroyed Germany's good name by spreading the 'myth' of the Holocaust, and won international sympathy because of what they claimed had been done to them. In the paramount miscarriage of injustice, they used the world's sympathy to 'displace' another people so that the state of Israel could be established. This contention relating to the establishment of Israel is a linchpin of their argument." Deborah Lipstadt. Denying the Holocaust – The Growing Assault on Truth and Memory, Penguin, 1993, ISBN 0-452-27274-2, p. 27.
- "They [Holocaust deniers] picture a vast shadowy conspiracy that controls and manipulates the institutions of education, culture, the media and government in order to disseminate a pernicious mythology. The purpose of this Holocaust mythology, they assert, is the inculcation of a sense of guilt in the white, Western Christian world. Those who can make others feel guilty have power over them and can make them do their bidding. This power is used to advance an international Jewish agenda centered in the Zionist enterprise of the State of Israel." Introduction: Denial as Anti-Semitism (<http://www.adl.org/holocaust/theory.asp>), "Holocaust Denial: An Online Guide to Exposing and Combating Anti-Semitic Propaganda", Anti-Defamation League, 2001. Retrieved June 12, 2007.
- "Deniers argue that the manufactured guilt and shame over a mythological Holocaust led to Western, specifically United States, support for the establishment and sustenance of the Israeli state – a sustenance that costs the American taxpayer over three billion dollars per year. They assert that American taxpayers have been and continue to be swindled...." Introduction: Denial as Anti-Semitism (<http://www.adl.org/holocaust/theory.asp>), "Holocaust Denial: An Online Guide to Exposing and Combating Anti-Semitic Propaganda", Anti-Defamation League, 2001. Retrieved June 12, 2007.

- "The stress on Holocaust revisionism underscored the new anti-Semitic agenda gaining ground within the Klan movement. Holocaust denial refurbished conspiratorial anti-Semitism. Who else but the Jews had the media power to hoodwink unsuspecting masses with one of the greatest hoaxes in history? And for what motive? To promote the claims of the illegitimate state of Israel by making non-Jews feel guilty, of course." Lawrence N. Powell, Troubled Memory: Anne Levy, the Holocaust, and David Duke's Louisiana, University of North Carolina Press, 2000, ISBN 0-8078-5374-7, p. 445

10. Predetermined conclusion:

- "'Revisionism' is obliged to deviate from the standard methodology of historical pursuit because it seeks to mold facts to fit a preconceived result, it denies events that have been objectively and empirically proved to have occurred, and because it works backward from the conclusion to the facts, thus necessitating the distortion and manipulation of those facts where they differ from the preordained conclusion (which they almost always do). In short, 'revisionism' denies something that demonstrably happened, through methodological dishonesty." McFee, Gordon. "Why 'Revisionism' Isn't" (<http://phdn.org/archives/holocaust-history.org/revisionism-isnt/>), The Holocaust History Project, May 15, 1999. Retrieved December 22, 2006.
- Alan L. Berger, "Holocaust Denial: Tempest in a Teapot, or Storm on the Horizon?", in Zev Garber and Richard Libowitz (eds), Peace, in Deed: Essays in Honor of Harry James Cargas, Atlanta: Scholars Press, 1998, p. 154.

11. Denial vs. "revisionism":

- "This is the phenomenon of what has come to be known as 'revisionism', 'negationism', or 'Holocaust denial,' whose main characteristic is either an outright rejection of the very veracity of the Nazi genocide of the Jews, or at least a concerted attempt to minimize both its scale and importance.... It is just as crucial, however, to distinguish between the wholly objectionable politics of denial and the fully legitimate scholarly revision of previously accepted conventional interpretations of any historical event, including the Holocaust." Bartov, Omer. The Holocaust: Origins, Implementation and Aftermath, Routledge, pp.11–12. Bartov is John P. Birkelund Distinguished Professor of European History at the Watson Institute, and is regarded as one of the world's leading authorities on genocide ("Omer Bartov" (http://www.watsoninstitute.org/contacts_detail.cfm?id=97) Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20081216115629/http://www.watsoninstitute.org/contacts_detail.cfm?id=97) December 16, 2008, at the Wayback Machine, The Watson Institute for International Studies).
- "The two leading critical exposés of Holocaust denial in the United States were written by historians Deborah Lipstadt (1993) and Michael Shermer and Alex Grobman (2000). These scholars make a distinction between historical revisionism and denial. Revisionism, in their view, entails a refinement of existing knowledge about an historical event, not a denial of the event itself, that comes through the examination of new empirical evidence or a reexamination or reinterpretation of existing evidence. Legitimate historical revisionism acknowledges a 'certain body of irrefutable evidence' or a 'convergence of evidence' that suggest that an event—like the black plague, American slavery, or the Holocaust—did in fact occur (Lipstadt 1993:21; Shermer & Grobman 200:34). Denial, on the other hand, rejects the entire foundation of historical evidence...." Ronald J. Berger. Fathoming the Holocaust: A Social Problems Approach, Aldine Transaction, 2002, ISBN 0-202-30670-4, p. 154.
- "At this time, in the mid-1970s, the specter of Holocaust Denial (masked as 'revisionism') had begun to raise its head in Australia...." Bartrop, Paul R. "A Little More Understanding: The Experience of a Holocaust Educator in Australia" in Samuel Totten, Steven Leonard Jacobs, Paul R Bartrop. Teaching about the Holocaust, Praeger/Greenwood, 2004, p. xix. ISBN 0-275-98232-7
- "Pierre Vidal-Naquet urges that denial of the Holocaust should not be called 'revisionism' because 'to deny history is not to revise it'. Les Assassins de la Memoire. Un Eichmann de papier et autres essays sur le revisionisme (The Assassins of Memory—A Paper-Eichmann and Other Essays on Revisionism) 15 (1987)." Cited in Roth, Stephen J. "Denial of the Holocaust as an Issue of Law" in the Israel Yearbook on Human Rights, Volume 23, Martinus Nijhoff Publishers, 1993, ISBN 0-7923-2581-8, p. 215.
- "This essay describes, from a methodological perspective, some of the inherent flaws in the 'revisionist' approach to the history of the Holocaust. It is not intended as a polemic, nor does it attempt to ascribe motives. Rather, it seeks to explain the fundamental error in the 'revisionist' approach, as well as why that approach of necessity leaves no other choice. It concludes that 'revisionism' is a misnomer because the facts do not accord with the position it puts forward and, more importantly, its methodology reverses the appropriate approach to historical investigation.... 'Revisionism' is obliged to deviate from the standard methodology of historical pursuit, because it seeks to mold facts to fit a preconceived result; it denies events that have been objectively and empirically proved to have occurred; and because it works backward from the conclusion to the facts, thus necessitating the distortion and manipulation of those facts where they differ from the preordained conclusion (which they almost always do). In short, 'revisionism' denies something that demonstrably happened, through methodological dishonesty." McFee, Gordon. "Why 'Revisionism' Isn't" (<http://phdn.org/archives/holocaust-history.org/revisionism-isnt/>), The Holocaust History Project, May 15, 1999. Retrieved December 22, 2006.

- "Holocaust denial can be a particularly insidious form of antisemitism precisely because it often tries to disguise itself as something quite different: as genuine scholarly debate (in the pages, for example, of the innocuous-sounding Journal for Historical Review). Holocaust deniers often refer to themselves as 'revisionists', in an attempt to claim legitimacy for their activities. There are, of course, a great many scholars engaged in historical debates about the Holocaust whose work should not be confused with the output of the Holocaust deniers. Debate continues about such subjects as, for example, the extent and nature of ordinary Germans' involvement in and knowledge of the policy of genocide, and the timing of orders given for the extermination of the Jews. However, the valid endeavour of historical revisionism, which involves the re-interpretation of historical knowledge in the light of newly emerging evidence, is a very different task from that of claiming that the essential facts of the Holocaust, and the evidence for those facts, are fabrications." The nature of Holocaust denial: What is Holocaust denial? (http://www.jpr.org.uk/Reports/CS_Reports/no_3_2000/index.htm) Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20110718044959/http://www.jpr.org.uk/Reports/CS_Reports/no_3_2000/index.htm) July 18, 2011, at the Wayback Machine, JPR report No. 3, 2000. Retrieved May 16, 2007.
- "The deniers' selection of the name revisionist to describe themselves is indicative of their basic strategy of deceit and distortion and of their attempt to portray themselves as legitimate historians engaged in the traditional practice of illuminating the past. For historians, in fact, the name revisionism has a resonance that is perfectly legitimate – it recalls the controversial historical school known as World War I 'revisionists', who argued that the Germans were unjustly held responsible for the war and that consequently the Versailles treaty was a politically misguided document based on a false premise. Thus the deniers link themselves to a specific historiographic tradition of reevaluating the past. Claiming the mantle of the World War I revisionists and denying they have any objective other than the dissemination of the truth constitute a tactical attempt to acquire an intellectual credibility that would otherwise elude them." Deborah Lipstadt. Denying the Holocaust – The Growing Assault on Truth and Memory, Penguin, 1993, ISBN 0-452-27274-2, p. 25.

12. Refer to themselves as revisionists:

- "The deniers' selection of the name revisionist to describe themselves is indicative of their basic strategy of deceit and distortion and of their attempt to portray themselves as legitimate historians engaged in the traditional practice of illuminating the past." Deborah Lipstadt. Denying the Holocaust – The Growing Assault on Truth and Memory, Penguin, 1993, ISBN 0-452-27274-2, p. 25.
- "Dressing themselves in pseudo-academic garb, they have adopted the term 'revisionism' in order to mask and legitimate their enterprise." Introduction: Denial as Anti-Semitism (<http://www.adl.org/holocaust/theory.asp>), "Holocaust Denial: An Online Guide to Exposing and Combating Anti-Semitic Propaganda", Anti-Defamation League, 2001. Retrieved June 12, 2007.
- "Holocaust deniers often refer to themselves as 'revisionists', in an attempt to claim legitimacy for their activities. There are, of course, a great many scholars engaged in historical debates about the Holocaust whose work should not be confused with the output of the Holocaust deniers. Debate continues about such subjects as, for example, the extent and nature of ordinary Germans' involvement in and knowledge of the policy of genocide, and the timing of orders given for the extermination of the Jews. However, the valid endeavour of historical revisionism, which involves the re-interpretation of historical knowledge in the light of newly emerging evidence, is a very different task from that of claiming that the essential facts of the Holocaust, and the evidence for those facts, are fabrications." "The nature of Holocaust denial: What is Holocaust denial? (http://www.jpr.org.uk/Reports/CS_Reports/no_3_2000/index.htm) Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20110718044959/http://www.jpr.org.uk/Reports/CS_Reports/no_3_2000/index.htm) July 18, 2011, at the Wayback Machine", JPR report No. 3, 2000. Retrieved May 16, 2007.

13. Rossoliński-Liebe, Grzegorz (2012). "Debating, obfuscating and disciplining the Holocaust: Post-Soviet historical discourses on the OUN–UPA and other nationalist movements". East European Jewish Affairs. 42 (3): 199–241. doi:10.1080/13501674.2012.730732 (<https://doi.org/10.1080%2F13501674.2012.730732>). S2CID 154067506 (<https://api.semanticscholar.org/CorpusID:154067506>). "In general, post-Soviet Holocaust denial has differed from Holocaust denial in the style of David Irving or Ernst Zündel. In post-Soviet space, the Holocaust has not usually been denied as such and post-Soviet radical right activists did not question the existence of gas chambers in Auschwitz, or the anti-Jewish politics of Nazi Germany. Instead, nationalist post-Soviet discourses denied some of the national or regional elements of the Holocaust, like, for example, the contribution of different nationalist organizations or armies to it, or very frequently the participation of local populations in pogroms and other forms of anti-Jewish violence."
14. Echikson, William (2019). Holocaust Remembrance Project Report (https://docs.wixstatic.com/ugd/c1aa54_d6fdacf05b6845a3a2cacbf80ed6720c.pdf) (PDF). Brussels: Holocaust Remembrance Project.
15. Lipstadt, Deborah (1993) Denying the Holocaust: The Growing Assault on Truth and Memory New York: Penguin Books p.25. ISBN 0-452-27274-2
16. "The two leading critical exposés of Holocaust denial in the United States were written by historians Deborah Lipstadt (1993) and Michael Shermer and Alex Grobman (2000). These scholars make a distinction between historical revisionism and denial. Revisionism, in their view, entails a refinement of existing knowledge about a historical event, not a denial of the event itself, that comes through the examination of new empirical evidence or a reexamination or reinterpretation of existing evidence. Legitimate historical revisionism acknowledges a 'certain body of irrefutable evidence' or a 'convergence of evidence' that suggest that an event—like the black plague, American slavery, or the Holocaust—did, in fact, occur (Lipstadt 1993:21; Shermer & Grobman 200:34). Denial, on the other hand, rejects the entire foundation of historical evidence...."
17. Lipstadt, Deborah E. (1994). Denying the Holocaust: the growing assault on truth and memory (<http://archive.org/details/denyingholocaust00lips>) (reprint ed.). Plume. ISBN 978-0-452-27274-3.
18. Deborah E. Lipstadt (December 18, 2012). Denying the Holocaust: The Growing Assault on Truth and Memory (https://books.google.com/books?id=_yLm_cHp_REC). Simon and Schuster. ISBN 978-1-4767-2748-6. "Modern Holocaust denial draws inspiration from a variety of sources. Among them is a legitimate historical tradition that was highly critical of government policies and believed that history was being used to justify these policies. The deniers consider themselves heirs of a group of influential American historians who were deeply disturbed by American involvement in World War I. These respected scholars, who called themselves revisionists, would have been appalled to learn of the purposes to which their arguments were put."
19. Niewyk, Donald L., ed. (1992). "1: Introduction". The Holocaust: Problems and Perspectives of Interpretation (<https://books.google.com/books?id=GbcWAQAAIAAJ>). D. C. Heath and Company. p. 7. ISBN 9780618214624.
20. See Alain Finkielkraut, Mary Byrd Kelly, Richard J. Golsan. The Future of a Negation: Reflections on the Question of Genocide (<https://archive.org/details/futureofnegation0000fink/page/125>). University of Nebraska Press, 1998.
21. Koenraad Elst. Chapter One – Negationism in General (<http://voiceofdharma.org/books/negaind/ch1.htm>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20071025063927/http://voiceofdharma.org/books/negaind/ch1.htm>) October 25, 2007, at the Wayback Machine, Negationism in India: Concealing the Record of Islam, The Voice of India, 2002.
22. Heni, Clemens (Fall 2008). "Secondary Anti-Semitism: From Hard-Core to Soft-Core Denial of the Shoah". Jewish Political Studies Review. Jerusalem. 20 (3/4): 73–92. JSTOR 25834800 (<https://www.jstor.org/stable/25834800>).
23. Douglas, Lawrence (2011). "From Trying the Perpetrator to Trying the Denier and Back Again". In Hennebel, Ludovic; Hochmann, Thomas (eds.). Genocide Denials and the Law. Oxford University Press. pp. 55–56. ISBN 978-0-19-987639-6.

24. Klarsfeld, Serge (1996). French Children of the Holocaust: A Memorial (<https://books.google.com/books?id=NTjJDNi7fq4C>). New York: New York University Press. ISBN 9780814726624. LCCN 96031206 (<https://lcn.loc.gov/96031206>). OCLC 35029709 (<https://www.worldcat.org/oclc/35029709>).p. xiii
25. Arad, Yitzhak (1984). "Yad Vashem Studies XVI Operation Reinhard: Extermination Camps of Belzec, Sobibor, and Treblinka" (http://www1.yadvashem.org/odot_pdf/Microsoft%20Word%20-%20576.pdf) (PDF): 205–239.
26. Ezergailis, Andrew, The Holocaust in Latvia 1941–1944 – The Missing Center, pages 4–7, 239–270, Historical Institute of Latvia (in association with the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum) Riga 1996 ISBN 9984-9054-3-8
27. "The History of the Center of Contemporary Jewish Documentation (CDJC)" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20150316150400/http://www.memorialdelashoah.org/index.php/en/archives-and-documentation/the-cdjc-catalogue/the-history-of-the-center-of-contemporary-jewish-documentation-cdjc>). Archived from the original (<http://www.memorialdelashoah.org/index.php/en/archives-and-documentation/the-cdjc-catalogue/the-history-of-the-center-of-contemporary-jewish-documentation-cdjc>) on March 16, 2015.
28. Jockusch, Laura (October 11, 2012). "Collect and Record! Jewish Holocaust Documentation in Early Postwar Europe" (<https://books.google.com/books?id=E2lhaiQwJQ8C&pg=PA18>). Oxford University Press. doi:10.1093/acprof:oso/9780199764556.001.0001 (<https://doi.org/10.1093%2Facprof%3Aoso%2F9780199764556.001.0001>). ISBN 9780199764556. as quoted in Jockusch, Laura. "Khurbn Forshung (destruction research)– Jewish Historical Commissions in Europe, 1943–1949" (<https://www.academia.edu/1777831>). academia.edu. Retrieved March 15, 2015.
29. Mazor, Michel; Weinberg, David (2007), "Centre de Documentation Juive Contemporaine (CDJC)" (<http://go.galegroup.com/ps/i.do?id=GALE%7CCX2587504110&v=2.1&u=imcpl1111&it=r&p=GVR&sw=w&asid=00b7d473b9c8670353939c8535501ac3>), in Berenbaum, Michael; Skolnik, Fred (eds.), Encyclopedia Judaica, Gale Virtual Reference Library, 4 (2 ed.), Detroit: Macmillan Reference USA, p. 547
30. Hobbs, Joseph Patrick; Eisenhower, Dwight D.; Marshall, George Catlett (May 12, 1999). Dear General: Eisenhower's Wartime Letters to Marshall. Baltimore: Johns Hopkins University Press. ISBN 0801862191.
31. Hobbs, Joseph Patrick; Eisenhower, Dwight D.; Marshall, George Catlett (May 12, 1999). Dear General: Eisenhower's Wartime Letters to Marshall. Baltimore: Johns Hopkins University Press. p. 223. ISBN 0801862191.
32. "World War II Liberation Photography" (<https://www.ushmm.org/collections/the-museums-collections/about/photo-archives/world-war-ii-liberation-photography>). www.ushmm.org. Retrieved August 30, 2020.
33. Wright, Quincy (1946). "The Nuremberg Trial". Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science. 246 (1): 72–80. doi:10.1177/000271624624600113 (<https://doi.org/10.1177%2F000271624624600113>). JSTOR 1025134 (<https://www.jstor.org/stable/1025134>). S2CID 143138559 (<http://api.semanticscholar.org/CorpusID:143138559>).
34. Bensoussan, Georges (2008). David Bankier; Dan Mikhman (eds.). Holocaust Historiography in Context: Emergence, Challenges, Polemics and Achievements (<https://books.google.com/books?id=aNzjTUT6jdYC&pg=PA245>). Berghahn Books. pp. 245–254. ISBN 9789653083264. Retrieved March 15, 2015.

35. "Shaping an Awareness of the Holocaust in Israeli and World Public Opinion" (https://web.archive.org/web/20141023150544/http://www.yadvashem.org/yv/en/exhibitions/eichmann/awareness_of_the_holocaust.asp). yadvashem.org. 2015. Archived from the original (http://www.yadvashem.org/yv/en/exhibitions/eichmann/awareness_of_the_holocaust.asp) on October 23, 2014. Retrieved June 26, 2015. "In the annals of public awareness of the Holocaust period, nothing rivals the Eichmann trial as a milestone and turning point, whose impact is evident to this day. The trial introduced the Holocaust into the historical, educational, legal and cultural discourse, not merely in Israel and the Jewish world, but on the consciousness of all peoples of the world. Sixteen years after the end of the Holocaust, it focused attention upon the account of the suffering and torment of the Jewish people, as recounted to the judges. Its powerful, and one could claim, revolutionary, consequences continue right up to the present day."
36. Shandler, Jeffrey (February 4, 1999). "4. The Man in the Glass Box" (<https://books.google.com/books?id=NobvLCXFIOcC&pg=PA127>). While America Watches : Televising the Holocaust. New York: Oxford University Press, USA. p. 127. ISBN 978-0-19-518258-3. Retrieved June 26, 2015. "The Eichmann case is widely cited as a[sic] marking a threshold in American awareness of the Holocaust, generating a 'renewed engagement' and 'heightened historical consciousness' as well as serving as a catalyst for a spate of American Holocaust literature, television programs, and feature films."
37. Cesarani, David (2005) [2004]. Eichmann: His Life and Crimes. London: Vintage. pp. 252, 254–5, 325–7. ISBN 978-0-09-944844-0.
38. Birn, Ruth Bettina (2011). "Fifty Years After: A Critical Look at the Eichmann Trial" (https://web.archive.org/web/20131203021540/http://law.case.edu/journals/JIL/Documents/%2821%29%20Birn_Darby.pdf) (PDF). Case Western Reserve Journal of International Law. 44: 443–473. Archived from the original (http://law.case.edu/journals/JIL/Documents/\(21\)%20Birn_Darby.pdf%20Birn_Darby.pdf)) (PDF) on December 3, 2013. Retrieved April 2, 2015.
39. Shandler, Jeffrey (1999). While America Watches: Televising the Holocaust (https://archive.org/details/whileamericawatc00shan_0/page/93). Oxford; New York: Oxford University Press. p. 93 (https://archive.org/details/whileamericawatc00shan_0/page/93). ISBN 0-19-511935-5. "The trial and the surrounding media coverage sparked renewed interest in wartime events, and the resulting increase in publication of memoirs and scholarly works helped raise public awareness of the Holocaust."
40. Claudio Fogu; Wulf Kansteiner; Todd Presner (October 17, 2016). Probing the Ethics of Holocaust Culture (<https://books.google.com/books?id=2MRADQAAQBAJ&pg=PA68>). Harvard University Press. p. 68. ISBN 978-0-674-97051-9.
41. "The corpse factory and the birth of fake news" (<https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/entertainment-arts-38995205>). BBC News. February 17, 2017. Retrieved March 5, 2017.
42. Neander, Joachim, The German Corpse Factory. The Master Hoax of British Propaganda in the First World War, Saarland University Press, 2013, pp.8–9.
43. Stephen E. Atkins (2009). Holocaust Denial as an International Movement (<https://books.google.com/books?id=M9Uj6u6b-ZIC>). ABC-CLIO. ISBN 978-0-313-34538-8. "Holocaust denial has played an important role in the revitalization of the Neo-Nazi movement. There was a smaller but nonetheless vocal number of supporters in other Western European countries and the United States. These neo-Nazis realized that a Hitlerite regime was impossible, but a reasonable facsimile was possible in the future. These neo-Nazis and their allies realized that any rehabilitation of Nazism could be accomplished only by discrediting the Holocaust."
44. Igounet, Valérie (2000). Histoire du négationnisme en France (in French). Le Seuil. PT31 (<https://books.google.com/books?id=w7eGKZxEKNsC&pg=PT31>). ISBN 9782021009538. "Pour la première fois, depuis la fin de la guerre, un homme écrit qu'il doute ouvertement de l'existence des camps de la mort [For the first time, since the end of the war, a man writes that he openly doubts the existence of death camps]"
45. Algazy 1984, pp. 208–209.
46. Barnes 2002.
47. Bar-On 2016.

48. Igounet 2000.
49. Herwig, Holger "Clio Deceived" pp. 5–44 from International Security, Volume 12, Issue 2, Fall 1987, pp. 22–23 & 26
50. Herwig, Holger "Clio Deceived" pp. 5–44 from International Security, Volume 12, Issue 2, Fall 1987, pp. 21–23 & 26
51. Lipstadt, Deborah Denying the Holocaust (New York: Free Press, 1993) p. 75.
52. Lipstadt, Deborah Denying the Holocaust, Free Press: New York, 1993, pp. 73–74.
53. Lipstadt, Deborah Denying the Holocaust (New York: Free Press, 1993) p. 74.
54. Lipstadt, Deborah Denying the Holocaust: The Growing Assault on Truth and Memory, New York : Free Press; Toronto : Maxwell Macmillan Canada; New York; Oxford : Maxwell Macmillan International, 1993 page 71
55. Gottfried, Ted: Deniers Of The Holocaust: Who They Are, What They Do, Why They Do It (Twenty-First Century Books, 2001). Page 29
56. Deborah E. Lipstadt, History on Trial, Harcourt:2005 ISBN 0-06-059376-8
57. Knight, Peter (2003). Conspiracy Theories in American History: An Encyclopedia, Volume 1 (<https://books.google.com/books?id=qMIDrggs8TsC&q=%22Austin%20App%22%20holocaust&pg=PA322>). ABC-CLIO. p. 322. ISBN 978-1576078129.
58. Atkins, Stephen E. (2009). Austin J. App and Holocaust Denial. Holocaust denial as an international movement. Westport, Conn.: Praeger. pp. 153–55. ISBN 0-313-34539-2.
59. Carlos C. Huerta and Dafna Shiffman-Huerta "Holocaust Denial Literature: Its Place in Teaching the Holocaust", in Rochelle L. Millen. New Perspectives on the Holocaust: A Guide for Teachers and Scholars, NYU Press, 1996, ISBN 0-8147-5540-2, p. 189.
60. Deborah Lipstadt, Denying the Holocaust: The Growing Assault on Truth and Memory 1994
61. Pressac, Jean-Claude (1989). Auschwitz: Technique and operation of the gas chambers (<http://phdn.org/archives/holocaust-history.org/auschwitz/pressac/technique-and-operation/>). New York: The Beate Klarsfeld Foundation. Retrieved January 31, 2006.
62. Bienen, Henry S. (February 6, 2006). "Message from President Bienen, Northwestern University" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20070501100921/http://www.northwestern.edu/president/arthurbutz.html>). Northwestern University. Archived from the original (<http://www.northwestern.edu/president/arthurbutz.html>) on May 1, 2007. Retrieved September 20, 2009.
63. Elizabeth, Campbell (February 16, 2006). "Students, faculty oppose Butz with petitions" (<http://dailynorthwestern.com/2006/02/16/archive-manual/students-faculty-oppose-butz-with-petitions/>). The Daily Northwestern. Retrieved May 17, 2012.
64. Chip Berlet & Matthew J. Lyons, Right-Wing Populism in America: Too Close for Comfort, New York: Guilford Press, 2000, p. 189.
65. Richard J. Evans, Lying About Hitler: History, Holocaust, and the David Irving Trial, Basic Books, 2002 (ISBN 0-465-02153-0).
66. "California Judge Rules Holocaust Did Happen" (<https://www.nytimes.com/1981/10/10/us/california-judge-rules-holocaust-did-happen.html>). The New York Times. Associated Press. October 10, 1981. p. A26. Retrieved November 20, 2010.
67. "Mel Mermelstein v. Institute for Historical Review Judgment and Statement of Record" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110717102709/http://www.nizkor.org/ftp.cgi/people/m/mermelstein.mel/ftp.py?people%2Fm%2Fmermelstein.mel%2F%2Fmermelstein.order.072285>). Archived from the original (<http://www.nizkor.org/ftp.cgi/people/m/mermelstein.mel/ftp.py?people/m/mermelstein.mel//mermelstein.order.072285>) on July 17, 2011. Retrieved November 20, 2010.
68. "About the IHR: Our Mission and Record" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20071013154000/http://ihr.org/main/about.shtml>). Institute for Historical Review. May 2018. Archived from the original (<http://ihr.org/main/about.shtml>) on October 13, 2007. Retrieved July 9, 2011.

69. Richard J. Evans. Telling Lies About Hitler: The Holocaust, History and the David Irving Trial, Verso, 2002, ISBN 1-85984-417-0, p. 151. Quote: Like many individual Holocaust deniers, the Institute as a body denied that it was involved in Holocaust denial. It called this a 'smear' which was 'completely at variance with the facts' because 'revisionist scholars' such as Faurisson, Butz 'and bestselling British historian David Irving acknowledge that hundreds of thousands of Jews were killed and otherwise perished during the Second World War as a direct and indirect result of the harsh anti-Jewish policies of Germany and its allies'. But the concession that a relatively small number of Jews were killed was routinely used by Holocaust deniers to distract attention from the far more important fact of their refusal to admit that the figure ran into the millions, and that a large proportion of these victims were systematically murdered by gassing as well as by shooting.
70. Criminal Code, RSC 1970, c C-34, s 281.2(2); now Criminal Code, RSC 1985, c C-46, s 319(2).
71. "R. v. Keegstra - SCC Cases (Lexum)" (<https://scc-csc.lexum.com/scc-csc/scc-csc/en/item/695/index.do>). scc-csc.lexum.com.
72. *"The trouble erupted when the teacher's anti-Jewish (and, incidentally, anti-Catholic) views attracted complaints from certain Eckville parents, thereby inviting intervention from the district school superintendent, Robert David, in 1981. A train of events was launched that finally led to Keegstra's dismissal and subsequent indictment." Alan Davies, "The Keegstra Affair", in Alan T. Davies, Antisemitism in Canada: History and Interpretation, Wilfrid Laurier University Press, 1992, ISBN 0-88920-216-8, p. 228.
- "Far from arguing that Keegstra had a civil right to continue spreading his dreck at Eckville High, civil libertarians wonder (along with the rest of Canada, we hope) why it took twelve years for the local school board to exercise its appropriate authority and fire him. But at least Keegstra was finally fired, and was finally removed from his position as Mayor of Eckville." John Dixon, The Keegstra case: Freedom of speech and the prosecution of harmful ideas (<http://www.bccla.org/positions/freespeech/85keegstra.html>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20070926232724/http://www.bccla.org/positions/freespeech/85keegstra.html>) September 26, 2007, at the Wayback Machine, British Columbia Civil Liberties Association Position Paper, 1986. Retrieved June 27, 2007.
73. R. v. Zundel (August 27, 1992). Text (<http://scc.lexum.umontreal.ca/en/1992/1992rcs2-731/1992rcs2-731.html>)
74. [(www.Zundelsite.org) Zundelsite] Accessed June 27, 2007
75. "German court sentences Ernst Zundel to 5 years in prison for Holocaust denial" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20070929104434/http://www.canada.com/topics/news/world/story.html?id=c61ce061-50b2-42a5-bb2f-a7bbaecccceb&k=32537>). canada.com. The Canadian Press. February 15, 2007. Archived from the original (<http://www.canada.com/topics/news/world/story.html?id=c61ce061-50b2-42a5-bb2f-a7bbaecccceb&k=32537>) on September 29, 2007. Retrieved February 15, 2007.
76. "United States of America" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20080620114155/http://www.axt.org.uk/antisem/archive/archive2/usa/usa.htm>). axt.org.uk. 1998. Archived from the original (<http://www.axt.org.uk/antisem/archive/archive2/usa/usa.htm>) on June 20, 2008.
77. "Poisoning the Web – Committee for Open Debate on the Holocaust." (http://www.adl.org/poisoning_web/codoh.asp) ADL. 2001. April 24, 2008.
78. "Bradley Smith and the Committee for Open Debate on the Holocaust: The New College Try". (http://www.adl.org/holocaust/bradley_smith.asp) ADL. 2001. April 24, 2008.
79. "Bradley Smith, Holocaust Denial, Committee for Open Debate on the Holocaust – Extremism in America" (http://www.adl.org/learn/ext_us/smith_codoh/words.asp?LEARN_Cat=Extremism&LEARN_SubCat=Extremism_in_America&xpicked=2&item=10). Adl.org. Retrieved March 26, 2013.
80. Shermar, Michael; Alex Grobman (2000). Denying History: Who Says the Holocaust Never Happened and Why Do They Say It?. University of California Press. ISBN 978-0-520-21612-9.

81. Buxbaum, Evan (September 10, 2009). "Harvard Crimson says Holocaust denial ad published by accident" (<http://edition.cnn.com/2009/US/09/09/massachusetts.harvard.holocaust/index.html>). CNN. Retrieved September 10, 2009.
82. Evans, Richard J. In Hitler's Shadow New York: Pantheon Books, 1989 page 83.
83. Maier, Charles The Unmasterable Past, Cambridge: Harvard University Press, 1988 page 190.
84. Lipstadt, Deborah Denying the Holocaust, New York: Free Press, 1993 page 214
85. Kershaw, Ian The Nazi Dictatorship: Problems and Perspectives of Interpretations, London: Arnold, 1989 page 176
86. Brinks, Jan Hermann Children of a New Fatherland, London: I.B. Tauris, 2000 page 108.
87. Wistrich, Robert S. "Holocaust Denial" pages 293–301 from The Holocaust Encyclopedia edited by Walter Laqueur, New Haven: Yale University Press, 2001 page 299
88. Lukacs, John The Hitler of History New York: Vintage Books, 1997, 1998 page 233.
89. Charny, Israel (July 17, 2001). "The Psychological Satisfaction of Denials of the Holocaust or Other Genocides by Non-Extremists or Bigots, and Even by Known Scholars" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20071224203627/http://www.ideajournal.com/articles.php?id=27>). Idea Journal. Archived from the original (<http://www.ideajournal.com/articles.php?id=27>) on December 24, 2007. Retrieved August 7, 2015.
90. Evans, Richard In Hitler's Shadow, New York, NY: Pantheon, 1989 page 123
91. Gerstenfeld, Manfred (August 1, 2003). "Denial of the Holocaust and Immoral Equivalence An Interview with Deborah Lipstadt" (<http://www.jcpa.org/phas/phas-11.htm>). Jerusalem Centre for Public Affairs. Retrieved June 21, 2007.
92. Dawidowicz, Lucy What Is The Use of Jewish History?, New York: Schocken Books, 1992 pages 129–130
93. Dawidowicz, Lucy What Is The Use of Jewish History?, New York: Schocken Books, 1992 page 130
94. Pelt, Robert Jan van The Case for Auschwitz, Bloomington: Indiana University Press, 2002 pages 47–48
95. Stein, Michael (October 2, 2008). "The Mayer Gambit" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090502170033/http://www.nizkor.org/features/techniques-of-denial/mayer-01.html>). Nizkor Project. Archived from the original (<http://www.nizkor.org/features/techniques-of-denial/mayer-01.html>) on May 2, 2009. Retrieved June 4, 2009.
96. Bauer, Yehuda "A Past That Will Not Away" pages 12–22 from The Holocaust and History edited by Michael Berenbaum and Abraham Peck, Bloomington: Indiana University Press, 1998 page 15.
97. Shermer, Michael & Grobman, Alex Denying History: Who Says the Holocaust Never Happened and Why Do They Say It?, Berkeley: University of California Press, 2002 page 126.
98. Shermer, Michael & Grobman, Alex Denying History: Who Says the Holocaust Never Happened and Why Do They Say It?, Berkeley: University of California Press, 2002 pages 126–127.
99. Stephen E. Atkins, Holocaust denial as an international movement, ABC-CLIO, 2009, pg. 105
00. Evans, Richard (1996). "Dresden and Holocaust Denial" (<http://hdot.org/en/trial/defense/evans/520e.html>). David Irving, Hitler and Holocaust Denial: Electronic Edition. Retrieved December 23, 2013.
01. Lipstadt, Deborah. Denying the Holocaust: The Growing Assault on Truth and Memory, Bt Bound, 1999, pg. 41
02. Broszat, Martin. "Hitler and the Genesis of the 'Final Solution': An Assessment of David Irving's Theses" pages 390–429 from Aspects of the Third Reich edited by H.W. Koch page 395.
03. Najarian, James (1997). "Gnawing at History: The Rhetoric of Holocaust Denial" (<http://connection.ebscohost.com/c/articles/9711065531>). Midwest Quarterly. 39 (1): 74. Retrieved February 9, 2011.
04. Najarian, James (1997). "Gnawing at History: The Rhetoric of Holocaust Denial" (<http://connection.ebscohost.com/c/articles/9711065531>). Midwest Quarterly. 39 (1): 76. Retrieved February 9, 2011.

05. Najarian, James (1997). "Gnawing at History: The Rhetoric of Holocaust Denial" (<http://connection.ebscohost.com/c/articles/9711065531>). Midwest Quarterly. 39 (1): 80. Retrieved February 9, 2011.
06. Lasson, Kenneth (2007). "Defending Truth: Legal and Psychological Aspects of Holocaust Denial" (<http://www.schaler.net/Lasson.pdf>) (PDF). Current Psychology. 26 (3–4): 256. doi:10.1007/s12144-007-9013-7 (<https://doi.org/10.1007%2Fs12144-007-9013-7>). S2CID 143382566 (<https://api.semanticscholar.org/CorpusID:143382566>). Retrieved February 7, 2011.
07. Yelland, Linda M.; Stone, William F. (1996). "Belief in the Holocaust: Effects of Personality and Propaganda". Political Psychology. 17 (3): 559. doi:10.2307/3791968 (<https://doi.org/10.2307%2F3791968>). JSTOR 3791968 (<https://www.jstor.org/stable/3791968>).
08. Satloff, Robert (2007). Among the Righteous: Lost Stories from the Holocaust's Long Reach Into Arab lands. PublicAffairs. p. 163. ISBN 9781586485108.
09. Laqueur, Walter (2006). The Changing Face of Antisemitism: From Ancient Times to the Present Day (<https://archive.org/details/changingfaceofan00laqu/page/141>). Oxford University Press. p. 141 (<https://archive.org/details/changingfaceofan00laqu/page/141>). ISBN 9780195304299.
10. "Iran Further Isolates Itself with 'Holocaust Denial'" (<https://www.npr.org/templates/story/story.php?storyId=6637685>). NPR.org. December 17, 2006.
11. "Syrian Holocaust Denial" (<https://www.jewishvirtuallibrary.org/syrian-holocaust-denial>). jewishvirtuallibrary.org. Jewish Virtual Library.
12. Robert Satloff (October 8, 2006). "The Holocaust's Arab Heroes" (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2006/10/06/AR2006100601417.html>). The Washington Post. p. B01. Retrieved October 29, 2010.
13. "Arab MK's Auschwitz visit draws fire from Jewish, Arab critics" (<http://www.haaretz.com/jewish-world/2.209/arab-mk-s-auschwitz-visit-draws-fire-from-jewish-arab-critics-1.262131>). Haaretz. Associated Press. January 26, 2010. Retrieved March 23, 2014.
14. Karsh, Efraim. Arafat's War: The Man and His Battle for Israeli Conquest. New York: Grove Press, 2003. p. 98–99.
15. Defending Truth: Legal and Psychological Aspects of Holocaust Denial (https://scholarworks.law.ubalt.edu/cgi/viewcontent.cgi?article=1386&context=all_fac), Kenneth Lasson, University of Baltimore School of Law, 2007
16. Dr. Harold Brackman, Aaron Breitbart (2007). "Holocaust Denial's Assault on Memory: Precursor to twenty first century genocide?" (https://web.archive.org/web/20120206142427/http://www.wiesenthal.com/atf/cf/%7BD9FD2AAC1-2ADE-428A-9263-35234229D8D8%7D/DENIAL_REPORT.PDF) (PDF). Simon Wiesenthal Center. Archived from the original (http://www.wiesenthal.com/atf/cf/%7Bdf9d2aac1-2ade-428a-9263-35234229d8d8%7D/denial_report.pdf) (PDF) on February 6, 2012. Retrieved May 2, 2012.
17. Washington Institute for Near East Policy (<http://www.washingtoninstitute.org/templateC05.php?CID=1946>), 2000
18. Hadid, Diaa (September 1, 2009) " Hamas leader denies Holocaust" (http://archive.boston.com/news/world/middleeast/articles/2009/09/01/hamas_leader_denies_holocaust/) Associated Press via Boston Globe
19. Oster, Marcy (March 1, 2011) " Hamas to U.N.: Don't teach Holocaust" (<https://www.jta.org/2011/03/01/news-opinion/israel-middle-east/hamas-to-u-n-dont-teach-holocaust>) Jewish Telegraphic Agency
20. Was Abu Mazen a Holocaust Denier? (<http://hnn.us/articles/1414.html>) By Brynn Malone (History News Network)
21. Abu Mazen: A Political Profile. Zionism and Holocaust Denial (<http://www.memri.org/bin/articles.cgi?Area=sr&ID=SR01503>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20070310213751/http://www.memri.org/bin/articles.cgi?Area=sr&ID=SR01503>) March 10, 2007, at the Wayback Machine by Yael Yehoshua (MEMRI) April 29, 2003

22. Jeremy Havardi (August 14, 2012). "Holocaust denial undermines the Palestinian cause" (http://www.thecommentator.com/article/1524/holocaust_denial_undermines_the_palestinian_cause). The Commentator. Retrieved May 18, 2015.
23. A Holocaust-Denier as Prime Minister of "Palestine"? (<http://www.wymaninstitute.org/articles/2003-03-denier.php>) by Dr. Rafael Medoff (The David S. Wyman Institute for Holocaust Studies)
24. Abu Mazen and the Holocaust (<http://www.tomgrossmedia.com/mideastdispatches/archives/000032.html>) by Tom Gross
25. "Soft-Spoken but Not Afraid to Voice Opinions" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2003/03/11/international/middleeast/11ABBA.html>). The New York Times. March 11, 2003. Retrieved May 2, 2012.
26. PA Holocaust Denial (<http://www.pmw.org.il/holocaust.htm>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20061113061841/http://www.pmw.org.il/holocaust.htm>) November 13, 2006, at the Wayback Machine by Itamar Marcus (Palestinian Media Watch) In his thesis Abbas expressed the belief that gas chambers were never used to murder Jews.
27. Akiva Eldar (May 28, 2003). "U.S. told us to ignore Israeli map reservations" (<http://www.haaretz.com/print-edition/news/u-s-told-us-to-ignore-israeli-map-reservations-1.8840>). Haaretz. Retrieved March 23, 2014.
28. "Palestinian leader Abbas admits the Holocaust was 'heinous'" (<https://nypost.com/2014/04/27/palestinian-leader-abbas-admits-the-holocaust-was-heinous/>). New York Post. April 27, 2014. Retrieved May 18, 2015.
29. Myers, David N. (January 23, 2013). "Abbas Alleges Link Between Zionists And Nazis" (<http://www.thedailybeast.com/articles/2013/01/23/abbas-alleges-link-between-zionists-and-nazis.html>). The Daily Beast. Retrieved May 18, 2015.
30. Sammy Smoocha (2009). "The 2008 Index of Arab-Jewish Relations in Israel: Main Findings and Trends of Change" (https://web.archive.org/web/20140806134653/http://soc.haifa.ac.il/~s.smoocha/uploads/editor_uploads/files/Index2008MainFindings_TrendsChangeEng.pdf) (PDF). Archived from the original (http://soc.haifa.ac.il/~s.smoocha/uploads/editor_uploads/files/Index2008MainFindings_TrendsChangeEng.pdf) (PDF) on August 6, 2014. Retrieved June 18, 2014.
31. Variously:
 - "Holocaust comments spark outrage" (http://news.bbc.co.uk/2/hi/middle_east/4529198.stm), BBC News, Accessed December 14, 2005.
 - Esfandiari, Golnaz. "Iran: President's Latest Comments About Israel Spark Further Condemnation" (<http://www.rferl.org/featuresarticle/2005/12/6f3acbdf-d5f9-4ba1-8c9d-278c700ae2ea.html>). Radio Free Europe. Accessed January 28, 2008.
 - "NCC Condemns Ahmadinejad's Holocaust Statement" (<http://www.nccusa.org/news/051216Ahmadinejad.html>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090417214619/http://www.nccusa.org/news/051216Ahmadinejad.html>) April 17, 2009, at the Wayback Machine. National Council of Churches. Accessed December 16, 2007.
 - "Annan: 'Dismay' over Iranian comments on Israel" (<http://www.cnn.com/2005/WORLD/meast/10/27/ahmadinejad.reaction/index.html>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20081207130247/http://www.cnn.com/2005/WORLD/meast/10/27/ahmadinejad.reaction/index.html>) December 7, 2008, at the Wayback Machine. CNN. Accessed September 27, 2007.
 - "Iranian leader: Holocaust a 'myth'" (<http://www.cnn.com/2005/WORLD/meast/12/14/iran.israel/>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20051216125829/http://www.cnn.com/2005/WORLD/meast/12/14/iran.israel/>) December 16, 2005, at the Wayback Machine. CNN. December 14, 2006.
32. "Spiegel Interview with Iran's President Ahmadinejad: 'We Are Determined'" (<http://www.spiegel.de/international/spiegel/spiegel-interview-with-iran-s-president-ahmadinejad-we-are-determined-a-418660.html>), Der Spiegel (May 30, 2006). Retrieved 07sep2013.

33. Transcript of his speech on September 24, 2007. (<https://web.archive.org/web/20071011100923/http://www.theisraelproject.org/atf/cf/%7B84DC5887-741E-4056-8D91-A389164BC94E%7D/20070924AHMADINEJADCOLUMBIATRANSCRIPT.DOC>) "However, I believe the Holocaust, from what we read, happened during World War II after 1930 in the 1940s."
34. Video of his speech on September 24, 2007. Timecode 22:28 to 22:37. (<http://video.google.com/videoplay?docid=773638342167920349>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110629105844/http://video.google.com/videoplay?docid=773638342167920349>) June 29, 2011, at the Wayback Machine
35. "Ahmadinejad: Holocaust a myth" (<http://english.aljazeera.net/archive/2005/12/200849154418141136.html>). Al Jazeera.
36. German parliament slams Ahmadinejad remarks (https://archive.today/20120730021205/http://www.expatica.com/source/site_article.asp?subchannel_id=52&story_id=26268&name=German+parliament+slams+Ahmadinejad+remarks), Expatica, December 16, 2005.
37. Al Jazeera, " Hamas springs to Iran's defense" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20071206115859/http://english.aljazeera.net/English/archive/archive?ArchiveId=17093>). Archived from the original on December 6, 2007. Retrieved August 14, 2007.
38. "MPAC Rebukes Iranian President's Comments" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20080617083103/http://www.mpac.org/article.php?id=231>). December 8, 2005. Archived from the original (<http://www.mpac.org/article.php?id=231>) on June 17, 2008. Retrieved January 31, 2012.
39. Egyptian Islamists deny Holocaust (http://news.bbc.co.uk/1/hi/world/middle_east/4554986.stm), December 23, 2005.
40. "Iran hosts Holocaust conference" (<http://edition.cnn.com/2006/WORLD/meast/12/11/iran.holocaust/index.html>). CNN. December 11, 2006. Retrieved December 27, 2006.
41. "Iran: Holocaust Conference Soon in Tehran" (https://web.archive.org/web/20060310075441/http://www.adnki.com/index_2Level.php?cat=Politics&loid=8.0.246551760&par=0). Adnkronos International (AKI). January 5, 2006. Archived from the original (http://www.adnki.com/index_2Level.php?cat=Politics&loid=8.0.246551760&par=0) on March 10, 2006. Retrieved August 17, 2020.

42. *"Holocaust denial outrages Europe" (<http://washingtontimes.com/world/20061213-120143-8384r.htm>), The Washington Times, December 13, 2006.
- "Holocaust deniers gather in Iran" (<http://www.canada.com/edmontonjournal/news/story.html?id=c4b5cf88-207a-487d-b785-b97e119099d8>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20071011091846/http://canada.com/edmontonjournal/news/story.html?id=c4b5cf88-207a-487d-b785-b97e119099d8>) October 11, 2007, at the Wayback Machine, Edmonton Journal, December 13, 2006.
 - "Holocaust deniers rebuked" (<https://www.latimes.com/news/nationworld/world/la-fg-holocaust13dec13,1,5920414.story?coll=la-headlines-world&ctrack=1&cset=true>). Los Angeles Times, December 13, 2006.
 - "Canadian prof attends Tehran's gathering of Holocaust deniers" (<https://www.theglobeandmail.com/servlet/story/RTGAM.20061213.wxholocaustprof13/BNStory/International/home>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20070121004453/http://www.theglobeandmail.com/servlet/story/RTGAM.20061213.wxholocaustprof13/BNStory/International/home>) January 21, 2007, at the Wayback Machine, The Globe and Mail, December 13, 2006.
 - "The conference for Holocaust deniers hosted by Iran's President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad is a transparent polemical stunt." "Iran's great pretender" (https://www.boston.com/news/globe/editorial_opinion/editorials/articles/2006/12/13/irans_great_pretender/), The Boston Globe, December 13, 2006.
 - "What's the perfect way to top off a Holocaust denial conference featuring input from the likes of such scholars as former KKK Grand Wizard David Duke?" "Holocaust denial can be dangerous" (<https://www.latimes.com/news/opinion/la-ed-iran13dec13,0,2528243.story?coll=la-opinion-leftrail>), Los Angeles Times, December 13, 2006.
 - "Across Europe, outrage over meeting of holocaust deniers" (<http://www.zeenews.com/znnew/articles.asp?aid=341711&sid=WOR>), Zee News, December 13, 2006.
 - "World reacts with outrage over meeting of Holocaust deniers in Iran" (<https://archive.today/20061217133330/http://cnews.canoe.ca/CNEWS/World/2006/12/12/2769773-cp.html>), Calgary Sun, December 13, 2006.
 - ["Holocaust deniers' meeting spurs outrage"](http://www.chron.com disp/story.mpl/ap/world/4396632.html) (<http://www.chron.com disp/story.mpl/ap/world/4396632.html>), Houston Chronicle, December 12, 2006.
 - "Across Europe, outrage over meeting of Holocaust deniers in Iran" (http://www.iht.com/articles/ap/2006/12/12/europe/EU_GEN_Europe_Holocaust_Denial.php), International Herald Tribune, December 12, 2006.
 - "Holocaust deniers gather in Iran for 'scientific' conference" (<https://www.theguardian.com/israel/Story/0,,1970042,00.html>), The Guardian, December 12, 2006.
 - "Revisionist fringe gathers for Iran's Holocaust denial jamboree" (http://news.independent.co.uk/world/middle_east/article2067598.ece) Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20070108183925/http://news.independent.co.uk/world/middle_east/article2067598.ece) January 8, 2007, at the Wayback Machine, The Independent, December 12, 2006.
 - "Holocaust Denied at Iran Forum to 'Research' Nazis" (<https://www.bloomberg.com/apps/news?pid=20601087&sid=auGTWx2QrILM&refer=home>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20100613163056/http://www.bloomberg.com/apps/news?pid=20601087>) June 13, 2010, at the Wayback Machine, Bloomberg Television, December 11, 2006.
 - "Holocaust Deniers and Skeptics Gather in Iran" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2006/12/11/world/middleeast/11cnd-iran.html>), The New York Times, December 11, 2006.
 - "Iranian President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, speaking at a Tehran conference denying the existence of the Holocaust, said Israel will disappear like the Soviet Union." "Iran students rebel over Holocaust denial" (<http://www.upi.com/NewsTrack/view.php?StoryID=20061212-072558-3819r>), United Press International, December 12, 2006.
43. "Berlin Counters Holocaust Conference" (<http://www.spiegel.de/international/0,1518,453691,00.html>). Der Spiegel. December 11, 2006. Retrieved December 27, 2006.

44. "Iran to Host Autumn Conference on Holocaust" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20060930174449/http://www.foxnews.com/story/0,2933,212003,00.html>). Fox News. Associated Press. September 3, 2006. Archived from the original (<http://www.foxnews.com/story/0,2933,212003,00.html>) on September 30, 2006. Retrieved September 11, 2006.
45. Saeed Kamali Dehghan. "Iranian president Hassan Rouhani recognises 'reprehensible' Holocaust" (<https://www.theguardian.com/world/2013/sep/25/iran-rouhani-recognises-holocaust>). The Guardian.
46. "Iranian press accuses CNN of 'fabricating' Rouhani Holocaust remarks" (<http://www.jpost.com/Iranian-Threat/News/Report-CNN-fabricated-Rouhani-Holocaust-interview-remarks-327171>). The Jerusalem Post - JPost.com.
47. "Khamenei.ir" (https://twitter.com/khamenei_ir/status/446928689943420928). Twitter.
48. "In Iran new year's address, Khamenei questions Holocaust" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20140324233740/http://backchannel.al-monitor.com/index.php/2014/03/8006/in-iran-new-years-address-khamenei-questions-holocaust/>). al-monitor.com. Archived from the original (<http://backchannel.al-monitor.com/index.php/2014/03/8006/in-iran-new-years-address-khamenei-questions-holocaust/>) on March 24, 2014. Retrieved March 23, 2014.
49. "What does Iran's Supreme Leader really think about the Holocaust?" (<http://blogs.telegraph.co.uk/news/davidblair/100239211/what-does-irans-supreme-leader-really-think-about-the-holocaust/>). News – Telegraph Blogs.
50. "Timeline: Holocaust Denial and Distortion from Iranian Government and Official Media Resources (1998-2016)" (<https://www.ushmm.org/m/pdfs/Iran-Holocaust-denial-timeline.pdf>) (PDF). United States Holocaust Memorial Museum. September 12, 2016. Retrieved June 9, 2019.
51. "Iran to host Holocaust denial cartoon competition." (<http://www.ynetnews.com/articles/0,7340,L-4621731,00.html>) Ynetnews. February 1, 2015. February 1, 2015.
52. Michael Hopkins, "Harun Yahya and Holocaust Revisionism" (<http://www.talkorigins.org/faqs/organizations/harunyahya.html>), The TalkOrigins Archive [Posted: draft: December 7, 2003].
53. "Turkey" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20120519190843/http://www.axt.org.uk/antidem/archive/archive1/turkey/turkey.htm>). axt.org.uk. 1996. Archived from the original (<http://www.axt.org.uk/antidem/archive/archive1/turkey/turkey.htm>) on May 19, 2012.
54. "The Holocaust Deception" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20081208201358/http://members.fortunecity.com/vural/bks/HOLOCAUST.HTML>). December 8, 2008. Archived from the original (<http://members.fortunecity.com/vural/bks/HOLOCAUST.HTML>) on December 8, 2008.
55. "Turkey" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20120519184740/http://www.axt.org.uk/antidem/archive/archive2/turkey/turkey.htm#Parties>). axt.org.uk. Archived from the original (<http://www.axt.org.uk/antidem/archive/archive2/turkey/turkey.htm#Parties>) on May 19, 2012.
56. Udesky, Laurie (March 27, 1997). "American Jewish organization sees emergence of 'Holocaust denial' in Turkey" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20071103085344/http://www.turkishdailynews.com.tr/archives.php?id=2371>). Turkish Daily News. Archived from the original (<http://www.turkishdailynews.com.tr/archives.php?id=2371>) on November 3, 2007. Alt URL (<http://tdnarchives.blogspot.com/1997/03/american-jewish-organization-sees.html>)
57. Dobroszycki, Lucjan; Gurock, Jeffrey S. (1993). The Holocaust in the Soviet Union: Studies and Sources on the Destruction of the Jews in the Nazi-Occupied Territories of the Ussr, 1941-1945. M.E. Sharpe. pp. 3–29. ISBN 1563241730.
58. "US Warns about Ustasha Glorification and Holocaust Denial" (<https://www.total-croatia-news.com/politics/28735-us-warns-about-ustasha-glorification-and-holocaust-denial>). Croatian News Agency (HINA). May 30, 2018.
59. Opačić, Tamara (November 24, 2017). "Selective Amnesia: Croatia's Holocaust Deniers" (<https://balkaninsight.com/2017/11/24/selective-amnesia-croatia-s-holocaust-deniers-11-16-2017/>). BalkanInsight. BIRN.
60. "Croatia Must Not Whitewash the Horrors of Jasenovac" (<https://balkaninsight.com/2018/08/27/croatia-must-not-whitewash-the-horrors-of-jasenovac-08-27-2018/>). Balkan Insight. August 27, 2018.

61. Rosensaft, Menachem Z. (October 9, 2017). "Croatia Is Brazenly Attempting to Rewrite its Holocaust Crimes Out of History" (<https://www.tabletmag.com/jewish-news-and-politics/246116/croatia-rewrite-holocaust-crimes-out-of-history>). Tablet Magazine.
62. Vladislavljevic, Anja (January 7, 2019). "Book Event Questioning WWII Crimes Planned for Zagreb Church" (<https://balkaninsight.com/2019/01/07/new-revisionist-book-on-jasenovac-wwii-camp-01-07-2019-1/>). Balkan Insight. BIRN.
63. "Simon Wiesenthal Centre urges Croatia to ban Jasenovac revisionist works" (<http://hr.n1info.com/English/NEWS/a361178/Simon-Wiesenthal-Centre-urges-Croatia-to-ban-Jasenovac-revisionist-works.html>). hr.n1info.com. N1 Zagreb. January 9, 2019.
64. "Jewish rights group urges Croatia to ban pro-Nazi book" (<https://apnews.com/11edaa150f63423989db3540cbbdbd69>). Associated Press. January 9, 2019.
65. Mansky, Jackie. "Why It Matters That Hungary's Prime Minister Denounced His Country's Role in the Holocaust" (<https://www.smithsonianmag.com/history/holocaust-and-hungary-prime-minister-180964139/>). Smithsonian Magazine. Retrieved November 14, 2020.
66. "Hungary: Holocaust Denial, Incitement and Intimidation" (<http://www.israelnationalnews.com/Articles/Article.aspx/14378>). Israel National News. Retrieved November 14, 2020.
67. Perica 2002, p. 151.
68. Ramet, Sabrina. "The denial syndrome and its consequences: Serbian political culture since 2000" (<https://online.ucpress.edu/cpcs/article/40/1/41/63/The-denial-syndrome-and-its-consequences-Serbia>). Retrieved April 17, 2020.
69. Ridgeway, James; Udovickii, Jasminka (2000). Burn This House: The Making and Unmaking of Yugoslavia (<https://books.google.com/books?id=GuGe9fy4raoC>). Duke University Press. p. 133. ISBN 978-0-82232-590-1.
70. Cohen 1996, pp. 76–81.
71. Cohen 1996, p. 113.
72. Sniegon, Tomas (2014). Vanished History: The Holocaust in Czech and Slovak Historical Culture. New York: Berghahn Books. pp. 77–78). ISBN 978-1-78238-294-2. "As far back as during the Cold War, the SWC had adapted its ideological history usage to fit its main goal – to fight for a ‘Slovak Slovakia’.⁸ The Holocaust was used in the narrative, but to a small degree and without much attention from the surrounding world. The use of history was focused, above all, on defending the memory of Jozef Tiso. What was most important, it seemed, was not to question the Holocaust as such, but rather to present it as a German crime which in Slovakia was supported solely by a few German-friendly radicals whom Tiso, against his will, was forced to keep in the government so as not to enrage the Germans too much."
73. Paulovičová, Nina (2013). "The "Unmasterable Past"? The Reception of the Holocaust in Postcommunist Slovakia". In Himka, John-Paul; Michlic, Joanna Beata (eds.). Bringing the Dark Past to Light. The Reception of the Holocaust in Postcommunist Europe. Lincoln: University of Nebraska Press. pp. 549–590. ISBN 978-0-8032-2544-2. "Because of [anti-Communist] émigrés' attempts to whitewash history and degrade historical scholarship in order to sustain the reservoir of national mythologization, liberal historians denounce the émigrés as "misinformers" and "misinterpreters." The claims that fascism never occurred in Slovakia (František Vnuk), that the deportation of Jews was an "evacuation" (Milan S. Durica), that Tiso (whose anti-Semitic invectives fueled the radicalism against the Jewish minority) was a "martyr" and a "savior" of the Jews, and that the Holocaust should be omitted from the context of the Slovak national identity discourse are the key markers of the émigré historians' views. (p. 564)"
74. Per A. Rudling. The OUN, the UPA and the Holocaust: A Study in the Manufacturing of Historical Myths. The Carl Beck Papers. William Chase, Bob Donnorummo, Ronald H. Linden, Andrew Konitzer, eds. No. 2107, November 2011 by The Center for Russian and East European Studies, a program of the University Center for International Studies, University of Pittsburgh. ISSN 0889-275X
75. Richard Joseph Golsan, Vichy's Afterlife, University of Nevada Press, 2003, p. 130.

76. Belgium's far right party in Holocaust controversy (<https://www.theguardian.com/elsewhere/journalist/story/0,7792,449278,00.html>), The Guardian, Friday, March 9, 2001.
77. Court rules Vlaams Blok is racist (<http://news.bbc.co.uk/1/hi/world/europe/3994867.stm>), BBC News, November 9, 2004.
78. Cohen, Reut (May 8, 2018) "Canadian Alfred Schaefer Convicted of Holocaust Denial in Germany" (https://www.bnaibrith.ca/canadian_alfred_schaefer_convicted_of_holocaust_denial_in_germany) B'Nal Brith Canada
79. Roberta (July 6, 2018) "Canadian Holocaust denier on trial in Germany for 'incitement to hatred'" (<https://www.cbc.ca/news/canada/edmonton/holocaust-denier-monika-schaefer-trial-jasper-alberta-germany-1.4735103Bell>), CBC News
80. Staff (January 4, 2018) "Canadian Holocaust denier arrested in Germany: Report" (<https://edmontonsun.com/news/national/canadian-holocaust-denier-arrested-in-germany-report/wcm/84bc1065-59bc-4da1-963f-638940a457f3>) Edmonton Sun
81. JTA (January 9, 2018) "Canadian Holocaust denier arrested in Germany" (<https://www.timesofisrael.com/canadian-holocaust-denier-arrested-in-germany/>) The Times of Israel
82. Alfred S. "Sorry Mom, I was wrong about the Holocaust" (video) (https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=E0_BZphQ7Qo) YouTube
83. Staff (January 5, 2018) "Alberta Holocaust denier reportedly arrested in Germany" (<https://www.cbc.ca/news/canada/edmonton/monika-schaefer-alberta-holocaust-denier-arrested-germany-1.4474400>) CBC News
84. Fishman, Aidan (January 4, 2018) "Canadian Holocaust Denier Arrested in Germany Following B'nai Brith Complaint" (https://www.bnaibrith.ca/canadian_holocaust_denier_arrested_in_germany_following_b_nai_brith_complaint) B'Nal Brith Canada
85. "Alberta Holocaust denier guilty of inciting hatred in German court" (<https://nationalpost.com/pmn/news-pmn/canada-news-pmn/alberta-holocaust-denier-guilty-of-inciting-hatred-in-german-court>). National Post. October 26, 2018. Retrieved October 28, 2018.
86. Sherwood, Harriet (January 27, 2019). "One in 20 Britons does not believe Holocaust took place, poll finds" (<https://www.theguardian.com/world/2019/jan/27/one-in-20-britons-does-not-believe-holocaust-happened>). The Guardian. Retrieved February 2, 2019.
87. Tim Harford, Peter Lynn (Professor of Survey Methodology)) (February 1, 2019). Holocaust deniers, Venezuelan hyperinflation, Tinder likes (<https://www.bbc.co.uk/programmes/m00028cf>). More or Less. BBC Radio 4. Event occurs at 0m27s. Retrieved February 2, 2019.
88. Falk, Avner (2008). Anti-Semitism: a History and Psychoanalysis of Contemporary Hatred. Westport, CT: Praeger. p. 106. ISBN 978-0-313-35384-0.
89. [Masanori Nishioka, "The Greatest Taboo of Postwar World History: There Were No Nazi 'Gas Chambers'" Marco Polo, February 1995.]
90. "The IHR Denounces Campaign Against Japanese Publishing Company," The Journal of Historical Review, March/April 1995 (Vol. 15, No. 2), page 9. (http://www.ihr.org/jhr/v15/v15n2p-9_Weber.html)
91. Conference, Claims. "FIRST-EVER 50-STATE SURVEY ON HOLOCAUST KNOWLEDGE OF AMERICAN MILLENNIALS AND GEN Z REVEALS SHOCKING RESULTS" (<http://www.claimscon.org/millennial-study/>). Claims Conference. Retrieved February 10, 2021.
92. "Nearly two-thirds of US young adults unaware 6m Jews killed in the Holocaust" (<https://www.theguardian.com/world/2020/sep/16/holocaust-us-adults-study>). The Guardian. September 16, 2020. Retrieved February 10, 2021.
93. Wilhelm Heitmeyer and John Hagan, International Handbook of Violence Research, Springer: 2003
94. Deborah Lipstadt, 1992 interview with Ken Stern of the American Jewish Committee
95. "Holocaust denial – The IHR's Questions & Answers, and Nizkor's Responses" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20131202230742/http://www.nizkor.org/features/qar/qar00.html>). Nizkor Project. Archived from the original (<http://www.nizkor.org/features/qar/qar00.html>) on December 2, 2013. Retrieved September 28, 2013.

96. Robert L. Hilliard & Michael C. Keith. Waves of Rancor: tuning in the radical right, M.E. Sharpe, 1999, ISBN 0-7656-0131-1, p. 250
97. Daniel Wolfish & Gordon S. Smith. Who Is Afraid of the State?: Canada in a World of Multiple Centres of Power, University of Toronto Press, 2001, ISBN 0-8020-8388-9, p. 108.
98. "AHA Statement on Holocaust Denial" (<http://www.historians.org/perspectives/issues/1991/9112/9112RES.CFM>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20100201141606/http://www.historians.org/perspectives/issues/1991/9112/9112RES.CFM>) February 1, 2010, at the Wayback Machine, American Historical Association website. Retrieved October 11, 2013.
99. Gerstenfeld, Phyllis B.; Grant, Diana Ruth (2004). Crimes of hate: selected readings. p. 190.: SAGE. p. 391. ISBN 0-7619-2943-6.
00. Golsan, 130
01. "Millennium Evening with Elie Wiesel" (<https://www.pbs.org/eliewiesel/resources/millennium.html>). pbs.org.
02. Holocaust Denial on Trial HDOT.org (<http://www.hdot.org/trial>). Retrieved September 29, 2010.
03. Bazyler, Prof. Michael J: Holocaust Denial Laws and Other Legislation Criminalizing Promotion of Nazism. International Institute for Holocaust Studies, Yad Vashem. (<http://www1.yadvashem.org/yv/en/holocaust/insights/pdf/bazyler.pdf>) Retrieved September 29, 2010.
04. "O.B.C Biography – Kenneth McVay" (https://web.archive.org/web/20080516081625/http://www.protocol.gov.bc.ca/protocol/prgs/obc/1995/1995_KMcVay.htm). Archived from the original (http://www.protocol.gov.bc.ca/protocol/prgs/obc/1995/1995_KMcVay.htm) on May 16, 2008. Retrieved June 30, 2008.
05. BBC News, Annan condemns Holocaust denial (<http://news.bbc.co.uk/1/hi/world/europe/4653666.stm>), January 2006
06. UN Assembly condemns Holocaust denial by consensus; Iran disassociates itself (<https://www.un.org/apps/news/story.asp?NewsID=21355&Cr=holocaust&Cr1>), U.N. News Centre, January 26, 2007.
07. "Ahmadinejad touts Holocaust denial as great success of his tenure" (<http://www.haaretz.com/news/middle-east/1.534337>). Haaretz. DPA. July 7, 2013. Retrieved March 23, 2014.
08. Andrea Mitchell and Tracy Connor, NBC News. "Iran's Rouhani on Holocaust: 'A massacre that cannot be denied'" (https://web.archive.org/web/20130927154909/http://worldnews.nbcnews.com/_news/2013/09/25/20693723-irans-rouhani-on-holocaust-a-massacre-that-cannot-be-denied). NBC News. Archived from the original (http://worldnews.nbcnews.com/_news/2013/09/25/20693723-irans-rouhani-on-holocaust-a-massacre-that-cannot-be-denied) on September 27, 2013.
09. Frankfurter, Bernhard. Die Begegnung. Auschwitz-Ein Opfer und ein Täter im Gespräch. Vienna, Verlag für Gesellschaftskritik, 1995, p. 102. cited in Jan van Pelt, Robert. The Case for Auschwitz: Evidence from the Irving Trial. Indiana University Press, 2002, p. 291.
10. Demant, Ebbo (Hg.): Auschwitz – "Direkt von der Rampe weg..." Kaduk, Erber, Klehr: Drei Täter geben zu Protokoll, p. 114. Hamburg: Rowohlt, 1979 ISBN 3-499-14438-7
11. Drei Deutsche Mörder. Aufzeichnungen über die Banalität des Bösen, Germany 1998 (filmed in 1978). Directed by Ebbo Demant, produced by Südwestrundfunk.
12. Rees, Laurence. Auschwitz: The Nazis & The "Final Solution", p. 300. London: BBC Books, 2005. ISBN 0-563-52117-1
13. Rees, p. 301
14. Online, Spiegel (May 9, 2005). "An SS Officer Remembers: The Bookkeeper from Auschwitz" (<http://www.spiegel.de/international/spiegel/an-ss-officer-remembers-the-bookkeeper-from-auschwitz-a-355188.html>). SPIEGEL ONLINE. Retrieved April 22, 2016.
15. "Holocaust Remembrance Press Release" (https://www.holocaustremembrance.com/sites/default/files/press_release_document_antisemitism.pdf) (PDF). Romanian Chairmanship. May 26, 2016.

16. "EU Parliament votes in favor of adopting antisemitism definition - Diaspora - Jerusalem Post" (<http://www.jpost.com/Diaspora/EU-Parliament-votes-in-favor-of-adopting-antisemitism-definition-494479>). www.jpost.com.
17. "Fact Sheet: Working Definition of Antisemitism" (https://web.archive.org/web/20180713161250/http://holocaustremembrance.com/sites/default/files/fcat_sheet_working_definition_of_antisemitism.pdf) (PDF). International Holocaust Remembrance Alliance. October 24, 2017. Archived from the original (https://holocaustremembrance.com/sites/default/files/fcat_sheet_working_definition_of_antisemitism.pdf) (PDF) on July 13, 2018. Retrieved August 17, 2020.
18. "Defining Anti-Semitism: A Conversation With the EU Coordinator on Combating Anti-Semitism" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180618025721/https://www.momentmag.com/defining-anti-semitism-conversation-eu-coordinator-combating-anti-semitism/>). June 28, 2017. Archived from the original (<https://www.momentmag.com/defining-anti-semitism-conversation-eu-coordinator-combating-anti-semitism/>) on June 18, 2018. Retrieved April 15, 2018.
19. "Holocaust denial is a new form of anti-Semitism, but one that hinges on age-old motifs." Dinah Shelton, Encyclopedia of Genocide and Crimes Against Humanity, Macmillan Reference, 2005, p. 45.
20. "Introduction: Denial as Anti-Semitism" (<http://www.adl.org/Holocaust/theory.asp>), Holocaust Denial: An Online Guide to Exposing and Combating Anti-Semitic Propaganda, Anti-Defamation League website. Retrieved August 27, 2009.
21. Igounet, Valérie. "Holocaust denial is part of a strategy" (<http://mondediplo.com/1998/05/08igou>), Le Monde diplomatique, May 1998.
22. Reich, Walter. "Erasing the Holocaust" (<https://www.nytimes.com/1993/07/11/books/erasing-the-holocaust.html>), The New York Times, July 11, 1993.
23. Vidal-Naquet, Pierre, "A Paper Eichmann (1980) – Anatomy of a Lie: On the Revisionist Method" (<http://www.anti-rev.org/textes/VidalNaquet92a/part-4.html>), in Assassins of Memory, Columbia University Press, 1992.
24. Küntzel, Matthias (2012). "Judeophobia and the Denial of the Holocaust in Iran". Holocaust Denial: The Politics of Perfidy. De Gruyter. ISBN 978-3-11-028821-6.
25. "Response to Holocaust denial on the existence of Gas Chambers and Crematoria" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20131120124932/http://www.nizkor.org/hweb/orgs/american/skeptic-magazine/skeptic-12.html>). Nizkor Project. Archived from the original (<http://www.nizkor.org/hweb/orgs/american/skeptic-magazine/skeptic-12.html>) on November 20, 2013. Retrieved November 16, 2013.

26. A plot designed to garner support of Israel:

- "The central assertion for the deniers is that Jews are not victims but victimizers. They 'stole' billions in reparations, destroyed Germany's good name by spreading the 'myth' of the Holocaust, and won international sympathy because of what they claimed had been done to them. In the paramount miscarriage of injustice, they used the world's sympathy to 'displace' another people so that the state of Israel could be established. This contention relating to the establishment of Israel is a linchpin of their argument." Deborah Lipstadt. Denying the Holocaust – The Growing Assault on Truth and Memory, Penguin, 1993, p. 27. ISBN 0-452-27274-2.
- "Jews are thus depicted as manipulative and powerful conspirators who have fabricated myths of their own suffering for their own ends. According to the Holocaust deniers, by forging evidence and mounting a massive propaganda effort, the Jews have established their lies as 'truth' and reaped enormous rewards from doing so: for example, in making financial claims on Germany and acquiring international support for Israel." The nature of Holocaust denial: What is Holocaust denial? (http://www.jpr.org.uk/Reports/CS_Reports/no_3_2000/index.htm) Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20110718044959/http://www.jpr.org.uk/Reports/CS_Reports/no_3_2000/index.htm) July 18, 2011, at the Wayback Machine, JPR report No. 3, 2000. Retrieved May 16, 2007.
- "Why, we might ask the deniers, if the Holocaust did not happen would any group concoct such a horrific story? Because, some deniers claim, there was a conspiracy by Zionists to exaggerate the plight of Jews during the war in order to finance the state of Israel through war reparations." Michael Shermer & Alex Grobman. Denying History: who Says the Holocaust Never Happened and why Do They Say It?, University of California Press, 2000, ISBN 0-520-23469-3, p. 106.
- "They [Holocaust deniers] picture a vast shadowy conspiracy that controls and manipulates the institutions of education, culture, the media and government in order to disseminate a pernicious mythology. The purpose of this Holocaust mythology, they assert, is the inculcation of a sense of guilt in the white, Western Christian world. Those who can make others feel guilty have power over them and can make them do their bidding. This power is used to advance an international Jewish agenda centered in the Zionist enterprise of the State of Israel." Introduction: Denial as Anti-Semitism (<http://www.adl.org/holocaust/theory.asp>), "Holocaust Denial: An Online Guide to Exposing and Combating Anti-Semitic Propaganda", Anti-Defamation League, 2001. Retrieved June 12, 2007.
- "The stress on Holocaust revisionism underscored the new anti-Semitic agenda gaining ground within the Klan movement. Holocaust denial refurbished conspiratorial anti-Semitism. Who else but the Jews had the media power to hoodwink unsuspecting masses with one of the greatest hoaxes in history? And for what motive? To promote the claims of the illegitimate state of Israel by making non-Jews feel guilty, of course." Lawrence N. Powell, Troubled Memory: Anne Levy, the Holocaust, and David Duke's Louisiana, University of North Carolina Press, 2000, ISBN 0-8078-5374-7, p. 445.

27. Shermer & Grobman, 2002, pp. 103–14.

28. "(H)istory is the attempt to describe events of the past and move from description to analysis, in accordance with certain agreed rules of evidence, of analysis of language, and of logic." "Yehuda Bauer, Historian of the Holocaust – Portrait of an Historian" – Online Dimensions, a Journal of Holocaust Studies, Fall, 2004

29. "... the German bureaucrats' collective actions are relatively well-documented for the historian...." Christopher R. Browning, The Path to Genocide: essays on launching the final solution, Cambridge University Press, 1992, ISBN 0-521-55878-6, p. 125.

30. "According to the historian Raul Hilberg, the United States alone captured forty thousand linear feet of documents on the murder of European Jews ... we can say that the Holocaust is a uniquely well-documented historical event." Deák, István. Essays on Hitler's Europe, University of Nebraska Press, 2001, ISBN 0-8032-1716-1, p. 67

31. Holocaust: The events and their impact on real people, DK Publishing in conjunction with the USC Shoah Foundation Institute for Visual History and Education, p. 146. "There our troops found sights, sounds, and stenches horrible beyond belief, cruelties so enormous as to be incomprehensible to the normal mind."
32. Kelly Oliver. Witnessing: beyond recognition, University of Minnesota Press, 2001, ISBN 0-8166-3627-3, p. 90.
33. Shelley Hornstein and Florence Jacobowitz. Image and remembrance: representation and the Holocaust, 2003, Indiana University Press, ISBN 0-253-34188-4, pp. 205–206.
34. INA, Major Interviews, General André Rogerie (<http://grands-entretiens.ina.fr/video/Shoah>); audio recording
35. Annette Wieviorka, Déportation et génocide. Entre la mémoire et l'oubli, Plon, 1992, p. 249.
36. Shermer & Grobman, 2002, p. 33.
37. Pierre Vidal-Naquet, French "une tentative d'extermination sur le papier qui relaie l'extermination réelle" in Les assassins de la mémoire, Un Eichmann de papier, Postface de Gisèle Sapiro, Nouvelle édition revue et augmentée, La Découverte, Paris, 2005, ISBN 2-7071-4545-9.
38. Lechtholz-Zey, Jacqueline: Laws Banning Holocaust Denial. Genocide Prevention Now. (<https://web.archive.org/web/20100821174310/http://www.genocidepreventionnow.org/2010/06/laws-banning-holocaust-denial.html>). Retrieved October 4, 2020.
39. "Russia makes Holocaust denial illegal" (<https://www.jta.org/2014/05/05/global/russia-makes-holocaust-denial-illegal>). May 5, 2014.
40. "Romania holds first Holocaust Day" (<http://news.bbc.co.uk/2/hi/europe/3736864.stm>). BBC News. October 12, 2004. Retrieved September 24, 2013.
41. "Romania sparks Holocaust row" (<http://news.bbc.co.uk/2/hi/europe/2997616.stm>). BBC News. June 17, 2003. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20130928085609/http://news.bbc.co.uk/2/hi/europe/2997616.stm>) from the original on September 28, 2013. Retrieved May 22, 2010.
42. "See Luxembourg, April 19, 2007, 8665/07 (Presse 84)" (http://www.consilium.europa.eu/uedocs/cms_data/docs/pressdata/en/misc/93739.pdf) (PDF).
43. By way of judgment of November 7, 2007 (<http://www.tribunalconstitucional.es/jurisprudencia/Stc2007/STC2007-5152-2000.html>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20080215233053/http://www.tribunalconstitucional.es/jurisprudencia/Stc2007/STC2007-5152-2000.html>) February 15, 2008, at the Wayback Machine of the Constitutional Court of Spain, which ruled the criminalization to be unconstitutional and void.
44. EU adopts measure outlawing Holocaust denial (<https://www.nytimes.com/2007/04/19/world/europe/19iht-eu.4.5359640.html>). By Dan Bilefsky. The New York Times, April 19, 2007 .
45. To live with Faurisson? Any other attitude would imply that we were imposing historical truth as legal truth, which is a dangerous attitude available to other fields of application. Pierre Vidal-Naquet: A Paper Eichmann (1980) – Anatomy of a Lie (10) (<http://www.anti-rev.org/textes/VidalNaquet92a/>)
46. François de Smet, Philosopher of the ULB: Le négationnisme est l'une des pires formes de racisme. Elle en est aussi sa version la plus « respectable », se parant des oripeaux de la science. C'est pour cela qu'il faut continuer à le sanctionner, in La Libre Belgique, on April 28, 2006
47. Chotiner, Isaac (January 24, 2019) "Looking at Anti-Semitism on the Left and the Right: An Interview with Deborah E. Lipstadt" (<https://www.newyorker.com/news/the-new-yorker-interview/looking-at-anti-semitism-on-the-left-and-the-right-an-interview-with-deborah-e-lipstadt>) The New Yorker
48. "Holocaust denier to be released" (December 20, 2006): BBC News (<http://news.bbc.co.uk/2/hi/6196073.stm>) Retrieved January 13, 2011.
49. BBC Report Holocaust Denier is Jailed (<http://news.bbc.co.uk/2/hi/europe/4733820.stm>), February 20, 2006.

50. "Holocaust denier: 'No need to show remorse'" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20070116221731/http://www.cnn.com/2006/WORLD/europe/12/21/uk.irving.ap/index.html>). Archived from the original (<http://www.cnn.com/2006/WORLD/europe/12/21/uk.irving.ap/index.html>) on January 16, 2007. Retrieved November 27, 2016.
51. Gregory Stanton, Eight Stages of Genocide Denial (<http://www.genocidewatch.org/aboutgenocide/8stagesofgenocide.html>), Genocide Watch
52. Bloxham, Donald (2005). The Great Game of Genocide: Imperialism, Nationalism, and the Destruction of the Ottoman Armenians. Oxford University Press. p. 208. ISBN 978-0-19-922688-7.
53. MacDonald, David B. (2008). Identity Politics in the Age of Genocide: The Holocaust and Historical Representation. Routledge. p. 133. ISBN 978-1-134-08572-9.

Bibliography

About Holocaust denial

- Richard J. Evans, In Defense of History, New York: Norton, 1999.
- Richard J. Evans, Lying About Hitler: History, Holocaust, and the David Irving Trial, Basic Books, 2002 (ISBN 0-465-02153-0). As well as the story of the Irving case, this is an excellent case study on historical research.
- Charles Gray, The Irving Judgment, Penguin, 2000 (ISBN 0-14-029899-1). Actual text of the judgment in the Irving case.
- D. D. Guttenplan, The Holocaust on Trial, Norton 2002
- Deborah Lipstadt, Denying the Holocaust: The Growing Assault on Truth and Memory, Plume (The Penguin Group), 1994. Debunking Holocaust revisionism.
- Donald L. Niewyk, ed. The Holocaust: Problems and Perspectives of Interpretation, D.C. Heath and Company, 1992.
- Robert Jan van Pelt, The Case for Auschwitz: Evidence from the Irving Trial (ISBN 0-253-34016-0).
- Michael Shermer and Alex Grobman, Denying History: Who Says the Holocaust Never Happened and Why Do They Say It? University of California Press (ISBN 0-520-23469-3).
- Michael Shermer, Why People Believe Weird Things: Pseudoscience, Superstition, and Other Confusions of Our Time, Freeman, New York 1997 (ISBN 0-8050-7089-3).
- Shermer, Michael (1998). "Holocaust Revisionism Update: David Cole Recants/David Irving Says Churchill Knew About Pearl Harbor". Skeptic. 6 (1): 23–25.
- Mr. Death, a documentary by Errol Morris.
- Abbot, A (1994). "Holocaust Denial Research Disclaimed" (<https://doi.org/10.1038%2F368483a0>). Nature. 368 (6471): 483. Bibcode:1994Natur.368..483A (<https://ui.adsabs.harvard.edu/abs/1994Natur.368..483A>). doi:10.1038/368483a0 (<https://doi.org/10.1038%2F368483a0>).
- John C. Zimmerman, Holocaust denial: demographics, testimonies, and ideologies Lanham, Md., University Press of America, 2000.
- John C. Zimmerman, "Holocaust Denial". Los Angeles Times, January 16, 2000, M4
- Jean Claude Pressac: "Les carences et incohérences du Rapport Leuchter" Jour J., la lettre télégraphique juive, December 12, 1988.
- Jean Claude Pressac, "Auschwitz: Technique and operation of the gas chambers", The Beate Klarsfeld Foundation, New York 1989 (<http://phdn.org/archives/holocaust-history.org/auschwitz/pressac/technique-and-operation>)
- Jean Claude Pressac, Les Crématoires d'Auschwitz: La Machinerie Du Meurtre De Masse, CNRS editions, Paris, 1993.

- Pierre Vidal-Naquet, "Les assassins de la mémoire", Un Eichman de papier, Postface de Gisèle Sapiro, Nouvelle édition revue et augmentée, La Découverte, Paris, 2005, ISBN 2-7071-4545-9.
- Pierre Vidal-Naquet, "Qui sont les assassins de la mémoire?" in Réflexions sur le génocide. Les juifs, la mémoire et le présent, vol. III. La Découverte 1995.
- Brigitte Bailer-Galanda, Wilhelm Lasek, Amoklauf gegen die Wirklichkeit. NS-Verbrechen und revisionistische Geschichtsschreibung. Wien, 1992.
- Wellers, George (1989). "A propos du "Rapport Leuchter" et les chambres à gaz d'Auschwitz". Le Monde Juif. 134.
- Till Bastian, "Auschwitz und die «Auschwitz-Lüge». Massenmord und Geschichtsfälschung", Beck'sche Reihe München, 1994.
- Francesco Germinario, Estranei alla democrazia. Negazionismo e antisemitismo nella destra radicale italiana BFS Editore, Pisa, 2001.
- Francesco Rotondi, Luna di miele ad Auschwitz. Riflessioni sul negazionismo della Shoah, Edizioni Scientifiche Italiane, Napoli, 2005.
- Flores M., Storia, Verità e Giustizia, Mondadori, Milano, 2001.
- Valentina Pisanty, L'irritante questione delle camere a gas. Logica del negazionismo, Bompiani, Milano, 1998.
- Ted Gottfried, Deniers of the Holocaust: Who They Are, What They Do, Why They Do It, Brookfield Conn Twenty-First Century Books, 2001.
- Henry Rousso, Le dossier Lyon III: le rapport sur le racisme et le négationnisme à l'université Jean-Moulin, Paris, 2004.
- Nadine Fresco "Les redresseurs de morts. Chambres à gaz: la bonne nouvelle. Comment on révisé l'histoire", Les Temps Modernes, 407, June 1980.
- Nadine Fresco, The Denial of the Dead On the Faurisson Affair 1981.
- Georges Bensoussan "Négationnisme et antisionnisme: récurrences et convergences des discours du rejet", Revue d'histoire de la Shoah, 166, May–August 1999. Centre de documentation juive contemporaine 1999.
- Valérie Igounet, "Dossier «Les terroirs de l'extrême-droite»: Un négationnisme stratégique", Le Monde diplomatique (May 1998).
- Valérie Igounet, Histoire du négationnisme en France, Paris, Le Seuil, 2000
- Pierre Bridonneau, Oui, il faut parler des négationnistes, Éditions du Cerf 1997.
- Yehuda Bauer "A Past that Will Not Go Away". in The Holocaust and History: The Known, the Unknown, the Disputed, and the Reexamined. Ed. Michael Berenbaum and Abraham J. Peck. Bloomington: Published in association with the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum by Indiana University Press, 1998, pp. 12–22.
- Alan L. Berger, "Holocaust Denial: Tempest in a Teapot, or Storm on the Horizon?" in Peace, in Deed: Essays in Honor of Harry James Cargas. Ed. Zev Garber and Richard Libowitz. Atlanta: Scholars Press, 1998, pp. 31–45.
- Joseph Dan, "Four Ways of Holocaust Denial". in Bruch und Kontinuität: Jüdisches Denken in der europäischen Geistesgeschichte. Ed. Eveline Goodman-Thau and Michael Daxner. Berlin: Akademie Verlag, 1995, pp. 39–46.
- Patrick Finney "Ethics, Historical Relativism and Holocaust Denial." Rethinking History 2 (1998), pp. 359–369.
- Markiewicz, Jan; Gubala, Wojciech; Labeledz, Jerzy (1994). "A Study of the Cyanide Compounds Content in the Walls of the Gas Chambers in the Former Auschwitz & Birkenau Concentration Camps". Z Zagadnien Sądowych. XXX.
- Wayne Klein, "Truth's Turning: History and the Holocaust". In Postmodernism and the Holocaust. Ed. Alan Milchman and Alan Rosenberg. Amsterdam: Editions Rodopi, 1998, pp. 53–83.

- Jonathan Petropoulos, "Holocaust Denial: A Generational Typology." In Lessons and Legacies III: Memory, Memorialization, and Denial. Ed. Peter Hayes. Evanston, IL: Northwestern University Press, 1999.
- Werner Wegner: "Keine Massenvergasungen in Auschwitz? Zur Kritik des Leuchter-Gutachtens", in: Die Schatten der Vergangenheit. Impulse zur Historisierung der Vergangenheit, hg. v. Uwe Backes, Eckhard Jesse und Rainer Zitelmann, Propyläen Verlag, Berlin 1990, S. pp. 450–476 (ISBN 3-549-07407-7).
- Wicken, Stephen (2006). "Views of the Holocaust in Arab Media and Public Discourse" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20130921073926/http://yalejournal.org/wp-content/uploads/2011/01/061209wicken.pdf>) (PDF). Yale Journal of International Affairs: 103–15. Archived from the original (<http://yalejournal.org/wp-content/uploads/2011/01/061209wicken.pdf>) (PDF) on September 21, 2013. Retrieved February 2, 2014.
- Jürgen Zarusky: "Leugnung des Holocaust. Die antisemitische Strategie nach Auschwitz. Bundesprüfstelle für jugendgefährdende Schriften Aktuell – Amtliches Mitteilungsblatt". Jahrestagung 9./10. Nov. 1999, Marburg. Auch als Internet-Veröffentlichung (pdf-Dokument) erhältlich.
- Martin Finkenberger/Horst Junginger (Hrsg.): Im Dienste der Lügen. Herbert Grabert (1901–1978) und seine Verlage. Aschaffenburg: Alibri-Verl., 2004 (ISBN 3-932710-76-2).
- Thomas Wandres: Die Strafbarkeit des Auschwitz-Leugnens. Berlin 2000 (ISBN 3-428-10055-7).
- "Holocaust Denial Literature: A Bibliography" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20081220115330/http://york.cuny.edu/~drobnick/holbib1.html>). Archived from the original (<http://york.cuny.edu/~drobnick/holbib1.html>) on December 20, 2008. Retrieved December 8, 2008.
- "Who Denies the Holocaust And Why Do They Deny It?" (<http://www.jewishmag.com/115mag/holocaustdeny/holocaustdeny.htm>). Retrieved February 9, 2009.
- Algazy, Joseph (1984). La tentation néo-fasciste en France: de 1944 à 1965. Fayard. ISBN 978-2213014265.
- Barnes, Ian R. (2002). "I am a Fascist Writer: Maurice Bardèche—Ideologist and Defender of French Fascism". The European Legacy. 7 (2): 195–209. doi:10.1080/10848770220119659 (<https://doi.org/10.1080%2F10848770220119659>). ISSN 1084-8770 (<https://www.worldcat.org/issn/1084-8770>). S2CID 144988319 (<https://api.semanticscholar.org/CorpusID:144988319>).
- Bar-On, Tamir (2016). Where Have All The Fascists Gone?. Routledge. ISBN 9781351873130.

By Holocaust deniers

- Arthur R. Butz, The Hoax of the Twentieth Century: The Case Against the Presumed Extermination of European Jewry, Newport Beach: Institute for Historical Review, 1994 (ISBN 0-9679856-9-2).
- Faurisson, Robert, My Life As a Revisionist, The Journal of Historical Review, volume 9 no. 1 (Spring 1989), p. 5.
- Ernst Gauss (Ed.), Dissecting the Holocaust: The Growing Critique of 'Truth' and 'Memory', Alabama: Theses & Dissertations Press, 2000 (ISBN 0-9679856-0-9). "Gauss" is a pseudonym for Germar Rudolf, the founder of "Theses & Dissertations Press."
- Jürgen Graf, Der Holocaust auf dem Prüfstand, 1992.
- Richard E. Harwood, Did Six Million Really Die?, Noontide Press.
- Michael Hoffman II, The Great Holocaust Trial, (June 1985, 2nd Edition) (ISBN 0-939484-22-6).
- Fred A. Leuchter, Robert Faurisson, Germar Rudolf, The Leuchter Reports: Critical Edition, Chicago, Theses & Dissertations Press, 2005 (ISBN 1-59148-015-9).
- Mr. Death: The Rise and Fall of Fred A. Leuchter, Jr. (<https://archive.org/details/Mr.Death.The.Rise.and.Fall.of.Fred.A.Leuchter.Jr.DVDRip>) is a 1999 documentary film by Errol Morris about execution technician Fred A. Leuchter.
- Germar Rudolf, The Rudolf Report: Expert Report on Chemical and Technical Aspects of the 'Gas Chambers' of Auschwitz, Chicago: Theses & Dissertations Press, 2001.

- "Syrian Holocaust Denial" (<https://www.jewishvirtuallibrary.org/jsource/anti-semitism/syrdenial.html>) by Mohammad Daoud, Syria Times September 6, 2000. Retrieved November 8, 2005.
- "Anti-Semitism and Holocaust Denial in the Iranian Media" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20060802010555/http://memri.org/bin/articles.cgi?Page=countries&Area=iran&ID=SP85505>) MEMRI Special Dispatch Series no 855, January 28, 2005. Retrieved November 8, 2005.
- "Palestinian Holocaust Denial" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20061023044146/http://www.ict.org.il/articles/articledet.cfm?articleid=108>) Reuven Paz, Peacewatch April 21, 2000. Retrieved November 8, 2005. At Archive.org

External links

- an online lecture by Ephraim Kaye, of Yad Vashem (https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=_U0y2IUxNL4)
- When Denying History is Incitement to Violence (<http://www.yadvashem.org/holocaust/holocaust-anti-semitism/rozett-denying-history>), By Robert Rozett of Yad Vashem
- The Wiener Holocaust Library (<https://wienerholocaustlibrary.org/>) – The World's Oldest Holocaust Memorial Institution
- The Nizkor Project (<http://www.nizkor.org/>) – responses to Holocaust denial
- 66 questions and answers on Holocaust denial (<https://web.archive.org/web/20131202230742/http://www.nizkor.org/features/qar/qar00.html>) – the Nizkor Project
- The Holocaust History Project (<http://phdn.org/archives/holocaust-history.org/>) – documents and essays on the Holocaust and its denial
- Holocaust Education & Archive Research Team \(HEART\) (<http://www.holocaustresearchproject.org/>)
- Holocaust Denial: An Online Guide to Exposing and Combating Anti-Semitic Propaganda (<https://web.archive.org/web/20060210223210/http://www.adl.org/holocaust/introduction.asp>) Published by the Anti-Defamation League
- Holocaust Denial on Trial (<http://www.hdot.org/>), Documents and resources relating to the David Irving vs. Penguin Books and Deborah Lipstadt trial
- United States Holocaust Memorial Museum (<https://www.ushmm.org/confront-antisemitism/holocaust-denial-and-distortion>)
- Absence of Humanity Exhibit – The Breman Museum (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170223130057/http://www.thebreman.org/Exhibitions/Now-on-View/Absence-of-Humanity-The-Holocaust-Years-1933-1945>)
- Denial of the Holocaust and the genocide in Auschwitz from the online web site (<http://auschwitz.org/en/history/holocaust-denial/>)
- Holocaust Denial Laws and Other Legislation Criminalizing Promotion of Nazism (<https://www.yadvashem.org/holocaust/holocaust-antisemitism/holocaust-denial-laws.html>) by Prof. Michael J. Bazyler

Retrieved from "https://en.wikipedia.org/w/index.php?title=Holocaust_denial&oldid=1026712973"

This page was last edited on 3 June 2021, at 20:54 (UTC).

Text is available under the Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike License; additional terms may apply. By using this site, you agree to the Terms of Use and Privacy Policy. Wikipedia® is a registered trademark of the Wikimedia Foundation, Inc., a non-profit organization.

Zionist Occupation Government conspiracy theory

The Zionist occupation government, Zionist occupational government or Zionist-occupied government (ZOG), sometimes also referred to as the Jewish occupational government (JOG),^{[1][2]} is an antisemitic conspiracy theory claiming Jews secretly control the governments of Western states.^{[3][4]} According to believers, a secret Zionist organization controls international banks, and through them the governments, in order to collude against white, Christian, or Islamic interests.^[5]

The expression is used by white supremacist, white nationalist, far-right, nativist,^[6] or antisemitic groups in Europe^[7] and the United States^{[8][9][10][11][12][13]} as well as by ultra-nationalists such as Pamyat in Russia and various far-right groups including the Freemen, Identity Christians and the Ku Klux Klan.^[6]

The word Zionist in "Zionist occupation government" should not be confused with the ideology of Zionism, the movement for support of a Jewish state in the Land of Israel. As the conspiracy theorists chiefly name countries outside that area, the usage of Zionist in this context is misleading because it is intended to portray Jews as conspirators who aim to control the world^[8] as depicted in the forged Protocols of the Elders of Zion.^[14]

Contents

Origins

History

Conspiracy theories

See also

References

Bibliography

External links

Origins

The association of Jews to the control of economic forces is the modern resurgence of an old stereotype, that of the "greedy Jewish merchant" which has been present in the Christian world since the Middle Ages.^[5] The conspiracy theory illustrates a specifically American far-right agrarian preoccupation, namely the vital possibility of extinction allegedly faced by the rural world, seen as the backbone of America, a danger caused by a remote, centralized and power-hungry metropolitan elite corrupted by "alien" influences.^[15]

History

The British fascist Arnold Leese already had the habit of referring to the "Jewish government" of his own nation in the interwar and postwar decades, while Nazis under the Weimar Republic dismissed a so-called "Jewish" hand behind that regime. In late 19th-century France, the insinuation that the French government was in the power of the Jews was a commonplace claim in nationalist discourse.^[15]

An early appearance of the term was in a 1976 article, "Welcome to ZOG-World", attributed to an American neo-Nazi named Eric Thomson, although Canadian white nationalists used the term "ZOG" as well.^[16] It also features as the main theme in the 1978 book The Turner Diaries written by William Luther Pierce, founder of the National Alliance, a white nationalist organization. The term came to the attention of a larger audience in a 27 December 1984 article in The New York Times about robberies committed in California and Washington by a white supremacist group called The Order. According to the newspaper, the crimes "were conducted to raise money for a war upon the United States Government, which the group calls 'ZOG', or Zionist Occupation Government".^{[15][17]} In 1985, the Oregon-based far-right group Posse Comitatus claimed: "Our nation is now completely under the control of the International Invisible government of World Jewry."^[18]

The Order of the Silent Brotherhood was an offshoot of the Aryan Nations, an organization founded in the early 1970s by Richard Girnt Butler; the latter had since the 1950s been associated with another antisemitic group, the Church of Jesus Christ Christian. Both of these groups trace their origins to antisemitic activists such as Gerald L.K. Smith and have interacted with the Ku Klux Klan. The term appeared extensively in Aryan Nations literature. In December 1984, Newsweek magazine reported that the Aryan Nations had set up an electronic bulletin board system called "Aryan Nation Liberty Net" to offer information for the locations of Communist Party USA offices and "ZOG informers".

In 1996, the Aryan Nations posted on its website an "Aryan Declaration of Independence", stating that "the history of the present Zionist Occupied Government of the United States of America is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations [...] [all] having a direct object—the establishment of an absolute tyranny over these states." Claiming that "the eradication of the White race and its culture" is "one of its foremost purposes", the "ZOG" is accused of relinquishing powers of government to private corporations, white traitors and ruling class Jewish families. It accused "ZOG" Jews of subverting the constitutional rule of law; responsibility for post-Civil War Reconstruction; subverting the monetary system with the Federal Reserve System, confiscating land and property; limiting freedoms of speech, religion and gun ownership; murdering, kidnapping and imprisoning patriots; abdicating national sovereignty to the United Nations; political repression; wasteful bureaucracy; loosening restrictions on immigration and drug trafficking; raising taxes; polluting the environment; commandeering the military, mercenaries and police; denying Aryan cultural heritage; and inciting immigrant insurrections.^{[15][19]}

Since 1996, the term has spread in usage and is now popular with many other antisemitic organizations. Swedish Neo-Nazis say that Jews—in what they call the Swedish Zionist occupied government—are importing immigrants to "dilute the blood of the white race".^[20] The antisemitic website Jew Watch claims that the entire spectrum of Western nations and other countries are being ruled by "Zionist Occupation Governments".^[21]

Slovak politician Marian Kotleba, whose party (People's Party Our Slovakia) won two seats in the European Parliament in the 2019 election,^[22] claims that the "Z. O. G." controls Slovak politics.^[23]

Conspiracy theories

A variety of plots gravitating around the original conspiracy theory were imagined by activists, one stating for instance that as many as 4,000 Jews were warned of the September 11 attacks before they happened. Believers also claim that ZOG-like forces control the American foreign policy. Despite their own singularities, most ZOG theories involve the idea of a Jewish power over the finance or banking, including one imagining a Jewish control on the Federal Reserve.^[5]

Neo-Nazi David Lane developed his version of the white genocide conspiracy theory in his c. 1995 White Genocide Manifesto, the origin of the later use of the term.^{[24][25][26][27]} Lane claimed that the government policies of many Western countries had the intent of destroying white European culture and making white people an "extinct species".^[28] Lane—a founding member of the organization The Order—criticized miscegenation, abortion, homosexuality, Jewish control of the media, "multi-racial sports" and the legal repercussions against those who "resist genocide" and the ZOG that he said controls the United States and the other majority-white countries and which encourages "white genocide".^[28]

See also

- Andinia Plan
- Antisemitic canard
- Blood libel
- Cultural Bolshevism
- Cultural Marxism conspiracy theory
- Doctors' plot
- Dreyfus affair
- The Eternal Jew (art exhibition)
- The Eternal Jew (book)
- The Eternal Jew (film)
- The Foundations of the Nineteenth Century
- Franklin Prophecy
- The International Jew
- The Protocols of the Elders of Zion
- Jewish Bolshevism
- Jewish question
- Judeo-Masonic conspiracy theory
- Kosher tax conspiracy theory
- New World Order (conspiracy theory)
- QAnon
- Reich Ministry of Public Enlightenment and Propaganda
- Rootless cosmopolitan
- Stab-in-the-back myth
- Żydokomuna

References

1. Swain, Carol (2003). Contemporary voices of white nationalism in America (https://archive.org/details/s/contemporaryvoic00swai_0/page/253). Cambridge, UK New York: Cambridge University Press. p. 253 (https://archive.org/details/contemporaryvoic00swai_0/page/253). ISBN 0521816734.
2. Mogelson, Luke (January 15, 2021). "Among the Insurrectionists" (<https://www.newyorker.com/magazine/2021/01/25/among-the-insurrectionists>). The New Yorker. Retrieved January 17, 2021.
3. "ZOG" (<https://www.adl.org/education/references/hate-symbols/zog>). Anti-Defamation League. Retrieved 24 April 2017.
4. Larsson, Stieg (7 January 2014). The Expo Files: Articles by the Crusading Journalist (<https://books.google.com/books?id=IIMHBAAQBAJ&q=zionist+occupied+government+sweden&pg=PT29>). ISBN 9781623650650. Retrieved 24 April 2017.
5. Issitt, Micah; Main, Carlyn (16 September 2014). Hidden Religion: The Greatest Mysteries and Symbols of the World's Religious Beliefs (<https://books.google.com/books?id=kmFhBQAAQBAJ&pg=PA31>). ABC-CLIO. pp. 31–32. ISBN 9781610694780.
6. Perimutter, Dawn (2004). Investigating Religious Terror and Ritualistic Crimes (<https://books.google.com/books?id=QPnKBQAAQBAJ&q=zog+nativist&pg=PA49>). p. 49. ISBN 9781420041040.

7. Weitz, Eric; Fenner, Angelica, eds. (2004), Fascism and Neofascism: Critical Writings on the Radical Right in Europe, Studies in European Culture and History, Palgrave Macmillan, p. 208, ISBN 978-1-40396659-9, "...the neo-Nazis have proclaimed themselves a white/Aryan resistance movement fighting the Zionist Occupation Government (ZOG) and racial traitors."
8. Daniels 1997, p. 45.
9. Bronner, Stephen Eric (2000), A Rumor About the Jews: Reflections on Antisemitism and "The Protocols of the Learned Elders of Zion", Palgrave Macmillan, p. 136, "The National States Rights Party and the California Noontide Press distributed the Protocols during the 1970s and it is still hailed by representatives of right-wing militias: William Luther Pierce, author of the neofascist bestseller The Turner Diaries, for example, identifies the American state as a "Zionist Occupation Government."
10. Brasher, Brenda (2001), Encyclopedia of Fundamentalism, Routledge, p. 305, "With the racist and anti-Semitic theology of Christian Identity as their justification, they blame the Jewish Antichrist, or the Zionist Occupation Government (ZOG), which rules in Washington, taking its orders from internationalist Jews in Israel, the United Nations, and the Fortune 500. Attracting old-line hate groups like the Ku Klux Klan and inspiring newer ones like the Aryan Nation Alliance..., the militia and Patriot movements have helped to legitimize racist and anti-Semitic hate groups..."
11. Perry, Barbara (2003), Hate and Bias Crime, Routledge, p. 325, "...vivid philosophy of White supremacy, including the belief that the United States is manipulated by foreign Jewish interests collectively known as the Zionist Occupation Government (ZOG). With this conspiracy theory, the strain is "explained" (e.g., the Jews are behind multicultural curricula), and the solution is presented: hate crimes and race war."
12. Pilch, Richard F; Zilinskas, Raymond A (2005), Encyclopedia of Bioterrorism Defense, Wiley, p. 114, "The importance of Christian Identity (CI) in the context of bioterrorism is that it has been openly embraced by certain U.S. right-wing 'militia' and terrorist cells whose members have expressed interest in acquiring or utilizing pathogens and toxic chemical agents... as weapons against their opponents, including representatives of the 'Zionist Occupation Government' (ZOG) that they feel is controlled by 'satanic' Jews."
13. Sauter, Mark; Carafano, James (2005), Homeland Security, McGraw-Hill, p. 122, "The Order, a faction of the Aryan Nations, seized national attention during the 1980s. The tightly organized racist and anti-Semitic group opposed the federal government, calling it the 'ZOG', or Zionist Occupation Government."
14. Schwarz, Rabbi Sidney (2006), Judaism and Justice: The Jewish Passion to Repair the World (<http://archive.org/details/judaismjusticeje00schw/page/96>), Jewish Lights Publishing, p. 96 (<https://archive.org/details/judaismjusticeje00schw/page/96>), ISBN 1-58023-312-0, "One of the most widely distributed anti-Semitic tracts in history is The Protocols of the Elders of Zion, a book of antisemitic canards authored in the nineteenth century that portrays Jews as conspiring to seek global dominance. Similarly, American-based racist groups in this last century have frequently leveled accusations against Jews for controlling both banks and public officials."
15. Blamires, Cyprian (2006). World Fascism: A-K (<https://books.google.com/books?id=nvD2rZSVau4C&pg=PA749>). ABC-CLIO. p. 749. ISBN 9781576079409.
16. Thomson, Eric, Welcome to ZOG-World (<http://www.faem.com/eric/2000/et047.htm>), FAEM.
17. King, Wayne (27 December 1984). "Links of Anti-semitic Band Provoke 6-state Parley". The New York Times. p. 7. "Canadian White Nationalists use this term as well."
18. Christian Posse Comitatus Newsletter, n.d. quoted in Stern, Kenneth S (1996), A Force upon the Plain: The American Militia Movement and the Politics of Hate, New York: Simon & Schuster, p. 50.
19. Aryan Nations (12 March 1996). "Declaration of Independence" (<https://archive.org/details/AryanNationsDeclaration>). Internet Archive. Retrieved 18 August 2019.
20. Pred, Allan (2000), Even in Sweden, University of California Press.
21. "Jewish Occupied Governments" (<http://www.jewwatch.com/jew-occupiedgovernments-folder.html>). Jew Watch. Retrieved 9 January 2008.

22. "Súhrnné výsledky hlasovania podľa územného členenia: Výsledky za SR" (<http://www.volbysr.sk/sk/data01.html>). Retrieved 9 December 2019.
23. Paulovičová, Nina (2018). "Holocaust Memory and Antisemitism in Slovakia: The Postwar Era to the Present". Antisemitism Studies. Indiana University Press. 2 (1): 17, 19–22. doi:10.2979/antistud.2.1.02 (<https://doi.org/10.2979%2Fantistud.2.1.02>). S2CID 165383570 (<https://api.semanticscholar.org/CorpusID:165383570>). "In Kotleba's eyes, every political skirmish in Slovakia is a "very well prepared performance" directed by Z. O. G. (the "Zionist Occupation Government")."
24. Berger, J. M. "How 'The Turner Diaries' Changed White Nationalism" (<https://www.theatlantic.com/politics/archive/2016/09/how-the-turner-diaries-changed-white-nationalism/500039/>). The Atlantic. Retrieved 24 November 2017. "The manifesto itself was soon reduced to the simple phrase 'white genocide', which proliferated at the start of the 21st century and has become the overwhelmingly dominant meme of modern white nationalism."
25. Dessem, Matthew (26 December 2016). "Drexel University, Apparently Unfamiliar With White Supremacist Lingo, Censures Prof For 'White Genocide' Tweet" (http://www.slate.com/blogs/browbeat/2016/12/26/drexel_censures_professor_for_white_genocide_tweet.html). Slate. ISSN 1091-2339 (<https://www.worldcat.org/issn/1091-2339>). Retrieved 24 November 2017. "Although it's difficult to date precisely, white supremacist publishing houses being somewhat less reliable than Simon & Schuster, that honor probably belongs to the late David Lane, terrorist, white supremacist, and author of an execrable little essay called 'White Genocide Manifesto'."
26. Stack, Liam (15 August 2017). "Alt-Right, Alt-Left, Antifa: A Glossary of Extremist Language" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2017/08/15/us/politics/alt-left-alt-right-glossary.html>). The New York Times. ISSN 0362-4331 (<https://www.worldcat.org/issn/0362-4331>). Retrieved 20 January 2018.
27. Feshami, Kevan A. (6 September 2017). "Fear of White Genocide" (<https://www.laphamsquarterly.org/roundtable/fear-white-genocide>). Lapham's Quarterly. Retrieved 20 January 2018.
28. Jackson, Paul (1 May 2015). "'White genocide': Postwar fascism and the ideological value of evoking existential conflicts" (<https://books.google.com/books?id=6rvlCAAQBAJ&pg=PA207>). In Cathie Carmichael; Richard C. Maguire (eds.). The Routledge History of Genocide. Routledge. pp. 207–226. ISBN 9781317514848. "Duke's current website hosts a variety of essays that develop the idea that white people are being subjected to a genocide. Again we see a key linkage here between raising the idea of a white genocide and decrying liberal political ideals. In one such essay, 'The Genocide of the White Race is Promoted by Liberals', the point is set out as follows: ... The actions being taken by liberal governments to force non-White into every White nation will eventually eliminate the White race itself."

Bibliography

- Daniels, Jessie (1997), White Lies: Race, Class, Gender and Sexuality in White Supremacist Discourse, UK: Routledge, ISBN 0-415-91289-X, ": "Conceptualizations of class and state converge in the white supremacist discourse in the characterization of the United States government as the 'Zionist Occupation Government' (ZOG)... As indicated by the ubiquitous reference to the state as 'ZOG' ('Zionist' is equated with 'Jewish') within these publications, the state is depicted as inherently 'Jewish', a racial identity within the discourse. The government, as well as the corporate elite, is supposedly 'occupied' and controlled by Jews.""

External links

- "Aryan nations", Poisoning the Web: Hatred Online (http://www.adl.org/poisoning_web/aryan_nations.asp), The Anti-Defamation League.
- "Extremists conflicted" (<http://www.csmonitor.com/2002/0618/p02s01-ussc.html>), The Christian Science Monitor, 18 June 2002.
- Southern Poverty Law Center (<http://www.splcenter.org/>), Southern Poverty Law Center.

Retrieved from "https://en.wikipedia.org/w/index.php?title=Zionist_Occupation_Government_conspiracy_theory&oldid=1022411714"

This page was last edited on 10 May 2021, at 10:57 (UTC).

Text is available under the Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike License; additional terms may apply. By using this site, you agree to the Terms of Use and Privacy Policy. Wikipedia® is a registered trademark of the Wikimedia Foundation, Inc., a non-profit organization.

Vatican conspiracy theories

Vatican conspiracy theories are conspiracy theories that concern the Pope or the Roman Catholic Church. A majority of the theories allege that the Church and its representatives are secretly controlling secular society with a Satanic agenda for global domination.

St. Peter's Basilica

Contents

Conspiracy theories

Pope John Paul I conspiracy theories

Pope John Paul II's 1981 attempted assassination

Know Nothings

Secret Archives

Jesuit conspiracy theories

See also

References

External links

Conspiracy theories

Pope John Paul I conspiracy theories

Pope John Paul I died in September 1978, only a month after his election to the papacy. The timing of his death and the Vatican's alleged difficulties with ceremonial and legal death procedures have fostered several conspiracy theories. British author David Yallop wrote extensively about unsolved crimes and conspiracy theories, and in his 1984 book In God's Name suggested that John Paul I died because he was about to uncover financial scandals allegedly involving the Vatican.^[1] John Cornwell responded to Yallop's charges in 1987 with A Thief In The Night, in which he analyzed the various allegations and denied the conspiracy.^[2] According to Eugene Kennedy, writing for the New York Times, Cornwell's book "helps to purge the air of paranoia and of conspiracy theories, showing how the truth, carefully excavated by an able journalist in a refreshing volume, does make us free."^[3]

Pope John Paul II's 1981 attempted assassination

Various theories have been brought forward in regards to the attempt by Mehmet Ali Ağca to kill Pope John Paul II. Those theories have involved the Grey Wolves,^[4] the Bulgarian Secret Service,^[5] and others.

Know Nothings

The Know Nothings were an anti-Catholic political group in the United States, in the 1840s and 1850s, who claimed that the Irish and other Roman Catholic immigrants to the United States would be controlled by the Pope for anti-American purposes.^[6]

Secret Archives

There are several theories about the contents of the Vatican Apostolic Archives: some theories claim that they contain secret information about the Priory of Sion, proof that Jesus had a wife and descendents,^[7] secret information about the third secret of the Fatima, the real Spear of Destiny, secret information about the Holy Grail and/or the Ark of the Covenant,^{[8][9][10]} a supposedly-real Chronovisor machine, and many other secrets. There are also theories that claim that the Vatican has information about the Illuminati,^[11] and even secretly contains the world's largest collection of porn.^[12]

Jesuit conspiracy theories

See also

- List of conspiracy theories#Anti-Catholic conspiracy theories
- Legends surrounding the papacy
- Anti-Catholicism
- Jesuit conspiracy theories
- Pope John Paul I conspiracy theories
- Crypto-papism

References

1. "The man who says Pope John Paul II was a fraud - and why he tried to thump me" (<http://www.independent.ie/unsorted/features/cover-story--the-man-who-says-pope-john-paul-ii-was-a-fraud--and-why-he-tried-to-thump-me-42269.html>). Independent. 2007-04-07. Retrieved 2009-01-23.
2. Gould, Peter (2005-04-02). "1978: Year of the three popes" (<http://news.bbc.co.uk/1/hi/world/3008353.stm>). BBC. Retrieved 2009-01-23.
3. Kennedy, Eugene (1989-11-05). "Was The Pope Murdered?" (<https://www.nytimes.com/1989/11/05/books/was-the-pope-murdered.html>). New York Times. Retrieved 2009-01-23.
4. Nezan, Kendal (July 1998). "Turkey's pivotal role in the international drug trade" (<http://mondediplo.com/1998/07/05turkey>). Le Monde diplomatique.
5. Paul B. Henze. The Plot to Kill the Pope, Holiday House, 1985.
6. Anbinder; Tyler. Nativism and Slavery: The Northern Know Nothings and the politics of the 1850s (1992). Online version; also online at ACLS History e-Book (<https://www.questia.com/PM.qst?a=o&d=52767975>), the standard scholarly study
7. "Vatican's newspaper dismisses 'evidence' Jesus had a wife" (<https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/worldnews/europe/vaticancityandhollysee/9574644/Vaticans-newspaper-dismisses-evidence-Jesus-had-a-wife.html>). www.telegraph.co.uk. Retrieved 2021-04-25.
8. "Top 10 Things Possibly Hidden In The Vatican Secret Archives" (<https://listverse.com/2020/05/04/top-10-things-possibly-hidden-in-the-vatican-secret-archives/>). Listverse. 2020-05-04. Retrieved 2021-04-25.
9. "Why the Ark of the Covenant is one of history's enduring mysteries" (<https://www.nationalgeographic.com/history/article/ark-covenant>). History. 2017-01-21. Retrieved 2021-04-25.

10. Apr 10, Anri Ichimura I; 2020. "The Very Holy and Very Lost Foreskin of Jesus Christ" (<https://www.esquiremag.ph/long-reads/features/lost-foreskin-of-jesus-christ-a00304-20200410>). Esquiremag.ph. Retrieved 2021-04-25.
11. "6 Creepy Conspiracy Theories About the Vatican's Secret Archives | Realm Blog" (<https://www.realm.fm/blog/6-popular-conspiracy-theories-vaticans-secret-archives>). www.realm.fm. Retrieved 2021-04-25.
12. Adams, Cecil (1982-03-26). "Does the Vatican have the world's largest pornography collection?" (<https://www.straightdope.com/21341245/does-the-vatican-have-the-world-s-largest-pornography-collection>). The Straight Dope. Retrieved 2021-04-25.

External links

Retrieved from "https://en.wikipedia.org/w/index.php?title=Vatican_conspiracy_theories&oldid=1020622043"

This page was last edited on 30 April 2021, at 03:11 (UTC).

Text is available under the Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike License; additional terms may apply. By using this site, you agree to the Terms of Use and Privacy Policy. Wikipedia® is a registered trademark of the Wikimedia Foundation, Inc., a non-profit organization.

Jesuit conspiracy theories

A Jesuit conspiracy is a conspiracy theory about the members of the Society of Jesus (Jesuits), a religious order in the Catholic Church. Such theories began appearing in 1550, just ten years after the founding of the Jesuits, and were often fabricated by their enemies because of the intellectual and political influence which members of the Society of Jesus exerted.

Contents

History

The French Revolution

German attitudes toward the Jesuits

Sinking the Titanic

See also

References

History

The earliest recorded Jesuit conspiracy theory is found from Augustinian monk, George Browne, who had exclaimed from the pulpit to a crowd in 1551 the following conspiracy theory:

But there is a new fraternity of late sprung up who call themselves Jesuits, which will deceive many, who are much after the Scribes and Pharisees' manner. Among the Jews they shall strive to abolish the truth, and shall come very near to do it. For these sorts will turn themselves into several forms; with the Heathen a Heathenist, with the Atheists an Atheist, with the Jews a Jew, with the Reformers a Reformade, purposely to know your intentions, your minds, your hearts, and your inclinations, and thereby bring you at last to be like the fool that "said in his heart there was no God." These shall spread over the whole world, "shall be admitted into the counsels of Princes, and they never the wiser," charming of them, yea, making your Princes reveal their hearts, and the secrets therein, and yet they not perceive it; which will happen from falling from the law of God, by neglect of fulfilling the law of God, and by winking at their sins; yet in the end . . . they shall become odious to all nations: so that at the end they shall be worse than Jews, having no resting place upon earth; and then shall a Jew have more favor than a Jesuit.^[1]

Less than a decade later, another widely spread libel against the society would appear. The zealous Dominican, Melchor Cano, who had publicized a letter two days before his death, stated the following:

God grant that it may not happen to me as is fabled of Cassandra, who was captured and burned. If the members of the Society continue as they have begun, God grant that the time may not come when kings will wish to resist them, but will not have the means of doing so.^[2]

Later these claims would find its proofs in the Monita secreta, a document detailing the supposed illicit ways that inducted members of the Society were using to gain both temporal and spiritual ascendancy over all.^[3] First published in Krakow, 1612, edited and published by the former Jesuit, Jerome Zahorowski,^[4] he alleged that it was written by Jesuit Superior General Claudio Acquaviva, whose Regional Assistant and Admonitor, Paul Hoffaeus, S.J., had likewise brought scandal to the Society as visitor for the Upper German Province of the Society in 1596, when he had written the following anti-Jesuit report to the Jesuit College of Ingolstadt:

It is to be regretted that so many beneficial precautionary measures are not always observed, or are observed very carelessly. Feasting and frequent visits to single females at their residences take place without necessity. Rendezvous are given in the church for long conversations with women, and there are scandalously long confessions of women, even of those who frequently confess. Confessions of sick women in their houses are heard without the presence of a companion who can see the confessor and penitent. Frequently, yes, very frequently, intimacy prevails between two persons without any trace of strict repression on the confessor's part. I fear that sweet and agreeable words are exchanged, which are tinged with carnal lust and carnal feelings. Unpleasant occurrences, which lead to apostasy and to expulsions from the Society, teach us what great evils are caused by such transgressions in the case of confessors. Must there not be a strange aberration of intellect and heart when confessors in a free and unembarrassed manner, and without fear of shame, dare to pass many hours joking with women before the criticising eyes of the world, as if they themselves and their penitents were not in any danger from such unrestricted intercourse? It is known and has also reached the ears of the princes that confessors from amongst our Order have become entangled through such Satanic examples of vice, and have apostatised or been expelled from the Society as evil nuisances.^[5]

The Protestant Reformation, the English Reformation, and later the Age of Enlightenment brought new suspicions against the Jesuits, who were accused of upholding Ultramontanism, infiltrating political realms and non-Catholic churches. In England, it was forbidden to belong to the Jesuits, under grave penalties, including the death penalty. A 1689 work, Foxes and Firebrands by Robert Ware (later exposed as a forger^[6]), claimed Jesuits took a secret oath that stated:

I do further promise and declare that I will, when opportunity presents, make and wage relentless war, secretly and openly, against all heretics, Protestants and Masons, as I am directed to do, to extirpate them from the face of the whole earth; and that I will spare neither age, sex nor condition, and that I will hang, burn, waste, boil, flay, strangle, and bury alive these infamous heretics; rip up the stomachs and wombs of their women, and crush their infants' heads against the walls in order to annihilate their execrable race. That when the same cannot be done openly I will secretly use the poisonous cup, the strangulation cord, the steel of the poniard, or the leaden bullet, regardless of the honour, rank, dignity or authority of the persons, whatever may be their condition in life, either public or private, as I at any time may be directed so to do by any agents of the Pope or Superior of the Brotherhood of the Holy Father of the Society of Jesus. In confirmation of which I hereby dedicate my life, soul, and all corporal powers, and with the dagger which I now receive I will subscribe my name written in my blood in testimony thereof; and should I prove false, or weaken in my determination, may my brethren and fellow soldiers of the militia of the Pope cut off my hands and feet and my throat from ear to ear, my belly be opened and sulphur burned therein with all the punishment that can be inflicted upon me on earth, and my soul shall be tortured by demons in eternal hell forever.^{[7][8]}

Jesuitism is the term their opponents coined for the practices of the Jesuits in the service of the Counter-Reformation.^[9]

Other conspiracy theories and criticisms relate to the role of the Jesuits in the colonization of the New World, and to their involvement with indigenous peoples. Some allege that the Jesuits, through their settlements (reductions), may willingly have contributed to the assimilation of indigenous nations, even accusing the Society of commanding them in guerrilla warfare^[10] On the other hand, the Jesuits were hated by the Catholic rulers and colonists, who saw their reductions, which were cut off from contact with European Christians, as subversive and a threat to good order, at times even believing in the worst of accusations against the Society. Étienne François, the Foreign Minister of France, who had a strong influence on France, and supposedly even on Spain's global strategy, firmly believed that the Society was a shadow government, believing that:

the Society was involved in and able to influence everything.^[11]

These hostile views contributed so greatly to the campaign against the Jesuits (which resulted in the suppression of the Society of Jesus by Pope Clement XIV in 1773,^[12]) that historian Hamish Scott determined Étienne as the true "destroyer of the Jesuit Order", rather than the commonly alleged arch-nemesis of the Society, King Charles III^[13]

The French Revolution

In 17th Century France, the development of Jansenism, a Catholic theological movement emphasising original sin, led to intra-church rivalries between Jesuits and Jansenists. And although the pro-papal Jesuits ultimately prevailed, it cost them dearly with regard to their reputation in the largely Gallican-influenced French Church.

Many anti-Jesuit conspiracy theories emerged in the 18th century Enlightenment, as a result of an alleged rivalry between the Freemasons and the Jesuits. Intellectual attacks on Jesuits were seen as an efficient rebuttal to the anti-masonry promoted by conservatives, and this ideological conspiracy pattern persisted into the 19th century as an important component of French anti-clericalism. It was, however, largely confined to political elites until the 1840s, when it entered the popular imagination through the writings of the historians Jules Michelet and Edgar Quinet of the Collège de France who declared "la guerre aux jesuites", and the novelist Eugène Sue who in his best-seller Le Juif errant depicted the Jesuits as a "secret society bent on world domination by all available means".^[14] Sue's heroine, Adrienne de Cardoville, said that she could not think about Jesuits "without ideas of darkness, of venom and of nasty black reptiles being involuntarily aroused in me".^[15]

Many, since Albert Pike's Morals and Dogma was first published in 1871, have come to view the Freemasons as the lineal heirs of the Knights Templar, but other conspiracy theorists ascribe that role to the Jesuits, citing Pike in the aforementioned work:

Hugues de Payens himself had not that keen and far-sighted intellect nor that grandeur of purpose which afterward distinguished the military founder of another soldiery that became formidable to kings. The Templars were unintelligent and therefore unsuccessful Jesuits.^[16]

Eight hundred Degrees of one kind and another were invented: infidelity and even Jesuitry were taught under the mask of Masonry.^[17]

Others still place all three under the same umbrella, loosely or otherwise:

But before his execution, the Chief of the doomed Order organized and instituted what afterward came to be called the Occult, Hermetic, or Scottish Masonry. In the gloom of his prison, the Grand Master created four Metropolitan Lodges, at Naples for the East, at Edinburgh for the West, at Stockholm for the North, and at Paris for the South.^[18]

German attitudes toward the Jesuits

Jesuit conspiracy theories found fertile soil in Imperial Germany, where anti-Jesuits saw the order as a sinister and extremely powerful organization which was characterized by strict internal discipline, utter unscrupulousness in its choice of methods, and undeviating commitment to the creation of a universal empire which would be ruled by the Papacy. Citing historian Friedrich Heyer's metaphor of the specter of Jesuitism (Jesuitengespenst) and similar imagery from other authors, Róisín Healey writes: "The Jesuit of anti-Jesuit discourse had what might be called an uncanny quality: he was both subhuman and superhuman. Jesuits were allegedly so extreme in their submission to their order that they became like machines and, in their determination to achieve their goals, drew on powers unavailable to other men, through witchcraft. The peculiar location of the Jesuit, at the boundaries of humanity, unsettled the producers and consumers of anti-Jesuit discourse. In this sense, the Jesuit specter haunted imperial Germany."^[19] Healy observes that "feeling themselves haunted by the Jesuits, anti-Jesuits revealed themselves to be less rational than they believed." Their discourse, with its "skewed" perception of reality, "resembled, in certain respects, the 'paranoid style' of politics identified by the American historian, Richard Hofstadter".^[20]

Anti-Jesuitism played an important part in the Kulturkampf, culminating in the Jesuit Law of 1872, endorsed by Otto von Bismarck, which required Jesuits to dissolve their houses in Germany, forbade members from exercising most of their religious functions, and allowed the authorities to deny residency to individual members of the order. Some of the law's provisions were removed in 1904, but it was only repealed in 1917.^[21]

In the 1930s, Jesuit conspiracy theories were made use of by the Nazi Party with the goal of reducing the influence of the Jesuits, who ran secondary schools and engaged in youth work. A propaganda pamphlet, "The Jesuit: The Obscurantist without a Homeland" by Hubert Hermanns, warned against the Jesuits' "dark power" and "mysterious intentions". Declared "public vermin" [Volksschädlinge] by the Nazis, Jesuits were persecuted, interned, and sometimes murdered.^[22]

A notable source of modern conspiracy theories which involve the Jesuits is Vatican Assassins by Eric Jon Phelps.^[23] It is said to allege that Newt Gingrich is "one of the ten most dangerous, Jesuitical politicians of the Pope's 'Holy Roman' Fourteenth Amendment, Cartel-Corporate-Fascist, Socialist-Communist American Empire" and it also alleges that the Jesuits played a role in the Assassination of John F. Kennedy.^[24] Skeptic Bob Blaskiewicz also claims that Phelps told him that the alleged "Grey aliens" are not aliens but creations of Jesuit science.^[25]

Sinking the Titanic

In their book Titanic & Olympic: The Truth Behind the Conspiracy, historians Bruce Beveridge and Steve Hall debunk various conspiracy theories about the sinking of the Titanic, including one that the Jesuits were responsible, which they describe as falling into the category of the "completely ridiculous". According to that theory, in the early 20th century, the Jesuits were seeking a means to fund their schemes and wars. In 1910, at a clandestine meeting which was hosted by J. P. Morgan, seven major financiers, all of whom were either controlled by or in league with the Jesuits, came to an agreement on the need to eliminate outside competition in the banking world and create a central bank which would be backed by the United States Government, a bank which would later be known as the Federal Reserve. This scheme, however, was opposed by certain influential businessmen such as Benjamin Guggenheim, Isidor Straus and John Jacob Astor IV. In order to eliminate those three powerful "enemies", the Jesuits ordered Morgan to build the Titanic and arrange for them to board it for a pre-arranged fatal maiden voyage.^[26]

The theory includes the claim that Captain Edward Smith was a "Jesuit temporal coadjutor".^[27] The "accidental sinking" was arranged by having Smith's "Jesuit master", Father Francis Browne, board the Titanic and order Smith to run his ship at full speed through an ice field on a moonless night, ignoring any ice warnings including those from the lookouts, with the purpose of hitting an iceberg severely enough to cause the ship to founder and the three businessmen to drown. In other words, the Titanic was built and then sunk, and her crew and passengers sacrificed, to eliminate three men. As evidence of Conspiracy on Rome's part, the conspiracy theorists cite Browne asking permission from his Jesuit superior to proceed with some potential wealthy american benefactors, in which he received the reply telegram unambiguously saying "GET OFF THAT SHIP – PROVINCIAL",^[28] and that after the sinking, all opposition to the Federal Reserve disappeared. It was set up in December 1913, and eight months later the Jesuits had sufficient funding to launch a European war. Beveridge and Hall note that the theory never considers "why conspirators in 1910 would feel sinking a ship was an economical way to eliminate 'enemies' or how they would arrange for all three victims to board a specific ship on a specific voyage two years later".^[26]

See also

- List of conspiracy theories
- Alumbrados
- Knights Templar
- Sovereign Military Order of Malta
- Fourth vow
- Anti-Catholicism
- Vatican conspiracy theories
- Pope John Paul I conspiracy theories

References

1. Mosheim, J. Lorenz., Maclaine, A. (1811). An ecclesiastical history ancient and modern from the birth of Christ to the beginning of the eighteenth century, in which the rise, progress, and variations of

- church power are considered in their connexion with the state of learning and philosophy and the political history of Europe during that period.* (<https://babel.hathitrust.org/cgi/pt?id=iau.31858030186971&view=1up&seq=13>) New edition. London: .
2. Nicolini, G. B. (Giovanni Battista). (1854). History of the Jesuits: their origin, progress, doctrines, and designs. (<https://archive.org/details/historyofjesuitsop00nico>) p. 79 London: George Bell and Sons.
 3. Worcester, SJ, T. (<https://regiscollege.ca/faculty-and-staff-directory/faculty-profiles-thomas-worcester-s-j/>) (Ed.). (2017). The Cambridge Encyclopedia of the Jesuits. (<https://www.cambridge.org/core/books/cambridge-encyclopedia-of-the-jesuits/B772B3EF6D740572E3BAD764BFF35DFA>) Cambridge: Cambridge University Press.
 4. Worcester, SJ, T. (<https://regiscollege.ca/faculty-and-staff-directory/faculty-profiles-thomas-worcester-s-j/>) (Ed.). (2017). The Cambridge Encyclopedia of the Jesuits. (<https://www.cambridge.org/core/books/cambridge-encyclopedia-of-the-jesuits/B772B3EF6D740572E3BAD764BFF35DFA>) Cambridge: Cambridge University Press.
 5. Hoensbroech, P. (1911). Fourteen years a Jesuit: a record of personal experience and a criticism. vol. 2 p. 70 London: Cassell.
 6. Bridgett, T. E. (1891). Blunders and Forgeries: Historical Essays (<https://archive.org/details/blundersforgerie00brid>). London: K. Paul. pp. 210 (<https://archive.org/details/blundersforgerie00brid/page/210>).
 7. Arthur Goldwag (7 February 2012). The New Hate: A History of Fear and Loathing on the Populist Right (<https://books.google.com/books?id=0EmTNsNxPpQC&pg=PA48>). Knopf Doubleday Publishing Group. pp. 48–49. ISBN 978-0-307-90707-3.
 8. Kreidler, Marc (2013-04-01). "This Week in Conspiracy: For Fear of a Jesuit Planet I Skeptical Inquirer" (<https://skepticalinquirer.org/exclusive/this-week-in-conspiracy-for-fear-of-a-jesuit-planet/>). Retrieved 2020-07-21.
 9. "Websters Dictionary 1828 - Webster's Dictionary 1828 - Jesuitism" (<http://webstersdictionary1828.com/Home?word=Jesuitism>). Websters Dictionary 1828. Retrieved 2020-07-21.
 10. Carnota, J. S. A. (1871). The Marquis of Pombal (https://books.google.ca/books?id=fDsBAAAAQAAJ&pg=PA131&lpg=PA131&dq=%22exposition+of+the+facts+and+of+the+motives+which+decided+its+conduct%22&source=bl&ots=NMGz-l_ZdE&sig=ACfU3U0Q2Too7RxgllPx9H_fh7NVehvyRA&hl=en&sa=X&ved=2ahUKEwi1nIHWj-rpAhUBmnlEHVVzAEgQ6AEwAHoECAMQAQ#v=onepage&q=%22exposition%20of%20the%20facts%20and%20of%20the%20motives%20which%20decided%20its%20conduct%22&f=false). London: Longmans, Green, Reader, and Dyer.
 11. Scott, H. M. "Religion and Realpolitik: The Due De Choiseul, the Bourbon Family Compact, and the Attack on the Society of Jesus, 1758-1775." p. 47 The International History Review, vol. 25, no. 1, 2003, pp. 37–62. (<https://www.jstor.org/stable/40110276?seq=1>)
 12. Pat McCloskey, O.F.M., Naming Your God: The Search for Mature Images. Notre Dame, Indiana: Ave Maria Press, 1991, pp. 165–166.
 13. Scott, H. M. "Religion and Realpolitik: The Due De Choiseul, the Bourbon Family Compact, and the Attack on the Society of Jesus, 1758-1775." The International History Review, vol. 25, no. 1, 2003, pp. 37–62. (<https://www.jstor.org/stable/40110276?seq=1>)
 14. James Hennesey, S.J. "Review of Geoffrey Cubitt's The Jesuit Myth" (http://findarticles.com/p/article/s/mi_hb6404/is_n1_v56/ai_n28655753/) Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20111208163654/http://findarticles.com/p/articles/mi_hb6404/is_n1_v56/ai_n28655753/) 2011-12-08 at the Wayback Machine, Theological Studies, 56: 1 (March 1995), p. 167.
 15. Quoted in Geoffrey Cubitt, The Jesuit Myth: Conspiracy Theory and Politics in Nineteenth-Century France. Oxford: The Clarendon Press, 1993, p. 182.
 16. Albert Pike, Morals and Dogma, p. 819
 17. Albert Pike, Morals and Dogma, p. 326
 18. Albert Pike, Morals and Dogma, p. 820.
 19. Róisín Healy. The Jesuit Specter in Imperial Germany. Boston: Brill Academic Publishers, 2003, p. 1.

20. Healy, Jesuit Specter, p. 2.
21. Healy, Jesuit Specter, pp. 6-7.
22. "The Jesuit: The Obscurantist without a Homeland" (1933) (http://germanhistorydocs.ghi-dc.org/sub_image.cfm?image_id=2068), German History in Documents and Images.
23. Goldwag, Arthur (23 November 2011). "Vatican Assassins - a one-stop website for conspiratologists" (<https://www.splcenter.org/hatewatch/2011/11/23/vatican-assassins-one-stop-website-conspiratologists>). Southern Poverty Law Center. Retrieved 21 October 2015.
24. "Vatican Assassins: A One-Stop Website for Conspiratologists" (<https://www.splcenter.org/hatewatch/2011/11/23/vatican-assassins-one-stop-website-conspiratologists>). Southern Poverty Law Center. Retrieved 2020-07-21.
25. CSICOP on Jesuit conspiracies (http://www.csicop.org/specialarticles/show/this_week_in_conspiracy_for_fear_of_a_jesuit_planet/): There are no such things as aliens. The 'Grays' are creations of the Jesuits in their deep underground military bases through their genetic experimentation. All the grays are hybrids. They cannot reproduce; they live short lives; they are lesser than what a man is—that's one of the signs of a hybrid. What I maintain is that the Jesuits have perfected their antigravity craft, and god knows what other technology, and so what they did when they crashed at Roswell, they put those little creatures in there.
26. Bruce Beveridge and Steve Hall. Titanic & Olympic: The Truth Behind the Conspiracy. Haverford, Pennsylvania: Infinity Publishing, 2004, p. i.
27. "Temporal coadjutor" is an old-fashioned Latinate term for a Jesuit brother. According to Decree 7 (The Jesuit Brother) (http://www.jesuitportal.bc.edu/research/documents/1995_decree7gc34/), paragraph 12, of the 34th General Congregation of the Society of Jesus (1995), "the term 'temporal coadjutor' is no longer in common use among us" and therefore, "in our official and other texts, only the term 'brother' or 'Jesuit brother' should be used."
28. Roche, Jennifer (17 April 2012). "How Holy Obedience Saved a Priest's Life on Titanic" (<https://www.ncregister.com/daily-news/how-holy-obedience-saved-a-priests-life-on-titanic>). National Catholic Register. EWTN News, Inc. Retrieved 13 August 2017.

Retrieved from "https://en.wikipedia.org/w/index.php?title=Jesuit_conspiracy_theories&oldid=1027877375"

This page was last edited on 10 June 2021, at 14:35 (UTC).

Text is available under the Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike License; additional terms may apply. By using this site, you agree to the Terms of Use and Privacy Policy. Wikipedia® is a registered trademark of the Wikimedia Foundation, Inc., a non-profit organization.

Controversies about Opus Dei

Opus Dei is a personal prelature within the Roman Church that has been the subject of numerous controversies. The organisation is sometimes referred to as "Santa Mafia"^[1] or "Holy Mafia"^[2] due to questionable business activities. Those activities include the "systematic" baby-trafficking of "around 300,000" stolen babies under the Spanish dictator Franco.^[3]

Throughout its history, Opus Dei has been criticized by many, including by numerary members who knew the founder and had roles in Opus Dei's internal government.^{[4][5][6][7][8][9]} The reports by former members in the USA, England, Spain, Latin America, France, Germany, and other countries are published. Journalists have described it as "the most controversial force in the Catholic Church" and its founder Josemaría Escrivá as a "polarizing" figure.^{[10][11][12]}

The canonization process of Escrivá has been described as unreliable (<https://www.newsweek.com/questionable-saint-197568>). Former members who worked and lived with him for years reported that they "did not recognize" the highly flattering portrait of Escrivá promoted by Opus Dei at the time of the canonization process as the same man they had known. Numerous members also reported being excluded from the process because prelate Javier Echevarría feared that they would reveal unflattering facts about Escrivá. Another former member has reported that John Paul II allowed an unusually swift canonization of Escrivá because Opus Dei had bailed out the Vatican Bank with $250 million in 1985. Those who question the infallibility of the canonization of Escrivá note that John Paul II was naïve in the cases of Theodore McCarrick and Marcial Maciel,^[13] both of whom procured large sums of money for the Vatican,^{[14][15][16][17][18][19]} like Opus Dei.

Controversies about Opus Dei have centered on allegations of secretiveness,^[20] including the cover-up of sexual abuse in Spain, Mexico, Uruguay, Chile, and the United States;^{[21][22][23][24][25][26][27][28][29][30][31]} recruiting methods aimed at teenagers becoming numeraries; the illicit use of psychiatric drugs in its central headquarters; the misleading of its lay faithful about their status and rights under Canon Law; the "mortification of the flesh" practiced by its celibate members (cilice, discipline, and sleeping on a board);^[32] elitism and misogyny; and support of authoritarian or right-wing governments, including the reactionary Franco regime.^[33]

According to former members of Opus Dei, the controversies about Opus Dei are rooted in practices institutionalized while Escrivá was alive and are written into internal documents and orally-transmitted customs that have not been reviewed by the Catholic Church.

Some of the more famous former numeraries who have reported on these matters are: Maria del Carmen Tapia (<https://www.amazon.com/Beyond-Threshold-Life-Opus-Dei/dp/0826410960>), Secretary to Escrivá in Rome and commissioned by Escrivá to start the women's branch of Opus Dei in Venezuela; Vladimir Felzmann, a numerary priest;^[7] Miguel Fisac, who accompanied Escrivá across the Pyrenees during the Spanish Civil War and lived for years with him in Rome; Antonio Perez Tenessa, Secretary General of Opus Dei and regional director of Opus Dei in Spain; and María Angustias Moreno.

Opus Dei has also been criticized for allegedly seeking independence and more influence within the Catholic Church.^[34]

According to some journalists, criticisms against Opus Dei are based on jealousy or fabrications by opponents.^{[10][35][11][36][37]} Critics respond that some of these journalists are associated with Opus Dei,^{[38][39]} and that none of them interviewed numeraries who left Opus Dei in protest or examined internal governing documents.

Defenders of Opus Dei point out that John Paul II and other Catholic leaders have endorsed Opus Dei's teaching on the sanctifying value of work, and its fidelity to Catholic beliefs.^{[40][41]}

Contents

Historical opposition from Jesuits

Corporal mortification

Allegations of aggressive recruiting

Allegations of being highly controlling

Allegations of secrecy

Legal disputes

Women

Alleged independence and influence within the Roman Catholic Church

Objections to critics

Secularism

Jesuits and liberal Catholics

Controversy as a sign of contradiction

See also

References

Books and notes

External links

Historical opposition from Jesuits

Josemaría Escrivá had a Jesuit priest as a spiritual director (Fr. Sánchez) at the time that he founded Opus Dei (1928ff.).^[42] As a result, he apparently based some of the practices of Opus Dei on the Constitutions of the Society of Jesus,^[43] such as: required manifestation of conscience to a superior, seeking prestigious people for membership, a military-style hierarchical authority structure,^[44] and an emphasis on blind obedience as a means of efficiency in the apostolate.^[45]

Nevertheless, the Superior-General of the Society of Jesus Fr. Włodimir Ledochowski (1866–1942) later told the Vatican he considered Opus Dei "very dangerous for the Church in Spain." He described it as having a "secretive character" and saw "signs in it of a covert inclination to dominate the world with a form of Christian Masonry."^[46] In the 1950's, some Jesuits told Italian parents of members of Opus Dei that their sons were being led to damnation.

Allegations like this from within well-regarded ecclesiastical circles ("the opposition by good people," as Escrivá called it), were interpreted by Escrivá as misunderstandings or jealousies, and defenders of Opus Dei today claim that present-day criticisms are merely vestiges of this old prejudice.^[10] Specifically, they argue that criticism of Opus Dei by members of the Society of Jesus was caused by these Jesuits' not understanding the difference between Opus Dei and religious orders, and that this misunderstanding continues among people with a "clerical" or "religious" mentality. For Opus Dei officially describes itself^[47] in contrast to "religious" (monastic) life: ordinary lay Christians living out their baptismal call to holiness without being externally distinguished from other citizens.

Messori, a journalist associated with Opus Dei, also identifies political ideology as the root of some controversies involving some Jesuits. After Vatican II certain sectors of the Church became politically and theologically "liberal," including Jesuits in Latin America who were experimenting with "liberation theology." In contrast, some Opus Dei laymen had been working for the far-right Franco regime in Spain and similar regimes in Latin America. Escrivá himself gave a spiritual retreat to Franco, and the numerary priest and bishop Juan Luis Cipriani Thorne was reportedly friendly with Peru's president Fujimori and unsupportive of human rights advocates.^{[48][49][50]} Messori emphasizes, however, that Opus Dei has also had members from left-wing parties such as the UK Labour Party (see Opus Dei and politics).^[51]

Corporal mortification

Much public attention has focused on Opus Dei's encouragement of the practice of bodily mortification, especially after descriptions of the practice appeared in the popular novel The Da Vinci Code.^[52]

Opus Dei's celibate members (numeraries, numerary assistants, and associates) practice three forms of corporal mortification that were traditionally used in religious orders and also by some laypeople in Catholic countries such as Spain.^[53] One of the more controversial forms of mortification is the use of a cilice, a small metal chain with inwardly pointing spikes that is worn around the upper thigh. The cilice's spikes cause pain and may leave small marks, but typically do not cause bleeding.^[54] Numeraries, associates, and numerary assistants are expected wear a cilice for two hours each day except feast days. Another mortification is to whip themselves with a small "discipline" (a corded rope whip) for a few minutes once a week while saying a prayer, as a participation in Jesus' scourging. (Escrivá had special whips for himself with metal tips on the end; these caused bleeding.^[55]) Additionally, female numeraries only are required to sleep on a board instead of a mattress; former female members have explained that Escrivá justified this rule by saying that since numerary women had to give up having children, they needed this mortification to keep them emotionally strong. Male numeraries are expected to sleep on the floor one night a week instead. Supernumeraries and associates, who do not live in Opus Dei centers (and hence share a bed or bedroom with family), are instead expected or encouraged to sleep without a pillow one night per week.

Closeup of a cilice—a small metal chain with inwardly pointing spikes

Mortification ("dying to oneself") has had a long history within the Catholic Church, e.g. fasting on certain days with prayers, etc. Corporal mortification of the type practiced by Opus Dei celibates, however, is a rare practice for modern Catholics. Opus Dei points out mortification was practiced by many highly revered individuals such as Mother Teresa, Óscar Romero and Padre Pio.^[56] Escrivá accused the secularised world of inconsistency in accepting physical pain and sacrifice in other domains (such as athletics, business, and personal beautification), but objecting to such acts when done for a religious purpose.

Allegations of aggressive recruiting

Opponents allege Opus Dei uses cult-like practices in recruitment. For instance, Jesuit priest and writer James Martin wrote that Opus Dei puts great emphasis on recruiting, and pointed to Escriva's writings which say "You must kill yourselves for proselytism."^[57] David Clark, a consultant who specialises in helping people leave cults, claimed in 2006 that Opus Dei used a cult-like recruitment technique called "love bombing", in which potential members are showered with flattery and admiration by members of the organization in order to entice them into joining.^[58] The mother of a member at Harvard University claimed the group separated her daughter from her family, and in 1991 founded Opus Dei Awareness Network, a group that aims to provide information and critique on the group's practices.^[59]

Allegations of being highly controlling

Critics accuse the organization of maintaining an extremely high degree of control over its members. Ex-members claim that Opus Dei directors^[60] read letters of the members. According to a 2006 Wayback Machine (https://web.archive.org/web/*/http://www.bbc.co.uk/spanish/specials/1428_od_radiografi_a/page12.shtml) report by BBC Mundo Jose Carlos Martin de la Hoz, priest of the prelature in Spain, said this practice existed in the past, but clarified it was a manifestation of opening and confidence of the faithfuls of the Opus Dei.^[61] In 2001, an Opus Dei spokesman said the practice of reading the mail of numeraries was abandoned years ago,^[62] since written letters are now rarely used for correspondence. As an additional means of guidance, it was deemed fitting for numeraries to first show to or tell the Directors about the contents of the letter, especially when the letter would need to touch on vocation.

About 20% of Opus Dei are celibate. They live in special residential centers where they lead extremely structured lives— critics say this practice isolates its members from the rest of society and allows Opus Dei to have nearly total control over its members' environments. For some books, a numerary's direct supervisor can provide permission, but for other books, permission can only be given by the prelate in Rome. According to some critics, Opus Dei pressures numeraries to cut off social contact with non-members, including their own families.^[58] Numeraries in Opus Dei generally hand over their entire salaries to the organization, and critics say this makes numeraries extremely dependent upon the organization.

Opus Dei denies exerting any undue control over its members, and supporters say Opus Dei places an extraordinary emphasis on the personal freedom of its members. They quote Escrivá who said "Respect for its members' freedom is an essential condition for Opus Dei's very existence."

Supporters defend Opus Dei's list of inappropriate books by pointing out the Vatican itself maintained a similar list until the 1960s. To explain the celibate lifestyle of numeraries and their relationships with their families, supporters quote Jesus's comment that "He who loves his father or mother more than me is not worthy of me."^[63]

Allegations of secrecy

Critics have often accused Opus Dei of intense secrecy. Due to its secrecy critics such as the Jesuit Wladimir Ledóchowski sometimes refer to Opus Dei as a "Catholic", "christian", or "white" form of Freemasonry.^{[64][65][66][67][68]} Opus Dei does not publish memberships lists, and members generally do not publicly reveal they are part of the organization. ^[69] According to its 1950 constitution, members are forbidden to reveal their membership without the express permission of their superiors.^[70] This practice has led to rampant speculation about who may or may not be a member of Opus Dei. The 1950 constitution similarly prohibited even revealing how many people were members of Opus Dei.^[71]

Additionally, critics claim Opus Dei is secretive about its activities. Opponents cite the fact Opus Dei often will not directly reveal its relationship to many of its institutions.^[69] According to critics, Opus Dei does not allow many of its own rules to be made public. For example, the 1950 Constitution states, "These Constitutions, published instructions, and those which in the future may be published, and the other things pertaining to the government of the Institute are never to be made public. Indeed, without the permission of the Father [Escrivá] those documents which are written in the Latin language may not be translated into [other] languages." Similarly, Opus Dei does not reveal details about its finances.^[72]

Allen says, "Opus Dei cannot be called secretive." Accusations of secrecy, he says, stem from mistakenly equating its members with monks and expecting members to behave as clerics. Instead, its lay members, like normal professionals, are ultimately responsible for their personal actions, and do not externally represent the prelature which provides them spiritual training. Opus Dei itself, he says, provides abundant information.^[73] Supporters claim Opus Dei's relative silence stems not from a secretive nature, but rather is the result of a deep commitment to privacy, humility, and "avoidance of self-aggrandizement."^[73] Supporters argue Opus Dei "has the obligation to respect its members' privacy"^[74] They say members of Opus Dei do generally reveal their membership status to their family and closest friends. The historical opposition to Opus Dei may also have contributed to the need for privacy— as one author speculates, "I think part of it, too, is that, historically, because a lot of people didn't like Opus Dei, there was just a sense that it would be better not to be too upfront because you're just inviting hostility."^[75]

Legal disputes

Recently, Opus Dei has twice been engaged in legal disputes in connection with their trademark (CTM Registration No. 844.860 OPUS DEI (word)),^[76] as they claimed infringement firstly in 2002 regarding the magazine "Opus Gay" and lost,^[77] and secondly regarding the currently ongoing case of the philosophy-themed atheist card game "Opus-Dei: Existence After Religion".

Women

The role of women in Opus Dei is another source of criticism. Women are treated as equal in Opus Dei but are separated from men in their personal spiritual training. In many male Opus Dei centres, women visit every evening to cook for the men and then leave without social interaction, as Escrivá recognised that despite the equality of men and women, centres for men may need a female influence to function.

Alleged independence and influence within the Roman Catholic Church

Critics have argued that Opus Dei's unique status as a personal prelature within the Church gives it too much independence. According to critics, elevating Opus Dei to the status of a personal prelature allows its members to "go about their business almost untouched by criticism or oversight by bishops".^[78] According to critics, Opus Dei has such autonomy it has become essentially a "church within a church".^[79]

Catholic officials say church authorities have even greater control of Opus Dei now its head is a prelate appointed by the Pope, and they argue members are "even more conscious of belonging to the Church".^[80] They point to canon law which states that Opus Dei members remain under "jurisdiction of the diocesan bishop in what the law lays down for all the ordinary [Catholics]". Similarly, they point out that Opus Dei must obtain permission from the local bishop before establishing an Opus Dei center within the diocese.

Some critics claim Opus Dei exerts a disproportionately large influence within the Church itself. They point to the unusually hasty (and otherwise irregular) process in which Escriva was canonized.^[81] Pope John Paul II was a supporter of Opus Dei, and during his pontificate the head of the Vatican press office was a member of Opus Dei. An Opus Dei spokesman says "the influence of Opus Dei in the [Vatican] has been exaggerated."^[82] Of the nearly 200 cardinals in the Roman Catholic Church, only two are known to be members of Opus Dei.^{[83][84]} Similarly, of the nearly 4000 bishops, only 20 are known to be members of Opus Dei.^{[84][85]}

John L. Allen Jr. said that Escriva's relatively quick canonization does not have anything to do with power but with improvements in procedures and John Paul II's decision to make Escriva's sanctity and message known.^[10] (see Opus Dei and politics)

Objections to critics

Supporters of Opus Dei say criticisms of it are often motivated by bad faith, jealousy, vengefulness, or other biases on the part of the critics.^[86] In some cases, supporters accuse critics of merely misunderstanding Opus Dei, its mission, or its novelty.

Secularism

Opus Dei's supporters often see criticism as motivated by a religious bias or political agenda. Many supporters say criticisms of Opus Dei stem from a generalized disapproval of spirituality, Christianity, or Catholicism.^[87] Some supporters see criticisms of Opus Dei as one facet of a larger prejudice against Catholics.^[88]

Jesuits and liberal Catholics

Many supporters of Opus Dei believe the Jesuits hold a grudge against Opus Dei borne of jealousy and ideological differences. Richard John Neuhaus said: "The opposition to Opus Dei cannot be explained without at least some reference to jealousy. Competition and jealousy among religious movements in the Catholic Church is nothing new, and some Opus Dei members are not hesitant to suggest that theirs is now the role in the Church once played by the Jesuits. The Jesuits, who were once viewed as the elite corps of the papacy, have in recent decades had a sharply attenuated relationship to the hierarchical leadership of the Church. The famous "fourth vow" of allegiance to the pope is now frequently understood by Jesuits as a vow to the papacy in general---meaning the papacy as they think it ought to be."

"Nothing attracts criticism like success," says author Robert Royal, "In the seventy years since its founding, the Work has grown to almost eighty thousand members, over half in Europe, another third in the Americas, and the rest scattered throughout the world. As Vittorio Messori notes, this movement, which was once thought of as a pre-Vatican II fossil by progressives, has not only survived the heyday of progressive Catholic movements, but continues growing while the left in general, religious and lay, is shrinking."

According to Time magazine, "church liberals, once riding high, have understood for decades that Rome does not incline their way. They feel abandoned, says John L. Allen Jr., 'and whenever you feel that way, there's a natural desire to find someone to blame.'"

The animosity from within the Church derives from the conflicting views of the role of the Church following Vatican II. At the time, the superior of the Jesuits, Pedro Arrupe, "symbolised the new post-Vatican II ethos, calling his Jesuits to be 'men for others', which in practice sometimes meant joining movements for peace and justice," while "Escrivá walked another path, insisting on the primacy of traditional forms of prayer, devotion, and the sacramental life." Making Opus Dei a "personal prelature" and Escrivá a saint "seemed like a clampdown on the Jesuits---almost as if a torch was being passed." As Allen points out, some of Opus Dei's harshest critics were once Jesuit priests."^[89]

According to Vittorio Messori, a major source of hostility towards Opus Dei is the application of political categories to a religious phenomenon such as Opus Dei. These groups against Opus Dei, he says, see everything happening in the world only through the prism of power-seeking, that is, of political spectrums of people in the left versus people on the right. Since Opus Dei is one of the major religious groups, the application of politically motivated campaigns against it is even stronger.

According to Allen, Opus Dei became the lightning rod for the attacks of liberals in the culture wars when John Paul II, perceived as a conservative by the liberals, granted several favorable things to Opus Dei such as beatification, canonization of the founder, and personal prelature status.

Controversy as a sign of contradiction

Some supporters of Opus Dei have viewed the controversy surrounding the organization as a "Sign of contradiction." Proponents of this view hold that blessed, divinely inspired Christian organizations will always be criticized, just as Jesus was criticized by his contemporaries. Accordingly, they see the very existence of critics as further proof of the organization's sanctity.^{[90][91]} A theological explanation is given by John Carmel Heenan, Cardinal Archbishop of Westminster. He commented in 1975: "One of the proofs of God's favour is to be a sign of contradiction. Almost all founders of societies in the Church have suffered. Monsignor Escrivá de Balaguer is no exception. Opus Dei has been attacked and its motives misunderstood. In this country and elsewhere an inquiry has always vindicated Opus Dei."^[92]

According to Catholic tradition, a sign of contradiction points to the presence of Christ or the presence of the divine due to the union of that person or reality with God. In his book, Sign of Contradiction, John Paul II says that "sign of contradiction" might be "a distinctive definition of Christ and of his Church."

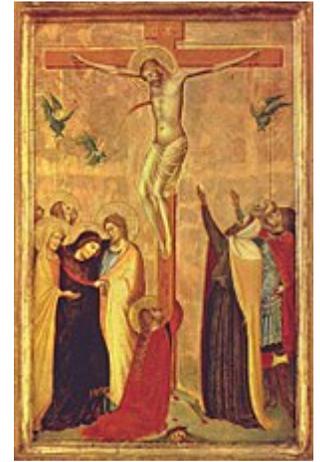

John Paul II stated, in his decree on the heroic virtues of Opus Dei's founder, Josemaría Escrivá: "God allowed him to suffer public attacks. He responded invariably with pardon, to the point of considering his detractors as benefactors. But this Cross was such a source of blessings from heaven that the Servant of God's apostolate [or evangelizing work] spread with astonishing speed."

See also

- Criticism of Pope John Paul II § Opus Dei and Legion of Christ controversies

References

1. SPIEGEL, Peter Hertel, DER. "Vatikan intern: Der Aufstieg der Santa Mafia" (<https://www.spiegel.de/spiegelspecial/a-350114.html>). www.spiegel.de (in German). Retrieved 2021-06-16.
2. Pilapil, Vicente R. (1971). "Opus Dei in Spain" (<https://www.jstor.org/stable/40394504>). The World Today. 27 (5): 211–221. ISSN 0043-9134 (<https://www.worldcat.org/issn/0043-9134>).
3. "On the trail of Spain's stolen children" (https://english.elpais.com/elpais/2011/03/07/inenglish/1299478844_850210.html). EL PAÍS. 2011-03-07. Retrieved 2021-06-16.
4. "Controversy Over Opus Dei" (<https://abcnews.go.com/US/story?id=93081&page=1>). ABC News.
5. Kamm, Henry (Jan 8, 1984). "THE SECRET WORLD OF OPUS DEI (Published 1984)" (<https://www.nytimes.com/1984/01/08/magazine/the-secret-world-of-opus-dei.html>) – via NYTimes.com.
6. "Opus Dei in the United States" (<https://www.americamagazine.org/faith/1995/02/25/opus-dei-united-states-james-martin>). America Magazine. Feb 25, 1995.
7. Maryniak, Irena (1993). "Binding the mind that serves" (<https://journals.sagepub.com/doi/pdf/10.1080/03064229308535487>). Index on Censorship. 22: 24–25. doi:10.1080/03064229308535487 (<https://doi.org/10.1080%2F03064229308535487>). S2CID 144352377 (<https://api.semanticscholar.org/CorpusID:144352377>).
8. "BBC - Religions - Christianity: Opus Dei" (<https://www.bbc.co.uk/religion/religions/christianity/subdivisions/opusdei.shtml>). www.bbc.co.uk.
9. "The real scandal for Opus Dei and the church" (<https://www.ncronline.org/blogs/real-scandal-opus-dei-and-church>). National Catholic Reporter. Sep 27, 2011.
10. John Allen (2005). Opus Dei: An Objective Look Behind the Myths and Reality of the Most Controversial Force in the Catholic Church (<https://archive.org/details/opusdeiobjective00alle>). Doubleday Religion. ISBN 0-385-51449-2.
11. Noam Friedlander (8 October 2005). "What Is Opus Dei? Tales of God, Blood, Money and Faith" (<http://www.timesonline.co.uk/tol/comment/faith/article575959.ece>). The Times. London. Retrieved 10 February 2008.
12. Brennan Hill. "Who Stood For and Against Hitler?" (<http://www.americancatholic.org/Messenger/Feb2006/books.asp>). American Catholic. Retrieved 27 November 2006.
13. Sexual abuse scandal of Marcial Maciel
14. "Marcial Maciel: Mexican founder Legionaries of Christ 'abused 60 minors'" (<https://www.bbc.com/news/world-latin-america-50884518>). Dec 22, 2019 – via www.bbc.com.
15. "Mexican Catholic group says late leader Marcial Maciel abused at least 60 minors" (<https://www.theguardian.com/world/2019/dec/22/mexican-catholic-group-says-late-leader-marcial-maciel-abused-at-least-60-minors>). the Guardian. Dec 22, 2019.

Christ crucified. Jesus Christ who was spoken against, attacked and killed is a sign of contradiction. According to Cardinal Heenan, Opus Dei is a sign of contradiction. On the other hand, liberal Catholics and theologians, like Hans Küng or Juan José Tamayo deny this argument, and says that Opus Dei has a cult-like style

16. "Legionaries of Christ Denounce Founder, Marcial Maciel Degollado (Published 2014)" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2014/02/07/world/legionaries-of-christ-denounce-founder-marcial-maciel-degollado.html>). Feb 6, 2014 – via NYTimes.com.
17. "Vatican faults others for McCarrick's rise, spares Francis" (<https://apnews.com/article/theodore-mccarrick-vatican-investigation-0204b0d67e0685d658bae71cf558383a>). AP NEWS. Nov 10, 2020.
18. http://www.vatican.va/resources/resources_rapporto-card-mccarrick_20201110_en.pdf
19. Delia Gallagher, Hada Messia, Richard Allen Greene, and Rob Picheta. "Vatican admits Pope John Paul II was warned about abusive archbishop Theodore McCarrick, while clearing Francis" (<https://www.cnn.com/2020/11/10/europe/cardinal-theodore-mccarrick-vatican-report-intl/index.html>). CNN.
20. David Van Biema (19 April 2006). "The Ways of Opus Dei" (<http://www.time.com/time/magazine/article/0,9171,1184078,00.html>). Time. Retrieved 24 March 2007.
21. Núñez, Julio (Sep 28, 2020). "El Supremo rebaja la pena de 11 a dos años de cárcel al profesor pederasta del colegio Gaztelueta" (<https://elpais.com/sociedad/2020-09-28/el-supremo-rebaja-la-pena-de-11-a-dos-anos-de-carcel-al-profesor-pederasta-del-colegio-gaztelueta.html>). EL PAÍS.
22. Andueza, Iker Rioja (Oct 31, 2020). "Habla la víctima de abusos sexuales en el colegio Gaztelueta del Opus Dei: "No me sorprendería que hubiese más casos. No hay que tener miedo a contarlo" " (https://www.eldiario.es/uskadi/habla-victima-abusos-sexuales-colegio-gaztelueta-opus-dei-no-sorprenderia-hubiese-casos-no-hay-miedo-contarlo_1_6377997.html). ElDiario.es.
23. "Dos exalumnos denuncian los abusos sexuales de un profesor de religión de Montgat" (<https://noticierouniversal.com/sucesos/dos-exalumnos-denuncian-los-abusos-sexuales-de-un-profesor-de-religion-de-montgat/>). Noticiero Universal. Feb 7, 2019.
24. <https://www.diaridegirona.cat/girona/2019/01/31/cinc-exalumnes-del-bell-lloc/959833.html>
25. Sevilla, Diario de (Jul 6, 2020). "Condenado un cura del Opus Dei por unos abusos sexuales ocurridos en Sevilla" (https://www.diariodesevilla.es/sevilla/Condenado-cura-Opus-Dei-abusos-sexuales-Sevilla_0_1480052295.html). Diario de Sevilla.
26. "Opus Dei sancionó a un destacado numerario que admitió abuso sexual más de 30 años después" (<https://www.subrayado.com.uy/opus-dei-sanciono-un-destacado-numerario-que-admitio-abuso-sexual-mas-30-anos-despues-n582383>). subrayado.com.uy.
27. "Infancia Robada, al Opus: "Una respuesta inapropiada, extemporánea e insuficiente" " (https://www.religiondigital.org/opinion/respuesta-inapropiada-extemporanea-insuficiente-infancia-robada-opus-dei-abusos-sentencia_0_2250374958.html). Religión Digital. Jul 16, 2020.
28. " "Le dio un beso en la boca": buscan a director de colegio en Guanajuato" (<https://www.informador.mx/mexico/Le-dio-un-beso-en-la-boca-buscan-a-director-de-colegio-del-Opus-Dei-20201124-0078.html>). El Informador :: Noticias de Jalisco, México, Deportes & Entretenimiento.

29. S.A.P, El Mercurio (Feb 1, 2019). "Opus Dei informa que recibió dos denuncias por abusos en contra del sacerdote Patricio Astorquiza I Emol.com" (<https://www.emol.com/noticias/Nacional/2019/02/01/936418/Pr elatura-del-Opus-Dei-informa-que-recibio-dos-denuncias-en-contra-un-sac erdote-de-la-congregacion.html>). Emol.
30. "Denuncian a director de colegio del Opus Dei por abuso de alumno en León" (<https://noticieros.televisa.com/ultimas-noticias/denuncian-a-director -de-colegio-del-opus-dei-por-abuso-de-alumno-en-leon/>). Noticieros Televisa. Nov 24, 2020.
31. Boorstein, Michelle. "Opus Dei paid $977,000 to settle sexual misconduct claim against prominent Catholic priest" (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/ religion/2019/01/08/opus-dei-paid-settle-sexual-misconduct-claim-against- prominent-catholic-priest/>) – via www.washingtonpost.com.
32. "Inside Opus Dei | Access Online" (<https://accessonlinefrontprod.ao.apps.n bcuni.com/articles/inside-opus-dei-54393>). Access.
33. "ICSA - Founded 1979 - Opus Dei Over Time" (<https://www.icsahome.com/ articles/opus-dei-moncada-en5-2>). www.icsahome.com.
34. Michael Walsh (2004). Opus Dei: An Investigation into the Powerful Secretive Society within the Catholic Church. Harper San Francisco. ISBN 0-06-075068-5.
35. Maggy Whitehouse (2006). Opus Dei: The Truth Behind the Myth. Hermes House. ISBN 0-681-35584-0.
36. Messori, Vittorio (1997). Opus Dei, Leadership and Vision in Today's Catholic Church (<https://archive.org/details/opusdeileadershi00mess>). Regnery Publishing. ISBN 0-89526-450-1.
37. Patrice de Plunkett. "Entretien avec l'auteur de L'Opus Dei – Enquête sur le " monstre " " (<https://web.archive.org/web/20070930210339/http://www.z enit.org/article-12784?l=french>). Zenit News Agency. Archived from the original (<http://www.zenit.org/article-12784?l=french>) on 30 September 2007. Retrieved 20 June 2007.
38. "OPUS DEI | Kirkus Reviews" (<https://www.kirkusreviews.com/book-review s/vittorio-messori/opus-dei/>) – via www.kirkusreviews.com.
39. "Four Courts Press founder who was 'a model of publishing integrity'" (<http://www.irishtimes.com/news/four-courts-press-founder-who-was-a-model- of-publishing-integrity-1.706861>). The Irish Times.
40. "Papal statements on Opus Dei" (<http://www.opusdei.us/art.php?p=12238>). Opus Dei Official Site. Retrieved 27 November 2006.
41. "Quotes on Opus Dei from U.S. Bishops" (<http://www.opusdei.us/art.php?p =7717>). Retrieved 11 December 2016.
42. E.g. A. Vazquez de Prada, The Founder of Opus Dei: Volume I (Scepter Publishing, 1997), pp. 286-7, 403-4, 431.
43. <https://jesuitas.lat/uploads/the-constitutions-of-the-society-of-jesus-and- their-complementary- norms/Constitutions%20and%20Norms%20SJ%20ingls.pdf>
44. "Harsh, Unyielding Militancy Of Opus Dei Leadership - from the Catholic Herald Archive" (<http://archive-uat.catholicherald.co.uk/article/20th-novemb er-1987/5/harsh-unyielding-militancy-of-opus-dei-leadership>). archive- uat.catholicherald.co.uk.

45. "To the Members of the Society in Portugal | Georgetown University Library" (<https://www.library.georgetown.edu/woodstock/ignatius-letters/letter25>). www.library.georgetown.edu.
46. Andres Vasquez de Prada: The Founder of Opus Dei. The Life of Josemaria Escrivá. Vol II: God and Daring., Scepter Publishers 1997, p. 387.
47. opusdei.org
48. "Peruvian cardinal shows influence by getting Fujimori to meet with Kuczynski" (<https://www.efe.com/efe/english/world/peruvian-cardinal-shows-influence-by-getting-fujimori-to-meet-with-kuczynski/50000262-3130240>). www.efe.com.
49. "Everything you need to know about human rights in Peru" (<https://www.amnesty.org/en/countries/americas/peru/report-peru/>). www.amnesty.org.
50. "Peru" (<https://www.theadvocatesforhumanrights.org/peru>). www.theadvocatesforhumanrights.org.
51. Pierce, Andrew (24 September 2008). "The rise and fall of Ruth Kelly the youngest ever woman Cabinet minister" (<https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/politics/labour/3073989/The-rise-and-fall-of-Ruth-Kelly-the-youngest-ever-woman-Cabinet-minister.html>) – via www.telegraph.co.uk.
52. "Accuracy of best-selling 'Da Vinci Code' comes under fire" (<https://opusdei.org/en-uk/article/accuracy-of-best-selling-da-vinci-code-comes-under-fire/>). opusdei.org.
53. "The Mysteries of Opus Dei" (<https://www.usnews.com/usnews/culture/articles/031222/22jesus.b.htm>). US News and World Report. 2003-12-22. Retrieved 2006-11-28.
54. "They Whip Themselves, Don't They?" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20061011223751/http://davincicode-opusdei.com/wp-print.php?p=62>). The Da Vinci Code & Opus Dei. Archived from the original (<http://davincicode-opusdei.com/wp-print.php?p=62>) on 2006-10-11. Retrieved 2006-11-27.
55. See the biography sanctioned by the prelature: Vazquez de Prada, The Founder of Opus Dei
56. "Opus Dei and corporal mortification" (<http://www.opusdei.org/art.php?w=32&p=9316>). Opus Dei Official Site. Retrieved 2006-11-27.
57. Opus Dei In the United States (<http://americamagazine.org/opus-dei>) James Martin, S.J., America Press, February 25, 1995
58. Abbott Karloff (2006-05-14). "Opus Dei members: 'Da Vinci' distorted" (<http://www.religionnewsblog.com/14640/opus-dei-members-da-vinci-distorted>). Daily Record. Retrieved 2006-11-27. mirrored on ReligionNewsBlog.com
59. Elizabeth W. Green (2003-04-10). "Opening the doors of Opus Dei" (<http://www.thecrimson.com/article/2003/4/10/opening-the-doors-of-opus-dei/?page=single>). The Harvard Crimson.
60. Stephen Tomkins: The Dei today (http://news.bbc.co.uk/2/hi/uk_news/magazine/4194567.stm), BBC News, January 24, 2005
61. BBC Mundo: Radiografía del Opus Dei (http://www.bbc.co.uk/spanish/specials/1428_od_radiografia/page12.shtml) (span.)
62. "Interview with Opus Dei Spokesman Brian Finnerty, 2001" (https://web.archive.org/web/20040806162500/http://abcnews.go.com/sections/us/DailyNews/opusdei_qna.html). ABCNEWS. Archived from the original (https://abcnews.go.com/sections/us/DailyNews/opusdei_qna.html) on August 6, 2004.

63. Christoph Schonborn, O.P. "Are there sects in the Catholic Church?" (<http://www.ewtn.com/library/CHRIST/ORSECTS.HTM>). Eternal Word Television Network. Retrieved 2006-11-27., Matthew 10:37
64. Maria del Carmen Tapia. "Beyond the Threshold" (<https://archive.nytimes.com/www.nytimes.com/books/first/t/tapia-threshold.html>). archive.nytimes.com. Retrieved 2018-03-30.
65. Preston, Paul (1986). The triumph of democracy in Spain. London: Methuen. p. 28. ISBN 9780416900101. OCLC 14586560 (<https://www.worldcat.org/oclc/14586560>).
66. Harding, Nick (2005). Secret societies. Edison, N.J.: Chartwell Books, Inc. p. 107. ISBN 9780785821700. OCLC 78244509 (<https://www.worldcat.org/oclc/78244509>).
67. Hesse, Alexander (2015), Geheimbünde Freimaurer und Illuminaten, Opus Dei und Schwarze Hand (in German), Reinbek: Rowohlt Taschenbuch, p. 54, ISBN 9783499630491
68. Augias, Corrado (2012), Die Geheimnisse des Vatikan : Eine andere Geschichte der Papststadt (in German) (1., neue Ausg ed.), München: Beck, C H, p. 415, ISBN 9783406630927
69. David Van Biema The Ways of Opus Dei (<http://www.time.com/time/magazine/article/0,9171,1184078-4,00.html>), TIME, April 16, 2006. Retrieved December 5, 2007. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20160314224325/http://content.time.com/time/magazine/article/0,9171,1184078-4,00.html>) 14 March 2016 at the Wayback Machine
70. Van Biema, David (2006-04-16). "The Ways of Opus Dei" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20070112084054/https://time.com/time/magazine/article/0,9171,1184078-3,00.html>). Time. Archived from the original (<http://www.time.com/time/magazine/article/0,9171,1184078-3,00.html>) on 12 Jan 2007. Retrieved 2010-04-30.
71. "Archived copy" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20060613055409/http://religiousmovements.lib.virginia.edu/nrms/dei.html>). Archived from the original (<http://religiousmovements.lib.virginia.edu/nrms/dei.html>) on 2006-06-13. Retrieved 2006-06-07.
72. Opus Dei (<https://www.pbs.org/wnet/religionandethics/week444/cover.html>) PBS Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20020415025041/https://www.pbs.org/wnet/religionandethics/week444/cover.html>) 15 April 2002 at the Wayback Machine
73. Edward Pentin. "Profiles: John Allen" (https://web.archive.org/web/20071016203316/http://theamericanmag.com/article.php?show_issue_id=24&show_article_id=320). The American. Archived from the original (http://www.theamericanmag.com/article.php?show_issue_id=24&show_article_id=320) on 2007-10-16. Retrieved 2006-11-27.
74. Rafael Gómez Pérez (1992). Opus Dei. Una Explicación. (Spanish) 3rd ed., Ediciones Rialp, Madrid, ISBN 84-321-2892-9
75. "MSN - Outlook, Office, Skype, Bing, Breaking News, and Latest Videos" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20050326055622/http://www.msnbc.msn.com/id/7288539/site/newsweek/>). www.msnbc.msn.com. Archived from the original (<https://www.msnbc.msn.com/id/7288539/site/newsweek/>) on 2005-03-26.

76. "Archived copy" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110719121833/http://www.demagames.dk/archive/opus-dei.co.uk.pdf>) (PDF). Archived from the original (<http://www.demagames.dk/archive/opus-dei.co.uk.pdf>) (PDF) on 2011-07-19. Retrieved 2010-05-14.
77. "Chile settles row over gay paper" (<http://news.bbc.co.uk/2/hi/4138131.stm>). BBC News. 2004-12-31.
78. "Essay: Opus Dei and The Da Vinci Code" (https://web.archive.org/web/20060819163608/http://ncronline.org/NCR_Online/archives2/2004c/091004/091004p.php). Archived from the original (http://ncronline.org/NCR_Online/archives2/2004c/091004/091004p.php) on Aug 19, 2006.
79. "Opus Dei in the open" (<https://archive.today/20120712030219/http://bulletin.ninemsn.com.au/article.aspx?id=132134>). The Bulletin. 2002-10-02. Archived from the original (<http://bulletin.ninemsn.com.au/article.aspx?id=132134>) on 2012-07-12. Retrieved 2006-05-16.
80. Francesco Monterisi. "The Personal Prelature: a Framework which Enriches the Communion of the Church" (<http://www.opusdei.us/art.php?p=20829>). Opus Dei website. Retrieved 2007-02-17.
81. Paul Baumann. "Let There Be Light: A look inside the hidden world of Opus Dei" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20060829105702/http://www.washingtonmonthly.com/features/2005/0510.baumann.html>). Washington Monthly. Archived from the original (<http://www.washingtonmonthly.com/features/2005/0510.baumann.html>) on 2006-08-29. Retrieved 2006-11-27.
82. "Decoding secret world of Opus Dei" (<http://news.bbc.co.uk/2/hi/europe/4249444.stm>). BBC News. 2005-09-16. Retrieved 2010-04-30.
83. Associated Press, "Opus Dei backs new pope", CNN, April 19, 2005
84. "Prelates" (<http://www.gcatholic.org/hierarchy/prelates.htm>). www.gcatholic.org.
85. Sinikka Tarvainen (Mar 8, 2006). "'Da Vinci Code' puts shadowy Opus Dei in the spotlight" (https://web.archive.org/web/20070201211437/http://news.monstersandcritics.com/europe/article_1135452.php/Da_Vinci_Code_puts_shadowy_Opus_Dei_in_the_spotlight). monstersandcritics.com. Archived from the original (http://news.monstersandcritics.com/europe/article_1135452.php/Da_Vinci_Code_puts_shadowy_Opus_Dei_in_the_spotlight) on 2007-02-01. Retrieved 2006-12-12.
86. Discussed by Cardinal Josef Höffner in an interview to the Catholic News Service KNA in Germany on 24 August 1984.
87. Julian Herranz, quoted in Javier Espinoza. "Opus Dei is not a Sect" (https://web.archive.org/web/20060513194855/http://english.ohmynews.com/articleview/article_view.asp?menu=c10400&no=279810&rel_no=1). OhmyNews. Archived from the original (http://english.ohmynews.com/articleview/article_view.asp?menu=c10400&no=279810&rel_no=1) on 2006-05-13. Retrieved 2006-11-27.
88. "Christians have bad days, too. But let's track a c..." (http://www.beliefnet.com/story/128/story_12800_1.html) www.beliefnet.com.
89. Telegraph (UK): You can trust them to sell you a car (<https://www.telegraph.co.uk/arts/main.jhtml?xml=/arts/2005/10/23/boall23.xml>), October 23, 2005
90. John Carmel Heenan

91. Read, Piers Paul (2005-10-23). "You can trust them to sell you a car" (<http://www.telegraph.co.uk/culture/books/3647365/You-can-trust-them-to-sell-you-a-car.html>). The Telegraph. London. Retrieved 2006-11-27.
92. Other examples are: Piers Paul Read [1] (<https://www.telegraph.co.uk/arts/main.jhtml?xml=/arts/2005/10/23/boall23.xml>), Messori 1997, Richard Gordon [2] (<http://www.theuniversityconcourse.com/l,1,2-13-1996/Gordon.htm>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20061111112830/http://www.theuniversityconcourse.com/l%2C1%2C2-13-1996/Gordon.htm>) 2006-11-11 at the Wayback Machine

Books and notes

- "Opus Dei," Time Magazine, March 18, 1957. (<https://web.archive.org/web/20111019203250/http://www.time.com/time/magazine/article/0,9171,809216,00.html>)
- William O'Connor. Opus Dei: An Open Book. A Reply to "The Secret World of Opus Dei" by Michael Walsh (https://web.archive.org/web/20071021061054/http://horatio.uap.edu.ph/opusdei/opusdei_chapter1.html). Mercier Press, Dublin 1991, ISBN 0-85342-987-1
- Vittorio Messori (1997). Leadership and Vision in the Catholic Church. Regnery. -- This book has a chapter entitled the Dark Tale and another one titled One Prelature, Many Cults
- Beyond the Threshold A Life in Opus Dei (<https://web.archive.org/web/20160330034552/http://www.nytimes.com/books/first/t/tapia-threshold.html>) by Maria del Carmen Tapia, former numerary, Chapter One
- Religious Movements Homepage: Opus Dei (<https://web.archive.org/web/20060613055409/http://religiousmovements.lib.virginia.edu/nrms/dei.html>) by Corey Hanson, University of Virginia
- ^ Aranda, Antonio, El bullir de la sangre de Cristo, a study of Blessed Josemaria's theological teachings. 2000, professor at the Opus Dei-run Pontifical Atheneum of the Holy Cross
- ^ Belda et al. Holiness and the World, Symposion on Opus Dei by the Opus Dei-run Pontifical Atheneum of the Holy Cross
- ^ Benedict XVI., Letting God Work, an article by then-Cardinal Joseph Ratzinger, published 2002 in the Osservatore Romano
- ^ Basil Hume Guidelines for Opus Dei within the Diocese of Westminster (http://open-site.org/Society/Religion/Christianity/Denominations/Catholicism/Movements/Opus_Dei/) December 2, 1981
- ^ Hans Küng, The Catholic Church : A Short History, 2002 ISBN 0-8129-6762-3 (Quote translated from German original)
- ^ Kim Lawton, Opus Dei (<https://www.pbs.org/wnet/religionandethics/week444/cover.html>) Cover Story of Religion and Ethics, June 29, 2001
- ^ Martin, James, Opus Dei In the United States (<https://www.americamagazine.org/faith/1995/02/25/opus-dei-united-states-james-martin>), 1995, America
- ^ Schmitt, William Opus Dei response to James Martin's article in America (https://web.archive.org/web/20050731092803/http://www.americamagazine.org/articles/opusdei_response.htm)

External links

- Opus Dei official website (<http://www.opusdei.org/>)
- How Opus Dei is still synonymous with homophobia (<https://www.independent.co.uk/news/uk/this-britain/how-opus-dei-is-still-synonymous-with-homophobia-6101303.html>) The Independent, UK/May 10, 2006
- An inside look at Opus Dei (<https://culteducation.com/group/1086-opus-dei/15678-an-inside-look-at-opus-dei.html>) (summary by Rick A. Ross of an article in Time magazine/April 16, 2006)

- Catholic-NYC.org \(http://www.catholic-nyc.org/\) List of Opus Dei organizations in and around NYC
-

Retrieved from "https://en.wikipedia.org/w/index.php?title=Controversies_about_Opus_Dei&oldid=1028825398"

This page was last edited on 16 June 2021, at 07:14 (UTC).

Text is available under the Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike License; additional terms may apply. By using this site, you agree to the Terms of Use and Privacy Policy. Wikipedia® is a registered trademark of the Wikimedia Foundation, Inc., a non-profit organization.

Bible conspiracy theory

A Bible conspiracy theory is any conspiracy theory that posits that much of what is believed about the Bible is a deception created to suppress some secret, ancient truth. Some of these theories claim that Jesus really had a wife and children, or that a group such as the Priory of Sion has secret information about the true descendants of Jesus; some claim that there was a secret movement to cancel books that truly belonged in the Bible, etc.

This subject should not be confused with deliberately fictional Bible conspiracy theories. A number of bestselling modern novels, the most popular of which was The Da Vinci Code, have incorporated elements of Bible conspiracy theories to flesh out their storylines, rather than to push these theories as actual suggestions.

Contents

Common theories

Jesus-myth theory

Church suppression of reincarnation conspiracy

Jesus, Mary Magdalene and the Holy Grail

Books

See also

References

Further reading

External links

Common theories

Jesus-myth theory

Some proponents of the Jesus-myth or Christ-myth theory consider that the whole of Christianity is a conspiracy. American author Acharya S (Dorothy Murdock) in The Christ Conspiracy: The Greatest Story Ever Sold (1999) argues that Jesus and Christianity were created by members of various secret societies, mystery schools, and religions, that these people drew on numerous myths and rituals which existed previously, and that the church then constructed these ideas into Christianity by suppressing the originally intended understanding.^{[1][2]} In the 1930s British spiritualist Hannen Swaffer's home circle, following the teachings of the native-American spirit "Silver Birch", also claimed a Jesus-myth.^[3]

Church suppression of reincarnation conspiracy

Some New Age believers consider that Jesus taught reincarnation but the Christian Church suppressed it. Geddes MacGregor in Reincarnation in Christianity (1978)^[4] suggests that Origen's texts written in support of the belief in reincarnation somehow disappeared or were suppressed.^[5]

Jesus, Mary Magdalene and the Holy Grail

Some common hypotheses are that:

- Mary Magdalene was one of the apostles of Jesus, possibly even the only disciple, but this was suppressed by the early Church.^[6]
- Jesus had an intimate relationship with Mary Magdalene which may or may not have resulted in marriage, and/or children; their continued bloodline is then said to be Christianity's deepest secret.^[6]

The Holy Blood and the Holy Grail, by Michael Baigent, Richard Leigh and Henry Lincoln (1982) is seen by many as the source of that plotline in The Da Vinci Code.

Books

- The Jesus Papers: Exposing the Greatest Cover-Up in History, Michael Baigent (2006)
- Jesus the Magician: Charlatan or Son of God?, Morton Smith (1978)
- The Jesus Dynasty, James Tabor (2006)
- Jesus the Man: New Interpretations from the Dead Sea Scrolls, Barbara Thiering (1993)
- The Jesus Scroll, Donovan Joyce (1972)
- Holy Blood, Holy Grail, Michael Baigent, Richard Leigh, and Henry Lincoln (1982)
- The Templar Revelation, Lynn Picknett and Clive Prince (1997)
- The Jesus Mysteries: Was the "Original Jesus" a Pagan God?, Timothy Freke and Peter Gandy (1999)
- The Jesus Conspiracy: The Turin Shroud and the Truth About the Resurrection, Holger Kersten and Elmar R. Gruber (1994)
- History of the first Council of Nice : a world's Christian convention, A.D. 325; with a life of Constantine, Dean Dudley (1880)

See also

- Constantinian shift
- Criticism of the Bible
- Forged: Writing in the Name of God – Why the Bible's Authors Are Not Who We Think They Are
- Gospel of Judas
- Holy Grail
- Islamic view of the Christian Bible
- Panbabylonism
- The True Word
- The Two Babylons
- Tiberius Julius Abdes Pantera
- Toledot Yeshu
- Zeitgeist (film series)

References

1. D. M. Murdock/Acharya S website The Origins of Christianity and the Quest for the Historical Jesus Christ (<http://www.truthbeknown.com/origins.htm>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20060508053103/http://www.truthbeknown.com/origins.htm>) 2006-05-08 at the Wayback Machine"
2. Clinton Bennett In search of Jesus: insider and outsider images 2001 p208 "A New Age contributor One recent proponent of the Jesus-myth theory, Acharya S, who also sees Christianity as an ongoing conspiracy, argues that there was an ancient global civilization in which ideas and hero myths circulated freely"
3. A. W. Austen The Teachings of Silver Birch London: The Spiritualist Press, 1938
4. Theosophical Publishing House 1978
5. "Reincarnation" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110628182538/http://www.catholic.com/library/Reincarnation.asp>). catholic.com. Archived from the original (<http://www.catholic.com/library/Reincarnation.asp>) on 28 June 2011.
6. Biema, David Von (2003-08-11). "Mary Magdalene Saint or Sinner?" (<http://www.time.com/time/magazine/article/0,9171,1101030811-472868,00.html>). Time Magazine.

Further reading

- Atwill, Joseph (2005). Caesar's Messiah: The Roman Conspiracy to Invent Jesus. Berkeley, Calif.: Ulysses. ISBN 1-56975-457-8.
- Bushby, Tony (2001). The Bible Fraud: An Untold Story of Jesus Christ. PacificBlue Group. ISBN 978-0-9579007-1-4.
- Cooke, Patrick (2005). The Greatest Deception: The Bible UFO Connection. Oracle Research Publishing. ISBN 978-0-9724347-3-7.
- Doherty, Earl (2005). The Jesus Puzzle: Did Christianity Begin with a Mythical Christ? Challenging the Existence of an Historical Jesus. Age of Reason Publications. ISBN 978-0-9689259-1-1.
- S, Acharya (1999). The Christ Conspiracy: The Greatest Story Ever Sold (<https://archive.org/details/christconspiracy00sach>). Adventures Unlimited Press. ISBN 978-0-932813-74-9.
- Harpur, Tom (2005). The Pagan Christ: Recovering the Lost Light (<https://archive.org/details/paganchristrecov0000harp>). Toronto, Canada: Thomas Allen Publishers. ISBN 0-88762-195-3.
- Phillips, Graham (2001). The Marian Conspiracy. Pan Books. ISBN 978-0-330-37202-2.
- Faber Kaiser, Andreas (1977). Jesus died in Kashmir: Jesus, Moses and the ten lost tribes of Israel. Gordon & Cremonesi. ISBN 978-0-86033-041-7.
- Thompson, Thomas L. (2005). The Messiah Myth: The Near Eastern Roots of Jesus and David (<http://archive.org/details/messiahmythneare00thom>). New York: Basic Books. ISBN 0-465-08577-6.
- Wells, G. A. (1999). The Jesus Myth (<https://archive.org/details/jesusmyth00well>). Chicago: Open Court. ISBN 0-8126-9392-2.

External links

- History of the first Council of Nicea : a world's Christian convention, A.D. 325; with a life of Constantine (<https://archive.org/details/historyoffirstco00dudl>)(Internet Archive) by Dean Dudley
-

Retrieved from "https://en.wikipedia.org/w/index.php?title=Bible_conspiracy_theory&oldid=1011146794"

This page was last edited on 9 March 2021, at 08:38 (UTC).

Text is available under the Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike License; additional terms may apply. By using this site, you agree to the Terms of Use and Privacy Policy. Wikipedia® is a registered trademark of the Wikimedia Foundation, Inc., a non-profit organization.

War on Islam controversy

War against Islam is a term used to describe a concerted effort to harm, weaken or annihilate the societal system of Islam, using military, economic, social and cultural means, or means invading and interfering in Islamic countries under the pretext of the war on terror, or using the media to create a negative stereotype about Islam. The perpetrators of the theory are thought to be non-Muslims, particularly the Western world and "false Muslims", allegedly in collusion with political actors in the Western world. While the contemporary narrative of the "War against Islam" mostly covers general issues of societal transformations in modernization and secularization as well as general issues of international power politics among modern states, the crusades are often narrated as its alleged starting point.

The phrase or similar phrases have been used by Islamists such as Sayyid Qutb,^{[1][2]} Ayatollah Khomeini,^[3] Anwar al-Awlaki,^{[4][5]} Osama bin Laden,^[6] Chechen militant Dokka Umarov,^{[7][8]} cleric Anjem Choudary,^[9] and Fort Hood shooter Nidal Hasan.^[10] It has also been used in propaganda by al-Qaida and the Islamic State of Iraq and the Levant.^[11] The English-language political neologism of "War on Islam" was coined in Islamist discourse in the 1990s and popularized as a conspiracy theory only after 2001.^[12]

Jonathan Schanzer has argued that the historical Muslim indifference to the West turned to "alarmed dislike" with the beginning of Western military superiority in the 17th century. However, with the end of the era of Western colonialism, rage against non-Muslims and the governments of Muslim-majority countries stems not from alleged non-Muslim aggression and enmity, but allegedly from frustration over the unrelenting encroachment of mostly Western culture, technology, economies, and from a yearning for a "return to the glorious days when Islam reigned supreme."^[13]

Contents

Usage of the term and concept

Sayyid Qutb

Ayatollah Khomeini

Osama bin Laden

Allegations relating to the supposed War against Islam

Islamic tradition and history

Alleged legacy of the Crusades

Modern-day events

Media

Religious restrictions

Reception

Reception in American politics

Reception in Muslim discourse

Western proponents of the "War against Islam" theory

See also

Notes

References

Further reading

External links

Usage of the term and concept

The most influential Islamists who have alleged a broad malicious conspiracy against the societal system of Islam are:

Sayyid Qutb

From the background of the Muslim Brotherhood organization and ideology, Sayyid Qutb, possibly the most influential Islamist author, often described as "the man whose ideas would shape Al Qaeda",^[14] also preached that the West was not just in conflict with Islam but plotting against it. In his book Milestones, first published in 1964, he wrote:

The Western ways of thought ... [have] an enmity toward all religion, and in particular with greater hostility toward Islam. This enmity toward Islam is especially pronounced and many times is the result of a well-thought-out scheme the object of which is first to shake the foundations of Islamic beliefs and then gradually to demolish the structure of Muslim society.^[15]

Olivier Roy has described Qutb's attitude as one of "radical contempt and hatred" for the West,^[16] and complains that the propensity of Muslims like Qutb to blame problems on outside conspiracies "is currently paralyzing Muslim political thought. For to say that every failure is the devil's work is the same as asking God, or the devil himself (which is to say these days the Americans), to solve one's problems."^[17]

Among the early books following Qutb is Qadat al-gharb yaquluman: dammiru al-Islam, ubidu ahlahu (Western Leaders Are Saying: Destroy Islam, Annihilate All of Its People) written by Jalal `Alam and published in 1977.^[18]

Ayatollah Khomeini

Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, the Shia Islamist leader of the 1979 Iranian Revolution and founder of the Islamic Republic of Iran, preached that Western imperialists or neoimperialists sought to make Muslims suffer, to "plunder" their resources and other wealth, and had to undermine Islam first because Islam stood in the way of this stealing and immiseration.^[19] Khomeini claims some of the alleged Western plots being not recent but hundreds of years old.^{[20][21]}

[Europeans] have known the power of Islam themselves for it once ruled part of Europe, and they know that true Islam is opposed to their activities. (...) From the very outset, therefore, they have sought to remove this obstacle from their path by disparaging Islam (...). They have resorted to malicious propaganda (...).^[22] The agents of imperialism are busy in every corner of the Islamic world drawing our youth away from us with their evil propaganda.^[23] They are destroying Islam! Agents – both foreigners sent by the imperialists and natives employed by them – have spread out into every village and region of Iran and are leading our children and young people astray.^[24]

Osama bin Laden

From a Salafist perspective, Osama bin Laden emphasizes the alleged war and urges Muslims to take arms against it in almost all of his written or recorded messages.^[25] In his 1998 fatwa where he declared the killing of "Americans and their allies—civilians and military—is an individual duty for every Muslim who can do it in any country in which it is possible to do it," bin Laden listed three reasons for the fatwa: the presence of US troops in Saudi Arabia, the increase in infant mortality in Iraq following US-supported sanctions there, and US aid to Israel.

All these crimes and sins committed by the Americans are a clear declaration of war on Allah, his messenger, and Muslims. What bears no doubt in this fierce Judeo-Christian campaign against the Muslim world, the likes of which has never been seen before, is that the Muslims must prepare all possible might to repel the enemy (...).^[26] Every day, from east to west, our umma of 1200 million Muslims is being slaughtered (...).^[27] We (...) see events not as isolated incidents, but as part of a long chain of conspiracies, a war of annihilation (...).^[28] The West (...) will not be able to respect others' beliefs or feelings. (...) They regard jihad for the sake of God or defending one's self or his country as an act of terror.^[29]

Allegations relating to the supposed War against Islam

Islamic tradition and history

According to scholar David B. Cook, a religious studies professor at Rice University, what some believe is scriptural evidence for the existence of the alleged "War against Islam" is found in a popular hadith, one that supposedly prophesies a war against Islam is the "Tradition of Thawban":^[31]

The Messenger of God said: The nations are about to flock against you [the Muslims] from every horizon, just as hungry people flock to a kettle. We said: O Messenger of God, will we be few on that day? He said: No, you will be many in number, but you will be scum, like the scum of a flash-flood, without any weight, since fear will be removed from the hearts of your enemies, and weakness (wahn) will be placed in your hearts. We said: O Messenger of God, what does the word wahn mean? He said: Love of this world, and fear of death.^{[32][33]}

Cook claims that the idea of a Western war against the societal system of Islam is a belief "at the heart of the radical Muslim and especially the globalist radical Muslim;" a factor "binding globalist radical Muslims together."^[34]

Western supporters of the belief in ingrained Western hatred/hostility of Islam include historian Roger Savory, and Boston-based novelist and author James Carroll. According to Savory, Christendom felt threatened by Islam and its march into Europe, (the Muslim Umayyad Caliphate advanced into Europe as far as northern France before being defeated at the Battle of Tours in 732; the Muslim Ottoman Empire attempted to conquer Vienna twice, laying siege to the city in 1485 and 1683), and thus became hostile to it.^{[35][36]}

Alleged legacy of the Crusades

Islamists who use this term often point to the Crusades and European colonization, believing it to be an example of an attempt to destroy the Muslim way of life. Sayyid Qutb, for example, not only believed the West had "a well-thought-out scheme the object of which is first to shake the foundations of Islamic beliefs," but maintained that the medieval Christian Crusades were not "a form of imperialism," but rather Western imperialism was a new form of the Crusades, "latter-day" imperialism in Muslim lands being "but a mask for the crusading spirit."^[37] Savory says:

It is not surprising, therefore, to find a great similarity between the medieval view that it was safe to speak ill of Muhammad because his malignity exceeded whatever ill could be spoken of him, and the tone of nineteenth-century missionary tracts which exhorted the Muslims in India to abandon the false religion which they had been taught. There were even echos of the old crusading spirit. When the French occupied Algeria in 1830, they declared that they had in mind 'the greatest benefit to Christendom'. Similarly, Canning's solution to the 'problem' of the Ottoman empire was to bring it into modern Europe under Christian tutelage. When the French invaded Tunis in 1881, they considered their action a sacred duty 'which a superior civilisation owes to the populations which are less advanced'.^[38]

On September 16, 2001, President George W. Bush referred to the war in Afghanistan as a Crusade: "This crusade, this war on terrorism is going to take a while. And the American people must be patient. I'm going to be patient."^[39]

In contrast, historian Bernard Lewis points out that the Crusaders had strong motives to wage the Crusade other than the denigration of Islam. The lands they attempted to recover were the lands where Christianity was founded, including "the holy land where Christ had lived, taught and died", and where "a substantial proportion of the population ... perhaps even a majority, was still Christian", since "not much more than four centuries had passed since the Arab Muslim conquerors had wrested these lands from Christendom". Rather than the Crusades leaving a psychological scar passed down through the ages among Muslims, the Arabs of the time did not refer to the Crusaders as Crusaders or Christians but as

Pope Urban II preaches the First Crusade at the Council of Clermont "I, or rather the Lord, beseech you as Christ's heralds to publish this everywhere and to persuade all people of whatever rank, foot-soldiers and knights, poor and rich, to carry aid promptly to those Christians and to destroy that vile race from the lands of our friends. I say this to those who are present, it meant also for those who are absent. Moreover, Christ commands it."^[30]

Franks or Infidels, and "with few exceptions", the Muslim historians of the time showed "little interest in whence or why the Franks had come, and report their arrival and their departure with equal lack of curiosity".^{[Note 1]}

Modern-day events

The alleged perpetrators of the "War on Islam" include Western powers (especially the United States), pro-Western Muslim states regimes (e.g. Jordan, Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Qatar, UAE, Bahrain, Oman, Pakistan) and non-Western, non-Muslim states such as Israel (Israeli–Palestinian conflict), Myanmar (Rohingya genocide), Serbia (Massacre in Bosnia), Russia (Chechen–Russian conflict),^{[41][42][43][44]} India (for the conflict in Kashmir), and more recently China (for the Xinjiang conflict). Osama bin Laden mentions: "Meanwhile, a UN resolution passed more than half a century ago gave Muslim Kashmir the liberty of choosing independence from India and Kashmir. George Bush, the leader of the Crusaders' campaign, announced a few days ago that he will order his converted agent [Pakistan President Pervez] Musharraf to shut down the Kashmir mujahidin camps, thus affirming that it is a Zionist-Hindu war against Muslims."^{[45]}

U.S. and UK soldiers in Helmand province. George W. Bush referred to the invasion of Afghanistan as a Crusade^{[39]}

In particular, Western support for the continued occupation of Palestine territory outside its borders by the State of Israel has been declared part of a "war against Islam." Osama bin Laden declared that "the West's rejection of the fairly elected Hamas government is a reaffirmation of the 'injustice, aggression, and rancor' against Palestinians."^{[46]} Enver Masud, an Indian Muslim and author of the book The War on Islam stated that while there are no Muslims in high-level policy making and media jobs in the United States, "Jewish Americans occupy nearly every single position relating to US Arab-Israeli policy."^{[47]} India's control of Muslim-majority Kashmir has been called a "Zionist-Hindu war against Muslims" by Osama bin Laden.^{[48]} In modern day, events alleged to be attacks on Islam include media portrayal of the religion itself and "the War on Terror".^{[49]} Alleged conspiracies against Islam sometimes involve other Muslims who are accused of being apostates. The Ayatollah Khomeini believed that "agents of imperialism", the term he gave to "secular" pro-Western Muslims, were "busy in every corner of the Islamic world drawing our youth away from us with their evil propaganda."^{[50]}

In 2016, the US National Security Adviser said: "Islamism a vicious cancer in body of all Muslims that has to be excised".^{[51]}

The 2005 Danish cartoon controversy were satirical cartoons depicting Muhammad in a Danish newspaper that led to protests and the burning of the Norwegian and Danish embassies in Syria, and were seen by Osama bin Laden as part of the "Zionist-crusaders war on Islam".^{[52][53][54][55]} In an audio message,^{[56]} Osama bin Laden described the cartoons as taking place in the framework of a "new Crusade" against Islam, in which he said the pope has played a "large and lengthy role" and asserted "you went overboard in your unbelief and freed yourselves of the etiquettes of dispute and fighting and went to the extent of publishing these insulting drawings."^{[57]} "This is the greater and more serious tragedy (than bombing Muslim villagers), and reckoning for it will be more severe." Among others,^{[58]} Iran's Supreme Leader Ayatollah Ali Khamenei blamed a "Zionist conspiracy" for the row over the cartoons.^{[59]} The Palestinian envoy to Washington D.C. alleged the Likud party concocted distribution of Muhammad caricatures worldwide in a bid to create a clash between the West and the Muslim world.^{[60]} After the killing of ISIS leader Abu Bakr al-Baghdadi, a Jordanian commentator writing for the Jordanian newspaper, Al-Dustour, claimed that Al-Baghdadi had been an Israeli agent, who had been trained by the Israeli foreign intelligence service, the Mossad, for a mission to tarnish the image of Islam.^{[61]}

Media

The Universities of Georgia and Alabama in the United States conducted a study comparing media coverage of "terrorist attacks" committed by Islamist militants with those of non-Muslims in the United States. Researchers found that "terrorist attacks" by Islamist militants receive 357% more media attention than attacks committed by non-Muslims or whites. Terrorist attacks committed by non-Muslims (or where the religion was unknown) received an average of 15 headlines, while those committed by Muslim extremists received 105 headlines. The study was based on an analysis of news reports covering terrorist attacks in the United States between 2005 and 2015.^[62]

Religious restrictions

In 2016, seven countries – Belgium, Ethiopia, France, Hungary, Niger and Sweden – used emergency laws that restricted religion within their borders. While the official justifications for these measures varied, Pew Research Center's latest annual religious restrictions study finds that across the seven countries, Muslims, more than any other religious group, were specifically targeted by law enforcement and security services acting in accordance with emergency laws. This fact, along with others, helped place five of these seven countries among the 105 nations, globally, where government restrictions on religion rose in 2016.^[63]

Reception

Reactions in the non-Muslim West to the alleged war have varied. Some Western political leaders have dismissed the claims of a war being fought against Islam as untrue, while also being sensitive to Muslim fears of such a "war" and shaping some of their political statements and actions with Muslim fears in mind—including denouncing those who verbally attack Muslims.^[64] Other non-Muslims have argued that the truth of a religious war is the other way around—it being Muslims who are waging war against non-Muslims.^[65]

Reception in American politics

Following Islamist terrorist attacks both President Barack Obama (following the San Bernardino attack) and George W. Bush (after the 9/11 attacks) made a point of stating that the US was not at war with Islam, instead saying that they were at "war against evil" (Bush) and "people who have perverted Islam" (Obama).^{[64][66]}

When Republican presidential nominee Donald Trump stated that foreign Muslims should not be allowed to enter into the United States, until the administration can figure out what is going on, Republican Senator Lindsey Graham replied that "Donald Trump has done the one single thing you cannot do — declare war on Islam itself. To all of our Muslim friends throughout the world, like the king of Jordan and the president of Egypt, I am sorry. He does not represent us."^[66] Another reaction was that of the Washington Blade, a gay newspaper, which printed a full-page headline stating: "To All Muslims: Trump Does Not Speak For Us."^[66] White House Chief Strategist, Steve Bannon, has also been accused of inciting a war against Islam, and has accused Muslims of being a "fifth column here in the United States that needs to be dealt with immediately", and has called Islam "a religion of submission", in contrast with the "enlightened ... Judeo-Christian West".^[67]

Madiha Afzal of the Brookings Institution wrote in August 2016 that Trump's allegations of an Islamic war on America were helping ISIS convince Muslims that America is at war with Islam.^[68]

Reception in Muslim discourse

A measure of the strength of the belief that a non-Muslim power (the United States) is at least attempting to weaken, if not annihilate, Islam can be found in opinion polls that showed, as of late 2006/ early 2007, strong majorities — at least 70% — in the Muslim countries of Egypt, Morocco, Pakistan, and Indonesia, answering "yes" to the pollsters' question: do you believe the United States seeks to "weaken and divide the Islamic world?"^[69]

Daniel Benjamin and Steven Simon write in their book Age of Sacred Terror:

In the Middle East and Pakistan, religious discourse dominates societies, the airwaves, and thinking about the world. Radical mosques have proliferated throughout Egypt. Bookstores are dominated by works with religious themes ... The demand for sharia, the belief that their governments are unfaithful to Islam and that Islam is the answer to all problems, and the certainty that the West has declared war on Islam; these are the themes that dominate public discussion. Islamists may not control parliaments or government palaces, but they have occupied the popular imagination.^[70]

The idea that the West is waging war on Islam has however been dismissed by many non-Muslims in the west. Salman Rushdie, victim of a Fatwa by Ayatollah Khomeini calling for his death, has argued that what Islamists have called a war of "the west versus Islam" is more complicated. Islamists are "opposed not only to the west and 'the Jews' but to their fellow Islamists", an example being the fight between the Sunni Taliban and the Shia Islamic Republic of Iran.^[71] "This paranoid Islam, which blames outsiders, 'infidels', for all the ills of Muslim societies and whose proposed remedy is the closing of those societies to the rival project of modernity, is presently the fastest-growing version of Islam in the world," according to Rushdie.^[71]

Western proponents of the "War against Islam" theory

According to James Carroll, the conflict between Muslims and Westerners "has its origins more in 'the West' than in the House of Islam", and can be traced to "the poison flower of the Crusades, with their denigrations of distant cultures," and other Western injustices.^[72] Proponents of this view often consider the War on Terrorism with the accompanying 2001 military activity in Afghanistan, 2003 invasion of Iraq to be part of the war against Islam.^{[73][74]} Western colonialism in the Middle East throughout the 20th century is also regarded as such an attack by some.^[75]

See also

- Conspiracy theories in the Arab world
- Conspiracy theories in Turkey
- List of conspiracy theories
- Destruction of early Islamic heritage sites in Saudi Arabia
- Grand Mosque seizure
- Islam and modernity
- Islamophobia in the media
- Islam and secularism
- Islamophobia in the United States

- Persecution of Muslims
- Violence against Muslims in India

Notes

1. "In recent years it has become the practice, in both western Europe and the Middle East, to see and present the Crusades as an early exercise in Western imperialism - as a wanton and predatory aggression by the European powers of the time against the Muslim or, as some would now say, against the Arab lands. They were not seen in that light at the time, either by Christians or by Muslims. For contemporary Christians, the Crusades were religious wars, the purpose of which was to recover the lost lands of Christendom and in particular the holy land where Christ had lived, taught and died. In this connection, it may be recalled that when the Crusaders arrived in the Levant not much more than four centuries had passed since the Arab Muslim conquerors had wrested these lands from Christendom - less than half the time from the Crusades to the present day - and that a substantial proportion of the population of these lands, perhaps even a majority, was still Christian."^[40]

"With few exceptions, the Muslim historians show little interest in whence or why the Franks had come, and report their arrival and their departure with equal lack of curiosity. This was the age of Muslim weakness and division, and the Muslim world, in East and West alike, was being invaded by barbarians, both external and internal, from every side."^[40]

References

1. Richard Cohen (Aug 10, 2010). "The Economist's unforgivable silence on Sayyid Qutb's anti-Semitism" (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2010/08/09/AR2010080904866.html>). Washington Post. Retrieved June 2, 2013.
2. Sayyid Qutb from atheism and nudity to Ikhwan al-muslimin and tafsir I Shaykh Raslan (<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=L07DOMqXq7Y>), retrieved 2021-05-27
3. "KHOMEINI, AYATOLLAH" (https://www.jewishvirtuallibrary.org/jsource/judaica/ejud_0002_0012_0_11094.html). Jewish Virtual Library. Retrieved June 2, 2013.
4. Paula newton (March 17, 2010). "Purported al-Awlaki message calls for jihad against U.S." (<http://www.cnn.com/2010/WORLD/europe/03/17/al.awlaki.message/index.html>) CNN. Retrieved June 2, 2013.
5. "The Evolution of a Radical Cleric: Quotes from Anwar al-Awlaki" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2010/05/09/world/09quotes.html>). New York Times. May 8, 2010. Retrieved June 2, 2013.
6. Michael Slackman (April 24, 2006). "Bin Laden Says West Is Waging War Against Islam" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2006/04/24/world/middleeast/24binladen.html>). New York Times. Retrieved June 2, 2013.
7. Simon Saradzhyan (May 2, 2013). "Are Chechen Immigrants a 'Threat'?" (https://www.huffingtonpost.com/simon-saradzhyan/are-chechen-immigrants-a-threat_b_3192753.html). Huffington Post.
8. Oliver Bullough (April 19, 2013). "Beslan Meets Columbine" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2013/04/20/opinion/beslan-meets-columbine.html>). New York Times.
9. Elad Bernai (Feb 23, 2011). "Obama Should Embrace Islam, Says Muslim Cleric" (<http://www.israelnationalnews.com/News/News.aspx/142565#.UavpyJW3pis>). Israel National News. Retrieved June 2, 2013.
10. Catherine Herridge (July 26, 2013). "Accused Fort Hood shooter releases statement to Fox News" (<http://www.foxnews.com/politics/2013/07/26/accused-fort-hood-shooter-claims-us-military-at-war-with-his-religion/>). Fox News.

11. "Trump's "Muslim ban" is a huge gift to ISIS" (<https://www.vox.com/world/2017/1/29/14426892/trump-muslim-immigration-refugee-ban-isis-terrorism>). Vox. January 29, 2017. "ISIS has been trying for years to convince Muslims around the world that the West — and especially the United States — is at war with Islam."
12. John L. Esposito, Emad El-Din Shahin (September 2013). The Oxford Handbook of Islam and Politics (<https://books.google.com/books?id=wUcSDAAQBAJ&pg=PA559>). Oxford University Press. ISBN 9780190631932. Retrieved 2016-07-17.
13. Schanzer, Jonathan. "At War With Whom? A short history of radical Islam" (<http://www.meforum.org/168/at-war-with-whom>). Doublethink. Middle East Forum (Spring 2002). Retrieved 9 May 2016.
14. PBS program America at the crossroads (<https://www.pbs.org/weta/crossroads>) "Qutb, founder of the Muslim Brotherhood, visits America in 1948"
15. Qutb, Milestones, (1981) p.116
16. Roy, Olivier, Globalized Islam : the Search for a New Ummah, Columbia University Press, 2004, p. 250.
17. Roy, Olivier, The Failure of Political Islam, translated by Carol Volk, Harvard University Press, 1994, p.19-20
18. Cook, Understanding Jihad, (2005), p.137
19. Khomeini, Islam and Revolution (1981) p.34
20. Khomeini, Islam and Revolution (1981) p.139
21. Some speculate that the figure of 300 years may come from the date of farthest advance of Muslim armies. On September 11, 1683, the king of Poland began the Battle of Vienna, where the army of the Ottoman Empire under Grand Vizier Merzifonlu Kara Mustafa Pasha was defeated. In the next two centuries the Ottoman Empire was militarily rolled back and economically overshadowed and by Western Christian military power and technology. see: Wright, Lawrence, Looming Tower, (2006), p.171
22. Khomeini, Islam and Revolution, (1981) p.140
23. Khomeini, Islam and Revolution (1981) p.127
24. Khomeini, Islam and Revolution (1981) p.128
25. bin Laden, Messages, (2006)
26. published in Islamic magazine from Australia, Nida'ul Islam (The Call of Islam), October–November 1996
27. bin Laden, Messages, (2006), p.153, from December 2001 statement recorded for release to al-Jazeera, shown on al-Jazeera December 26.
28. bin Laden, Messages, (2006), p.133, from Letter to al-Jazeera's Kabul Bureau November 3, 2001, 10 days before the Northern Alliance entry.
29. Transcript of Osama bin Laden's audiotape (<http://www.informationclearinghouse.info/article12830.htm>), dated April 23, 2006, "Aljazeera"
30. Fulcher of Chartres' account of Urban's speech, Urban II: Speech at Council of Clermont, 1095, Five versions of the Speech (<http://www.fordham.edu/halsall/source/urban2-5vers.html>) (available as part of the Internet Medieval Sourcebook (<http://www.fordham.edu/halsall/sbook.html>)).
31. Cook, Understanding Jihad (2005), p.143
32. Abu Da'ud, Sunan, (Beirut, 1988), IV, p.108 (no. 4297) quoted in Cook, Understanding Jihad - Abu Dawood declared some of Hadiths (including the above) in his book to be unauthentic (2005), p.143
33. Others maintain the hadith or similar ones are authentic. "Al-Wahn, A Deadly Disease" (<http://www.islam.net/main/display.php?id=1448&category=164>). www.IISCA.org. Retrieved 22 March 2012.
34. Cook Understanding Jihad, 2005, p.136
35. Savory, R.M., Christendom vs Islam: interaction & co-existence, Introduction to Islamic Civilisation, p.127

36. Savory, R.M., Christendom vs Islam: interaction & co-existence, Introduction to Islamic Civilisation, p.128
37. Qutb, Milestones, p.159-160
38. Savory, R.M., Christendom vs Islam: interaction & co-existence, Introduction to Islamic Civilisation, p.134
39. "President: Today We Mourned, Tomorrow We Work" (<https://georgewbush-whitehouse.archives.gov/news/releases/2001/09/20010916-2.html>). 17 September 2001. Retrieved 18 March 2015.
40. Islam and the West by Bernard Lewis Oxford University Press, 1993 p.12
41. Here (https://books.google.com/books?id=aCJlp3J47eEC&pg=PA102&lpg=PA102&dq=%22They+regard+jihad+for+the+sake+of+God+or+defending+one's+self+or+his+country+as+an+act+of+terror.%22&source=bl&ots=LUTL9mcbst&sig=HKDhKvaqoCpF83jMVZ_ThSUrPkA&hl=en&sa=X&ei=tu6rUdXEOZK34AOE1oGYBg&ved=0CD8Q6AEwAw#v=onepage&q=%22They%20regard%20jihad%20for%20the%20sake%20of%20God%20or%20defending%20one's%20self%20or%20his%20country%20as%20an%20act%20of%20terror.%22&f=false) Osama bin Laden says: "This is why they established institutions and enacted laws to maintain their supremacy by creating the United Nations and the veto power.... They regard jihad for the sake of God or defending one's self or his country as an act of terror. US and Europe consider jihad groups in Palestine, Chechnya, Iraq and Afghanistan as terrorist groups, so how could we talk or have understanding with them without using weapons?"
42. Human Rights Watch: Chechnya: Research Shows Widespread and Systematic Use of Torture (<http://hrw.org/english/docs/2006/11/13/russia14557.htm>)
43. Chechnya Holds Parliamentary Vote (<https://www.npr.org/templates/story/story.php?storyId=5028949>), Morning Edition, NPR, 28 November 2005.
44. Government efforts help only some IDPs rebuild their lives (http://www.internal-displacement.org/8025708F004CE90B/\(httpCountrySummaries\)/441ED4F5458A7C1DC125733600369629?OpenDocument&count=10000/441ED4F5458A7C1DC125733600369629?OpenDocument&count=10000)) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20130821165016/http://www.internal-displacement.org/8025708F004CE90B/%28httpCountrySummaries%29/441ED4F5458A7C1DC125733600369629?OpenDocument&count=10000>) 2013-08-21 at the Wayback Machine, IDMC, 13 August 2007
45. "Archived copy" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20070816191154/http://english.aljazeera.net/English/archive/archive?ArchiveId=22235>). Archived from the original (<http://english.aljazeera.net/English/archive/archive?ArchiveId=22235>) on August 16, 2007. Retrieved 2016-02-08.
46. "Terrorism Monitor - The Jamestown Foundation" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20070814072227/http://jamestown.org/terrorism/news/article.php?articleid=2369975>). Archived from the original (<http://www.jamestown.org/terrorism/news/article.php?articleid=2369975>) on 14 August 2007. Retrieved 18 March 2015.
47. What is worse than terrorist attacks? (<http://www.twf.org/Library/WOI/HRFAdvert.pdf>)
48. "Osama bin Laden dead: The one time that he mentioned Kashmir" (http://articles.economictimes.indiatimes.com/2011-05-03/news/29499488_1_bin-laden-hindus-and-muslims-osama-bin). The Economic Times. Retrieved 18 March 2015.
49. Al-Qaida leader warns of new attacks (<http://english.aljazeera.net/English/archive/archive?ArchiveId=1933>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20080228195951/http://english.aljazeera.net/English/archive/archive?ArchiveId=1933>) 2008-02-28 at the Wayback Machine Aljazeera.net, FEBRUARY 27, 2004
50. Khomeini, Islam and Revolution, (1981), p.127
51. Andrew Kaczynski. "Michael Flynn in August: Islamism a 'vicious cancer' in body of all Muslims that 'has to be excised' " (<https://www.cnn.com/2016/11/22/politics/kfile-michael-flynn-august-speech/index.html>). CNN. Retrieved 2020-10-17.
52. Bin Laden Says West Is Waging War Against Islam (<http://www.genocidewatch.org/SUDANBinLadenSaysWestIsWagingWarAgainstIslamApr06.htm>)

53. The racist crusade against Muslims \(http://www.socialistworker.org/2006-1/576/576_05_RacistCrusade.shtml\) Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20060506214231/http://socialistworker.org/2006-1/576/576_05_RacistCrusade.shtml) 2006-05-06 at the Wayback Machine accessed 10-23-2007
54. 'A conspiracy against Islam' \(http://www.news24.com/News24/Africa/News/0,6119,2-11-1447_1874104,00.html\) Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20070914114734/http://www.news24.com/News24/Africa/News/0,6119,2-11-1447_1874104,00.html) 2007-09-14 at the Wayback Machine accessed 10-23-2007
55. Islamophobia Watch, Documenting the war against Islam \(http://www.islamophobia-watch.com/display/ShowJournal?moduleId=103277&categoryId=38878\) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20071019004739/http://www.islamophobia-watch.com/display/ShowJournal?moduleId=103277&categoryId=38878>) 2007-10-19 at the Wayback Machine categories of the website include "Danish Cartoons"
56. "Bin Laden Threatens Europe over Mohammed Cartoons | DW | 20.03.2008" \(https://web.archive.org/web/20200101105201/https://www.dw.com/en/bin-laden-threatens-europe-over-mohammed-cartoons/a-3204372\). Archived from the original (<https://www.dw.com/en/bin-laden-threatens-europe-over-mohammed-cartoons/a-3204372>) on January 1, 2020. Retrieved March 28, 2008.
57. Transcript released by the SITE Institute, a U.S. group that monitors terror messages
58. "Qatari University Lecturer Ali Muhi Al-Din Al-Qardaghi: Muhammad Cartoon Is a Jewish Attempt to Divert European Hatred from Jews to Muslims" \(http://www.memritv.org/Transcript.asp?P1=1030\), Al-Jazeera/MemriTV, 2 March 2006.
59. "Cartoons 'part of Zionist plot'" \(https://www.theguardian.com/cartoonprotests/story/0,,1704174,00.html\), Guardian, 7 February 2006.
60. "PA: Likud behind Muhammad cartoons" \(http://www.ynetnews.com/articles/0,7340,L-3215284,00.html\), ynet, 13 February 2006.
61. "The 'War Against Islam': How a Conspiracy Theory Drove and Shaped the Islamist Movement" \(http://eeradicalization.com/the-war-against-islam-how-a-conspiracy-theory-drove-and-shaped-the-islamist-movement/\). European Eye on Radicalization. 2019-12-06. Retrieved 2020-10-17.
62. editor, Mona Chalabi US data (2018-07-20). "Terror attacks by Muslims receive 357% more press attention, study finds" \(https://www.theguardian.com/us-news/2018/jul/20/muslim-terror-attacks-press-coverage-study\). The Guardian. ISSN 0261-3077 (<https://www.worldcat.org/issn/0261-3077>). Retrieved 2020-09-28.
63. <https://www.pewresearch.com/fact-tank/2018/11/07/in-2016-emergency-laws-restricted-religious-freedoms-of-muslims-more-than-other-groups/%3famp=1>
64. Greenberg, Jon (11 December 2015). "War of words: The fight over 'radical Islamic terrorism'" \(http://www.politifact.com/truth-o-meter/article/2015/dec/11/war-words-fight-over-radical-islamic-terrorism/\). Politifact. Retrieved 10 May 2016.
65. Tracinski, Robert (October 29, 2001). "A War against Islam" \(https://web.archive.org/web/20070930180314/http://www.aynrand.org/site/News2?JServSessionIdr011=pkgz56qhd2.app7a&page=NewsArticle&id=7398&news_iv_ctrl=1087\). The Ayn Rand Institute. Archived from the original (http://www.aynrand.org/site/News2?JServSessionIdr011=pkgz56qhd2.app7a&page=NewsArticle&id=7398&news_iv_ctrl=1087) on 30 September 2007. Retrieved 9 May 2016.
66. Parker, Kathleen (December 18, 2015). "Americans must take a stand against our own extremists" \(https://www.washingtonpost.com/opinions/americans-must-take-a-stand-against-our-own-extremists/2015/12/18/6e264cde-a5c2-11e5-9c4e-be37f66848bb_story.html\). Washington Post. Retrieved 9 May 2016.
67. Anthony, Charles B. (10 February 2017). "Steve Bannon is preparing Trump for a holy war. No, really" \(http://www.middleeasteye.net/essays/steve-bannon-preparing-donald-trump-holy-war-christian-islam-china-ronald-reagan\). Middle East Eye. Retrieved 27 May 2017.
68. "How we all reinforce a narrative of Islam versus the West" \(https://www.brookings.edu/blog/order-from-chaos/2016/08/04/how-we-all-reinforce-a-narrative-of-islam-versus-the-west/\). Brookings Institution. August 4, 2016.

69. Poll conducted from December 2006 to February 2007 by WorldPublicOpinion.org Muslims Believe US Seeks to Undermine Islam (http://www.worldpublicopinion.org/pipa/articles/home_page/346.php?nid=&id=&pnt=346&lb=hmpg2) Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20080407203803/http://www.worldpublicopinion.org/pipa/articles/home_page/346.php?nid=&id=&pnt=346&lb=hmpg2) 2008-04-07 at the Wayback Machine
70. (italics added), The Age of Sacred Terror by Daniel Benjamin and Steven Simon, New York : Random House, c2002, p.172-3
71. MacAskill, Ewen (3 November 2001). "Paranoid Muslims are the problem, says Rushdie" (<https://www.theguardian.com/uk/2001/nov/03/september11.afghanistan>). The Guardian. Retrieved 9 May 2016.
72. "The war against Islam" (https://www.boston.com/news/globe/editorial_opinion/oped/articles/2005/06/07/the_war_against_islam/) by James Carroll, June 7, 2005.
73. "Fuad Nahdi: Young, British and ready to fight" (<https://www.theguardian.com/religion/Story/0,2763,927071,00.html>). the Guardian. Retrieved 18 March 2015.
74. Anas Altikriti. "Anas Altikriti: This is not a cartoon war" (<https://www.theguardian.com/cartoonprotests/story/0,,1706813,00.html>). the Guardian. Retrieved 18 March 2015.
75. "A Moment to Pause and Reflect" (<http://www.commondreams.org/views04/0324-14.htm>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20060516121344/http://www.commondreams.org/views04/0324-14.htm>) 2006-05-16 at the Wayback Machine by John V. Whitbeck, accessed 10-23-2007

Further reading

- A War on Islam? by Abid Ullah Jan
- The War on Islam by Enver Masud
- Cook, David (c. 2005). Understanding Jihad. University of California Press. ISBN 0-520-24448-6.
- Khomeini, Ruhollah; Algar, Hamid (translator and editor) (1981). Islam and Revolution : Writing and Declarations of Imam Khomeini. Berkeley: Mizan Press.
- bin Laden, Osama; James Howarth (translator) (2005). Messages to the world : the statements of Osama Bin Laden (<https://archive.org/details/messagestoworlds00binl>). New York: Verso.
- Qutb, Sayyid (1981). Milestones. The Mother Mosque Foundation.

External links

Retrieved from "https://en.wikipedia.org/w/index.php?title=War_on_Islam_controversy&oldid=1027565706"

This page was last edited on 8 June 2021, at 17:32 (UTC).

Text is available under the Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike License; additional terms may apply. By using this site, you agree to the Terms of Use and Privacy Policy. Wikipedia® is a registered trademark of the Wikimedia Foundation, Inc., a non-profit organization.

Black genocide

In the United States, black genocide is the characterization that the mistreatment of African Americans by both the United States government and white Americans, both in the past and the present, amounts to genocide. The decades of lynchings and long-term racial discrimination were first formally described as genocide by a now defunct organization, the Civil Rights Congress, in a petition which it submitted to the United Nations in 1951. In the 1960s, Malcolm X accused the US government of engaging in genocide against black people, citing long-term injustice, cruelty, and violence against blacks by whites.^{[1][2]}

Some accusations of genocide have been described as conspiracy theories. In response to the War on Poverty legislation proposed by President Lyndon B. Johnson in the mid-1960s, which included public funding of the Pill for the poor, at the first Black Power Conference, which was held in July 1967, family planning (birth control) was said to be "black genocide."^{[3][4][5]} After abortion was more widely legalized in 1970, some black militants named abortion specifically as part of the conspiracy theory.^{[6][7]} Most African-American women were not convinced of a conspiracy, and rhetoric about race genocide faded.^[8] However, 1973 media revelations about decades of government-sponsored compulsory sterilization led some to say that this was part of a plan for black genocide.^[9] Other events around this time period were also declared methods of black genocide, such as the War on Drugs, War on Crime, and War on Poverty, which had detrimental effects on the black community.^[10]

During the Vietnam War, the increasing use of black soldiers in combat provided another basis for the accusation of a government supported "black genocide." In recent decades, the disproportionately high black prison population has also been cited to support the claim of black genocide.

Contents

Slavery as genocide

Jim Crow as genocide

Petition to the United Nations

Lynching and other racial killings

Sterilization

Systemic native black American ethnocide

War's effects on black communities

Prison

Conspiracy theories

Birth control

Abortion

Analysis

See also

References

Slavery as genocide

Throughout the existence of the enslavement of Africans in the US, instances demonstrative of genocide have arguably occurred countless times. Professor Walter Johnson at Harvard University depicts in his book, The Broken Heart of America, numerous accounts of violence displayed against black Americans. One instance depicts how enslaved men would be separated from their wives.^[11] Such practices would inevitably serve as a method of population control by altering natural reproduction patterns. On another occasion, after not being able to find his keys, one slave owner brutally murdered his slave, and was later acquitted by a jury after a one-day trial.^[11] Johnson noted that this case was similar to the 2014 shooting of Michael Brown, a black teenager killed in Ferguson, Missouri.^[11] Johnson argues that the violence of the slavery era is still present in modern times.^[11] For a black American living in the era of U.S. slavery, no rights were guaranteed, whether they were personally enslaved or not. Walt Whitman, a U.S. poet, stated that it was the law of history for the black race to be eliminated.^[11] According to author Khalil Gibran Muhammad, who wrote The Condemnation of blackness: Race, Crime, and the Making of Modern Urban America, the majority of the white people who envisioned the day coming when black people were legally deemed equal were abolitionists.^[12] When enslaved African Americans were emancipated, many of their white counterparts were uncomfortable with the idea of these two races living amongst each other, coexisting in the same nation with the same rights that were previously reserved solely for white Americans.^[12] Not surprisingly, many white Americans began advocating for colonization of African nations with black Americans.^[12] More information on the black experience with slavery in the United States can be found in African-American history.

Jim Crow as genocide

Petition to the United Nations

The United Nations (UN) was formed in 1945. The UN debated and adopted a Genocide Convention in late 1948, holding that genocide was the "intent to destroy, in whole or in part", a racial group.^[13] In 1948, even if African Americans worked side by side with their white counterparts, they were not permitted to live in the same neighborhoods.^[14] Based on the "in part" definition, the Civil Rights Congress (CRC), a group composed of African Americans with Communist affiliations, presented to the UN in 1951 a petition called "We Charge Genocide." The petition listed 10,000 unjust deaths of African Americans in the nine decades since the American Civil War.^[15] It described lynching, mistreatment, murder and oppression by whites against blacks, concluding that the US government was refusing to address "the persistent, widespread, institutionalized commission of the crime of genocide".^[13] The petition was presented to the UN convention in Paris by CRC leader William L. Patterson, and in New York City by the singer and actor Paul Robeson who was a civil rights activist and a Communist member of CRC.^[13] After World War II and following many years of mistreatment of African Americans by white Americans, the US government's official policies regarding this mistreatment shifted significantly. The American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) said in 1946 that negative international opinion about US racial policies helped to pressure the US into alleviating the mistreatment of ethnic minorities.^[13] In 1948, President Harry S. Truman signed an order desegregating the military, and black citizens increasingly challenged other forms of racial discrimination.^[13]

This image demonstrates segregations laws in practice in the Jim Crow era.

The Cold War raised American concerns about Communist expansionism. The CRC petition was viewed by the US government as being against America's best interests with regard to fighting Communism. The petition was ignored by the UN; many of the charter countries looked to the US for guidance and were not willing to arm the enemies of the US with more propaganda about its failures in domestic racial policy. American responses to the petition were various: Radio journalist Drew Pearson spoke out against the supposed "Communist propaganda" before it was presented to the UN.^[13] Professor Raphael Lemkin, a Polish lawyer who had helped draft the UN Genocide Convention, said that the CRC petition was a misguided effort which drew attention away from the Soviet Union's genocide of Estonians, Latvians and Lithuanians. The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) issued a statement saying that there was no black genocide even though serious matters of racial discrimination certainly did exist in America. Walter Francis White, leader of the NAACP, wrote that the CRC petition contained "authentic" instances of discrimination, mostly taken from reliable sources.^[13] He said, "Whatever the sins of the nation against the Negro—and they are many and gruesome—genocide is not among them."^[13] UN Delegate Eleanor Roosevelt said that it was "ridiculous" to characterize long term discrimination as genocide.^[13]

Paul Robeson signed the We Charge Genocide petition.

The "We Charge Genocide" petition received more notice in international news than in domestic US media. French and Czech media carried the story prominently, as did newspapers in India. In 1952, African-American author J. Saunders Redding traveling in India was repeatedly asked questions about specific instances of civil rights abuse in the US, and the CRC petition was used by Indians to rebut his assertions that US race relations were improving. In the US, the petition faded from public awareness by the late 1950s.^[13] In 1964, Malcolm X and his Organization of Afro-American Unity, citing the same lynchings and oppression described in the CRC petition, began to prepare their own petition to the UN asserting that the US government was engaging in genocide against black people.^{[1][2][9]} The 1964 Malcolm X speech "The Ballot or the Bullet" also draws from "We Charge Genocide".^[16]

Lynching and other racial killings

Arguably the first lynching to occur in the United States was that of Francis McIntosh, a free man of black and white ancestry.^[11] Walter Johnson argued that this lynching ignited a series of them, all with the goal of "ethnic cleansing."^[11] Even Abraham Lincoln, who was not yet president, was more concerned by the vigilantism of the lynching than the murder itself, going so far as to refer to McIntosh as "obnoxious" in his 1838 speech later dubbed the Lyceum Address.^[11] According to the National Memorial for Peace and Justice 4,400 black people had been slain in lynchings and other racial killings between 1877 and 1950.^[17] Brandy Marie Langley argued, "The physical killing of black people in America, at this time period, was consistent with Lemkin's original idea of genocide."^[18] Lynching was so ubiquitous within the US that famous literary and social activist figures such as Mark Twain and Ida B. Wells were compelled to speak out about these killings.^[19] Twain's essay describing these horrific murders was titled "The United States of Lyncherdom," a remark on widespread nature of lynchings in 1800s and 1900s US.^[19] "War of Words: The Controversy over the Definition of Lynching, 1899-1940", is an article regarding the history of lynching in the United States.^[20] The article covers the horrific acts of violence acted upon black citizens by white ones.^[20] The media and racist whites, both inadvertently and not, exaggerated the presence of black crime as a method of appeasing their own guilt surrounding the brutal killings of African Americans.^[20]

Sterilization

Beginning in 1907, some US state legislatures passed laws allowing for the compulsory sterilization of criminals, mentally retarded people, and institutionalized mentally ill patients. At first, African Americans and white Americans suffered sterilization in roughly equal ratio. By 1945, some 70,000 Americans had been sterilized in these programs.^[21] In the 1950s, the federal welfare program Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) was criticized by some whites who did not want to subsidize poor black families.^[22] States such as North and South Carolina performed sterilization procedures on low-income black mothers who were giving birth to their second child. The mothers were told that they would have to agree to have their tubes tied or their welfare benefits would be cancelled, along with the benefits of the families they were born into.^[23] Because of such policies, especially prevalent in Southern states, sterilization of African Americans increased from 23% of the total in the 1930s and 1940s to 59% at the end of the 1950s, and rose further to 64% in the mid-1960s.^[22]

In mid-1973 news stories revealed the forced sterilization of poor black women and children, paid for by federal funds. Two girls of the Relf family in Mississippi, deemed mentally incompetent at ages 12 and 14, and also 18-year-old welfare recipient Nial Ruth Cox of North Carolina, were prominent cases of involuntary sterilization.^{[9][24]} Jet magazine presented the story under the headline "Genocide".^[25] Critics said these stories were publicized by activists against legal abortion.^[26] "The Economics of Race and Eugenic Sterilization in North Carolina: 1958–1968" explores how government policies led to higher rates of sterilization amongst black Americans than white on the basis of racist beliefs.^[27] The article describes how, in the early 1900s, the time period of the Holocaust, the goal of eugenicists was to create a biologically fit population.^[27] These standards of biological fitness deliberately excluded black people, who were claimed to not be capable of making legitimate contributions to the national economy.^[27]

Systemic native black American ethnocide

War's effects on black communities

African Americans pushed for equal participation in US military service in the first part of the 20th century and especially during World War II. Finally, President Harry S. Truman signed legislation to integrate the US military in 1948. However, Selective Service System deferments, military assignments, and especially the recruits accepted through Project 100,000 resulted in a greater representation of blacks in combat in the Vietnam War in the second half of the 1960s.^{[28][29]} African Americans represented 11% of the US population but 12.6% of troops sent to Vietnam.^[30] Cleveland Sellers said that the drafting of poor black men into war was "a plan to commit calculated genocide".^[31] Former SNCC chairman Stokely Carmichael, black congressman Adam Clayton Powell, Jr. and SNCC member Rap Brown agreed.^{[9][32]} In October 1969, King's widow Coretta Scott King spoke at an anti-war protest held at the primarily black Morgan State College in Baltimore. Campus leaders published a statement against what they termed "black genocide" in Vietnam, blaming President Richard Nixon in the US as well as President Nguyễn Văn Thiệu and Vice President Nguyễn Cao Kỳ from South Vietnam.^[33]

Author James Forman Jr. declared the War on Drugs "a misstep [that] is so damaging that future generations are left shaking their heads in disbelief."^[34] The so-called war had widespread effects, including an even more punitive criminal justice system. Black Americans, especially those in low-income neighborhoods, got hit especially hard, according to Forman's book, Locking up our Own: Crime and Punishment in Black America.^[34] The book explores the harsh realities of life that are the legacy of the War on Drugs.^[34] One such reality is that, even though black and white people have similar rates of drug use, black people are more likely to be punished for it by the judicial system.^[34]

Two other wars that have had detrimental effects on the black community are the War on Poverty and War on Crime, which are explored thoroughly in From the War on Poverty to the War on Crime: the Making of Mass Incarceration in America, written by historian Elizabeth Hinton. According to Hinton black men are imprisoned at a rate of 1 in 11.^[35] This topic is also explored in Michelle Alexander's New Jim Crow: Mass Incarceration in the Age of Colorblindness. It discusses how, despite many Americans wanting to believe that the election of President Obama ushered in a new age where race no longer mattered, or at least not as much, America is still deeply affected by its racial history.^[36] Alexander highlights “the systemic breakdown of black and poor communities devastated by mass unemployment, social neglect, economic abandonment, and intense police surveillance.”^[36] Even President Lyndon B. Johnson stated in a commencement speech delivered at Howard University that there is a stark contrast between black and white poverty.^[10] The contrast is a result of systemic injustices carried out over the course of centuries against the black community, according to Keeanga-Yamahtta Taylor's book, From #BlackLivesMatter to black Liberation.^[10]

Prison

In 1969, H. Rap Brown wrote in his autobiography, Die Nigger Die!, that American courts "conspire to commit genocide" against blacks by putting a disproportionate number of them in prison.^[37] Political scientist Joy A. James wrote that "antiblack genocide" is the motivating force which explains the way that US prisons are filled largely with black prisoners.^[38] Author and former prisoner Mansfield B. Frazier contends that the rumor in American ghettos "that whites are secretly engaged in a program of genocide against the black race" is given "a measure of validity" by the number of "black men of child-producing age who are imprisoned for crimes for which men of other races are not."^[39]

The book New Directions for Youth Development discusses the school to prison pipeline and how to eradicate it, and it states that “The public school system in the United States, like the country as a whole, is plagued by vast inequalities—that all too frequently are defined along lines of race and class.”^[40] Over time, as schools have become harsher in enforcing their policies and disciplining students, the criminal justice system has also become harsher in dealing with children.^[40] “Since 1992, fortyfive states have passed laws making it easier to try juveniles as adults, and thirty-one have stiffened sanctions against youths for a variety of offenses”, claims New Directions for Youth Development.^[40]

The way in which certain drugs are criminalized also factors into the large disparities in involvement in the prison system between black and white communities.^[41] For instance, “The Effects of Mass Incarceration on Communities of Color” describes how “conviction for crack selling (more heavily sold and used by people of color) [results] in a sentence 100 times more severe than for selling the same amount of powder cocaine (more heavily sold and used by whites).”^[41]

Conspiracy theories

Birth control

A falling birth rate has been identified by some observers as harmful to a race of people; for instance, in 1905 Teddy Roosevelt said that it was "race suicide" for white Americans if educated white women continued to have fewer children.^[42] Certain African-American leaders also taught that political power came with greater population. In 1934, Marcus Garvey and his Universal Negro Improvement Association resolved that birth control constituted black genocide.^[43]

The combined oral contraceptive pill, popularly known as "the Pill", was approved for US markets in 1957 as a medicine, and in 1961 for birth control. In 1962, civil rights activist Whitney Young told the National Urban League not to support birth control for blacks.^[9] Marvin Davies, leader of the Florida chapter of the NAACP, said that black women should reject birth control and produce more babies so that black political influence would increase in the future.^[9]

Lyndon B. Johnson and Martin Luther King, Jr., agreed that birth control was beneficial to poor black families.

The Pill was considered expensive by working-class women; the first users were upper- and middle-class women.^[44] After President Lyndon B. Johnson, as part of his War on Poverty, obtained legislation in 1964 for government funding of birth control,^[45] Black militants became more concerned about a possible government-sponsored black genocide. Cecil B. Moore, head of the NAACP chapter in Philadelphia, spoke out against a Planned Parenthood program which was to establish a stronger presence in northern Philadelphia; the population in the targeted neighborhoods was 70% black. Moore said it would be "race suicide" for blacks to embrace birth control.^[9]

From 1965 to 1970, black militant males, especially younger men from poverty-stricken areas, spoke out against birth control as black genocide. The Black Panther Party and the Nation of Islam were the strongest voices. The Black Panther Party identified a number of injustices as contributing to black genocide, including social ills that were more serious in black populations, such as drug abuse, prostitution and sexually transmitted disease. Other injustices included unsafe housing, malnutrition and the over-representation of young black men on the front lines of the Vietnam War.^[9] Influential black activists such as singer/author Julius Lester and comedian Dick Gregory said that blacks should increase in population and avoid genocidal family planning measures.^[46] H. Rap Brown of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) held that black genocide consisted of four elements: more blacks executed than whites, malnutrition in impoverished areas affected blacks more than whites, the Vietnam War killed more blacks than whites, and birth control programs in black neighborhoods were trying to end the black race. A birth control clinic in Cleveland, Ohio, was torched by black militants who said it contributed to black genocide.^[9]

H. Rap Brown said that black genocide was based on four factors, including birth control.

Black Muslims said that birth control was against the teachings of the Koran, and that the role of women in Muslim society was to produce children. In this context, the black Muslims felt that birth control was a genocidal attack by whites. The Muslim weekly journal, Muhammad Speaks, carried many articles demonizing birth control.^[9]

In Newark, New Jersey, in July 1967, the Black Power movement held its first convention: the National Conference on Black Power. The convention identified several means by which whites were attempting the annihilation of blacks. Injustices in housing practices, reductions in welfare benefits, and government-subsidized family planning were named as elements of "black genocide".^{[5][9]} Ebony magazine printed a story in March 1968 which revealed that black genocide was believed by poor blacks to be the impetus behind government-funded birth control.^[46]

Reverend Martin Luther King, Jr., was a strong proponent of birth control for blacks. In 1966, he was honored with the Margaret Sanger Award in Human Rights, an award based on the tireless birth control activism of Margaret Sanger, a co-founder of Planned Parenthood. King emphasized that birth control gave the black man better command over his personal economic situation, keeping the number of his children within his monetary means.^[9] In April 1968, Martin Luther King, Jr., was shot and killed. Charles V. Willie wrote in 1971 that this event marked the beginning of serious reflection among African Americans "about the possibility of [black] genocide in America. There were lynchings, murders, and manslaughters in the past. But the assassination of Dr. King was too much. Many blacks believed that Dr. King had represented their best... If America could not accept Dr. King, then many felt that no black person in America was safe."^[47]

Angela Davis said that equating birth control with black genocide appeared to be "an exaggerated—even paranoiac—reaction."^[48]

Black women were generally critical of the Black Power rejection of birth control. In 1968, a group of black radical feminists in Mt. Vernon, New York issued "The Sisters Reply"; a rebuttal which said that birth control gave black women the "freedom to fight the genocide of black women and children," referring to the greater death rate among children and mothers in poor families.^[49] Frances M. Beal, co-founder of the Black Women's Liberation Committee of the SNCC, refused to believe that the black woman must be subservient to the black man's wishes. Angela Davis and Linda LaRue reacted against the Black Power limitations directing women to serve as mothers producing "warriors for the revolution."^[9] Toni Cade said that indiscriminate births would not bring the liberation of blacks closer to realization; she advocated the Pill as a tool to help space out the births of black children, to make it easier for families to raise them.^{[9][50]} The Black Women's Liberation Group accused "poor black men" of failing to support the babies they helped produce, therefore supplying young black women with reason to use contraceptives. Dara Abubakari, a black separatist, wrote that "women should be free to decide if and when they want children."^[9] A 1970 study found that 80% of black women in Chicago approved of birth control, and that 75% of women in their child-bearing years were using it. A 1971 study found that a majority of black men and women were in favor of government-subsidized birth control.^[9]

In Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, a community struggle for and against a birth control clinic in the Homewood area of east Pittsburgh made national news. Women in Pittsburgh had lobbied for a birth control clinic in the 1920s and were relieved in 1931 when the American Birth Control League (ABCL) established one. The ABCL changed its name in 1942 to Planned Parenthood. The Pittsburgh clinic initiated an educational outreach program to poor families in the Lower Hill District in 1956. This program was twinned into the poverty-stricken Homewood-Brushton area in 1958. Planned Parenthood considered opening another clinic there, and conducted meetings with community leaders. In 1963 a mobile clinic was moved around the area. In December 1965, the Planned Parenthood Clinic of Pittsburgh (PPCP) applied for federal funding based on the War on Poverty legislation Johnson had promoted. In May 1966 the application was approved, and PPCP began to establish clinics throughout Pittsburgh, a total of 18 by 1967, 11 of these subsidized by the federal government and placed in poor districts. In mid-1966 the Pennsylvania state legislature held up family planning funds in committee. Catholic bishops gained media exposure for their assertion that Pittsburgh birth control efforts were a form of covert black genocide. In November 1966 the bishops said that the government was coercing poor people to have smaller families. Some black leaders such as local NAACP member Dr. Charles Greenlee agreed with the bishops that birth control was black genocide.^[9] Greenlee said Planned Parenthood was "an honorable and good organization" but that the federal Office of Economic Opportunity was sponsoring genocidal programs.^[51] Greenlee said "the Negro's birth rate is the only weapon he has. When he reaches 21 he can vote."^[51] Greenlee targeted the Homewood clinic for closure; in doing so he allied with black militant William "Bouie" Haden and Catholic prelate Charles Owen Rice to speak out against black genocide, and against PPCP's educational outreach program. Planned Parenthood's Director of Community Relations Dr. Douglas Stewart said that the false charge of black genocide was harming the national advancement of blacks. In July 1968, Haden announced he was willing to blow up the clinic to keep it from operating. The Catholic church paid him a salary of $10,000, igniting an outcry in Pittsburgh media. Bishop John Wright was called a "puppet of Bouie Haden".^[9] The PPCP closed the Homewood clinic in July 1968 and stopped its educational program because of concerns about violence. The black congregation of the Bethesda United Presbyterian Church issued a statement saying that accusations of black genocide were "patently false".^[9] A meeting was scheduled for March 1969 to discuss the issue.^[9] About 200 women, mostly black, appeared in support of the clinic, and it was reopened.^[3] This was seen as a major defeat for the black militant notion that government-funded birth control was black genocide.^[9]

Other prominent black advocates for birth control included Carl Rowan, James Farmer, Bayard Rustin, Jerome H. Holland, Ron Dellums and Barbara Jordan.^[9]

In the US in the 21st century, black people are most likely to be at risk of unintended pregnancy: 84% of black women of reproductive age use birth control, in contrast to 91% of Caucasian and Hispanic women, and 92% of Asian Americans.^[52] This results in black women having the highest rate of unintended pregnancy—in 2001, almost 10% of black women giving birth between the ages of 15 to 44 had unintended pregnancies, which was more than twice the rate of white women. Poverty affects these statistics, as low-income women are more likely to experience disruption in their lives; disruption which affects the steady use of birth control. People in poor areas are more suspicious of the health care system, and they may refuse medical treatment and advice, especially for less-critical wellness treatments such as birth control.^[53]

Abortion

Slave women brought with them from Africa the knowledge of traditional folk birth control practices, and of abortion obtained through the use of herbs, blunt trauma, and other methods of killing the fetus or producing strong uterine cramps. Slave women were often expected to breed more slave children to enrich their owners, but some quietly rebelled.^[54] In 1856 a white doctor reported that a number of slave owners were upset that their slaves appeared to hold a "secret by which they destroy the foetus at an early age of gestation".^{[55][56][57]} However, this folk knowledge was suppressed in the new American culture, especially by the nascent American Medical Association, and its practice fell away.^{[55][57]}

After slavery ended, black women formed social groups and clubs in the 1890s to "uplift their race."^[56] The revolutionary idea that a black woman might enjoy a full life without ever being a mother was presented in Josephine St. Pierre Ruffin's magazine The Woman's Era. Knowledge was secretly shared among clubwomen regarding how to find practitioners offering illegal medical or traditional abortion services. Working-class black women, who were more often forced into having sex with white men, continued to have a need for birth control and abortions. Black women who earned less than $10 per day paid $50 to $75 for an illegal and dangerous abortion. Throughout the 20th century, "backstreet" abortion providers in black neighborhoods were also sought out by poor white women who wanted to rid themselves of pregnancies. Abortion providers who were black were prosecuted much more often than white ones were.^[55]

During this time the Black Panthers printed pamphlets which described abortion as black genocide, expanding on their earlier stance with regard to family planning.^[58] However, most minority groups stood in favor of the decriminalization of abortion; The New York Times reported in 1970 that more non-white women than white women died as a result of "crude, illegal abortions".^[59] Legalized abortion was expected to produce fewer deaths of the mother. A poll in Buffalo, New York, conducted by the National Organization for Women (NOW), found that 75% of blacks supported the decriminalization of abortion.^[60]

In the 1970s, Jesse Jackson spoke out against abortion as a form of black genocide.

After the January 1973 Roe v. Wade Supreme Court decision made abortion legal in the US, Jet magazine publisher Robert E. Johnson authored an article titled "Legal Abortion: Is It Genocide Or Blessing In Disguise?" Johnson cast the issue as one which polarized the black community along gender lines: black women generally viewed abortion as a "blessing in disguise" but black men such as Reverend Jesse Jackson viewed it as black genocide.^{[46][61]} Jackson said he was in favor of birth control but not abortion.^[61] The next year, Senator Mark Hatfield, an activist against legal abortion, emphasized to Congress that Jackson "regards abortion as a form of genocide practiced against blacks."^{[62][63][64]}

In Jet, Johnson quoted Lu Palmer, a radio journalist in Chicago, who said that there was inequity between the sexes: a young black man who helped create an unwanted pregnancy could go his "merry way" while the young woman who had been involved in it was stigmatized by society and saddled with a financial and emotional burden, often without a safety net of caregivers to sustain her.^[61] Civil rights lawyer Florynce Kennedy criticized the idea that black women were needed to populate the Black Power revolution. She said that black majorities in the Deep South were not known to be hotbeds of revolution, and that limiting black women to the role of mothers was "not too far removed from a cultural past where black women were encouraged to be breeding machines for their slave masters."^[61] In the Tennessee General Assembly in 1967, Dorothy Lavinia Brown, MD, the first African-American woman surgeon and a state assemblywoman, sponsored a proposed bill to fully legalize abortion.^[55] Later Brown, would say black women "should dispense quickly the notion that abortion is genocide." Rather, they should look to the earliest Atlantic slave traders as the root of genocide.^[55] Congresswoman Shirley Chisholm wrote in 1970 that the linking of abortion and genocide "is male rhetoric, for male ears."^{[65][66]}

However, a link between abortion and black genocide has been claimed by later observers. Mildred Fay Jefferson, a surgeon and an activist against legal abortion, wrote about black genocide in 1978, saying "abortionists have done more to get rid of generations and cripple others than all of the years of slavery and lynching."^{[67][68][69]} Jefferson's views were shared by Michigan state legislator and NAACP member Rosetta A. Ferguson, who led the effort to defeat a Michigan abortion liberalization bill in 1972. Ferguson described abortion as black genocide.^[70]

In 2009, American pro-life activists in Georgia revived the idea that a black genocide was in progress.^[42] A strong response from this strategy was observed among blacks, and in 2010 more focus was placed on describing abortion as black genocide. White pro-life activist Mark Crutcher produced a documentary called Maafa 21 which criticizes Planned Parenthood and its founder Margaret Sanger, and describes various historic aspects of eugenics, birth control and abortion with the aim of convincing the viewer that abortion is black genocide. Pro-life activists showed the documentary to black audiences across the US.^{[71][72]} The film was criticized as propaganda and a false representation of Sanger's work.^{[73][74][75]} In March 2011, a series of abortion-as-genocide billboard advertisements were shown in South Chicago, an area with a large population of African Americans.^[76] From May to November 2011, presidential candidate Herman Cain criticized Planned Parenthood, calling abortion "planned genocide" and "black genocide".^[77]

After Stacey Abrams lost the 2018 Georgia gubernatorial election, anti-abortion activist Arthur A. Goldberg wrote that she lost in part because of her stance in favor of abortion rights, which he said ignored "the staggering number of abortions in the black community" which amounted to black genocide.^[78] In 2019, The New York Times wrote that "the abortion debate is inextricably tied to race" in the view of black American communities that are challenged with many other racial disparities which together constitute black genocide.^[79]

People hold varied stances on the topic of abortion and whether individuals should be allowed to have them performed. "The Effects of Economic Conditions and Access to Reproductive Health Services on State Abortion Rates and Birth Rates" talks about how abortions are a result of a variety of factors.^[80] "Wages, welfare policies and access to physicians, family planning clinics and abortion providers" are some of those factors listed in the article.^[80] "Every individual has the right to decide freely and responsibly – without discrimination, coercion and violence – the number, spacing and timing of their children, and to have the information and means to do so, and the right to attain the highest standard of sexual and reproductive health (ICPD 1994)" is a valued principle for the World Health Organization, which advocates for the ability of individuals to receive safe medical care, a category inclusive of abortions.^[81]

Analysis

In 1976, sociologist Irving Louis Horowitz published an analysis of black genocide and concluded that racist vigilantism and sporadic actions by individual whites were to blame for the various statistics which show that blacks experience higher death rates than whites do. Horowitz concluded that the US government could not be implicated as a conspirator and there was no conspiracy to engage in a concerted black genocide.^[82]

Political scientist Joy A. James wrote in 2013 that the "logical conclusion" of American racism is genocide and members of the black elite are complicit, along with white Americans, in carrying out black genocide.^[83]

See also

- Black supremacy
- Civil Rights Movement
- Harry R. Jackson Jr., owner of The Truth in Black & White website
- Kalergi Plan
- List of conspiracy theories
- Maafa
- Mass racial violence in the United States
- Medical Apartheid, a book by Harriet A. Washington which describes the history of unethical human experimentation on African Americans
- Political positions of Herman Cain
- Racism in the United States
- Title X

- Tuskegee syphilis experiment
- White genocide conspiracy theory
- White nationalism
- White supremacy

References

1. Nier III, Charles Lewis (1997). "Guilty as Charged: Malcolm X and His Vision of Racial Justice for African Americans Through Utilization of the United Nations International Human Rights Provisions and Institutions" (<https://elibrary.law.psu.edu/psilr/vol16/iss1/3/>). Penn State International Law Review. 16 (1): 149–189. Retrieved February 24, 2018.
2. Clarke, John Henrik, ed. (1990) [1969]. "Outline for Petition to the United Nations Charging Genocide Against 22 Million Black Americans". Malcolm X: The Man and His Times (<https://archive.org/details/malcolmX00john>). Trenton, N.J.: Africa World Press. pp. 343–351 (<https://archive.org/details/malcolmX00john/page/343>). ISBN 978-0-86543-201-7.
3. "People & Events: Black Genocide" (https://www.pbs.org/wgbh/amex/pill/peopleevents/e_genocide.html). American Experience. PBS. Retrieved February 18, 2013.
4. Smith, Mary (March 1968). "Birth Control and the Negro Woman" (<https://books.google.com/books?id=nNkDAAAAMBAJ&pg=PA29>). Ebony. 23 (5): 29.
5. Wright, Nathan (December 1969). "Black Power vs. Black Genocide". The Black Scholar. Paradigm Publishers. 1 (2): 47–52. doi:10.1080/00064246.1969.11430663 (<https://doi.org/10.1080%2F00064246.1969.11430663>). JSTOR 41202828 (<https://www.jstor.org/stable/41202828>).
6. Kumeh, Titania (October 12, 2010). "Conspiracy Watch: Is Abortion Black Genocide?" (<https://www.motherjones.com/media/2010/09/abortion-black-genocide>). Mother Jones.
7. Scott, Laell (May 25, 1970). "Legal Abortions, Ready or Not" (<https://books.google.com/books?id=Bb buOzD8HHUC&pg=PA68>). New York Magazine. 3 (21): 68. ISSN 0028-7369 (<https://www.worldcat.org/issn/0028-7369>).
8. Nelson, Jennifer (2003). Women of Color: And the Reproductive Rights Movement (<https://books.google.com/books?id=6JnN7QovJ0cC&pg=PA89>). NYU Press. p. 89. ISBN 0814758274.
9. Caron, Simone M. (Spring 1998). "Birth Control and the Black Community in the 1960s: Genocide or Power Politics?". Journal of Social History. Oxford University Press. 31 (3): 545–569. doi:10.1353/jsh/31.3.545 (<https://doi.org/10.1353%2Fjsh%2F31.3.545>). JSTOR 3789714 (<https://www.jstor.org/stable/3789714>).
10. Taylor, Keeanga-Yamahtta (20 September 2019). From #BlackLivesMatter to Black liberation (<https://www.worldcat.org/oclc/907653029>). Chicago, Illinois. ISBN 978-1-64259-101-9. OCLC 907653029 (<https://www.worldcat.org/oclc/907653029>).
11. Johnson, Walter, 1967- (14 April 2020). The broken heart of America : St. Louis and the violent history of the United States (<https://www.worldcat.org/oclc/1111963122>) (First ed.). New York. ISBN 978-0-465-06426-7. OCLC 1111963122 (<https://www.worldcat.org/oclc/1111963122>).
12. Muhammad, Khalil Gibran, 1972- (2011). The condemnation of blackness : race, crime, and the making of modern urban America (<https://www.worldcat.org/oclc/734009876>) (1st Harvard University Press pbk. ed.). Cambridge, Mass.: Harvard University Press. ISBN 978-0-674-06211-5. OCLC 734009876 (<https://www.worldcat.org/oclc/734009876>).
13. Martin, Charles H. (Summer 1997). "Internationalizing 'The American Dilemma': The Civil Rights Congress and the 1951 Genocide Petition to the United Nations". Journal of American Ethnic History. University of Illinois Press. 16 (4): 35–61. JSTOR 27502217 (<https://www.jstor.org/stable/27502217>).
14. Rothstein, Richard (2017). The color of law : a forgotten history of how our government segregated America (<https://www.worldcat.org/oclc/959808903>) (First ed.). New York. ISBN 978-1-63149-285-3. OCLC 959808903 (<https://www.worldcat.org/oclc/959808903>).

15. Brian Greenberg; Linda S. Watts; Richard A. Greenwald; Gordon Reavley; Alice L. George; Scott Beekman; Cecelia Bucki; Mark Ciabattari; John C. Stoner; Troy D. Paino; Laurie Mercier; Andrew Hunt; Peter C. Holloran; Nancy Cohen, eds. (2008). Social History of the United States (<https://books.google.com/books?id=xypn4dixVD4C&pg=RA6-PA356>). ABC-CLIO. p. 356. ISBN 978-1598841282.
16. Smethurst, James (2010). "Malcolm X and the Black Arts Movement". In Terrill, Robert (ed.). The Cambridge Companion to Malcolm X. Cambridge University Press. p. 84. ISBN 978-1139825450.
17. Harpaz, Beth J. "Lynching memorial and museum in Alabama opens to crowds, and tears" (<https://www.chicagotribune.com/nation-world/ct-lynching-memorial-alabama-20180426-story,amp.html>). Chicago Tribune.
18. Langley, Brandy Marie (2014-03-26). "The Black Experience in the United States: An Examination of Lynching and Segregation as Instruments of Genocide" (<https://scholarcommons.usf.edu/cgi/viewcontent.cgi?article=6253&context=etd>). University of South Florida Scholar Common: 39.
19. "american lynching 9780300184747 - Google Search" (https://www.google.com/search?safe=active&rlz=1C1SQJL_enUS907US907&q=american+lynching+9780300184747&stick=H4slIAAAAAAAAAAONGFuLVT9c3NEyqzDOJTy820RLKTrbST8rPzwYTVpnFSXmPGIO5BV7-uCcs5TVpzclrjC5cWBQJ6XGxueaVZJZUCqlwCUqhmqrBIMXPhSrEs4hVPjE3tSgzOTFPlacyLzkjMy9dwdLcwsDYwMDQwsTcxBwAbtWJnJ0AAAA). www.google.com. Retrieved 2020-09-18.
20. Waldrep, Christopher (February 2000). "War of Words: The Controversy over the Definition of Lynching, 1899-1940" (<https://www.jstor.org/stable/2587438>). The Journal of Southern History. 66 (1): 75–100. doi:10.2307/2587438 (<https://doi.org/10.2307%2F2587438>). JSTOR 2587438 (<https://www.jstor.org/stable/2587438>).
21. Tyner, James A. (2012). Genocide and the Geographical Imagination: Life and Death in Germany, China, and Cambodia (<https://books.google.com/books?id=KQbdXq7f4vwC&pg=PA52>). Rowman & Littlefield. p. 52. ISBN 978-1442208995.
22. Kaelber, Lutz (2012). "Eugenics/Sexual Sterilizations in North Carolina" (<https://www.webcitation.org/66tdIRiR0?url=http://www.uvm.edu/~lkaelber/eugenics/NC/NC.html>). University of Vermont. Archived from the original (<http://www.uvm.edu/~lkaelber/eugenics/NC/NC.html>) on April 13, 2012. Retrieved March 6, 2013. College course study guide
23. Hattery, Angela J.; Smith, Earl (2007). African American Families (<https://books.google.com/books?id=UrRCsOEIchQC&pg=PA162>). SAGE. p. 162. ISBN 978-1412924665.
24. Critchlow 1999, p. 144 (https://books.google.com/books?id=tEJ9_0LcBPoC&pg=PA144)
25. Thompson, M. Cordell (July 19, 1973). "Genocide: Black Youngsters Are Sterilized By Alabama Agency" (<https://books.google.com/books?id=NEMDAAAAMBAJ&pg=PA12>). Jet. Johnson Publishing. 44 (17): 12–15. ISSN 0021-5996 (<https://www.worldcat.org/issn/0021-5996>).
26. Hume, Martha (March 1974). "Abortion in Texas" (<https://books.google.com/books?id=GiwEAAAAMB AJ&pg=PA68>). Texas Monthly. Emmis Communications. 2 (3): 68. ISSN 0148-7736 (<https://www.worldcat.org/issn/0148-7736>).
27. Price, Gregory N.; Darity, William A. (2010-07-01). "The economics of race and eugenic sterilization in North Carolina: 1958–1968" (<http://www.sciencedirect.com/science/article/pii/S1570677X10000201>). Economics & Human Biology. Special Issue Section: Latin American Anthropometrics. 8 (2): 261–272. doi:10.1016/j.ehb.2010.01.002 (<https://doi.org/10.1016%2Fj.ehb.2010.01.002>). ISSN 1570-677X (<https://www.worldcat.org/issn/1570-677X>). PMID 20188639 (<https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/20188639/>).
28. Self 2012, p. 79 (<https://books.google.com/books?id=B7nffG4WBrIC&pg=PT79>)
29. Bibby, Michael (1996). Hearts and Minds: Bodies, Poetry, and Resistance in the Vietnam Era (https://books.google.com/books?id=5dY-UXC_odsC&pg=PA55). Perspectives on the Sixties. Rutgers University Press. pp. 54–55. ISBN 0813522986.

30. "African Americans in the Vietnam War" (http://www.english.illinois.edu/maps/poets/s_z/stevens/africanamer.htm). Modern American Poetry. English Department, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. Retrieved March 28, 2013. As published in The Oxford Companion to American Military History (1999).
31. Social History of the United States, 2008, p. 53. (<https://books.google.com/books?id=xyxn4dixVD4C&pg=RA6-PA53>)
32. Social History of the United States, 2008, p. 54. (<https://books.google.com/books?id=xyxn4dixVD4C&pg=RA6-PA54>)
33. "Mrs. King to Speak: Students protest 'black genocide'" (<https://news.google.com/newspapers?nid=2205&dat=19691011&id=Hu9fAAAAIBAJ&pg=1058,7645610>). Baltimore Afro-American. October 11, 1969. p. 3. Retrieved March 28, 2013.
34. Forman, James, 1967- (18 April 2017). Locking up our own : crime and punishment in black America (<https://www.worldcat.org/oclc/959667302>) (First ed.). New York. ISBN 978-0-374-18997-6. OCLC 959667302 (<https://www.worldcat.org/oclc/959667302>).
35. Hinton, Elizabeth Kai, 1983- (9 May 2016). From the war on poverty to the war on crime : the making of mass incarceration in America (<https://www.worldcat.org/oclc/926061456>). Cambridge, Massachusetts. ISBN 978-0-674-73723-5. OCLC 926061456 (<https://www.worldcat.org/oclc/926061456>).
36. Alexander, Michelle (2010). The new Jim Crow : mass incarceration in the age of colorblindness (<http://www.worldcat.org/oclc/320803432>). New York. ISBN 978-1-59558-103-7. OCLC 320803432 (<http://www.worldcat.org/oclc/320803432>).
37. Al-Amin, Jamil (1969). Die Nigger Die!. Dial Press. pp. 136–138. ISBN 9781556524523.
38. James, Joy A. (2013). Seeking the Beloved Community: A Feminist Race Reader. SUNY Press. pp. 269–274. ISBN 9781438446349. Originally published as "The Dead Zone: Stumbling at the Crossroads of Party Politics, Genocide and Postracial Racism" in South Atlantic Quarterly, vol. 108, no. 3, Summer 2009, pp. 459–481.
39. Frazier, Mansfield B. (1995). From Behind the Wall: Commentary on crime, punishment, race, and the underclass by a prison inmate (https://archive.org/details/isbn_9781557787064/page/125). Paragon House. p. 125 (https://archive.org/details/isbn_9781557787064/page/125). ISBN 1557787069. "One factor which isn't considered is the whispered rumor which circulates in our nation's ghettos. It holds that whites are secretly engaged in a program of genocide against the black race. The fact that so many black men of child-producing age are incarcerated for crimes for which only they go to prison gives a measure of validity to this theory"
40. Mindfulness in adolescence (<https://www.worldcat.org/oclc/887227338>). Oberle, Eva., Schonert-Reichl, Kimberly. San Francisco. ISBN 978-1-118-96140-7. OCLC 887227338 (<https://www.worldcat.org/oclc/887227338>).
41. Crutchfield, Robert D.; Weeks, Gregory A. (2015-11-02). "The Effects of Mass Incarceration on Communities of Color" (<https://issues.org/the-effects-of-mass-incarceration-on-communities-of-color/>). Issues in Science and Technology. Retrieved 2020-10-22.
42. Joyce, Kathryn (April 29, 2010). "Abortion as 'Black Genocide': An Old Scare Tactic Re-emerges" (<http://www.politicalresearch.org/abortion-as-black-genocide-an-old-scare-tactic-re-emerges/>). Political Research Associates. Retrieved March 27, 2013.
43. Silliman, Jael Miriam (2004). Undivided Rights: Women Of Color Organize For Reproductive Justice (<https://archive.org/details/undividedrightsw00jael>). South End Press. p. 53 (<https://archive.org/details/undividedrightsw00jael/page/53>). ISBN 0896087298.
44. Kluchin, Rebecca M. (2011). Fit to Be Tied: Sterilization and Reproductive Rights in America, 1950–1980 (<https://books.google.com/books?id=fbXeTqBPiP8C&pg=PA53>). Critical Issues in Health and Medicine. Rutgers University Press. p. 53. ISBN 978-0813549996.
45. "Timeline: The Pill" (<https://www.pbs.org/wgbh/amex/pill/timeline/timeline2.html>). American Experience. PBS. Retrieved February 22, 2013.

46. Critchlow, Donald T. (1999). Intended Consequences: Birth Control, Abortion, and the Federal Government in Modern America (https://books.google.com/books?id=tEJ9_0LcBPoC&pg=PA142). Oxford University Press. p. 142. ISBN 0198021534.
47. Willie, Charles Vert (1977). "A National Population Policy and the Fear of Racial Genocide" (<https://books.google.com/books?id=MW200xjK49cC&pg=PA27>). In Charles Vert Willie (ed.). Black/Brown/White Relations: Race Relations in the 1970s. Transaction Publishers. pp. 27–28. ISBN 141281880X.
48. Davis, Angela Y. (2011). Women, Race, & Class (<https://books.google.com/books?id=74QzFiv1w10C&pg=PA203>). Random House Digital. p. 203. ISBN 978-0307798497. Reprint of 1981 original.
49. Murphy, Michelle (2012). Seizing the Means of Reproduction: Entanglements of Feminism, Health, and Technoscience (<https://books.google.com/books?id=iR6NVzFEtngC&pg=PA44>). Experimental futures. Duke University Press. pp. 44–45. ISBN 978-0822353362.
50. Cade, Toni (1970). "The Pill: Genocide or Liberation?". In Toni Cade (ed.). The Black Woman: An Anthology. New American Library. pp. 162–169.
51. "Battle of Negroes Looms Over Center in Pittsburgh" (<https://news.google.com/newspapers?nid=2506&dat=19681007&id=eHZJAAAAIBAJ&pg=969,2088464>). The News and Courier. Charleston, South Carolina. Associated Press. October 7, 1968. p. 10A. Retrieved February 22, 2013.
52. "Contraceptive Use in the United States" (http://www.guttmacher.org/pubs/fb_contr_use.html). Fact Sheet. Guttmacher Institute. Retrieved February 18, 2013.
53. Cohen, Susan A. (Summer 2008). "Abortion and Women of Color: The Bigger Picture" (<http://www.guttmacher.org/pubs/gpr/11/3/gpr110302.html>). Guttmacher Policy Review. Guttmacher Institute. 11 (3).
54. Ross, Loretta J. (1993). "African-American Women and Abortion: 1800–1970" (<https://books.google.com/books?id=4Xv22ruz-5QC&pg=PA146>). In Abena P. A. Busia; Stanlie M. James (eds.). Theorizing Black Feminisms: The Visionary Pragmatism of Black Women. Routledge. p. 146. ISBN 0203991354.
55. Ross, Loretta J. (Spring 1994). "A Simple Human Right; The History Of Black Women And Abortion" (http://www.ontheissuesmagazine.com/1994spring/spring1994_Ross.php). On the Issues. Retrieved February 20, 2013.
56. Silliman 2004, p. 51 (<https://books.google.com/books?id=BTXZEaFpiD8C&pg=PA51>)
57. Schwartz, Marie Jenkins (2006). Birthing a Slave: Motherhood And Medicine in the Antebellum South (<https://books.google.com/books?id=PErMWGzHpcAC&pg=PA111>). Harvard University Press. p. 111. ISBN 0674022025.
58. Wilt, Judith (1990). Abortion, Choice, and Contemporary Fiction: The Armageddon of the Maternal Instinct (https://books.google.com/books?id=VJpC1_T-AeMC&pg=PA14). University of Chicago Press. p. 14. ISBN 0226901580.
59. "Liberal abortion law passed by divided New York Senate" (<https://news.google.com/newspapers?nid=2206&dat=19700319&id=HCpmAAAAIBAJ&pg=840,6014512>). The Miami News. Albany, New York. The New York Times. March 19, 1970. p. 4A.
60. Tribe, Laurence H. (1992). Abortion: The Clash of Absolutes (<https://books.google.com/books?id=oOtVjSDUPP0C&pg=PA48>) (2 ed.). W. W. Norton & Company. p. 48. ISBN 0393309568.
61. Johnson, Robert E. (March 22, 1973). "Legal Abortion: Is It Genocide Or Blessing In Disguise?" (<https://books.google.com/books?id=5bEDAAAAMBaj&pg=PA16>). Jet. Johnson Publishing. 43 (26): 12–18, 51. ISSN 0021-5996 (<https://www.worldcat.org/issn/0021-5996>).
62. Peach, Lucinda (2002). Legislating Morality : Pluralism and Religious Identity in Lawmaking: Pluralism and Religious Identity in Lawmaking (<https://books.google.com/books?id=Wu1m1d73kMoC&pg=PA87>). Oxford University Press. p. 87. ISBN 0198032862.

63. United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on the Judiciary. Subcommittee on Constitutional Amendments (1974). Abortion: hearings before the Subcommittee on Constitutional Amendments of the Committee on the Judiciary, United States Senate, Ninety-third Congress, second session (<http://archive.org/details/abortionhearings03unit>). Government Printing Office. pp. 7 (<https://archive.org/details/abortionhearings03unit/page/7>), 15.
64. Luks, Samantha; Salamone, Michael (2008). "Abortion" (<https://books.google.com/books?id=9Uw6ADoVpdkC&pg=PA96>). In Nathaniel Persily; Jack Citrin; Patrick J. Egan (eds.). Public Opinion and Constitutional Controversy. Oxford University Press. p. 96. ISBN 978-0198044055.
65. Chisholm, Shirley (1970). Unbought and Unbossed (https://archive.org/details/unboughtunbossed00chi_hy1). Boston: Houghton Mifflin.
66. Self, Robert O. (2012). All in the Family: The Realignment of American Democracy Since the 1960s (<https://books.google.com/books?id=B7nffG4WBriC&pg=PT221>). Macmillan. p. 221. ISBN 978-1429955560.
67. Henry Louis Gates; Evelyn Brooks Higginbotham, eds. (2004). African American Lives (<https://books.google.com/books?id=3dXw6gR2GgkC&pg=PA447>). Oxford University Press. p. 447. ISBN 019988286X.
68. "A Fighter for Right to Life" (<https://books.google.com/books?id=kS3XGFMhKPEC&pg=PA88>). Ebony. Johnson Publishing. 33 (6): 88. April 1978. ISSN 0012-9011 (<https://www.worldcat.org/issn/0012-9011>).
69. McDonnell, Kathleen (2003). Not an Easy Choice: Re-Examining Abortion (<https://books.google.com/books?id=Ozc6Xdh4-k0C&pg=PA87>). Second Story Press. p. 87. ISBN 1896764657.
70. Williams, Daniel K. (2016). Defenders of the Unborn: The Pro-life Movement Before Roe v. Wade. Oxford University Press. pp. 192–193. ISBN 9780199391646.
71. Dewan, Shaila (February 25, 2010). "To Court Blacks, Foes of Abortion Make Racial Case" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2010/02/27/us/27race.html>). The New York Times. Retrieved February 18, 2013.
72. Barry, Vincent (2011). Bioethics in a Cultural Context: Philosophy, Religion, History, Politics (<https://books.google.com/books?id=le0XO1aKVSsC&pg=PA197>). Cengage Learning. p. 197. ISBN 978-0495814085.
73. Goldberg, Michelle (March 8, 2010). "Anti-Choice Doc Aims to Link Reproductive Rights to 'Black Genocide'" (http://www.religiondispatches.org/archive/2341/anti-choice_doc_aims_to_link_reproductive_rights_to_%25E2%2580%2598black_genocide%25E2%2580%2599). Religion Dispatches.
74. Carlson, Frank N. (June 2, 2010). "Anti-abortionists Accuse Knoxville Planned Parenthood of 'Black Genocide'" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110301013141/http://www.metropulse.com/news/2010/jun/02/anti-abortionists-accuse-knoxville-planned-parentth/>). Metro Pulse. Knoxville, Tennessee: Scripps Interactive Newspapers Group. Archived from the original (<http://www.metropulse.com/news/2010/jun/02/anti-abortionists-accuse-knoxville-planned-parentth/>) on March 1, 2011. Retrieved February 18, 2013.
75. Margaret Sanger Papers Project (April 2010). "Smear-n-Fear" (<http://www.nyu.edu/projects/sanger/sightings/index.html>). News & Sanger Sightings. New York University. Retrieved February 18, 2013.
76. Stanek, Jill (March 28, 2011). "Breaking: New 'abortion is black genocide' Chicago billboard to feature Obama" (<http://www.jillstanek.com/2011/03/breaking-new-abortion-is-black-genocide-chicago-billboard-to-feature-obama/>). Jill Stanek.com. Jill Stanek. Retrieved February 18, 2013.
77. Terrell, Kellee (November 11, 2011). "Commentary: Herman Cain Calls Abortion Black Genocide" (<http://www.bet.com/news/health/2011/11/11/commentary-herman-cain-calls-abortion-black-genocide.html>). BET. BET Interactove. Retrieved February 18, 2013.
78. Goldberg, Arthur (February 11, 2019). "Abortion's Devastating Impact Upon Black Americans" (<https://www.thepublicdiscourse.com/2019/02/48594/>). Public Discourse: The Journal of the Witherspoon Institute. Retrieved August 25, 2019.

79. Eligon, John (July 6, 2019). "When 'Black Lives Matter' Is Invoked in the Abortion Debate" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2019/07/06/us/black-abortion-missouri.html>). The New York Times. Retrieved August 25, 2019.
 80. Matthews, Stephen, et al. "The Effects of Economic Conditions and Access to Reproductive Health Services On State Abortion Rates and Birthrates." Family Planning Perspectives, vol. 29, no. 2, 1997, pp. 52–60. JSTOR, www.jstor.org/stable/2953362. Accessed 22 Oct. 2020.
 81. "Abortion" (<https://www.who.int/westernpacific/health-topics/abortion>). www.who.int. Retrieved 2020-10-22.
 82. Horowitz, Irving Louis (1976). Genocide: State Power and Mass Murder (<https://books.google.com/books?id=GSCmoOAwtTIC&pg=PA52>) (2 ed.). Transaction Publishers. pp. 52–54. ISBN 1412824443.
 83. James 2013, pp. 270, 277.
-

Retrieved from "https://en.wikipedia.org/w/index.php?title=Black_genocide&oldid=1028475578"

This page was last edited on 14 June 2021, at 06:16 (UTC).

Text is available under the Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike License; additional terms may apply. By using this site, you agree to the Terms of Use and Privacy Policy. Wikipedia® is a registered trademark of the Wikimedia Foundation, Inc., a non-profit organization.

The Plan (Washington, D.C.)

The Plan is a conspiracy theory in Washington, D.C., which posits that since the enactment of the District of Columbia Home Rule Act in 1973, white people have had a "plan to take back" the black-majority city and the offices of the local government.^{[1][2]} The theory asserts that the decline of low-income black residents and their replacement by wealthier whites from outside of Washington, D.C. is intentional through the calculated use of gentrification and urban renewal.^[3] The Plan is generally regarded as false within Washington, D.C., while some believe it has quiet but considerable support among black residents and influences local elections.^[4]

Contents

History

21st Century

References

Further reading

History

It appears that Lillian Wiggins, a columnist for the Washington Afro American newspaper, was the first to "articulate" the conspiracy theory. In 1979, she wrote: "Many residents believe that the Marion Barry era may be the last time Washington will have a black mayor. If negative programming and characterization of black leadership are allowed to continue in the city of Washington and especially the black community, there is a strong possibility of the 'master plan' which I have so often spoken about maturing in the 1980s." Believers note that the Federal City Council, an organized group of civic and corporate leaders, mostly white, meets in secret and uses its power to influence the city's direction.^[1] The theory particularly gained sway in the 1980s and early 1990s, as the city became increasingly unaffordable to low-income minorities. Urban renewal was also seen as intended to push out minority populations.^[5]

Anti-theorists note that instead of an organized conspiracy, there are market forces, demographics, and gentrification—which is happening quickly in the District of Columbia—at work. Black residents have left the District, just as many whites moved to the suburbs beginning in the 1950s. Both groups left a decaying city, its crime, and its failing schools seeking "a better, safer life. . . . One could argue that middle-class blacks abandoned the city. Was that part of 'the plan?'"^[1] Others counter that the existence of the theory reflects "the fears of a black community that already feels under attack in a city whose rising cost of living makes hanging on difficult . . . if such paranoia seems laughable, it reflects a reality that's easily illustrated in bright colors",^[6] although the theory has been around longer than the city's changing demographics.

21st Century

Census figures show that between 2000 and 2010, the District lost about 39,000 black residents while over 50,000 whites moved in. The black population declined by 11.1%, while the white population saw a 31.4% increase.^{[7][8]} "The District, once 'Chocolate City', is becoming, as the saying goes, 'Vanilla Village'."^[4] As of 2010, the city was about 51% black and 39% white^[7]—compared to 61%–34% in 2000. The black population peaked in 1970 at 71%. If trends continue, the city would get a white majority any time from 2014 to 2020.^[9] This has been attributed to The Plan.^[10] In 2013, the black population of Washington D.C. dropped below 50% to 49.5%.^[11]

Efforts to improve the District of Columbia Public Schools have been linked to the purported conspiracy, as the improvements have tended to increase enrollment of white children. Although shifting demographics are broadening school demand, these are seen as either the effectuation or the result of The Plan.^[4] Similarly, rising real estate values, increased business, more abundant night life and other factors which "would otherwise be viewed as a positive becomes evidence" of the scheme, even to those who benefit from the improvements.^[12] One commentator opined "Don't ask [Mayor] Fenty or [Schools Chancellor] Rhee whom this world-class school system will serve if low-income black residents are being evicted from his world-class city in droves" and went on to claim "The scheme was odious: re-create a more sophisticated version of the plantation-style, federally appointed three-member commission that ruled the city for more than a century until 1967."^[13]

The Plan, and related fears, are said to have contributed to the defeat of incumbent mayor Adrian Fenty in the 2010 primary election.^{[1][14][13]} One observer noted: "A vote for [challenger Vincent] Gray, admirers of the D.C. Council chairman imply, stops The Plan dead, putting all those whiny newcomers in their place."^[14] Sharon Pratt Kelly, who was mayor before Fenty, does not believe The Plan is real. She sees no malicious intent, but does allow for "a reckless disregard for a great many people" among the "power elite" in the city.^[15]

References

1. Harry Jaffe, So-called "plan" for white supremacy lives on in D.C. (<https://www.washingtonexaminer.com/harry-jaffe-so-called-plan-for-white-supremacy-lives-on-in-dc>), Washington Examiner, August 30, 2010.
2. Jeffrey R. Henig and Wilbur C. Rich, Mayors in the middle: politics, race, and mayoral control of urban schools. Princeton University Press, 2004, pp. 204–207.
3. <https://skeptoid.com/blog/2013/07/29/the-plan-to-retake-washington/>
4. Jonetta Rose Barras, Recruiting Diversity: Michelle Rhee's campaign to diversify DCPS means wooing white parents (<http://www.washingtoncitypaper.com/articles/39647/michelle-rhees-campaign-to-diversify-dc-public-schools-means-wooing/full>). Washington CityPaper, August 27, 2010.
5. Mikaela Lefrak, "Conspiracy theories: Bad for democracy but good for a politician turned novelist (https://www.washingtonpost.com/lifestyle/magazine/why-is-a-former-politician-spending-his-time-writing-about-conspiracy-theories-its-2019/2019/02/04/56756548-180b-11e9-88fe-f9f77a3bcb6c_story.html?noredirect=on)", Washington Post Magazine, Feb. 10, 2019, pp. 4-6.
6. Rend Smith, Pretty Map Answers Ugly Question (<http://www.washingtoncitypaper.com/blogs/citydesk/>), Washington CityPaper, Sep. 21, 2010, 6:06 pm.
7. U.S. Census, "DC" (<http://2010.census.gov/2010census/data/embedstate.html?state=>) Archived (<http://web.archive.org/web/20120316165216/http://2010.census.gov/2010census/data/embedstate.html?state=>) 2012-03-16 at the Wayback Machine 2010 Census Results: District of Columbia.
8. Carol Morello and Dan Keating, Number of black D.C. residents plummets as majority status slips away (https://www.washingtonpost.com/local/black-dc-residents-plummet-barely-a-majority/2011/03/24/ABtlgJQB_story.html), The Washington Post, March 24, 2011.

9. Erika Niedowski, D.C. Is Continuing to Whiten (<http://www.washingtoncitypaper.com/blogs/citydesk/2010/01/07/d-c-is-continuing-to-whiten/>), WashingtonCityPaper, Jan. 7, 2010.
10. E.g., Comrade Al Gonzales, Comment #10 to D.C. Is Continuing to Whiten (<http://www.washingtoncitypaper.com/blogs/citydesk/2010/01/07/d-c-is-continuing-to-whiten/>), January 8, 2010, at 4:05 pm. Accessed 2010.09.23: "'The Plan' is working. White people are pushing black people out of the District - that's 'The Plan'".
11. US Census: "State & County QuickFacts - District of Columbia" (<http://quickfacts.census.gov/qfd/states/11000.html>) Archived (<https://www.webcitation.org/619qO8Tb4?url=http://quickfacts.census.gov/qfd/states/11000.html>) 2011-08-23 at WebCite retrieved January 27, 2015
12. William Raspberry, "Toward 2028 (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-srv/local/longterm/library/dc/dc6898/future.htm>)" The Washington Post, February 1, 1998.
13. Courtland Milloy, "D.C. election didn't just unseat abrasive Mayor Fenty. It was a populist revolt. (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2010/09/15/AR2010091506240.html>)" The Washington Post, September 16, 2010.
14. Editorial, Adrian Fenty: The Jerk D.C. Needs (<http://www.washingtoncitypaper.com/articles/39709/2010-endorsements/>), Washington CityPaper, September 10, 2010.
15. Ruben Casteneda, "What's The Plan?" Washington City Paper, March 6, 2020, p. 10.

Further reading

- Keith B. Richburg, Out of America: A Black Man Confronts Africa, BasicBooks, New York, 1997, especially pp. 144–148.
-

Retrieved from "https://en.wikipedia.org/w/index.php?title=The_Plan_\(Washington,_D.C.\)&oldid=1014566653&oldid=1014566653)"

This page was last edited on 27 March 2021, at 20:57 (UTC).

Text is available under the Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike License; additional terms may apply. By using this site, you agree to the Terms of Use and Privacy Policy. Wikipedia® is a registered trademark of the Wikimedia Foundation, Inc., a non-profit organization.

White genocide conspiracy theory

The white genocide, white extinction,^[1] or white replacement conspiracy theory^{[2][3][4]} is a white supremacist^{[5][6][7][8]} conspiracy theory which states that there is a deliberate plot, often blamed on Jews,^{[5][8]} to promote miscegenation,^[9] interracial marriage, mass non-white immigration, racial integration, low fertility rates, abortion, governmental land-confiscation from whites, organised violence,^[10] and eliminationism in white-founded countries^[5] in order to cause the extinction of whites through forced assimilation^[10] mass immigration, and violent genocide.^{[11][12][13][14]} Less frequently, black people,^[15] Hispanics,^[16] and Muslims^[17] are blamed, but merely as more fertile immigrants,^[18] invaders,^[19] or violent aggressors,^[20] rather than the masterminds of a secret plot.^[21]

Anti-immigrant protesters in Calais hold a sign in French reading "Diversity is a code word for white genocide", above a banner calling for remigration. November 8, 2015

White genocide is a myth,^{[22][23][15]} based on pseudoscience, pseudohistory, and hatred,^[24] driven by a psychological panic often termed "white extinction anxiety".^{[25][16]} There is no evidence that white people are dying out or facing extermination.^{[26][27][28][21]} The purpose of the conspiracy theory is to scare white people,^[26] and justify a commitment to a white nationalist agenda^[29] in support of increasingly successful calls to violence.^{[22][20][19]}

The theory was popularized by white separatist neo-Nazi David Lane around 1995, and has been leveraged as propaganda in Europe, North America, South Africa, and Australia. Similar conspiracy theories were prevalent in Nazi Germany^[30] and have been used in the present-day interchangeably with,^[31] and as a broader and more extreme version of, Renaud Camus's 2011 The Great Replacement, focusing on the white population of France.^{[32][33]} Since the 2019 Christchurch and El Paso shootings, of which the shooters' manifestos decried a "white replacement" and have referenced the concept of "Great Replacement", Camus's 2012 Great Replacement fallacy (often called "replacement theory" or "population replacement"),^[34] along with Bat Ye'or's 2002 Eurabia concept^[35] and Gerd Honsik's resurgent 1970s myth of a Kalergi plan,^[31] have all been used synonymously with "white genocide" and are increasingly referred to as variations of the conspiracy theory.

In August 2018, US President Donald Trump was accused of endorsing the conspiracy theory in a foreign policy tweet instructing Secretary of State Mike Pompeo to investigate South African "land and farm seizures and expropriations and the large scale killing of farmers",^{[36][37][38]} claiming that the "South African government is now seizing land from white farmers".^[39] The often critical narrative derived from the South African farm attacks, and land reform in South Africa, is an established subset theme of the broader conspiracy theory,^[26] portrayed in media as a form of gateway or proxy issue to "white genocide" within the wider context of the Western world.^{[40][39]} The topic of farm seizures in South Africa and Zimbabwe has been a rallying cry of white nationalists and alt-right groups^{[41][42]} who use it to justify their vision of white supremacy.^{[43][39]}

Contents

History

Background

Neo-Nazis' accusations against Jews

Rhodesian scare tactics

Alt-right

The Great Replacement

White extinction anxiety

Advocacy and spread

Africa

Europe

North America

Oceania

Influence on far-right terrorism

United States

Europe

New Zealand

Criticism and resistance

See also

References

History

The idea of a distinct white human race began with German physician and anthropologist Johann Blumenbach, who in 1775 claimed that there were five such races, Caucasian, Mongolian, Malayan, Ethiopian (or Negroid), and American Indian.^[44] Previously, François Bernier had in 1684 published a four-page essay postscript which posited five races, combining Europeans ("except for part of Muscovy") with inhabitants of the Northern coastal regions of Africa, and Arabia, Persia, Mongolia, India, and parts of China, Sumatra, Bantam, and Borneo, and described skin color as "merely accidental."^[45] Prior classifications of ethnicity and culture were narrower and more mutable through antiquity, drawing distinctions closer to those of tribal and familial groups, and were based on environmental factors such as geography and climate as well as appearance, physiology, and learned behaviors such as language and diet.^[46] Present-day racial and ethnic distinctions are only loosely correlated with genetic ancestry, with which they are being replaced in medical science.^{[47][48]}

Background

Madison Grant

The conspiracy theory had precursors in early 20th-century eugenics theories,^[49] which were popular in white-majority countries such as Australia and New Zealand, where it was feared that non-white immigrants would eventually supplant the white population.^[50]

In 1916, the American eugenicist and lawyer Madison Grant wrote a book entitled The Passing of the Great Race which, while largely ignored when it first appeared, went through four editions, becoming part of popular culture in 1920s America and, in the process, spawned the ideology that the founding-stock of the United States, the so-called Nordic race, were under extinction threats from assimilation with non-whites. Grant wrote of it:

Neither the black, nor the brown, nor the yellow, nor the red will conquer the white in battle. But if the valuable elements in the Nordic race mix with inferior strains or die out through race suicide, then the citadel of civilization will fall for mere lack of defenders.^[51]

Madison Grant

The Harvard Gazette described Grant's assertion that the race which "built" America was in danger of extinction unless the US reined in immigration of Jews and others.^[52] Author F. Scott Fitzgerald made a lightly disguised reference to Grant in The Great Gatsby, in which the character Tom Buchanan was reading a book called The Rise of the Colored Empires by "this man Goddard", a combination of Grant and his colleague Lothrop Stoddard. (Grant wrote the introduction to Stoddard's book The Rising Tide of Color Against White World-Supremacy.) "Everybody ought to read it", Buchanan explained. "The idea is if we don't look out the white race will be – will be utterly submerged. It's all scientific stuff; it's been proved."^[53]

Nazi Germany

Adolf Hitler wrote to Grant to thank him for writing The Passing of the Great Race, calling it "my Bible."^[54] Nazis employed the conspiracy theory widely as propaganda, as exemplified in a 1934 pamphlet written for the "Research Department for the Jewish question" of Walter Frank's "Reich Institute" with the title "Are the White Nations Dying? The Future of the White and the Colored Nations in the Light of Biological Statistics."^[30] Nazis used the conspiracy theory as a call to arms in a bid to gain power through cultural hegemony and scapegoating Jews by leveraging long-running historical prejudices.^{[55][56]}

Prior to Nazis coming to power, German eugenicists including Jewish medical and psychiatric professionals did consider Jews to be distinct from white Europeans, but not so "degenerate" or unfit as to require anything more than guidance avoiding heritable disease via marriage counseling and, as early as 1918, screening for Jews wishing to emigrate to Palestine.^[57]

Neo-Nazis' accusations against Jews

The modern conspiracy theory can be traced back to post-war European neo-Nazi circles, especially René Binet's 1950 book Théorie du Racisme.^{[58][59][60]} The latter influenced French 1960s far-right movements such as Europe-Action, which argued that "systematic race mixing [was] nothing more than a slow genocide".^{[61][62]} In December 1948, Binet's newspaper L'Unité wrote: "We accuse the Zionists and anti-racists of the crime of genocide because they claim to be imposing on us a crossbreeding that would be the death and destruction of our race and civilization".^[58]

The term "white genocide" appeared sporadically in the American Nazi Party's White Power newspaper as early as 1972^[63] and was used by the White Aryan Resistance^[64] in the 1970s and 1980s, where it primarily referred to contraception and abortion. The conspiracy theory was developed by the neo-Nazi David Lane in his White Genocide Manifesto (c. 1995, origin of the later use of the term),^{[65][66][67][63]} where he made the claim that the government policies of many Western countries had the intent of destroying white European culture and making white people an "extinct species".^[68] Lane—a founding member of the organization The Order—criticized miscegenation, abortion, homosexuality, Jewish control of the media, "multi-racial sports," the legal repercussions against those who "resist genocide", and the "Zionist Occupation Government" that he said controls the United States and the other majority-white countries and which encourages "white genocide".^{[68][69]}

Shortly after Lane's Manifesto, the Aryan Nations published their 1996 Declaration of Independence stating that the Zionist Occupation Government sought "the eradication of the white race and its culture" as "one of its foremost purposes." It accused such Jews of subverting the constitutional rule of law; responsibility for post-Civil War Reconstruction; subverting the monetary system with the Federal Reserve System, confiscating land and property; limiting freedoms of speech, religion, and gun ownership; murdering, kidnapping and imprisoning patriots; abdicating national sovereignty to the United Nations; political repression; wasteful bureaucracy; loosening restrictions on immigration and drug trafficking; raising taxes; polluting the environment; commandeering the military, mercenaries, and police; denying Aryan cultural heritage; and inciting immigrant insurrections.^{[70][71][72][73]} Of these accusations, only passage of the Federal Reserve Act, ratification of the Charter of the United Nations, and imprisonment of members of The Order were cited as specific instances.

Another strand developed in Europe in the 1970s by Austrian neo-Nazi Gerd Honsik, who distorted the early 20th century writings of Richard von Coudenhove-Kalergi with his invention of the Kalergi plan conspiracy theory, which was popularized in a 2005 book.^{[74][75]}

Rhodesian scare tactics

In 1966, Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith was described as having convinced white Rhodesians that their only alternative to his government's Rhodesian Bush War was "dictatorship and white genocide" by communist-backed black nationalist guerrillas.^{[76][77]}

White supremacists are described as being obsessed with the treatment of the formerly dominant white minorities in Zimbabwe and South Africa by the black majorities where "the diminished stature of whites is presented as an ongoing genocide that must be fought."^[77] In particular, the story of Rhodesia, as Zimbabwe was formerly known, ruled by a segregationist government under which most black people were denied the right to vote, holds a particular fascination for white supremacists. Zimbabwe's disastrous economic collapse under the leadership of its second black president, Robert Mugabe, together with the Mugabe government's policies towards the white minority has been cited by white supremacists as evidence of both the inferiority of blacks and a case of genocide against whites.^[77] In alt-right and white supremacist groups, there is much nostalgia for Rhodesia, which is seen as a state that fought valiantly for white supremacy in Africa in the 1960–1970s until it was betrayed.^[78]

Ian Smith c. 1954

Alt-right

In 2008, the conspiracy theory spread beyond its explicit neo-Nazi and white nationalist origins, to be embraced by the newly founded alt-right movement. Discussion threads on the white nationalist Internet forum Stormfront often center around the theme of white people being subjected to genocidal policies by their governments.^[68] The concept has also been popularized by the alt-right and alt-lite movements in the United States.^{[79][80]} The notion of racial purity, homogeneity or "racial hygiene" is an underlying theme of the white genocide discourse and it has been used by people with neo-Nazi and white supremacist backgrounds.^{[81][82]}

While individual iterations of the conspiracy theory vary on who is assigned blame, Jewish influence, people who hate whites,^[81] and liberal political forces are commonly cited by white supremacists as being the main factors leading to a white genocide.^{[14][83][84][68]} This view is held by prominent figures such as David Duke, who cites Jews and "liberal political ideals" as the main causes.^{[85][68]} White nationalist Robert Whitaker, who coined the phrase "anti-racist is a code word for anti-white" in a widely circulated 2006 piece seeking to popularize the white genocide concept online, used "anti-White" to describe those he believed are responsible for the genocide of white people, and continued to view it as a Jewish conspiracy while emphasizing that others also supported the "anti-White" cause.^{[86][87][88][65]} However, the view that Jews are responsible for a white genocide is contested by other white supremacist figures, such as Jared Taylor.^{[89][90][91][92][93]}

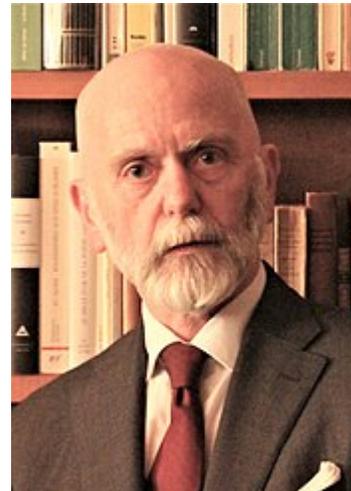

David Duke

The Great Replacement

Starting with French author Renaud Camus and his 2011 book Le Grand Remplacement, the conspiracy theory of the Great Replacement focused on a displacement of French whites by predominantly Muslim population from the Middle East and Africa, then turned into a pan-European concept which spread across most major countries' politics on the continent.^[94] Despite a common reference to a "genocide" of indigenous white peoples and a global plan led by a conspiring power, Camus's theory does not include an antisemitic Jewish plot. His removal of antisemitism from the original neo-Nazi theory (which has been replaced in the European context with Islamophobia), along with his use of simple catch-all slogans, have been cited as reasons for its broader appeal.^{[95][96]}

The Great Replacement has also been compared with the European Islamophobic strain of Bat Ye'or's 2002 Eurabia conspiracy theory,^[34] and with ideas expressed by far-right terrorist Anders Behring Breivik, the perpetrator of the 2011 Norway attacks, in his 2083: A European Declaration of Independence manifesto.^[35] Since the 2019 Christchurch mosque shootings, where the shooter named his manifesto The Great Replacement, the French-originated phrase has been widely established as synonymous with "white genocide", used by mainstream Western media interchangeably, and deemed largely responsible for the emerging term of "white replacement".^{[17][4]}

Renaud Camus, progenitor of the Great Replacement theory. March 2019

By 2017, at the Unite the Right rally in Charlottesville, Virginia, white nationalists were referencing the conspiracy theory as tiki torch-wielding protestors, who yelled "You will not replace us!" and "Jews will not replace us!".^{[97][98][99]} In response, Camus stated that he did not support Nazis or violence, but that he could understand why white Americans felt angry about being replaced, and that he approved of the sentiment.^[100]

White extinction anxiety

"White genocide anxiety,"^[101] "white displacement anxiety,"^[102] and, the most commonly referred to, "white extinction anxiety" or panic,^[25] is said to be one of the key driving forces behind the conspiracy theory and its supporters' adherence to it. The thesis, often cited as an explanation for some sections of white society's resistance to racial diversity,^[103] is reported as virtually inseparable from the conspiracy theory itself.^{[16][104][105]}

Former diplomat and scholar Alfredo Toro Hardy, who credits journalist Charles M. Blow with the term "white extinction anxiety", has outlined how "the anxieties related to the changing racial landscape of the United States" were at the heart of the concept, and propelled policies such as the Trump administration's "extreme measures against Southern immigrants".^[106] In this regard, Trump has been accused of capitalizing on "white genocide anxiety" with claims that immigration had "changed the fabric of Europe", and empowering his supporters in media, such as Laura Ingraham, to stoke fears of "massive demographic changes" within the US.^[101] Science journalist Ronald Bailey proposes that Trump is merely "the latest demagogue to rise to power by stoking white folks' ethnic fears", and that "white extinction panics" have historically occurred in the US each time the foreign-born population reached above 13 percent.^[25]

Blow has defined "white extinction anxiety" as the fear that white people will become a minority, stripped of their race-based privilege.^[107] Analyzing the concept, he examined Pat Buchanan's rhetoric (described by Bailey as a form of blood and soil mantra);^[25] of whether the nations of Europe and North America had the "will and capacity to halt the invasion of the countries" before immigration altered the "political, social, racial, ethnic - character of the country entirely." Addressing Buchanan's arguably ethnic nationalist conclusions that "You cannot stop these sentiments of people who want to live together with their own and they want their borders protected", Blow said, "Make no mistake here, Buchanan is talking about protecting white dominance, white culture, white majorities and white power".^[105]

Pat Buchanan in 2008

Anti-racism activist Jane Elliott has suggested that this anxiety, or "Fear of White Genetic Annihilation", is so great that political leaders will resort to any measures in order to prevent the white extinction event that they believe is unfolding, including measures such as the Alabama abortion ban.^[108] Anders Behring Breivik's core ideology, and motivations behind his white supremacist attacks, has been described as white extinction anxiety.^[109] He had written: "This crisis of mass immigration and sub-replacement fertility is an assault on the European people that, if not combated, will ultimately result in the complete racial and cultural replacement of the European people".

According to professor Alexandra Minna Stern, who has detailed the connection between the conspiracy theory and the anxiety-framed concept, factions of the alt-right are distorting fertility statistics into a "conspiratorial campaign of white extinction" which is being fueled by a looming "white extinction anxiety". This phenomenon is driving alt-right strategies such as encouraging couples of Western and Northern European ethnicity to have up to eight children.^[104]

Advocacy and spread

The white genocide conspiracy theory has continuously recurred among the far-right in a variety of forms, all centered around a core theme of white populations being replaced, removed, or simply killed.^[43]

Africa

South Africa

Far-right and alt-right figures, such as singer Steve Hofmeyr, have claimed that a "white genocide" is taking place in South Africa.^[110] The South African singer, songwriter, political activist, actor, and TV presenter supports and promotes the conspiracy theory.^{[32][111][23]} The Conversation has credited Hofmeyr with popularizing the concept.^[110] In January 2017, media reported that Hofmeyr was set to meet US President-elect Donald Trump to discuss "white genocide" in South Africa.^{[112][113]} Hofmeyr later thanked Trump when the latter shared a tweet asking "Secretary of State [Mike Pompeo] to closely study the South Africa land and farm seizures and expropriations and the large scale killing of farmers."^[114]

The manifesto of far-right terrorist Anders Behring Breivik, entitled 2083: A European Declaration of Independence, devotes an entire section to an alleged "genocide" against Afrikaners. It also contains several other references to alleged persecution of whites in South Africa and the attacks on white farmers.^[110] Mike Cernovich, an American alt-right commentator, has previously stated that "white genocide in South Africa is real".^[115] The survivalist group the Suidlanders has claimed credit for internationally publicizing the risks of a race war and ethnic cleansing against whites.^{[116][43]}

Africa Check, a fact-checking organisation, rejected these claims as false in 2013: "In fact, whites are less likely to be murdered than any other race group." Africa Check reported that while whites account for nearly 9% of the South African population they represent just 1.8% of murder victims. Lizette Lancaster from the Institute for Security Studies has said that "Whites are far less likely to be murdered than their black or coloured counterparts."^{[117][118][119]} British journalist Joe Walsh reported that the murder rates in the mainly white suburbs of Johannesburg were far lower than in the black townships of Johannesburg, leading him to conclude: "If there was any kind of genocide being carried out against white people in the country then the safest areas of the continent's most dangerous city would not be predominately white."^[42]

South African journalist Lynsey Chutel reported in 2018: "After a peak in 2001/2002, the number of farm attacks—rape, robbery and other forms of violent crime short of murder—has decreased to about half. Similarly, the number of murders on farms peaked in 1997/1998 at 153, but today that number is below 50."^{[42][120]} Chutel stated that although some of the murders of white farmers may indeed be racially motivated, South Africa is a country with a high violent crime rate and white farmers are "isolated and believed to be wealthy".^{[42][120]} In the period July 2017 to July 2018, 47 farmers of all races were killed in South Africa, down from 66 murdered between July 2016 and July 2017.^[121] The worst year for farm murders in South Africa was 1998, when 153 farmers were killed. Between April 2016 and March 2017, there were a total of 19,016 murders in South Africa, suggesting that farmers are not especially likely to be killed in South Africa.^[121] Gregory Stanton of Genocide Watch has condemned the misuse of his groups' reports of the threat of polarization in South Africa to further the idea of "white genocide".^[122]

Steve Hofmeyr

Much of the white genocide claims in South Africa rest on a misrepresentation of the Afrikaner people as conforming to the popular Boer stereotype as hard-working, devoutly Calvinist, gun-loving farmers. In 1989, the British journalist Patrick Brogan noted that the Afrikaners once called themselves Boers (lit. 'farmers') because that was what they were, but the term Boer fell out of use in the 20th century as most of the Afrikaners moved to urban areas, making the term Boer highly anachronistic.^[123] Brogan concluded the popular Boer stereotype does not accurately describe the majority of the Afrikaners, whose way of life is very similar to that of middle-class people in other Western nations.^[123]

Even mainstream American conservatives who often championed the causes of Rhodesia and apartheid South Africa, seeing both regimes as having supposedly more enlightened policies towards black people than the policy of integration in the United States, embraced the variants of the white genocide theory as part of the defense of Rhodesia and South Africa.^[124] In 2015, the Canadian journalist Jeet Heer wrote: "The idea that whites in America have a natural affinity with white colonialists in Africa did not spring from the neo-Nazi far-right, but rather the conservative movement that coalesced around National Review in the 1950s."^[124] In 1957, the American journalist William F. Buckley wrote a justification in National Review of white supremacy in the American South with a defense of colonial rule in Kenya: "The question, as far as the White community is concerned, is whether the claims of civilization supersede those of universal suffrage. The British believe they do, and acted accordingly, in Kenya, where the choice was dramatically one between civilization and barbarism, and elsewhere; the South, where the conflict is by no means dramatic, as in Kenya, nevertheless perceives important qualitative differences between its culture and the Negroes', and intends to assert its own."^[124]

William F. Buckley, Jr. at the second inauguration of US President Ronald Reagan in 1985

Heer wrote that Buckley's equation of whiteness with "civilization" and blackness with "barbarism" led him to support racist regimes in both South Africa and Rhodesia, to paint the possibility of majority rule in both places in the darkest of colors, and his writings on the subject from the 1950s to the 1990s show a strong emotional identification with the whites of Rhodesia and South Africa.^[124] Buckley and other American conservatives consistently portrayed apartheid era South Africa in a favorable light, and warned that majority rule would cause a disaster for whites.^[125] On 23 April 1960 in the aftermath of the Sharpeville massacre of March 1960, National Review ran an editorial stating "the whites are entitled, we believe, to pre-eminence in South Africa."^[125] Russell Kirk in a column in National Review on 9 March 1965 warned that letting African-Americans vote in the US "will work mischief—much injuring, rather than fulfilling, the responsible democracy for which Tocqueville hoped," but in the case of South Africa "this degradation of the democratic dogma, if applied, would bring anarchy and the collapse of civilization."^[125] Kirk stated apartheid was just because South African whites were racially superior and "Bantu political domination would be domination by witch doctors (still numerous and powerful) and reckless demagogues."^[125] On 13 April 1979, Buckley in a column gave an account of South African history very sympathetic to Afrikaner nationalists, suggesting that their concerns about black rule were rational and "their fears are understandable."^[125] In an editorial on 14 March 1986, National Review asked "To what extent, is the vast majority of South African blacks intellectually and practically prepared to assume the social, economic, and political leadership in a highly industrialized country?"^[125] In the July 1988 edition of Commentary, David Roberts, Jr compared Nelson Mandela to Pol Pot and the

African National Congress (ANC), the now ruling party in South Africa, to the Khmer Rouge, implying that the ANC would exterminate South African whites if it came to power.^[125] Shortly before his death in 2005 Samuel T. Francis, the former editor of the conservative Washington Times, warned about the possibility of a "white genocide" in South Africa.^[124]

Simon Roche, an Afrikaner nationalist from South Africa and a spokesman for the survivalist group, the Suidlanders, that exists in his words "to prepare a Protestant Christian South African Minority for a coming violent revolution," visited the US in 2017 to promote the thesis that the white minority in South Africa is faced with the threat of ethnic cleansing.^[43] Roche stated he went to the US to "raise awareness of and support for the Caucasian Christian conservative volk [people] of South Africa ... There's a natural affinity with conservative white Americans."^[78]

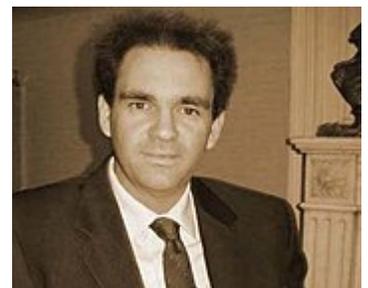

The Afrikaner group AfriForum's deputy director Ernst Roets has been erroneously linked by Radio 702, which it later apologised for,^[126] to false claims of white genocide,^[127] and South African government authorization of uncompensated seizures of land from white farmers.^[128] Roets' 2018 book Kill the Boer argues that the government is also complicit in attacks on white farmers,^[129] and characterizes the events as ethnic cleansing.^[130] Another South African, Willem Petzer, appeared as a guest on Gavin McInnes's podcast, accusing the ANC government of planning genocide.^[43]

Europe

France

Figures on the right of French politics, such as Renaud Camus, have claimed that a "white genocide" or "Great Replacement" is occurring in France.^[131] Camus's definition, which focuses largely on the white Christian population in France, has been used in media interchangeably with white genocide,^[31] and described as a narrower, less extreme and more nationally focused version of the broader conspiracy theory.^{[32][33]} Despite his focus on the specific demographics of France, Camus also believes all Western countries are facing a form of "ethnic and civilizational substitution".^[132]

In September 2016, François Lafargue, a senior lecturer at the Paris School of Business, claimed that the Boer white minority of South Africa (referring to them as "Europeans") will experience "the same fate as the French of Algeria or the British of Southern Rhodesia". Invoking the themes of both white Rhodesians and the French-Algerian colonist population; Lafargue stated that around 400,000 white South Africans lived in poverty, "grouped together in makeshift encampments to better protect themselves", and that thousands had been violently murdered since 2000, claiming that the country's apparently increased "crime fuels the fear of a white genocide".^[133] White genocide was used as a slogan by anti-immigrant/refugee protesters in Calais during the European migrant crisis.

François Lafargue in 2006

In June 2017, Senator Stéphane Ravier's aide, running as one of the National Front's candidates, endorsed the conspiracy theory.^{[134][135]} Publishing a blonde girl's photograph with the words "Say no to white genocide"; days before the 2017 French legislative election, Ravier's assistant gave a political ultimatum "the National Front or the invasion".^[136]

Germany

The 2015 New Year's Eve attacks in Cologne resulted in accusations that the federal government and media were deliberately avoiding public interest reporting on 1,200 sexual assaults by thousands of young male Muslim immigrants. Apologies for hesitancy by public television channel ZDF strengthened claims of a Lügenpresse (lying press) by populist and far-right parties as evidence for widespread conspiracy by German institutions. The unprecedented scale of border crossings during 2015 and 2016 compelled Chancellor Angela Merkel to impose "temporary restrictions" on transit across the border with Austria. The alt-right conspiracy website Zero Hedge listed statistics on migrant crime in Germany alongside statements from politicians and news articles, presented as "contradictions confirming a deep-state level of conspiracy ... to push through a pro-immigration policy in Germany". During the 2017 German election campaign, the far-right Alternative for Germany party ran advertisements featuring a pregnant woman's abdomen with the slogan, "New Germans? We'll make them ourselves."^[74]

Hungary

A state-sponsored campaign led by Hungarian Prime Minister Viktor Orbán has employed a wide range of historical anti-Semitic tropes to accuse philanthropist George Soros of engaging in conspiracies to support and deceive the public about nonwhite immigrants. Orbán has accused Soros, a Jew whose family survived hostile conditions during Hungary's Nazi occupation, of being a Nazi himself, and has introduced legislation known as the "Stop Soros law" to criminalize organized support of immigrants. These fabrications have become popular with the alt-right in Europe and the US.^[74] Orbán's 2018 campaign slogan was, "Christianity is Europe's last hope",^[137] saying, "our worst nightmares can come true. The West falls as it fails to see Europe being overrun."^[138]

Viktor Orbán

Poland

Hundreds of Polish Facebook groups such as "Stop White Genocide" have produced and disseminated images depicting African and Middle eastern people as belonging to separate "primitive" species, lacking the human intelligence of white Europeans. Websites such as "Conspiracy Files" have fabricated allegations of political compacts to bolster nonwhite immigration against popular will, such as agreements signed by EU leaders and African nations to increase Europe's African population to 300 million by 2068, making native whites, "minorities within their own homeland".^[74]

Russia

Much of the theory that South African whites are faced with the threat of "genocide" originates with internet rumors started by the Government of Russia. Russia-24, a television channel owned by the Russian government, aired a segment in the summer of 2018 about Afrikaner farmers wanting to immigrate to Russia as "brothers in faith". The present government in Russia led by Vladimir Putin often attacks the ideology of liberalism for putting the individual before the collective, and promotes "white genocide" stories both as a way of showing the failure of liberalism and to promote the thesis that group identities matter far more than individual identities. The ideology of the Russian state is that the interests of the collective take precedence over the individual, and evidence of alleged failures of liberalism abroad are extensively covered by the Russian media.^[10] The Australian historian Mark Edele stated: "There is definitely an attempt [by Russia] to support alt-right views and extreme right organisations outside of Russia ... Russia supports groups that will undermine liberal views. That's the logic of sponsorship of alt-right groups by Russia ... There is a longstanding anxiety among Russia's nationalists that Russians are dying out because of falling birth rates compared to non-Slavic peoples. It reverberates with white genocide fears."^[10]

The Canadian alt-right personality Lauren Southern had a sympathetic interview with the Russian fascist thinker Aleksandr Dugin, who told her "liberalism denies the existence of any collective identities" and that "liberalism is based on the absence of any form of collective identity". Dugin used the case of white South African farmers allegedly threatened with genocide as proof of the failure of liberalism, for putting the individual ahead of the collective. After the end of apartheid in 1994, South Africa was presented as the "rainbow nation" where henceforward people, regardless of their skin color, would be judged only as individuals. From the viewpoint of the Russian state, presenting liberalism in South Africa as a blood-soaked disaster is a way of discrediting liberalism in general.^[10]

United Kingdom

In a 2015 Breitbart News article, the anti-Islamic For Britain party founder and leader Anne Marie Waters described white genocide as "part of a broad-ranging, virulent, and vicious hatred of white Western people" and claimed that European leaders aimed to "extinguish Western culture".^[74]

In December 2015, former EDL leader Tommy Robinson endorsed the white genocide myth.^[139] In his 2015 book Enemy of the State, Robinson claimed how previously white British majority areas of his hometown, Luton, had suffered "ethnic cleansing" and claimed that the United Kingdom was "sleepwalking" its "way towards a Muslim takeover".^[140]

Anne Marie Waters

A few weeks before the 2016 Brexit referendum, an unemployed gardener with links to far-right organisations murdered Member of Parliament Jo Cox because of her support of the European Union and work in support of immigrants, saying she was part of a left-wing conspiracy perpetuated by the mainstream media and a traitor to the white race.^[74] A March 2016 survey ahead of the referendum found 41% of Britons thought their government was concealing the true number of immigrants.^[74]

In March 2018, journalist Rod Liddle was reported to have promoted the conspiracy theory. According to Vice, he pushed the narrative of "white genocide", after publishing an article in The Spectator which suggested that the apparent genocide that Lauren Southern had exposed in her documentary in South Africa would have been rewarded with professional acclaim had it been "any other brand of genocide".^[141]

Katie Hopkins, an English media personality, has made a documentary supporting the conspiracy theory of an ongoing genocide against white farmers in South Africa.^{[141][142]} She has also promoted the idea that both immigration and multiculturalism are intended to cause white genocide.^[143] Yahoo! News reported that while traveling for the documentary, "her intention was to 'expose' the white genocide" happening to farmers in South Africa.^{[144][145]}

In September 2018, with the arrest of some Neo-Nazi members of National Action, the counter-terrorist Prevent programme identified the white supremacist group as subscribing to the white extinction conspiracy theory. A governmental co-ordinator stated that the organization "sees the extinction of white people as a very real and likely possibility".^[146]

In March 2019, Catherine Blaiklock resigned as leader of The Brexit Party after she shared a photo on social media of a multi-racial primary school in England with the caption "This is a British school. This is white genocide".^[147] Another shared post of Blaiklock's claimed that multiculturalism amounted to "the replacement of the indigenous European people".^[147] In April 2019, a Conservative Party candidate for local elections was revealed to have promoted the conspiracy theory after endorsing online material which claimed that the "destruction of the white race" was being brought about by non-white immigrants who were "flooding" Europe "disguised as so-called 'refugees'" in an alleged plot to "enforce miscegenation" on white Europeans. He was subsequently suspended from his party but remained on the ballot for the election.^[148]

The identitarian movement Generation Identity party leader and neo-Nazi Mark Collett has been actively promoting the conspiracy theory on Twitter and YouTube.^{[149][150]}

North America

Canada

In June 2017, far-right political commentator Faith Goldy endorsed the conspiracy theory. Publishing a video for The Rebel Media called "White Genocide in Canada?",^[151] Goldy compared the shifting demographics of Canada and its immigration policies to "white genocide".^{[152][153]} Goldy has been described by GQ magazine as "one of Canada's most prominent propagandists" for the theory.^[154] Later that month, Vice Media co-founder Gavin McInnes promoted the conspiracy theory after stating that white women having abortions and immigration is "leading to white genocide in the West". He also claimed "white genocide" was "much more intense" in South Africa.^{[155][156][157]} McInnes is one of the main leaders of the far-right factions that believe in the conspiracy theory.^[157]

Gavin McInnes

In December 2017, YouTuber Stefan Molyneux pushed the conspiracy theory, claiming there was a "demographic decline among the whites that is happening in Europe and in North America", that supposedly predicted a "quasi-extinction" of white people.^[158] Molyneux, an advocate of the theory,^[159] in February 2018 published a video regarding the concept, titled "White Farmers Slaughtered in South Africa", which interviewed fellow white genocide conspiracy theorist Lauren Southern.^[141] Southern, a far-right activist, has frequently pushed white genocide rhetoric, using it as an argument against immigration.^{[160][161][162]} She has advocated for European countries to refuse refugees from Africa and Asia, saying that immigration would lead to white genocide,^[161] and has been labelled in media as a "booster" for the conspiracy at large.^[10] In 2018, Southern produced a documentary called Farmlands about post-Apartheid farm violence in South Africa.^[163]

In March 2019, white supremacist Paul Fromm was reported to have endorsed the "white genocide" themed (The Great Replacement) manifesto of the Christchurch mosque shooting perpetrator.^[164] Referring to it as "cogent" and a "historical document", Fromm republished the manifesto on his website, stating that he agreed with its analysis.^[165]

United States

As early as 2007, conservative Ann Coulter described non-white immigration to the United States as "white genocide" in her article titled "Bush's America: Roach Motel".^{[166][167][168]} Vox has reported on Coulter as one of many providing a platform for "the 'white genocide' myth".^[51] She has been described as a "champion" of the ideas behind the conspiracy theory following a book she wrote on the subject.^[169] She has also claimed that "a genocide" is occurring against white South African farmers.^[10]

In October 2014, white nationalist Greg Johnson promoted the white extinction conspiracy theory, suggesting that "the organized Jewish community is the principal enemy — not the sole enemy, but the principal enemy — of every attempt to halt and reverse white extinction. One cannot defeat an enemy one will not name. Therefore, White Nationalism is inescapably anti-Semitic."^[170]

In December 2014, Ku Klux Klan leader Thomas Robb proposed in an interview with Al Jazeera that a white genocide was occurring due to the immigration and high birth-rates of non-whites. He claimed that demographic change was affecting the economic, racial and social landscape of Harrison, Arkansas and the US at large, and that this amounted to "white genocide being committed against our people".^[171] Around that time, the concept appeared on billboards in the United States near Birmingham, Alabama,^[172] and Harrison, Arkansas.^[173]

Ann Coulter at the 2013 Conservative Political Action Conference.

2016 US presidential election campaigns

In October 2015, Mike Cernovich, a social media personality, published the white nationalist catchphrase "diversity is code for white genocide", claiming that his discovery of the concept had caused him to cease being a libertarian and instead become an alt-right activist.^{[174][175][176]} Days later, he invoked the conspiracy theory again, warning that "white genocide will sweep up the SJWs"; a prediction that Muslims would murder what he labelled social justice warriors in the United States.^[177] In November 2015, Cernovich insisted that "white genocide is real" in relation to South Africa.^[178] After a public backlash, he deleted several tweets referring to the conspiracy theory.^{[179][180][121]}

During the 2016 US presidential election, there were allegations that aspects of the conspiracy theory had been adopted as dog-whistling by some mainstream conservative political figures. In January 2016, Donald Trump garnered controversy after retweeting Twitter user @WhiteGenocideTM,^[181] and @EustaceFash, whose Twitter header image at the time also included the term "white genocide."^[182] A 2016 analysis of his Twitter feed during the Republican presidential primaries showed that 62% of those that he chose to retweet in an average week followed multiple accounts which discussed the conspiracy theory, and 21% followed prominent white nationalists online.^[183]

Mike Cernovich in August 2018

By March 2016, Trump's eldest son, Donald Trump Jr., had been accused by mainstream media of being an advocate of the conspiracy theory,^[184] or pretending to be an advocate for political gain,^[185] after his interview with white supremacist James Edwards during the 2016 Trump presidential campaign.^[186] The following month, Jack Posobiec, a leading alt-right Trump activist and, at the time, US naval intelligence officer with military security clearance, began frequently tweeting about white genocide.^[187]

While Donald Trump supporters on the Reddit discussion forum /r/The Donald generally agreed that white genocide is occurring, they disagreed about the responsible parties. The Southern Poverty Law Center said "Tea Party conservatives characterize it as a scheme by Democrats to gain voters. For the white nationalists, the main villain is 'international Jewry.' InfoWars fans blame 'globalists'—a label that is often interchangeable with 'Jews'—seeking to dumb down Western populations with 'low-IQ migrants' who are more easily controlled." In August 2017, at least 330 /r/The_Donald posts referred to the "Kalergi plan", a purported conspiracy to replace the European population with African migrants.^[31]

The month before the US presidential election, white supremacist Richard B. Spencer declared that whatever the upcoming result, that he would be "profoundly grateful to Donald Trump for the rest of my life". Invoking "white genocide" in the same interview, he labelled anti-discrimination laws "the enemy of all tradition, not just the Anglo-Saxon American society it has helped destroy", and Martin Luther King Jr. as "the god of white dispossession".^[188] The same month, William Daniel Johnson, leader of the American Freedom Party, was pushing the theory in support of Trump for president; denouncing "the death of the white race, caused by the concepts of diversity and multiculturalism", he said that America needed a "strong leader" like Trump, likening the Republican candidate favorably with Philippine president Rodrigo Duterte.^[189]

Richard B. Spencer in 2016

By early November, one week before the election, KKK leader Thomas Robb was invoking the conspiracy theory in support of Trump's Make America Great Again message, claiming that the concept was inextricably linked with the restoration of white power in the US^[190] In February 2017, it was reported that neo-Confederate activist Michael Hill was using Rhodesia to reference and warn against an apparent "racial genocide" of whites in the United States.^[191] Hill, a co-founder of the League of the South, equates multiculturalism within the country as part of an ongoing white genocide.^[192]

By March 2017, Republican congressman Steve King was using rhetoric that Mother Jones and Paste writers described as invoking the conspiracy theory, saying that "We can't restore our civilization with somebody else's babies" and using the phrase "cultural suicide".^[193] Vox and The New Republic have described him as an adherent of the theory that immigration and other forms of population shift represent a slow genocide against white populations.^{[51][194]} In the same month, white supremacist David Duke, a former Republican Louisiana State Representative, posted YouTube videos stating that Jews are "organizing white genocide."^{[195][196][197][198][199]} The former Grand Wizard of the KKK also accused Anthony Bourdain of wanting a genocide of white people.^{[200][201]}

Unite the Right rally in Charlottesville

In August 2017, a white supremacist protest named the Unite the Right rally was held in Charlottesville, Virginia, largely driven by the ideology of the "white genocide" narrative. The protest was ostensibly centered around the impending removal of a statue of Robert E. Lee, who was the commander of the Confederate States Army during the American Civil War. The night before the rally, leaflets were distributed en masse in the city, bearing the recurrent slogan "Diversity is a code word for white genocide".^[99]

Speaking at the event in Charlottesville, Jason Kessler, the primary organizer behind the rally and a white nationalist blogger, claimed that "the first and foremost reason that we're having this rally, is for that park and for that statue. It's about white genocide. It's about the replacement of our people, culturally and ethnically".^[98] Kessler has repeatedly promoted the conspiracy theory, using his website to criticize what he called "white genocide" and an "attack on white history".^{[202][203][204]}

Other prominent white nationalists also tied the conspiracy theory to the motivations behind Unite the Right. Giving a speech at the rally, Neo-Nazi Mike Enoch said "We're here to talk about white genocide, the deliberate and intentional displacement of the white race".^[205]

Trump administration foreign policy on South Africa

In the fall of 2017, it was reported broadcaster Alex Jones and his fake news organization InfoWars were promoting the white genocide myth. The Suidlanders (a völkisch group involved in spreading the conspiracy theory in South Africa) accepted invitations to contribute to the platform on multiple occasions.^[93] Around the same time, Jones claimed white genocide was a serious threat in the US; on a cultural front, with what he asserted were black NFL players advocating for "white genocide" by refusing to stand for the national anthem, and the apparent physical threat of Democrats and communists plotting genocidal attacks specifically against white Americans.^[206]

Jones has been described as particularly instrumental in the American spread of conspiracy theories about white genocide in Africa,^{[93][207]} while his long-time political ally, radio host Michael Savage, has devoted an episode of his show to conspiracy theories about white genocide in the region.^[43]

In August 2018, US President Donald Trump brought the concept of "white genocide" in relation to South Africa significantly further into mainstream media discourse, after he publicly instructed Secretary of State Mike Pompeo to investigate South African farm attacks,^[37] an instruction which was broadly portrayed in media as the Trump and his administration advocating for an unfounded conspiracy theory.^{[41][208][209][210]}

Trump had apparently gained his information from Tucker Carlson, a conservative political commentator for Fox News, who has been described as bringing the conspiracy theory of an ongoing "white genocide" in South Africa into the mainstream after a piece about the topic on his show caught the attention of president.^{[211][212][43][213][214]} Vox described him as having "taken up the cause" of the "virulent, racist conspiracy theory" of white genocide.^[42] Amanda Marcotte, writing in Salon, has said that Carlson avoids using the specific phrase "white genocide," but that "its basic premise is embedded throughout his show."^[211] The SPLC has accused his website, The Daily Caller, of promoting the theory in relation to South African farm attacks.^{[215][43]} Carlson asserted he was shocked his statements could be considered an appeal to white nationalists, dismissing questions about his show's high support among them as "stupid" and saying he knew nothing about them.^[212]

New York magazine had claimed Trump was attempting to "change the conversation – to one about 'white genocide' in South Africa";^[39] Esquire reported that the "President of the United States is now openly promoting an international racist conspiracy theory as the official foreign policy of the United States."^[216] According to the SPLC, Trump had "tweeted out his intention to put the full force of the US State Department behind a white nationalist conspiracy theory."^[217]

Jason Kessler c. 2017

Alex Jones in 2017

Reaction to US-South Africa policy

In August 2018, many politicians and public figures responded critically to US President Donald Trump's foreign policy initiative to investigate the seizure of land from white farmers and apparent evoking of the conspiracy theory. These included multiple members of the South African Parliament and RSA Deputy President David Mabuza, who rejected the conspiracy theory, calling it "far from the truth." He stated that "we would like to discourage those who are using this sensitive and emotive issue of land to divide us as South Africans by distorting our land reform measures to the international community and spreading falsehoods that our 'white farmers' are facing the onslaught from their own government."^[38]

Julius Malema MP reacted, saying "there is no white genocide in South Africa",^[218] that Trump's intervention into their ongoing land reform issues "only made them more determined ... to expropriate our land without compensation",^{[219][38]} and that there is a black genocide in the US^[219] Jeremy Cronin MP stated that the South African government needed to "send a signal to the courts, to Trump, to Fox News Agency" over the issue. The deputy Minister of Public Works spoke against the conspiracy theory; in a committee meeting in the South African parliament, he indicated that land expropriation without compensation should not be viewed as a white genocide.^[220] Whereas Minister of International Relations and Cooperation, Lindiwe Sisulu, claimed that his foreign policy tweet was "regrettable" and "based on false information",^[121] and that the conspiracy theory in general was "a right-wing ideology, and it is very unfortunate."^[221]

In the US, former US Ambassador to South Africa Patrick Gaspard, and American media personalities Chris Cuomo, Mika Brzezinski and Al Sharpton spoke out against the US President on the issue. Labelling Trump's actions as "dangerous and poisoned",^[38] Gaspard opposed the concept, claiming the conspiracy theory was "trafficking in a white supremacist story line",^[222] and that the concept is a "white-supremacist meme from the darkest place."^[38]

Cuomo, a television journalist, while stating that "like all conspiracy tripe, there's a kernel of truth" to the theory (in relation to land reform in South Africa) but concluded that the concept was a "bogus cause that white nationalists are selling."^{[223][224]} He rejected what he said was Donald Trump, and his administration, claiming "white farmers" were "being hunted down and killed and having their land stolen".^[224]

With a substantive response, American anti-racism activist, Tim Wise, critically analyzed the conspiracy theory further; stating that it was a form of negrophobia, being directed politically to "scare white Americans" about non-whites within the US^[225] Wise has proposed that the paranoia around the conspiracy theory dates back to the Haitian Revolution and North American slave rebellions, but that changing demographics of the United States have heightened existing anxiety, stating that "the reason it is amplified today is that in the recent past the cultural norm of the country was still dominantly white."^[28]

While Mika Brzezinski, co-host of Morning Joe, spoke out against the concept,^[226] labelling it as a "a racist conspiracy theory",^[227] American civil rights activist, Al Sharpton joined Brzezinski in her opposition, labelling it as "neo-Nazi propaganda." Discussing the issue on an MSNBC segment with Katy Tur and foreign correspondent Greg Myre, Sharpton stated that it's "not true" that "white farmers are being killed in South Africa" for racial reasons.^{[228][229]} A year later, Trump administration speechwriter Stephen Miller claimed US citizens were facing the same threat, saying that nonwhite congresswomen want to, "destroy America with open borders," even if "American citizens lose their jobs, lose their homes, lose their livelihoods, lose their health coverage, and lose their very lives."^[230]

Subsequent events

In November 2018, Matthew Heimbach, former leader of the neo-Nazi Traditionalist Worker Party, led a protest in Little Rock, Arkansas over an alleged white genocide occurring in South Africa.^[15] He called on the US government to sanction South Africa for the "violation of international law" in its treatment of white South Africans.^[139] In January 2019, the KKK distributed business cards in Philadelphia with various racist slogans such as "White People are a World Wide minority and there are programs of Genocide against white children",^[192] in what appeared to be deliberately targeting African-American neighborhoods with material which promoted the conspiracy theory.^[231]

Stephen Miller in 2016

Three independent analyses of Trump re-election campaign advertisements shown in 2019 found 2,200 ads warning of an "invasion" by immigrants. In asking for help to fund a wall along the US-Mexico border, the ads included all-caps warnings of a "state of emergency," saying, "America's safety is at risk," and that it is "critical that we stop the invasion."^[232] Other ads said Trump has, "taken multiple trips to the border to show the true invasion happening but the Democrats and the Fake News Media just won't listen."^[233] In remarks in the Oval Office in March 2019, Trump said immigrants were trying to, "rush our borders.... People hate the word 'invasion,' but that's what it is. It's an invasion of drugs and criminals and people." In a June 6 interview, Trump told Fox News, "I told Mexico, if you don't stop this onslaught, this invasion -- people get angry when I use the word 'invasion' -- people like Nancy Pelosi that honestly they don't know what the hell they're talking about."^[234]

Fox News era

The American news channel Fox News is described by multiple mainstream media sources as aligned with the concept and narrative of the white genocide conspiracy theory and using its prominence to bring rhetoric of demographic threats to white Americans further into the center of US discourse. Amanda Marcotte, writing in Salon, has stated that Fox's default ideology is "strikingly similar" to "fascistic replacement theory" and "white genocide". Marcotte wrote that this ideology is especially the case for the network's prime-time commentators, such as Tucker Carlson and Laura Ingraham.^[235] Paste magazine has argued that "far-right" Great Replacement rhetoric is not only a nightly fixture of Tucker Carlson Tonight, but a "foundational" principle of Rupert Murdoch's media empire.^[236]

Tucker Carlson in 2018

GQ has reported that Fox News' "popular primetime" shows are an important pipeline to President Donald Trump's political positions, such as the investigation into land reform in South Africa, and that Carlson's show in particular dedicates segments to "'great replacement' propaganda".^[4] The warnings delivered by "conservative pundits on Fox News" are driving fears of an "existential threat" of a white genocide, according to The Atlantic, who particularly analyzed Laura Ingraham's nativist remarks, such as "massive demographic changes" apparently being inflicted upon white Americans against their will.^[53] While The New York Times identified Carlson as engaging in replacement theory fear-mongering, in relation to family birthrates in the US,^[237] ThinkProgress accused him of using the popularity of Fox News, as a platform, to push fears of demographic change through immigration and feminism, causing a so-called "genocide" of American white men.^[238]

Oceania

Australia

American Neo-Nazi literature such as The Turner Diaries and Lane's White Genocide Manifesto have spread online to right wing groups in Australia. A collection of writings called Siege by James Mason was cited as an inspiration by some of the twenty-two neo-Nazis who infiltrated the New South Wales Young Nationals party from which they were banned for life for trying to advance the creation of an ethno-state.^[239] Themes of the "defense of Western civilization" and the achievements of ethnic Whites have become racist dog whistles for groups advancing theories of an impending white genocide.^[240]

In March 2018, several Australian tabloids owned by the News Corporation ran articles alleging that South African whites were faced with genocide and which led the Australian home affairs minister Peter Dutton to promise fast-track visas for any South African white wishing to emigrate to Australia.^[43] Dutton is known for his anti-immigrant and anti-refugee stance, which led to questions about his willingness to accept South African whites into Australia as refugees, since he normally opposes Australia accepting refugees.^[10] One News Corp columnist, Miranda Devine, wrote about the ties as she saw them between the Australian people and "our oppressed white, Christian, industrious, rugby and cricket-playing Commonwealth cousins" threatened by South African blacks whom she promised would integrate "seamlessly" into Australia as opposed to immigration from Third World countries.^[241]

Another Australian News Corporation columnist Caroline Marcus connected the alleged plight of South African whites to what she saw as a broader attack on whites across the world, writing "the truth is, there are versions of this anti-white, vengeance theme swirling in movements around the western world, from Black Lives Matter in the US to Invasion Day protests back home."^[241] The British journalist Jason Wilson noted that the News Corporation run by the Australian media magnate Rupert Murdoch also owns Fox News, which has aired stories portraying South African whites as a persecuted minority, leading him to accuse the News Corporation of promoting this narrative around the world.^[43]

In 2018, a resolution declaring "It's OK to be white", and decrying "the deplorable rise of anti-white racism and attacks on the Western civilization," was introduced in the Australian Senate by Pauline Hanson, an anti-immigrant Senator who leads the One Nation Party. The motion was narrowly defeated.^[242] The same slogan, which is associated with white supremacist rhetoric, was also depicted on a shirt worn by the far-right Canadian youtuber Lauren Southern during a visit to Australia.^{[239][242]}

After Australian white-genocide conspiracy theorist Brenton Tarrant carried out the March 2019 Christchurch mosque shootings, Queensland Senator Fraser Anning released a statement saying the cause of the attacks was "the immigration program which allowed Muslim fanatics to migrate to New Zealand in the first place". Anning has called for a "final solution" to nonwhite immigration to Australia,^[243] and frequently issues calls to stop white genocide on social media.^[244] Other politicians such as Home Affairs Minister Peter Dutton have helped propel the idea of white genocide into the mainstream.^[240]

Pauline Hanson in 2017

New Zealand

The accused perpetrator of the Christchurch mosque shootings alluded to "white genocide" and ethnic and racial "replacement" in a 74-page manifesto posted shortly before the attacks.^[245]

South African expatriates in New Zealand have been spreading white genocide myths on Facebook and by demonstrating in marches.^[240]

Influence on far-right terrorism

United States

Examples of white supremacist mass murders and terrorist attacks

Timothy McVeigh, the main perpetrator of the 1995 Oklahoma City bombing that killed 168 and injured more than 680, carried pages from The Turner Diaries, a fictional account of white supremacists who ignite a revolution by blowing up the FBI headquarters with a truck bomb.^[246] The book was greatly influential in shaping white nationalism and in the later development of white genocide conspiracy theory.^{[239][247]} Although the bomber didn't attribute his motives to the white nationalist movement, he frequently cited The Turner Diaries and had been reprimanded in the Army for wearing a "white power" T-shirt purchased at a Ku Klux Klan rally.^[248]

Richard Baumhammers, the perpetrator of a 2000 shooting spree in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, that killed five people and injured a sixth, complained that European Americans are being outnumbered by minorities and immigrants, calling on a website for "an end to non-white immigration" because "almost all" present day immigration "is non-European."^{[249][250]}

Frazier Glenn Miller Jr., the perpetrator of a shooting spree that killed three people at a Jewish community center and retirement home in Overland Park, Kansas, had supported the slogan: "Diversity is code for white genocide."^[251] He stated that the "systematic genocide of white people by Jews" was his motive,^[252] and that he, "had a patriotic intent to stop genocide against my people".^[253] On Easter Sunday, the day after the shooting, white supremacists delivered "white genocide" themed Easter eggs to several houses in Henrico County, Virginia, repeating the "Diversity = white genocide" mantra.^{[254][255]}

Dylann Roof, the perpetrator of the Charleston church shooting that killed nine people and injured a tenth, included a photo on his Facebook page of his wearing a jacket decorated with two emblems that are popular among American white supremacists: the flag of the former Rhodesia (now known as Zimbabwe) and the flag of apartheid-era South Africa.^{[256][257][258]} He had been blogging on a website called "The Last Rhodesian" (www.lastrhodesian.com) registered on February 9, 2015,^{[259][260][261]} which included an unsigned manifesto containing his opinions of "Blacks", "Jews", "Hispanics" and "East Asians."^{[262][263]} Saying he became "racially aware" as a result of the 2012 shooting of Trayvon Martin, he wrote that because he kept hearing people talk about the incident, he "decided to look him up" and

Year	Location	Killed	Injured
1995	Oklahoma*	168	680
2000	Pittsburgh	5	1
2011	Norway	77	209
2014	Kansas	3	0
2015	Charleston	9	1
2017	Charlottesville	1	28
2018	Pittsburgh	11	7
2019	Christchurch	51	49
2019	San Diego	1	3
2019	El Paso	22	24

read the Wikipedia article about it. He concluded that George Zimmerman had been in the right, and was unable to comprehend why the case had gained national attention. He said he then searched for black on white crime on Google and found the website of the Council of Conservative Citizens, where he read "pages upon pages" of cases involving black people murdering white people, stating that he had "never been the same since that day."^[261] For these reasons, Federal prosecutors said he was "self-radicalized" online, instead of adopting his white supremacist ideology through personal associations or experiences with white supremacists.^[264]

The driver responsible for the Charlottesville car attack against protesters at the Unite the Right rally had previously espoused neo-Nazi and white supremacist beliefs.^{[265][266]} He had driven from Ohio to join the rally in which participants chanted, "Jews will not replace us."^[267] He killed one person and injured 28.

The perpetrator of the Pittsburgh synagogue shooting that killed eleven and injured another seven wrote "Jews are the children of Satan" in his social media profile, using neo-Nazi and white supremacist symbolism associated with David Lane, along with the Nazi slogan, "Heil Hitler."^[268] He supported white genocide conspiracy theories, writing in one instance, "Daily Reminder: Diversity means chasing down the last white person."^[269] He also wrote diatribes against white women who have relationships with black men.^[270] In the weeks before the shooting, Bowers made anti-Semitic posts directed at the Hebrew Immigrant Aid Society^{[271][272]} who sponsor the National Refugee Shabbat.^[273] Shortly before the attack, in an apparent reference to immigrants to the United States, he posted on Gab that "HIAS likes to bring invaders in that kill our people. I can't sit by and watch my people get slaughtered. Screw your optics, I'm going in."^{[274][275]}

Memorials to victims of the mass shooting outside the Tree of Life synagogue in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania on November 4, 2018

The perpetrator of the Poway synagogue shooting that killed one and injured three others blamed Jews for white genocide, which he described as the "meticulously planned genocide of the European race" in his manifesto.^{[276][277]}

The perpetrator of the 2019 El Paso shooting that killed 23 and injured another 23^[278] had published a manifesto expressing support for the Christchurch shooter and his manifesto, saying the El Paso attack was in response to a "Hispanic invasion of Texas ... defending my country from cultural and ethnic replacement... the Hispanic community was not my target before I read The Great Replacement."^[279] Several commentators noted that the manifesto echoed themes in Donald Trump's campaign speeches, including repeated claims of a Hispanic invasion along with general extremism and hateful language, whose proponents have been emboldened and mobilized by Trump's rhetoric^{[20][280][281]} and increasingly frequent talking points in right-wing media outlets.^[19] Trump, in turn, called for "strong background checks, perhaps marrying this legislation with desperately needed immigration reform", which some commentators said blamed immigration for the massacre.^[282]

Europe

Anders Behring Breivik, the perpetrator of the 2011 Norway attacks, had participated for years in debates on Internet forums and spoken against Islam and immigration.^[283] He wrote a 1,518-page compendium including frequent mentions of alleged ongoing genocide against white Europeans.^{[68][284]} Analysts described him as having Islamophobic views and a hatred of Islam,^{[285][286]} and as someone who considered himself as a knight dedicated to stemming the tide of Muslim immigration into Europe.^{[287][288]} The text copies sections of the Unabomber manifesto, without giving credit, while substituting the words "cultural Marxists" for "leftists" and "Muslims" for "black people."^[289] The New York Times described American influences in the writings, noting that the compendium mentions the anti-Islamist American Robert Spencer 64 times and cites Spencer's works at great length.^[290] The work of Bat Ye'or^[291] is cited dozens of times.^[292] It regards Islam and "cultural Marxism" as the enemy and argues for the annihilation of "Eurabia" and multiculturalism, to preserve a Christian Europe.^{[293][294][295]}

The 2011 Oslo bombing killed eight people and injured at least 209. A few hours later, the attacker shot and killed 69 others, all but 14 of whom were teenagers.^[283]

New Zealand

The perpetrator of the Christchurch mosque shootings that killed 51 and injured 49 explained in a manifesto that he carried out the attack to fight ongoing "white genocide" by foreign "invaders."^[296] He had forwarded stories about white women's low fertility rates on his social media accounts. Photographs from his initial court appearance showed him making the "OK" symbol appropriated by white supremacists with his fingers.^[297]

Criticism and resistance

White genocide is a myth based on false science, false history, and hatred.^{[22][23][24]} There is no evidence that white people are dying out or will die out, or that they are facing extermination.^{[24][26][28]} White supremacists claim that ethnic diversity is equivalent to white genocide.^[28] Scholars describe white supremacists as fabricating paranoid claims that their survival as a race is threatened, for example by, "individualism, celibacy, feminism and other forms of sex-role confusion, misplaced environmentalism, and white demonization and guilt," all of which are claimed to promote reproductive failure.^[298]

The purpose of the white genocide conspiracy theory is to scare white people in countries that are diversifying and justify a commitment to a white nationalist agenda,^[26] using evidence of a declining birth rate in support of their extremist views and calls to violence.^[299] White supremacists are successfully constructing false narratives of genocide to incite violence at an increasing rate.^[22] Literature propounding the white genocide conspiracy theory has incited violence; The Turner Diaries, for instance, is responsible for inciting many violent crimes, including those of Timothy McVeigh.^{[245][247][26]} The US Republican Party as led by Donald Trump has repeatedly and openly courted white supremacists and endorsed the falsehoods they promote, including those of white genocide.^[29]

Timothy McVeigh

In October 2016, Sanjiv Bhattacharya analyzed the belief in the conspiracy theory amongst the alt-right. While considering the prospect that non-Hispanic whites will be less than 50% of the US population by 2044; Bhattacharya, a British journalist, pointed out the racist hypocrisy in the statement "Diversity equals white genocide", discussing how the "alt right loves to evoke genocide while harbouring Holocaust deniers".^[300]

Around the Christmas period of 2016, George Ciccariello-Maher, an American political scientist, satirically tweeted "All I Want for Christmas is White Genocide". As a result of the ensuing controversy, Ciccariello-Maher resigned from his job as an associate professor of politics and global studies at Drexel

University.^[301] Ciccariello-Maher continued to strongly oppose the conspiracy theory, claiming that it was "invented by white supremacists and used to denounce everything from inter-racial relationships to multicultural policies."^[302] He has labelled the concept as a "figment of the racist imagination" and claimed that "it should be mocked."^[303]

Derek Black, an American former white supremacist and godson of David Duke, after initially supporting and helping to popularize the concept,^{[304][305]} has renounced and opposed the white genocide conspiracy theory.^[306] Black has claimed that the concept was about pushing white nationalists into a false and overt paranoia about demographics of the United States.^[26] Eli Saslow, an American journalist who worked with Black on his 2018 book Rising out of hatred, has spoken against the conspiracy theory, labelling it as a "really effective" form of propaganda or indoctrination. He stated that "unfortunately, in part because it's built upon a very real and dark truth in American history—which is that white supremacy has always been a big part of what this country is—white nationalists were able to start capitalizing on that."^[307] Saslow has claimed the conspiracy theory is a way to "sanitize" white America's history of racism and violence, by focusing on the "ways that white people are under attack in this country," including "white genocide" and "building a wall."^[305]

In January 2019, Democratic Philadelphia City Council member Kenyatta Johnson labelled the Ku Klux Klan's distribution of "white genocide" promotional material in black neighborhoods of Philadelphia as an "upsetting and disgusting" act.^[231] In June 2019, Canadian author Naomi Klein addressed the narrative of "white genocide", criticizing the concept as an attack on women's reproductive freedom, in that it wished to deny abortion rights to white women having white children, while seeking to suppress non-white immigrant birthrates.^[308] The following month, critical theorist Bernard Harcourt detailed how the American New Right was seeking to orient its political message around the fear of a white genocide occurring. He proposed that "neo-fascist, white supremacist, revolutionary language" was becoming mainstream and was in effect "starting to change the way people are willing to express themselves", including President Trump.^[309]

In March 2019, journalist Adam Serwer suggested that the conspiracy theory did not sincerely refer to "mass murder, ethnic cleansing, or even violence," but rather to a perceived "loss of political and cultural hegemony in countries that white supremacists think should belong to white people by law." Serwer proposed that the conspiracy was "a kind of projection, a paranoia that the past genocide, colonialism, and ethnic cleansing forced on the West's former subjects will be visited upon it."^{[55][56]} The same month, Farhad Manjoo detailed how "white-extinction theory" was nonsense. Proposing that the "white genocide" label had "failed to take off", proving ineffective for conspiracy theorists attempting to push the narrative. Manjoo, an American journalist, suggested that the "Great Replacement" (which the Christchurch mosque shooter used for a manifesto title) was a softer reinvention, being to the white genocide conspiracy theory what the term Identitarian is to "white supremacist."^[310]

In April 2019, British academic Elif Shafak detailed how Renaud Camus' theory of the Great Replacement has created an ideological worldview for the far-right to amplify into a "white genocide" narrative in the West. Shafak argues that the conspiracy theory is also embedded in the works of Thilo Sarrazin, such as Germany Abolishes Itself and 2018's Hostile Takeover.^[311] Later that month, Jonathan Freedland and Mehdi Hasan released a joint analysis of far-right extremism and the ideology behind "white genocide". Discussing Pittsburgh synagogue shooter, Robert Gregory Bowers, and his rhetoric, Freedland and Hasan, both political journalists, labelled the conspiracy theory as racist and unhinged and argued that it had both the Muslim and Jewish "communities in its murderous sights". They concluded that both groups should "stand and fight it together".^[312]

Thilo Sarrazin in 2009

In May 2019, political commentator Nick Cohen analyzed how "white genocide" narratives created anti-immigrant and societal sexual tension. He argued that the conspiracy theory was an effective form of racism and propaganda, which had penetrated Viktor Orbán's Hungarian government, but revealed a far-right paranoia that European men were not virile enough.^[313] In June 2019, professor of economics Jonathan Portes, while describing the concept as a "lunatic" conspiracy theory, detailed how more respectable versions of "white genocide" were being promoted by academic and media figures, and therefore pushing the idea further into mainstream discourse.^[314]

See also

- Angry white male
- Disappearing blonde gene hoax
- Solutrean hypothesis controversy
- Demographic threat

References

1.
 - "How Deeply Has Germany's Murderous Far Right Penetrated the Security Forces?" (<https://www.thedailybeast.com/germanys-murderous-far-right-how-deeply-has-it-penetrated-the-security-forces>). The Daily Beast. June 19, 2019. "Andre S. (Hannibal) has views that echo the white extinction conspiracy that the Christchurch shooter propagated: when officials went to his barracks in 2017 to question him, he told them that "Islam will be the No. 1 state religion in the Netherlands in 10 years time.""
 - "Alabama's Abortion Bill Is Great News For White Supremacists" (https://www.huffpost.com/entry/alabama-abortion-bill-white-supremacists_n_5cdc4247e4b066205c602829). HuffPost. May 15, 2019. "Many white supremacists subscribe to the bogus conspiracy theory that white people are going extinct due to immigration and falling birthrates among white women."
 - "Hateful graffiti turns up in Winnipeg, alarming residents, Jewish group" (<https://www.cbc.ca/news/canada/manitoba/anti-semitic-graffiti-1.4248969>). Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. August 16, 2017. "The words under 'Soros' in the graffiti are 'white extinction,' and this refers to a conspiracy theory that is common on the far right. One might even say on the alt-right, and among white supremacists and neo-Nazis, that George Soros is the frontman for some sort of Jewish plot to exterminate the white race."
 - "US higher ed: A system of meritocracy that never was" (<https://mg.co.za/article/2019-03-27-00-u-s-higher-ed-a-system-of-meritocracy-that-never-was>). Mail & Guardian. March 27, 2019. "The Trump administration – supported by many adherents to the white supremacist conspiracy theory that whites are threatened with extinction due to an assault by inferior people of colour through immigration, affirmative action and demographic changes"
 - "Far right groups have Winnipeg supporters and must be opposed, says activist, former professor" (<https://www.cbc.ca/news/canada/manitoba/manitoba-professor-hate-groups-1.4250745>). Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. August 17, 2017. "One of the graffiti here mentions Soros and then spoke about white extinction, and that's a very interesting trope which is being used by a number of far-right groups these days, to claim that there is a so-called white genocide that is being orchestrated by the government through immigration policies, by anti-racists, human rights activists and so on."
2. "'These People Aren't Coming From Norway': Refugees in a Minnesota City Face a Backlash" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2019/06/20/us/politics/minnesota-refugees-trump.html>). New York Times. June 20, 2019. "But for others, the changes have fueled talk about "white replacement," a racist conspiracy theory tied to the declining birthrates of white Americans that has spread in far-right circles and online chat rooms and is now surfacing in some communities."

3. "A splintered movement: How the far-right found a foothold on campus" (<https://www.ubyssey.ca/features/a-splintered-movement-far-right-on-campus/>). The Ubyyssey. April 20, 2019. "'White replacement' does not just refer to a demographic change. It is a conspiracy theory spread by white supremacists who believe international governments are intentionally 'replacing' white people with non-white immigrants through liberal immigration policies."
4. "How the "White Replacement" Conspiracy Theory Spread Around the Globe" (<https://www.gq.com/story/white-replacement-conspiracy-theory>). GQ. June 21, 2019. "The "great replacement," also known as "white genocide," is summed up by its name: a secretive cabal of elites, often Jewish, is trying to deliberately destroy the white race through demographic change in importing immigrants and refugees."
5. Wilson, Andrew Fergus (February 16, 2018). "#whitegenocide, the alt-right and conspiracy theory: How secrecy and suspicion contributed to the mainstreaming of hate" (<https://doi.org/10.31979%2F2377-6188.2018.010201>). Secrecy and Society. 1 (2). doi:10.31979/2377-6188.2018.010201 (<https://doi.org/10.31979%2F2377-6188.2018.010201>). hdl:10545/622321 (<https://hdl.handle.net/10545%2F622321>).
6. Kelly, Annie (August 15, 2017). "The alt-right: reactionary rehabilitation for white masculinity". Soundings. 66 (66): 68–78. doi:10.3898/136266217821733688 (<https://doi.org/10.3898%2F136266217821733688>). S2CID 149076795 (<https://api.semanticscholar.org/CorpusID:149076795>).
7. Thompson, Kevin C. (April 2001). "WATCHING THE STORMFRONT: White Nationalists and the Building of Community in Cyberspace". Social Analysis: The International Journal of Social and Cultural Practice. 45 (1): 32–52. JSTOR 23169989 (<https://www.jstor.org/stable/23169989>).
8. Nathan, Julie (October 29, 2018). "'White Genocide' and the Pittsburgh synagogue massacre" (<http://www.abc.net.au/religion/white-genocide-is-incitement-to-murder/10442966>). ABC Religion & Ethics. Retrieved May 8, 2019.
9. Futrelle, David (April 1, 2019). "The 'alt-right' is fueled by toxic masculinity — and vice versa" (<https://www.nbcnews.com/think/opinion/alt-right-fueled-toxic-masculinity-vice-versa-ncna989031>). NBC News.
10. "The high price of 'white genocide' politics for Australia" (<https://www.smh.com.au/world/oceania/the-high-price-of-white-genocide-politics-for-australia-20180724-p4zt9k.html>). The Sydney Morning Herald. August 12, 2018.
11. Kaplan, Jeffrey (2000). Encyclopedia of White Power: A Sourcebook on the Radical Racist Right (<https://books.google.com/books?id=nNWbbhUYv8oC&q=%22white+genocide%22&pg=PA539>). AltaMira Press. p. 539. ISBN 9780742503403. Retrieved May 1, 2015.
12. "'White Genocide' Billboard Removed" (<http://www.nbcnews.com/watch/nbc-news-channel/white-genocide-billboard-removed-384737859715>). NBC News. Retrieved May 1, 2015.
13. Eager, Paige Whaley (2013). From Freedom Fighters to Terrorists: Women and Political Violence. Ashgate Publishing, Ltd. p. 90 (https://books.google.com/books?id=WQ2UytrgOkIC&pg=PA90&dq=supremacist+%22White+Genocide%22&hl=en&sa=X&ei=XNhJUq_nEu-q4APCloGgDg&ved=0CGAQ6AEwCQ#v=onepage&q=supremacist%20%22White%20Genocide%22&f=false). ISBN 9781409498575.
14. Kivisto, Peter; Rundblad, Georganne (2000). Multiculturalism in the United States: Current Issues, Contemporary Voices (<https://books.google.com/books?id=Co-4x6OXLiIC&q=%22white+genocide%22&pg=PA59>). SAGE Knowledge. pp. 57–60. ISBN 9780761986485. Retrieved May 1, 2015.
15. Pogue, James (March 28, 2019). "The Myth of White Genocide: An unfinished civil war inspires a global delusion" (<https://harpers.org/archive/2019/03/the-myth-of-white-genocide-in-south-africa/>). Harper's Magazine. Retrieved November 3, 2019.
16. Stern, Alexandra Minna (July 14, 2019). "Alt-right women and the 'white baby challenge'" (<https://www.salon.com/2019/07/14/alt-right-handmaidens-and-the-white-baby-challenge/>). Salon. Retrieved November 3, 2019.

17. "The far right, the 'White Replacement' myth and the 'Race War' brewing" (<http://www.ecaj.org.au/2019/the-far-right-the-white-replacement-myth-and-the-race-war-brewing/>). Australian Broadcasting Corporation. February 12, 2019. "What is new is the concept of 'White Replacement' (sometimes called 'White Genocide') which claims that there is a global Jewish plot to 'import' non-Europeans — especially Africans, Asians and Arabs — into Europe, North America and Australasia for the express purpose of 'destroying' European culture,, subjugating and ultimately decimating people who are of European ethnicity."
18. Saletan, William (August 7, 2019). "White Nationalists Are Debunking White Supremacy" (<https://slate.com/news-and-politics/2019/08/white-nationalists-debunking-white-supremacy.html>). Slate Magazine. Retrieved August 15, 2019. "Crusius claimed to be fighting a 'Hispanic invasion of Texas. They are the instigators, not me,' he wrote. 'I am simply defending my country from cultural and ethnic replacement brought on by an invasion.'"
19. "NY Times reporter: The white nationalist "great replacement" theory is "startlingly common" in right-wing media" (<https://www.mediamatters.org/fox-news/ny-times-reporter-white-nationalist-great-replacement-theory-startlingly-common-right-wing>). Media Matters for America. August 12, 2019. Retrieved August 17, 2019.
20. Peters, Jeremy W.; Grynbaum, Michael M.; Collins, Keith; Harris, Rich; Taylor, Rumsey (August 12, 2019). "How the El Paso Killer Echoed the Incendiary Words of Conservative Media Stars" (<https://www.nytimes.com/interactive/2019/08/11/business/media/el-paso-killer-conservative-media.html>). The New York Times. Retrieved August 12, 2019.
21. Moses, A. Dirk (March 29, 2019). "'White Genocide' and the Ethics of Public Analysis". Journal of Genocide Research. 21 (2): 201–213. doi:10.1080/14623528.2019.1599493 (<https://doi.org/10.1080/14623528.2019.1599493>). S2CID 132394485 (<https://api.semanticscholar.org/CorpusID:132394485>).
22. Perry, Barbara (November 2003). "'White Genocide': White Supremacists and the Politics of Reproduction" (<https://www.taylorfrancis.com/books/e/9781135946005/chapters/10.4324/9780203644058-9>). In Ferber, Abby L. (ed.). Home-grown hate: gender and organized racism. Routledge. pp. 75–95. doi:10.4324/9780203644058-9 (<https://doi.org/10.4324/9780203644058-9>) (inactive May 31, 2021). ISBN 0415944155.
23. "The dangerous myth of 'white genocide' in South Africa" (<https://www.splcenter.org/hatewatch/2018/08/23/dangerous-myth-white-genocide-south-africa>). Southern Poverty Law Center. August 23, 2018.
24. Saslow, Eli (September 2018). Rising out of hatred: the awakening of a former white nationalist (<https://www.penguinrandomhouse.com/books/557516/rising-out-of-hatred-by-eli-saslow/9780385542869/>). Penguin Random House. ISBN 978-0385542876.
25. "We Are in the Midst of the Third Bogus 'White Extinction' Panic in Just as Many Centuries" (<https://reason.com/2018/06/26/stoking-white-ethnic-fears-about-immigra/>). Reason. June 26, 2018.
26. Marcotte, Amanda (August 27, 2018). "Donald Trump's "white genocide" rhetoric: A dangerous escalation of racism" (<https://www.salon.com/2018/08/27/donald-trumps-white-genocide-rhetoric-a-dangerous-escalation-of-racism/>). Salon.
27. No, Katie Hopkins, there is no white genocide in South Africa (<https://www.newstatesman.com/world/africa/2018/05/no-katie-hopkins-there-no-white-genocide-south-africa>)
28. DeVega, Chauncy (September 5, 2018). "Author and activist Tim Wise: 'The Republican Party is a white identity cult'" (<https://www.salon.com/2018/09/05/author-and-activist-tim-wise-the-republican-party-is-a-white-identity-cult/>). Salon.
29. Taylor, Keeanga-Yamahtta (February 16, 2018). "The White Power Presidency: Race and Class in the Trump Era". New Political Science. 40 (1): 103–112. doi:10.1080/07393148.2018.1420555 (<https://doi.org/10.1080/07393148.2018.1420555>). S2CID 149300385 (<https://api.semanticscholar.org/CorpusID:149300385>).

30. Burgdörfer, Friedrich (1934). Sterben die weissen Völker: die Zukunft der weissen und farbigen Völker im Lichte der biologischen Statistik [The white peoples die: the future of the white and colored peoples in the light of biological statistics] (in German). G.D.W. Callwey. OCLC 938037846 (<https://www.worldcat.org/oclc/938037846>).
31. "Day of the trope: White nationalist memes thrive on Reddit's r/The_Donald" (<https://www.splcenter.org/hatewatch/2018/04/19/day-trope-white-nationalist-memes-thrive-reddits-rthedonald>). Southern Poverty Law Center. April 19, 2018.
32. "Why the alt-right want to call Australia home" (<https://overland.org.au/2018/07/why-the-alt-right-want-to-call-australia-home>). Overland. July 18, 2018.
33. "Meet the Snowflakes Who Are the New Face of Race Hate" (https://www.vice.com/en_uk/article/wj45zy/meet-the-snowflakes-who-are-the-new-face-of-race-hate). Vice Media. March 12, 2018.
34. "How the swarm of white extremism spreads itself online" (<https://thespinoff.co.nz/media/28-03-2019/how-the-swarm-of-white-extremism-spreads-itself-online/>). The Spinoff. March 28, 2019. "In French, introduced by Renaud Camus, it is called Le Grand Remplacement (The Great Replacement). It comes in different guises, such as the Eurabia thesis that argues that Muslims are "invading" Europe and are a fifth column waiting to take control of the continent. In English, the most famous iteration is "white genocide""
35. "A white nationalist conspiracy theory was at the heart of the New Zealand shooting. This isn't the first time it's been associated with terror attacks" (<https://www.businessinsider.sg/white-genocide-racist-conspiracy-theory-fueled-new-zealand-shooting-2019-3/>). Business Insider. March 15, 2019. "Breivik wrote in his 1,518-page manifesto that Islamic immigrants and the European Union were on a mission to create "Eurabia." The idea was a variation on the white genocide conspiracy theory, which purported that anti-Israel powers were attempting to "Arabise" Europe."
36. U.S. President Donald Trump's White genocide conspiracy theory tweet: (<https://twitter.com/realDonaldTrump/status/1032454567152246785>) "I have asked Secretary of State @SecPompeo to closely study the South Africa land and farm seizures and expropriations and the large scale killing of farmers. South African Government is now seizing land from white farmers @TuckerCarlson @FoxNews"
37. "South Africa blasts Trump over racially divisive tweet" (<https://www.latimes.com/world/la-fg-south-africa-trump-farmers-land-20180823-story.html>). Associated Press. August 23, 2018.
38. "'Dangerous and poisoned': Critics blast Trump for endorsing white nationalist conspiracy theory on South Africa" (https://www.washingtonpost.com/politics/dangerous-and-poisoned-critics-blast-trump-for-endorsing-white-nationalist-conspiracy-theory-on-south-africa/2018/08/23/6c3b160e-a6df-11e8-a656-943eefab5daf_story.html). The Washington Post. August 23, 2018.
39. "Trump Echoes Neo-Nazi Propaganda About South Africa (That He Heard on Fox News)" (<https://nymag.com/daily/intelligencer/2018/08/south-african-farmers-land-trump-tweet-white-genocide.html>). New York. August 23, 2018. "White nationalists in the West love the idea that their 'people' are facing imminent threat of oppression and/or genocide. This fantasy serves to justify white supremacy, by positing white dominance as the only alternative to white subjugation."
40. "'Castrate their corpses', professor says of GOP senators. White 'genocide!' Tucker Carlson cries" (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/education/2018/10/02/castrate-their-corpses-professor-says-gop-senators-white-genocide-tucker-carlson-cries/>). The Washington Post. October 2, 2018. "Carlson had been flogging the issue of land seizures in South Africa – a known proxy issue for those who believe in 'white genocide'."
41. "Trump under fire for claim of 'large scale killing' of white farmers in South Africa" (<https://www.nbcnews.com/politics/donald-trump/trump-under-fire-claim-large-scale-killing-white-farmers-south-n903171>). NBC News. August 23, 2018.
42. "Trump's tweet echoing white nationalist propaganda about South African farmers, explained" (<https://www.vox.com/policy-and-politics/2018/8/23/17772056/south-africa-trump-tweet-afriforum-white-farmers-violence>). Vox. Retrieved September 4, 2018.

43. Wilson, Jason (August 24, 2018). "White farmers: how a far-right idea was planted in Donald Trump's mind" (<https://www.theguardian.com/world/2018/aug/23/white-farmers-trump-south-africa-tucker-carls-on-far-right-influence>). The Guardian. Retrieved September 4, 2018. "...South Africa and Zimbabwe in particular have exerted a fascination on the racist far right because in the mind of white nationalists, they show what happens to a white minority after they lose control of countries they once ruled."
44. Walrath, Dana (August 10, 2019). "White genocide: A dangerous myth employed by racists" (<https://www.irishtimes.com/opinion/white-genocide-a-dangerous-myth-employed-by-racists-1.3981739>). The Irish Times. Retrieved August 26, 2019.
45. Bernier, François (2001). "A New Division of the Earth" (<https://doi.org/10.1093%2Fhwj%2F2001.51.247>). History Workshop Journal. 51 (1): 247–250. doi:10.1093/hwj/2001.51.247 (<https://doi.org/10.1093%2Fhwj%2F2001.51.247>). JSTOR 4289731 (<https://www.jstor.org/stable/4289731>).
46. Graves, Joseph L. (2001). The Emperor's New Clothes: Biological Theories of Race at the Millennium (<https://books.google.com/books?id=TXv7Kfkoml8C>). Rutgers University Press. pp. 13–22. ISBN 9780813533025. Retrieved August 27, 2019.
47. Hunt, Linda M.; Megyesi, Mary S. (January 2008). "The ambiguous meanings of the racial/ethnic categories routinely used in human genetics research" (<https://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/pmc/articles/PMC2213883>). Social Science & Medicine. 66 (2): 349–361. doi:10.1016/j.socscimed.2007.08.034 (<https://doi.org/10.1016%2Fj.socscimed.2007.08.034>). PMC 2213883 (<https://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/pmc/articles/PMC2213883>). PMID 17959289 (<https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/17959289>).
48. Gannon, Megan (February 5, 2016). "Race Is a Social Construct, Scientists Argue" (<https://www.scientificamerican.com/article/race-is-a-social-construct-scientists-argue/>). Scientific American. Retrieved August 27, 2019.
49. "When the President Inspires Violence" (<https://washingtonmonthly.com/2019/03/15/when-the-president-inspires-violence/>). Washington Monthly. March 15, 2019.
50. Paul, Diane; Stenhouse, John; Spencer, Hamish (2018). Eugenics at the Edges of Empire: New Zealand, Australia, Canada and South Africa. Palgrave Macmillan. ISBN 978-3-319-64685-5.
51. "The scary ideology behind Trump's immigration instincts" (<https://www.vox.com/2018/1/18/16897358/racism-donald-trump-immigration>). Vox Media. June 18, 2018.
52. "Probing the roots and rise of white supremacy" (<https://news.harvard.edu/gazette/story/2019/03/harvard-fellow-examines-rise-and-roots-of-white-supremacy/>). Harvard Gazette. March 18, 2019.
53. Serwer, Adam (April 2019). "White Nationalism's Deep American Roots" (<https://www.theatlantic.com/magazine/archive/2019/04/adam-serwer-madison-grant-white-nationalism/583258/>). The Atlantic. Retrieved March 24, 2019. "Warnings from conservative pundits on Fox News about the existential threat facing a country overrun by immigrants meet with a similar response. "Massive demographic changes," Laura Ingraham has proclaimed, mean that "the America we know and love doesn't exist anymore""
54. Kühn, Stefan (2002). Nazi Connection: Eugenics, American Racism, and German National Socialism. Oxford University Press. p. 85.
55. Serwer, Adam (March 21, 2016). "Nazis Have Always Been Trolls" (<https://www.theatlantic.com/ideas/archive/2019/03/mosque-shooter-troll-like-original-nazis/585415/>). The Atlantic.
56. "Harvard fellow examines rise — and roots — of white supremacy" (<https://news.harvard.edu/gazette/story/2019/03/harvard-fellow-examines-rise-and-roots-of-white-supremacy/>). Harvard Gazette. March 18, 2019. Retrieved August 27, 2019.
57. Feldman, Yotam (May 14, 2009). "Eugenics in Israel: Did Jews Try to Improve the Human Race Too?" (<https://www.haaretz.com/1.5052629>). Haaretz.
58. Lebourg, Nicolas (November 2, 2020). "René Binet, the French Father of White Nationalism" (<https://www.illiberalism.org/rene-binet-the-french-father-of-white-nationalism>). Illiberalism.org.

59. Jean-Yves Camus; Nicolas Lebourg (2017). Far-Right Politics in Europe (https://books.google.com/books?id=_j5YDgAAQBAJ&pg=PA206). Harvard University Press. pp. 206–207. ISBN 978-0-674-97153-0.
60. François, Stéphane (September 6, 2018). "En Europe, une partie de l'extrême droite revient à l'action violente" (https://www.lemonde.fr/idees/article/2018/09/06/une-partie-de-l-extreme-droite-europeenne-revient-a-l-action-violente_5350854_3232.html). Le Monde (in French). Retrieved September 2, 2019.
61. Gilles Fournier, "La guerre de demain est déjà déclenchée", Europe-Action, n° 16, April 1964, p. 21
62. François, Stéphane (May 23, 2013). "Dominique Venner et le renouvellement du racisme" (<https://tempsresents.com/2013/05/23/dominique-venner-renouvellement-racisme-stephane-francois-nicolas-lebourg/>). Fragments sur les Temps Présents (in French). Retrieved August 12, 2019.
63. Feshami, Kevan A. (September 6, 2017). "Fear of White Genocide" (<https://www.laphamsquarterly.org/roundtable/fear-white-genocide>). Lapham's Quarterly. Retrieved January 20, 2018.
64. Novick, Michael (1995). White Lies, White Power: The Fight Against White Supremacy and Reactionary Violence (<https://archive.org/details/whitelieswhitepo0000novi>). Common Courage Press. p. 155 (<https://archive.org/details/whitelieswhitepo0000novi/page/155>). ISBN 9781567510508.
65. Berger, J. M. "How 'The Turner Diaries' Changed White Nationalism" (<https://www.theatlantic.com/politics/archive/2016/09/how-the-turner-diaries-changed-white-nationalism/500039/>). The Atlantic. Retrieved November 24, 2017. "The manifesto itself was soon reduced to the simple phrase 'white genocide', which proliferated at the start of the 21st century and has become the overwhelmingly dominant meme of modern white nationalism."
66. Dessem, Matthew (December 27, 2016). "Drexel University, Unfamiliar With Racist Lingo, Censures Prof For "White Genocide" Tweet" (<https://slate.com/culture/2016/12/drexel-censures-professor-for-white-genocide-tweet.html>). Slate Magazine.
67. Stack, Liam (August 15, 2017). "Alt-Right, Alt-Left, Antifa: A Glossary of Extremist Language" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2017/08/15/us/politics/alt-left-alt-right-glossary.html>). The New York Times.
68. Jackson, Paul (May 1, 2015). "'White genocide': Postwar fascism and the ideological value of evoking existential conflicts" (<https://books.google.com/books?id=6rvICAAAQBAJ&pg=PA207>). In Cathie Carmichael; Richard C. Maguire (eds.). The Routledge History of Genocide. Routledge. pp. 207–226. ISBN 9781317514848. "Duke's current website hosts a variety of essays that develop the idea that white people are being subjected to a genocide. Again we see a key linkage here between raising the idea of a white genocide and decrying liberal political ideals. In one such essay, 'The Genocide of the White Race is Promoted by Liberals', the point is set out as follows: ... The actions being taken by liberal governments to force non-White into every White nation will eventually eliminate the White race itself."
69. "The Collection of the Works of David Lane" (<https://archive.org/details/DavidLane-CollectionOfWorks>). Internet Archive. pp. 188–191. Retrieved August 26, 2019.
70. Aryan Nations (March 12, 1996). "The Declaration of Independence" (<https://archive.org/details/AryanNationsDeclaration>). Internet Archive. Retrieved August 18, 2019.
71. "Aryan Nations/Church of Jesus Christ Christian" (<https://www.adl.org/education/resources/profiles/aryan-nations>). Anti-Defamation League. Retrieved August 20, 2019.
72. Verhovek, Sam Howe (September 8, 2000). "Leaders of Aryan Nations Found Negligent in Attack" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2000/09/08/us/leaders-of-aryan-nations-found-negligent-in-attack.html>). The New York Times. Retrieved August 20, 2019.
73. Steiger, Brad; Steiger, Sherry (2012). Conspiracies and Secret Societies: The Complete Dossier (<https://books.google.com/books?id=jQRICwAAQBAJ&q=%22Aryan%20Nations%22%20%22Declaration%20of%20Independence%22&pg=PA34>). Visible Ink Press. pp. 34–35. ISBN 9781578593859. Retrieved August 20, 2019.

74. Gaston, Sophia (November 2018). "Out of the Shadows: Conspiracy Thinking on Immigration" (<http://henryjacksonsociety.org/wp-content/uploads/2018/12/Out-of-the-Shadows-Conspiracy-thinking-on-immigration.pdf>) (PDF). The Henry Jackson Society.
75. "Che cos'è – o sarebbe – il "Piano Kalergi" " (<https://www.ilpost.it/2018/01/16/piano-kalergi/>) [What is - or would be - the "Kalergi Plan"] (in Italian). Il Post. January 16, 2018.
76. Cefkin, J. Leo (February 10, 1966). "How Long Can Rhodesia Last?". The Reporter. p. 44. "Smith faces the trials ahead with some considerable assets. Perhaps his most potent support lies in the siege mentality of the white Rhodesians. For the present, Smith has succeeded in convincing them that the only choice is the Rhodesian Front and UDI or black African dictatorship and white genocide."
77. Murphy, Dan (June 15, 2015). "Why would an American white supremacist be fond of Rhodesia?" (<https://www.csmonitor.com/World/Security-Watch/Backchannels/2015/0618/Why-would-an-American-white-supremacist-be-fond-of-Rhodesia>). The Christian Science Monitor. Retrieved December 9, 2018.
78. Davis, Julie Hirschfeld; Onishi, Norimitsu (August 23, 2018). "Trump Tweet Echoes Agenda of Supremacy" (<https://www.wral.com/trump-tweet-echoes-agenda-of-supremacy/17791327/>). WRAL.com. Retrieved December 9, 2018.
79. "Alt Right: A Primer about the New White Supremacy" (<https://www.adl.org/education/resources/backgrounders/alt-right-a-primer-about-the-new-white-supremacy>). Anti-Defamation League. Retrieved April 26, 2017.
80. Roy, Jessica (November 16, 2016). "'Cuck,' 'snowflake,' 'masculinist': A guide to the language of the 'alt-right'" (<https://www.latimes.com/nation/la-na-pol-alt-right-terminology-20161115-story.html>). Los Angeles Times.
81. Carmichael, Cathie; Maguire, Richard (May 1, 2015). The Routledge History of Genocide (<https://books.google.com/books?id=6rvlCAAQBAJ&pg=PA215>). Routledge. p. 215. ISBN 978-1-317-51484-8.
82. Waltman, Michael; Haas, John (2011). The Communication of Hate (<https://books.google.com/books?id=kL10dsWEjcEC&pg=PA27>). Peter Lang Publishing. p. 27. ISBN 9781433104473. Retrieved August 10, 2015. "Race categories are organized hierarchically to reflect differences that are inherent in the essence of these categories. These differences justify and underlie the hostility that is expressed toward inferior groups. This hostility further fuels the drive for racial purity. 'Race-mixing' is treated as genocide and is understood to be the goal of all non-whites."
83. King, Richard; Leonard, David. Beyond Hate: White Power and Popular Culture. Ashgate Publishing. p. 100. "Jesse Daniels argues that white nationalists discursively link Jews and their purported promotion of race mixing through their control of the media with their goal to commit 'the genocide of the white race'"
84. Ferber, Abby (1999). White Man Falling: Race, Gender, and White Supremacy. Rowman & Littlefield Publishers. p. 124. "According to White Power article entitled 'Jews Planning White Genocide', 'world Jewry's chilling Final Solution [is] the physical and spiritual genocide of the White race they despise'"
85. Bridges, Tyler (1994). The Rise of David Duke (<https://archive.org/details/riseofdavidduke0000brid>). Univ. Press of Mississippi. p. 23 (<https://archive.org/details/riseofdavidduke0000brid/page/23>). "Duke believed Jews were engaged in a conspiracy to weaken the white race by using the media to promote integration and race mixing ... race mixing, Duke believed, meant white genocide"
86. Lenz, Ryan (August 21, 2013). "Following the White Rabbit" (<https://www.splcenter.org/fighting-hate/intelligence-report/2013/following-white-rabbit>). Southern Poverty Law Center. Retrieved September 5, 2018.
87. Gilsinan, Kathy (June 24, 2015). "Dylann Roof and the 'Globalization of White Nationalism'" (<https://www.theatlantic.com/international/archive/2015/06/dylann-roof-world-white-supremacist/396557/>). The Atlantic. Retrieved September 5, 2018.
88. Silverstein, Jason (January 11, 2015). "Billboard from 'white genocide' group goes up in Ala" (<http://www.nydailynews.com/news/national/billboard-white-genocide-group-ala-article-1.2074126>). New York Daily News. Retrieved July 8, 2016.

89. "Jared Taylor" (<https://www.splcenter.org/fighting-hate/extremist-files/individual/jared-taylor>). Southern Poverty Law Center. Retrieved August 14, 2019.
90. "American Renaissance" (<https://www.splcenter.org/fighting-hate/extremist-files/group/american-renaissance>). Southern Poverty Law Center. Retrieved August 14, 2019.
91. Arnold, Kathleen (2011). Anti-Immigration in the United States: A Historical Encyclopedia: A Historical Encyclopedia. ABC-CLIO. p. 508. ISBN 9780313375217. "Unlike many other white supremacists, Taylor is not anti-Semitic, and in fact encourages Jews to join his fight ... however many within the white supremacist/anti-immigration movement disagree with Taylor, most notably David Duke, and he has been under tremendous pressure to break ties with the Jewish community. Taylor, at least for now, has refused to submit to this pressure and continues to work with Jews to further his platform."
92. Lyster, Rosa (May 9, 2018). "The creeping spectre of "white genocide" " (<https://theoutline.com/post/4486/the-creeping-spectre-of-white-genocide>). The Outline. Retrieved August 6, 2019.
93. Gedye, Lloyd. "White genocide: How the big lie spread to the US and beyond" (<https://mg.co.za/article/2018-03-23-00-radical-right-plugs-swart-gevaar>). The M&G Online. Retrieved October 3, 2018.
94. Taguieff, Pierre-André (2015). La revanche du nationalisme: Néopopulistes et xénophobes à l'assaut de l'Europe (<https://books.google.com/books?id=guYJCwAAQBAJ&pg=PT71>) (in French). Presses Universitaires de France. ISBN 978-2-13-072950-1.
95. Camus, Jean-Yves; Lebourg, Nicolas (2017). Far-Right Politics in Europe. Harvard University Press. pp. 206–207. ISBN 978-0-674-97843-0.
96. Cosentino, Gabriele (2020). "From Pizzagate to the Great Replacement: The Globalization of Conspiracy Theories". Social Media and the Post-Truth World Order: The Global Dynamics of Disinformation. Springer. p. 75. doi:10.1007/978-3-030-43005-4_3 (https://doi.org/10.1007%2F978-3-030-43005-4_3). ISBN 978-3-030-43005-4. "While the Great Replacement is at its core an Islamophobic belief, Lane's ideology is anti-Semitic."
97. Coaston, Jane (April 26, 2019). "Trump's new defense of his Charlottesville comments is incredibly false" (<https://www.vox.com/2019/4/26/18517980/trump-unite-the-right-racism-defense-charlottesville>). Vox. Retrieved August 25, 2019.
98. "Alt-right rally: Charlottesville braces for violence" (<https://www.aljazeera.com/indepth/features/2017/08/alt-rally-charlottesville-braces-violence-170810073156023.html>). Al Jazeera. August 11, 2017.
99. " 'Increasingly Nazified' white nationalist rally descends on Virginia amid expected protests" (<https://www.theguardian.com/us-news/2017/aug/12/nazi-white-nationalist-rallies-virginia-protests>). The Guardian. August 12, 2017.
00. Wildman, Sarah (August 15, 2017). " "You will not replace us": a French philosopher explains the Charlottesville chant" (<https://www.vox.com/world/2017/8/15/16141456/renaud-camus-the-great-replacement-you-will-not-replace-us-charlottesville-white>). Vox.
01. "The Audio Doesn't Lie: Tucker Carlson Is Who We Thought He Was" (<https://www.nybooks.com/daily/2018/08/16/deradicalizing-white-people/>). The New York Review of Books. August 16, 2018. "President Trump is adept at addressing the "white genocide" anxiety. On his recent trip to England, he said that immigration had "changed the fabric of Europe. And unless you act very quickly, it's never going to be what it was.""
02. "White extinction anxiety: Why this curious race-related term trended on Twitter" (<https://www.indiatoday.in/world/story/white-extinction-anxiety-why-this-curious-race-related-term-trended-on-twitter-1269551-2018-06-25>). India Today. June 25, 2018.
03. "How Increasingly Diverse Neighborhoods Affect White Anxiety" (<https://psmag.com/social-justice/how-diversity-affects-white-anxiety>). Pacific Standard. October 17, 2018.
04. Stern, Alexandra Minna (2019). Proud Boys and the White Ethnostate: How the Alt-Right Is Warping the American Imagination. Beacon Press. p. 99. ISBN 978-0807063361.

05. "What fuels "white anxiety"? The baffling hypocrisies behind white paranoia politics" (<https://www.salon.com/2018/06/26/what-fuels-white-anxiety-the-baffling-hypocrisies-behind-white-paranoia-politics/>). Salon. June 26, 2018.
06. Hardy, Alfredo Toro (2019). The Crossroads of Globalization: A Latin American View. World Scientific. p. 105. ISBN 978-9813277304.
07. "'White Extinction Anxiety' Trends On Twitter: Do White People Really Fear Dying Off? 'NYT' Columnist Explains" (<https://www.inquisitr.com/4957560/white-extinction-anxiety-twitter/>). Inquisitr. June 25, 2018. "In Blow's analysis, the heavy white support for Trump is due to "white extinction anxiety," the fear expressed by Buchanan that non-white people will soon become the majority in the United States, causing whites to lose their privileged status based on their skin color."
08. "Race Against Time: How White Fear of Genetic Annihilation Fuels Abortion Bans" (<https://www.yesmagazine.org/peace-justice/abortion-ban-fear-white-extinction-babies-20190703>). Yes! (U.S. magazine). July 3, 2019.
09. Krajceck, David J. (2019). Mass Killers: Inside the Minds of Men Who Murder. Arcturus Publishing. ISBN 978-1788883443.
10. Villet, Charles (February 23, 2017). "Donald Trump, white victimhood and the South African far-right" (<https://theconversation.com/donald-trump-white-victimhood-and-the-south-african-far-right-73400>). The Conversation. Retrieved March 24, 2018.
11. "Getting the facts straight: A fact-checking website in Africa hopes to stem the flow of misinformation" (<https://www.economist.com/baobab/2013/07/03/getting-the-facts-straight>). The Economist. July 3, 2013.
12. "Funds raised for Hofmeyr to meet with Trump over 'white genocide'" (<https://citizen.co.za/news/south-africa/1398923/funds-raised-for-hofmeyr-to-meet-with-trump-over-white-genocide/>). The Citizen (South Africa). January 17, 2017.
13. "Hofmeyr could meet Trump to discuss 'white genocide in SA'" (<https://www.iol.co.za/news/world/hofmeyr-could-meet-trump-to-discuss-white-genocide-in-sa-7440941>). Independent Online (South Africa). January 18, 2017.
14. Selisho, Kaunda (August 14, 2018). "WATCH: Steve Hofmeyr endorses Donald Trump's message" (<https://citizen.co.za/news/south-africa/2009477/watch-steve-hofmeyr-endorses-donald-trumps-message/>). citizen.co.za. Retrieved August 20, 2018.
15. "Trump's Alt-Right coming to SA – IOL News" (<https://www.iol.co.za/news/opinion/trumps-alt-right-coming-to-sa-7803189>).
16. "SA conservative group takes credit for increased 'white genocide' awareness" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180324102528/https://www.news24.com/SouthAfrica/News/sa-conservative-group-takes-credit-for-increased-white-genocide-awareness-20180323>). News24. Archived from the original (<https://www.news24.com/SouthAfrica/News/sa-conservative-group-takes-credit-for-increased-white-genocide-awareness-20180323>) on March 24, 2018. Retrieved March 24, 2018.
17. "Are SA whites really being killed 'like flies'? Why Steve Hofmeyr is wrong" (<https://africacheck.org/reports/are-white-afrikaners-really-being-killed-like-flies/>).
18. "No genocide risk in SA | Daily News" (<https://www.iol.co.za/dailynews/opinion/no-genocide-risk-in-sa-2070108>). Retrieved September 5, 2018.
19. "Genocide Watch thin on transparency and methodology – Africa Check" (<https://africacheck.org/2016/09/15/analysis-genocide-watch-thin-transparency-methodology>). Africa Check. September 15, 2016. Retrieved September 5, 2018.
20. Chutel, Lynsey (June 5, 2018). "International outrage about a "genocide" against white farmers in South Africa ignores the data" (<https://qz.com/africa/1297437/farm-murders-in-south-africa-are-decreasing-even-as-conservatives-warn-of-genocide-of-white-afrikaners/>). Quartz Africa. Retrieved August 20, 2019.

21. de Greef, Palko; Karaza, Kimon (August 23, 2018). "Trump Cites False Claims of Widespread Attacks on White Farmers in South Africa" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2018/08/23/world/africa/trump-south-africa-white-farmers.html>). The New York Times. Retrieved September 5, 2018.
22. "'White Genocide' is Not Underway in South Africa" (<http://genocidewatch.net/2015/08/19/white-genocide-is-not-underway-in-south-africa>). genocidewatch.net. Retrieved September 5, 2018.
23. Brogan, Patrick The Fighting Never Stopped, New York: Vintage Books, 1989 p. 87
24. Heer, Jeet (June 24, 2015). "Dylann Roof's Defense of White Rule in Africa Has Roots in American Conservatism" (<https://newrepublic.com/article/122140/dylann-roofs-defense-apartheid-africa-has-roots-us-conservatism>). The New Republic. Retrieved December 9, 2018.
25. Heilbrunn, Jacob (January–February 1998). "Apologists Without Remorse" (<http://prospect.org/article/apologists-without-remorse>). The American Prospect. Retrieved December 9, 2018.
26. "UPDATED TO INCLUDE APOLOGY 'We have never ever said there is a white genocide happening in SA'" (<http://www.702.co.za/articles/316863/we-have-never-ever-said-there-is-a-white-genocide-happening-in-sa>). Radio 702. August 27, 2018. Retrieved December 27, 2019.
27. Chothia, Farouk (September 1, 2018). "The groups playing on the fears of a 'white genocide'" (<https://www.bbc.com/news/world-africa-45336840>). BBC News. Retrieved August 29, 2019. See also tweets (<https://twitter.com/afriforum/status/842283787740450816>) signed "@ErnstRoets". (<https://twitter.com/afriforum/status/842288208805285888>)
28. Carlson, Tucker. "Minority of farmers struggle for survival in South Africa" (<https://video.foxnews.com/v/5785308294001/#sp=show-clips>). Fox News. Retrieved August 29, 2019.
29. Hlatshaneni, Simnikiwe (June 27, 2018). "Outrage surrounds book claiming top ANC officials 'killed the boer'" (<https://citizen.co.za/news/south-africa/1964479/outrage-surrounds-book-claiming-top-anc-officials-killed-the-boer/>). The Citizen. Retrieved November 24, 2018.
30. Ernst Roets (June 15, 2018). "Kill the Boer" (<http://www.killtheboerbook.com>). Kill the Boer Book. Retrieved September 25, 2018.
31. Eirikur Bergmann: Conspiracy & Populism: The Politics of Misinformation, 2018, Chapter: "The Eurabia Doctrine", p. 127.
32. "The French Origins of "You Will Not Replace Us" " (<https://www.newyorker.com/magazine/2017/12/04/the-french-origins-of-you-will-not-replace-us>). The New Yorker. December 4, 2017.
33. "Tensions raciales en Afrique du Sud : l'année 2016 bat tous les records" (https://www.francetvinfo.fr/monde/afrique/afrique-du-sud/tensions-raciales-en-afrique-du-sud-lannee-2016-bat-tous-les-records_3062659.html) [Racial tensions in South Africa: 2016 beats all records] (in French). France Info (TV channel). September 6, 2016.
34. "Cette enquête qui met le FN face à ses contradictions" (<https://www.europe1.fr/politique/cette-enquete-qui-met-le-fn-face-a-ses-contradictions-3352676>) [This investigation that puts the FN faces its contradictions] (in French). Europe 1. June 6, 2017.
35. "Racisme, homophobie: ce que l'on trouve sur les comptes des candidats FN" (<http://www.francesoir.fr/politique-france/racisme-homophobie-ce-que-lon-trouve-sur-les-comptes-des-candidats-fn-front-national-buzzfeed-circonscriptions-xenophobie-legislatives-deputes-twitter-facebook-fachosphere>) [Racism, homophobia: what we find on the accounts of FN candidates] (in French). France-Soir. June 6, 2017.
36. "Le FN en PACA : des propos à caractère raciste et islamophobe des candidats aux législatives" (<https://france3-regions.francetvinfo.fr/provence-alpes-cote-d-azur/fn-paca-propos-racistes-islamophobe-s-candidats-aux-elections-legislatives-1268215.html>) [The FN in PACA: Racist and Islamophobic remarks from candidates for the legislative elections] (in French). France Info. June 7, 2017.
37. Bromley, Richard (2018). "The politics of displacement: the Far Right narrative of Europe and its 'others'" (<http://europeansouth.postcolonialitalia.it/journal/2018-3/2.Bromley.pdf>) (PDF). From the European South. 3: 13–26.

38. Pasha-Robinson, Lucy (February 21, 2018). "Hungary's Prime Minister warns 'Europe is being overrun' in the run up to national election" (<https://www.independent.co.uk/news/world/europe/viktor-orban-hungary-elections-prime-minister-anti-immigration-islam-fidesz-party-a8221121.html>). The Independent. Retrieved March 23, 2019.
39. "At an Arkansas white nationalist rally, Trump's support for racist conspiracies provides inspiration" (<https://thinkprogress.org/arkansas-white-nationalist-nsm-rally-trump-tweets-white-genocide-false-14c1e5b561d4/>). ThinkProgress. November 13, 2019.
40. "Tommy Robinson and the far right's new playbook" (<https://www.theguardian.com/world/2018/oct/25/tommy-robinson-and-the-far-rights-new-playbook>). The Guardian. October 25, 2018.
41. "The Race War Preppers Behind South Africa's 'White Genocide' Meme" (https://www.vice.com/en_uk/article/qvn44v/the-race-war-preppers-behind-south-africas-white-genocide-meme). Vice Media. May 10, 2018.
42. "No, Katie Hopkins, there is no white genocide in South Africa" (<https://www.newstatesman.com/world/africa/2018/05/no-katie-hopkins-there-no-white-genocide-south-africa>). New Statesman. May 22, 2018.
43. "The Rebel Media-branded retirement savings fund is not happening" (<https://www.macleans.ca/news/canada/the-rebel-media-branded-retirement-savings-fund-is-not-happening/>). Macleans. July 24, 2018.
44. "Katie Hopkins allegedly detained at Johannesburg airport for 'spreading racial hatred'" (<https://uk.news.yahoo.com/katie-hopkins-allegedly-detained-johannesburg-airport-spreading-racial-hatred-143248388.html>). Yahoo News. February 6, 2018.
45. "Katie Hopkins has been allowed to leave South Africa after being 'detained'" (<https://uk.news.yahoo.com/katie-hopkins-allowed-leave-south-africa-detained-130143584.html>). Yahoo News. February 7, 2018.
46. "Neo-Nazi arrests: National Action suspects are in the Army" (<https://www.bbc.com/news/uk-41161233>). BBC. September 7, 2017.
47. "Leader of Nigel Farage's party resigns over anti-Islam messages" (<https://www.theguardian.com/world/2019/mar/20/leader-of-pro-brex-it-party-catherine-blaiklock-resigns-over-anti-islam-messages>). The Guardian. March 20, 2019.
48. "Tory candidates suspended over racist and inflammatory posts" (<https://www.theguardian.com/politics/2019/apr/25/tory-candidates-suspended-over-racist-and-inflammatory-posts>). The Guardian. April 25, 2019.
49. Townsend, Mark (August 24, 2019). "Infiltrator exposes Generation Identity UK's march towards extreme far right" (<https://www.theguardian.com/world/2019/aug/24/generation-identity-uk-far-right-extremists>). The Observer. Retrieved August 26, 2019.
50. Wells, Alexandra (August 14, 2019). "YouTube Paid Neo-Nazi Thousands Of Dollars For Hate Videos" (<https://forward.com/fast-forward/429555/youtube-neo-nazi-mark-collett-anti-semitism/>). The Forward. Retrieved August 26, 2019.
51. "Canada 'Breitbart North' Co-Founder Quits Over Charlottesville" (<https://forward.com/fast-forward/380005/breitbart-north-rebel-media-co-founder-quits-charlottesville/>). The Forward. August 15, 2017.
52. "Toronto scraps 'free speech' event" (<https://www.bbc.com/news/world-us-canada-40956141>). BBC News. August 16, 2017. Retrieved October 3, 2018.
53. "Advertisers bow to pressure to pull ads from The Rebel" (<https://www.theglobeandmail.com/report-on-business/industry-news/marketing/advertisers-bow-to-pressure-to-pull-ads-from-the-rebel/article35181695/>). Retrieved October 3, 2018 – via The Globe and Mail.
54. "How Free Speech Warriors Mainstreamed White Supremacists" (<https://www.gq.com/story/how-free-speech-warriors-mainstreamed-white-supremacists>). GQ. May 8, 2018.
55. "Do You Want Bigots, Gavin? Because This Is How You Get Bigots" (<https://www.splcenter.org/hatewatch/2017/08/10/do-you-want-bigots-gavin-because-how-you-get-bigots>). Hatewatch. Southern Poverty Law Center.

56. "Proud Boy lawyer demands alt-weeklies not call "western chauvinist fraternity" alt-right" (<http://www.citypaper.com/news/dic/bcp-102517-dic-proud-boys-20171025-story.html>). Baltimore City Paper. October 25, 2017.
57. "How Hate Goes 'Mainstream': Gavin McInnes and the Proud Boys – Rewire.News" (<https://rewire.news/article/2017/08/28/hate-goes-mainstream-gavin-mcinnnes-proud-boys/>). Rewire.News. Retrieved August 29, 2018.
58. "Stefan Molyneux Thinks New Star Wars Film Is About The Decline Of White People" (<http://www.rightwingwatch.org/post/stefan-molyneux-thinks-new-star-wars-film-is-about-the-decline-of-white-people/>). Right Wing Watch. December 19, 2017.
59. "Alt-right speakers Stefan Molyneux and Lauren Southern anger NZ Muslims" (<https://www.radionz.co.nz/news/national/362284/alt-right-speakers-stefan-molyneux-and-lauren-southern-anger-nz-muslims>). Radio New Zealand. July 20, 2018.
60. "Anti-immigration activist denied entry to Australia because she filled out wrong visa form" (<https://www.rawstory.com/2018/07/anti-immigration-activist-denied-entry-australia-filled-wrong-visa-form/>). The Raw Story. July 9, 2018.
61. "Canadian far-right activist Lauren Southern denied Australian visa" (<http://www.ibtimes.com.au/canadian-far-right-activist-lauren-southern-denied-australian-visa-1569859>). International Business Times. July 10, 2018.
62. Chutel, Lynsey (June 5, 2018). "International outrage about a "genocide" against white farmers in South Africa ignores the data" (<https://qz.com/1297437/farm-murders-in-south-africa-are-decreasing-even-as-conservatives-warn-of-genocide-of-white-afrikanners/>). Quartz. Retrieved July 30, 2018.
63. Urban, Rebecca (July 20, 2018). "Lauren Southern: protesters out to disrupt right wing commentator's event" (<https://www.theaustralian.com.au/news/nation/lauren-southern-protesters-out-to-disrupt-right-wing-commentators-event/news-story/5b7db1c243bf7df639f535561679a36f>). The Australian.
64. "Hamilton police investigating after white nationalist posts suspected mosque shooter manifesto" (<https://www.cbc.ca/news/canada/hamilton/paul-fromm-1.5061974>). CBC.ca. March 18, 2019.
65. "Police investigating after Canadian far-right website reposts New Zealand terrorist's manifesto" (<https://globalnews.ca/news/5069005/canadian-far-right-website-reposts-new-zealand-terrorist-manifesto/>). Global News. March 19, 2019.
66. "The far right's "Free Speech Week" at UC Berkeley, explained" (<https://www.vox.com/policy-and-politics/2017/9/21/16333260/free-speech-week-uc-berkeley>). Vox Media. September 21, 2017.
67. "Why Ann Coulter's Remarks Have Led to Accusations of Racism" (<https://www.thoughtco.com/top-most-racist-ann-coulter-quotes-2834520>). ThoughtCo. Retrieved October 3, 2018.
68. "Bush's America: Roach Motel" (<http://www.anncoulter.com/columns/2007-06-06.html>). anncoulter.com. June 6, 2007.
69. "Why Ann Coulter is dead wrong about immigration in America" (<https://www.dailydot.com/via/ann-coulter-immigration/>). The Daily Dot. May 28, 2015.
70. "Greg Johnson - Greg Johnson is the editor-in-chief of the white nationalist publishing house Counter-Currents, an epicenter of "academic" white nationalism" (<https://www.splcenter.org/fighting-hate/extremist-files/individual/greg-johnson>). Southern Poverty Law Center.
71. "In Arkansas, white town is a black mark" (<http://america.aljazeera.com/articles/2014/12/10/harrison-arkansashategroups.html>). Al Jazeera. December 10, 2014.
72. Underwood, Madison (June 30, 2014). "Where does that billboard phrase, 'Anti-racist is a code word for anti-white,' come from? It's not new" (http://www.al.com/news/birmingham/index.ssf/2014/06/where_does_that_billboard_phra.html). AL.com. Retrieved May 29, 2016.
73. Byng, Rhonesha (November 7, 2013). "Arkansas Town Responds To Controversial 'Anti-Racist Is A Code Word For Anti-White' Sign" (https://www.huffingtonpost.com/2013/11/07/harrison-arkansas-anti-racist-code-word-antiwhite_n_4227769.html). Huffington Post. Retrieved May 29, 2016.

74. "Trump Jr. Wants 'Alt-right' Personality Mike Cernovich to Win Pulitzer" (<https://www.haaretz.com/us-news/trump-jr-wants-mike-cernovich-to-win-pulitzer-1.5457714>). Haaretz. April 5, 2017.
75. "Ohio treasurer and Senate candidate takes on Anti-Defamation League over far-right 'witch hunt'" (<https://www.yahoo.com/news/ohio-treasurer-senate-candidate-takes-anti-defamation-league-far-right-witch-hunt-202509465.html>). Yahoo! News. July 21, 2017.
76. "How Twitter's Alt-Right Purge Fell Short" (<https://www.rollingstone.com/politics/politics-news/how-twitters-alt-right-purge-fell-short-196449/>). Rolling Stone. December 19, 2017.
77. "Media Matter: People - Mike Cernovich (Page 6)" (<https://www.mediamatters.org/people/mike-cernovich?page=6>). Media Matters. November 18, 2016.
78. "South African group under fire for lobbying US for white rights" (<https://www.aljazeera.com/news/2018/05/south-african-group-fire-lobbying-white-rights-180514054424008.html>). Aljazeera.com. May 15, 2018.
79. "James Gunn Was Fired For Old Tweets Because Disney Listened To The 'Pizzagate' Guy" (<https://www.houstonpress.com/arts/should-james-gunn-have-been-fired-as-galaxy-director-10682469>). Houston Press. July 23, 2018.
80. "Virginia gubernatorial candidate laughed about GOP 'cucks' on controversial conspiracy theorist's show" (<https://edition.cnn.com/2017/03/24/politics/kfile-virginia-governor-livestream-appearance/index.html>). CNN. December 6, 2017.
81. CNN, Tal Kopan (January 22, 2016). "Donald Trump retweets 'White Genocide' Twitter user" (<http://edition.cnn.com/2016/01/22/politics/donald-trump-retweet-white-genocide/>). CNN. Retrieved March 15, 2017.
82. Kharakh, Ben; Primack, Dan (March 22, 2016). "Donald Trump's Social Media Ties to White Supremacists" (<http://fortune.com/donald-trump-white-supremacist-genocide/>). Fortune. Retrieved March 15, 2017.
83. Staufenberg, Jess (January 28, 2016). "Turns out Donald Trump 'mostly' retweets white supremacist sympathizers" (<https://www.independent.co.uk/news/world/americas/donald-trumps-re-tweets-are-mostly-of-white-supremacist-sympathisers-a6838521.html>). The Independent. Retrieved March 15, 2017.
84. "Donald Trump Jr. Is His Father's Id" (<https://www.theatlantic.com/politics/archive/2016/09/donald-trump-jr-is-his-fathers-id/500762/>). The Atlantic. September 20, 2016.
85. "Donald Trump Jr. Emerges as 'Alt-Right' Hero Even as Dad Tones Down Rhetoric" (<https://forward.com/news/350364/donald-trump-jr-emerges-as-alt-right-hero-even-as-dad-tones-down-rhetoric/>). The Forward. September 20, 2016.
86. "Donald Trump Jr. sat down for interview with supremacist who once said 'interracial sex is white genocide'" (<https://nationalpost.com/news/world/donald-trump-jr-sat-down-for-interview-with-white-supremacist-who-once-said-interracial-sex-is-white-genocide>). National Post. March 4, 2016.
87. "Trump Retweets Alt-Right Leader Who Has Praised White Supremacist Richard Spencer" (<https://www.newsweek.com/trump-tweets-alt-right-leader-who-praised-white-supremacist-richard-spencer-650852>). Newsweek. August 15, 2017.
88. "Meet the Alt-Right 'Spokesman' Who's Thrilled With Trump's Rise" (<https://www.rollingstone.com/politics/politics-features/meet-the-alt-right-spokesman-whos-thrilled-with-trumps-rise-129588/>). Rolling Stone. October 18, 2016.
89. "Donald Trump réveille le géant assoupi de l'Amérique blanche" (<http://www.lefigaro.fr/international/2016/10/16/01003-20161016ARTFIG00120-donald-trump-reveille-le-geant-assoupi-de-l-amerique-blanche.php>) [Donald Trump wakes up the sleeping giant of white America]. Le Figaro (in French). October 17, 2016.

90. "Election américaine : Donald Trump embarrassé par le soutien du journal du Ku Klux Klan" (https://www.lemonde.fr/elections-americaaines/article/2016/11/02/election-americaaine-donald-trump-embarrasse-par-le-soutien-du-journal-du-ku-klux-klan_5024388_829254.html) [US election: Donald Trump embarrassed by the support of the Ku Klux Klan newspaper]. Le Monde (in French). November 2, 2019.
91. "League of the South Announces Formation of 'Southern Defense Force' " (<https://www.splcenter.org/hatewatch/2017/02/06/league-south-announces-formation-%E2%80%98southern-defense-force%E2%80%99>). Southern Poverty Law Center. February 6, 2017.
92. "Neo-Nazis, white nationalists, and internet trolls: who's who in the far right" (<https://www.theguardian.com/world/2017/aug/17/charlottesville-alt-right-neo-nazis-white-nationalists>). The Guardian. August 17, 2017.
93. "Steve King's district was built by "somebody else's babies" " (<https://www.motherjones.com/politics/2017/03/steve-kings-iowa-immigrants/>). Mother Jones. Retrieved October 3, 2018. "Steve King's White Nationalism is Echoed in the White House" (<https://www.pastemagazine.com/articles/2017/03/steve-kings-white-nationalism-is-echoed-in-the-whi.html>). pastemagazine.com. Retrieved October 3, 2018.
94. "Steve King says racist things because he knows the GOP won't call him out on it" (<https://newrepublic.com/minutes/141310/steve-king-says-racist-things-knows-gop-wont-call-it>). The New Republic. Retrieved October 3, 2018.
95. "Google condemned by MPs after refusing to ban anti-Semitic YouTube video by ex-KKK leader" (<https://www.independent.co.uk/news/uk/politics/youtube-google-kkk-video-refuses-to-take-down-antisemitic-david-duke-a7629861.html>). The Independent. March 14, 2017.
96. "Google said a video about Jewish people 'organizing white genocide' didn't infringe its guidelines" (<http://uk.businessinsider.com/google-said-a-david-duke-video-about-jewish-people-organising-white-genocide-wasnt-racist-2017-3>). Business Insider. March 15, 2017.
97. "Why I, editor of the Jewish Chronicle, think anti-Semites should be allowed on YouTube" (<https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/2017/03/15/editor-jewish-chronicle-think-anti-semite-should-allowed-youtube/>). The Telegraph. March 15, 2017.
98. "Face-off between MPs and social media giants over online hate speech" (<https://www.theguardian.com/media/2017/mar/14/face-off-mps-and-social-media-giants-online-hate-speech-facebook-twitter>). The Guardian. March 14, 2017.
99. "Taxpayers are funding extremism" (<https://www.thetimes.co.uk/article/taxpayers-fund-extremism-csdn0npsf>). The Times. March 17, 2017.
00. "Anthony Bourdain Offers To 'Rearrange' Ex-KKK Leader David Duke's Extremities" (https://www.huffingtonpost.com/entry/anthony-bourdain-kkk-david-duke_us_58bee29fe4b0d8c45f46d6aa). HuffPost. March 7, 2017.
01. "Anthony Bourdain offers to 'rearrange' David Duke's kneecaps" (<http://www.foxnews.com/food-drink/2017/03/03/anthony-bourdain-offers-to-rearrange-david-dukes-kneecaps.html>). Fox News. March 3, 2017.
02. Hawkins, Derek (October 4, 2017). "Jason Kessler, Charlottesville protest organizer, indicted on a charge of perjury" (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/news/morning-mix/wp/2017/10/04/jason-kessler-charlottesville-protest-organizer-indicted-for-perjury/>). The Washington Post. Retrieved August 1, 2018.
03. "White nationalist sues Charlottesville to hold Unite the Right anniversary rally" (<https://www.usatoday.com/story/news/2018/03/07/white-nationalist-sues-charlottesville-hold-unite-right-anniversary-rally/403556002/>). USA Today. Retrieved October 3, 2018.
04. "In Remarks For Charlottesville Anniversary, Trump Still Plays To Both Sides" (<https://www.refinery29.com/2018/08/207046/trump-charlottesville-riot-unite-the-right-rally-anniversary-tweet/>). Refinery29. August 11, 2018.
05. "Birth of a White Supremacist" (<https://www.newyorker.com/magazine/2017/10/16/birth-of-a-white-supremacist>). New York Times. October 9, 2017.

06. "Laura Ingraham loses sponsor over defense of white supremacist" (<https://thinkprogress.org/laura-ingraham-loses-sponsor-over-defense-of-white-supremacist-1dc92e0b01f5/>). ThinkProgress. June 1, 2019.
07. "Here's Twitter's position on Alex Jones (and hate-peddling anti-truthers) – hint: It's a fudge" (<https://techcrunch.com/2018/08/07/heres-twitters-position-on-alex-jones-and-hate-peddling-anti-truthers-hint-its-a-fudge/>). TechCrunch. Retrieved October 3, 2018.
08. "ADL blasts Trump for tweeting a white nationalist talking point" (https://www.timesofisrael.com/liveblog_entry/adl-blasts-trump-for-tweeting-a-white-nationalist-talking-point/). The Times of Israel. August 23, 2018.
09. "White Nationalists Praise Donald Trump for Spreading White South African Farmers Conspiracy Theory" (<https://www.newsweek.com/white-nationalists-trump-south-african-farmers-1087549>). Newsweek. August 23, 2018.
10. "Trump Is Using a White Nationalist Conspiracy Theory to Inform Policy" (<https://www.rollingstone.com/politics/politics-news/trump-south-africa-714744/>). Rolling Stone. August 23, 2018.
11. Marcotte, Amanda (August 15, 2018). "Tucker Carlson claims there's no white nationalism. His show's obsessive racism suggests otherwise" (<https://www.salon.com/2018/08/15/tucker-carlson-claims-theres-no-white-nationalism-his-shows-obsessive-racism-suggests-otherwise/>). Salon.
12. Bauder, David (August 24, 2018). "Fox's Tucker Carlson stunned by reaction to stories on South Africa" (<http://www.chicagotribune.com/entertainment/tv/ct-fox-news-tucker-carlson-south-africa-2018-0824-story.html>). Chicago Tribune. Retrieved October 12, 2018.
13. "Perspective: President Trump is pushing white nationalist ideas into the mainstream" (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/outlook/2018/08/24/president-trump-is-pushing-white-nationalist-ideas-into-mainstream/>). The Washington Post. Retrieved September 4, 2018.
14. Schulberg, Jessica (August 23, 2018). "Trump Boosted A White Nationalist Conspiracy Theory He Saw On Fox News" (https://www.huffingtonpost.com/entry/trump-white-farmers-south-africa-conspiracy-theory_us_5b7f2d38e4b0729515115d9d). Huffington Post. Retrieved August 24, 2018.
15. "The Daily Caller Has A White Nationalist Problem" (<https://www.splcenter.org/hatewatch/2017/08/16/daily-caller-has-white-nationalist-problem>). Southern Poverty Law Center. August 16, 2017.
16. "No One Should Need a Tape of Him Using a Racial Slur" (<https://www.esquire.com/news-politics/politics/a22810662/donald-trump-south-africa-white-land-grabs-killings/>). August 23, 2018.
17. "President Trump is stoking white nationalism, exploiting racist fear" (<https://www.splcenter.org/news/2018/08/23/president-trump-stoking-white-nationalism-exploiting-racist-fear>). Southern Poverty Law Center. August 23, 2018.
18. "Donald Trump's land seizures tweet draws angry reaction in South Africa" (<https://www.theguardian.com/us-news/2018/aug/23/trump-orders-close-study-of-south-africa-farmer-killings>). The Guardian. August 23, 2018.
19. "South Africa rejects Donald Trump's tweet on farmer killings" (<https://www.bbc.com/news/world-africa-45282088>). BBC. August 23, 2018.
20. "Expropriation Bill to be redrafted to accommodate expropriation without compensation" (<https://www.timeslive.co.za/politics/2018-08-28-expropriation-bill-to-be-redrafted-to-accommodate-expropriation-without-compensation/>). The Times (South Africa). August 28, 2018.
21. "South Africa's top diplomat slams Trump tweet as 'right-wing ideology'" (<https://edition.cnn.com/2018/08/27/africa/south-africa-trump-tweet-land-reform-intl/index.html>). CNN. August 27, 2018.
22. "Trump's South Africa Tweet Seems to Embrace Racist Narrative on Land Dispute" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2018/08/23/us/politics/trump-south-africa-land.html>). The New York Times. August 23, 2018.
23. "Cuomo offers Trump tips to avoid scrutiny" (<https://edition.cnn.com/videos/politics/2018/08/24/trump-south-africa-scrutiny-cuomo-cpt-sot-vp.cnn>). CNN. August 24, 2018.

24. "Kellyanne Conway and Chris Cuomo squeezed a week's worth of news into one wild 30-minute debate on CNN" (<http://uk.businessinsider.com/kellyanne-conway-and-chris-cuomo-interview-cnn-2018-8>). Business Insider. August 24, 2018.
25. "Tim Wise: Trump tweet about South Africa directed at white Americans" (<https://www.msn.com/en-us/lifestyle/relationships/tim-wise-trump-tweet-about-south-africa-directed-at-white-americans/vi-BBMqGEZ>). MSN. August 25, 2018.
26. "President Donald Trump Tweets About South Africa; South Africa Responds" (<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=U2ewxSvrJMM>). MSNBC. August 23, 2018.
27. "South Africa tweets show 'morally debased' Trump 'will do anything' to change the subject from Cohen: MSNBC panelist" (<https://www.rawstory.com/2018/08/south-africa-tweets-show-morally-debated-trump-will-anything-change-subject-cohen-msnbc-panelist/>). Raw Story. October 15, 2016.
28. "Behind the President's South Africa tweet that has gained praise from white supremacists" (<https://www.msnbc.com/katy-tur/watch/behind-the-president-s-south-africa-tweet-that-has-gained-praise-from-white-supremacists-1305188419950>). MSNBC. August 23, 2018.
29. "Tucker Carlson Defends South Africa Land Seizure Segment After 'Orwellian' Backlash" (<https://www.thewrap.com/tucker-carlson-defends-south-africa-land-seizure-segment-after-orwellian-backlash/>). TheWrap. August 23, 2018.
30. Danner, Chas (July 22, 2019). "Trump Again Shows He Can't Even Pretend to Reject Racism" (<https://nymag.com/intelligencer/2019/07/trump-again-shows-he-cant-even-pretend-to-reject-racism.html>). Intelligencer. Retrieved August 23, 2019.
31. "KKK Material Left on Black Man's Car in Philadelphia" (<https://www.ebony.com/news/kkk-material-left-on-black-mans-car-in-philadelphia/>). Ebony. January 15, 2019.
32. Russo, Amy (August 6, 2019). "Trump Ran Facebook Ads Decrying An Immigrant 'Invasion'" (https://www.huffpost.com/entry/donald-trump-facebook-ads-immigration_n_5d49b208e4b0d291ed07a5af). HuffPost. Retrieved September 4, 2019.
33. Wong, Julia Carrie (August 5, 2019). "Trump referred to immigrant 'invasion' in 2,000 Facebook ads, analysis reveals" (<https://www.theguardian.com/us-news/2019/aug/05/trump-internet-facebook-ads-racism-immigrant-invasion>). The Guardian. Retrieved September 4, 2019.
34. Fung, Brian. "Trump has run over 2,000 Facebook ads warning of 'invasion'" (<https://www.cnn.com/2019/08/06/politics/trump-invasion-facebook-ads/index.html>). CNN. CNN Politics. Retrieved September 4, 2019.
35. Marcotte, Amanda (April 29, 2019). "Fox News and the synagogue shooter: Right-wing network airs similar views every day" (<https://www.salon.com/2019/04/29/fox-news-and-the-synagogue-shooter-right-wing-network-airs-similar-views-every-day/>). Salon. "fascistic "replacement" theory, which holds that white people are entitled to cultural dominance and that racial diversity and immigration are equivalent to a "white genocide" ... Replacement theory is an idea that's been coursing through the burgeoning neo-Nazi and white nationalist movement for some time ... Sadly, this toxic notion is not limited to the dregs of the internet, where it appears Earnest was radicalized. These days, anyone who flips on Fox News, especially if they watch prime-time commentators like Tucker Carlson or Laura Ingraham, will hear strikingly similar ideas."
36. "The Audio Doesn't Lie: Tucker Carlson Is Who We Thought He Was" (<https://www.pastemagazine.com/articles/2019/03/tucker-carlson-is-who-we-thought-he-was.html>). Paste. March 15, 2019. "Fantasizing about this far-right "Great Replacement" conspiracy theory has been practically a nightly fixture of Carlson's program since its inception, it's a foundational part of right wing media from the Rupert Murdoch empire"
37. "'Replacement Theory,' a Racist, Sexist Doctrine, Spreads in Far-Right Circles" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2019/03/18/technology/replacement-theory.html>). New York Times. April 30, 2019. "Though these fears fester in online message boards, it is spreading to more mainstream right-wing conversations. The Fox News host Tucker Carlson, for one, has engaged in some of these conversations. In January, he opened his show with a segment he said was one "the biggest issue facing this country going forward," bigger than wars and G.D.P.: the collapse of families."

38. "The dark history of the New Zealand killer's 'great replacement'" (<https://thinkprogress.org/new-zealand-mosque-murders-mainstream-racist-ideas-8a5dd076c45f/>). ThinkProgress. March 15, 2019. "And Fox News host Tucker Carlson, who inherited the prime time Fox News slot vacated by Bill O'Reilly, has used his new prominence to warn viewers about a feminist "genocide" of white men, and to depict immigration as a stalking horse for "demographic change" intended to replace the America you know with a different, worse, "dirtier" one."
39. Ross, Kaz (March 16, 2019). "How believers in 'white genocide' spread their hate campaign in Australia" (https://www.business-standard.com/article/international/how-believers-in-white-genocide-spread-their-hate-campaign-in-australia-119031600127_1.html). Business Standard. Retrieved March 19, 2019.
40. Webb, Ross (March 24, 2019). "NZ's South African community needs to stop peddling the myth of white genocide" (<https://thespinoff.co.nz/society/24-03-2019/ex-pat-south-africans-need-to-stop-peddling-the-myth-of-white-genocide/>). The Spinoff. Retrieved March 24, 2019.
41. Wilson, Jason (March 16, 2018). "Peter Dutton's offer to white South African farmers started on the far right" (<https://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/2018/mar/16/peter-duttons-offer-to-white-south-african-farmers-started-on-the-far-right>). The Guardian. Retrieved December 9, 2018.
42. Westcott, Ben (October 15, 2018). "Australian government votes for motion saying 'it's okay to be white'" (<https://www.cnn.com/2018/10/15/australia/pauline-hanson-white-australia-intl/index.html>). CNN. Retrieved April 11, 2019.
43. Gstalter, Morgan (March 15, 2019). "Australian lawmaker blames Muslims after white supremacist kills 49 at two New Zealand mosques" (<https://thehill.com/policy/international/434204-australian-lawmaker-blames-muslims-after-white-supremacist-kills-49-at>). The Hill. Retrieved March 23, 2019.
44. e.g., Facebook video (<https://www.facebook.com/senatorfraseranning/videos/white-genocide-south-africa/499375800478119/>) and Tweet (https://twitter.com/fraser_anning/status/997444792580636673?lang=en).
45. Darby, Luke (August 5, 2019). "How the 'Great Replacement' conspiracy theory has inspired white supremacist killers" (<https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/2019/08/05/analysis-great-replacement-conspiracy-theory-has-inspired-white/>). The Telegraph.
46. Collins, James; Patrick E. Cole; Elaine Shannon (April 28, 1997). "Oklahoma City: The Weight of Evidence" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20120211193636/http://www.time.com/time/magazine/article/0,9171,986240-1,00.html>). Time. pp. 1–8. Archived from the original (<http://www.time.com/time/magazine/article/0,9171,986240-1,00.html>) on February 11, 2012.
47. Berger, J.M. (2016). "The Turner Legacy: The Storied Origins and Enduring Impact of White Nationalism's Deadly Bible" (<https://doi.org/10.19165%2F2016.1.11>). Terrorism and Counter-Terrorism Studies. 7 (8). doi:10.19165/2016.1.11 (<https://doi.org/10.19165%2F2016.1.11>).
48. Mull, Jeremy. "Timothy James McVeigh #717" (<http://www.clarkprosecutor.org/html/death/US/mcveigh717.htm>). www.clarkprosecutor.org. Office of the Clark County Prosecuting Attorney. Retrieved November 16, 2019.
49. "Inspiring Extremist Crimes" (https://web.archive.org/web/20120925190132/http://www.adl.org/internet/extremism_rw/inspiring.asp). Anti-Defamation League. September 25, 2012. Archived from the original (http://www.adl.org/internet/extremism_rw/inspiring.asp) on September 25, 2012. Retrieved September 1, 2019.
50. Randall, Kate (May 2, 2000). "Five killed in racist shooting rampage in Pittsburgh - World Socialist Web Site" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20190413025741/https://www.wsws.org/en/articles/2000/05/pitt-m02.html>). International Committee of the Fourth International. Archived from the original (<https://www.wsws.org/en/articles/2000/05/pitt-m02.html>) on April 13, 2019. Retrieved September 1, 2019.
51. "Three Kansas men convicted over mass 'slaughter' plot targeting Muslims" (<https://www.theguardian.com/us-news/2018/apr/18/kansas-terror-plot-kill-muslims-conviction>). The Guardian. April 18, 2018.
52. "White Supremacist Convicted of Killing 3 at Kansas Jewish Centers" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2015/09/01/us/white-supremacist-convicted-of-killing-3-at-kansas-jewish-centers.html>). New York Times. August 31, 2015.

53. "Kansas City JCC shooter claims he was trying 'to stop genocide'" (<https://www.timesofisrael.com/kansas-city-jcc-shooter-says-he-was-trying-to-stop-genocide/>). Times of Israel. August 29, 2015.
54. "White Supremacists Plant Racist Easter Eggs" (<https://www.thedailybeast.com/cheats/2014/04/22/white-supremacists-plant-racist-easter-eggs>). Daily Beast. April 17, 2014.
55. "Racist Easter Eggs Left On Lawn Outrage Parents" (https://www.huffpost.com/entry/racist-easter-eggs_n_5186893). HuffPost. April 21, 2014.
56. "Charleston Church Shooting Suspect, Dylann Storm Roof, Is Captured" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2015/06/19/us/charleston-church-shooting.html>). The New York Times. June 18, 2015. Retrieved June 18, 2015.
57. "On Facebook, Dylann Roof, Charleston Suspect, Wears Symbols of White Supremacy" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2015/06/19/us/on-facebook-dylann-roof-charleston-suspect-wears-symbols-of-white-supremacy.html>). The New York Times. June 18, 2015. Retrieved June 18, 2015.
58. "Everything Known About Charleston Church Shooting Suspect Dylann Roof" (<http://www.thedailybeast.com/cheats/2015/06/18/charleston-suspect-is-dylann-roof.html>). The Daily Beast. June 18, 2015. Retrieved June 18, 2015.
59. "Home — My website" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20150620134455/http://lastrhodesian.com/>). June 20, 2015. Archived from the original (<http://lastrhodesian.com/>) on June 20, 2015. Retrieved June 20, 2015.
60. Robles, Francis (June 20, 2015). "Dylann Storm Roof Photos Found on Website" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2015/06/21/us/dylann-storm-roof-photos-website-charleston-church-shooting.html>). The New York Times. Retrieved June 20, 2015.
61. O'Connor, Brendan (June 20, 2015). "Here Is What Appears to Be Dylann Roof's Racist Manifesto" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20150620195150/http://gawker.com/here-is-what-appears-to-be-dylann-roofs-racist-manifest-1712767241>). Gawker. Archived from the original (<http://gawker.com/here-is-what-appears-to-be-dylann-roofs-racist-manifest-1712767241>) on June 20, 2015. Retrieved June 20, 2015.
62. Goldberg, Michelle (June 22, 2015). "The 2 Degrees of Separation Between Dylann Roof and the Republican Party" (<http://www.thenation.com/blog/210537/two-degrees-separation-between-dylann-roof-and-republican-party>). The Nation. Retrieved June 23, 2015.
63. Lewis, Paul; Holpuch, Amanda; Glenza, Jessica (June 21, 2015). "Dylann Roof: FBI probes manifesto and website linked to Charleston suspect" (<https://www.theguardian.com/us-news/2015/jun/20/dylann-roof-fbi-website-manifesto-charleston-shooting>). The Guardian. Retrieved June 21, 2015.
64. Berman, Mark (August 23, 2016). "Prosecutors say Dylann Roof 'self-radicalized' online, wrote another manifesto in jail" (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/news/post-nation/wp/2016/08/22/prosecutors-say-accused-charleston-church-gunman-self-radicalized-online/>). The Washington Post. Retrieved August 23, 2016.
65. Pilcher, James (August 14, 2017). "Charlottesville suspect's beliefs were 'along the party lines of the neo-Nazi movement,' ex-teacher says" (<https://eu.cincinnati.com/story/news/local/northern-ky/2017/08/13/charlottesville-suspects-beliefs-were-along-party-lines-neo-nazi-movement-ex-teacher-says/563139001/>). The Cincinnati Enquirer. Retrieved May 26, 2018.
66. Pilcher, James (August 14, 2017). "Charlottesville suspect's beliefs were 'along the party lines of the neo-Nazi movement,' ex-teacher says" (<https://eu.usatoday.com/story/news/nation-now/2017/08/13/charlottesville-suspects-views-neo-nazi-ex-teacher/563199001/>). USA Today. Retrieved May 26, 2018.
67. Matt Pearce (August 11, 2017), "Chanting 'blood and soil!' white nationalists with torches march on University of Virginia" (<https://www.latimes.com/nation/la-na-white-virginia-rally-20170811-story.html>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170812100509/http://www.latimes.com/nation/la-na-white-virginia-rally-20170811-story.html>) August 12, 2017, at the Wayback Machine, Los Angeles Times.

68. Beckett, Lois (October 27, 2018). "Pittsburgh shooting: suspect railed against Jews and Muslims on site used by 'alt-right' " (<https://www.theguardian.com/us-news/2018/oct/27/pittsburgh-shooting-suspect-antisemitism>). The Guardian. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20181028000919/https://www.theguardian.com/us-news/2018/oct/27/pittsburgh-shooting-suspect-antisemitism>) from the original on October 28, 2018. Retrieved October 27, 2018.
69. Renshaw, Jarriett (October 27, 2018). "Who is Robert Bowers, the Pittsburgh synagogue shooting suspect?" (<https://www.reuters.com/article/us-pennsylvania-shooting-suspect/who-is-robert-bowers-the-pittsburgh-synagogue-shooting-suspect-idUSKCN1N10S6>). Reuters. Retrieved January 21, 2018.
70. Raymond, Adam K. "What We Know About Robert Bowers, Alleged Pittsburgh Synagogue Shooter" (<https://nymag.com/intelligencer/2018/10/what-we-know-about-robert-bowers-alleged-synagogue-shooter.html>). Intelligencer. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20181029101418/http://nymag.com/intelligencer/2018/10/what-we-know-about-robert-bowers-alleged-synagogue-shooter.html>) from the original on October 29, 2018. Retrieved October 29, 2018.
71. Shannon, Sant (October 27, 2018). "What's Known About Robert Bowers, The Suspect In The Pittsburgh Synagogue Shooting" (<https://www.npr.org/2018/10/27/661409410/whats-known-about-robert-bowers-the-suspect-in-the-pittsburgh-synagogue-shooting>). NPR. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20181027233340/https://www.npr.org/2018/10/27/661409410/whats-known-about-robert-bowers-the-suspect-in-the-pittsburgh-synagogue-shooting>) from the original on October 27, 2018. Retrieved October 27, 2018.
72. Vesoulis, Abby (October 27, 2018). "How Gab Became the Social Media Site Where the Pittsburgh Suspect's Anti-Semitism Thrived" (<http://time.com/5437006/gab-social-media-robert-bowers/>) [Why Gab Allowed Pittsburgh Suspect's Anti-Semitism to Thrive]. Time. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20181028140228/http://time.com/5437006/gab-social-media-robert-bowers/>) from the original on October 28, 2018. Retrieved October 27, 2018.
73. "National Refugee Shabbat" (<https://www.hias.org/national-refugee-shabbat>). Hebrew Immigrant Aid Society. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20181028195816/https://www.hias.org/national-refugee-shabbat>) from the original on October 28, 2018. Retrieved October 28, 2018.
74. Levenson, Eric; Sanchez, Ray (October 27, 2018). "Mass shooting at Pittsburgh synagogue" (<https://www.cnn.com/us/live-news/pittsburgh-synagogue-shooting/index.html>). CNN. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20181027170709/https://www.cnn.com/us/live-news/pittsburgh-synagogue-shooting/index.html>) from the original on October 27, 2018. Retrieved October 27, 2018.
75. Kragie, Andrew (October 27, 2018). "The Synagogue Killings Mark a Surge of Anti-Semitism" (<https://www.theatlantic.com/politics/archive/2018/10/pittsburgh-synagogue-comes-amid-surge-anti-semiticism/574180/>). The Atlantic. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20181027214512/https://www.theatlantic.com/politics/archive/2018/10/pittsburgh-synagogue-comes-amid-surge-anti-semiticism/574180/>) from the original on October 27, 2018. Retrieved October 27, 2018.
76. "Shooting at Poway Synagogue Underscores Link Between Internet Radicalization and Violence" (<https://www.splcenter.org/hatewatch/2019/04/28/shooting-poway-synagogue-underscores-link-between-internet-radicalization-and-violence>). Southern Poverty Law Center. April 28, 2019.
77. "Synagogue shooter accused Jews of plotting 'European genocide' " (<http://www.israelnationalnews.com/News/News.aspx/262398>). Arutz Sheva. April 29, 2019.
78. "El Paso Shooting Victim Dies Months Later, Death Toll Now 23" (<https://www.nytimes.com/aponline/2020/04/26/business/ap-mass-shooting-texas.html>). The New York Times. April 26, 2020. Retrieved April 26, 2020.
79. Barrouquere, Brett (August 3, 2019). "El Paso Shooting Suspect May Have Authored Manifesto Containing White Nationalist Talking Points" (<https://www.splcenter.org/hatewatch/2019/08/03/el-paso-shooting-suspect-may-have-authored-manifesto-containing-white-nationalist-talking>). Hatewatch. Southern Poverty Law Center. Retrieved August 3, 2019.
80. Politi, Daniel (August 3, 2019). "El Paso Suspect Reportedly a Trump Supporter Who Wrote Racist, Anti-Immigrant Manifesto" (<https://slate.com/news-and-politics/2019/08/el-paso-suspect-shooter-trump-racist-manifesto.html>). Slate. Retrieved August 4, 2019.

81. Evans, Robert (August 4, 2019). "The El Paso Shooting and the Gamification of Terror" (<https://www.bellingcat.com/news/americas/2019/08/04/the-el-paso-shooting-and-the-gamification-of-terror/>). Bellingcat. Retrieved August 4, 2019.
82. O'Neil, Luke (August 5, 2019). "Trump just blamed the El Paso shooting victims for their own deaths" (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/outlook/2019/08/05/trump-just-blamed-el-paso-shooting-victims-their-own-deaths/>). The Washington Post. Retrieved August 6, 2019.
83. Clive Williams (July 26, 2011). "Deadly, cruel lesson from Norway" (<http://www.theaustralian.com.au/news/features/deadly-cruel-lesson-from-norway/story-e6frg6z6-1226101590303>). The Australian. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110726235141/http://www.theaustralian.com.au/news/features/deadly-cruel-lesson-from-norway/story-e6frg6z6-1226101590303>) from the original on July 26, 2011. Retrieved July 27, 2011.
84. Rayner, Gordon (July 24, 2011). "Norway killer Anders Behring Breivik called Gordon Brown and Prince Charles 'traitors'" (<https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/worldnews/europe/norway/8658431/Norway-killer-Anders-Behring-Breivik-called-Gordon-Brown-and-Prince-Charles-traitors.html>). The Daily Telegraph. London. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20120421002604/http://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/worldnews/europe/norway/8658431/Norway-killer-Anders-Behring-Breivik-called-Gordon-Brown-and-Prince-Charles-traitors.html>) from the original on April 21, 2012. Retrieved April 11, 2012.
85. Sindre Bangstad. "After Anders Breivik's conviction, Norway must confront Islamophobia" (<https://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/belief/2012/aug/28/anders-breivik-norway-islamophobia-muslims>). The Guardian. Retrieved July 24, 2016.
86. "AFP: Norway remembers 77 victims a month after massacre" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20120107032431/https://www.google.com/hostednews/afp/article/ALeqM5j0D-1Q4Rg2RzAcXi1tCYJgK3PNuw?docId=CNG.d605a2923da5a34248120fc4eb7dc2c7.691>). August 21, 2011. Archived from the original (<https://www.google.com/hostednews/afp/article/ALeqM5j0D-1Q4Rg2RzAcXi1tCYJgK3PNuw?docId=CNG.d605a2923da5a34248120fc4eb7dc2c7.691>) on January 7, 2012. Retrieved January 21, 2012.
87. Starla Muhammad (August 19, 2011). "Tragedy in Norway Borne Out of Seeds of Racism and Intolerance in UK, EU" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20120105004806/http://newamericamedia.org/2011/08/tragedy-in-norway-borne-out-of-seeds-of-racism-and-intolerance-in-uk-eu.php>). New America Media. Archived from the original (<http://newamericamedia.org/2011/08/tragedy-in-norway-borne-out-of-seeds-of-racism-and-intolerance-in-uk-eu.php>) on January 5, 2012. Retrieved January 21, 2012.
88. Godfrey, Hannah (August 19, 2011). "Utøya island shooting victims return to scene of Breivik's killing spree" (<https://www.theguardian.com/world/2011/aug/19/utoya-island-shooting-victims-return>). The Guardian. London.
89. "Massedrapsmannen kopierte "Unabomberen" ord for ord" (<http://www.nrk.no/nyheter/norge/1.7725223>). Nrk.no. Retrieved July 24, 2011.
90. Shane, Scott (July 24, 2011). "Killings in Norway Spotlight Anti-Muslim Thought in U.S." (<https://www.nytimes.com/2011/07/25/us/25debate.html>) The New York Times. Retrieved April 10, 2017.
91. Smith, Craig S. (February 20, 2005). "Europe's Jews Seek Solace on the Right" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2005/02/20/weekinreview/20smit.html>). The New York Times.
92. Archer, Toby (July 25, 2011). "Breivik's Swamp" (https://web.archive.org/web/20110910205259/http://www.foreignpolicy.com/articles/2011/07/25/breivik_s_swamp?page=0%2C1). Foreign Policy. Archived from the original (https://foreignpolicy.com/articles/2011/07/25/breivik_s_swamp?page=0,1) on September 10, 2011.
93. Mala, Elisa; Goodman, J David (July 22, 2011). "At Least 80 Are Dead in Norway Shooting" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2011/07/23/world/europe/23oslo.html>). The New York Times. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110724004316/http://www.nytimes.com/2011/07/23/world/europe/23oslo.html>) from the original on July 24, 2011. Retrieved April 20, 2013.

94. Beaumont, Peter (July 23, 2011). "Anders Behring Breivik: profile of a mass murderer" (<https://www.theguardian.com/world/2011/jul/23/anders-behring-breivik-norway-attacks>). The Guardian. UK. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110724221409/http://www.guardian.co.uk/world/2011/jul/23/anders-behring-breivik-norway-attacks>) from the original on July 24, 2011. Retrieved July 25, 2011.
95. Saunders, Debra J (July 26, 2011). "Norwegian Crime and Punishment" (<http://www.sfgate.com/cgi-bin/article.cgi?f=/c/a/2011/07/25/ED111KENUV.DTL>). San Francisco Chronicle. "the anti-multiculturalism, anti-Muslim and anti-Marxist message of his 1,500-page manifesto"
96. Weill, Kelly; Sommer, Will (March 15, 2019). "Mosque Attack Video Linked to 'White Genocide' Rant" (<https://www.thedailybeast.com/christchurch-shootings-mosque-attack-video-linked-to-white-genocide-rant>). The Daily Beast. Retrieved March 22, 2019.
97. Howe, Suzette; Melendez, Pilar; Latza Nadeau, Barbie (March 15, 2019). "New Zealand Mosque Shooting Suspect Brenton Tarrant Flashes White Power Sign in Court" (<https://www.thedailybeast.com/brenton-tarrant-idd-new-zealand-shooting-suspect>). The Daily Beast. Retrieved March 22, 2019.
98. Pannell, Justin; Brod, Adam; Horton, Reina Hirose (2018). "The Conception of Race in White Supremacist Discourse: A Critical Corpus Analysis with Teaching Implications" (<https://www.hpu.edu/research-publications/tesol-working-papers/2018/03pannell-brod-horton.pdf>) (PDF). TESOL Working Paper Series. 16: 40–61.
99. Betuel, Emma (January 13, 2019). "CDC Data on Declining US Fertility Rate Is Being Used by White Nationalists" (<https://www.inverse.com/article/52409-cdc-fertility-report-race-breakdown-white-nationalism>). Inverse.
00. Bhattacharya, Sanjiv (October 9, 2016). "'Call me a racist, but don't say I'm a Buddhist': meet America's alt right" (<https://www.theguardian.com/world/2016/oct/09/call-me-a-racist-but-dont-say-im-a-buddhist-meet-the-alt-right>). The Guardian.
01. Gray, Melissa (December 29, 2017). "Drexel professor resigns amid threats over controversial tweets" (<https://edition.cnn.com/2017/12/28/us/drexel-university-professor-resigns/index.html>). CNN. Retrieved August 9, 2020.
02. "'All I want for Christmas is white genocide': Professor receives death threats after mocking supremacists" (<https://www.independent.co.uk/news/world/americas/history-professor-twitter-storm-white-genocide-death-threats-george-ciccariello-maher-a7497301.html>). The Independent. December 27, 2016.
03. "A Drexel Professor Tweeted That He Wants 'White Genocide' for Christmas" (<http://time.com/4618146/drexel-professor-white-genocide-tweet/>). TIME. December 26, 2016.
04. "The white flight of Derek Black" (https://www.washingtonpost.com/national/the-white-flight-of-derek-black/2016/10/15/ed5f906a-8f3b-11e6-a6a3-d50061aa9fae_story.html). The Washington Post. October 15, 2016.
05. "How Higher Education Helped Derek Black Renounce White Supremacy" (<http://neatoday.org/2018/09/19/how-higher-education-helped-derek-black-renounce-white-supremacy/>). NEA Today. September 19, 2018.
06. "Derek Black was the scion of racism — then renounced it; 'Rising Out of Hatred' tells his story" (<https://www.dallasnews.com/arts/books/2018/09/18/derek-blackwas-scion-racism-renounced-rising-hatred-tells-story>). The Dallas Morning News. September 17, 2018.
07. "The White Nationalist Heir Who Rejected His Dad's Vile Bigotry" (https://www.vice.com/en_us/article/yw4dkb/the-white-nationalist-heir-who-rejected-his-dads-vile-bigotry). Vice Media. September 18, 2018.
08. "Naomi Klein: "Economia e ambiente, serve un'unica rivoluzione globale" " (https://www.repubblica.it/cronaca/2019/06/02/news/naomi_klein_dig_festival_2019-227798940/) [Naomi Klein: "Economy and environment, we need a single global revolution"] (in Italian). la Repubblica. June 2, 2019.
09. "Trump the storyteller: His gift for narrative is why he may win again" (<https://www.salon.com/2019/07/13/trump-the-storyteller-his-gift-for-narrative-is-why-he-may-win-again/>). Salon. July 13, 2019.

10. Manjoo, Farhad (March 20, 2019). "The White-Extinction Conspiracy Theory Is Bonkers" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2019/03/20/opinion/new-zealand-great-replacement.html>). New York Times.
 11. Shafak, Elif (April 1, 2019). "To understand the far right, look to their bookshelves" (<https://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/2019/apr/01/far-right-bookshelves-jordan-peterson-thilo-sarrazin>). The Guardian.
 12. Freedlan, Jonathan; Hasan, Mehdi (April 3, 2019). "Muslims and Jews face a common threat from white supremacists. We must fight it together" (<https://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/2019/apr/03/muslims-jews-white-supremacists>). The Guardian.
 13. Cohen, Nick (May 18, 2019). "When the far right crack rape jokes, it's part of a systemic bid to demean" (<https://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/2019/may/18/when-the-far-right-crack-rape-jokes-part-of-a-systemic-bid-to-demean>). The Guardian.
 14. Portes, Jonathan (June 30, 2019). "Tragedy is inevitable if we fear migration rather than celebrate its benefits" (<https://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/2019/jun/30/tragedy-is-inevitable-if-we-fear-migration-rather-than-celebrate-its-benefits>). The Guardian.
-

Retrieved from "https://en.wikipedia.org/w/index.php?title=White_genocide_conspiracy_theory&oldid=1028466250"

This page was last edited on 14 June 2021, at 04:35 (UTC).

Text is available under the Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike License; additional terms may apply. By using this site, you agree to the Terms of Use and Privacy Policy. Wikipedia® is a registered trademark of the Wikimedia Foundation, Inc., a non-profit organization.

UFO conspiracy theories

UFO conspiracy theories argue that various governments, and politicians globally, most especially the officials of Washington, D.C., are suppressing evidence of extraterrestrial unidentified flying objects and alien visitors. Such conspiracy theories usually argue that Earth governments, especially the Government of the United States, are in communication or cooperation with extraterrestrials despite public claims to the contrary, and further that some of these theories claim that the governments are explicitly allowing alien abduction.^[1]

Various UFO conspiracy ideas have flourished on the internet and were frequently featured on Art Bell's program, Coast to Coast AM.^[2]

Individuals who have publicly stated that UFO evidence is being suppressed include Senator Barry Goldwater, British Admiral Lord Hill-Norton (former NATO head and chief of the British Defence Staff), Vice Admiral Roscoe H. Hillenkoetter (first CIA director), Israeli brigadier general Haim Eshed (former director of space programs for the Israel Ministry of Defense),^[3] astronauts Gordon Cooper^{[4][5]} and Edgar Mitchell,^[6] and former Canadian Defence Minister Paul Hellyer. Beyond their testimonies and reports they have presented no evidence to substantiate their statements and claims. According to the Committee for Skeptical Inquiry little or no evidence exists to support them despite significant research on the subject by non-governmental scientific agencies.^{[7][8][9][10]}

Contents

Chronology

1930s

1940s

The Great Los Angeles Air Raid

Ghost rockets

Roswell Incident

Mantell Incident

Project Sign

Interplanetary Phenomenon Unit

1950s

1960s

Vallee and the "Pentacle Memorandum"

1970s

Holloman Air Force Base

Paul Bennewitz

1980s

MJ-12

Linda Moulton Howe

Milton William Cooper

Bob Lazar

UFO Cover-Up?: Live!

July 1989 MUFON Convention

1990s

2000s

MoD secret files

Disclosure

Allegations of evidence suppression

In popular fiction

See also

Notes and references

Bibliography

External links

Chronology

1930s

On the night before Halloween in 1938, Orson Welles directed The Mercury Theatre on the Air live radio adaptation of H. G. Wells's novel, The War of the Worlds (serialized in 1897). By mimicking a news broadcast, the show was quite realistic sounding for its time, and some listeners were fooled into thinking that a Martian invasion was underway in the United States. Widespread confusion was followed by outrage and controversy. Some later studies have argued that the contemporary press exaggerated the extent of the panic, but it remains clear that many people were caught up, to some degree, in the confusion.

In other countries, reactions were similar. In 1949, part of the script for The War of the Worlds was read out over the radio in Quito, Ecuador, without announcement, as if it were a major piece of breaking news. Huge crowds of people emerged onto the streets and sought refuge inside churches with their families. When the radio station was informed of this, its announcers broadcast the fact that no invasion was happening. An angry mob formed and burned the station to the ground, causing between six and twenty deaths. Many other countries also experienced problems when broadcasting The War of the Worlds.

According to U.S. Air Force Captain Edward J. Ruppelt,^[11] the Air Force's files often mentioned the panicked aftermath of the 1938 War of the Worlds broadcast as a possible reaction of the public to confirmed evidence of UFOs; however, the files have not been made available to corroborate his assertions.

1940s

Donald Keyhoe later began investigating flying saucers for True magazine. Keyhoe was one of the first significant conspiracy theorists, asserting eventually that the saucers were from outer space and were on some sort of scouting mission. Keyhoe claimed to derive his theory from his contacts in Air Force and Navy intelligence. Project Sign, based at Air Technical Intelligence Command at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base and its successors Project Grudge and Project Blue Book were officially assigned to investigate the flying saucers. Edward Ruppelt's book The Report on Unidentified Flying Objects,^[12] reports that many people within these research groups did in fact support the hypothesis that the flying saucers were from outer space.

Keyhoe later founded NICAP, a civilian investigation group that asserted the U.S. government was lying about UFOs and covering up information that should be shared with the public. NICAP had many influential board members, including Roscoe H. Hillenkoetter, the first director of the CIA. To date no substantiating evidence for NICAP's assertions has been presented beyond accounts that are anecdotal and documented hear-say or rumor.^[7]

The Great Los Angeles Air Raid

"The Great Los Angeles Air Raid" also known as "The Battle of Los Angeles" is the name given by contemporary sources to the imaginary enemy attack and subsequent anti-aircraft artillery barrage which took place from late February 24 to early February 25, 1942 over Los Angeles, California.^{[13][14]}

Initially, the target of the aerial barrage was thought to be an attacking force from Japan, but Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox speaking at a press conference shortly afterward called the incident a "false alarm." A small number of modern-day UFOlogists have suggested the reported targets were extraterrestrial spacecraft.^[15]

When documenting the incident in 1983, the U.S. Office of Air Force History attributed the event to a case of "war nerves" likely triggered by a lost weather balloon and exacerbated by stray flares and shell bursts from adjoining batteries.^[16]

Ghost rockets

In 1946 and 1947, numerous reports occurred of so-called ghost rockets appearing over Scandinavian countries, primarily Sweden, which then spread into other European countries.^[17] One USAF top secret document from 1948 stated that Swedish Air Force Intelligence informed them that some of their investigators felt that the reported objects were not only real but could not be explained as having earthly origins. Similarly, 20 years later, Greek physicist Dr. Paul Santorini publicly stated that in 1947 he was put in charge of a Greek military investigation into reports of ghost rockets sighted over Greece [Timothy Good 1988, p 23; Donald Keyhoe, p 142].^[17] Again, they quickly concluded the objects were real and not of conventional origin. Santorini claimed their investigation was killed by U.S. scientists and high military officials who had already concluded the objects were extraterrestrial in origin and feared public panic because no defense existed.^[18]

Roswell Incident

In 1947, the United States Air Force issued a press release stating that a "flying disk" had been recovered near Roswell, New Mexico. This press release was quickly withdrawn, and officials stated that a weather balloon had been misidentified. The Roswell case quickly faded even from the attention of most UFOlogists until the 1970s. Speculation persisted despite the official denial that an alien spacecraft crashed near Roswell.

In the 1990s, the US military published two reports disclosing the true nature of the crashed aircraft: a surveillance balloon from Project Mogul. Nevertheless, the Roswell incident continues to be of interest to the media, and conspiracy theories surrounding the event persist. Roswell has been described as "the world's most famous, most exhaustively investigated and most thoroughly debunked UFO claim".^[19]

Mantell Incident

In 1948, Air Force pilot Thomas Mantell was killed in a crash while pursuing what he described as "a metallic object...of tremendous size".^[20] Project Blue Book concluded that Mantell had lost control of his aircraft while chasing a then-classified Skyhook balloon.^[21] Some UFOlogists reject Bluebook's conclusion because of its initial suggestion that Mantell was chasing "Venus or a comet".^[22]

Project Sign

The U.S. Air Force may have planted the seeds of UFO conspiracy theories with Project Sign (established 1947) (which became Project Grudge and Project Blue Book). Edward J. Ruppelt, the first director of Blue Book, characterized the Air Force's public behavior regarding UFOs as "schizophrenic": alternately open and transparent, then secretive and dismissive. Ruppelt also revealed that in mid-1948, Project Sign issued a top secret Estimate of the Situation concluding that the flying saucers were not only real but probably extraterrestrial in origin. According to Ruppelt, the Estimate was ordered destroyed by Air Force Chief of Staff Hoyt Vandenberg.^[11]

Project Sign's final report, published in early 1949, stated that while some UFOs appeared to represent actual aircraft, data were insufficient to determine their origin.^[23]

On April 3, 1949, radio personality Walter Winchell broadcast the claim that flying saucers were Russian in origin.^{[24][25]}

Interplanetary Phenomenon Unit

Some UFOlogists have claimed the existence of a U.S. government group called the "Interplanetary Phenomenon Unit" allegedly established by General Douglas MacArthur that was "supposedly formed to investigate crashed and retrieved flying saucers".^[26]

1950s

The 1950s saw an increase in both governmental and civilian investigative efforts and reports of public disinformation and suppression of evidence.

The UK Ministry of Defence's UFO Project has its roots in a study commissioned in 1950 by the MOD's then Chief Scientific Adviser, the great radar scientist Sir Henry Tizard. As a result of his insistence that UFO sightings should not be dismissed without some form of proper scientific study, the Department set up the Flying Saucer Working Party (or FSWP).^[27]

In August 1950, Montanan baseball manager Nicholas Mariana filmed several UFOs with his color 16mm camera. Project Blue Book was called in and, after inspecting the film, Mariana claimed it was returned to him with critical footage removed, clearly showing the objects as disc-shaped. The incident sparked nationwide media attention.

Frank Scully's 1950 Behind the Flying Saucers suggested that the U.S. government had recovered a crashed flying saucer and its dead occupants near Aztec, New Mexico, in 1948. It was later revealed that Scully had been the victim of a prank by "two veteran confidence artists".^[28]

Donald Keyhoe was a retired U.S. Marine who wrote a series of popular books and magazine articles that were very influential in shaping public opinion, arguing that UFOs were indeed real and that the U.S. government was suppressing UFO evidence. Keyhoe's first article on the subject came out in True magazine, January 1950, and was a national sensation. His first book, Flying Saucers Are Real also came out in 1950, about the same time as Frank Scully's book, and was a bestseller. In 1956, Keyhoe helped establish NICAP, a powerful civilian UFO investigating group with many inside sources. Keyhoe became its director and continued his attacks on the Air Force. Other contemporary critics also charged that the United States Air Force was perpetrating a cover-up with its Project Blue Book.

Canadian radio engineer Wilbert B. Smith, who worked for the Canadian Department of Transport, was interested in flying saucer propulsion technology and wondered if the assertions in the just-published Scully and Keyhoe books were factual. In September 1950, he had the Canadian embassy in Washington D.C. arrange contact with U.S. officials to try to discover the truth of the matter. Smith was briefed by Dr. Robert Sarbacher, a physicist and consultant to the Defense Department's Research and Development Board. Other correspondence, having to do with Keyhoe needing to get clearance to publish another article on Smith's theories of UFO propulsion, indicated that Bush and his group were operating out of the Research and Development Board.^[29] Smith then briefed superiors in the Canadian government, leading to the establishment of Project Magnet, a small Canadian government UFO research effort. Canadian documents and Smith's private papers were uncovered in the late 1970s, and by 1984, other alleged documents emerged claiming the existence of a highly secret UFO oversight committee of scientists and military people called Majestic 12, again naming Vannevar Bush. Sarbacher was also interviewed in the 1980s and corroborated the information in Smith's memos and correspondence. Throughout the 1950s and early 1960s, Smith granted public interviews, and among other things stated that he had been lent crashed UFO material for analysis by a highly secret U.S. government group which he wouldn't name.^[30]

A few weeks after the Robertson Panel, the Air Force issued Regulation 200-2, ordering air base officers to publicly discuss UFO incidents only if they were judged to have been solved, and to classify all the unsolved cases to keep them out of the public eye. In addition, UFO investigative duties started to be taken on by the newly formed 4602nd Air Intelligence Squadron (AISS) of the Air Defense Command. The 4602nd AISS was tasked with investigating only the most important UFO cases having intelligence or national security implications. These were deliberately siphoned away from Blue Book, leaving Blue Book to deal with the more trivial reports.^[31]

In 1954 an automatic working station for UFO monitoring was installed at Shirley's Bay near Ottawa in Canada. After this station detected the first suspicious event, all data gained by this station was classified as secret, although the cameras of the monitoring station could not make any pictures because of fog.^[32]

1956 saw the publication of Gray Barker's They Knew Too Much About Flying Saucers, the book which publicized the idea of sinister Men in Black who appear to UFO witnesses and warn them to keep quiet. There has been continued speculation that the men in black are government agents who harass and threaten UFO witnesses.

Also in 1956, the group Foundation for Earth-Space Relations, led by film producer Tzadi Sophit, tested their own flying saucer outside the Long Island town of Ridge Landing. It is speculated in Robertson's The Long Island Saucer that an FBI cover-up silenced witnesses.^[33]

On January 22, 1958, when Donald Keyhoe appeared on CBS television, his statements on UFOs were censored by the Air Force. During the show when Keyhoe tried to depart from the censored script to "reveal something that has never been disclosed before", CBS cut the sound, later stating Keyhoe was about to violate "predetermined security standards" and about to say something he wasn't "authorized to release". What Keyhoe was about to reveal were four publicly unknown military studies concluding UFOs were interplanetary including the 1948 Project Sign Estimate of the Situation and a 1952 Project Blue Book engineering analysis of UFO motion presented at the Robertson Panel.^[34]

Astronaut Gordon Cooper reported suppression of a flying saucer movie filmed in high clarity by two Edwards AFB range photographers on May 3, 1957. Cooper said he viewed developed negatives of the object, clearly showing a dish-like object with a dome on top and something like holes or ports in the dome. When later interviewed by James McDonald, the photographers and another witness confirmed the story. Cooper said military authorities then picked up the film and neither he nor the photographers ever heard what happened to it. The incident was also reported in a few newspapers, such as the Los Angeles Times. The official explanation was that the photographers had filmed a weather balloon distorted by hot desert air.^[35]

1960s

Throughout much of the 1960s, atmospheric physicist James E. McDonald suggested—via lectures, articles and letters—that the U.S. Government was mishandling evidence that would support the extraterrestrial hypothesis.^[36]

Vallee and the "Pentacle Memorandum"

In June 1967, researcher Jacques Vallee was tasked with organizing files collected by Project Bluebook investigator J. Allen Hynek^{[37][38]} Among those files, Vallee found a memo dated 9 January 1953 addressed an assistant of Edward J. Ruppelt, an Air Force officer assigned to Bluebook.^[37] The memo was signed "H.C. Cross", but Vallee elected to refer to the author under the pseudonym "Pentacle".^[37]

The memo referred to a previously-unknown analysis of several thousand UFO reports, along with calls for agreements about "what can and what cannot be discussed" with the 1953 Roberson Panel.^[37] Writing in his 1967 journal, Vallee expressed the opinion that the memo, if it were published, "would cause an even bigger uproar among foreign scientists than among Americans: it would prove the devious nature of the statements made by the Pentagon all these years about the non-existence of UFOs".^[37]

1970s

Jerome Clark comments that many UFO conspiracy theory tales "can be traced to a mock documentary Alternative 3, broadcast on British television on June 20, 1977 (but intended for April Fools' Day), and subsequently turned into a paperback book."^[39]

Holloman Air Force Base

Clark cites a 1973 encounter as perhaps the earliest suggestion that the U.S. government was involved with ETs. That year, Robert Emenegger and Allan Sandler of Los Angeles, California were in contact with officials at Norton Air Force Base in order to make a documentary film. Emenegger and Sandler report that Air Force Officials (including Paul Shartle) suggested incorporating UFO information in the documentary, including as its centerpiece genuine footage of a 1971 UFO landing at Holloman Air Force Base in New Mexico. Furthermore, says Emenegger, he was given a tour of Holloman AFB and was shown where officials conferred with Extraterrestrial Biological Entities (EBEs). This was supposedly not the first time the U.S. had met these aliens, as Emenegger reported that his U.S. military sources had "been monitoring signals from an alien group with which they were unfamiliar, and did their ET guests know anything about them? The ETs said no" ^[40] The documentary was released in 1974 as UFOs: Past, Present, and Future (narrated by Rod Serling) containing only a few seconds of the Holloman UFO footage, the remainder of the landing depicted with illustrations and re-enactments.

In 1988, Shartle said that the film in question was genuine, and that he had seen it several times.

In 1976 a televised documentary report UFOs: It Has Begun^[41] written by Robert Emenegger was presented by Rod Serling, Burgess Meredith and José Ferrer. Some sequences were recreated based upon the statements of eyewitness observers, together with the findings and conclusions of governmental civil and military investigations. The documentary uses a hypothetical UFO landing at Holloman AFB as a backdrop.

Paul Bennewitz

The late 1970s also saw the beginning of controversy centered on Paul Bennewitz of Albuquerque, New Mexico.^[42]

1980s

MJ-12

The so-called Majestic 12 documents surfaced in 1982, suggesting that there was secret, high-level U.S. government interest in UFOs dating to the 1940s. Upon examination, the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) declared the documents to be "completely bogus", and many ufologists consider them to be an elaborate hoax.^{[43][44]}

Linda Moulton Howe

Linda Moulton Howe is an advocate of conspiracy theories that cattle mutilations are of extraterrestrial origin and speculations that the U.S. government is involved with aliens.^{[45][46][47][48]}

Milton William Cooper

In the 1980s, Milton William Cooper achieved a degree of prominence due to his conspiratorial writings.^[49]

Bob Lazar

In November 1989, Bob Lazar appeared in a special interview with investigative reporter George Knapp on Las Vegas TV station KLAS to discuss his alleged employment at S-4.^[50] In his interview with Knapp, Lazar said he first thought the saucers were secret, terrestrial aircraft, whose test flights must have been responsible for many UFO reports. Gradually, on closer examination and from having been shown multiple briefing documents, Lazar came to the conclusion that the discs must have been of extraterrestrial origin. He claims that they use moscovium, an element that decays in a fraction of a second, to warp space, and that "Grey" aliens are from the Zeta Reticuli star system. According to the Los Angeles Times, he never obtained the degrees he claims to hold from MIT and Caltech.^{[51][52]}

UFO Cover-Up?: Live!

On October 14, 1988, actor Mike Farrell hosted U.S. UFO Cover-Up: Live!, a two-hour television special "focusing on the government's handling of information regarding UFOs" and "whether there has been any suppression of evidence supporting the existence of UFOs".^[53]

July 1989 MUFON Convention

The Mutual UFO Network held their 1989 annual convention in Las Vegas, Nevada, on July 1, 1989.

The ufologist Bill Moore was scheduled as the main speaker, and he refused to submit his paper for review prior to the convention, and also announced that he would not answer any follow-up questions as was common practice. Unlike most of the convention's attendees, Moore did not stay at the same hotel that was hosting the convention.

When he spoke, Moore said that he and others had been part of an elaborate, long-term disinformation campaign begun primarily to discredit Paul Bennewitz: "My role in the affair ... was primarily that of a freelancer providing information on Paul's (Bennewitz) current thinking and activities".^[54] Air Force Sergeant Richard C. Doty was also involved, said Moore, though Moore thought Doty was "simply a pawn in a much larger game, as was I."^[54] One of their goals, Moore said, was to disseminate information and watch as it was passed from person to person in order to study information channels.

Moore said that he "was in a rather unique position" in the disinformation campaign: "judging by the positions of the people I knew to be directly involved in it, [the disinformation] definitely had something to do with national security. There was no way I was going to allow the opportunity to pass me by ... I would play the disinformation game, get my hands dirty just often enough to lead those directing the process into believing I was doing what they wanted me to do, and all the while continuing to burrow my way into the matrix so as to learn as much as possible about who was directing it and why."^[55] Once he finished the speech, Moore immediately left the hotel and Las Vegas that same night.

Moore's claims sent shock waves through the small, tight-knit UFO community, which remains divided as to the reliability of his assertions.

1990s

On November 24, 1992, a UFO reportedly crashed in Southaven Park, Shirley, New York.^[56] John Ford, a Long Island MUFON researcher, investigated the crash. Four years later, on June 12, 1996, Ford was arrested and charged with plotting to poison several local politicians by sneaking radium in their toothpaste. On advice of counsel Ford pleaded insanity and was committed to the Mid Hudson Psychiatric Center. Critics say the charges are a frame-up.

The Branton Files have circulated on the internet at least since the mid-1990s. They essentially recirculate the information presented above, with many asides from "Branton", the document's editor.

Philip Schneider of the patriot movement, an engineer and geologist formerly working for the U.S. government, made a few appearances at UFO conventions in the 1990s, espousing essentially a new version of the theories mentioned above. He claimed to have played a role in the construction of Deep Underground Military Bases (DUMBs) across the United States, and as a result he said that he had been exposed to classified information of various sorts as well as having personal experiences with EBEs. He claimed to have survived the Dulce Base catastrophe and decided to tell his tale.^[57] He died by suicide on January 17, 1996, after a series of lectures given in late 1995 on topics including the Black Budget and underground alien bases. Others believe that Schneider did not take his own life and that he was actually murdered by the government.^[58]

In 1999 a group in France published a study, "UFOs and Defense: What Must We Be Prepared For?" Among other topics, the study concluded that the United States government has withheld valuable evidence.^[59]

2000s

2003 saw the publication of Alien Encounters (ISBN 1-57821-205-7), by Chuck Missler and Mark Eastman, which primarily re-stated the notions presented above (especially Cooper's) and presents them as fact.

MoD secret files

Eight files from 1978 to 1987 on UFO sightings were first released on May 14, 2008, to the National Archives' website by the British Ministry of Defence. Two hundred files were set to be made public by 2012. The files are correspondence from the public sent to government officials, such as the MoD and Margaret Thatcher. The information can be downloaded.^[60] Copies of Lt. Col. Halt's letter regarding the sighting at RAF Woodbridge (see above) to the U.K. Ministry of Defence were routinely released (without additional comment) by the USA's base public affairs staff throughout the 1980s until the base closed. The MoD released the files due to requests under the Freedom of Information Act.^[61] The files included, among other things, alien craft flying over Liverpool and Waterloo Bridge in London.^[62]

Disclosure

In the early 2000s, the concept of "disclosure" became increasingly popular in the UFO conspiracy community: that the government had classified and withheld information on alien contact and full disclosure was needed, and was pursued by activist lobbying groups.

In 1993, Steven M. Greer founded the Disclosure Project to promote the concept. In May 2001, Greer held a press conference at the National Press Club in D.C that demanded Congress hold hearings on "secret U.S. involvement with UFOs and extraterrestrials".^{[63][64][65]} It was described by an attending BBC reporter as "the strangest ever news conference hosted by Washington's august National Press Club."^[66] The Disclosure Project's claims were met with by derision by skeptics and spokespeople for the U. S. Air Force.^{[67][68]}

In 2013, the production company CHD2, LLC^[69] held a "Citizen Hearing on Disclosure" at the National Press Club in D.C from 29 April to 3 May 2013. The group paid former U.S. Senator Mike Gravel and former Representatives Carolyn Cheeks Kilpatrick, Roscoe Bartlett, Merrill Cook, Darlene Hooley, and Lynn Woolsey $20,000 each to participate, and to preside over panels of academics and former government and military officials discussing UFOs and extraterrestrials.^[70]

Other such groups include Citizens Against UFO Secrecy, founded in 1977.

Allegations of evidence suppression

Allegations of suppression of UFO related evidence have persisted for many decades. Some conspiracy theories also claim that some governments might have removed and/or destroyed/suppressed physical evidence; some examples follow.

On July 7, 1947, William Rhodes photographed an unusual object over Phoenix, Arizona.^[71] The photos appeared in a Phoenix newspaper and a few other papers. An Army Air Force intelligence officer and an FBI agent interviewed Rhodes on August 29 and convinced him to surrender the negatives, which he did the next day. He was informed he wouldn't get them back, but later he tried, unsuccessfully, to retrieve them.^{[72][73]} The photos were analyzed and subsequently appeared in some classified Air Force UFO intelligence reports. (Randle, 34–45, full account)^[74]

A June 27, 1950, movie of a "flying disk" over Louisville, Kentucky, taken by a Louisville Courier-Journal photographer, had the USAF Directors of counterintelligence (AFOSI) and intelligence discussing in memos how to best obtain the movie and interview the photographer without revealing Air Force interest. One memo suggested the FBI be used, then precluded the FBI getting involved. Another memo said "it would be nice if OSI could arrange to secure a copy of the film in some covert manner," but if that wasn't feasible, one of the Air Force scientists might have to negotiate directly with the newspaper. In a recent interview, the photographer confirmed meeting with military intelligence and still having the film in his possession until then, but refused to say what happened to the film after that.^[75]

In another 1950 movie incident from Montana, Nicholas Mariana filmed some unusual aerial objects and eventually turned the film over to the U.S. Air Force, but insisted that the first part of the film, clearly showing the objects as spinning discs, had been removed when it was returned to him.^[76]

According to some conspiracy theorists, during the military investigation of green fireballs in New Mexico, UFOs were photographed by a tracking camera over White Sands Proving Grounds on April 27, 1949. They claim that the final report in 1951 on the green fireball investigation claimed there was insufficient data to determine anything. Conspiracy theorists claim that documents later uncovered by Dr. Bruce Maccabee indicate that triangulation was accomplished. The conspiracy theorists also claim that the data reduction and photographs showed four objects about 30 feet in diameter flying in formation at high speed at an altitude of about 30 miles. According to conspiracy theorists, Maccabee says this result was apparently suppressed from the final report.^[77]

On January 22, 1958, when NICAP director Donald Keyhoe appeared on CBS television, his statements on UFOs were censored by the Air Force. During the show when Keyhoe tried to depart from the censored script to "reveal something that has never been disclosed before," CBS cut the sound, later stating Keyhoe was about to violate "predetermined security standards" and about to say something he wasn't "authorized to release." Conspiracy theorists claim that what Keyhoe was about to reveal were four publicly unknown military studies concluding UFOs were interplanetary (including the 1948 Project Sign Estimate of the Situation and Blue Book's 1952 engineering analysis of UFO motion). (Good, 286–287; Dolan 293–295)^{[17][78]}

A March 1, 1967 memo directed to all USAF divisions, from USAF Lt. General Hewitt Wheless, Assistant Vice Chief of Staff, stated that unverified information indicated that unknown individuals, impersonating USAF officers and other military personnel, had been harassing civilian UFO witnesses, warning them not to talk, and also confiscating film, referring specifically to the Heflin incident. AFOSI was to be notified if any personnel were to become aware of any other incidents. (Document in Fawcett & Greenwood, 236.)^[79]

John Callahan, former Division Chief of the Accidents and Investigations Branch of the FAA, Washington D.C., also a Disclosure Project witness, said that following the Japan Air Lines flight 1628 incident that involved a giant UFO over Alaska, recorded by air and ground radar, the FAA conducted an investigation.

Callahan held a briefing a few days later for President Reagan's Scientific Study Group, the FBI, and CIA. After the briefing, one of the CIA agents told everybody they "were never there and this never happened," adding they were fearful of public panic.^[80]

According to one theory related to the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, the CIA killed Kennedy in order to prevent him from leaking information to the Soviet Union about a covert program to reverse-engineer alien technology (i.e., Majestic 12).^[81]

Nick Cook, an aviation investigative journalist for Jane's Information Group and researcher of Billion Dollar Secret^[82] and author of The Hunt for Zero Point^[83] claims to have uncovered documentary evidence that top-secret US Defense Industry technology has been developed by government-backed Defense Industry programs, beginning in the 1940s using research conducted by Nazi scientists during WWII and recovered by Allied Military Intelligence, then taken to the U.S. and developed further with the collaboration of the same former German scientists at top-secret facilities established at White Sands, New Mexico, and later at Area 51, allegedly resulting in production of real-world prototype operational supersonic craft actually tested and used in clandestine military exercises, with other developments incorporated later into spy aircraft tasked with overflying hostile countries: the UFO story that evidence of alien technology is being suppressed and removed or destroyed was generated and then promoted by the CIA, beginning 1947, as false-lead disinformation to cover it all up for the sake of National Security, particularly during the Cold War, at a time when (his investigations found) the Soviet Union too was developing its own top-secret high-tech UFO craft. Cook's conclusions, alleging suppression of evidence of advanced human technology instead of alien, together with what he presents as declassified top-secret documents and blueprints, and his interviews of various experts (some of doubtful reliability), was developed and broadcast as a feature documentary on British television in 2005 as "UFOs: The Secret Evidence" and in the US in 2006 as a two-part episode on the History Channel's UFO Files, retitled "An Alien History of Planet Earth", with an added introduction by actor William Shatner. The History Channel program teaser promised "...a look at rumors of classified military aircraft incorporating alien technology into their designs."

In 1993, Steven M. Greer founded the Disclosure project to promote the concept of disclosing allegedly suppressed evidence of extraterrestrials. In May 2001, Greer held a press conference at the National Press Club in D.C that featured "20 retired Air Force, Federal Aviation Administration and intelligence officers" who demanded that Congress begin hearings on "secret U.S. involvement with UFOs and extraterrestrials"^{[63][64][65]}

In 2013, Sen. Mike Gravel claimed that the government was suppressing evidence of extraterrestrials.^[84]

Benjamin Radford has pointed out how unlikely such suppression of evidence is given that "[t]he UFO coverup conspiracy would have to span decades, cross international borders, and transcend political administrations" and that "all of the world's governments, in perpetuity, regardless of which political party is in power and even among enemies, [would] have colluded to continue the coverup."^[85]

In popular fiction

Popular fiction has often included scenarios where a government does not disclose the discovery of non-human intelligence to its populace.

In 1968, director Stanley Kubrick explored the idea in his film 2001: A Space Odyssey and the accompanying novel by Arthur C. Clarke. In those works, the discovery of a non-human artifact prompts a government coverup, with secrecy extending even to the astronauts tasked with investigating the discovery.^[86]^[87] In 1977, Steven Spielberg's film Close Encounters of the Third Kind tells the story of Roy Neary, an everyday blue-collar worker in Indiana, whose UFO experience sets him on a quest to overcome government secrecy and disinformation.

In the 1980 film Hangar 18, the government recovers a crashed alien craft in the desert of the US Southwest and attempts to cover up the discovery. Like 2001, it is learned that the aliens have affected the course of human evolution. In the 1982 film E.T. the Extra-Terrestrial, government scientists hide the discovery of an alien being. In the 1990 film Total Recall, government forces cover-up the discovery of ancient alien artifacts on Mars.

Beginning in 1993, the television series The X-Files followed FBI Agent Fox Mulder as he attempted to overcome a government effort to hide the truth about UFOs. Conversely the 1997 sci-fi/comedy film Men in Black followed government agents tasked with maintaining the coverup to prevent a panic. A government coverup and reverse-engineering attempt after Roswell was a central element of the 1996 film Independence Day.

Other television programs and films Stargate, Project Blue Book and any number of novels have featured elements of UFO conspiracy theories. Fictionalized elements may include the government's sinister operatives from the men in black, the military bases known as Area 51, RAF Rudloe Manor or Porton Down, a rumored crash site in Roswell, New Mexico, the Rendlesham Forest Incident, a political committee dubbed "Majestic 12", or the successor of the UK Ministry of Defence's Flying Saucer Working Party (FSWP).^[88] The novel The Doomsday Conspiracy by Sidney Sheldon includes a UFO conspiracy in its plot.^[89]

See also

- Bielefeld Conspiracy
- Brookings Report
- Crop circle
- Flying Saucers
- Kecksburg UFO incident
- List of major UFO sightings
- Magazines of anomalous phenomena
- New World Order \(conspiracy\)
- Project Blue Book
- Storm Area 51
- The Disclosure Project
- Ummo
- United States gravity control propulsion research \(1955–1974\)

Notes and references

1. Paul Harris: Cold War hysteria sparked UFO obsession, study finds (<https://www.theguardian.com/science/2002/may/05/spaceexploration.research>)
2. Genoni Jr., Thomas C., Peddling the Paranormal: Late-Night Radio's Art Bell, Skeptical Briefs, Committee for Skeptical Inquiry, volume 8, issue #1, March 1998 http://www.csicop.org/sb/show/peddling_the_paranormal_late-night_radios_art_bell/
3. "Aliens exist and Trump knows this but won't say anything in case we panic, claims Israeli scientist" (<https://www.independent.co.uk/news/world/haim-eshed-aliens-book-israel-trump-b1768777.html>). The Independent. 2020-12-09. Retrieved 2020-12-09.
4. David, Leonard. "Gordon Cooper Touts New Book Leap of Faith" (https://web.archive.org/web/20100727041953/http://www.space.com/news/spaceagencies/gordon_ufos_000728.html). Archived from the original (http://www.space.com/news/spaceagencies/gordon_ufos_000728.html) on 27 July 2010. Retrieved 27 December 2016.

5. Martin, Robert Scott. "Gordon Cooper: No Mercury UFO" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20100327122001/http://www.space.com/sciencefiction/phenomena/cooper.html>). Archived from the original (<http://www.space.com/sciencefiction/phenomena/cooper.html>) on 27 March 2010. Retrieved 27 December 2016.
6. Dunning, Brian. "Skeptoid #218: The Astronauts and the Aliens" (<https://skeptoid.com/episodes/4218>). Skeptoid. Retrieved 27 December 2016.
7. CSI I UFOs and Aliens in Space (http://www.csicop.org/si/show/ufos_and.aliens_in.space)
8. Michael Barkun (15 August 2013). Culture of Conspiracy: Apocalyptic Visions in Contemporary America (<https://books.google.com/books?id=Rn213R48e2YC&pg=PA85>). University of California Press. pp. 85–. ISBN 978-0-520-95652-0.
9. Barna William Donovan (20 July 2011). Conspiracy Films: A Tour of Dark Places in the American Conscious (<https://books.google.com/books?id=bJkhqU1IXHAC&pg=PA50>). McFarland. pp. 50–. ISBN 978-0-7864-8615-1.
10. Joe Nickell (24 October 2001). Real-Life X-Files: Investigating the Paranormal (<https://books.google.com/books?id=BXMLLxuSISM&pg=PA120>). University Press of Kentucky. pp. 120–. ISBN 0-8131-7083-4.
11. Ruppelt: Roswell UFO Cover (<http://www.nicap.org/rufo/contents.htm>)
12. The Report on Unidentified Flying Objects (<http://www.nicap.org/rufo-01.htm>), Doubleday Books
13. Caughey, John; Caughey, LaRee (1977). Los Angeles: biography of a city (<https://archive.org/details/osangelesbiogra00caug>). University of California Press. p. 364 (<https://archive.org/details/losangelesbiogra00caug/page/364>). ISBN 978-0-520-03410-5. "great los angeles air raid."
14. Farley, John E. (1998). Earthquake fears, predictions, and preparations in mid-America (https://books.google.com/books?id=N_pf4YBuu9wC&q=%22great+los+angeles+air+raid%22&pg=PA14). Southern Illinois University Press. ISBN 978-0-8093-2201-5. Retrieved May 17, 2010.
15. David G. Robertson (25 February 2016). UFOs, Conspiracy Theories and the New Age: Millennial Conspiracism (<https://books.google.com/books?id=vXgwCwAAQBAJ&pg=PA58>). Bloomsbury Publishing. pp. 58–. ISBN 978-1-4742-5321-5.
16. San Francisco virtual museum article (<http://www.sfmuseum.org/hist9/aaf2.html>)
17. Ghost Rockets:
 - Timothy Good, Above Top Secret, 1988, William Morrow & Co., ISBN 0-688-09202-0
 - Timothy Good, Need to Know: UFOs, the Military, and Intelligence, 2007, Pegasus Books, ISBN 978-1-933648-38-5
 - Donald Keyhoe, Aliens From Space, 1973, Doubleday & Co., ISBN 0-385-06751-8
 - Jenny Randles, UFO Retrievals: The Recovery of Alien Spacecraft, 1985, Blandford Press, ISBN 0-7137-2493-5
 - Reuben Stone, Alien Worlds, 1993, Longmeadow Press, ISBN 0-681-45414-8 (Contains photo of search for ghost rocket seen crashing in Lake Kölmjärvi)
18. Ghost Rockets: list of External links to sources.
19. Gildenberg, B.D. (2003). "A Roswell requiem". Skeptic. 10 (1): 60.
20. Clark, Jerome, The UFO Book: Encyclopedia of the Extraterrestrial, Visible Ink, 1998 ISBN 978-1-57859-029-2
21. Wenz, John. "11 UFO Photos Unearthed From the Air Force's Vaults" (<https://www.popularmechanics.com/culture/g1902/here-are-some-ufo-photos-from-project-bluebook/>). Popular Mechanics Magazine. Hearst Media. Retrieved 30 November 2018.
22. Kirkpatrick, Nick; Moyer, Justin Wm. "Two decades of mysterious Air Force UFO files now available online" (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/news/morning-mix/wp/2015/01/21/two-decades-of-mysterious-air-force-ufo-files-now-available-online/?noredirect=on>). Washington Post. Retrieved 30 November 2018.

23. Blum, Howard, Out There: The Government's Secret Quest for Extraterrestrials. Simon and Schuster, 1990
24. <https://www.newspapers.com/clip/2219741/1949-walter-winchell-flying-saucers-from/>
25. <https://books.google.com/books?id=UD5-AAAAMAAJ>
26. Stephen J. Spignesi. The Ufo Book of Lists (<https://books.google.com/books?id=BRHoKVTawnMC&pg=PA24>). Citadel Press; 2000. ISBN 978-0-8065-2109-1. p. 24–.
27. Nick Pope, UFOs: An Official History (http://www.nickpope.net/ufos_an_official_history.htm).
28. J. P. Cahn exposé, True Magazine, 1952 (<http://www.physics.smu.edu/~pseudo/UFOs/Scully/Cahn1.pdf>).
29. Roswell Proof: Smith Papers (http://www.roswellproof.com/smith_papers.html)
30. Presidential UFO.com (<http://www.presidentialufo.com/hardware.htm>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090408085039/http://presidentialufo.com/hardware.htm>) 2009-04-08 at the Wayback Machine Roswell Proof.com (http://www.roswellproof.com/debris8_misc.html#anchor_3697)
31. Dolan, Richard M. (2002). UFOS and the national security state : chronology of a cover-up 1941-1973 (<https://archive.org/details/ufosnationalsecu00dola/page/210>). Hampton Roads Pub. Co. pp. 210-211 (<https://archive.org/details/ufosnationalsecu00dola/page/210>). ISBN 978-1571743176.
32. Canada's UFOs, Shirley's Bay, Ontario, Project Magnet, 1952, Library and Archives of Canada (<http://www.collectionscanada.gc.ca/ufo/002029-1400.01-e.html>).
33. "Long Island's UFO plot Trial: A flying saucer true believer must answer charges that he intended to kill three people he believed were covering up alien landings" (http://articles.baltimoresun.com/1997-08-04/features/1997216040_1_ufo-network-long-island-radioactive). Baltimore Sun. Retrieved 2018-06-04.
34. Dolan, Richard M. (2002). UFOS and the national security state : chronology of a cover-up 1941-1973 (<https://archive.org/details/ufosnationalsecu00dola/page/293>). Hampton Roads Pub. Co. pp. 293-295 (<https://archive.org/details/ufosnationalsecu00dola/page/293>). ISBN 978-1571743176.
35. "McDonald, 1968 Congressional testimony, Case 41" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20060624204634/http://www.ufoevidence.org/Newsite/Files/MacDonaldSubmissionUFOSymposium.pdf>) (PDF). Archived from the original (<http://www.ufoevidence.org/Newsite/Files/MacDonaldSubmissionUFOSymposium.pdf>) (PDF) on 2006-06-24.
36. see James E. McDonald: External links.
37. Jacque Vallee, Forbidden Science
38. The Phenomenon (2020)
39. Clark The UFO Book, p. 213–14
40. Clark The UFO Book, p. 144
41. UFOS: It Has Begun, Producer Allan F. Sandler, Director Ray Rivas, Writer Robert Emenegger, 1976, Featuring Rod Serling, Special Appearances by José Ferrer and Burgess Meredith – VCI Sci-Fi DVD Double Feature: UFOS: It Has Begun / UFO Syndrome, Distributed by VCI Entertainment <http://www.vcient.com>
42. see Paul Bennewitz: References and External Links.
43. Donovan, Barna William (2011-07-20). Conspiracy Films: A Tour of Dark Places in the American Conscious (<https://books.google.com/books?id=bJkhqU1IXHAC&pg=PA107>). McFarland. pp. 107–. ISBN 9780786486151. Retrieved 17 September 2014.
44. "FBI – Majestic 12 Part 1 of 1" (https://vault.fbi.gov/Majestic%2012/Majestic%2012%20Part%201%20of%201/at_download/file). An FBI archive containing details of "Majestic 12". Retrieved April 10, 2011.
45. Peter Knight (2003). Conspiracy Theories in American History: An Encyclopedia (<https://books.google.com/books?id=qMIDrggs8TsC&pg=PA125>). ABC-CLIO. pp. 125–. ISBN 978-1-57607-812-9. Retrieved 18 October 2012.

46. Michael Barkun (4 May 2006). A Culture of Conspiracy: Apocalyptic Visions in Contemporary America (<https://books.google.com/books?id=LiwjVsNBw-cC&pg=PA86>). University of California Press. pp. 86–. ISBN 978-0-520-24812-0. Retrieved 18 October 2012.
47. Nancy Lusignan, Editor (1 September 1998). Fear Itself: Enemies Real and Imagined in American Culture (<https://books.google.com/books?id=dkYyuNvfqY8C&pg=PA415>). Purdue University Press. pp. 415–. ISBN 978-1-55753-115-5. Retrieved 18 October 2012.
48. Richard Landes (6 July 2000). Encyclopedia of Millennialism and Millennial Movements (https://books.google.com/books?id=4eVZal20_mEC&pg=PA731). Taylor & Francis. pp. 731–. ISBN 978-0-415-92246-3. Retrieved 18 October 2012.
49. see Milton William Cooper: References.
50. KLAS-TV: 8 News Now: George Knapp, Investigative Reporter: "Bob Lazar The Man Behind Area 51: NEW: Area 51 Exposed (<http://www.8newsnow.com/story/3369879/bob-lazar-the-man-behind-area-51>) retrieved 21 March 2013
51. Los Angeles Times: May 6, 1993, Rivenberg, Ray, "Unusually Fanatical Observers Ike Struck Deal With Aliens!"
52. The Presidents UFO Website: The True Story of Area 51: A Look at the Actual Evidence (<http://www.presidentialufo.com/articles-a-papers/379-the-true-story-of-area-51-a-look-at-the-actual-evidence>), Written by Grant Cameron, Monday, 03 October 2011 18:29 retrieved 21 March 2013
53. "UFO Cover-Up?... Live (1988)" (<http://www.tcm.com/tcmdb/title/475950/UFO-Cover-Up-Live/>). Turner Classic Movies. Turner Classic Movies, Inc. Retrieved 29 November 2017.
54. Clark The UFO Book, p. 163
55. Clark The UFO Book, p. 164
56. UFO Crash At Southaven Park (<http://www.ufocasebook.com/southavenufo.html>) at www.ufocasebook.com
57. "The Phil Schneider Story" (<http://www.apfn.org/apfn/phil.htm>). APFN. Retrieved 26 April 2013.
58. "Message from ex-wife of Phil Schneider" (http://www.apfn.org/apfn/ex_wifephil.htm). www.apfn.org. Retrieved 2017-12-16.
59. UFO Evidence : COMETA Report (<http://www.ufoevidence.org/topics/cometa.htm>) at www.ufoevidence.org
60. UFO files from The National Archives (<http://www.nationalarchives.gov.uk/ufos>) at www.nationalarchives.gov.uk
61. "Files released on UFO sightings" (http://news.bbc.co.uk/2/hi/uk_news/7398108.stm). BBC News. 2008-05-14. Retrieved 2008-08-05.
62. afp.google.com, The truth is out there: Britons 'spotted' UFOs, records say (<http://afp.google.com/article/ALeqM5j0OnawpQKsmDXbJAce-OI5EiUgHQ>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/2013060521509/http://afp.google.com/article/ALeqM5j0OnawpQKsmDXbJAce-OI5EiUgHQ>) 2013-06-05 at the Wayback Machine
63. Duin, Julia (11 May 2001). "Government is covering up UFO evidence, group says" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20010516132431/http://www.washtimes.com/national/20010510-19816390.htm>). The Washington Times. Archived from the original (<http://www.washtimes.com/national/20010510-19816390.htm>) on May 16, 2001. Retrieved 8 March 2013.
64. "They're Here; UFO watchers to reveal proof that aliens have visited Earth" (<https://www.questia.com/read/1G1-74321804>). The Daily Record. May 9, 2001.
65. Katelynn Raymer; David Ruppe (10 May 2001). "Group Calls for Disclosure of UFO Info" (<https://abcnews.go.com/Technology/story?id=98572>). ABC News. Retrieved 11 March 2013.
66. "UFO spotters slam 'US cover-up'" (<http://news.bbc.co.uk/2/hi/americas/1322432.stm>). BBC News. May 10, 2001.
67. Kehnemui, Sharon (May 10, 2001). "Men in Suits See Aliens as Part of Solution, Not Problem" (<http://www.foxnews.com/story/0,2933,24364,00.html>). Fox News. Retrieved 2007-05-10.

68. McCullagh, Declan (May 10, 2001). "Ooo-WEE-ooo Fans Come to D.C." (<http://archive.wired.com/culture/lifestyle/news/2001/05/43526>) Wired News. Retrieved 11 May 2016.
69. "The Citizen Hearing on Disclosure" (<http://www.citizenhearing.org/about-chd>). Official Citizen Hearing on Disclosure website.
70. "Visitors From Outer Space, Real or Not, Are Focus of Discussion in Washington" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2013/05/04/us/politics/panel-convenes-in-washington-to-discuss-aliens.html>). New York Times. May 3, 2013.
71. Rhodes_Phoenix (http://www.roswellproof.com/Rhodes_Phoenix.html)
72. <http://bluebookarchive.org/page.aspx?PageCode=NARA-PBB1-913>
73. <http://bluebookarchive.org/page.aspx?PageCode=NARA-PBB1-920>
74. Roswell: Randle and Schmitt
 - Kevin Randle & Donald Schmitt, UFO Crash at Roswell, 1991; The Truth About the UFO Crash at Roswell, 1994
 - see also Kouff, Kal (August 1997). "What Really Happened at Roswell" (http://www.csicop.org/si/s/how/what_really_happened_at_roswell). Skeptical Inquirer. 21 (4). Retrieved February 5, 2013.
75. Strange rocket-like UFO over California/Nevada, June 24, 1950 (http://roswellproof.homestead.com/UFO_CalNev_1950.html)
76. Clark The UFO Book, p. 398
77. NCP-12: The White Sands Proof – Maccabee (<http://www.nicap.org/ncp/ncp-brumac.htm>)
78. Richard M. Dolan, UFOs and the National Security State: Chronology of a Cover-up 1941–1973, 2002, ISBN 1-57174-317-0.
79. Lawrence Fawcett and Barry J. Greenwood, The UFO Cover-Up (originally Clear Intent), New York: Fireside Books (Simon & Schuster), 1992, ISBN 0-671-76555-8
80. UFO Evidence.org documents (<http://www.ufoevidence.org/documents/doc1324.htm>)
81. Speigel, Lee (April 18, 2011). "The JFK-UFO Connection: Bogus Documents or Unanswered Questions?" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20121027082646/http://www.aolnews.com/2011/04/18/the-jfk-ufo-connection-bogus-documents-or-unanswered-questions/>). AOL News. Archived from the original (<http://www.aolnews.com/2011/04/18/the-jfk-ufo-connection-bogus-documents-or-unanswered-questions/>) on October 27, 2012. Retrieved January 2, 2013.
82. Review of Billion Dollar Secret and The Hunt for Zero Point, "Into the Black" by Frank Bures, The Atlantic magazine (<https://www.theatlantic.com/magazine/archive/2002/09/into-the-black/303076>).
83. Review of "The Hunt for Zero Point" by Kurt Kleiner at Salon.com (http://www.salon.com/2002/08/05/zero_gravity)
84. "Out there: Former Sen. Mike Gravel says White House suppressing evidence of ETs" (<https://news.yahoo.com/blogs/power-players-abc-news/former-sen-mike-gravel-says-white-house-suppressing-112957111.html>). Yahoo! News/ABC News. 2013-05-03. Retrieved 2013-05-04.
85. Radford, Benjamin (2018). "The Phantom Menace of UFO Revelation". Skeptical Inquirer. 42 (4): 28–29.
86. https://www.google.com/books/edition/Remembering_the_space_age_Proceedings_of/CS2sldbDdP0
87. https://www.google.com/books/edition/2001_A_Space_Odyssey/
88. David G. Robertson (25 February 2016). UFOs, Conspiracy Theories and the New Age: Millennial Conspiracism (<https://books.google.com/books?id=vXgwCwAAQBAJ&pg=PA72>). Bloomsbury Publishing. pp. 72–. ISBN 978-1-4742-5321-5.
89. "THE DOOMSDAY CONSPIRACY by Sidney Sheldon THE DOOMSDAY CONSPIRACY" (<https://www.kirkusreviews.com/book-reviews/sidney-sheldon/the-doomsday-conspiracy/>). Kirkus Reviews. Kirkus Media LLC. Retrieved 6 December 2017.

Bibliography

- Clark, Jerome. The Ufo Book: Encyclopedia of the Extraterrestrial. Visible Ink, 1998. ISBN 1-57859-029-9.
- Dolan, Richard M. UFOs and the National Security State: An Unclassified History, Volume One: 1941–1973. Keyhole Publishing, 2000. ISBN 0-9666885-0-3.
- Fawcett, Lawrence and Greenwood, Barry J. The UFO Cover-Up (originally Clear Intent). New York: Fireside Books (Simon & Schuster), 1992. ISBN 0-671-76555-8.
- Timothy Good. Above Top Secret. New York: William Morrow & Co., 1988. ISBN 0-688-09202-0.
- Philip J. Klass. UFOs Explained New York: Random House, 1974. ISBN 0-394-49215-3.
- Peebles, Curtis. Watch the Skies! A Chronicle of the Flying Saucer Myth. Washington, DC: Smithsonian Institution, 1994. ISBN 1-56098-343-4.
- Rose, Bill and Buttler, Tony. Flying Saucer Aircraft (Secret Projects). Leicester, UK: Midland Publishing, 2006. ISBN 1-85780-233-0.
- Ruppelt, Edward J.. The Report on Unidentified Flying Objects. 1956, available online: [1] (<http://www.nicap.org/rufo/contents.htm>)

External links

- CIA's Role in the Study of UFOs, 1947–90 (<https://www.cia.gov/library/center-for-the-study-of-intelligence/csi-publications/csi-studies/studies/97unclass/ufo.html>)
 - National Security Agency UFO Documents Index (http://www.nsa.gov/public_info/declass/ufo/index.shtml)
-

Retrieved from "https://en.wikipedia.org/w/index.php?title=UFO_conspiracy_theories&oldid=1028236221"

This page was last edited on 12 June 2021, at 18:15 (UTC).

Text is available under the Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike License; additional terms may apply. By using this site, you agree to the Terms of Use and Privacy Policy. Wikipedia® is a registered trademark of the Wikimedia Foundation, Inc., a non-profit organization.

Roswell incident

The Roswell incident refers to the July 1947 crash of a United States Army Air Forces balloon at a ranch near Roswell, New Mexico, as well as the subsequent conspiracy theories that claim the crash was actually that of a flying saucer, and that the truth was covered up by the US government.^{[1][2]} On July 8, 1947, Roswell Army Air Field issued a press release stating that they had recovered a "flying disc" from a ranch near Roswell. The Army quickly retracted the statement and instead said that the crashed object was merely a conventional weather balloon.^[3]

The Roswell incident didn't surface again until the late 1970s, when a retired Lt. Colonel, in an interview with a UFO researcher, first admitted the weather balloon account had been a cover-story. Ufologists began promoting a variety of increasingly elaborate conspiracy theories, claiming that one or more alien spacecraft had crash-landed and that the extraterrestrial occupants had been recovered by the military, which then engaged in a cover-up.

In 1994, the US Air Force published a report identifying the crashed object as a nuclear test surveillance balloon from Project Mogul. A second Air Force report, published in 1997, concluded that stories of "aliens bodies" probably stemmed from test dummies being dropped from high altitude.

Nevertheless, conspiracy theories surrounding the event persist, and the Roswell incident continues to be of interest in popular media. The incident has been described as "the world's most famous, most exhaustively investigated, and most thoroughly debunked UFO claim".^[4]

Roswell incident

Roswell Daily Record, July 8, 1947, announcing the "capture" of a "flying saucer"

Date	1947
Location	Lincoln County, New Mexico, United States
Coordinates	33°58.1′N 105°14.6′W﻿ / ﻿33.96944°N 105.24444°W﻿ / 33.96944; -105.24444

Contents

Events of July 1947

- Debris discovered
- Discovery reported to authorities (July 6)
- Public announcement of a recovered "flying disc" (July 8)
- Weather balloon vs. nuclear test monitoring balloon (July 9)

Subsequent publications and conspiracy claims

- Renewed interest (1978)
- The Roswell Incident* (1980)
 - Debris and cover-up
 - First mention of alien bodies

UFO Crash at Roswell (1991)

Mortician's purported eyewitness account

Competing accounts and schism (1992)

Air Force response (1994-1997)

Alien autopsy footage (1995)

The Day After Roswell (1997)

Haut document (2007)

Stalin-Mengele conspiracy theory (2011)

Continued debunking (2017-2020)

Evidence

Problems with witness accounts

Problems with alien body witnesses

Greys and False Memory Syndrome

Presidential comments

Roswell as myth

In popular fiction

See also

References

Notes

Sources

Further reading

Events of July 1947

The Roswell incident occurred amid the flying saucer craze of 1947.^[5] On June 26, media nationwide had reported civilian pilot Kenneth Arnold's story of seeing what he labelled "Flying Saucers". Historians would later chronicle over 800 "copycat" sightings that were reported after the Arnold story was published.^[6]

Debris discovered

The sequence of events was triggered in late June or early July 1947, when William "Mac" Brazel, a ranch foreman, noticed clusters of debris on the Foster ranch, which was about 30 miles (50 km) outside of Roswell. Initial press coverage suggested Brazel first noticed the material in early July, though later reports suggested a June date for the discovery of debris.^[7]

Discovery reported to authorities (July 6)

On or around July 6, Brazel reported the discovery to Sheriff George Wilcox in Roswell.^[7] Wilcox, in turn, called RAAF intelligence officer Major Jesse Marcel, who assembled a detail to visit the Foster ranch. Around 4 PM that afternoon, Brazel left Roswell, followed by Marcel, Lt Colonel Sheridan Cavitt and Master Sergeant Bill Rickett.^[8]

The following morning, presumably July 7, the Army Air Force detail inspected the debris on the Foster ranch and transported some or all of it back to Roswell.^[9]

A 1946 patch of the 509th Bomb Group.

Public announcement of a recovered "flying disc" (July 8)

On July 8, 1947, RAAF public information officer Walter Haut issued a press release stating that personnel from the field's 509th Operations Group had recovered a "flying disc", which had landed on a ranch near Roswell. The report was immediately picked up by numerous news outlets:^[10]

The Sacramento Bee article detailing the RAAF statements

The many rumors regarding the flying disc became a reality yesterday when the intelligence office of the 509th Bomb group of the Eighth Air Force, Roswell Army Air Field, was fortunate enough to gain possession of a disc through the cooperation of one of the local ranchers and the sheriff's office of Chaves County.

The flying object landed on a ranch near Roswell sometime last week. Not having phone facilities, the rancher stored the disc until such time as he was able to contact the sheriff's office, who in turn notified Maj. Jesse A. Marcel of the 509th Bomb Group Intelligence Office.

Action was immediately taken and the disc was picked up at the rancher's home. It was inspected at the Roswell Army Air Field and subsequently loaned by Major Marcel to higher headquarters.^{[11][12]}

Researcher Kendrick Frazier notes: "The idea of alien spacecraft hadn't gained hold yet. At best the concern was that if they were physical craft at all, they might be Soviet or even holdover Nazi aircraft."^[13]

Weather balloon vs. nuclear test monitoring balloon (July 9)

Colonel William H. Blanchard, commanding officer of the 509th, contacted General Roger M. Ramey of the Eighth Air Force in Fort Worth, Texas, and Ramey ordered the object be flown to Fort Worth Army Air Field. At the base, Warrant Officer Irving Newton confirmed Ramey's preliminary opinion, identifying the object as being a weather balloon and its "kite",^[14] a nickname for a radar reflector used to track the balloons from the ground.

A telex sent to a Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) office from the Fort Worth, Texas, office quoted a Major from the Eighth Air Force (also based in Fort Worth at Carswell Air Force Base) on July 8, 1947, as saying that "The disc is hexagonal in shape and was suspended from a balloon [sic] by cable, which balloon [sic] was approximately twenty feet (6 m) in diameter. Major Curtan further advises [sic] that the object found resembles a high altitude weather balloon with a radar reflector, but that telephonic conversation between their office and Wright field had not [UNINTELLIGIBLE] borne out this belief."^[15]

On July 9, the press reported that General Ramey had stated that a weather balloon was recovered by the RAAF personnel. A press conference was held, featuring debris (foil, rubber and wood) said to be from the crashed object, which matched the weather balloon description. Historian Robert Goldberg wrote that the intended effect was achieved: "the story died the next day".^[16]

As described in the July 9, 1947, edition of the Roswell Daily Record:

The balloon which held it up, if that was how it worked, must have been 12 feet [3.5 m] long, [Brazel] felt, measuring the distance by the size of the room in which he sat. The rubber was smoky gray in color and scattered over an area about 200 yards [180 m] in diameter. When the debris was gathered up, the tinfoil, paper, tape, and sticks made a bundle about three feet [1 m] long and 7 or 8 inches [18 or 20 cm] thick, while the rubber made a bundle about 18 or 20 inches [45 or 50 cm] long and about 8 inches [20 cm] thick. In all, he estimated, the entire lot would have weighed maybe five pounds [2 kg]. There was no sign of any metal in the area which might have been used for an engine, and no sign of any propellers of any kind, although at least one paper fin had been glued onto some of the tinfoil. There were no words to be found anywhere on the instrument, although there were letters on some of the parts. Considerable Scotch tape and some tape with flowers printed upon it had been used in the construction. No strings or wires were to be found but there were some eyelets in the paper to indicate that some sort of attachment may have been used.^[17]

On July 11, 1947, airmen at Fort Worth Army Air Field demonstrate for assembled press.

On July 9, Brazel told the Roswell Daily Record that the debris consisted of "large area of bright wreckage made up of rubber strips, tinfoil, a rather tough paper and sticks."^[18] He paid little attention to it but returned later with his wife and daughter to gather up some of the debris.^[18] Some accounts have described Brazel as having gathered some of the material earlier, rolling it together and stashing it under some brush.^[14]

On July 9, Marcel explained: "[We] spent a couple of hours Monday afternoon [July 7] looking for any more parts of the weather device", said Marcel. "We found a few more patches of tinfoil and rubber."^[9] That day it was reported that Brazel had reported the debris after hearing reports about "flying discs" and wondering if that was what he had picked up, then going to see Sheriff Wilcox where he "whispered kinda confidential like" that he may have found a flying disc.^[18]

The modern consensus is that the debris was that of a military balloon.^[1] The balloon had been launched from Alamogordo Army Air Field a month earlier. It carried a radar reflector and classified Project Mogul sensors for experimental monitoring of Soviet nuclear testing.^[19]

In the 1990s, a scholarly consensus emerged concluding that the military decided to conceal the true purpose of the crashed device—nuclear test monitoring—and instead inform the public that the crash was of a weather balloon.^[3] Subsequently, the Roswell incident faded from public attention for more than 30 years.^[20]

Subsequent publications and conspiracy claims

After 30 years, interest in the Roswell incident surged in the late 1970s. The Roswell incident was featured in films, TV shows, and books. By the 1990s, mainstream political interest resulted in an Air Force report that identified the debris as a Project Mogul balloon.

Amid increasingly complex conspiracy theories, multiple hoaxes and legends about "alien bodies" were incorporated into the Roswell mythos. The trend culminating in 1995's purported footage of an "Alien Autopsy", which filmmakers later revealed to be a hoax (though they preferred the term "reconstruction").

Renewed interest (1978)

In February 1978, UFO researcher Stanton Friedman interviewed Jesse Marcel, the only person known to have accompanied the Roswell debris from where it was recovered to Fort Worth where reporters saw material that was claimed to be part of the recovered object.

At Fort Worth Army Air Field, Major Jesse A. Marcel posing with debris on July 8, 1947.

In November 1979, Marcel's first filmed interview was featured in a documentary titled "UFO's Are Real" (<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=kGts5UH1BT4>), co-written by Friedman.^[21] The film had a limited release but was later syndicated for broadcasting. On February 28, 1980, sensationalist tabloid The National Enquirer brought large-scale attention to the Marcel story.^[22] On September 20, 1980, the TV series In Search of... aired an interview (<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=3IWZdeDBOqo>) where Marcel described his participation in the 1947 press conference:

"They wanted some comments from me, but I wasn't at liberty to do that. So, all I could do is keep my mouth shut. And General Ramey is the one who discussed - told the newspapers, I mean the newsmen, what it was, and to forget about it. It is nothing more than a weather observation balloon. Of course, we both knew differently."^{[23][24]}

The accounts given by Friedman and others in the following years elevated Roswell from a forgotten incident to perhaps the most famous UFO case of all time.^[4] Marcel gave a final interview to HBO's America Undercover which aired in August 1985.^[25] In all his statements, Marcel consistently denied the presence of bodies.^[26] Between 1978 and the early 1990s, UFO researchers such as Stanton T. Friedman, William Moore, Karl T. Pflock, and the team of Kevin D. Randle and Donald R. Schmitt interviewed several hundred people who claimed to have had a connection with the events at Roswell in 1947.^[27] Their conclusions were that at least one alien spacecraft crashed near Roswell and a government cover-up of the incident had taken place.^[4]

The Roswell Incident (1980)

In October 1980, Marcel's story was featured in the book The Roswell Incident by Charles Berlitz and William Moore. The authors had previously written popular books on such fringe topics as the Philadelphia Experiment and on the Bermuda Triangle.^[3] Though he was uncredited, Friedman carried out some research for the book.^[29]

The book's narrative holds that an alien craft was flying over the New Mexico desert observing US nuclear weapons activity, but crashed after being hit by lightning, killing the aliens on board; a government cover-up duly followed.^[3] Historian Kathy Olmsted writes that book's narrative has come to be known as "version 1" of the Roswell myth. Berlitz and Moore's narrative was dominant until the late 1980s when other authors, attracted by the commercial potential of writing about Roswell, started producing rival accounts.^[30]

Debris and cover-up

The Roswell Incident featured accounts of debris described by Marcel as "nothing made on this earth."^[31] Additional accounts by Bill Brazel,^[32] son of rancher Mac Brazel, neighbor Floyd Proctor^[33] and Walt Whitman Jr.,^[34] son of newsman W. E. Whitman who had interviewed Mac Brazel, suggested the material Marcel recovered had super-strength not associated with a weather balloon.

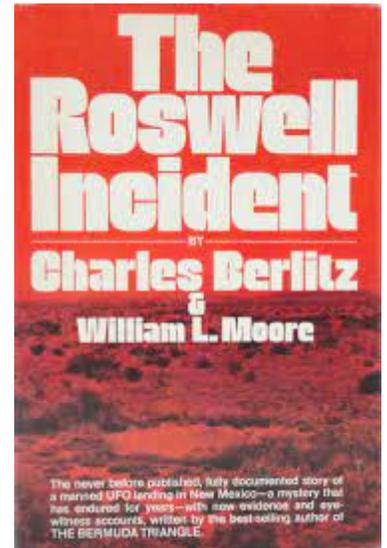

The book introduced the contention that debris which was recovered by Marcel at the Foster ranch, visible in photographs showing Marcel posing with the debris, was substituted for debris from a weather device as part of a cover-up.^{[35][36]} The book also claimed that the debris recovered from the ranch was not permitted a close inspection by the press. The efforts by the military were described as being intended to discredit and "counteract the growing hysteria towards flying saucers".^[37] Two accounts of witness intimidation were included in the book, including the incarceration of Mac Brazel.^{[38][39]}

The authors claimed to have interviewed over 90 witnesses, though the testimony of only 25 appears in the book. Only seven of these people claimed to have seen the debris. Of these, five claimed to have handled it.^[40]

First mention of alien bodies

The Roswell Incident (1980) was the first book to introduce the controversial second-hand stories of civil engineer Grady "Barney" Barnett and a group of archaeology students from an unidentified university encountering wreckage and "alien bodies" while on the Plains of San Agustin before being escorted away by the Army.^[28] The second-hand Barnett stories were described by ufologists as the "one aspect of the account that seemed to conflict with the basic story about the retrieval of highly unusual debris from a sheep ranch outside Corona, New Mexico, in July 1947".^[42]

Many alleged first-hand accounts of the Roswell incident actually contain information from the Aztec, New Mexico, UFO incident,^[43] a hoaxed flying saucer crash which gained national notoriety after being promoted by journalist Frank Scully in his articles and a 1950 book Behind the Flying Saucers. The hoax included stories of humanoid bodies and metals with unusual properties.^{[44][43][45]}

The 1980 publication of The Roswell Incident included more witnesses to debris marked the first time stories of "alien bodies" were associated with Roswell.^[28]

UFO Crash at Roswell (1991)

Brig. General Roger Ramey, left, and Col. Thomas J. DuBose pose with debris.

In 1991, Kevin Randle and Donald Schmitt published UFO Crash at Roswell. They added testimony from 100 new witnesses,^[30] including those who reported an elaborate military cordon and debris recovery operation at the Foster ranch. The book included the new claims of a "gouge ... that extended four or five hundred feet [120 or 150 m]" at the ranch.^[46]

Randle and Schmitt reported Gen. Arthur Exon had been directly aware of debris and bodies, but Exon disputed his depiction, saying his comments had been based exclusively on second-hand rumors.^[47] The 1991 book sold 160,000 copies and served as the basis for the 1994 television film Roswell.^{[48][49]} Also in 1991, retired USAF Brigadier General Thomas DuBose, who had posed with debris for press photographs in 1947, publicly acknowledged the weather balloon cover story, corroborating Marcel's previous admissions.^{[50][51][52]}

The Barnett "alien body" accounts were mentioned in the 1991 book, though the dates and locations were changed from the accounts found in 1980's The Roswell Incident. In this new account, Brazel was described as leading the Army to a second crash site on the ranch, at which point the Army personnel were supposedly "horrified to find civilians [including Barnett] there already."^[53]

Mortician's purported eyewitness account

UFO Crash at Roswell (1991) prominently featured the stories of mortician Glenn Dennis. On September 20, 1989, an episode of Unsolved Mysteries had included second-hand stories of "Barney" Barnett seeing alien bodies captured by the Army. Mortician Dennis had called the show's hotline claiming to have knowledge of the events. Dennis claimed to have received "four or five calls" from Air Base with questions about body preservation and inquiries about small or hermetically-sealed caskets; he further claimed that a local nurse told him she had witnessed an "alien autopsy". Dennis's stories of Roswell alien autopsies were the first account to allege alien corpses at the Roswell Army Air Base.^[4] Pflock observed that Dennis's story "sounds like a B-grade thriller conceived by Oliver Stone."^[54]

In September 1991, Dennis co-founded a UFO museum in Roswell along with former RAAF public affairs officer Walter Haut and Max Littell, a real estate salesman.^[55] Dennis appeared in multiple documentaries repeating his story.^{[56][57]}

In 1947, officers from Roswell Army Air Field investigated a debris field near Corona. By the 1980s, popular accounts conflated the debris investigation with two separate myths of humanoid bodies over 300 miles away from Roswell.^[41]

Randle deemed Glenn Dennis one of the "least credible" Roswell witnesses. Randle said Dennis was not credible "for changing the name of the nurse once we had proved she didn't exist."^[58] Scientific skeptic author Brian Dunning concurs that Dennis cannot be regarded as a reliable witness, considering that he had seemingly waited over 40 years before he started recounting a series of unconnected events. Such events, Dunning argues, were then arbitrarily joined together to form what has become the most popular narrative of the alleged alien crash.^[59] Some prominent UFOlogists including Karl T. Pflock,^[60] Kent Jeffrey,^[60] and William L. Moore^[60] have become convinced that there were no aliens or alien spacecraft involved in the Roswell crash.

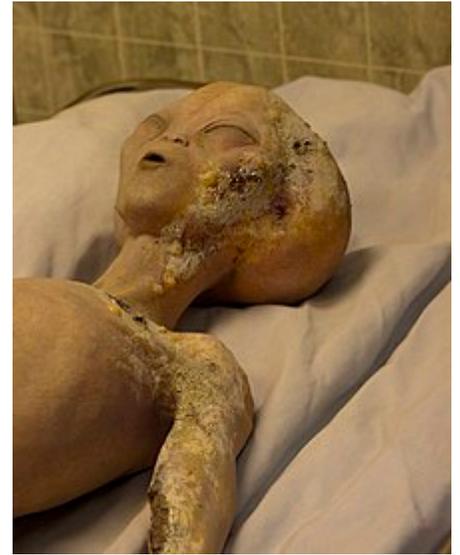

Competing accounts and schism (1992)

In 1992, Stanton Friedman released Crash at Corona, co-authored with Don Berliner.^[49] The book introduced new "witnesses" and added to the narrative by doubling the number of flying saucers to two, and the number of aliens to eight – two of which were said to have survived and been taken into custody by the government.^[49] In 1994, Randle and Schmitt authored another book, The Truth about the UFO Crash at Roswell which included a claim that alien bodies were taken by cargo plane to be viewed by Dwight D. Eisenhower.^[49]

The existence of so many differing accounts led to a schism among ufologists about the events at Roswell.^[61] The Center for UFO Studies (CUFOS) and the Mutual UFO Network (MUFON), two leading UFO societies, disagreed in their views of the various scenarios presented by Randle–Schmitt and Friedman–Berliner; several conferences were held to try to resolve the differences. One issue under discussion was where Barnett was when he saw the alien craft he was said to have encountered. A 1992 UFO conference attempted to achieve a consensus among the various scenarios portrayed in Crash at Corona and UFO Crash at Roswell; however, the publication of The Truth About the UFO Crash at Roswell "resolved" the Barnett problem by simply ignoring Barnett and citing a new location for the alien craft recovery, including a new group of archaeologists not connected to the ones the Barnett story cited.^[61]

Air Force response (1994-1997)

After United States congressional inquiries, the General Accounting Office launched an inquiry and directed the Office of the United States Secretary of the Air Force to conduct an internal investigation. The result was summarized in two reports. The first, released in 1994, concluded that the material recovered in 1947 was likely debris from Project Mogul, a military surveillance program employing high-altitude balloons (and classified portion of an unclassified New York University project by atmospheric researchers^[62]). The second report, released in 1997, concluded that reports of recovered alien bodies were likely a combination of innocently transformed memories of accidents involving military casualties with memories of the recovery of anthropomorphic dummies in military programs such as the 1950s

Gray alien body at Glenn Dennis's UFO museum in Roswell

Alien body exhibit at Glenn Dennis's UFO Museum in Roswell

Operation High Dive, mixed with hoaxes perpetrated by various witnesses and UFO proponents. The psychological effects of time compression and confusion about when events occurred explained the discrepancy with the years in question.^{[63][64][1]}

The Air Force reports were dismissed by UFO proponents as being either disinformation or simply implausible, though skeptical researchers such as Philip J. Klass^[65] and Robert Todd, who had been expressing doubts regarding accounts of aliens for several years, used the reports as the basis for skeptical responses to claims by UFO proponents. After the release of the Air Force reports, several books, such as Kal Korff's The Roswell UFO Crash: What They Don't Want You To Know (1997), built on the evidence presented in the reports to conclude "there is no credible evidence that the remains of an extraterrestrial spacecraft was [sic] involved."^[27]

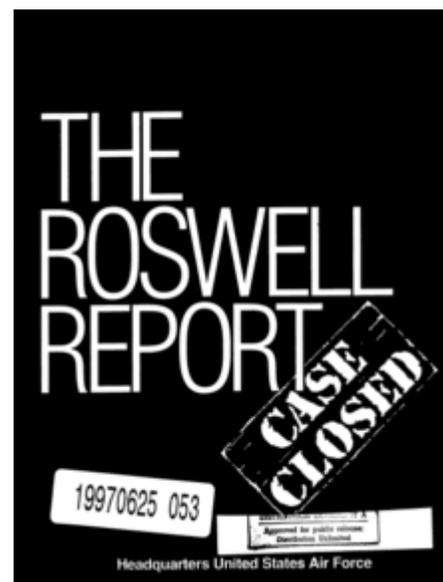

Alien autopsy footage (1995)

In 1995, film footage purporting to show an alien autopsy and claimed to have been taken by a US military official shortly after the Roswell incident was released by Ray Santilli, a London-based video entrepreneur. The footage caused an international sensation when it aired on television networks around the world.^[65] Santilli admitted in 2006 that the film was mostly a reconstruction, but continued to claim it was based on genuine footage now lost, and some original frames that had supposedly survived. A fictionalized version of the creation of the footage and its release was retold in the comedy film Alien Autopsy (2006).^{[66][67]}

The Day After Roswell (1997)

In 1997, former Lt. Col. Philip J. Corso reported in his autobiographical book The Day After Roswell that the Roswell Crash did happen and that when he was assigned to Fort Riley (Kansas) in July 1947, a Sergeant showed him purportedly-nonhuman bodies that were from an "air crash".^[68] Corso further claimed that years later, he helped oversee a project to reverse engineer recovered crash debris. Philip Klass analyzed his claims line by line and exposed many inconsistencies and factual errors.^[69] Corso's story was noted for its similarities to the film "Terminator 2" which had been released six years prior; In that film, civilians secretly attempt to reverse-engineer extraordinary technology of unknown origin.^[70]

Haut document (2007)

In 1997, the US Government released a report concluding that the Roswell Incident stemmed from a Project MOGUL balloon and anthropomorphic test dummies.

VHS cover of Alien Autopsy: Fact or Fiction

In 2007 Donald Schmitt and Tom Carey published the book Witness to Roswell, which prominently featured a document said to be a sworn affidavit by Walter Haut, who had written the first Army press release about the Roswell crash in 1947.^[71] The document, alleged to have been left by Haut and opened only after his death in 2005, includes a description of the 1947 crash debris having been discussed by high-ranking staff and how Haut had seen alien bodies.^{[71][72]} The claims, however, drew an unimpressed response even from ufologists: Dennis Balthaser said that the document was not written by Haut, and that by 2000 Haut's mental state was such he could not recall basic details about his past, making the detail contained in the affidavit seem dubious.^[71] Physicist and skeptic Dave Thomas commented: "Is Roswell still the 'best' UFO incident? If it is, UFO proponents should be very, very worried."^[71]

On October 26, 2007, Bill Richardson (who at the time was a candidate for the Democratic Party nomination for U.S. President) was asked about releasing government files on Roswell. Richardson responded that when he was a Congressman, he attempted to get information on behalf of his New Mexico constituents, but was told by both the Department of Defense and Los Alamos Labs that the information was classified. "That ticked me off", he said, "the government doesn't tell the truth as much as it should on a lot of issues." He promised to work on opening the files if he were elected president.^[73]

In 1991, Glenn Dennis and Walter Haute opened a UFO museum in Roswell.

Stalin-Mengele conspiracy theory (2011)

In 2011, American journalist Annie Jacobsen's Area 51: An Uncensored History of America's Top Secret Military Base featured a claim that Josef Mengele, a German SS officer and a doctor in Auschwitz, was recruited by Soviet leader Joseph Stalin to produce "grotesque, child-size aviators" to be remotely piloted and landed in America in order to cause hysteria similar to Orson Welles' The War of the Worlds (1938).^[74]

The book was criticized for extensive errors by scientists from the Federation of American Scientists.^[75] Historian Richard Rhodes, writing in The Washington Post, also criticized the book's sensationalistic reporting of "old news" and its "error-ridden" reporting. He wrote: "All of [her main source's] claims appear in one or another of the various publicly available Roswell/UFO/Area 51 books and documents churned out by believers, charlatans and scholars over the past 60 years. In attributing the stories she reports to an unnamed engineer and Manhattan Project veteran while seemingly failing to conduct even minimal research into the man's sources, Jacobsen shows herself at a minimum extraordinarily gullible or journalistically incompetent."^[76]

Joseph Stalin in 1943.

Continued debunking (2017-2020)

In September 2017, UK newspaper The Guardian reported on Kodachrome slides which some had claimed showed a dead space alien.^[77] First presented at a BeWitness event in Mexico, organised by Jaime Maussan and attended by almost 7,000 people, days afterwards it was revealed that the slides were in fact of a mummified Native American child discovered in 1896 and which had been on display at the Chapin Mesa Archeological Museum in Mesa Verde, Colorado, for many decades.^[77]

In February 2020, an Air Force historian revealed a recently-declassified report of a circa-1951 incident in which two Roswell personnel donned poorly fitting radioactive suits, complete with oxygen masks, while retrieving a weather balloon after an atomic test. On one occasion, they encountered a lone woman in the desert, who fainted when she saw them. The personnel could have appeared, to someone unaccustomed to then-modern gear, to be alien.^[78]

Evidence

Although there is no evidence that a UFO crashed at Roswell, believers firmly hold to the belief that one did, and that the truth has been concealed as a result of a government conspiracy.^[79] B. D. Gildeberg has called the Roswell incident "the world's most famous, most exhaustively investigated, and most thoroughly debunked UFO claim".^[4]

Pflock said, "[T]he case for Roswell is a classic example of the triumph of quantity over quality. The advocates of the crashed-saucer tale ... simply shovel everything that seems to support their view into the box marked 'Evidence' and say, 'See? Look at all this stuff. We must be right.' Never mind the contradictions. Never mind the lack of independent supporting fact. Never mind the blatant absurdities."^[80] Korff suggests there are clear incentives for some people to promote the idea of aliens at Roswell, and that many researchers were not doing competent work: "[The] UFO field is comprised of people who are willing to take advantage of the gullibility of others, especially the paying public. Let's not pull any punches here: The Roswell UFO myth has been very good business for UFO groups, publishers, for Hollywood, the town of Roswell, the media, and UFOlogy ... [The] number of researchers who employ science and its disciplined methodology is appallingly small."^[81]

B. D. Gildeberg wrote there were as many as 11 reported alien recovery sites^[4] and these recoveries bore only a marginal resemblance to the event as initially reported in 1947, or as recounted later by the initial witnesses. Some of these new accounts could have been confused accounts of the several known recoveries of injured and dead servicemen from four military plane crashes that occurred in the area from 1948 to 1950.^[82] Other accounts could have been based on memories of recoveries of test dummies, as suggested by the Air Force in their reports. Charles Ziegler argued that the Roswell story has all the hallmarks of a traditional folk narrative. He identified six distinct narratives, and a process of transmission via storytellers with a core story that was created from various witness accounts and was then shaped and molded by those who carry on the UFO community's tradition. Other "witnesses" were then sought out to expand the core narrative, with those giving accounts not in line with the core beliefs being repudiated or simply omitted by the "gatekeepers".^{[83][84]} Others then retold the narrative in its new form. This whole process would repeat over time.

Problems with witness accounts

Though hundreds of people were interviewed by various researchers, only a few of these people claimed to have seen debris or aliens. Most witnesses were just repeating the claims of others. Pflock notes that of these 300-plus individuals reportedly interviewed for UFO Crash at Roswell (1991) , only 41 can be "considered genuine first- or second-hand witnesses" and only 23 can be "reasonably thought to have seen physical evidence, debris". Of these, only seven have asserted anything suggestive of otherworldly origins for the debris.^[85]

In The Roswell Incident, Marcel stated, "Actually, this material may have looked like tinfoil and balsa wood, but the resemblance ended there ... They took one picture of me on the floor holding up some of the less-interesting metallic debris ... The stuff in that one photo was pieces of the actual stuff we found. It was not a staged photo."^[86] Timothy Printy points out that the material Marcel positively identified as being part of what he recovered is material that skeptics and UFO advocates agree is debris from a balloon device.^[15] After that fact was pointed out to him, Marcel changed his story to say that that material was not what he recovered.^[15] Skeptics like Robert Todd argued that Marcel had a history of embellishment and exaggeration, such as claiming to have been a pilot and having received five Air Medals for shooting down enemy planes, claims that were all found to be false, and skeptics feel that his evolving Roswell story was simply another instance of this tendency to fabricate.^[87]

Problems with alien body witnesses

As for the accounts from those who claimed to have seen aliens, critics identified problems ranging from the reliability of second-hand accounts to credibility problems with witnesses making demonstrably false claims, or multiple, contradictory accounts, to dubious death-bed confessions or accounts from elderly and easily confused witnesses.^{[88][89][90]} Pflock noted that only four people with supposed firsthand knowledge of alien bodies were interviewed by Roswell authors.^[91] All reports of bodies came about a minimum of 31 years after the fact.^[4]

Greys and False Memory Syndrome

In popular lore, "grays are said to be the creatures whose flying saucer crashed near Roswell in 1947. Various claims have the greys' bodies found among the wreckage while others assert that some survived". However, no mention of alien bodies related to the Roswell incident occurs until 1980.^[28]

In the interval between 1947 and 1980, the idea of Grey aliens had entered the public consciousness beginning with the Betty and Barney Hill incident. In December 1963, Betty Hill and her husband Barney sought out a psychiatrist after Betty experienced recurring nightmares. On February 10, 1964, the ABC Network broadcast an episode of the science fiction television show The Outer Limits that featured an extraterrestrial with large, wrap-around eyes. Twelve days later, during a hypnosis session, Barney Hill told his psychiatrist a story about a being with wrap-around eyes.^[92] Modern psychiatric consensus is that Hill experienced false memory syndrome, in which therapy methods such as hypnosis lead to confabulations.^[93]

On October 20, 1975, the NBC network aired a made-for-TV movie inspired by the Hills starring James Earl Jones. Depictions of Grey aliens would go on to appear in a number of books, films, and television shows, such as the 1977 film Close Encounters of the Third Kind.^[94] Greys would later be incorporated into the Roswell legend.^[95]

A classic "Grey Alien" as depicted at Dennis & Haute's museum in Roswell

Presidential comments

In a 2012 visit to Roswell, Obama joked "I come in peace", while in December 2020, Obama joked with Stephen Colbert: "It used to be that UFOs and Roswell was the biggest conspiracy. And now that seems so tame, the idea that the government might have an alien spaceship."^{[96][97][98]}

In a 2014 interview, former President Bill Clinton reported that his administration had investigated the incident, saying "When the Roswell thing came up, I knew we'd get gazillions of letters. So I had all the Roswell papers reviewed, everything".^[99]

When asked during a 2015 interview with GQ magazine about whether he had looked at top-secret classified information, President Barack Obama replied, "I gotta tell you, it's a little disappointing. People always ask me about Roswell and the aliens and UFOs, and it turns out the stuff going on that's top secret isn't nearly as exciting as you expect. In this day and age, it's not as top secret as you'd think."^[100] In June 2020, then-President Donald Trump, when asked if he would consider releasing more information about the Roswell incident, said "I won't talk to you about what I know about it, but it's very interesting."^[101]

Roswell as myth

A June 1997 CNN/Time poll revealed that the majority of people interviewed believed that aliens had indeed visited Earth, and that aliens had landed at Roswell, but that all the relevant information was being kept secret by the US government.^[102] According to anthropologists Susan Harding and Kathleen Stewart, the Roswell Story was a prime example of how a discourse moved from the fringes to the mainstream according to the prevailing zeitgeist: public preoccupation in the 1980s with "conspiracy, cover-up and repression" aligned well with the Roswell narratives as told in the "sensational books" which were being published.^[103] Additionally, skeptics and some social anthropologists^[104] saw the increasingly elaborate accounts of alien crash landings and government cover-ups as evidence of a myth being constructed.

Prominent skeptics Joe Nickell and co-author James McGaha identified a myth-making process, which they called the "Roswellian syndrome".^[105] In this syndrome, a myth is proposed to have five distinct stages of development: incident, debunking, submergence, mythologizing, and reemergence and media bandwagon effect. The authors predicted that the Roswellian syndrome would "play out again and again",^[105] in other UFO and conspiracy-theory stories.

In popular fiction

- In the 1980 film Hangar 18, an alien ship crashes in the desert of the US Southwest. Debris and bodies are recovered, but their existence is covered up by the government.^{[106][107]} Filmmaker James L. Conway summarized the film as "a modern-day dramatization of the Roswell incident".^[107]
- The 1993-2002 TV series The X-Files included the Roswell Incident as a recurring motif, most prominently in "My Struggle".^[108] The 1996 episode "Jose Chung's From Outer Space" satirized the Santelli Alien Autopsy film.^[109]
- In the 1995 Star Trek: Deep Space Nine episode "Little Green Men", protagonists from the 24th century travel back in time and cause the Roswell incident.^[110]
- In the 1996 film Independence Day, an alien invasion prompts the revelation of a Roswell crash and cover-up extending even to the President of the United States.^[111]

- The 1996-97 series Dark Skies featured a shadowy conspiracy to cover up the Roswell Incident. The show's tagline was "History as we know it is a lie."^[112]
- The 1996 comic series Roswell, Little Green Man was inspired by the story of the Roswell Incident.
- The 1998-2001 TV series Seven Days features time-travel technology developed after a crash at Roswell.
- The 1999 made-for-TV movie Roswell: The Aliens Attack features survivors of Roswell bent on destroying the Earth.
- The 1999-2002 TV series Roswell aired based on the Roswell High series of books.
- In the 2001 Futurama episode "Roswell That Ends Well", protagonists from the 31st century travel back in time and cause the Roswell incident.^[113]
- The 2002 miniseries Taken depicts the aftermath of the Roswell Incident.
- The 2006 comedy Alien Autopsy revolves around the 1990s-creation of the Santilli film.^[114]
- The 2006-08 online graphic novel Roswell, Texas references the Roswell Incident.
- The 2008 film Indiana Jones and the Kingdom of the Crystal Skull sees the protagonist on a quest for an alien body from the Roswell Incident.
- The 2011 film Paul tells the story of Roswell tourists who rescue a grey alien.

See also

- Kecksburg UFO incident
- List of conspiracy theories
- List of reported UFO sightings
- Nazi UFOs
- UFO conspiracy theory
- Storm Area 51

References

Notes

1. Olmsted 2009, p. 184: Olmsted writes "When one of these balloons smashed into the sands of the New Mexico ranch, the military decided to hide the project's real purpose." The official Air Force report (Weaver & McAndrew 1995) had concluded (p. 9) "... the material recovered near Roswell was consistent with a balloon device and most likely from one of the MOGUL balloons that had not been previously recovered."
2. Frazier 2017: "Flight 4 was launched June 4, 1947, from Alamogordo Army Air Field and tracked flying northeast toward Corona. It was within 17 miles of the Brazel ranch when contact was lost."
3. Olmsted 2009
4. Gildenberg 2003
5. Bloecher, Ted (April 29, 1967). Report on the UFO Wave of 1947 (<https://books.google.com/books?id=D5tTAAAMAAJ>) – via Google Books.
6. Grossman, Wendy M.; French, Christopher C. (September 19, 2017). Why Statues Weep: The Best of the "Skeptic" (<https://books.google.com/books?id=eHo2DwAAQBAJ&pg=PT238>). Routledge. ISBN 9781134962525 – via Google Books.

7. "United Press Teletype Messages" (http://roswellproof.homestead.com/United_Press_Telaxes.html). Roswell Proof. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20130427080324/http://roswellproof.homestead.com/United_Press_Telaxes.html) from the original on April 27, 2013. Retrieved February 5, 2013.
8. Weaver, Colonel Richard L.; McAndrew, 1st Lt. James (1995). The Roswell Report: Fact versus Fiction in the New Mexico Desert (<https://www.afhra.af.mil/Portals/16/documents/AFD-101201-038.pdf>) (PDF). Washington DC: Headquarters United States Air Force. p. 160. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20190625220736/https://www.afhra.af.mil/Portals/16/documents/AFD-101201-038.pdf>) (PDF) from the original on 25 June 2019. Retrieved 15 December 2019.
9. "New Mexico Rancher's 'Flying Disk' Proves to be Weather Balloon-Kite" (http://roswellproof.homestead.com/FortWorthST_July9.html). Fort Worth Star-Telegram. July 9, 1947. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20130927094357/http://roswellproof.homestead.com/FortWorthST_July9.html) from the original on September 27, 2013. Retrieved February 5, 2013.
10. "RAAF Captures Flying Saucer on Ranch in Roswell Region" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20130510200615/http://muller.lbl.gov/teaching/Physics10/Roswell/RoswellDailyRecord.jpg>). Roswell Daily Record. July 8, 1947. p. Front. Archived from the original (<http://muller.lbl.gov/teaching/Physics10/Roswell/RoswellDailyRecord.jpg>) on May 10, 2013. Retrieved February 5, 2013.
11. Printy 1999, Chapter 5
12. Sacramento Bee July 8, 1947 (<https://upload.wikimedia.org/wikipedia/commons/2/25/SacramentoBeeArticleJuly8%2C1947.jpg>)
13. Kreidler, Marc (December 26, 2017). "The Roswell Incident at 70: Facts, Not Myths | Skeptical Inquirer" (<https://skepticalinquirer.org/2017/12/the-roswell-incident-at-70-facts-not-myths/>).
14. "New Mexico 'Disc' Declared Weather Balloon and Kite" (https://web.archive.org/web/20130713100543/http://www.roswellproof.com/AP3_Main_July9.html). Los Angeles Examiner. Associated Press. July 9, 1947. p. 1. Archived from the original (http://www.roswellproof.com/AP3_Main_July9.html) on July 13, 2013. Retrieved February 5, 2013.
15. Printy 1999, Chapter 6
16. Goldberg 2001, p. 192
17. "Harassed Rancher who Located 'Saucer' Sorry He Told about It" (http://www.angelfire.com/indie/anna_jones1/daily_record02.html). Roswell Daily Record. July 9, 1947. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20140225114758/http://www.angelfire.com/indie/anna_jones1/daily_record02.html) from the original on February 25, 2014. Retrieved February 5, 2013.
18. "Harassed Rancher who Located 'Saucer' Sorry He Told About it" (<https://web.archive.org/web/2009109043134/http://ufologie.net/rw/p/roswelldailyrecord9jul1947.htm>). Roswell Daily Record. July 9, 1947. Archived from the original (<http://ufologie.net/rw/p/roswelldailyrecord9jul1947.htm>) on January 9, 2009. Retrieved February 5, 2013.
19. Frazier 2017.
20. Goldberg 2001, p. 193
21. "UFO's Are Real" (<https://www.imdb.com/title/tt0211707/>) – via IMDb.
22. Clary, David A. (January 22, 2001). Before and After Roswell: The Flying Saucer in America, 1947-1999 (https://books.google.com/books?id=H9ij_QAvyEEC&pg=PA233). Xlibris Corporation. ISBN 9781462841295 – via Google Books.
23. <https://www.imdb.com/title/tt0211707/>
24. "Aliens Changed Roswell, Even Without Proof" (<https://abcnews.go.com/Technology/Primetime/story?id=528860&page=1>). ABC News.
25. "UFO's: What's Going On?" (<https://www.imdb.com/title/tt6424000/>). September 10, 1985 – via IMDb.
26. The Skeptical Inquirer (<https://books.google.com/books?id=aUEYAQAAMAAJ>). Committee for the Scientific Investigation of Claims of the Paranormal. April 29, 1998 – via Google Books.

27. Korff, Kal (August 1997). "What Really Happened at Roswell" (http://www.csicop.org/si/show/what_really_happened_at_roswell). Skeptical Inquirer. 21 (4). Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20140418144129/http://www.csicop.org/si/show/what_really_happened_at_roswell) from the original on April 18, 2014. Retrieved February 5, 2013.
28. Goldberg 2001
29. Korff 1997, pp. 1–264
30. Goldberg 2001, p. 197
31. Berlitz & Moore 1980, p. 28
32. Berlitz & Moore 1980, p. 79
33. Berlitz & Moore 1980, p. 83
34. Berlitz & Moore 1980, pp. 88–89
35. Berlitz & Moore 1980, p. 33
36. Berlitz & Moore 1980, pp. 67–69
37. Berlitz & Moore 1980, p. 42
38. Berlitz & Moore 1980, pp. 75
39. Berlitz & Moore 1980, pp. 75,88
40. Korff 1997, p. 29
41. Pflock 2001, pp. 82
42. http://www.cufos.org/books/Plains_of_San_AgustinR.pdf
43. Greer, John Michael (2009). The UFO Phenomenon: Fact, Fantasy and Disinformation (<https://archive.org/details/ufophenomenonfac0000gree>) (1st ed.). Woodbury, MN: Llewellyn Worldwide. ISBN 978-0-738-71319-9.
44. Tampa Bay Times (St. Petersburg, Florida) 08 Sep 1950, Fri
45. Malkin, Bonnie (April 11, 2011). "'Exploding UFOs and Alien Landings' in Secret FBI Files" (<https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/newstopics/howaboutthat/ufo/8442464/Exploding-UFOs-and-alien-landings-in-secret-FBI-files.html>). The Daily Telegraph. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20120702061233/http://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/newstopics/howaboutthat/ufo/8442464/Exploding-UFOs-and-alien-landings-in-secret-FBI-files.html>) from the original on July 2, 2012. Retrieved February 6, 2013.
46. Randle & Schmitt 1991, p. 200
47. Pflock 2001, pp. 36
48. "IMDb - Roswell" (<https://www.imdb.com/title/tt0111021/>). Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20181222064125/https://www.imdb.com/title/tt0111021/>) from the original on 2018-12-22. Retrieved 2020-01-02.
49. Goldberg 2001, p. 199
50. Pflock 2001, pp. 33
51. DuBose affidavit (<http://kevinrandle.blogspot.com/2007/05/dubose-affidavit.html>) as cited in Pflock
52. Thomas Dubose interview in Recollections of Roswell (<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=vj9In3kaqf4&t=2487s>) (1992), as cited by Pflock
53. Randle & Schmitt 1991, p. 206
54. Pflock 2001, pp. 127
55. Pflock 2001, pp. 51
56. Unsolved Mysteries, 18 September 1994, for example
57. "'Unsolved Mysteries' Mysteries of Alien Beings (TV Episode 1994) - IMDb" (<https://www.imdb.com/title/tt1931256/>) – via www.imdb.com.

58. "Kevin Randle of the UK-UFO-NW #UFO Channel" (<http://www.roswellfiles.com/storytellers/KevinRandleOnIRC.htm>). Center for UFO Studies. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20120630225927/http://www.roswellfiles.com/storytellers/KevinRandleOnIRC.htm>) from the original on June 30, 2012. Retrieved February 6, 2013.
59. Dunning, Brian. "Skeptoid #79: Aliens in Roswell" (<https://skeptoid.com/episodes/4079>). Skeptoid. Retrieved 9 October 2016.
60. Klass 1997
61. Saler, Ziegler & Moore 1997, pp. 24–25
62. Frazier, Kendrick (2017). "The Roswell Incident at 70: Facts, Not Myths" (https://web.archive.org/web/20180720182643/https://www.csicop.org/si/show/the_roswell_incident_at_70_facts_not_myths). Skeptical Inquirer. 41 (6): 12–15. Archived from the original (https://www.csicop.org/si/show/the_roswell_incident_at_70_facts_not_myths) on 2018-07-20. Retrieved 20 July 2018.
63. James MacAndrew (31 March 1997). Roswell Reports, Volume 1 (<https://archive.org/details/gov.archives.341-roswell-1>). Department of the Air Force. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170710151940/https://archive.org/details/gov.archives.341-roswell-1>) from the original on 10 July 2017. Retrieved 26 February 2017.
64. Broad, William J. (June 24, 1997). "Air Force debunks Roswell UFO story" (https://news.google.com/newspapers?nid=1915&dat=19970624&id=I_YgAAAAIBAJ&sjid=-nIFAAAAIBAJ&pg=2904,5034113). The Day, New London, CT. New York Times News Service. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20160403083739/https://news.google.com/newspapers?nid=1915&dat=19970624&id=I_YgAAAAIBAJ&sjid=-nIFAAAAIBAJ&pg=2904,5034113) from the original on 3 April 2016. Retrieved 14 November 2014.
65. "Roswell incident, on season 8 , episode 2" (<http://www.chedd-angier.com/frontiers/season8.html>). Scientific American Frontiers. Chedd-Angier Production Company. 1997–1998. PBS. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20060000000000/http://www.pbs.org/saf/transcripts/transcript802.htm>) from the original on 2006.
66. Osborn, Michael (April 5, 2006). "Ant and Dec Leap into the Unknown" (<http://news.bbc.co.uk/1/hi/entertainment/4873284.stm>). BBC News. BBC. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20060409115034/http://news.bbc.co.uk/1/hi/entertainment/4873284.stm>) from the original on April 9, 2006. Retrieved February 6, 2013.
67. "Max Headroom Creator Made Roswell Alien" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20080522130808/http://www.timesonline.co.uk/article/0,,2087-2136617,00.html>). The Sunday Times. April 16, 2006. Archived from the original (<http://www.timesonline.co.uk/article/0,,2087-2136617,00.html>) on May 22, 2008. Retrieved February 6, 2013.
68. Philip J. Corso; William J. Birnes (1997). The Day After Roswell (https://archive.org/details/dayafterroswell00cors_0). Pocket Books. ISBN 0-671-00461-1.
69. Klass 1998
70. Bara, Mike (August 28, 2016). Hidden Agenda: NASA and the Secret Space Program (<https://books.google.com/books?id=Q4pXDwAAQBAJ>). SCB Distributors. ISBN 9781939149749 – via Google Books.
71. Thomas 2009
72. "Roswell Theory Revived by Deathbed Confession" (<http://www.news.com.au/top-stories/roswell-theory-revived-by-deathbed-confession/story-e6frfkp9-1111113858718>). The Sunday Telegraph. July 1, 2007. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20130127104605/http://www.news.com.au/top-stories/roswell-theory-revived-by-deathbed-confession/story-e6frfkp9-1111113858718>) from the original on January 27, 2013. Retrieved February 6, 2013.

73. Slater, Wayne (October 27, 2007). "On Texas stop, Democratic Candidate Richardson Criticizes Government Secrecy" (<https://web.archive.org/web/2009012211528/http://www.dallasnews.com/sharedcontent/dws/news/texasouthwest/stories/102707dntextrichardson.3164110.html>). The Dallas Morning News. Archived from the original (<http://www.dallasnews.com/sharedcontent/dws/news/texasouthwest/stories/102707dntextrichardson.3164110.html>) on January 22, 2009. Retrieved February 6, 2013.
74. Harding, Thomas (May 13, 2011). "Roswell 'was Soviet plot to create US panic'" (<https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/newstopics/howaboutthat/ufo/8512408/Roswell-was-Soviet-plot-to-create-US-panic.html>). The Daily Telegraph. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110520225608/http://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/newstopics/howaboutthat/ufo/8512408/Roswell-was-Soviet-plot-to-create-US-panic.html>) from the original on May 20, 2011. Retrieved February 6, 2013.
75. Norris, Robert; Richelson, Jeffrey (July 11, 2011). "Dreamland Fantasies" (<http://www.washingtondecoded.com/site/2011/07/area51.html>). Washington Decoded. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20130305234012/http://www.washingtondecoded.com/site/2011/07/area51.html>) from the original on March 5, 2013. Retrieved February 6, 2013.
76. Rhodes, Richard (2011-06-03). "Annie Jacobsen's "Area 51," the U.S. top-secret military base" (http://www.washingtonpost.com/entertainment/books/annie-jacobsens-area-51-the-us-top-secret-military-base/2011/05/26/AGIZPLIH_story.html). The Washington Post. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20151110044854/https://www.washingtonpost.com/entertainment/books/annie-jacobsens-area-51-the-us-top-secret-military-base/2011/05/26/AGIZPLIH_story.html) from the original on 2015-11-10. Retrieved 2015-11-10.
77. Carpenter, Les (30 September 2017). "The curious case of the alien in the photo and the mystery that took years to solve" (<https://www.theguardian.com/science/2017/sep/30/alien-photo-roswell-new-mexico-mystery>). The Guardian. London. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170930222430/https://www.theguardian.com/science/2017/sep/30/alien-photo-roswell-new-mexico-mystery>) from the original on 30 September 2017. Retrieved 2 October 2017.
78. Neale, Rick (February 8, 2020). "Stranger things?" (<https://www.floridatoday.com/in-depth/news/local/2020/02/06/military-roswell-alien-made-woman-faint-in-1950-patrick-air-force-base-scientist/2831138001/>). Florida Today. Melbourne, Florida. pp. 1A, 8A, 9A. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20200208082017/https://www.floridatoday.com/in-depth/news/local/2020/02/06/military-roswell-alien-made-woman-faint-in-1950-patrick-air-force-base-scientist/2831138001/>) from the original on February 8, 2020. Retrieved February 10, 2020.
79. Joseph 2008, p. 132
80. Pflock 2001, p. 223
81. Korff 1997, p. 248
82. Printy 1999, Chapter 17
83. Saler, Ziegler & Moore 1997, p. 1
84. Saler, Ziegler & Moore 1997, pp. 34–37
85. Pflock 2001, pp. 176–177
86. Berlitz & Moore 1980, pp. 1–168
87. Todd, Robert (December 8, 1995). "Jesse Marcel: Folk Hero or Mythomaniac" (<http://www.roswellfiles.com/pdf/KowPflop120895.pdf>) (PDF). The KowPflop Quarterly. 1 (3): 1–4. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20070111172336/http://www.roswellfiles.com/pdf/KowPflop120895.pdf>) (PDF) from the original on January 11, 2007. Retrieved January 4, 2007.
88. Korff 1997, pp. 77–81
89. Korff 1997, pp. 86–104
90. Korff 1997, pp. 107–108
91. Pflock 2001, p. 118

92. Kottmeyer, Martin. "Entirely Unpre-disposed" (<http://www.debunker.com/texts/unpre-dis.html>). www.debunker.com. Retrieved September 19, 2008. (originally published in "Magonia" magazine, January 1990).
93. Skomorowsky, Anne. "Alien Abduction or "Accidental Awareness"?" (<https://www.scientificamerican.com/article/alien-abduction-or-accidental-awareness/>). Scientific American.
94. Kallen, Stuart A. (August 2011). The Search for Extraterrestrial Life (<https://books.google.com/books?id=WMqgzftbtGEC&pg=PT53>). Capstone. pp. 53–. ISBN 978-1-60152-382-2.
95. Smith, Toby (April 29, 2000). Little Gray Men: Roswell and the Rise of a Popular Culture (<https://books.google.com/books?id=qDnXAAAAMAAJ>). University of New Mexico Press. ISBN 9780826321213 – via Google Books.
96. "In Oil and UFO Country, Obama Says 'I Come in Peace'" (<http://abcnews.go.com/blogs/politics/2012/03/in-oil-and-ufo-country-obama-says-i-come-in-peace>). ABC News.
97. "President Obama Reflects On The Drone Program And "The Illusion That It Is Not War" " (<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=V-Q8MFjIQ2Y>) – via www.youtube.com.
98. "President Obama Admits He Was Briefed on UFO Sightings" (<https://nerdist.com/article/stephen-colt-asks-president-barack-obama-about-ufos/>). Nerdist.
99. Kopan, Tal. "Bill Clinton phones home on aliens" (<https://www.politico.com/story/2014/04/bill-clinton-phones-home-on-aliens-105337>). POLITICO.
00. Simmons, Bill (17 November 2015). "Bill Simmons Interviews President Obama, GQ's 2015 Man of the Year" (<https://www.gq.com/story/president-obama-bill-simmons-interview-gq-men-of-the-year>). Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20171105080323/https://www.gq.com/story/president-obama-bill-simmons-interview-gq-men-of-the-year>) from the original on 5 November 2017. Retrieved 29 October 2017.
01. Madhani, Aamer (19 June 2020). "Trump says he's heard 'interesting' things about Roswell" (<https://www.militarytimes.com/news/pentagon-congress/2020/06/19/trump-says-hes-heard-interesting-things-about-roswell/>). Military Times. Retrieved 28 April 2021.
02. "Poll U.S. Hiding Knowledge of Aliens" (https://web.archive.org/web/20130314070634/http://articles.cnn.com/1997-06-15/us/9706_15_ufo.poll_1_ufo-aliens-crash-site?_s=PM:US). CNN. June 15, 1997. Archived from the original (http://articles.cnn.com/1997-06-15/us/9706_15_ufo.poll_1_ufo-aliens-crash-site?_s=PM:US) on March 14, 2013. Retrieved February 5, 2013.
03. Harding & Stewart 2003, p. 273
04. Saler, Ziegler & Moore 1997, pp. 1–198
05. Nickell, Joe; McGaha, James (May–June 2012). "The Roswellian Syndrome: How Some UFO Myths Develop" (http://www.csicop.org/si/show/the_roswellian_syndrome_how_some_ufo_myths_develop). Skeptical Inquirer. Committee for Skeptical Inquiry. 36 (3). Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20130126110931/http://www.csicop.org/si/show/the_roswellian_syndrome_how_some_ufo_myths_develop/) from the original on January 26, 2013. Retrieved February 6, 2013.
06. Google Books (<https://books.google.com/?newbks=1&hl=en>).
07. Erdmann, Terry J.; Block, Paula M. (April 29, 2000). Deep Space Nine Companion (<https://books.google.com/books?id=kDe3VS07YSMC&pg=PA287>). Simon and Schuster. ISBN 9780671501068 – via Google Books.
08. Carey, Thomas J.; Schmitt, Donald R. (April 29, 2020). Roswell: The Ultimate Cold Case : Eyewitness Testimony and Evidence of Contact and the Cover-up (<https://books.google.com/books?id=hF3dDwAAQBAJ&pg=PA160>). Red Wheel/Weiser. ISBN 9781632651709 – via Google Books.
09. Klaver, Elizabeth (February 1, 2012). Sites of Autopsy in Contemporary Culture (<https://books.google.com/books?id=tUgF9udmFuEC&pg=PA149>). SUNY Press. ISBN 9780791483428 – via Google Books.
10. "Star Trek: Deep Space Nine: "Little Green Men"/"The Sword Of Kahless" " (<https://tv.avclub.com/star-trek-deep-space-nine-little-green-men-the-swo-1798175514>). TV Club.

11. "Top 5 Roswell References in Movies and TV" (<https://entertainment.ie/movies/movie-news/top-5-roswell-references-in-movies-and-tv-243578/>). Entertainment.ie.
12. Carey, Thomas J.; Schmitt, Donald R. (June 20, 2020). Roswell: The Ultimate Cold Case: Eyewitness Testimony and Evidence of Contact and the Cover-Up (<https://books.google.com/books?id=YL-tDwAAQBAJ&pg=PA184>). Red Wheel/Weiser. ISBN 9781632657640 – via Google Books.
13. "Futurama: "Roswell That Ends Well"/"Anthology Of Interest II" " (<https://tv.avclub.com/futurama-roswell-that-ends-well-anthology-of-intere-1798183928>). TV Club.
14. "How an Alien Autopsy Hoax Captured the World's Imagination for a Decade" (<https://time.com/4376871/alien-autopsy-hoax-history/>). Time.

Sources

- Berlitz, Charles; Moore, William (1980). The Roswell Incident (<https://archive.org/details/roswellincident00berl>). Grosset & Dunlap. ISBN 978-0-448-21199-2.
- Carey, Thomas; Schmitt, Donald (2007). Witness to Roswell: Unmasking the 60-Year Cover-Up. New Page Books. ISBN 978-1-56414-943-5.
- Frazier, Kendrick (16 July 2017). "Roswell myth lives on despite the established facts" (<https://www.abqjournal.com/1033584/roswell-myth-lives-on-despite-the-established-facts.html>). Albuquerque Journal.
- Friedman, Stanton; Berliner, Don (1992). Crash at Corona: The U.S. Military Retrieval and Cover-Up of a UFO. Paragon House. ISBN 978-1-55778-449-0.
- Friedman, Stanton (2005). Top Secret/MAJIC : Operation Majestic-12 and the United States Government's UFO Cover-Up. Marlowe & Co. ISBN 978-1-56924-342-8.
- Gildenberg, B.D. (2003). "A Roswell requiem". Skeptic. 10 (1): 60.
- Goldberg, Robert Alan (2001). Chapter 6: The Roswell Incident (<https://books.google.com/books?id=Z8e5YELGGFAC&pg=PA189>). Enemies Within: The Culture of Conspiracy in Modern America. Yale University Press. pp. 189–231. ISBN 978-0-300-13294-6. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20161005205121/https://books.google.com/books?id=Z8e5YELGGFAC&pg=PA189>) from the original on 2016-10-05. Retrieved 2016-03-16.
- Harding, Susan; Stewart, Kathleen (2003). West, Harry G.; Sanders, Todd (eds.). Chapter 9: Anxieties of influence: Conspiracy Theory and Therapeutic Culture in Millennial America (<https://books.google.com/books?id=R7mozEcXubAC&pg=PA258>). Transparency and Conspiracy: Ethnographies of Suspicion in the New World Order. Duke University Press. pp. 258–86. ISBN 0-8223-8485-X. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20161123072124/https://books.google.com/books?id=R7mozEcXubAC&pg=PA258>) from the original on 2016-11-23. Retrieved 2016-03-16.
- Klass, Philip (1997). "The Klass Files" (http://www.csicop.org/specialarticles/show/klass_files_volume_43/). The Skeptics UFO Newsletter. The Committee for Skeptical Inquiry. 43. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20130419004633/http://www.csicop.org/specialarticles/show/klass_files_volume_43/) from the original on 2013-04-19. Retrieved 2013-02-06.
- Klass, Philip (1998). "The Klass Files" (http://www.csicop.org/specialarticles/show/klass_files_volume_49/). The Skeptics UFO Newsletter. The Committee for Skeptical Inquiry. 49. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20131224112933/http://www.csicop.org/specialarticles/show/klass_files_volume_49/) from the original on 2013-12-24. Retrieved 2015-04-07.
- Korff, Kal (1997). The Roswell UFO Crash: What They Don't Want You to Know. Prometheus Books. ISBN 978-1-57392-127-5.
- Joseph, Brad (2008). "Beyond the textbook: studying Roswell in the social studies classroom". Social Studies. 99 (3): 132. doi:10.3200/TSSS.99.3.132-134 (<https://doi.org/10.3200%2FTSSS.99.3.132-134>). S2CID 145375518 (<https://api.semanticscholar.org/CorpusID:145375518>).
- Olmsted, Kathryn S. (2009). Chapter 6: Trust No One: Conspiracies and Conspiracy Theories from the 1970s to the 1990s (<https://books.google.com/books?id=u7Sd5vyOOtEC&pg=PA173>). Real Enemies: Conspiracy Theories and American Democracy, World War I to 9/11. Oxford University Press. pp. 173–204. ISBN 978-0-19-975395-6. Retrieved 2016-03-16.

- Pflock, Karl (2001). Roswell: Inconvenient Facts and the Will to Believe (https://archive.org/details/isbn_9781573928946). Prometheus Books. ISBN 978-1-57392-894-6.
- Printy, Timothy (1999). Roswell 4F: Fabrications, Fumbled Facts, and Fables (<http://home.comcast.net/~tprinty/UFO/Roswell4F.htm>). Timothy Printy. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20130120065845/http://home.comcast.net/~tprinty/UFO/Roswell4F.htm>) from the original on January 20, 2013. Retrieved February 5, 2013.
- Randle, Kevin (1995). Roswell UFO Crash Update: Exposing the Military Cover-Up of the Century. Global Communications. ISBN 978-0-938294-41-2.
- Randle, Kevin; Schmitt, Donald (1991). UFO Crash at Roswell (<https://archive.org/details/ufocrashatroswel00rand>). Avon Books. ISBN 978-0-380-76196-8.
- Randle, Kevin; Schmitt, Donald (1994). The truth about the UFO Crash at Roswell. M Evans. ISBN 978-0-87131-761-2.
- Saler, Benson; Ziegler, Charles; Moore, Charles (1997). UFO Crash at Roswell: The Genesis of a Modern Myth (<https://archive.org/details/ufocrashatroswel00sale>). Smithsonian Institution Press. ISBN 978-1-56098-751-2.
- Thomas, Dave (2009). "Roswell update: fading star?". Skeptical Inquirer. 33 (1): 52.
- Weaver, Richard; McAndrew, James (1995). The Roswell Report: Fact Versus Fiction in the New Mexico Desert (<http://www.afhso.af.mil/shared/media/document/AFD-101201-038.pdf>) (PDF). United States Air Force. ISBN 978-1-4289-9492-8. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20130216035900/http://www.afhso.af.mil/shared/media/document/AFD-101201-038.pdf>) (PDF) from the original on 2013-02-16. Retrieved 2013-07-28.

Further reading

Books, articles

- Broad, William J (18 September 1994). "Wreckage in the Desert Was Odd but Not Alien" (<https://www.nytimes.com/1994/09/18/us/wreckage-in-the-desert-was-odd-but-not-alien.html>). New York Times.
- Sobel D (1995). "The truth about Roswell". Omni. 17 (8): 90.
- Frazier, Kendrick; Karr, Barry; Nickell, Joe (1996). The UFO Invasion: The Roswell Incident, Alien Abductions, and Government Coverups (<https://archive.org/details/ufoinvasionroswe0000unse>). Amherst, N.Y.: Prometheus Books. ISBN 1573921319.

Web resources

- Walker Air Force Base at Roswell online museum (<http://www.wafbmuseum.org/>)

Retrieved from "https://en.wikipedia.org/w/index.php?title=Roswell_incident&oldid=1027368899"

This page was last edited on 7 June 2021, at 14:34 (UTC).

Text is available under the Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike License; additional terms may apply. By using this site, you agree to the Terms of Use and Privacy Policy. Wikipedia® is a registered trademark of the Wikimedia Foundation, Inc., a non-profit organization.

Lost Cosmonauts

The Lost Cosmonauts or Phantom Cosmonauts are subjects of a conspiracy theory alleging that some Soviet cosmonauts went to outer space, but their existence has never been publicly acknowledged by either the Soviet or Russian space authorities. Proponents of the Lost Cosmonauts theory argue that the Soviet Union attempted to launch human spaceflights before Yuri Gagarin's first spaceflight, and the cosmonauts onboard died in those attempts. Another cosmonaut, Vladimir Ilyushin, has been the subject of allegations to have landed off course and been held by the Chinese government. The Government of the Soviet Union supposedly suppressed this information, to prevent bad publicity during the height of the Cold War.

The evidence cited to support Lost Cosmonaut theories is generally regarded as inconclusive, and several cases have been confirmed as hoaxes. In the 1980s, American journalist James Oberg researched space-related disasters in the Soviet Union, but found no evidence of these Lost Cosmonauts.^[1] Since the fall of the Soviet Union in the early 1990s, much previously restricted information has been made available, including information on Valentin Bondarenko, a would-be cosmonaut, whose death during training on Earth was covered up by the Soviet government. Even with the availability of published Soviet archival material and memoirs of Russian space pioneers, no evidence has emerged to support the Lost Cosmonaut theories.

Contents

Allegations

Purported Czech information leak

High-altitude equipment tests

Robert Heinlein

The Torre Bert recordings

Vladimir Ilyushin

Moon-shot allegations

Other allegations

Confirmed hoaxes

Ivan Istochnikov

Andrei Mikoyan

In popular culture

See also

References

Inline citations

General references

External links

Allegations

Purported Czech information leak

In December 1959, an alleged high-ranking Czech Communist leaked information about many purported unofficial space shots. Alexei Ledovsky was mentioned as being launched inside a converted R-5A rocket. Three more names of alleged cosmonauts claimed to have perished under similar circumstances were Andrei Mitkov, Sergei Shiborin and Maria Gromova.^[2] In December 1959, the Italian news agency Continendale repeated the claims that a series of cosmonaut deaths on suborbital flights had been revealed by a high-ranking Czech communist. Continendale identified the cosmonauts as Alexei Ledovsky, Serenty Schriborin, Andrei Mitkow, and Maria Gromova.^[3] No other evidence of Soviet sub-orbital crewed flights ever came to light.^[2]

High-altitude equipment tests

A 1959 edition of Ogoniok published an article and photos of three high-altitude parachutists: Colonel Pyotr Dolgov, Ivan Kachur, and Alexey Grachov. Official records state that Dolgov was killed on November 1, 1962, while carrying out a high-altitude parachute jump from a Volga balloon gondola. Dolgov jumped at an altitude of 28,640 metres (93,960 ft). The helmet visor of Dolgov's Sokol space suit hit part of the gondola as he exited, depressurizing the suit and killing him.^[4] Kachur is known to have disappeared around this time; his name has become linked to this equipment.^[4] Grachov is thought to have been involved, with Dolgov and Kachur, in testing the high-altitude equipment. Russian journalist Yaroslav Golovanov suggested that high-altitude testing was exaggerated into a story that those parachutists died on a space flight.^[4] In late 1959, Ogoniok carried pictures of a man identified as Gennady Zavadovsky testing high-altitude equipment (perhaps with Grachov and others). Zavadovsky would later appear on lists of dead cosmonauts, without a date of death or accident description.^[4]

Golovanov, who researched the lost cosmonaut claims in his book, "Cosmonaut #1", found and interviewed the real Alexey Timofeyevich Belokonov, a retired high-altitude parachutist. In this interview, Belokonov revealed more about his colleagues Dolgov, Kachur, Mikhailov, Grachov, Zavadovsky and Ilyushin, and confirmed they never flew to space. According to Belokonov, in 1963, after New York Journal American published an article on lost cosmonauts, listing the parachutists among them, Soviet newspapers Izvestia and Krasnaya Zvezda published a refutation that included testimonies and photographs of the actual parachutists Belokonov, Kachur, Grachov and Zavadovsky. The parachutists also wrote an angry letter to New York Journal American editor William Randolph Hearst, Jr., which he ignored.^[4]

Robert Heinlein

In 1960, science fiction author Robert A. Heinlein wrote in his article Pravda means 'Truth' (reprinted in Expanded Universe) that on May 15, 1960, while traveling in Vilnius, in the Soviet Lithuania, he was told by Red Army cadets that the Soviet Union had launched a human into orbit that day, but later the same day, it was denied by officials. Heinlein speculated that Korabl-Sputnik 1 was an orbital launch, later said to be uncrewed, and that the retro-rockets had fired in the wrong attitude, making recovery efforts unsuccessful.^[5]

According to Gagarin's biography, these rumours were likely started as a result of two Vostok missions equipped with dummies (Ivan Ivanovich) and human voice tape recordings (to test if the radio worked) that were made just prior to Gagarin's flight.^[6]

In a U.S. press conference on February 23, 1962, colonel Barney Oldfield revealed that an uncrewed space capsule had indeed been orbiting the Earth since 1960, as it had become jammed into its booster rocket.^[7] According to the NASA NSSDC Master Catalog, Korabl Sputnik 1, designated at the time 1KP or Vostok 1P, did launch on May 15, 1960 (one year before Gagarin).^[8] It was a prototype of the later Zenit and Vostok launch vehicles. The onboard TDU (Braking Engine Unit) had ordered the retro-rockets to fire to recover, but due to a malfunction of the attitude control system, the spacecraft was oriented upside-down, and the firing put the craft into a higher orbit. The re-entry capsule lacked a heat shield as there were no plans to recover it. Engineers had planned to use the vessel's telemetry data to determine if the guidance system had functioned correctly, so recovery was unnecessary.^[9]

The Torre Bert recordings

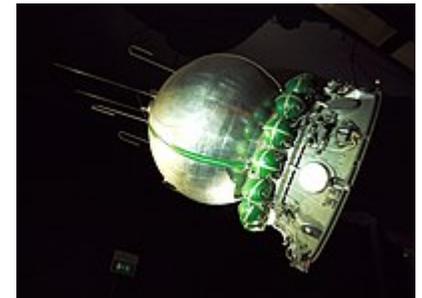

The Judica-Cordiglia brothers are two Italian former amateur radio operators who made audio recordings that allegedly support the conspiracy theory that the Soviet space program covered up cosmonaut deaths in the 1960s. The pair claimed to have acquired recordings of several secret Soviet space missions that ended in tragedy and mystery. This has generated public interest for more than 50 years,^[10] despite there being a large number of detailed rebuttals to the brothers' claims.^[11]

The two brothers

Vladimir Ilyushin

Major General Vladimir Sergeyevich Ilyushin (Russian: Владимир Сергеевич Ильюшин; 31 March 1927 – 1 March 2010) was a Soviet general and test pilot, and the son of aerospace engineer Sergei Ilyushin.^[12] He spent most of his career as a test pilot for the Sukhoi OKB (a rival of Ilyushin OKB.) Ilyushin was also a rugby union administrator who was inducted into the World Rugby Hall of Fame (then known as the IRB Hall of Fame) in 2013.^[13]

The brothers claimed to have recorded messages from secret missions during the Soviet Vostok program in the early 1960s.

Two days before Gagarin's launch on 12 April 1961, Dennis Ogden wrote in the Western Communist newspaper the Daily Worker that the Soviet Union's announcement that Ilyushin had been involved in a serious car crash was really a cover story for an 7 April 1961 orbital spaceflight gone wrong.^[14] A similar story was told by French broadcaster Eduard Bobrovsky, but his version had the launch occurring in March, resulting in Ilyushin slipping into a coma.^[14] NORAD tracking stations, however, had no record of any such launch.^[14] Later that year, U.S. News & World Report transmitted the rumor by claiming that Gagarin had never flown, and was merely a stand-in for the sickened Ilyushin.^[15] The 1999 film The Cosmonaut Cover-Up takes the position that Ilyushin was the first man in space and discusses the alleged cover-up in detail. They claim, "According to recently declassified documents, Ilyushin was placed in a capsule named Rossiya, and the secret flight took place in the early hours of the morning, on Friday April 7th 1961". After a guidance malfunction, the cosmonaut is reported to have made an unguided crash landing in China, too critically injured to announce the mission a complete success.^[16] The 2009 film Fallen Idol: The Yuri Gagarin Conspiracy also takes the same position and further discusses US efforts to continue the allegation, even citing national security not to release information under the Freedom of Information Act. The data sought was from the CIA tracking station at Tern Island that supposedly covered and recorded Ilyushin's failed mission.

According to Mark Wade, editor of the space history web site Encyclopedia Astronautica, "The entire early history of the Soviet manned space program has been declassified and we have piles of memoirs of cosmonauts, engineers, etc., who participated. We know who was in the original cosmonaut team, who never flew, was dismissed, or was killed in ground tests. Ilyushin is not one of them."^[17]

Moon-shot allegations

The Soviet Union lost the crewed Moon-landing phase of the space race to the United States. However, some sources claim that just before the historic Apollo 11 flight to the Moon, the Soviets undertook an adventurous attempt to beat the Americans. Despite the unsuccessful first test launch of the new Soviet N1 rocket on 20 January 1969, it is alleged that a decision was made to send a crewed Soyuz 7K-L3 craft to the Moon using an N1. This attempt is alleged to have occurred on 3 July 1969, when it ended in an explosion, destroying the launch pad and killing the cosmonauts on board. Official sources state that the L3 was not ready for crewed missions. Its lunar lander, the LK, had been tested a few times but its orbiter, the 7K-LOK, had not been successfully tested by the closing of the Moon-landing program at the end of 1974. The closing of the program was officially denied and maintained top secret until 1990 when the government allowed them to be published under the policy of glasnost.

This claim correlates with the late hoax about the unsuccessful Moon-shot flight of Andrei Mikoyan. However, in reality, the second launch, like the first, was a test of the booster and was therefore uncrewed. Even if cosmonauts had been on board, they would have been rescued by its launch escape system, which carried the dummy payload to safety 2 km (1.2 mi) from the pad.^[18]

Other allegations

In 1959, pioneering space theoretician Hermann Oberth claimed that a pilot had been killed on a sub-orbital ballistic flight from Kapustin Yar in early 1958. He provided no source for the story.^[3]

There are also rumors, which appeared later in Omon Ra, a novel by Russian fiction writer Pelevin, that the Soviet automatic sample-return craft Luna and remote-controlled automatic Moon rover Lunokhod, were, due to failures in automation, crewed by cosmonauts who had agreed to take part in suicide missions. However, there is not enough space in either the Luna or Lunokhod for a single cosmonaut, even excluding any life support systems. There had been a plan to develop modified Lunokhods with additional controls for use as a transport in crewed Moon-landing missions but this plan ended with the Soviet crewed lunar programs.

Confirmed hoaxes

Ivan Istochnikov

Officially Soyuz 2 was an uncrewed spacecraft that was the docking target for Soyuz 3. However, Mike Arena, an American journalist, allegedly found in 1993 that an 'Ivan Istochnikov' and his dog 'Kloka', who were manning Soyuz 2, disappeared on October 26, 1968, with signs of having been hit by a meteorite. They had been "erased" from history by the Soviet authorities, who could not tolerate such a failure.^[19]

The entire story was found to be a hoax perpetrated by Joan Fontcuberta^[20] as a 'modern art exercise' that included falsified mission artifacts, various digitally manipulated images, and immensely detailed feature-length biographies that turned out to be riddled with hundreds of historical as well as technical errors. The exhibit was shown in Madrid in 1997 and the National Museum of Catalan Art in 1998. Brown University later purchased several articles, and put them on display themselves.

Mexico's Luna Cornea magazine however, failed to notice this, and ran issue number 14 (January/April 1998) with photos, and a story explaining the "truth".^[21]

Several lines of evidence available since the first exhibition of "Sputnik" in 1997 in Madrid suggested that the story and artifacts form an elaborate hoax:

- The name "Ivan Istochnikov" is a Russian translation of Joan Fontcuberta's name; in specific, "Joan" and "Ivan" both translate to "John"^{[22][23]} and "Fontcuberta" and "Istochnikov" both mean "hidden fountain".
- The photographs of Istochnikov show Fontcuberta's face.
- Pages of the official website of the Madrid exhibition contain the words "PURE FICTION" toward the top of each page in light red text on a dark red background ^[24] or light pink text on a white background.^[25]
- The front and rear endpapers of the catalog accompanying the Madrid exhibition have the words "it's all fiction" in Russian and Spanish printed on them using glow-in-the-dark ink.^[26]
- At the website of Spanish newspaper El Mundo, the third of three pages concerning the Madrid exhibition states that "the report which we published on the previous pages is a product of his [Fontcuberta's] imagination".^[27]

Andrei Mikoyan

Andrei Mikoyan was reportedly killed together with a second crew member in an attempt to reach the Moon ahead of the Americans in early 1969. Due to system malfunction, they failed to get into lunar orbit and shot past the Moon.^[28]

This story, which circulated in 2000, may have been based on the plot of an episode of the television series The Cape. The episode "Buried in Peace" first aired on October 28, 1996. In it, a Space Shuttle crew on a mission to repair a communications satellite encounters a derelict Soviet spacecraft with a dead crew—the result of a secret attempt to beat the United States to the Moon in the 1960s. Tom Nowicki played Major Andrei Mikoyan, a Russian member of the Space Shuttle crew in the story.^[28]

In popular culture

- The May 1987 issue #121 (page 74-79) of Dragon Magazine features "Operation: Zodiac", an article by Merle M. Rasmussen, creator of the Top Secret role-playing game, Jackie Rasmussen & Roger E. Moore, a follow on to "Operation: Zenith" which appeared in issue 120, this includes the scenario "Code Name: Cancer", wherein a space shuttle crew is sent to rendezvous with a Soviet Cosmos satellite launched in 1963, they discover that the satellite was in fact a modified Vostok designed to deliver a nuclear payload; the cosmonaut aboard died when his life support system was exhausted following a launch into a higher than planned orbit.
- The July 1987 issue #123 (pp. 82–86) of Dragon Magazine features the article "Operation: Zondraker, Part 2", also by Rasmussen, which includes the scenario "Code Name: Starfall", wherein a team of agents explores the site of the failed Luna 15 lander, discovering that it was a crewed mission, with two cosmonauts; one died instantly in the crash (identified as Nikolai L. Kuzmin), while the other, unidentified, cosmonaut died later as his oxygen supply ran out.

- A 1989 installment of Philip Bond's "Wired World", published in the UK comics anthology Deadline magazine, features a cosmonaut who crash-lands in a London park where the main characters are picnicking.
- Victor Pelevin's anti-Soviet 1992 novel Omon Ra is based on depictions of Soviet space flights as a planned homicide. Some of these "flights" are also not really flights, but fakes for the sake of Soviet propaganda.
- On page 7 of the September 21, 1993 issue of the US tabloid Sun, Mike Jones authored an article titled "LOST IN SPACE" describing several cosmonaut deaths in space according to government spokesman Igor Ivanov: In 1988 (5 years earlier) Cosmonaut Nikolai Gogolansky died in his failed space suit during an EVA in which his mooring line failed, which sparked 8 unsuccessful attempts to retrieve the body, nearly causing Vasily Bordonsky to perish also due to a mooring line break, while an unnamed NASA spokesman states US shuttle mission astronauts have noticed Gogolansky's body during several missions with no attempt to recover it due to risks and cost; two cosmonauts died during a 1968 launch; another cosmonaut died when their capsule "exploded on impact as it was returning to Earth"; three cosmonauts were killed in 1981 when their spacesuits were pierced by space debris during space walks; and four cosmonauts died due to a faulty air lock in 1984, prompting a second docking mission two months later to recover the dead.
- The 2004 video game Metal Gear Solid 3: Snake Eater has a boss known as The Fury who was a cosmonaut sent into space before Gagarin, and whose shuttle was engulfed in flames upon re-entry. He survived with severe burns and a newly-found sense of pyromania; his boss fight consequently involves the use of fire.
- The 2005 mockumentary First on the Moon describes the preparations and training for a Soviet moonshot in 1938, as well as the following cover-up.
- The 2007 Jed Mercurio novel Ascent features a cosmonaut who makes a successful – albeit suicidal – moon landing ahead of the Apollo landings.
- In 2010 the Canadian band Wolf Parade released a song titled "Yulia", which lead singer Dan Boeckner confirmed in an interview as recounting a lost cosmonaut.^[29]
- The 2011 science fiction / horror film Apollo 18, which depicts a secret lunar mission by NASA in 1974, depicts astronauts discovering a Soviet cosmonaut who was killed by spider-like aliens hidden on the Moon along with an LK lander.
- Michael Cassutt's book Red Moon features a cosmonaut named Shiborin who flew on two space flights; one of the early Lost Cosmonaut stories was of an ill-fated suborbital mission in 1958 prior to Gagarin's flight supposedly crewed by a Serenti Shiborin.

See also

- List of spaceflight-related accidents and incidents

References

Inline citations

1. See Oberg's Uncovering Soviet Disasters (1988) ISBN 0-394-56095-7, 156–76
2. The first Soviet cosmonaut team: their lives, legacy, and historical impact (<https://books.google.com/books?id=rrdVPtCNL9AC>), p. 226. Colin Burgess, Rex Hall. Springer. ISBN 978-0-387-84823-5 (2009)

3. "Oberth Believes Astronauts Lost" (<https://news.google.com/newspapers?id=2KIfAAAAIIBAJ&sjid=49UEAAAAIIBAJ&pg=6081,1801807>), Gadsden Times – Associated Press, December 10, 1959
4. Yaroslav Golovanov Cosmonaut #1, Izvestia, 1986.
5. Heinlein, Robert A. "The Future Revisited" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090522083740/http://www.firearmsrights.com/rah1961.htm>). Firearmsrights.Com. Archived from the original (<http://www.firearmsrights.com/rah1961.htm>) on 22 May 2009. Retrieved 20 December 2014.
6. Bizony, Piers (1998). Starman: Truth Behind the Legend of Yuri Gagarin. Bloomsbury. ISBN 0-7475-3688-0.
7. "Soviets May Have Corpse in Orbit" (<https://cdnc.ucr.edu/cgi-bin/cdnc?a=d&d=SCS19620223.1.20>). Santa Cruz Sentinel. 106 (46). 23 February 1962. p. 20 col. 7 – via California Digital Newspaper Collection.
8. "Sputnik 4" (<https://nssdc.gsfc.nasa.gov/nmc/spacecraft/display.action?id=1960-005A>). National Space Science Data Center. NASA. Retrieved 12 August 2009.
9. Asif Siddiqi, "Sputnik and the Soviet Space Challenge", 2000, p. 251
10. "Lost in Space" (http://www.forteanimes.com/features/articles/1302/lost_in_space.html). Fortean Times. July 2008. Retrieved 8 June 2013.
11. "Lost Cosmonaut Rumors" (<http://www.aerospaceweb.org/question/conspiracy/q0235.shtml>). aerospaceweb.org. Retrieved 8 June 2013.
12. Wade, Mark. "Ilyushin" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20050109091102/http://www.astronautix.com/astros/ilyushin.htm>). Archived from the original (<http://www.astronautix.com/astros/ilyushin.htm>) on 9 January 2005.
13. "Ilyushin first Russian in IRB Hall of Fame" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20130516013903/http://www.irb.com/history/halloffame/newsid%3D2065514.html>) (Press release). International Rugby Board. 28 February 2013. Archived from the original (<http://www.irb.com/history/halloffame/newsid=2065514.html>) on 16 May 2013. Retrieved 18 March 2013.
14. Hall, Rex (2001). The Rocket Men: Vostok & Voskhod, the First Soviet Manned Spaceflights (<https://books.google.com/books?id=zndYLKa26wAC&q=Vladimir+Ilyushin&pg=PA145>) (illustrated ed.). Springer. p. 145. ISBN 1-85233-391-X. Retrieved 23 February 2009.
15. Политолог Вячеслав Никонов: «Дед признавал, что в 37-м дров наломал» (<http://www.bulvar.com.ua/arch/2010/44/4cd1460120c14>).
16. "The Cosmonaut Cover-Up" (<https://www.imdb.com/title/tt1186999/>). 5 August 1999 – via IMDb.
17. "Ilyushin Feedback" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20130928123833/http://www.myhero.com/explorers/feedback.asp>). The My Hero Project. Archived from the original (<http://www.myhero.com/explorers/feedback.asp>) on 28 September 2013.
18. Siddiqi, Asif (2003). The Soviet Space Race with Apollo (<https://books.google.com/books?id=2rJ4QgAACAAJ&pg=PA688>). University Press of Florida. pp. 688–91. ISBN 0-8130-2628-8.
19. Ivan Istochnikov: El cosmonauta fantasma (<http://www.el-mundo.es/magazine/num84/textos/cosmo.html>), El Mundo Magazine, May 25, 1997. Following the links, we find the announcement (<http://www.el-mundo.es/magazine/num84/textos/semana.html#expo>) of the Fontcuberta exposition.
20. Sputnik Foundation (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110522142710/http://www.fundacion.telefonica.com/es/at/esputnik.html>). Notice the "PURE FICTION" text in red text over a red background.
21. Istochnikov (<http://www.astronautix.com/astros/istnikov.htm>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20080515202623/http://www.astronautix.com/astros/istnikov.htm>) 2008-05-15 at the Wayback Machine at the Encyclopedia Astronautica.
22. English Catalan Dictionary. (<http://www.diccionaris.net/>) Retrieved 1 July 2008
23. Online Etymology Dictionary: Ivan (<http://www.etymonline.com/index.php?term=ivan>) Retrieved 1 July 2008

24. Sputnik Foundation (<http://www.fundacion.telefonica.com/at/esputnik.html>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20080605182703/http://www.fundacion.telefonica.com/at/esputnik.html>) 5 June 2008 at the Wayback Machine "From May 21st to July 20th, 1997" Retrieved 1 July 2008
25. Texts from the SPUTNIK catalog. (<http://www.fundacion.telefonica.com/at/esputnik1.html>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20080821200355/http://www.fundacion.telefonica.com/at/esputnik1.html>) 21 August 2008 at the Wayback Machine Retrieved 1 July 2008
26. Kondakova, Olga, et al., Sputnik, Madrid: Fundación Arte y Tecnología, 1997 ISBN 84-89884-00-5
27. Pérez de Albéniz, Javier, El cosmonauta fantasma (<http://www.el-mundo.es/magazine/num84/textos/cosmo.html>) El Mundo magazine, 25 May 1997, Retrieved 1 July 2008
28. Wade, Mark (2017). "Phantom Cosmonaut: Mikoyan, Andrei" (<http://www.astronautix.com/m/mikoyanandrei.html>). Encyclopedia Astronautica. Retrieved 7 January 2018.
29. "Matson on Music I Interview: Wolf Parade's Dan Boeckner explains "Yulia" from "Expo 86" I Seattle Times Newspaper" (http://seattletimes.com/html/matsononmusic/2012397799_interview_wolf_parades_dan_boe.html). Seattletimes.com. 19 July 2010. Retrieved 18 June 2014.

General references

- Encyclopedia Astronautica: Phantom cosmonauts (<http://www.astronautix.com/p/phantomcosmonaut.html>)
- James Oberg (1988). Uncovering Soviet Disasters: Exploring the Limits of Glasnost, Random House, ISBN 0-394-56095-7
- Yaroslav Golovanov Cosmonaut #1, Izvestia, 1986.
- Pavel Toufar, 2002/2003, Kruty vesmir, Akcent, ISBN 80-7268-245-8, 58–258
- Pavel Toufar, 2001, Vzestup a pad Jurije Gagarina, Regia, ISBN 80-86367-11-8
- Alexander Zheleznyakov, Gagarin was still the first (http://www.cosmoworld.ru/spaceencyclopedia/publications/index.shtml?zhelez_20.html) (same in Russian (<http://www.astronaut.ru/bookcase/article/article72.htm>))
- Komsomolskaya pravda newspaper (in Russian) (<http://www.kp.ru/daily/23542/41928/>)
- A.Pervushin "Terrible secret" of soviet space (in Russian) (<http://epizodsspace.narod.ru/bibl/pervushin/fantomy/str-t.html>)
- Uchitelskaya gazeta (in Russian) (<http://www.ug.ru/issues/?action=topic&toid=1281>)
- Ren-TV story (in Russian) (<http://corazon.at.ua/forum/18-51-1>)

External links

- Phantom cosmonauts (<http://www.astronautix.com/p/phantomcosmonaut.html>). Encyclopedia Astronautica
- The Lost Cosmonaut project (<https://beatsigner.com/the-lost-cosmonaut.html>)
- Straight Dope on "lost" cosmonauts (<http://www.straightdope.com/columns/030117.html>)
- Oberg chapter on Dead Cosmonauts (<http://www.jamesoberg.com/usd10.html>)
- The Lost Cosmonauts web site with the audio recordings (<http://www.lostcosmonauts.net>)
- The Lost Cosmonauts web site archived from 2018 (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180309024742/http://www.lostcosmonauts.net/>)
- Dunning, Brian (19 August 2008). "Skeptoid #115: Search for Missing Cosmonauts" (<https://skeptoid.com/episodes/4115>). Skeptoid.

Retrieved from "https://en.wikipedia.org/w/index.php?title=Lost_Cosmonauts&oldid=1024745206"

This page was last edited on 23 May 2021, at 21:59 (UTC).

Text is available under the Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike License; additional terms may apply. By using this site, you agree to the Terms of Use and Privacy Policy. Wikipedia® is a registered trademark of the Wikimedia Foundation, Inc., a non-profit organization.

Moon landing conspiracy theories

Moon landing conspiracy theories claim that some or all elements of the Apollo program and the associated Moon landings were hoaxes staged by NASA, possibly with the aid of other organizations. The most notable claim is that the six crewed landings (1969–1972) were faked and that twelve Apollo astronauts did not actually walk on the Moon. Various groups and individuals have made claims since the mid-1970s that NASA and others knowingly misled the public into believing the landings happened, by manufacturing, tampering with, or destroying evidence including photos, telemetry tapes, radio and TV transmissions, and Moon rock samples.

Much third-party evidence for the landings exists, and detailed rebuttals to the hoax claims have been made.^[1] Since the late 2000s, high-definition photos taken by the Lunar Reconnaissance Orbiter (LRO) of the Apollo landing sites have captured the Lunar Module descent stages and the tracks left by the astronauts.^{[2][3]} In 2012, images were released showing five of the six Apollo missions' American flags erected on the Moon still standing. The exception is that of Apollo 11, which has lain on the lunar surface since being blown over by the Lunar Module Ascent Propulsion System.^{[4][5]}

Conspiracists have managed to sustain public interest in their theories for more than 40 years, despite the rebuttals and third-party evidence. Opinion polls taken in various locations have shown that between 6% and 20% of Americans, 25% of Britons, and 28% of Russians surveyed believe that the crewed landings were faked. Even as late as 2001, the Fox television network documentary Conspiracy Theory: Did We Land on the Moon? claimed NASA faked the first landing in 1969 to win the Space Race.^[6]

Astronauts Buzz Aldrin and Neil Armstrong in NASA's training mockup of the Moon and the Apollo Lunar Module. Conspiracy theorists say that the films of the missions were made using sets similar to this training mockup.

Contents

Origins

Claimed motives of the United States and NASA

Space Race

NASA funding and prestige

Vietnam War

Hoax claims and rebuttals

Number of conspirators involved

Photographic and film oddities

Environment

Mechanical issues

Transmissions

Missing data

Tapes

Blueprints

NASA technology compared to USSR

Technology used by NASA

Deaths of NASA personnel

NASA response

Alleged Stanley Kubrick involvement

Academic work

MythBusters special

Third-party evidence of Moon landings

Imaging the landing sites

Moon rocks

Missions tracked by independent parties

Retroreflectors

Public opinion

See also

Notes

Citations

References

Further reading

External links

Television specials

Origins

An early and influential book about the subject of a Moon-landing conspiracy, We Never Went to the Moon: America's Thirty Billion Dollar Swindle, was self-published in 1976 by Bill Kaysing, a former US Navy officer with a Bachelor of Arts in English.^[7] Despite having no knowledge of rockets or technical writing,^[8] Kaysing was hired as a senior technical writer in 1956 by Rocketdyne, the company that built the F-1 engines used on the Saturn V rocket.^{[9][10]} He served as head of the technical publications unit at the company's Propulsion Field Laboratory until 1963. The many allegations in Kaysing's book effectively began discussion of the Moon landings being faked.^{[11][12]} The book claims that the chance of a successful crewed landing on the Moon was calculated to be 0.0017%, and that despite close monitoring by the USSR, it would have been easier for NASA to fake the Moon landings than to really go there.^{[13][14]}

In 1980, the Flat Earth Society accused NASA of faking the landings, arguing that they were staged by Hollywood with Walt Disney sponsorship, based on a script by Arthur C. Clarke and directed by Stanley Kubrick.^{[a][15]} Folklorist Linda Dégh suggests that writer-director Peter Hyams' film Capricorn One (1978), which shows a hoaxed journey to Mars in a spacecraft that looks identical to the Apollo craft, might have given a boost to the hoax theory's popularity in the post-Vietnam War era. Dégh sees a parallel with other attitudes during the post-Watergate era, when the American public were inclined to distrust official accounts. Dégh writes: "The mass media catapult these half-truths into a kind of twilight zone where people can make their guesses sound as truths. Mass media have a terrible impact on people who lack guidance."^[16] In A Man on the Moon,^[17] first published in 1994, Andrew Chaikin mentions that at the time of Apollo 8's lunar-orbit mission in December 1968,^[18] similar conspiracy ideas were already in circulation.^[19]

Claimed motives of the United States and NASA

Those who believe the Moon landings were faked give several theories about the motives of NASA and the United States government. The three main theories are below.

Space Race

Motivation for the United States to engage the Soviet Union in a Space Race can be traced to the then on-going Cold War. Landing on the Moon was viewed as a national and technological accomplishment that would generate world-wide acclaim. But going to the Moon would be risky and expensive, as exemplified by President John F. Kennedy famously stating in a 1962 speech that the United States chose to go because it was hard.^[20]

Hoax theory debunker Phil Plait says in his 2002 book Bad Astronomy,^[b] that the Soviets – with their own competing Moon program, an extensive intelligence network and a formidable scientific community able to analyze NASA data – would have 'cried foul' if the United States tried to fake a Moon landing,^[21] especially since their own program had failed. Proving a hoax would have been a huge propaganda win for the Soviets. Instead, far from calling the landings a hoax, the third edition (1970-1979) of the Great Soviet Encyclopedia (which was translated into English between 1974 and 1983 by Macmillan Publishers, and was later made available online by TheFreeDictionary.com^[22]) contained many articles reporting the landings as factual, such as this article on Neil Armstrong.^[23] Indeed their article on space exploration describes the Apollo 11 landing as "the third historic event" of the space age, following the launch of Sputnik in 1957, and Yuri Gagarin's flight in 1961.^[24]

Conspiracist Bart Sibrel responded, incorrectly asserting that, "the Soviets did not have the capability to track deep space craft until late in 1972, immediately after which, the last three Apollo missions were abruptly canceled."^[25]

In fact, the Soviets had been sending uncrewed spacecraft to the Moon since 1959,^[26] and "during 1962, deep space tracking facilities were introduced at IP-15 in Ussuriisk and IP-16 in Evpatoria (Crimean Peninsula), while Saturn communication stations were added to IP-3, 4 and 14,"^[27] the latter having a 100 million km (62 million mi) range.^[28] The Soviet Union tracked the Apollo missions at the Space Transmissions Corps, which was "fully equipped with the latest intelligence-gathering and surveillance equipment."^[29] Vasily Mishin, in an interview for the article "The Moon Programme That Faltered," describes how the Soviet Moon program dwindled after the Apollo landings.^[30]

Also, there was nothing "abrupt" about the Apollo cancellations, which were made for cost-cutting reasons. These were announced in January and September 1970,^[31] two full years before the "late 1972" claimed by Sibrel.^[32] (See Vietnam War below.)

NASA funding and prestige

Conspiracy theorists claim that NASA faked the landings to avoid humiliation and to ensure that it continued to get funding. NASA raised "about US$30 billion" to go to the Moon, and Kaysing claimed in his book that this could have been used to "pay off" many people.^[33] Since most conspiracists believe that sending men to the Moon was impossible at the time,^[34] they argue that landings had to be faked to fulfill Kennedy's 1961 goal, "before this decade is out, of landing a man on the Moon and returning him safely to the Earth."^[35] In fact, NASA accounted for the cost of Apollo to the US Congress in 1973, totaling US$25.4 billion.^[36]

Mary Bennett and David Percy have claimed in the 2001 book Dark Moon: Apollo and the Whistle-Blowers, that, with all the known and unknown hazards,^[37] NASA would not risk broadcasting an astronaut getting sick or dying on live television.^[38] The counter-argument generally given is that NASA in fact did incur a great deal of public humiliation and potential political opposition to the program by losing an entire crew in the Apollo 1 fire during a ground test, leading to its upper management team being questioned by Senate and House of Representatives space oversight committees.^[39] There was in fact no video broadcast during either the landing or takeoff because of technological limitations.^[40]

Vietnam War

The American Patriot Friends Network claimed in 2009 that the landings helped the United States government distract public attention from the unpopular Vietnam War, and so crewed landings suddenly ended about the same time that the United States ended its involvement in the war.^[41] In fact, the ending of the landings was not "sudden" (see The Space Race above). The war was one of several federal budget items with which NASA had to compete; NASA's budget peaked in 1966, and fell by 42.3% by 1972.^[42] This was the reason the final flights were cut, along with plans for even more ambitious follow-on programs such as a permanent space station and crewed flight to Mars.^[43]

Hoax claims and rebuttals

Many Moon-landing conspiracy theories have been put forward, claiming either that the landings did not happen and that NASA employees have lied, or that the landings did happen but not in the way that has been told. Conspiracists have focused on perceived gaps or inconsistencies in the historical record of the missions. The foremost idea is that the whole crewed landing program was a hoax from start to end. Some claim that the technology to send men to the Moon was lacking or that the Van Allen radiation belts, solar flares, solar wind, coronal mass ejections and cosmic rays made such a trip impossible.^[11]

Vince Calder and Andrew Johnson, scientists from Argonne National Laboratory, have given detailed answers to conspiracists' claims on the laboratory's website.^[44] They show that NASA's portrayal of the Moon landing is fundamentally accurate, allowing for such common mistakes as mislabeled photos and imperfect personal recollections. Using the scientific process, any hypothesis that is contradicted by the observable facts may be rejected. The 'real landing' hypothesis is a single story since it comes from a single source, but there is no unity in the hoax hypothesis because hoax accounts vary between conspiracists.^[45]

Number of conspirators involved

According to James Longuski, the conspiracy theories are impossible because of their size and complexity. The conspiracy would have to involve more than 400,000 people who worked on the Apollo project for nearly ten years, the 12 men who walked on the Moon, the six others who flew with them as command module pilots, and another six astronauts who orbited the Moon.^[c] Hundreds of thousands of people—including astronauts, scientists, engineers, technicians, and skilled laborers—would have had to keep the secret. Longuski argues that it would have been much easier to really land on the Moon than to generate such a huge conspiracy to fake the landings.^{[46][47]} To date, nobody from the United States government or NASA linked to the Apollo program has said the Moon landings were hoaxes. Penn Jillette made note of this in the "Conspiracy Theories" episode of his television show Penn & Teller: Bullshit! in 2005.^[48] With the number of people involved, and noting the Watergate scandal, Jillette noted that someone would have outed the hoax by now.

One rebuttal by Sibrel to this claim is that NASA had compartmentalized all of the work on the Apollo program. This would have allowed for only a small number of people to actually know the truth about faking the Moon landings.^[49]

Photographic and film oddities

Moon-landing conspiracists focus heavily on NASA photos. They point to oddities in photos and films taken on the Moon. Photography experts (including those unrelated to NASA) have replied that the oddities are consistent with what should be expected from a real Moon landing, and are not consistent with tweaked or studio imagery. Some main arguments and counter-arguments are listed below.

1. In some photos, the crosshairs appear to be behind objects. The cameras were fitted with a Réseau plate (a clear glass plate with a reticle etched on), making it impossible for any photographed object to appear "in front" of the grid. Conspiracists often use this evidence to suggest that objects were "pasted" over the photographs, and hence obscure the reticle.

- This effect only appears in copied and scanned photos, not any originals. It is caused by overexposure: the bright white areas of the emulsion "bleed" over the thin black crosshairs. The crosshairs are only about 0.004 inches thick (0.1 mm) and emulsion would only have to bleed about half that much to fully obscure it. Furthermore, there are many photos where the middle of the crosshair is "washed-out" but the rest is intact. In some photos of the American flag, parts of one crosshair appear on the red stripes, but parts of the same crosshair are faded or invisible on the white stripes. There would have been no reason to "paste" white stripes onto the flag.^[50]

Enlargement of a poor-quality 1998 scan – both the crosshair and part of the red stripe have "bled out"

Enlargement of a higher-quality 2004 scan – crosshair and red stripe visible

David Scott salutes the American flag during the Apollo 15 mission. The arms of the crosshair are washed-out on the white stripes of the flag (Photo ID: AS15-88-11863)

Close-up of the flag, showing washed-out crosshairs

2. Crosshairs are sometimes rotated or in the wrong place.

- This is a result of popular photos being cropped and/or rotated for aesthetic impact.^[50]

3. The quality of the photographs is implausibly high.

- There are many poor-quality photos taken by the Apollo astronauts. NASA chose to publish only the best examples.^{[50][51]}
- The Apollo astronauts used high-resolution Hasselblad 500 EL cameras with Carl Zeiss optics and a 70 mm medium format film magazine.^{[52][53]}

4. There are no stars in any of the photos; the Apollo 11 astronauts also stated in post-mission press conferences that they did not remember seeing any stars during EVA.^[54] Conspiracists contend that NASA chose not to put the stars into the photos because astronomers would have been able to use them to determine whether the photos were taken from the Earth or the Moon, by means of identifying them and comparing their celestial position and parallax to what would be expected for either observation site.

- The astronauts were talking about naked-eye sightings of stars during the lunar daytime. They regularly sighted stars through the spacecraft navigation optics while aligning their inertial reference platforms, the Apollo PGNCS.^[55]
- Stars are rarely seen in Space Shuttle, Mir, Earth observation photos, or even photos taken at sporting events held at night. The light from the Sun in outer space in the Earth-Moon system is at least as bright as the sunlight that reaches the Earth's surface on a clear day at noon, so cameras used for imaging subjects illuminated by sunlight are set for a daylight exposure. The dim light of the stars simply does not provide enough exposure to record visible images. All crewed landings happened during the lunar daytime. Thus, the stars were outshone by the sun and by sunlight reflected off the Moon's surface. The astronauts' eyes were adapted to the sunlit landscape around them so that they could not see the relatively faint stars.^{[56][57]} The astronauts could see stars with the naked eye only when they were in the shadow of the Moon.^{[58][59]}
- Camera settings can turn a well-lit background to black when the foreground object is brightly lit, forcing the camera to increase shutter speed so that the foreground light does not wash out the image. A demonstration of this effect is here.^[60] The effect is similar to not being able to see stars from a brightly lit car park at night – the stars only become visible when the lights are turned off.
- A special far ultraviolet camera, the Far Ultraviolet Camera/Spectrograph, was taken to the lunar surface on Apollo 16 and operated in the shadow of the Apollo Lunar Module (LM). It took photos of Earth and of many stars, some of which are dim in visible light but bright in the ultraviolet. These observations were later matched with observations taken by orbiting ultraviolet telescopes. Furthermore, the positions of those stars with respect to Earth are correct for the time and location of the Apollo 16 photos.^{[61][62]}
- Photos of the solar corona that included the planet Mercury and some background stars were taken from lunar orbit by Apollo 15 Command Module Pilot Al Worden.^[63]
- Photos of the planet Venus (which is much brighter than any of the stars) were taken from the Moon's surface by astronaut Alan Shepard during the Apollo 14 mission.^[64]

Short-exposure photo of the International Space Station (ISS) taken from Space Shuttle Atlantis in February 2008 during STS-122 – one of many photos taken in space where no stars are visible

Earth and Mir in June 1995 – an example of how sunlight can outshine the stars, making them invisible

Long-exposure photo taken from the Moon's surface by Apollo 16 astronauts using the Far Ultraviolet Camera/Spectrograph. It shows the Earth with the correct background of stars

Long-exposure photo (1.6 seconds at $f/2.8$, ISO 10000) from the ISS in July 2011 of Space Shuttle Atlantis re-entry in which some stars are visible. In this image, the Earth is lit by moonlight, not sunlight

5. The angle and color of shadows are inconsistent. This suggests that artificial lights were used.

- Shadows on the Moon are complicated by reflected light, uneven ground, wide-angle lens distortion, and lunar dust. There are several light sources: the Sun, sunlight reflected from the Earth, sunlight reflected from the Moon's surface, and sunlight reflected from the astronauts and the Lunar Module. Light from these sources is scattered by lunar dust in many directions, including into shadows. Shadows falling into craters and hills may appear longer, shorter and distorted.^[65] Furthermore, shadows display the properties of vanishing point perspective, leading them to converge to a point on the horizon.*

- This theory was further debunked on the MythBusters episode "NASA Moon Landing".

6. There are identical backgrounds in photos which, according to their captions, were taken miles apart. This suggests that a painted background was used.

- Backgrounds were not identical, just similar. What appear as nearby hills in some photos are actually mountains many miles away. On Earth, objects that are further away will appear fainter and less detailed. On the Moon, there is no atmosphere or haze to obscure faraway objects, thus they appear clearer and nearer.^[66] Furthermore, there are very few objects (such as trees) to help judge distance. One such case is debunked in "Who Mourns For Apollo?" by Mike Bara.^[67]

7. The number of photos taken is implausibly high. Up to one photo per 50 seconds.^[68]

- Simplified gear with fixed settings allowed two photos a second. Many were taken immediately after each other as stereo pairs or panorama sequences. The calculation (one per 50 seconds) was based on a lone astronaut on the surface, and does not take into account that there were two astronauts sharing the workload and simultaneously taking photographs during an Extra-vehicular activity (EVA).

8. The photos contain artifacts like the two seemingly matching 'C's on a rock and on the ground. These may be labeled studio props.

- The "C"-shaped objects are most likely printing imperfections and do not appear in the original film from the camera. It has been suggested that the "C" is a coiled hair.^{[67][69]}

Original photograph

AS16-107-17445

Original photograph

AS16-107-17446

Close-up of later generation prints of AS16-107-17446

9. A resident of Perth, Western Australia, a woman named Una Ronald (a pseudonym created by the authors of the source^[70]), said that for two or three seconds she saw a Coca-Cola bottle roll across the lower right quadrant of her television screen that was displaying the live broadcast of the Apollo 11 EVA. She also said that several letters appeared in The West Australian discussing the Coca-Cola bottle incident within ten days of the lunar landing.^[71]

- No such newspaper reports or recordings have been found.^[72] Ronald's claims have only been relayed by one source.^[73] There are also flaws in the story, e.g. the statement that she had to stay up late to watch the Moon landing live is easily discounted by many witnesses in Australia who watched the landing in the middle of their daytime.^{[74][75]}

10. The 1994 book Moon Shot^[76] contains an obviously fake composite photo of Alan Shepard hitting a golf ball on the Moon with another astronaut.

- It was used instead of the only existing real images, from the TV monitor, which the editors seemingly felt were too grainy for their book. The book publishers did not work for NASA, although the authors were retired NASA astronauts.

11. There appear to be "hot spots" in some photos that look like a large spotlight was used in place of the Sun.

- *Pits on the Moon's surface focus and reflect light like the tiny glass spheres used in the coating of street signs, or dewdrops on wet grass. This creates a glow around the photographer's own shadow when it appears in a photograph (see Heiligenschein).*
- If the astronaut is standing in sunlight while photographing into shade, light reflected off his white spacesuit yields a similar effect to a spotlight.^[77]
- Some widely published Apollo photos were high-contrast copies. Scans of the original transparencies are generally much more evenly lit. An example is shown below:

Original photo of Buzz Aldrin during Apollo 11

The more famous edited version. The contrast has been tweaked (yielding the "spotlight effect") and a black band has been pasted at the top

12. Who filmed Neil Armstrong stepping onto the Moon?

- Cameras on the Lunar Module did. The Apollo TV camera mounted in the Modularized Equipment Stowage Assembly (MESA) of the Apollo Lunar Module gave a view from the exterior. While still on the Module's ladder steps, Armstrong deployed the MESA from the side of the Lunar Module, unpacking, amongst other things, the TV camera. The TV camera was then powered on and a signal transmitted back to Earth. This meant that upwards of 600 million people on Earth could watch the live feed with only a very slight delay. Similar technology was also used on subsequent Apollo missions.^{[78][79][80][81]} It was also filmed from an automatic 16mm movie camera mounted in a window of the Lunar Module.

Environment

1. The astronauts could not have survived the trip because of exposure to radiation from the Van Allen radiation belt and galactic ambient radiation (see radiation poisoning and health threat from cosmic rays). Some conspiracists have suggested that Starfish Prime (a high-altitude nuclear test in 1962) formed another intense layer on the Van Allen belt.^[82]

The Apollo TV camera as it was mounted on the side of the Lunar Module

- There are two main Van Allen belts – the inner belt and the outer belt – and a transient third belt.^[83] The inner belt is the more dangerous one, containing energetic protons. The outer one has less-dangerous low-energy electrons (Beta particles).^{[84][85]} The Apollo spacecraft passed through the inner belt in a matter of minutes and the outer belt in about 1½ hours.^[85] The astronauts were shielded from the ionizing radiation by the aluminum hulls of the spacecraft.^{[85][86]} Furthermore, the orbital transfer trajectory from Earth to the Moon through the belts was chosen to lessen radiation exposure.^[86] Even James Van Allen, the discoverer of the Van Allen belt, rebutted the claims that radiation levels were too harmful for the Apollo missions.^[82] Phil Plait cited an average dose of less than 1 rem (10 mSv), which is equivalent to the ambient radiation received by living at sea level for three years.^[87] The total radiation received on the trip was about the same as allowed for workers in the nuclear energy field for a year^{[85][88]} and not much more than what Space Shuttle astronauts received.^[84]*

2. Film in the cameras would have been fogged by this radiation.

- The film was kept in metal containers that stopped radiation from fogging the film's emulsion.^[89] Furthermore, film carried by uncrewed lunar probes such as the Lunar Orbiter and Luna 3 (which used on-board film development processes) was not fogged.*

3. The Moon's surface during the daytime is so hot that camera film would have melted.

- There is no atmosphere to efficiently bind lunar surface heat to devices (such as cameras) that are not in direct contact with it. In a vacuum, only radiation remains as a heat transfer mechanism. The physics of radiative heat transfer are thoroughly understood, and the proper use of passive optical coatings and paints was enough to control the temperature of the film within the cameras; Lunar Module temperatures were controlled with similar coatings that gave them a gold color. Also, while the Moon's surface does get very hot at lunar noon, every Apollo landing was made shortly after lunar sunrise at the landing site; the Moon's day is about 29½ Earth days long, meaning that one Moon day (dawn to dusk) lasts nearly fifteen Earth days. During the longer stays, the astronauts did notice increased cooling loads on their spacesuits as the sun and surface temperature continued to rise, but the effect was easily countered by the passive and active cooling systems.^[90] The film was not in direct sunlight, so it was not overheated.^[91]*

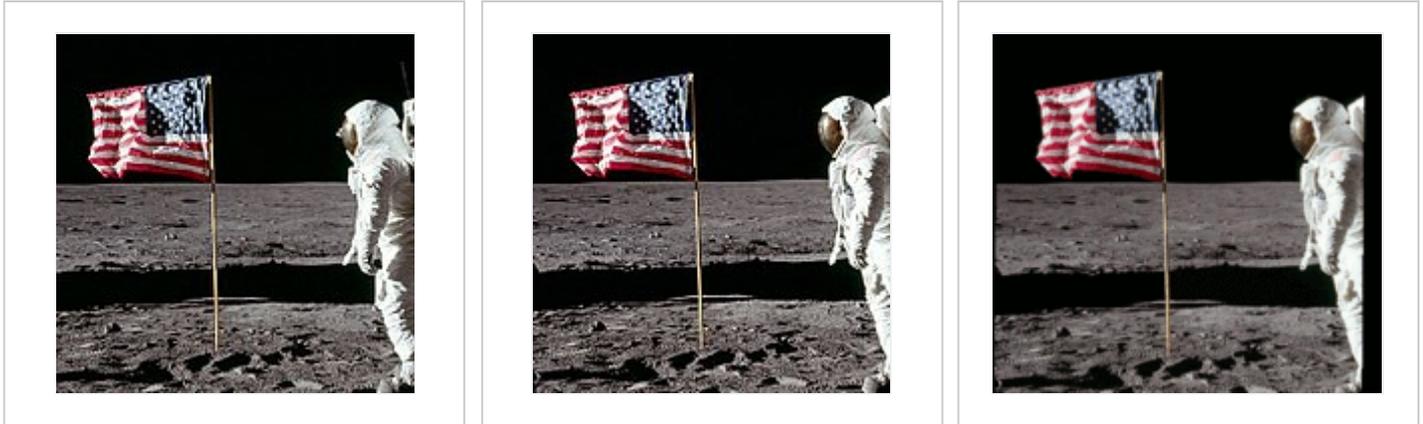

4. The Apollo 16 crew could not have survived a big solar flare firing out when they were on their way to the Moon.

- No large solar flare occurred during the flight of Apollo 16. There were large solar flares in August 1972, after Apollo 16 returned to Earth and before the flight of Apollo 17.^{[92][93]}*

5. The flag placed on the surface by the astronauts fluttered despite there being no wind on the Moon. This suggests that it was filmed on Earth and a breeze caused the flag to flutter. Sibrel said that it may have been caused by indoor fans used to cool the astronauts since their spacesuit cooling systems would have been too heavy on Earth.

- The flag was fastened to a Γ-shaped rod (see Lunar Flag Assembly) so that it did not hang down. The flag only seemed to flutter when the astronauts were moving it into position. Without air drag, these movements caused the free corner of the flag to swing like a pendulum for some time. The flag was rippled because it had been folded during storage – the ripples could be mistaken for movement in a still photo. Videos show that when the astronauts let go of the flagpole it vibrates briefly but then remains still.^{[94][95][96]}
- This theory was further debunked on the MythBusters episode "NASA Moon Landing".

Cropped photo of Buzz Aldrin saluting the flag (the fingers of Aldrin's right hand can be seen behind his helmet)

Cropped photo taken a few seconds later, Buzz Aldrin's hand is down, head turned toward the camera, the flag is unchanged

Animation of the two photos, showing that though Armstrong's camera moved between exposures, the flag is not waving

6. Footprints in the Moondust are unexpectedly well preserved, despite the lack of moisture.

- Moondust has not been weathered like Earth sand and has sharp edges. This allows the dust particles to stick together and hold their shape in the vacuum. The astronauts likened it to "talcum powder or wet sand".^[67]
- This theory was further debunked on the MythBusters episode "NASA Moon Landing".

7. The alleged Moon landings used either a sound stage or were filmed outside in a remote desert with the astronauts either using harnesses or slow-motion photography to make it look like they were on the Moon.

- While the HBO miniseries "From the Earth to the Moon", and a scene from the movie "Apollo 13" used the sound-stage and harness setup, it is clearly seen from those films that when dust rose it did not quickly settle; some dust briefly formed clouds. In the film footage from the Apollo missions, dust kicked up by the astronauts' boots and the wheels of the Lunar Roving Vehicles rose quite high due to the lower lunar gravity, and settled quickly to the ground in an uninterrupted parabolic arc since there was no air to suspend the dust. Even if there had been a sound stage for hoax Moon landings that had the air pumped out, the dust would have reached nowhere near the height and trajectory as in the Apollo film footage because of Earth's greater gravity.

- During the Apollo 15 mission, David Scott did an experiment by dropping a hammer and a falcon feather at the same time. Both fell at the same rate and hit the ground at the same time. This proved that he was in a vacuum.^[97]
- If the landings were filmed outside in a desert, heat waves would be present on the surface in mission videos, but no such heat waves exist in the footage. If the landings were filmed in a sound stage, several anomalies would occur, including a lack of parallax, and an increase or decrease in the size of the backdrop if the camera moved (footage was filmed while the rover was in motion, and yet no evidence of any change in the size of the background is present).
- This theory was further debunked on the MythBusters episode "NASA Moon Landing".

David Scott drops a hammer and feather on the Moon

Mechanical issues

1. The Lunar Modules made no blast craters or any sign of dust scatter.^[98]

- No crater should be expected. The 4,500 kg (10,000 lb) thrust Descent Propulsion System was throttled very far down during the final landing.^[99] The Lunar Module was no longer quickly decelerating, so the descent engine only had to support the lander's own weight, which was lessened by the Moon's gravity and by the near exhaustion of the descent propellants. At landing, the engine thrust divided by the nozzle exit area is only about 10 kPa (1.5 psi).^{[100][101]}

Beyond the engine nozzle, the plume spreads, and the pressure drops very quickly. Rocket exhaust gasses expand much more quickly after leaving the engine nozzle in a vacuum than in an atmosphere. The effect of an atmosphere on rocket plumes can be easily seen in launches from Earth; as the rocket rises through the thinning atmosphere, the exhaust plumes broaden very noticeably. To lessen this, rocket engines made for vacuums have longer bells than those made for use on Earth, but they still cannot stop this spreading. The lander's exhaust gasses, therefore, expanded quickly well beyond the landing site. The descent engines did scatter a lot of very fine surface dust as seen in 16mm movies of each landing, and many mission commanders spoke of its effect on visibility. The landers were generally moving horizontally as well as vertically, and photos do show scouring of the surface along the final descent path. Finally, the lunar regolith is very compact below its surface dust layer, making it impossible for the descent engine to blast out a "crater".^[102] A blast crater was measured under the Apollo 11 lander using shadow lengths of the descent engine bell and estimates of the amount that the landing gear had compressed and how deep the lander footpads had pressed into the lunar surface and it was found that the engine had eroded between 100 and 150 mm (4 and 6 in) of regolith out from underneath the engine bell during the final descent and landing.^[103]

Lunar surface under the Lunar Module Eagle

2. The second stage of the launch rocket or the Lunar Module ascent stage or both made no visible flame.

- The Lunar Modules used Aerozine 50 (fuel) and dinitrogen tetroxide (oxidizer) propellants, chosen for simplicity and reliability; they ignite hypergolically – upon contact – without the need for a spark. These propellants produce a nearly transparent exhaust.^[104] The same fuel was used by the core of the American Titan II rocket. The transparency of their plumes is apparent in many launch photos. The plumes of rocket engines fired in a vacuum spread out very quickly as they leave the engine nozzle (see above), further lessening their visibility. Finally, rocket engines often run "rich" to slow internal corrosion. On Earth, the excess fuel burns in contact with atmospheric oxygen, enhancing the visible flame. This cannot happen in a vacuum.

Apollo 17 LM leaving the Moon; rocket exhaust visible only briefly

Apollo 8 launch through the first stage separation

Exhaust flame may not be visible outside the atmosphere, as in this photo. Rocket engines are the dark structures at the bottom center

The launch of a Titan II, burning hypergolic Aerozine-50/N₂O₄, 1.9 MN (430,000 lbf) of thrust. Note the near-transparency of the exhaust, even in air (water is being sprayed up from below)

Atlas uses non-hypergolic kerosene (RP-1) fuel which gives a bright and very visible exhaust, 1.5 MN (340,000 lbf) of thrust

Bright flame from first stage of the Saturn V, burning RP-1

3. The Lunar Modules weighed 17 tons and made no mark on the Moondust, yet footprints can be seen beside them.^[105]

- On the surface of the Earth, Apollo 11's fueled and crewed Lunar Module, Eagle, would have weighed approximately 17 short tons (15,000 kg). On the surface of the Moon, however, after expending fuel and oxidizer on its descent from lunar orbit, the lander weighed about 1,200 kg (2,700 pounds).^[106] The astronauts were much lighter than the lander, but their boots were much smaller than the lander's approximately 91 cm (3 ft) diameter footpads.^[107] Pressure (or force per unit area) rather than mass determines the amount of regolith compression. In some photos, the footpads did press into the regolith, especially when they moved sideways at touchdown. (The bearing pressure under Apollo 11's footpads, with the lander being about 44 times the weight of an EVA-configured astronaut, would have been of similar magnitude to the bearing pressure exerted by the astronauts' boots.)^[108]

4. The air conditioning units that were part of the astronauts' spacesuits could not have worked in an environment of no atmosphere.^[109]

- The cooling units could only work in a vacuum. Water from a tank in the backpack flowed out through tiny pores in a metal sublimator plate where it quickly vaporized into space. The loss of the heat of vaporization froze the remaining water, forming a layer of ice on the outside of the plate that also sublimated into space (turning from a solid directly into a gas). A separate water loop flowed through the LCG (Liquid Cooling Garment) worn by the astronaut, carrying his metabolic waste heat through the sublimator plate where it was cooled and returned to the LCG. Five point four kg (12 lb) of feedwater gave about eight hours of cooling; because of its bulk, it was often the limiting consumable on the length of an EVA.

Transmissions

1. There should have been more than a two-second delay in communications between Earth and the Moon, at a distance of 400,000 km (250,000 miles).

- The round trip light travel time of more than two seconds is apparent in all the real-time recordings of the lunar audio, but this does not always appear as expected. There may also be some documentary films where the delay has been edited out. Reasons for editing the audio may be time constraints or in the interest of clarity.^[110]

Surveyor 3 with Apollo 12 lander in background

2. Typical delays in communication were about 0.5 seconds.

- Claims that the delays were only half a second are untrue, as examination of the original recordings shows. Also, there should not be a consistent time delay between every response, as the conversation is being recorded at one end – Mission Control. Responses from Mission Control could be heard without any delay, as the recording is being made at the same time that Houston receives the transmission from the Moon.

3. The Parkes Observatory in Australia was billed to the world for weeks as the site that would be relaying communications from the first moonwalk. However, five hours before transmission they were told to stand down.

- The timing of the first moonwalk was changed after the landing. In fact, delays in getting the moonwalk started meant that Parkes did cover almost the entire Apollo 11 moonwalk.^[111]

4. Parkes supposedly had the clearest video feed from the Moon, but Australian media and all other known sources ran a live feed from the United States.

- While that was the original plan, and, according to some sources, the official policy, the Australian Broadcasting Commission (ABC) did take the transmission direct from the Parkes and Honeysuckle Creek radio telescopes. These were converted to NTSC television at Paddington, in Sydney. This meant that Australian viewers saw the moonwalk several seconds before the rest of the world.^[112] See also Parkes radio astronomer John Sarkissian's article, "On Eagle's Wings: The Parkes Observatory's Support of the Apollo 11 Mission" (http://www.parkes.atnf.csiro.au/news_events/apollo11/)^[113] The events surrounding the Parkes Observatory's role in relaying the live television of the moonwalk were portrayed in a slightly fictionalized Australian film comedy "The Dish" (2000).

5. Better signal was supposedly received at Parkes Observatory when the Moon was on the opposite side of the planet.

- This is not supported by the detailed evidence and logs from the missions.^[114]

Missing data

Blueprints and design and development drawings of the machines involved are missing.^{[115][116]} Apollo 11 data tapes containing telemetry and the high-quality video (before scan conversion from slow-scan TV to standard TV) of the first moonwalk are also missing.^{[117][118]}

Tapes

Dr. David R. Williams (NASA archivist at Goddard Space Flight Center) and Apollo 11 flight director Eugene F. Kranz both acknowledged that the original high-quality Apollo 11 telemetry data tapes are missing. Conspiracists see this as evidence that they never existed.^[117] The Apollo 11 telemetry tapes were different from the telemetry tapes of the other Moon landings because they contained the raw television broadcast. For technical reasons, the Apollo 11 lander carried a slow-scan television (SSTV) camera (see Apollo TV camera). To broadcast the pictures to regular television, a scan conversion had to be done. The radio telescope at Parkes Observatory in Australia was able to receive the telemetry from the Moon at the time of the Apollo 11 moonwalk.^[113] Parkes had a bigger antenna than NASA's antenna in Australia at the Honeysuckle Creek Tracking Station, so it received a better picture. It also received a better picture than NASA's antenna at Goldstone Deep Space Communications Complex. This direct TV signal, along with telemetry data, was recorded onto one-inch fourteen-track analog tape at Parkes. The original SSTV transmission had better detail and contrast than the scan-converted pictures, and it is this original tape that is missing.^[119] A crude, real-time scan conversion of the SSTV signal was done in Australia before it was broadcast worldwide. However, still photos of the original SSTV image are available (see photos). About fifteen minutes of it were filmed by an amateur 8 mm film camera and these are also available. Later Apollo missions did not use SSTV. At least some of the telemetry tapes from the ALSEP scientific experiments left on the Moon (which ran until 1977) still exist, according to Dr. Williams. Copies of those tapes have been found.^[120]

Photo of the high-quality SSTV image before the scan conversion

Photo of the degraded image after the SSTV scan conversion

Others are looking for the missing telemetry tapes for different reasons. The tapes contain the original and highest quality video feed from the Apollo 11 landing. Some former Apollo personnel want to find the tapes for posterity while NASA engineers looking towards future Moon missions believe the tapes may be useful for their design studies. They have found that the Apollo 11 tapes were sent for storage at the U.S. National Archives in 1970, but by 1984, all the Apollo 11 tapes had been returned to the Goddard Space Flight Center at their request. The tapes are believed to have been stored rather than re-used.^[121] Goddard was storing 35,000 new tapes per year in 1967,^[122] even before the Moon landings.

In November 2006, COSMOS Online reported that about 100 data tapes recorded in Australia during the Apollo 11 mission had been found in a small marine science laboratory in the main physics building at the Curtin University of Technology in Perth, Australia. One of the old tapes has been sent to NASA for analysis. The slow-scan television images were not on the tape.^[120]

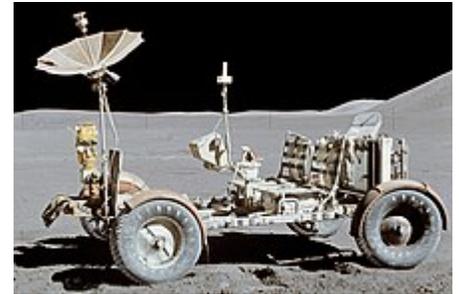

In July 2009, NASA indicated that it must have erased the original Apollo 11 Moon footage years ago so that it could re-use the tape. In December 2009 NASA issued a final report on the Apollo 11 telemetry tapes.^[123] Senior engineer Dick Nafzger, who was in charge of the live TV recordings during the Apollo missions, was put in charge of the restoration project. After a three-year search, the "inescapable conclusion" was that about 45 tapes (estimated 15 tapes recorded at each of the three tracking stations) of Apollo 11 video were erased and re-used, said Nafzger.^[124] In time for the 40th anniversary of the Apollo 11 landing, Lowry Digital had been tasked with restoring the surviving footage. Lowry Digital president Mike Inchalik said that, "this is by far and away the lowest quality" video the company has dealt with. Nafzger praised Lowry for restoring "crispness" to the Apollo video, which will remain in black and white and contains conservative digital enhancements. The US$230,000 restoration project took months to complete and did not include sound quality improvements. Some selections of restored footage in high-definition have been made available on the NASA website.^[125]

Blueprints

Grumman appears to have destroyed most of their LM documentation,^{[116][126]} but copies of the blueprints for the Saturn V exist on microfilm.^[127]

Four mission-worthy Lunar Roving Vehicles (LRV) were built by Boeing.^[128] Three of them were carried to the Moon on Apollos 15, 16, and 17, used by the astronauts for transportation once on the Moon, and left there. After Apollo 18 was canceled, the other LRV was used for spare parts for the Apollos 15 to 17 missions. The 221-page operation manual for the LRV contains some detailed drawings,^[129] although not the blueprints.

Lunar Roving Vehicle flown on Apollo 15

NASA technology compared to USSR

Bart Sibrel cites the relative level of the United States and USSR space technology as evidence that the Moon landings could not have happened. For much of the early stages of the Space Race, the USSR was ahead of the United States, yet in the end, the USSR was never able to fly a crewed spacecraft to the Moon, let alone land one on the surface. It is argued that, because the USSR was unable to do this, the United States should have also been unable to develop the technology to do so.

For example, he claims that, during the Apollo program, the USSR had five times more crewed hours in space than the United States, and notes that the USSR was the first to achieve many of the early milestones in space: the first artificial satellite in orbit (October 1957, Sputnik 1);^[d] the first living creature in orbit (a dog named Laika, November 1957, Sputnik 2); the first man in space and in orbit (Yuri Gagarin, April 1961, Vostok 1); the first woman in space (Valentina Tereshkova, June 1963, Vostok 6); and the first spacewalk (Alexei Leonov in March 1965, Voskhod 2).

However, most of the Soviet gains listed above were matched by the United States within a year, and sometimes within weeks. In 1965, the United States started to achieve many firsts (such as the first successful space rendezvous), which were important steps in a mission to the Moon. Furthermore, NASA and others say that these gains by the Soviets are not as impressive as they seem; that a number of these firsts were mere stunts that did not advance the technology greatly, or at all, e.g., the first woman in space.^{[130][131]} In fact, by the time of the launch of the first crewed Earth-orbiting Apollo flight (Apollo 7), the USSR had made only nine spaceflights (seven with one cosmonaut, one with two, one with three) compared to 16 by the United States. In terms of spacecraft hours, the USSR had 460 hours of spaceflight; the United States had 1,024 hours. In terms of astronaut/cosmonaut time, the USSR had 534 hours of crewed spaceflight whereas the United States had 1,992 hours. By the time of Apollo 11, the United States had a lead much wider than that. (See List of human spaceflights, 1961–1970, and refer to individual flights for the length of time.)

Moreover, the USSR did not develop a successful rocket capable of a crewed lunar mission until the 1980s – their N1 rocket failed on all four launch attempts between 1969 and 1972.^[132] The Soviet LK lunar lander was tested in uncrewed low-Earth-orbit flights three times in 1970 and 1971.

Technology used by NASA

The digital technology on Earth during the time of the Moon landings was just in its infancy. The astronauts had relied on computers to aid in the Moon missions. The Apollo Guidance Computer was on the Lunar Module and the command and service module. Many computers at the time were very large despite poor specs.^{[133][134]} For example, in 1973, one year after the final Moon landing, the Xerox Alto was released.^[135] This computer had 96kB of memory.^[136] Most personal computers as of 2019, use 50,000 - 100,000 times this amount of RAM.^[137] Conspiracy theorists claim that the computers during the time of the Moon landings would not have been advanced enough to allow for human space travel to the Moon and back;^[138] they similarly claim that other contemporary technology (radio transmission, radar, and other instrumentation) was likewise insufficient for the task.^[139]

Deaths of NASA personnel

In a televised program about the Moon-landing hoax allegations, Fox Entertainment Group listed the deaths of ten astronauts and two civilians related to the crewed spaceflight program as part of an alleged cover-up.

- Theodore Freeman (killed ejecting from a T-38 which had suffered a bird strike, October 1964)
- Elliot See and Charlie Bassett (T-38 crash in bad weather, February 1966)
- Virgil "Gus" Grissom, Ed White, and Roger B. Chaffee (killed in a fire during the "plugs-out test" preceding Apollo 1, January 1967)
- Edward "Ed" Givens (killed in a car accident, June 1967)
- Clifton "C. C." Williams (killed ejecting from a T-38, October 1967)
- Michael J. "Mike" Adams (died in an X-15 crash, November 1967. Adams was the only pilot killed during the X-15 flight test program. He was a test pilot, not a NASA astronaut, but had flown the X-15 above 80 kilometres or 50 miles)
- Robert Henry Lawrence Jr. (killed in an F-104 crash, December 1967, shortly after being selected as a pilot with the United States Air Force's Manned Orbiting Laboratory (MOL) program, which was canceled in 1969)
- Thomas Ronald Baron (North American Aviation employee. Baron died in an automobile collision with a train, April 27, 1967, six days after testifying before Rep. Olin E. Teague's House Subcommittee on NASA Oversight hearings held following the Apollo 1 fire, after which he was fired)

Two of the above, X-15 pilot Mike Adams and MOL pilot Robert Lawrence, had no connection with the civilian crewed space program that oversaw the Apollo missions. Baron was a quality control inspector who wrote a report critical of the Apollo program and was an outspoken critic of NASA's safety record after the Apollo 1 fire. Baron and his family were killed as their car was struck by a train at a train crossing. The deaths were an accident.^{[140][141]} All of the deaths occurred at least 20 months before Apollo 11 and subsequent flights.

As of November 2018, four of the twelve Apollo astronauts who landed on the Moon between 1969 and 1972 are still alive, including Buzz Aldrin. Also, six of the twelve Apollo astronauts who flew to the Moon without landing between 1968 and 1972 are still alive.

The number of deaths within the American astronaut corps during the run-up to Apollo and during the Apollo missions is similar to the number of deaths incurred by the Soviets. During the period 1961 to 1972, at least eight Soviet serving and former cosmonauts died:

- Valentin Bondarenko (ground training accident, March 1961)

- Grigori Nelyubov (suicide, February 1966)
- Vladimir Komarov (Soyuz 1 accident, April 1967)
- Yuri Gagarin (MiG-15 crash, March 1968)
- Pavel Belyayev (complications following surgery, January 1970)
- Georgi Dobrovolski, Vladislav Volkov, and Viktor Patsayev (Soyuz 11 accident, June 1971)

Additionally, the overall chief of their crewed-spaceflight program, Sergei Korolev, died while undergoing surgery in January 1966.

NASA response

In June 1977, NASA issued a fact sheet responding to recent claims that the Apollo Moon landings had been hoaxed.^[142] The fact sheet is particularly blunt and regards the idea of faking the Moon landings to be preposterous and outlandish. NASA refers to the rocks and particles collected from the Moon as being evidence of the program's legitimacy, as they claim that these rocks could not have been formed under conditions on earth. NASA also notes that all of the operations and phases of the Apollo program were closely followed and under the scrutiny of the news media, from liftoff to splashdown. NASA responds to Bill Kaysing's book, We Never Went to the Moon, by identifying one of his claims of fraud regarding the lack of a crater left on the Moon's surface by the landing of the lunar module, and refuting it with facts about the soil and cohesive nature of the surface of the Moon.

The fact sheet was reissued on February 14, 2001, the day before Fox television's broadcast of Conspiracy Theory: Did We Land on the Moon? The documentary reinvigorated the public's interest in conspiracy theories and the possibility that the Moon landings were faked, which has provoked NASA to once again defend its name.

Alleged Stanley Kubrick involvement

Filmmaker Stanley Kubrick is accused of having produced much of the footage for Apollos 11 and 12, presumably because he had just directed 2001: A Space Odyssey, which is partly set on the Moon and featured advanced special effects.^[143] It has been claimed that when 2001 was in post-production in early 1968, NASA secretly approached Kubrick to direct the first three Moon landings. The launch and splashdown would be real but the spacecraft would stay in Earth orbit and fake footage broadcast as "live from the Moon." No evidence was offered for this theory, which overlooks many facts. For example, 2001 was released before the first Apollo landing and Kubrick's depiction of the Moon's surface differs greatly from its appearance in the Apollo footage. The movement of characters on the Moon in 2001 differs from that of the filmed movement of Apollo astronauts, and does not resemble an environment with 1/6 the gravity of Earth. Several scenes in 2001 show dust billowing as spacecraft landed, something that would not happen in the vacuum environment of the Moon. Kubrick did hire Frederick Ordway and Harry Lange, both of whom had worked for NASA and major aerospace contractors, to work with him on 2001. Kubrick also used some 50 mm f/0.7 lenses that were left over from a batch made by Zeiss for NASA. However, Kubrick only got this lens for Barry Lyndon (1975). The lens was originally a still photo lens and needed changes to be used for motion filming.

The mockumentary based on this idea, Dark Side of the Moon, could have fueled the conspiracy theory. This French mockumentary, directed by William Karel, was originally aired on Arte channel in 2002 with the title Opération Lune. It parodies conspiracy theories with faked interviews, stories of assassinations of Stanley Kubrick's assistants by the CIA, and a variety of conspicuous mistakes, puns, and references to old movie characters, inserted through the film as clues for the viewer. Nevertheless, Opération Lune is still taken at face value by some conspiracy believers.

An article titled "Stanley Kubrick and the Moon Hoax" appeared on Usenet in 1995, in the newsgroup "alt.humor.best-of-usenet". One passage – on how Kubrick was supposedly coerced into the conspiracy – reads:

NASA further leveraged their position by threatening to publicly reveal the heavy involvement of Mr. Kubrick's younger brother, Raul, with the American Communist Party. This would have been an intolerable embarrassment to Mr. Kubrick, especially since the release of Dr. Strangelove.

Kubrick had no such brother – the article was a spoof, complete with a giveaway sentence describing Kubrick shooting the moonwalk "on location" on the Moon. Nevertheless, the claim was taken up in earnest;^[144] Clyde Lewis used it almost word-for-word,^[143] whereas Jay Weidner gave the brother a more senior status within the party:

No one knows how the powers-that-be convinced Kubrick to direct the Apollo landings. Maybe they had compromised Kubrick in some way. The fact that his brother, Raul Kubrick, was the head of the American Communist Party may have been one of the avenues pursued by the government to get Stanley to cooperate.^[145]

In July 2009, Weidner posted on his webpage "Secrets of the Shining", where he states that Kubrick's The Shining (1980) is a veiled confession of his role in the scam project.^{[146][147]} This thesis was the subject of refutation in an article published on Seeker nearly half a year later.^[148]

The 2015 movie Moonwalkers is a fictional account of a CIA agent's claim of Kubrick's involvement.

In December 2015, a video surfaced which allegedly shows Kubrick being interviewed shortly before his 1999 death; the video purportedly shows the director confessing to T. Patrick Murray that the Apollo Moon landings had been faked.^[149] Research quickly found, however, that the video was a hoax.^[150]

Academic work

In 2002, NASA granted US$15,000 to James Oberg for a commission to write a point-by-point rebuttal of the hoax claims. However, NASA canceled the commission later that year, after complaints that the book would dignify the accusations.^[151] Oberg said that he meant to finish the book.^{[151][152]} In November 2002, Peter Jennings said "NASA is going to spend a few thousand dollars trying to prove to some people that the United States did indeed land men on the Moon," and "NASA had been so rattled, [they] hired [somebody] to write a book refuting the conspiracy theorists." Oberg says that belief in the hoax theories is not the fault of the conspiracists, but rather that of teachers and people (including NASA) who should provide information to the public.^[151]

In 2004, Martin Hendry and Ken Skeldon of the University of Glasgow were awarded a grant by the UK-based Particle Physics and Astronomy Research Council to investigate Moon landing conspiracy theories.^[153] In November 2004, they gave a lecture at the Glasgow Science Centre where the top ten claims by conspiracists were individually addressed and refuted.^[154]

MythBusters special

An episode of MythBusters in August 2008 was dedicated to the Moon landings. The MythBusters crew tested many of the conspiracists' claims. Some of the testings were done in a NASA training facility. All of the conspiracists' claims examined on the show were labeled as having been "Busted", meaning that the conspiracists' claims were not true.

Third-party evidence of Moon landings

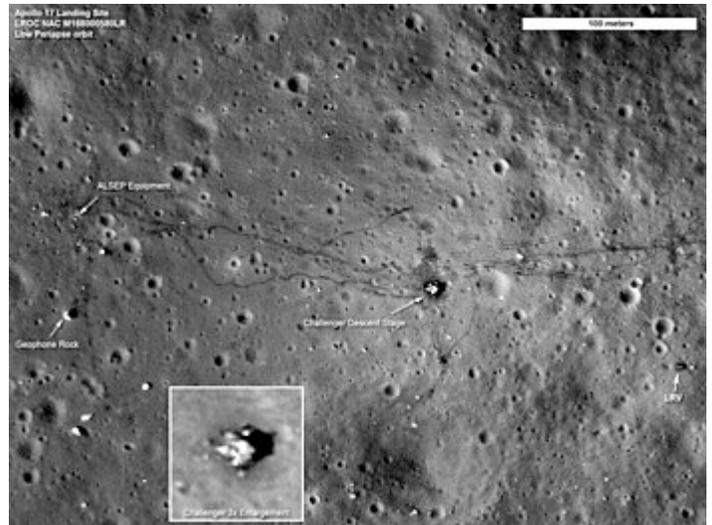

Imaging the landing sites

Moon-landing conspiracists claim that observatories and the Hubble Space Telescope should be able to photograph the landing sites. This implies that the world's major observatories (as well as the Hubble Program) are complicit in the hoax by refusing to take photos of the landing sites. Photos of the Moon have been taken by Hubble, including at least two Apollo landing sites, but the Hubble resolution limits viewing of lunar objects to sizes no smaller than 55–69 m (60–75 yd), which is insufficient resolution to see any landing site features.^[156]

In April 2001, Leonard David published an article on space.com,^{[157][158]} which showed a photo taken by the Clementine mission showing a diffuse dark spot at the site NASA says is the Apollo 15 lander. The evidence was noticed by Misha Kreslavsky, of the Department of Geological Sciences at Brown University, and Yuri Shkuratov of the Kharkiv Astronomical Observatory in Ukraine. The European Space Agency's SMART-1 uncrewed probe sent back photos of the landing sites, according to Bernard Foing, Chief Scientist of the ESA Science Program.^[159] "Given SMART-1's initial high orbit, however, it may prove difficult to see artifacts," said Foing in an interview on space.com.

In 2002, Alex R. Blackwell of the University of Hawaii pointed out that some photos taken by Apollo astronauts^[158] while in orbit around the Moon show the landing sites.

The Daily Telegraph published a story in 2002 saying that European astronomers at the Very Large Telescope (VLT) would use it to view the landing sites. According to the article, Dr. Richard West said that his team would take "a high-resolution image of one of the Apollo landing sites." Marcus Allen, a conspiracist, answered that no photos of hardware on the Moon would convince him that human landings had happened.^[160] The telescope was used to image the Moon and provided a resolution of 130 meters (430 ft), which was not good enough to resolve the 4.2 meters (14 ft) wide lunar landers or their long shadows.^[161]

Lunar Reconnaissance Orbiter photo of Apollo 17 landing site (click to enlarge)^[2]

Apollo 11 landing site – "There the lunar module sits, parked just where it landed 40 years ago, as if it still really were 40 years ago and all the time since merely imaginary." – The New York Times^[155]

The Japan Aerospace Exploration Agency (JAXA) launched their SELENE Moon orbiter on September 14, 2007 (JST), from Tanegashima Space Center. SELENE orbited the Moon at about 100 km (62 miles) altitude. In May 2008, JAXA reported detecting the "halo" generated by the Apollo 15 Lunar Module engine exhaust from a Terrain Camera image.^[162] A three-dimensional reconstructed photo also matched the terrain of an Apollo 15 photo taken from the surface.

On July 17, 2009, NASA released low-resolution engineering test photos of the Apollo 11, Apollo 14, Apollo 15, Apollo 16 and Apollo 17 landing sites that have been photographed by the Lunar Reconnaissance Orbiter as part of the process of starting its primary mission.^[163] The photos show the descent stage of the landers from each mission on the Moon's surface. The photo of the Apollo 14 landing site also shows tracks made by an astronaut between a science experiment (ALSEP) and the lander.^[163] Photos of the Apollo 12 landing site were released by NASA on September 3, 2009.^[164] The Intrepid lander descent stage, experiment package (ALSEP), Surveyor 3 spacecraft, and astronaut footpaths are all visible. While the LRO images have been enjoyed by the scientific community as a whole, they have not done anything to convince conspiracists that the landings happened.^[165]

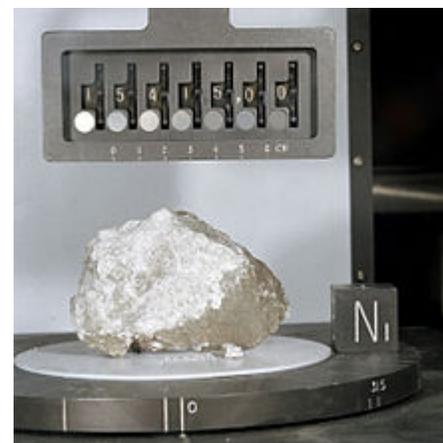

On September 1, 2009, India's lunar mission Chandrayaan-1 took photos of the Apollo 15 landing site and tracks of the lunar rovers.^{[166][167]} The Indian Space Research Organisation launched their uncrewed lunar probe on September 8, 2008 (IST), from Satish Dhawan Space Centre. The photos were taken by a hyperspectral camera fitted as part of the mission's image payload.^[166]

China's second lunar probe, Chang'e 2, which was launched in 2010, can photograph the lunar surface with a resolution of up to 1.3 m (4.3 ft). It spotted traces of the Apollo landings.^[168]

Moon rocks

The Apollo program collected 380 kg (838 lb) of Moon rocks during the six crewed missions. Analyses by scientists worldwide all agree that these rocks came from the Moon – no published accounts in peer-reviewed scientific journals exist that dispute this claim. The Apollo samples are easily distinguishable from both meteorites and Earth rocks^[6] in that they show a lack of hydrous alteration products, they show evidence of having undergone impact events on an airless body, and they have unique geochemical traits. Furthermore, most are more than 200 million years older than the oldest Earth rocks. The Moon rocks also share the same traits as Soviet samples.^[169]

Conspiracists argue that Marshall Space Flight Center Director Wernher von Braun's trip to Antarctica in 1967 (about two years before the Apollo 11 launch) was to gather lunar meteorites to be used as fake Moon rocks. Because von Braun was a former SS officer (though one who had been detained by the Gestapo),^[170] the documentary film Did We Go?^[117] suggests that he could have been pressured to agree to the conspiracy to protect himself from recriminations over his past. NASA said that von Braun's mission was "to look into environmental and logistic factors that might relate to the planning of future space missions, and hardware."^[171] NASA continues to send teams to work in Antarctica to mimic the conditions on other planets.

Genesis Rock brought back by Apollo 15 – older than any rocks on Earth

It is now accepted by the scientific community that rocks have been blasted from both the Martian and lunar surface during impact events, and that some of these have landed on the Earth as meteorites.^{[172][173]} However, the first Antarctic lunar meteorite was found in 1979, and its lunar origin was not recognized until 1982.^[174] Furthermore, lunar meteorites are so rare that it is unlikely that they could account for the 380 kg (840 lb) of Moon rocks that NASA gathered between 1969 and 1972. Only about 30 kg (66 lb) of lunar meteorites have been found on Earth thus far, despite private collectors and governmental agencies worldwide searching for more than 20 years.^[174]

While the Apollo missions gathered 380 kg (840 lb) of Moon rocks, the Soviet Luna 16, Luna 20 and Luna 24 robots gathered only 326 g (11.5 oz) combined (that is, less than one-thousandth as much). Indeed, current plans for a Martian sample return would only gather about 500 g (18 oz) of soil,^[175] and a recently proposed South Pole-Aitken basin robot mission would only gather about 1 kg (2.2 lb) of Moon rock.^{[176][177][178]} If NASA had used similar robot technology, then between 300 and 2,000 robot missions would have been needed to collect the current amount of Moon rocks that is held by NASA.

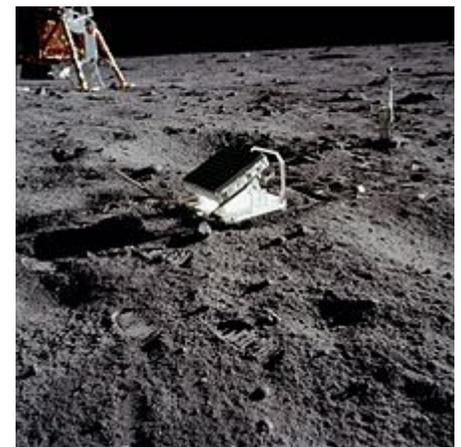

On the makeup of the Moon rocks, Kaysing asked: "Why was there never a mention of gold, silver, diamonds or other precious metals on the moon? Wasn't this a viable consideration? Why was this fact never dicussed [sic] in the press or by the astronauts?"^[179] Geologists realize that gold and silver deposits on Earth are the result of the action of hydrothermal fluids concentrating the precious metals into veins of ore. Since in 1969 water was believed to be absent on the Moon, no geologist discussed finding these on the Moon in any great amount.

Missions tracked by independent parties

Aside from NASA, a number of groups and individuals tracked the Apollo missions as they happened. On later missions, NASA released information to the public explaining where and when the spacecraft could be sighted. Their flight paths were tracked using radar and they were sighted and photographed using telescopes. Also, radio transmissions between the astronauts on the surface and in orbit were independently recorded.

Retroreflectors

The presence of retroreflectors (mirrors used as targets for Earth-based tracking lasers) from the Laser Ranging Retroreflector Experiment (LRRR) is evidence that there were landings.^[180] Lick Observatory attempted to detect from Apollo 11's retroreflector while Armstrong and Aldrin were still on the Moon but did not succeed until August 1, 1969.^[181] The Apollo 14 astronauts deployed a retroreflector on February 5, 1971, and McDonald Observatory detected it the same day. The Apollo 15 retroreflector was deployed on July 31, 1971, and was detected by McDonald Observatory within a few days.^[182] Smaller retroreflectors were also put on the Moon by the Russians; they were attached to the uncrewed lunar rovers Lunokhod 1 and Lunokhod 2.^[183]

Apollo 11 retroreflector, still with its protective cover

Public opinion

In a 1994 poll by The Washington Post, 9% of the respondents said that it was possible that astronauts did not go to the Moon and another 5% were unsure.^[184] A 1999 Gallup Poll found that 6% of the Americans surveyed doubted that the Moon landings happened and that 5% of those surveyed had no opinion,^{[185][186][187][188]} which roughly matches the findings of a similar 1995 Time/CNN poll.^[185] Officials of the Fox network said that such skepticism rose to about 20% after the February 2001 airing of their network's television special, Conspiracy Theory: Did We Land on the Moon?, seen by about 15 million viewers.^[186] This Fox special is seen as having promoted the hoax claims.^{[189][190]}

A 2000 poll conducted by the Public Opinion Foundation (ΦΟΜ) in Russia found that 28% of those surveyed did not believe that American astronauts landed on the Moon, and this percentage is roughly equal in all social-demographic groups.^{[191][192][193]} In 2009, a poll held by the United Kingdom's Engineering & Technology magazine found that 25% of those surveyed did not believe that men landed on the Moon.^[194] Another poll gives that 25% of 18- to 25-year-olds surveyed were unsure that the landings happened.^[195]

There are subcultures worldwide which advocate the belief that the Moon landings were faked. By 1977 the Hare Krishna magazine Back to Godhead called the landings a hoax, claiming that, since the Sun is 150 million km (93 million mi) away, and "according to Hindu mythology the Moon is 800,000 miles [1,300,000 km] farther away than that", the Moon would be nearly 151 million km (94 million mi) away; to travel that span in 91 hours would require a speed of more than a million miles per hour, "a patently impossible feat even by the scientists' calculations."^{[196][197]}

James Oberg of ABC News said that the conspiracy theory is taught in Cuban schools and wherever Cuban teachers are sent.^{[151][198]} A poll conducted in the 1970s by the United States Information Agency in several countries in Latin America, Asia, and Africa found that most respondents were unaware of the Moon landings, many of the others dismissed them as propaganda or science fiction, and many thought that it had been the Russians that landed on the Moon.^[199]

In 2019, Ipsos conducted a study for C-Span to assess the level of belief that the 1969 Moon landing was faked. Six percent of respondents believed it was not real, but 11% of millennials (reached adulthood in the early 21st Century) were the most likely to believe it was not factual.^[200]

See also

- Astronauts Gone Wild – 2004 conspiracy theory film by Bart Sibrel
- In the Shadow of the Moon – 2007 film by Christopher Riley, David Sington
- Lost Cosmonauts – Conspiracy theory about Soviet cosmonauts
- List of topics characterized as pseudoscience – Wikipedia list article
- Stolen and missing Moon rocks – Summary of lunar material samples stolen or misplaced

Notes

- In 1968, Clarke and Kubrick had collaborated on the film 2001: A Space Odyssey, which realistically portrayed a Moon mission.
- He does this in his site (<http://www.badastronomy.com/bad/tv/foxapollo.html>) as well
- This number includes the crews of Apollos 8, 10, and 13, though the latter technically only performed a fly-by. These three missions account for only six additional astronauts because James Lovell orbited the Moon twice (Apollos 8 and 13) and John Young and Gene Cernan orbited on Apollo 10 both later landed on the Moon.

- d. According to the 2007 NOVA episode "Sputnik Declassified," the United States could have launched the Explorer 1 probe before Sputnik, but the Eisenhower administration hesitated, first because they were not sure if international law meant that national borders kept going all the way into orbit (and, thus, their orbiting satellite could cause an international uproar by violating the borders of dozens of nations), and second because there was a desire to see the not yet ready Vanguard satellite program, designed by American citizens, become America's first satellite rather than the Explorer program, that was mostly designed by former rocket designers from Nazi Germany. A transcript of the appropriate section from the show is available at "Sputnik's Impact on America (<https://www.pbs.org/wgbh/nova/space/sputnik-impact-on-america.html>)."

Citations

☺ This article incorporates public domain material (<http://www.jsc.nasa.gov/policies.html#Guidelines>) from websites or documents of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

1. Plait 2002, pp. 154–173
2. Neal-Jones, Nancy; Zubritsky, Elizabeth; Cole, Steve (September 6, 2011). Garner, Robert (ed.). "NASA Spacecraft Images Offer Sharper Views of Apollo Landing Sites" (http://www.nasa.gov/misison_pages/LRO/news/apollo-sites.html). NASA. Goddard Release No. 11-058 (co-issued as NASA HQ Release No. 11-289). Retrieved September 22, 2011.
3. Robinson, Mark (July 27, 2012). "LRO slewed 19° down-Sun allowing the illuminated side of the still standing American flag to be captured at the Apollo 17 landing site. M113751661L" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20121024061649/http://roc.sese.asu.edu/news/index.php?%2Farchives%2F620-Question-Answered%21.html>) (Caption). LROC News System. Archived from the original (<http://roc.sese.asu.edu/news/index.php?/archives/620-Question-Answered!.html>) on October 24, 2012. Retrieved April 29, 2013.
4. "Apollo Moon flags still standing, images show" (<https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/science-environment-19050795>). BBC News. London: BBC. July 30, 2012. Retrieved April 29, 2013.
5. Abbey, Jennifer (July 31, 2012). "American Flags From Apollo Missions Still Standing" (<https://abcnews.go.com/blogs/technology/2012/07/american-flags-from-apollo-missions-still-standing/>). ABC News (Blog). New York: ABC. Retrieved April 29, 2013.
6. Phillips, Tony (February 23, 2001). "The Great Moon Hoax" (https://science.nasa.gov/science-news/science-at-nasa/2001/ast23feb_2/). Science@NASA. NASA. Retrieved July 30, 2012.
7. Kaysing 2002
8. Kaysing 2002, p. 30
9. Kaysing 2002, p. 80
10. Kaysing, Wendy L. "A brief biography of Bill Kaysing" (<http://billkaysing.com/biography.php>). BillKaysing.com. Retrieved February 28, 2013.
11. Kaysing 2002, p. 7–8
12. Plait 2002, p. 157
13. Braeunig, Robert A. (November 2006). "Did we land on the Moon?" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20130522183404/http://www.braeunig.us/space/hoax.htm>). Rocket and Space Technology. Robert Braeunig. Archived from the original (<http://braeunig.us/space/hoax.htm>) on May 22, 2013. Retrieved May 3, 2013.
14. Galuppini, Albino. "Hoax Theory" (<http://www.billkaysing.com/hoaxtheory.php>). BillKaysing.com. Retrieved May 3, 2013.
15. Schadewald, Robert J. (July 1980). "The Flat-out Truth: Earth Orbits? Moon Landings? A Fraud! Says This Prophet" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20130128101904/http://www.lhup.edu/~dsimanek/fe-scidi.htm>). Science Digest. New York: Hearst Magazines. Archived from the original (<http://www.lhup.edu/~dsimanek/fe-scidi.htm>) on January 28, 2013. Retrieved April 29, 2013.

16. van Bakel, Rogier (September 1994). "The Wrong Stuff" (<https://www.wired.com/wired/archive/2.09/moon.land.html?pg=5>). Wired. 2 (9). New York: Condé Nast Publications. p. 5. Retrieved August 13, 2009.
17. Chaikin 2007 (page needed)
18. Attivissimo 2013, p. 70
19. Dick & Launius 2007, pp. 63–64
20. Chaikin 2007, p. 2, "We choose to go to the Moon! We choose to go to the Moon in this decade and do the other things – not because they are easy, but because they are hard." – Kennedy speaking at Rice University, September 12, 1962.
21. Plait 2002, p. 173
22. TheFreeDictionary.com, Our Main Sources (<http://www.thefreedictionary.com/sources.htm>), Retrieved 17 August 2013.
23. "'Neil Armstrong.'" The Great Soviet Encyclopedia, 3rd Edition. 1970-1979. The Gale Group, Inc" (<https://encyclopedia2.thefreedictionary.com/Neil+Armstrong>). The Free Dictionary [Internet]. Retrieved February 25, 2021. "... Armstrong made the historic first flight to the moon with E. Aldrin and M. Collins, from July 16 to 24, 1969, serving as commander of the spacecraft Apollo 11. A lunar module with Armstrong and Aldrin landed on the moon in the area of the Sea of Tranquility on July 20, 1969. Armstrong was the first man to set foot on the moon (July 21, 1969); he spent two hours, 21 minutes and 16 seconds outside the spacecraft. After successfully completing its program, the crew of Apollo 11 returned to earth. ...The Great Soviet Encyclopedia, 3rd Edition (1970-1979). © 2010 The Gale Group, Inc. All rights reserved."
24. "'space exploration.'" The Great Soviet Encyclopedia, 3rd Edition. 1970-1979. The Gale Group, Inc" (<https://encyclopedia2.thefreedictionary.com/space+exploration>). The Free Dictionary [Internet]. Retrieved February 25, 2021. "... The space age. Oct. 4, 1957, the date on which the USSR launched the first artificial earth satellite, is considered the dawn of the space age. A second important date is Apr. 12, 1961, the date of the first manned space flight, by Yu. A. Gagarin, the start of man's direct penetration into space. The third historical event is the first lunar expedition, by N. Armstrong, E. Aldrin, and M. Collins (USA), July 16–24, 1969.. ...The Great Soviet Encyclopedia, 3rd Edition (1970-1979). © 2010 The Gale Group, Inc. All rights reserved." (Warning to avoid possible confusion: At the same cited web address the Soviet-era article is preceded by a 2013 article on space exploration from The Columbia Electronic Encyclopedia)
25. "Moon Hoax MOONMOVIE.COM Frequently Asked Questions" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20080212134517/http://www.moonmovie.com/faq.htm>). Moonmovie.com. Nashville, TN: AFTH, LLC. Archived from the original (<http://www.moonmovie.com/faq.htm>) on February 12, 2008. Retrieved August 26, 2009.
26. "Soviet Lunar Programs" (<http://airandspace.si.edu/exhibitions/gal114/SpaceRace/sec300/sec361.htm>). Space Race (Online version of exhibition on view in Gallery 114). Washington, D.C.: National Air and Space Museum. Retrieved November 13, 2010.
27. Zak, Anatoly. "Russia's space command and control infrastructure" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20100708063431/http://www.russianspaceweb.com/kik.html>). RussianSpaceWeb.com. Anatoly Zak. Archived from the original (<http://www.russianspaceweb.com/kik.html>) on July 8, 2010. Retrieved November 13, 2010.
28. "Soviet Space Tracking Systems" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20101101224934/http://www.astronautix.com/articles/sovsystems.htm>). Encyclopedia Astronautica. Mark Wade. Archived from the original (<http://www.astronautix.com/articles/sovsystems.htm>) on November 1, 2010. Retrieved November 13, 2010.
29. Scheaffer 2004, p. 247
30. "The Moon Programme That Faltered". Spaceflight. London: British Interplanetary Society. 33: 2–3. March 1991. Bibcode:1991SpFl...33....2. (<https://ui.adsabs.harvard.edu/abs/1991SpFl...33....2>)

31. "Science: Waning Moon Program" (<http://content.time.com/time/magazine/article/0,9171,902767,00.html>). Time. September 14, 1970.
32. "Apollo 18 through 20 – The Canceled Missions (http://nssdc.gsfc.nasa.gov/planetary/lunar/apollo_18_20.html)", Dr. David R. Williams, NASA, accessed July 19, 2006.
33. Kaysing 2002, p. 71
34. Attivissimo 2013, p. 163
35. Kennedy, John F. (May 25, 1961). Special Message to Congress on Urgent National Needs (<http://www.jfklibrary.org/Asset-Viewer/xzw1gaeTES6khED14P1lw.aspx>) (Motion picture (excerpt)). Boston, MA: John F. Kennedy Presidential Library and Museum. Accession Number: TNC:200; Digital Identifier: TNC-200-2. Retrieved August 1, 2013.
36. Congress, House of Representatives, Committee on Science and Astronautics (1973). 1974 NASA Authorization Hearings (Hearing on H.R. 4567). Washington, D.C.: 93rd Congress, first session. OCLC 23229007 (<https://www.worldcat.org/oclc/23229007>).
37. Bennett & Percy 2001, p. 77
38. Bennett & Percy 2001, pp. 330–31
39. Anderson, Clinton P. (January 30, 1968), Apollo 204 Accident: Report of the Committee on Aeronautical and Space Sciences, United States Senate, with Additional Views (https://web.archive.org/web/20141220043317/http://klabs.org/richcontent/Reports/Failure_Reports/as-204/senate_956/index.htm), Senate Report 956, Washington, D.C.: U.S. Government Printing Office, archived from the original (http://klabs.org/richcontent/Reports/Failure_Reports/as-204/senate_956/index.htm) on December 20, 2014
40. Steven-Boniecki, Dwight (2010). Live TV From the Moon (<http://www.livetvfromthemoon.com/>). Burlington, Ontario: Apogee Books. ISBN 978-1-926592-16-9.
41. "Was The Apollo Moon Landing Fake?" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180516174114/http://www.apfn.org/apfn/moon.htm>). American Patriot Friends Network (APFN). APFN.org. July 21, 2009. Archived from the original (<http://www.apfn.org/apfn/moon.htm>) on May 16, 2018. Retrieved November 25, 2008.
42. U.S. Office of Management and Budget
43. Hepplewhite, T.A. The Space Shuttle Decision: NASA's Search for a Reusable Space Vehicle (<http://history.nasa.gov/SP-4221/sp4221.htm>), chapter 4. Washington, DC: National Aeronautics and Space Administration, 1999.
44. Calder, Vince; Johnson, Andrew, P.E.; et al. (October 12, 2002). "Ask A Scientist" (<http://www.newton.dep.anl.gov/askasci/gen01/gen01278.htm>). Newton. Argonne National Laboratory. Retrieved August 14, 2009.
45. Ramsay 2006 (page needed)
46. Longuski 2006, p. 102
47. Aaronovitch 2010, pp. 1–2, 6
48. "Conspiracy Theories". Penn & Teller: Bullshit!. Season 3. Episode 3. May 9, 2005. Showtime.
49. Griggs, Brandon. "Could moon landings have been faked? Some still think so - CNN.com" (<http://www.cnn.com/2009/TECH/space/07/17/moon.landing.hoax/index.html>). www.cnn.com.
50. Windley, Jay. "Clavius: Photography – Crosshairs" (<http://www.clavius.org/photoret.html>). Moon Base Clavius. Clavius.org. Retrieved April 20, 2013.
51. Windley, Jay. "Clavius: Photography – image quality" (<http://www.clavius.org/photoqual.html>). Moon Base Clavius. Clavius.org. Retrieved September 5, 2009.
52. "Apollo 11 Mission Photography" (http://www.lpi.usra.edu/lunar/missions/apollo/apollo_11/photography/). Lunar and Planetary Institute. Retrieved July 23, 2009.

53. "Space Cameras" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20130510154205/http://www.hasselblad.com/about-hasselblad/hasselblad-in-space/space-cameras.aspx>). Hasselblad in Space. Victor Hasselblad AB. Archived from the original (<http://www.hasselblad.com/about-hasselblad/hasselblad-in-space/space-cameras.aspx>) on May 10, 2013. Retrieved May 6, 2013.
54. Kaysing 2002, pp. 20, 21, 22, 23
55. Jones, Eric M. (January 21, 2012). "Navigation Stars used in the AOT" (<https://www.hq.nasa.gov/alsj/alsj-AOTNavStarsDetents.html>). Apollo Lunar Surface Journal. NASA. Retrieved September 28, 2014.
56. Carlowicz, Mike (September 28, 2011). "Where are the stars?" (<http://earthobservatory.nasa.gov/blogs/earthmatters/2011/09/28/where-are-the-stars/>). NASA Earth Observatory (Blog). NASA. Retrieved April 20, 2013.
57. Plait 2002, pp. 158–60
58. Woods 2008, pp. 206–07
59. Harrison 2012, pp. 95–96
60. File:Lamp-and-moon-example-2.JPG
61. Keel, William C. (July 2007). "The Earth and Stars in the Lunar Sky". Skeptical Inquirer. Amherst, NY: Committee for Skeptical Inquiry. 31 (4): 47–50.
62. Keel, William C. "Apollo16EarthID.gif" (<http://www.astr.ua.edu/keel/space/Apollo16EarthID.gif>) (GIF). UA Astronomy Home Page. Retrieved May 8, 2013. Base image: AS16-123-19657; Earth image start: 1233 CDT 21 April 1972; Field shown: 18.9 degrees.
63. "Solar corona photographed from Apollo 15 one minute prior to sunrise" (https://web.archive.org/web/20130217205048/http://images.jsc.nasa.gov/luceneweb/caption_direct.jsp?photoid=AS15-98-13311). JSC Digital Image Collection. Lyndon B. Johnson Space Center. July 31, 1971. Photo ID: AS15-98-13311. Archived from the original (http://images.jsc.nasa.gov/luceneweb/caption_direct.jsp?photoid=AS15-98-13311) on February 17, 2013. Retrieved April 26, 2013.
64. Lunsford, Danny Ross; Jones, Eric M. (2007). "Venus over the Apollo 14 LM" (<http://www.hq.nasa.gov/alsj/a14/a14Venus.html>). Apollo Lunar Surface Journal. NASA. Retrieved May 8, 2013.
65. Plait 2002, pp. 167–72
66. Goddard, Ian Williams (February 26, 2001). "Goddard's Journal: Are Apollo Moon Photos Fake?" (<http://www.iangoddard.com/moon01.htm>). Iangoddard.com. Retrieved November 25, 2008.
67. Bara, Michael; Troy, Steve. "Who Mourns For Apollo? Part II" (<http://www.studyphysics.ca/apollo2.pdf>) (PDF). Mr. Clintberg's Studyphysics!. LunarAnomalies.com. Retrieved November 13, 2010. Part I with Steve Troy and Richard C. Hoagland is available here (<http://www.studyphysics.ca/apollo1.pdf>) (PDF). Part III by Steve Troy has been archived from the original by the Wayback Machine (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090610025602/http://www.lunaranomalies.com/rad.htm>) on June 10, 2009.
68. White, Jack (2005). "The skeleton in NASA's spacesuit" (<http://www.aulis.com/skeleton.htm>). AULIS Online. London: AULIS Publishing. Retrieved November 25, 2008.
69. Windley, Jay. "Clavius: Photo Analysis – lunar rover" (<http://www.clavius.org/rover1.html>). Moon Base Clavius. Clavius.org. Retrieved September 5, 2009.
70. Bennett & Percy 2001, p. 321
71. Bennett & Percy 2001, pp. 319–20
72. Windley, Jay. "Clavius: Bibliography – una ronald and the coke bottle" (<http://www.clavius.org/bibcoke.html>). Moon Base Clavius. Clavius.org. Retrieved May 23, 2013.
73. Bennett & Percy 2001
74. Bennett & Percy 2001, p. 319
75. Anthony, James. "Fly Me to the Moon" (http://www.webwombat.com.au/careers_ed/education/fly-to-moon.htm). Web Wombat. Web Wombat Pty Ltd. Retrieved November 25, 2008.
76. Shepard & Slayton 1994 (page needed)

77. Windley, Jay. "Clavius: Photo Analysis – buzz's hot spot" (<http://www.clavius.org/bootspot.html>). Moon Base Clavius. Clavius.org. Retrieved June 25, 2009.
78. Steven-Boniecki, Dwight (2010). Live TV From the Moon. Burlington, Ontario: Apogee Books. ISBN 978-1-926592-16-9.
79. "A Detailed Look at the Camera Gear Behind the Historical Apollo 11 Moon Landing" (<https://petapixel.com/2014/07/29/a-detailed-look-at-the-camera-tech-behind-the-historical-apollo-11-moon-landing/>). petapixel.com. Retrieved March 11, 2019.
80. "Photography During Apollo" (https://www.history.nasa.gov/apollo_photo.html). www.history.nasa.gov. Retrieved March 11, 2019.
81. Teitel, Amy Shira (February 5, 2016). "How NASA Broadcast Neil Armstrong Live from the Moon" (<https://www.popsci.com/how-nasa-broadcast-neil-armstrong-live-from-moon>). Popular Science. Retrieved March 11, 2019.
82. Windley, Jay. "Clavius: Environment – radiation and the van allen belts" (<http://www.clavius.org/envrad.html>). Moon Base Clavius. Clavius.org. Retrieved September 8, 2009.
83. Phillips, Tony, ed. (February 28, 2013). "Van Allen Probes Discover a New Radiation Belt" (https://science.nasa.gov/science-news/science-at-nasa/2013/28feb_thirdbelt/). Science@NASA. NASA. Retrieved May 8, 2013.
84. "The Van Allen Belts" (<http://image.gsfc.nasa.gov/poetry/tour/AAvan.html>). IMAGE Science Center. NASA. Retrieved May 6, 2013.
85. Woods 2008, p. 109
86. Plait 2002, p. 162
87. Plait 2002, pp. 160–62
88. Bailey, J. Vernon (1975). "Radiation Protection and Instrumentation" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20130515020144/http://lsda.jsc.nasa.gov/books/apollo/S2ch3.htm>). Lyndon B. Johnson Space Center. NASA SP-368. Archived from the original (<http://lsda.jsc.nasa.gov/books/apollo/s2ch3.htm>) on May 15, 2013. Retrieved May 17, 2013. Section II, Chapter 3, of NASA SP-368, Biomedical Results of Apollo (<https://history.nasa.gov/SP-368/sp368.htm>). See "Table 2 (<http://lsda.jsc.nasa.gov/books/apollo/Resize-jpg/ts2c3-2.jpg>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20130221125347/http://lsda.jsc.nasa.gov/books/apollo/Resize-jpg/ts2c3-2.jpg>) February 21, 2013, at the Wayback Machine: Average Radiation Doses of the Flight Crews for the Apollo Missions."
89. Plait 2002, pp. 162–63
90. Plait 2002, pp. 165–67
91. Windley, Jay. "Clavius: Environment – heat" (<http://www.clavius.org/envheat.html>). Moon Base Clavius. Clavius.org. Retrieved November 25, 2008.
92. Phillips, Tony (January 27, 2005). "Sickening Solar Flares" (https://web.archive.org/web/20110615021549/http://science1.nasa.gov/science-news/science-at-nasa/2005/27jan_solarflares/). Science@NASA. NASA. Archived from the original (http://science1.nasa.gov/science-news/science-at-nasa/2005/27jan_solarflares/) on June 15, 2011. Retrieved November 25, 2008.
93. Cull, Selby (July 12, 2006). "Predicting Solar Eruptions" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20120829171703/http://www.skyandtelescope.com/news/3422566.html?page=1&c=y>). News from Sky & Telescope. Sky Publishing. Archived from the original (<http://www.skyandtelescope.com/news/3422566.html?page=1&c=y>) on August 29, 2012. Retrieved November 25, 2008.
94. Windley, Jay. "Clavius: Environment: fluttering flags" (<http://www.clavius.org/envflutter.html>). Moon Base Clavius. Clavius.org. Retrieved April 20, 2013.
95. Harrison 2012, p. 97
96. McAdams 2011, p. 132

97. Nemiroff, R.; Bonnell, J., eds. (November 1, 2011). "Hammer Versus Feather on the Moon" (<https://apod.nasa.gov/apod/ap111101.html>). Astronomy Picture of the Day. NASA. Retrieved April 20, 2013. Source for video: "The Hammer and the Feather" (<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=4mTsrRZEMwA>) on YouTube
98. Kaysing 2002, p. 75
99. Harrison 2012, p. 96
00. Plait 2002, p. 164
01. Metzger, Philip; Smith, Jacob; Lane, John (June 30, 2011). "Phenomenology of soil erosion due to rocket exhaust on the Moon and the Mauna Kea lunar test site" (<https://doi.org/10.1029%2F2010JE003745>). Journal of Geophysical Research. 116 (E06005): 5–8. Bibcode:2011JGRE..116.6005M (<http://ui.adsabs.harvard.edu/abs/2011JGRE..116.6005M>). doi:10.1029/2010JE003745 (<https://doi.org/10.1029%2F2010JE003745>).
02. Plait 2002, pp. 163–65
03. "Apollo 11 Preliminary Science Report" (<http://www.hq.nasa.gov/alsj/a11/as11psr.pdf>) (PDF). NASA. 1969. pp. 93–101. NASA SP-214. Retrieved May 1, 2013.
04. Woods 2008, p. 191
05. René 1994 pp. n, 11
06. Orloff, Richard W. (September 2004) [First published 2000]. Apollo by the Numbers: A Statistical Reference (<https://history.nasa.gov/SP-4029/SP-4029.htm>). NASA History Program Office. NASA. ISBN 0-16-050631-X. NASA SP-2000-4029. Retrieved May 31, 2013. See Statistical Tables: "Selected Mission Weights (lbs)" (https://history.nasa.gov/SP-4029/Apollo_18-37_Selected_Mission_Weights.htm) and "LM Descent Stage Propellant Status" (https://history.nasa.gov/SP-4029/Apollo_18-28a_LM_Descent_Stage_Propellant_Status.htm).
07. Rogers, William F. "Apollo Lunar Module Landing Gear" (http://www.hq.nasa.gov/alsj/LM_Landing%20Gear1973010151.pdf) (PDF). Apollo Lunar Surface Journal. NASA. Retrieved May 31, 2013.
08. Heiken 1991, pp. 475–476
09. Cooper, William (1997). "MAJESTYTWELVE" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20000815194854/http://www.williamcooper.com/majesty.htm>). williamcooper.com. Archived from the original (<http://www.williamcooper.com/majesty.htm>) on August 15, 2000. Retrieved May 31, 2013.
10. "Radio Lag" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20080729183941/http://www.redzero.demon.co.uk/moonhoax/Radio.htm>). Redzero.demon.co.uk. Archived from the original (<http://www.redzero.demon.co.uk/moonhoax/Radio.htm>) on July 29, 2008. Retrieved November 25, 2008.
11. "Apollo 11 Mission Summary" (<http://airandspace.si.edu/collections/imagery/apollo/AS11/a11sum.htm>). The Apollo Program. National Air and Space Museum. July 16, 1969. Retrieved November 13, 2010. "From NASA SP-214, Preliminary Science Report"
12. "Apollo 11 TV – as seen in Australia" (http://www.honeysucklecreek.net/Apollo_11/Australian_TV.html). Honeysucklecreek.net. Retrieved November 25, 2008.
13. Sarkissian, John M. (2001). "On Eagle's Wings: The Parkes Observatory's Support of the Apollo 11 Mission" (http://www.parkes.atnf.csiro.au/news_events/apollo11/). Publications of the Astronomical Society of Australia. Collingwood, Victoria: CSIRO Publishing for the Astronomical Society of Australia. 18 (3): 287–310. Bibcode:2001PASA...18..287S (<https://ui.adsabs.harvard.edu/abs/2001PASA...18..287S>). doi:10.1071/AS01038 (<https://doi.org/10.1071%2FAS01038>). Retrieved November 25, 2008. October 2000 website version, part 1 of 12: "Introduction." Original version available from CSIRO Parkes Observatory (http://www.parkes.atnf.csiro.au/news_events/apollo11/pasa/on_eagles_wings.pdf) (PDF).

14. Sarkissian, John M. (2001). "On Eagle's Wings: The Parkes Observatory's Support of the Apollo 11 Mission" (http://www.parkes.atnf.csiro.au/news_events/apollo11/one_giant_leap.html). Publications of the Astronomical Society of Australia. Collingwood, Victoria: CSIRO Publishing for the Astronomical Society of Australia. 18 (3): 287–310. Bibcode:2001PASA...18..287S (<https://ui.adsabs.harvard.edu/abs/2001PASA...18..287S>). doi:10.1071/AS01038 (<https://doi.org/10.1071%2FAS01038>). Retrieved November 25, 2008. October 2000 website version, part 9 of 12: "One Giant Leap." Original version available from CSIRO Parkes Observatory (http://www.parkes.atnf.csiro.au/news_events/apollo11/pasa/on_eagles_wings.pdf) (PDF).
15. Windley, Jay. "Clavius: Bibliography – cosmic dave's 32 questions" (<http://www.clavius.org/bibdave32.html>). Moon Base Clavius. Clavius.org. Retrieved November 13, 2010.
16. Windley, Jay. "Clavius: Bibliography – the Collier article" (<http://www.clavius.org/bibcollier.html>). Moon Base Clavius. Clavius.org. Retrieved November 13, 2010.
17. Ranen, Aron (Director, Writer, Producer); Britton, Benjamin (Writer, Executive Producer) (2005) [First published 1999 by the University of Cincinnati as part of Moon: A Mutual Reality Art Experience]. Did We Go? (<http://moonhoax.com/site/index.htm>) (VHS tape). Santa Monica, CA: Third Wave Media. OCLC 56316947 (<https://www.worldcat.org/oclc/56316947>). Retrieved May 4, 2013. Abstract: "This video looks at whether man actually walked on the moon in 1969 or if it was an elaborate hoax."
18. Macey, Richard (August 5, 2006). "One giant blunder for mankind: how NASA lost moon pictures" (<http://www.smh.com.au/articles/2006/08/04/1154198328978.html>). The Sydney Morning Herald.
19. Sarkissian, John M. "The Parkes Apollo 11 TV Quality" (http://www.parkes.atnf.csiro.au/news_events/apollo11/Parkes_Apollo11_TV_quality.html). CSIRO Parkes Observatory. Retrieved November 25, 2008.
20. Amalfi, Carmelo (November 1, 2006). "Lost Moon landing tapes discovered" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20130214030100/http://www.cosmosmagazine.com/features/lost-moon-landing-tapes-discovered/>). COSMOS Online. Australia: Cosmos Media Pty Ltd. Archived from the original (<http://www.cosmosmagazine.com/features/lost-moon-landing-tapes-discovered/>) on February 14, 2013. Retrieved November 25, 2008.
21. Sarkissian, John M. (May 21, 2006). "The Search for the Apollo 11 SSTV Tapes" (http://www.honeysucklecreek.net/Apollo_11/tapes/Search_for_SSTV_Tapes.pdf) (PDF). Honeysucklecreek.net. CSIRO Parkes Observatory. Retrieved April 26, 2013.
22. "The GSFC Scientific Data Storage Problem" (https://ntrs.nasa.gov/archive/nasa/casi.ntrs.nasa.gov/19670010532_1967010532.pdf) (PDF). NASA. Retrieved September 5, 2009.
23. "The Apollo 11 Telemetry Data Recordings: A Final Report" (http://www.hq.nasa.gov/alsj/a11/Apollo_11_TV_Tapes_Report.pdf) (PDF). NASA. December 2009. Retrieved April 27, 2013.
24. Borenstein, Seth (July 17, 2009). "NASA lost moon footage, but Hollywood restores it" (<https://www.usnews.com/science/articles/2009/07/17/nasa-lost-moon-footage-but-hollywood-restores-it>). US News & World Report. Associated Press. Retrieved September 5, 2009.
25. Garner, Robert, ed. (August 7, 2009). "Apollo 11 Partial Restoration HD Video Streams" (<http://www.nasa.gov/multimedia/hd/apollo11.html>). NASA. Retrieved September 5, 2009.
26. Scotti, Jim (February 4, 2000). "The Collier article – a critique" (http://pirlwww.lpl.arizona.edu/~jscotti/NOT_faked/collier.htm). Lunar and Planetary Laboratory. University of Arizona. Retrieved September 2, 2009. Scotti's critique of James M. Collier August 1997 article, "Investigator Challenging NASA", Media Bypass (Evansville, IN: Tree Top Communications, Inc. (https://secure.in.gov/sos/online_corps/name_search_results.aspx?search_name=Tree+Top+Communications%2C+Inc.&search_type=exact&client_id=&submit.x=46&submit.y=9&search_mode=search)) Vol. 5, No. 8. ISSN 1085-6714 (<https://www.worldcat.org/search?fq=x0:jrnl&q=n2:1085-6714>).
27. Paine, Michael (March 13, 2000). "Saturn 5 Blueprints Safely in Storage" (https://web.archive.org/web/20080708081443/http://www.space.com/news/spacehistory/saturn_five_000313.html). Space.com. TechMediaNetwork, Inc. Archived from the original (http://www.space.com/news/spacehistory/saturn_five_000313.html) on July 8, 2008. Retrieved November 13, 2010.

28. Young, Anthony (April 5, 2004). "Lunar rovers past and future" (<http://www.thespacereview.com/article/127/1>). The Space Review. Jeff Foust. p. 1. Retrieved September 5, 2009.
29. "Lunar Rover Operations Handbook" (<http://www.hq.nasa.gov/alsj/lrvhand.html>). NASA. Doc. LS006-002-2H. Retrieved November 25, 2008.
30. Windley, Jay. "Clavius: Technology – beating the soviets" (<http://www.clavius.org/techsoviet.html>). Moon Base Clavius. Clavius.org. Retrieved September 5, 2009.
31. Warren, Liz (June 17, 2013). "Women in Space Part One, Female Firsts in Flight for Space Exploration and Research" (http://blogs.nasa.gov/ISS_Science_Blog/2013/06/17/women-in-space-part-one-female-firsts-in-flight-for-space-exploration-and-research/). A Lab Aloft (Blog). NASA Blogs. Retrieved July 18, 2013.
32. "Soviet Lunar Landing" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090224200322/http://www.astronautix.com/flights/sovnding.htm>). Encyclopedia Astronautica. Mark Wade. Archived from the original (<http://www.astronautix.com/flights/sovnding.htm>) on February 24, 2009. Retrieved November 25, 2008.
33. "Computers of the '70s I Synonym" (<https://classroom.synonym.com/computers-70s-20890.html>). classroom.synonym.com.
34. "History of Computers" (<https://homepage.cs.uri.edu/faculty/wolfe/book/Readings/Reading03.htm>). homepage.cs.uri.edu.
35. "Xerox commercial from 1972 shows the computer as your personal assistant" (<https://www.theverge.com/2012/4/26/2976870/xerox-alto-commercial-1972-personal-assistant>). The Verge. April 26, 2012.
36. Alto Operating System Reference Manual (http://bitsavers.org/pdf/xerox/alto/memos_1975/Alto_Operating_System_Reference_Manual_Jun75.pdf) (PDF). Xerox. June 26, 1975. Retrieved July 21, 2019 – via BitSavers.
37. Puiu, Tibi (October 13, 2015). "Your smartphone is millions of times more powerful than all of NASA's combined computing in 1969" (<https://www.zmescience.com/research/technology/smartphone-power-compared-to-apollo-432/>). ZME Science.
38. Spitznagel, Eric (July 19, 2019). "What It's Like to Be a Moon Landing Conspiracist in 2019" (<https://www.popularmechanics.com/space/moon-mars/a28434260/moon-landing-hoax-conspiracists/>). Popular Mechanics.
39. "The Moon Hoax; Did we really go?" (<http://www.astronautcentral.com/Moonhoax.html>). www.astronautcentral.com.
40. Scotti, Jim. "Comments on the FOX special on the Hoax" (http://pirlwww.lpl.arizona.edu/~jscotti/NOT_faked/FOX.html). Lunar and Planetary Laboratory. University of Arizona. Retrieved November 25, 2008.
41. "NASA Apollo Mission Apollo-1 – Barron Report" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20080921155820/http://history.nasa.gov/Apollo204/barron.html>). NASA History Program Office. NASA. Archived from the original (<https://history.nasa.gov/Apollo204/barron.html>) on September 21, 2008. Retrieved November 25, 2008.
42. "Did U.S. Astronauts Really Land on the Moon" (https://web.archive.org/web/20151213100852/ftp://ftp.hq.nasa.gov/pub/pao/media/2001/lunar_landing.pdf) (PDF) (Reissue (June 1977)). Washington, D.C.: NASA. February 14, 2001. Archived from the original (ftp://ftp.hq.nasa.gov/pub/pao/media/2001/lunar_landing.pdf) (PDF) on December 13, 2015. Retrieved April 24, 2014.
43. Lewis, Clyde. "Good Luck, Mr. Gorsky!" (<http://archives.groundzeromedia.org/dis/gorsky/gorsky.html>). Groundzeromedia.org. Retrieved November 25, 2008.
44. Windley, Jay. "Clavius: Bibliography – the kubrick article" (<http://www.clavius.org/bibkubrick.html>). Moon Base Clavius. Clavius.org. Retrieved April 20, 2013.
45. Weidner, Jay (July 20, 2009). "How Stanley Kubrick Faked the Apollo Moon Landings" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20101123205838/http://jayweidner.com/AlchemicalKubrickIla.html>). jayweidner.com. Archived from the original on November 23, 2010. Retrieved June 24, 2017.

46. Weidner, Jay (July 20, 2009). "Secrets of the Shining" (https://www.bibliotecapleyades.net/luna/luna_apollomissions10.htm). Bibliotecapleyades.net. Retrieved June 24, 2017.
47. Faked Moon Landing Hidden Subliminal Messages in Stanley Kubrick's Movie 'The Shining' (<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=7hRgQ-Qk7u8>) on YouTube. Retrieved June 24, 2017.
48. Lamb, Robert (January 21, 2010). "Faked Moon Landings and Kubrick's 'The Shining'" (<https://www.seeker.com/faked-moon-landings-and-kubricks-the-shining-1765004443.html>). Seeker. Retrieved June 24, 2017.
49. Austin, Jon (December 11, 2015). "Moon Landings 'Fake': Shock video shows 'Stanley Kubrick' admit historic event was 'HOAX'" (<http://www.express.co.uk/news/science/626119/MOON-LANDINGS-FAKE-Shock-video-Stanley-Kubrick-admit-historic-event-HOAX-NASA>). Daily Express. Retrieved December 11, 2015.
50. Evon, Dan (December 11, 2015). "Lie Me to the Moon" (<http://www.snopes.com/false-stanley-kubrick-faked-moon-landings/>). Snopes.com. Retrieved December 11, 2015.
51. Oberg, James (March–April 2003). "Lessons of the 'Fake Moon Flight' Myth" (http://www.jamesoberg.com/042003lessonsfake_his.html). Skeptical Inquirer. Amherst, NY: Committee for Skeptical Inquiry: 23, 30. Retrieved April 27, 2013. Reprinted in Frazier, Kendrick (ed.) (2009). Science Under Siege: Defending Science, Exposing Pseudoscience. Amherst, NY: Prometheus Books. ISBN 978-1-59102-715-7.
52. Whitehouse, David (November 8, 2002). "Nasa pulls Moon hoax book" (<http://news.bbc.co.uk/2/hi/science/nature/2424927.stm>). BBC News. London. Retrieved August 26, 2009.
53. Hendry, Martin; Skeldon, Ken (February 17, 2005). "Did we really land on the Moon?" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090805174628/http://www.cafescientifique.org/glasgow1.htm>). Cafescientifique.org. Archived from the original (<http://www.cafescientifique.org/glasgow1.htm>) on August 5, 2009. Retrieved August 26, 2009.
54. Di Maggio, Mario (November 2004). "Hoax Busters" (https://archive.today/20071012215016/http://dimaggio.org/Glasgow/SPST/nov_2004.htm). Dimaggio.org. Archived from the original (http://dimaggio.org/Glasgow/SPST/nov_2004.htm) on October 12, 2007. Retrieved August 26, 2009.
55. "The Human Moon" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2009/11/17/opinion/17tue4.html>). The New York Times. November 16, 2009. Retrieved November 19, 2009.
56. Stoyanova, Silvia, ed. (September 10, 2007). "Hubble Shoots The Moon" (http://www.nasa.gov/vision/universe/solarsystem/hubble_moon.html). NASA. Retrieved October 20, 2009.
57. David, Leonard (April 27, 2001). "Apollo 15 Landing Site Spotted in Images" (https://web.archive.org/web/20050301074851/http://www.space.com/missionlaunches/missions/apollo15_touchdown_photos_010427.html). Space.com. TechMediaNetwork, Inc. Archived from the original (http://www.space.com/missionlaunches/missions/apollo15_touchdown_photos_010427.html) on March 1, 2005. Retrieved August 26, 2009.
58. Richmond, Michael (August 17, 2002). "Can we see Apollo hardware on the Moon?" (https://web.archive.org/web/20020711041221/http://www.tass-survey.org/richmond/answers/lunar_lander.html). The Amateur Sky Survey (TASS). Archived from the original (http://www.tass-survey.org/richmond/answers/lunar_lander.html) on July 11, 2002. Retrieved August 26, 2009.
59. David, Leonard (March 4, 2005). "End of Conspiracy Theories? Spacecraft Snoops Apollo Moon Sites" (<http://www.space.com/847-conspiracy-theories-spacecraft-snoops-apollo-moon-sites.html>). Space.com. TechMediaNetwork, Inc. Retrieved May 2, 2013.
60. Matthews, Robert (November 24, 2002). "World's biggest telescope to prove Americans really walked on Moon" (<https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/worldnews/northamerica/usa/1414144/Worlds-biggest-telescope-to-prove-Americans-really-walked-on-Moon.html>). The Daily Telegraph. London. Retrieved August 26, 2009.
61. Lawrence, Pete (July 17, 2019). "How to find Apollo 11's landing site on the Moon" (<https://www.skyatnightmagazine.com/advice/skills/how-to-find-apollo-11s-landing-site-on-the-moon/>). Sky at Night Magazine. BBC. Retrieved March 15, 2020.

62. "The "halo" area around Apollo 15 landing site observed by Terrain Camera on SELENE (KAGUYA)" (http://www.jaxa.jp/press/2008/05/20080520_kaguya_e.html) (Press release). Chōfu, Tokyo: Japan Aerospace Exploration Agency. May 20, 2009. Retrieved August 26, 2009.
63. Hautaluoma, Grey; Freeberg, Andy (July 17, 2009). Garner, Robert (ed.). "LRO Sees Apollo Landing Sites" (http://www.nasa.gov/mission_pages/LRO/multimedia/lroimages/apollosites.html). NASA. Retrieved August 14, 2009. "NASA's Lunar Reconnaissance Orbiter, or LRO, has returned its first imagery of the Apollo Moon landing sites. The pictures show the Apollo missions' lunar module descent stages sitting on the moon's surface, as long shadows from a low sun angle make the modules' locations evident."
64. Garner, Robert, ed. (September 3, 2009). "Apollo 12 and Surveyor 3" (http://www.nasa.gov/mission_pages/LRO/multimedia/lroimages/lroc_20090903_apollo12.html). NASA. Retrieved May 2, 2013.
65. Antonia (September 10, 2009). "A HB Response To The LRO Photos" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20091018041511/http://lunarlandinghoax.com/2009/09/10/a-hb-response-to-the-lro-photos/>). Lunarlandinghoax.com (Blog). Antares 14 Media. Archived from the original (<http://lunarlandinghoax.com/2009/09/10/a-hb-response-to-the-lro-photos/>) on October 18, 2009. Retrieved April 27, 2013.
66. "Chandrayaan sends images of Apollo 15 landing" (https://web.archive.org/web/20110811080929/http://articles.timesofindia.indiatimes.com/2009-09-02/india/28083351_1_chandrayaan-1-lunar-mission-lunar-reconnaissance-orbiter). The Times of India. New Delhi: The Times Group. September 2, 2009. Archived from the original (http://articles.timesofindia.indiatimes.com/2009-09-02/india/28083351_1_chandrayaan-1-lunar-mission-lunar-reconnaissance-orbiter) on August 11, 2011. Retrieved April 20, 2013.
67. "Chandrayaan's moon findings: Water, rocks and traces of Apollo" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20140510225948/http://news.in.msn.com/national/article.aspx?cp-documentid=3303481>). MSN India. Redmond, WA: Microsoft. India Syndicate. October 22, 2009. Archived from the original (<https://news.in.msn.com/national/article.aspx?cp-documentid=3303481>) on May 10, 2014. Retrieved April 20, 2013.
68. Lina, Yang, ed. (February 6, 2012). "China publishes high-resolution full moon map" (https://web.archive.org/web/20130527201104/http://news.xinhuanet.com/english/sci/2012-02/06/c_131393210.htm). English.news.cn. Beijing: Xinhua News Agency. Archived from the original (http://news.xinhuanet.com/english/sci/2012-02/06/c_131393210.htm) on May 27, 2013. Retrieved April 20, 2013.
69. Papike, James J.; Ryder, Graham; Shearer, Charles K. (January 1998). "Lunar Samples". Reviews in Mineralogy and Geochemistry. Washington, D.C.: Mineralogical Society of America. 36 (1): 5.1–5.234. ISBN 978-0-939950-46-1.
70. "Wernher von Braun in SS uniform" (<http://www.reformation.org/wernher-von-braun.html>). The Reformation Online. Bible Believers Press. Source cited: Dornberger, Walter V-2 (1958) New York: Viking Press [OCLC 255209058].
71. "Marshall Highlights for 1967" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20140804170335/http://history.msfc.nasa.gov/yy/y1967.html>). Marshall Space Flight Center History Office. Archived from the original (<http://history.msfc.nasa.gov/yy/y1967.html>) on August 4, 2014. Retrieved July 24, 2006. Originally "published in a news release issued in late 1967 by the Marshall Center Public Affairs Office."
72. Head, James N.; Melosh, H. Jay; Ivanov, Boris A. (November 2002). "Martian Meteorite Launch: High-Speed Ejecta from Small Craters" (<https://semanticscholar.org/paper/8266a903ad71aaa772b764e18172ff9b7048e3d9>). Science. 298 (5599): 1752–56. Bibcode:2002Sci...298.1752H (<https://ui.adsabs.harvard.edu/abs/2002Sci...298.1752H>). doi:10.1126/science.1077483 (<https://doi.org/10.1126%2Fscience.1077483>). PMID 12424385 (<https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/12424385>). S2CID 2969674 (<https://api.semanticscholar.org/CorpusID:2969674>).
73. Cooke, Bill (2006). "The Great Interplanetary Rock Swap". Astronomy. Waukesha, WI: Kalmbach Publishing. 34 (8): 64–67. Bibcode:2006Ast....34h..64C (<https://ui.adsabs.harvard.edu/abs/2006Ast....34h..64C>). ISSN 0091-6358 (<https://www.worldcat.org/issn/0091-6358>).

74. Korotev, Randy (2005). "Lunar geochemistry as told by lunar meteorites". Chemie der Erde. 65 (4): 297–346. Bibcode:2005ChEG...65..297K (<https://ui.adsabs.harvard.edu/abs/2005ChEG...65..297K>). doi:10.1016/j.chemer.2005.07.001 (<https://doi.org/10.1016%2Fj.chemer.2005.07.001>).
75. "Mars Sample Return" (http://www.esa.int/Our_Activities/Human_Spaceflight/Exploration/Mars_Sample_Return2). European Space Agency.
76. Portree, David S. F. (November 7, 2012). "Lunar South Pole-Aitken Sample Return (2002)" (<https://www.wired.com/wiredscience/2012/11/lunar-south-pole-aitken-sample-return-2002/>). Wired. New York: Condé Nast Publications. Retrieved May 2, 2013.
77. Duke, Michael B. (June 2003). "Sample return from the lunar South Pole-Aitken Basin". Advances in Space Research. Netherlands: Elsevier. 31 (11): 2347–52. Bibcode:2003AdSpR..31.2347D (<https://ui.adsabs.harvard.edu/abs/2003AdSpR..31.2347D>). doi:10.1016/S0273-1177(03)00539-8 (<https://doi.org/10.1016%2FS0273-1177%2803%2900539-8>).
78. Duke, M. B.; Clark, B. C.; Gamber, T.; et al. (September 24, 1999). "Sample Return Mission to the South Pole Aitken Basin" (<http://www.lpi.usra.edu/meetings/moon99/pdf/8017.pdf>) (PDF). Retrieved May 2, 2013. Paper presented at the "New Views of the Moon II: Understanding the Moon Through the Integration of Diverse Datasets" (<http://www.lpi.usra.edu/meetings/moon99/moon99.3rd.html>) workshop held on September 22–24, 1999, in Flagstaff, AZ. The workshop's preliminary program (<http://www.lpi.usra.edu/meetings/moon99/pdf/program.pdf>) (PDF).
79. Kaysing 2002, p. 8
80. Dorminey, Bruce (March 2011). "Secrets beneath the Moon's surface". Astronomy. Waukesha, WI: Kalmbach Publishing: 24–29. ISSN 0091-6358 (<https://www.worldcat.org/issn/0091-6358>).
81. Hansen 2005, p. 515
82. Bender, P. L.; Currie, D. G.; Dicke, R. H.; et al. (October 19, 1973). "The Lunar Laser Ranging Experiment" (<http://www.physics.ucsd.edu/~tmurphy/apollo/doc/Bender.pdf>) (PDF). Science. Washington, D.C.: American Association for the Advancement of Science. 182 (4109): 229–38. Bibcode:1973Sci...182..229B (<https://ui.adsabs.harvard.edu/abs/1973Sci...182..229B>). doi:10.1126/science.182.4109.229 (<https://doi.org/10.1126%2Fscience.182.4109.229>). PMID 17749298 (<https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/17749298>). S2CID 32027563 (<https://api.semanticscholar.org/CorpusID:32027563>). Retrieved April 27, 2013.
83. Jones, Nancy; McDonald, Kim (April 26, 2010). Jenner, Lynn (ed.). "NASA's LRO Team Helps Track Laser Signals to Russian Rover Mirror" (http://www.nasa.gov/mission_pages/LRO/news/lro-20100426.html). NASA. Goddard Release No. 10-038. Retrieved September 24, 2012.
84. Scheaffer 2004, pp. 226–27
85. Plait 2002, p. 156
86. Borenstein, Seth (November 2, 2002). "Book to confirm moon landings" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090726105516/http://archive.deseretnews.com/archive/946348/Book-to-confirm-moon-landings.html>). Deseret News. Salt Lake City, UT. Knight Ridder Newspapers. Archived from the original (<http://archive.deseretnews.com/archive/946348/Book-to-confirm-moon-landings.html>) on July 26, 2009. Retrieved August 13, 2009.
87. "Did Men Really Land on the Moon?" (<http://www.gallup.com/poll/1993/Did-Men-Really-Land-Moon.aspx>) (Press release). Gallup. February 15, 2001. Retrieved August 14, 2009.
88. Newport, Frank (July 20, 1999). "Landing a Man on the Moon: The Public's View" (<http://www.gallup.com/poll/3712/Landing-Man-Moon-Publics-View.aspx>) (Press release). Gallup. Retrieved August 14, 2009.
89. "One giant leap of imagination" (<http://www.theage.com.au/articles/2002/12/24/1040511043172.html>). The Age. Melbourne, Australia. Associated Press. December 24, 2002. Retrieved August 13, 2009.
90. "American Beat: Moon Stalker" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20071206023002/http://www.newsweek.com/id/65087/output/print>). Newsweek.com. New York: Newsweek. September 15, 2002. Archived from the original (<http://www.newsweek.com/id/65087/output/print>) on December 6, 2007. Retrieved August 13, 2009.

91. Петрова, А.С. (April 19, 2000). БЫЛИ ЛИ АМЕРИКАНЦЫ НА ЛУНЕ? (http://bd.fom.ru/report/cat/sci_sci/kosmos/of001605) [Were the Americans on the Moon?] (Press release) (in Russian). Public Opinion Foundation (ФОМ). Retrieved August 13, 2009. Nationwide Russian survey of urban and rural population conducted on April 1, 2000. 1,500 respondents. Americans walked on the Moon? Overall results of poll: 51% yes; 28% no; 22% unsure.
92. ИНОГДА ВЫСКАЗЫВАЕТСЯ МНЕНИЕ, ЧТО НА САМОМ ДЕЛЕ ВЫСАДКИ АМЕРИКАНСКИХ АСТРОНАВТОВ НА ЛУНУ НЕ БЫЛО. ВЫ ЛИЧНО ВЕРИТЕ ИЛИ НЕ ВЕРИТЕ, ЧТО АМЕРИКАНСКИЕ АСТРОНАВТЫ ДЕЙСТВИТЕЛЬНО ПОБЫВАЛИ НА ЛУНЕ? (<http://bd.fom.ru/report/map/t001333>) (in Russian). Public Opinion Foundation (ФОМ). April 5, 2000. Retrieved April 30, 2013.
93. ЗНАЕТЕ ЛИ ВЫ, ЧТО-ТО СЛЫШАЛИ ИЛИ СЛЫШИТЕ СЕЙЧАС ВПЕРВЫЕ О ВЫСАДКЕ АМЕРИКАНСКИХ АСТРОНАВТОВ НА ЛУНУ ЛЕТОМ 1969 ГОДА? (<http://bd.fom.ru/report/map/t001332>) (in Russian). Public Opinion Foundation (ФОМ). April 5, 2000. Retrieved April 30, 2013.
94. Bizony, Piers (July 6, 2009). "It was a fake, right?" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110128204607/http://eandt.theiet.org/magazine/2009/12/fake-right.cfm>). Engineering & Technology. London: Institution of Engineering and Technology. 4 (12): 24–25. doi:10.1049/et.2009.1202 (<https://doi.org/10.1049%2Fet.2009.1202>). Archived from the original (<http://eandt.theiet.org/magazine/2009/12/fake-right.cfm>) on January 28, 2011. Retrieved February 19, 2011.
95. Kruesi, Liz (December 2009). "The Cosmic Grid". Astronomy. Waukesha, WI: Kalmbach Publishing: 62. ISSN 0091-6358 (<https://www.worldcat.org/issn/0091-6358>).
96. Satsvarūpa dāsa Goswami (May 1977). "Man on the Moon: A Case of Mass Brainwashing" (http://back2godhead.com/wp-content/uploads/2012/12/123_1977_12-05.pdf) (PDF). Back to Godhead. Los Angeles: Bhaktivedanta Book Trust. 12 (5): 10–11, 13–14. ISSN 0005-3643 (<https://www.worldcat.org/issn/0005-3643>). Retrieved October 9, 2013.
97. Scheaffer 2011, p. 229
98. Oberg, James (July 1999). "Getting Apollo 11 Right" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20030402094521/https://abcnews.go.com/ABC2000/abc2000science/oberg2000.html>). ABC News. New York: ABC. Archived from the original (<https://abcnews.go.com/ABC2000/abc2000science/oberg2000.html>) on April 2, 2003. Retrieved August 13, 2009. "I'm told that this is official dogma still taught in schools in Cuba, plus wherever else Cuban teachers have been sent (such as Sandinista Nicaragua and Angola)."
99. Oberg 1982, p. 97
00. "Attitudes Toward Space Exploration – Ipsos Poll on Behalf of C-SPAN – Belief in Authenticity of the 1969 Moon Landing" (https://www.ipsos.com/sites/default/files/ct/news/documents/2019-07/c-span-space-exploration-07-10-2019_for_release.pdf) (PDF). C-Span. July 10, 2019. Retrieved July 21, 2019.

References

- Aaronovitch, David (2010) [Originally published 2009 in Great Britain by Jonathan Cape]. Voodoo Histories: The Role of the Conspiracy Theory in Shaping Modern History (<https://archive.org/details/voodoohistories0000aaro>) (1st American ed.). New York: Riverhead Books. ISBN 978-1-59448-895-5.
- Attivissimo, Paulo (2013). Moon Hoax: Debunked! (1st English ed.). Lulu. ISBN 978-1-291-59157-6.
- Bennett, Mary; Percy, David S. (2001) [First published 1999 in Great Britain by Aulis Publishers]. Dark Moon: Apollo and the Whistle-Blowers. Kempton, IL: Adventures Unlimited Press. ISBN 978-0-932813-90-9.
- Brian, William L. (1982). Moongate: Suppressed Findings of the U.S. Space Program, The NASA-Military Cover-Up (1st ed.). Portland, OR: Future Science Research Publishing Co. ISBN 978-0-941292-00-9.

- Chaikin, Andrew (2007) [First published 1994]. A Man on the Moon: The Voyages of the Apollo Astronauts. Foreword by Tom Hanks and a new afterword by the author (Reissue ed.). New York: Penguin Books. ISBN 978-0-14-311235-8.
- Dick, Steven J.; Launius, Roger D., eds. (2007). Societal Impact of Spaceflight (<https://history.nasa.gov/sp4801-part1.pdf>) (PDF). Washington, D.C.: NASA. ISBN 978-0-16-080190-7. NASA SP-2007-4801. Retrieved June 7, 2013. Part 2 available here (<https://history.nasa.gov/sp4801-part2.pdf>) (PDF).
- Hansen, James R. (2005). First Man: The Life of Neil A. Armstrong. New York: Simon & Schuster. ISBN 978-0-7432-5631-5.
- Harrison, Guy P. (2012). 50 popular beliefs that people think are true (<https://archive.org/details/s/50popularbeliefs0000harr>). Foreword by Phil Plait. Amherst, NY: Prometheus Books. ISBN 978-1-61614-495-1.
- Heiken, Grant H.; Vaniman, David T.; French, Bevan M. (1991). Lunar Sourcebook: A User's Guide to the Moon (<https://archive.org/details/lunarsourcebooku0000unse>). Cambridge, England; New York: Cambridge University Press. ISBN 0-521-33444-6. Retrieved May 24, 2013.
- Kaysing, Bill (2002) [First published 1976]. We Never Went to the Moon: America's Thirty Billion Dollar Swindle. Randy Reid credited as co-author in 1976 editions. Pomeroy, WA: Health Research Books. OCLC 52390067 (<http://www.worldcat.org/oclc/52390067>).
- Kranz, Gene (2000). Failure is not an Option: Mission Control from Mercury to Apollo 13 and Beyond (https://archive.org/details/isbn_9780743200790). New York: Simon & Schuster. ISBN 0-7432-0079-9.
- Lheureux, Philippe (2000). Lumières sur la Lune (<http://lheureux.free.fr/>) [Lights on the Moon] (in French). Chatou: Éditions Carnot. ISBN 978-2-912-36249-0.
- Longuski, Jim (2006). The Seven Secrets of How to Think Like a Rocket Scientist (<https://archive.org/details/sevensecretsofho00long>). New York: Springer Publishing. ISBN 978-0-387-30876-0.
- McAdams, John C. (2011). JFK Assassination Logic: How to Think about Claims of Conspiracy. Washington, D.C.: Potomac Books. ISBN 978-1-59797-489-9.
- Mindell, David A. (2008). Digital Apollo: Human and Machine in Spaceflight. Cambridge, MA: MIT Press. ISBN 978-0-262-13497-2.
- Мухин, Юрий Игнатьевич (2005). Антиаполлон: Лунная афера США [Anti-Apollo: Lunar Scam of the USA] (in Russian). Moscow: Eksmo. ISBN 978-5-699-08657-3.
- Oberg, James E. (1982). UFOs & Outer Space Mysteries: A Sympathetic Skeptic's Report. Norfolk, VA: The Donning Company. ISBN 978-0-89865-102-7.
- Plait, Philip C. (2002). Bad Astronomy: Misconceptions and Misuses Revealed, from Astrology to the Moon Landing "Hoax". New York: John Wiley & Sons. ISBN 0-471-40976-6.
- Попов, Александр Иванович (2009). Американцы на Луне: великий прорыв или космическая афера? [Americans on the Moon: The Great Breakthrough or Space Scam?] (in Russian). Moscow: Veche. ISBN 978-5-9533-3315-3.
- Ramsay, Robin (2006). Conspiracy Theories. Harpenden: Pocket Essentials. ISBN 1-904048-65-X.
- René, Ralph (1994). Lucas, Stu (ed.). NASA Mooned America!. Drawings by Chris Wolfer. Passaic, NJ: René. OCLC 36317224 (<https://www.worldcat.org/oclc/36317224>).
- Scheaffer, Robert (2011). Psychic Vibrations: Skeptical Giggles from The Skeptical Inquirer. Illustrations by Rob Pudim. Charleston, SC: CreateSpace. ISBN 978-1-4636-0157-7. Reprinted from the Skeptical Inquirer, Fall 1977.
- Scott, David; Leonov, Alexei; Toomey, Christine (2004). Two Sides of the Moon: Our Story of the Cold War Space Race (<https://archive.org/details/twosidesofmoon00scot>). Foreword by Neil Armstrong; introduction by Tom Hanks (1st U.S. ed.). New York: Thomas Dunne Books. ISBN 0-312-30865-5.
- Shepard, Alan B.; Slayton, Donald K. (1994). Moon Shot: The Inside Story of America's Race to the Moon (<https://archive.org/details/moonshotinsidest00shep>). With Jay Barbree and Howard Benedict; introduction by Neil Armstrong. Atlanta: Turner Publishing. ISBN 978-1-878685-54-4.

- 副島, 隆彦 (2004). 人類の月面着陸は無かったろう論 [Apollo 11 Has Never Been to the Moon] (in Japanese). Tokyo: Tokuma Shoten. ISBN 978-4-198-61874-2.
- Wisnewski, Gerhard (2007) [Originally published 2005 in German under the title Lügen im Weltraum, Von der Mondlandung zur Weltherrschaft, Knauer Taschenbuch Verlag, Munich]. One Small Step?: The Great Moon Hoax and the Race to Dominate Earth from Space. English translation by Johanna Collis. Forrest Row: Clairview Books. ISBN 978-1-905570-12-6.
- Woods, W. David (2008). How Apollo Flew to the Moon (<https://archive.org/details/howapolloflewto0000wood>). New York: Springer-Verlag. ISBN 978-0-387-71675-6.

Further reading

- Loxton, Daniel (2010). "Top Ten Busted Myths". Skeptic. 15 (4): 74.
- Morrison, David (November 2009). "Moon Hoax Resolved: New Lunar Orbiter Images Show Moon Landers, Astronaut's Tracks". Skeptical Inquirer. 33 (6): 5–6.
- Steven-Boniecki, Dwight (2010). Live TV from the Moon. Burlington, Ontario: Apogee Books. ISBN 978-1-926592-16-9.
- Talcott, Richard (November 2010). "Astronomy Mythbusters". Astronomy. 38 (11): 56–57. Author examines ten common astronomy myths. See: Myth #10: NASA faked the Moon landings.
- Achenbach, Joel (March 2015). "The Age of Disbelief". National Geographic. 227 (3): 30–47. Author examines climate change, evolution, the Moon landing, vaccinations, and genetically modified food

External links

- Moon Base Clavius (<http://www.clavius.org/index.html>) is devoted to analyzing and debunking the conspiracists' claims.
- Apollo Lunar Surface Journal (<https://history.nasa.gov/alsj/frame.html>) Photos, audio, video and complete communication transcriptions of the six successful landings and Apollo 13

Television specials

- William Karel (Director) (2002). Opération lune [Dark Side of the Moon] (Mockumentary) (in French and English). Paris: Arte France / Point du Jour International. OCLC 57723359 (<https://www.worldcat.org/oclc/57723359>). First airdate: October 16, 2002.
- John Moffett (Director, Producer, Writer); Bruce M. Nash (Executive Producer, Writer) (2001). Conspiracy Theory: Did We Land on the Moon? (Documentary). Hollywood, CA: Nash Entertainment, Inc. OCLC 52473513 (<https://www.worldcat.org/oclc/52473513>). First airdate on Fox TV: February 15, 2001.
- The Truth Behind the Moon Landings: Stranger Than Fiction (2003) (TV) (<https://www.imdb.com/title/t0425571/>) at IMDb

Retrieved from "https://en.wikipedia.org/w/index.php?title=Moon_landing_conspiracy_theories&oldid=1021912991"

This page was last edited on 7 May 2021, at 11:02 (UTC).

Text is available under the Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike License; additional terms may apply. By using this site, you agree to the Terms of Use and Privacy Policy. Wikipedia® is a registered trademark of the Wikimedia Foundation, Inc., a non-profit organization.

Cattle mutilation

Cattle mutilation (also known as bovine excision^[1] and unexplained livestock death^[2]) is the killing and mutilation of cattle under unusual, usually bloodless, and anomalous circumstances. Worldwide, sheep, horses, goats, pigs, rabbits, cats, dogs, bison, deer and elk have been reported mutilated with similar bloodless excisions; often an ear, eyeball, jaw flesh, tongue, lymph nodes, genitals and rectum are removed.

Since the first reports of animal mutilations, various explanations have been offered, ranging from natural decomposition and normal predation to cults and secretive governmental and military agencies, to a range of speculations, including cryptid predators (like the chupacabra) and extraterrestrials. Mutilations have been the subject of two independent federal investigations in the United States.^[3]

Contents

History

- The Snippy (Lady) mutilation
- Later developments

Characteristics

- Physical characteristics
- Laboratory reports

Conventional explanations

- U.S. governmental explanation
- Natural causes
- Human intervention
 - Animal cruelty and human activity
 - Cults
- Government or military experimentation

Other explanations

- Aliens and UFOs
- Government interference
- Unknown creatures explanation

See also

Footnotes

External links

History

The earliest known documented outbreak of unexplained livestock deaths occurred in early 1606 "...about the city of London and some of the shires adjoining. Whole slaughters of sheep have been made, in some places to number 100, in others less, where nothing is taken from the sheep but their tallow and some inward parts, the whole carcasses, and fleece remaining still behind. Of this sundry conjectures, but most agree that it tendeth towards some fireworks." The outbreak was noted in the official records of the Court of James I of England.^[4] Charles Fort collected many accounts of cattle mutilations that occurred in England in the late 19th and early 20th centuries. John Keel mentioned investigating animal mutilation cases in 1966 (while with Ivan T. Sanderson) that were being reported in the Upper Ohio River Valley, around Gallipolis, Ohio.^[5] The phenomenon remained largely unknown outside cattle-raising communities until 1967, when the Pueblo Chieftain in Pueblo, Colorado, published a story about a horse named Lady near Alamosa, Colorado, that was mysteriously killed and mutilated. The story was republished by the wider press and distributed nationwide; this case was the first to feature speculation that extraterrestrial beings and unidentified flying objects were associated with mutilation.^[6]

The Snippy (Lady) mutilation

On September 9, 1967, Agnes King and her son Harry found the dead body of their three-year-old horse, Lady. Lady's head and neck had been skinned and defleshed, and the body displayed cuts that, to King, looked very precise. No blood was at the scene, according to Harry, and a strong medicinal odor was in the air. A subsequent investigation by Wadsworth Ayer for the Condon Committee (Case #32) concluded that "There was no evidence to support the assertion that the horse's death was associated in any way to abnormal causes".^[7] When the Lewises phoned Alamosa County Sheriff Ben Phillips, he told them that the death was probably due to "a lightning strike" and never bothered to visit the site. Early press coverage of the case misnamed Lady as Snippy. Snippy was Lady's sire and belonged to Nellie's husband, Berle Lewis.^[4] Later press coverage mentions that the horse had been shot "in the rump".^[8] However, two students from Alamosa State College confessed to sneaking out into the pasture and shooting the horse several weeks after the case was publicized.^[9]

Later developments

Senator Floyd K. Haskell contacted the FBI asking for help in 1975 due to public concern regarding the issue. He claimed there had been 130 mutilations in Colorado alone, and further reports across nine states.^[10] A 1979 FBI report indicated that, according to investigations by the New Mexico State Police, there had been an estimated 8,000 mutilations in Colorado, causing approximately $1,000,000 damage.^[11]

In May 2001, 200 goats were mutilated in Panggang District of Gunung Kidul Regency, Yogyakarta, Indonesia.^[12]

Many cases of mutilation have been reported worldwide since the 1967 Snippy incident, chiefly in the Americas and Australia. In South America, an estimated 3,500 incidents have occurred since 2002, when around 400 cases were reported.^[13] Mutilation investigators assert that a large number of cases are never reported to authorities, perhaps no more than one in ten.^[14]

In the summer of 2019, five bulls were mutilated at the Silvies Valley Ranch in Oregon. It is estimated that each 2,000 pound bull was worth US$6,000. The FBI has made no comment on if there is an investigation or not on this particular event but the Silvies Valley Ranch offered a $25,000 reward for information on the topic.^[15]

Characteristics

Physical characteristics

In most cases, mutilation wounds appear to be clean and carried out surgically. Mutilated animals are sometimes, though not always,^[16] reported to have been drained of blood and show no sign of blood in the immediate area or around their wounds.

According to Howard Burgess, nearly 90 percent of mutilated cattle are between four and five years old.^[17]

In some cases, strange marks or imprints near the site have been found. In the famous "Snippy" case, there was an absolute absence of tracks in a 100 ft (30 m) radius of the carcass (even the horse's own tracks disappeared within 100 ft (30 m) of the body.) But within this radius, several small holes were found seemingly "punched" in the ground and two bushes were absolutely flattened.^[18] In Rio Arriba County, New Mexico, June 1976, a "trail of suction cup-like impressions" was found leading from a mutilated three-year-old cow. The indentations were in a tripod form, 4 inches (10 cm) in diameter, 28 inches (70 cm) apart, and disappeared 500 feet (150 m) from the dead cow. Similar incidents were reported in the area in 1978.^{[19][20]}

Laboratory reports

Laboratory reports carried out on some mutilated animals have shown unusually high or low levels of vitamins or minerals in tissue samples, and the presence of chemicals not normally found in animals. However, not all mutilated animals display these anomalies, and those that do have slightly different anomalies from one another. On account of the time between death and necropsy, and a lack of background information on specific cattle, investigators have often found it impossible to determine if these variations are connected to the animals' deaths or not.^[11]

In one case documented by New Mexico police and the FBI,^[11] an 11-month-old cross Hereford-Charolais bull, belonging to a Mr. Manuel Gomez of Dulce, New Mexico, was found mutilated on March 24, 1978. It displayed "classic" mutilation signs, including the removal of the rectum and sex organs with what appeared to be "a sharp and precise instrument" and its internal organs were found to be inconsistent with a normal case of death followed by predation.

"Both the liver and the heart were white and mushy. Both organs had the texture and consistency of peanut butter"

Gabriel L Valdez, New Mexico Police

The animal's heart as well as bone and muscle samples were sent to the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory for microscopic and bacteriological studies, while samples from the animal's liver were sent to two separate private laboratories.

Los Alamos detected the presence of naturally occurring Clostridium bacteria in the heart, but was unable to reach any conclusions because of the possibility that the bacteria represented postmortem contamination. No microscopic changes of pathological significance were found in the heart tissue.^[11]

Samples from the animal's liver were found to be completely devoid of copper and to contain 4 times the normal level of zinc, potassium and phosphorus. The scientists performing the analysis were unable to explain these anomalies.^[11]

Blood samples taken at the scene were reported to be "light pink in color" and "Did not clot after several days" while the animal's hide was found to be unusually brittle for a fresh death (the animal was estimated to have been dead for 5 hours) and the flesh underneath was found to be discolored.^[11]

None of the laboratories were able to report any firm conclusions on the cause of the blood or tissue damage. At the time, it was suggested that a burst of radiation may have been used to kill the animal, blowing apart its red blood cells in the process. This hypothesis was later discarded as subsequent reports from the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory later confirmed the presence of anti-coagulants in samples^[11] taken from other cows mutilated in the region.

Conventional explanations

As with most disputed phenomena, there are a number of potential explanations for the causes of cattle mutilations, ranging from death by natural causes to purposeful acts by unknown individuals.

U.S. governmental explanation

After coming under increasing public pressure, Federal authorities launched a comprehensive investigation of the mutilation phenomenon.^[21]

In May 1979, the case was passed on to the FBI, which granted jurisdiction under Title 18.^[22] The investigation was dubbed "Operation Animal Mutilation".

The investigation was funded by a US$44,170 grant from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, and was headed by FBI agent Kenneth Rommel. It had five key objectives:

1. To determine the reliability of the information on which the grant was based, which entailed gathering as much information as possible about the cases reported in New Mexico prior to May 1979
2. To determine the cause of as many mutilations as possible, especially those reported in New Mexico
3. To determine if livestock mutilations as described constitute a major law enforcement problem
4. If these mutilations do constitute a major law enforcement problem, to determine the scope of the problem and to offer recommendations on how to deal with it
5. If it is shown that the mutilation phenomenon is not a law enforcement problem, to recommend that no further law enforcement investigations be funded.

Rommel's final report, released in June 1980, was 297 pages long; in the report's introduction, Rommel stated: "According to some estimates, by 1979 10,000 head of cattle have been mysteriously mutilated". However, the report concluded that the mutilations were predominantly the result of natural predation, but did acknowledge that some cases contained anomalies that could not be accounted for by conventional wisdom. The FBI was unable to identify any individuals responsible for the mutilations. Details of the investigation are now available under the Freedom of Information Act. The released material includes correspondence from Rommel where he states that "most credible sources have attributed this damage to normal predator and scavenger activity".^[23]

New Mexico State patrolman Gabe Valdez, who by the time of the Rommel report had investigated dozens of mutilation cases, told investigator Christopher O'Brien that "during the six to eight months when Rommel was actively investigating the mutilations in New Mexico, the state (especially the northern tier) became suddenly quiet with very few (if any) true mutilations being reported to officials". Valdez was convinced that Rommel never was able to investigate a single high-strange case, because the mutilators moved their operations to other parts of the west. Rommel (a former FBI bank robbery expert) was disgusted by dead necrotic cows and chose to let others do the actual investigations while he waited upwind in the car.^[24]

Western Canada, during this period, was especially hard hit. During the six to eight months of Rommel's investigation, RCMP investigator Corporal Lyn Lauber of the Calgary detachment (who was in charge of the Canadian mutilation probe) investigated numerous high-strange cases. When Rommel's final report was released to the public. Lauber answered an inquiry by investigator Tommy Bland: "I find it difficult to understand how Rommel could make a statement such as this, without ever having personally witnessed a [real] mutilation firsthand". He also stated that "I would like to see Rommel write off our confirmed cases as due to predators".^[25]

Prior to the involvement of the FBI, the ATF launched their own investigation into the phenomenon.^[26]

Both federal investigations were preceded (and followed, to some extent) by a state-level investigation carried out by law enforcement officials in New Mexico. This investigation reported finding evidence that some mutilated animals had been tranquilized and treated with an anti-coagulant prior to their mutilation. It also contended that alleged surgical techniques performed during mutilations had become "more professional" over time.^{[11]:13} However, officers in charge were unable to determine responsibility or motive.

The ATF investigation was headed by ATF Agent Donald Flickinger. The New Mexico investigation was headed by Officer Gabe Veldez of the New Mexico State Patrol, with the assistance of Cattle Inspector Jim Dyad and Officer Howard Johnston of the New Mexico Department of Game and Fish.

Natural causes

While many unconventional explanations have been put forward to explain cattle mutilations, a variety of scientists, veterinary workers, and knowledgeable observers (including farmers and other agricultural workers) have suggested more conventional ideas, most of which revolve around the hypothesis that "mutilated" animals died of natural causes and were subjected to known terrestrial phenomena – including the action of predators, parasites, and scavengers.^[27]

Missing or mutilated mouth, lips, anus, and genitalia are explained as:

- Contraction of missing/damaged areas due to dehydration.
- The actions of small scavengers and burrowing parasites seeking to enter or consume the body in areas where skin is at its thinnest.

Missing/mutilated eyes and soft internal organs are explained as:

- The action of carrion feeding insects such as blowflies, and opportunistic or carrion birds such as vultures, which are known to direct themselves toward an animal's eyes, and to enter the body through the openings of the mouth and anus in order to feed on soft internal organs.

Absence of blood is explained as:

- Blood pooling in the lowest points in the body where it will break down into its basic organic components.

Blowflies have been implicated as possible scavengers involved in making livestock carcasses look "mutilated."

- Blood that is external to the body, or in the area of a wound being consumed by insects or reduced by solar desiccation.

Surgical incisions in the skin are explained as:

- Tears in the skin created when it is stretched by postmortem bloat and/or as dehydration causes the animal's hide to shrink and split, often in linear cuts.
- Incisions caused by scavengers or predators, possibly exacerbated by the above.

The hypothesis that natural phenomena account for most mutilation characteristics has been validated by a number of experiments, including one cited by long-time scientific skeptic Robert T. Carroll, conducted by Washington County (Arkansas) Sheriff's Department. In the experiment, the body of a recently deceased cow was left in a field and observed for 48 hours. During the 48 hours, postmortem bloating was reported to have caused incision-like tears in the cow's skin that matched the "surgical" cuts reported on mutilated cows, while the action of blowflies and maggots reportedly matched the soft tissue damage observed on mutilated cows.

Experiments have also been conducted to compare the different reactions of surgically cut hide/flesh and predated hide/flesh to natural exposure.^[28] They demonstrated pronounced differences between surgical cuts and non surgical cuts over time.

Some ranchers have disputed the scientific "natural causes hypothesis" on the grounds that the mutilated animals often fall outside of the normal categories of natural deaths by predation or disease. One reason cited is that the animals were healthy and showed no sign of disease prior to death, and were large and strong enough not to be a likely target for a predator. In some cases, ranchers have reported that the mutilated cattle were among the healthiest and strongest animals in their herd.^[29]

Human intervention

Animal cruelty and human activity

It is alternatively hypothesised that cattle mutilations are the result of two unrelated deviant phenomena. The bulk of mutilations are the result of predation and other natural processes, and those with anomalies that cannot be explained in this way are the work of humans who derive pleasure or sexual stimulation from mutilating animals.

Human attacks against animals are a recognized phenomenon. There have been many recorded cases around the world, and many convictions. Typically the victims of such attacks are cats, dogs, and other family pets,^[30] and the actions of humans are usually limited to acts of cruelty such as striking, burning, or beating animals. However, attacks have also been recorded against larger animals, including sheep, cows, and horses.^[31] Humans, particularly those with sociopathic disorders, have been found to have mutilated animals in elaborate ways^[30] using knives or surgical instruments.

On April 20, 1979, C Hibbs of the New Mexico State Veterinary diagnostics Laboratory spoke before a hearing chaired by Senator Harrison Schmitt. Hibbs testified that mutilation fell into three categories, one of which was animals mutilated by humans^[11] (page 25). FBI records did not record the percentage of mutilated animals that fell into this category.

Cults

Closely related to the deviant hypothesis is the hypothesis that cattle mutilations are the result of cult activity.^[32] However, contrary to the deviancy hypothesis, which holds that cattle are mutilated at random by individual deviants, the cult hypothesis holds that cattle mutilations are coordinated acts of ritual sacrifice carried out by organized groups.

Beliefs held by proponents of the cult hypothesis vary, but may include:

- That the apparent absence of blood at mutilation sites may indicate cult members would harvest it^[33]
- That organs have been removed from cattle for use in rituals^[27]
- That unborn calves have been harvested from mutilated cattle.

The hypothesis that cults were responsible for cattle mutilation was developed in the U.S. during the 1970s and 1980s, a time of growing national concern over cults (such as the Peoples Temple and Jonestown) and ritual satanic abuse ("Satanic panic").^{[34][35]}

In 1975, the US Treasury Department assigned Donald Flickinger to investigate the existence of connections between cults and the mutilation of cattle.^{[26][36]:23} The operation came under the jurisdiction of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms.

Flickinger recorded a number of 'unusual' incidents and circumstantial evidence, but was unable to find sufficient evidence of cult involvement for the ATF to take further action.^{[26][36]} Media reports of the time reported his investigation was dropped when it was determined cattle deaths were not a prelude to a co-ordinated campaign against elected officials by cult members.^{[36]:23}

However, there were various reports during the time of menacing groups prowling around mutilation sites. In September 1975, a forestry service employee in Blaine County, Idaho, reported seeing a group of people in black hooded robes. Several cattle were found mutilated in the area the following day. On October 9, 1975, a motorist on U.S Highway 95 in northern Idaho, in an area of frequent cattle mutilation, reported to police that some 15 masked individuals formed a roadblock with linked arms, forcing him to turn around.^[37]

Since the beginning of the cult hypothesis, law enforcement agents in several states and provinces, including Alberta, Idaho, Montana, and Iowa have reported evidence implicating cults in several instances of cattle mutilations.^[38]

During their investigations, the FBI and the ATF were unable to find appropriate evidence, including signs of consistency between mutilations, to substantiate that the animals had been the victims of any form of ritual sacrifice or organized mutilation effort. They were also unable to determine how or why a cult would perform procedures that would result in the anomalies reported in some necropsies,^{[11]:3} or to verify that the anomalies were 1) connected to the mutilations themselves 2) the result of human intervention.^[21]

In most cases, mutilations were either ruled due to natural causes, or the cattle were too far decayed for any useful conclusions to be drawn. Some cases of cult hysteria were traced back to fabrication by individuals unrelated to the incident. In one case it was concluded that claims had been falsified by a convict seeking favorable terms on his sentence in exchange for information.^{[33]:14–15[36]:23–24} In another case, claims were traced back to local high school students who had circulated rumors as a joke.^{[33]:21}

Government or military experimentation

In his 1997 article "Dead Cows I've Known",^[39] cattle mutilation researcher Charles T. Oliphant speculates cattle mutilation to be the result of covert research into emerging cattle diseases, and the possibility they could be transmitted to humans.

Additionally, a 2002 National Institute for Discovery Science report^[40] relates the eyewitness testimony of two Cache County, Utah, police officers. The area had seen many unusual cattle deaths, and ranchers had organized armed patrols to surveil the unmarked aircraft which they claimed were associated with the livestock deaths. The police witnesses claim to have encountered several men in an unmarked U.S. Army helicopter in 1976 at a small community airport in Cache County. The witnesses asserted that after this heated encounter, cattle mutilations in the region ceased for about five years.

Biochemist Colm Kelleher,^[41] who has investigated several purported mutilations first-hand, argues that the mutilations are most likely a clandestine U.S. government effort to track the spread of Bovine spongiform encephalopathy ("mad cow disease") and related diseases, such as scrapie.

A brief sampling of cases: On April 8, 1979, three police officers in Dulce, New Mexico, reported a mysterious aircraft which resembled a U.S. military helicopter hovering around a site following a wave of alleged mutilation which claimed 16 cows. On July 15, 1974, two unregistered helicopters, a white helicopter and a black twin-engine aircraft were reported to have opened fire on Robert Smith Jr. while he was driving his tractor on his farm in Honey Creek, Iowa. This attack followed a rash of alleged mutilations in the area and across the nearby border in Nebraska.^{[42][43][44]} The reports of "helicopter" involvement have been used to explain why some cattle appear to have been "dropped" from considerable heights.

Other explanations

Aliens and UFOs

In 1974, a few months after the first spate of alleged mutilations in the US, multiple farmers in Nebraska claimed to witness UFOs on the nights their cattle were harmed. One claimed he saw an object which "looked as if it had a little bluish-green light on each side with a glow surrounding it." The sightings were hailed by UFO researchers as the first physical evidence of extraterrestrial life.^[45]

Government interference

At the same time that UFO reports were being filed with law enforcement, larger number of ranchers claimed to see black helicopters around their fields, coinciding with the cattle mutilations. Although some initially thought these were used by cattle rustlers, suspicion soon pointed toward a military operation running out of Fort Riley, Kansas.

By 1975, the problem was so prevalent, that some ranchers formed armed vigilante groups to patrol their fields at night. Authorities ran ads in Colorado urging ranchers to not shoot at their survey helicopters.^{[46][45]}

In July 1975, reporter Dane Edwards of the Brush Banner published a cattle mutilation story and began investigating a theory that a cult was responsible. When the origin of the cult theory was traced to a federal inmate and no cult members were ever identified, ranchers and law enforcement started looking for other explanations.

Edwards reported his theory that the government was testing cattle parts to develop biological weapons to use in Vietnam, going so far as to write to Colorado Senator Floyd K. Haskell during Haskell's investigation to accuse agents of threatening him into silence.^[45]

In October, Edwards gave an interview to the Gazette (Colorado Springs Gazette Telegraph), announcing a theory that a government project was behind the mutilations. He expressed frustration that the FBI would not get involved and said he would be writing a book explaining "how the project was conceived". Shortly after, he was fired by the Gazette and then disappeared. On December 5th 1975, Edwards' wife reported him as a missing person.^[47]

Edwards reemerged in the 1990s. He had adopted a new name, Dr. David Ellsworth, and founded an English-language instruction program that was adopted by many federal universities in Mexico.^[48]

Unknown creatures explanation

Local folklore has attributed the mutilations to chupacabras or similar creatures.^[49]

See also

- Horse ripping
- Black helicopters
- Linda Moulton Howe
- List of mutilatory procedures on animals
- List of topics characterized as pseudoscience
- Surplus killing
- Croydon Cat Killer

Footnotes

1. Levengood W C, "A Study of Bovine Excision Sites from 1993 to 1997" (1997), Pinelandia Biophysical Laboratory
2. The Mysterious Valley, St. Martin's Press, 1996, 0-312-95883-8
3. Animal Mutilation Project (<https://vault.fbi.gov/Animal%20Mutilation>), FBI, Released under FOIA
4. O'Brien, Christopher (November 2014). Stalking the Herd (1st ed.). Kempton, IL: Adventures Unlimited Press. p. 50. ISBN 978-1-939149-06-0.
5. Keel, John A. The Complete Guide to Mysterious Beings, 1994, Doubleday, NYC, NY
6. David R. Saunders and R. Roger Harkins; UFO's? Yes! Where the Condon Committee Went Wrong; World Publishing, 1969
7. O'Brien, Christopher (November 2014). Stalking the Herd. Kempton, IL: Adventures Unlimited Press. pp. 107–110. ISBN 978-1-939149-06-0.
8. Tosches, Rich (8 December 2006). "Town gets Snippy about skeleton of mutilated horse" (<https://www.denverpost.com/2006/12/08/town-gets-snippy-about-skeleton-of-mutilated-horse/>). The Denver Post. Retrieved 2017-12-20.
9. O'Brien, Christopher (November 2014). Stalking the Herd. Kempton, IL: Adventures Unlimited Press. p. 99. ISBN 978-1-939149-06-0.
10. Operation Cattle Mutilation, Section 1 (<https://vault.fbi.gov/Animal%20Mutilation/Animal%20Mutilation%20Part%201%20of%205/view>), FBI, Released under FOIA

11. <https://vault.fbi.gov/Animal%20Mutilation/Animal%20Mutilation%20Part%204%20of%205/view>) FBI report on cattle mutilations
12. "Archived copy" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20120331122058/http://siezhien.wen.ru/mistery/pulung.html>) (in Indonesian). Archived from the original (<http://siezhien.wen.ru/mistery/pulung.html>) on 2012-03-31. Retrieved 2011-08-31.
13. O'Brien, Christopher (November 2014). Stalking the Herd. Kempton, IL: Adventures Unlimited Press. p. 438. ISBN 978-1-939149-06-0.
14. O'Brien, Christopher (November 2014). Stalking the Herd. Kempton, IL: Adventures Unlimited Press. p. 547. ISBN 978-1-939149-06-0.
15. "'Not One Drop Of Blood': Cattle Mysteriously Mutilated In Oregon" (<https://www.npr.org/2019/10/08/767283820/not-one-drop-of-blood-cattle-mysteriously-mutilated-in-oregon>).
16. First Pregnant Cow Mutilation Discovered \(http://www.earthfiles.com/news/news.cfm?ID=1096&category=Environment\) (February 13, 2006), Earthfiles
17. Good Timothy, Alien contact: top-secret UFO files revealed, William Morrow & Co., ISBN 0-688-12223-X
18. M. Rommel Jr, Kenneth, Operation Animal Mutilation, pp.172-75
19. M. Rommel Jr, Kenneth, Operation Animal Mutilation, pp.12-13
20. The Albuquerque Tribune, June 15, 1976
21. "Freedom of Information/Privacy Act" (<https://foia.fbi.gov/foiaindex/ufoanim.htm>). Federal Bureau of Investigation.
22. Title 18 (https://www.law.cornell.edu/uscode/html/uscode18/usc_sup_01_18_10_I.html) (codes 1152 (<https://www.law.cornell.edu/uscode/text/18/1152->) and 1153 (<https://www.law.cornell.edu/uscode/text/18/1153->))
23. Animal Mutilation Project \(https://vault.fbi.gov/Animal%20Mutilation/Animal%20Mutilation%20Part%205%20of%205/view\) FBI correspondence, 1980
24. O'Brien, Christopher (November 2014). Stalking the Herd. Kempton, IL: Adventures Unlimited Press. p. 284. ISBN 978-1-939149-06-0.
25. O'Brien, Christopher (November 2014). Stalking the Herd (1st ed.). Kempton, IL: Adventures Unlimited Press. pp. 282–283. ISBN 978-1-939149-06-0.
26. Clark J, Pear N (1997), "Strange and unexplained phenomena", Visible Ink Press
27. Carroll Robert T, Skeptic's Dictionary: Cattle Mutilation \(http://www.skepdic.com/cattle.html\) (September 2006)
28. Onet George E, DVM, PhD, Kelleher Colm, PhD, (1997), Histological Changes in Bovine Skin Exposed to Natural Environmental Conditions
29. Costilla County officials probe cattle mutilation \(http://www.chieftain.com/metro/1153566001/17\) Archived (<https://archive.is/20070801062328/http://www.chieftain.com/metro/1153566001/17>) 2007-08-01 at archive.today (July 22, 2006), Pueblo Chieftain
30. More Cat and Dog Mutilations \(http://www.earthfiles.com/news/news.cfm?ID=1132&category=\), (2006), Linda Moulton Howe
31. Life term sought for killer, horse mutilator \(http://www.expatica.com/actual/article.asp?channel_id=3&story_id=25281\) Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20070310223907/http://www.expatica.com/actual/article.asp?channel_id=3&story_id=25281) 2007-03-10 at the Wayback Machine, Expatica, November 11, 2005
32. Meta Religion.com: Cattle Mutilation \(http://www.meta-religion.com/Paranormale/UFO/cattle_mutilations.htm\) Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20060823075308/http://www.meta-religion.com/Paranormale/UFO/cattle_mutilations.htm) 2006-08-23 at the Wayback Machine, (September 2006)
33. Mystery Stalks the Prairie (1976), Donovan Roberta, Wolverton Keith, ASIN B0006WH8CA
34. Bromley David G. and Anson Shupe (1981), Strange Gods: The Great American Cult Scare. Boston: Beacon Press, ISBN 0-8070-3256-5

35. Hadden J.K (2002) Cult Group Controversies: Conceptualizing "Anti-Cult" and "Counter-Cult" (<http://religiousmovements.lib.virginia.edu/cultsect/anticounter.htm>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20060827231058/http://religiousmovements.lib.virginia.edu/cultsect/anticounter.htm>) August 27, 2006, at the Wayback Machine, University of Virginia
36. Operation Cattle Mutilation, Section 2 (<https://vault.fbi.gov/Animal%20Mutilation/Animal%20Mutilation%20Part%202%20of%205/view>), FBI, Released under FOIA
37. D. Albers, Michael, The Terror, pp. 86-87
38. Clark J (1999), Unexplained! Strange Sightings, Incredible Occurrences, and Puzzling Physical Phenomena, 2nd Edition, ISBN 1-57859-070-1
39. Dean Trimboli T(1997), Dead Cows I've Known.
40. Anonymous, Report on Unusual Animal Injuries in Cache County, Utah (http://www.nidsci.org/pdf/cache_county_utahreport.pdf) Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20051222013047/http://www.nidsci.org/pdf/cache_county_utahreport.pdf) 2005-12-22 at the Wayback Machine (2002)
41. Kelleher, Colm, Brain Trust: The Hidden Connection Between Mad Cow and Misdiagnosed Alzheimer's Disease Paraview, 2004, ISBN 0-7434-9935-2
42. M. Rommel Jr, Kenneth, Operation Animal Mutilation, pp.22-23
43. D. Albers, Michael, The Terror, pp.13-15.
44. W. Smith, Fredrick, Cattle Mutilation, p.21
45. Goleman, Michael J. (2011). "Wave of Mutilation: The Cattle Mutilation Phenomenon of the 1970s". Agricultural History. 85 (3): 398–417. doi:10.3098/ah.2011.85.3.398 (<https://doi.org/10.3098%2Fah.2011.85.3.398>). JSTOR 10.3098/ah.2011.85.3.398 (<https://www.jstor.org/stable/10.3098/ah.2011.85.3.398>).
46. Beedle, Heidi (November 26, 2019). "Colorado's cattle mutilation history and the journalist who wouldn't let it go" (https://www.csindy.com/temporary_news/colorado-s-cattle-mutilation-history-and-the-journalist-who-wouldn-t-let-it-go/article_6769e632-2de0-5997-beda-9e12f9088bea.html). Colorado Springs Indy. Retrieved December 30, 2020.
47. "Portraits of the Past: Investigation into cattle mutilations continues in Colorado" (<https://www.fortmorgantimes.com/2018/11/04/portraits-of-the-past-investigation-into-cattle-mutilations-continues-in-colorado/>). The Fort Morgan Times. April 24, 2019. Retrieved December 30, 2020.
48. Beedle, Heidi (November 26, 2019). "The strange disappearance of Dane Edwards" (https://www.csindy.com/temporary_news/the-strange-disappearance-of-dane-edwards/article_ea283a0e-0dfe-5238-8b02-9a1d86bbc462.html). Colorado Spring Indy. Retrieved January 3, 2021.
49. Sieveking, Paul (26 December 1999). "100 WEIRD YEARS; AS YOU LOOK BACK ON THE ACHIEVEMENTS AND ATROCITIES OF THE 20TH CENTURY, SPARE A THOUGHT FOR ONE OF ITS MOST DISTINCTIVE FEATURES: UNEXPLAINED EVENTS. PAUL SIEVEKING, EDITOR OF THE 'FORTEAN TIMES', SELECTS 50 OF THE WEIRDEST". The Independent. pp. 8–13.

External links

- The Skeptic's Dictionary explanation of Cattle Mutilation (<http://www.skeptdic.com/cattle.html>)
- Human Mutilation by Aliens - Brazilian Case With Photos (<http://www.informantnews.com/modules.php?name=Content&pa=showpage&pid=188>)
- FBI files on Animal Mutilation (<https://vault.fbi.gov/Animal%20Mutilation>)
- Animal Mutilation News at Paranormalnews.com (<https://web.archive.org/web/20060711185519/http://www.paranormalnews.com/news.asp?nCategoryId=19>)
- Return of the Mootilators (https://web.archive.org/web/20071014070818/http://forteanimes.com/features/articles/226/return_of_the_mootilators.html). Mark Pilkington reports on Argentinian cases
- The Straight Dope, on Cattle Mutilations (<http://www.straightdope.com/columns/read/519/whats-the-story-with-cattle-mutilations>)

Retrieved from "https://en.wikipedia.org/w/index.php?title=Cattle_mutilation&oldid=1026775527"

This page was last edited on 4 June 2021, at 05:45 (UTC).

Text is available under the Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike License; additional terms may apply. By using this site, you agree to the Terms of Use and Privacy Policy. Wikipedia® is a registered trademark of the Wikimedia Foundation, Inc., a non-profit organization.

John F. Kennedy assassination conspiracy theories

The assassination of John F. Kennedy on November 22, 1963, and the subsequent murder of prime suspect Lee Harvey Oswald by night club owner Jack Ruby have spurred numerous conspiracy theories.^[1] These include alleged involvement of the CIA, the Mafia, Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro, the KGB, or some combination of these entities. The original FBI investigation and Warren Commission report, as well as an alleged "benign CIA cover-up", have led to the claim that the federal government deliberately covered up crucial information in the aftermath of the assassination.^{[2][3][4]} Former Los Angeles District Attorney Vincent Bugliosi estimated that a total of 42 groups, 82 assassins, and 214 people had been accused at one time or another in various conspiracy scenarios.^[5]

President John F. Kennedy, Mrs. Kennedy, Mrs. Connally, and Texas Governor John Connally minutes before the assassination.

In 1964, the Warren Commission concluded that Oswald was the only person responsible for assassinating Kennedy.^[a] In 1979, the United States House Select Committee on Assassinations (HSCA) concluded that Kennedy was probably assassinated as a result of a conspiracy.^{[7][8][9]} The HSCA concluded that a second gunman besides Oswald probably also fired at Kennedy, based on acoustic evidence that was later discredited.^{[10][11][12][13][14][15]} (See section below.) In 1998, the JFK Assassination Records Review Board (ARRB) unearthed inconsistencies in the prior investigations, and the Board's chief analyst for military records contended that the brain photographs in the Kennedy records were probably not of Kennedy's brain.^{[16][17][18][19]}

Contents

Background

Public opinion

Circumstantial evidence of a cover-up

Background

Alleged inconsistencies

Allegations of witness tampering, intimidation, and foul play

Alleged witness intimidation

Witness deaths

Allegations of evidence suppression, tampering, and fabrication

Suppression of evidence

Ignored testimony

Confiscated film and photographs

Withheld documents

Tampering with evidence

Photographs

Zapruder film

Kennedy's body

Fabrication of evidence

Murder weapon

Bullets and cartridges

Allegations of multiple gunmen

Number of shots

Origin of the shots

Testimony of eyewitnesses

Physical evidence

Film and photographic evidence

Acoustical evidence

Medical evidence

Oswald's marksmanship

Role of Oswald

Alternative gunmen

Three tramps

Allegations of other conspirators

E. Howard Hunt

J. D. Tippit

Bernard Weissman

Unnamed accomplice\(s\) in the murder of J. D. Tippit

Allegations about witness testimony and physical evidence

Allegations about timeline

Unidentified witnesses

Umbrella man

Dark complected man

Badge man

Black dog man

Conspiracy theories

New Orleans conspiracy

CIA conspiracy

Shadow government conspiracy

Military-industrial complex

Secret Service conspiracy

Cuban exiles

Organized crime conspiracy

Lyndon B. Johnson conspiracy

George H. W. Bush conspiracy

Cuban government conspiracy

Soviet government conspiracy

Decoy hearse and wound alteration

Federal Reserve conspiracy
Israeli government conspiracy

Other published theories

Notes

References

External links

Background

President John F. Kennedy was assassinated by gunshot while traveling in a motorcade in an open-top limousine in Dallas, Texas at 12:30 pm CST on Friday, November 22, 1963; Texas Governor John Connally was wounded, but he survived. Within two hours, Lee Harvey Oswald was arrested for killing Dallas policeman J. D. Tippit and arraigned that evening. Shortly after 1:30 am on Saturday, November 23, Oswald was arraigned for murdering President Kennedy as well.^{[20][21]} On Sunday, November 24, at 11:21 a.m, Mafia associated nightclub owner Jack Ruby fatally shot Oswald as he was being transferred from the city jail to the county jail.

Immediately after the shooting, many people suspected that the assassination was part of a larger plot,^[22] and broadcasters speculated that Dallas right-wingers were involved.^[23] Ruby's shooting of Oswald compounded initial suspicions.^[22] Among conspiracy theorists, author Mark Lane has been described as firing "the first literary shot" with his article, "Defense Brief for Oswald", in the National Guardian's December 19, 1963 issue.^{[24][25]} Thomas Buchanan's book Who Killed Kennedy?, published in May 1964, has been credited as the first book to allege a conspiracy.^[26]

In 1964, the Warren Commission concluded that Oswald had acted alone and that no credible evidence supported the contention that he was involved in a conspiracy to assassinate the president.^[27] The Commission also indicated that then-Secretary of State Dean Rusk, then-Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, then-Treasury Secretary C. Douglas Dillon, then-Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy, then-FBI director J. Edgar Hoover, then-CIA director John A. McCone, and then-Secret Service Chief James J. Rowley, each individually reached the same conclusion on the basis of information available to them.^[27] During the trial of Clay Shaw in 1969, however, New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison challenged the single-bullet theory with evidence from the Zapruder film, which he claimed indicated that a fourth shot from the grassy knoll had caused the fatal shot to Kennedy's head.

In 1979, the United States House Select Committee on Assassinations (HSCA) agreed with the Warren Commission that Oswald did, in fact, assassinate Kennedy, but concluded that the Commission's report and the original FBI investigation were seriously flawed. The HSCA concluded that at least four shots were fired with a "high probability" that two gunmen fired at the President, and that a conspiracy was probable.^[9] The HSCA stated that the Warren Commission had "failed to investigate adequately the possibility of a conspiracy to assassinate the President".^[28] The Ramsey Clark Panel and the Rockefeller Commission both supported the Warren Commission's conclusions.

Handbill circulated on November 21, 1963, one day before the assassination.

Most of the documents under Section 5 of the President John F. Kennedy Assassination Records Collection Act of 1992 were released on October 26, 2017, while the remaining documents that are still classified will be analyzed for redactions.^[29] A deadline for the remaining documents to be released has been set for October 26, 2021.^{[30][31]}

Public opinion

According to author John C. McAdams, "[t]he greatest and grandest of all conspiracy theories is the Kennedy assassination conspiracy theory."^[32] Others have often referred to it as "the mother of all conspiracies".^{[33][34]} The number of books written about the assassination of Kennedy has been estimated to be between 1,000^{[35][36]} and 2,000.^[22] According to Vincent Bugliosi, 95% of those books are "pro-conspiracy and anti-Warren Commission".^[35]

Author David Krajicek describes Kennedy assassination enthusiasts as people belonging to "conspiracy theorists" on one side and "debunkers" on the other.^[32] The great amount of controversy surrounding the event has resulted in bitter disputes between those who support the conclusion of the Warren Commission and those who reject it, or are critical of the official explanation, with each side levelling accusations toward the other of "naivete, cynicism, and selective interpretation of the evidence".^[34]

Public opinion polls have consistently shown that most Americans believe there was a conspiracy to kill President Kennedy. These same polls also show no agreement on who else may have been involved in the shooting. A 2003 Gallup Poll reported that 75% of Americans do not believe that Lee Harvey Oswald had acted alone.^[37] That same year, an ABC News poll found that 70% of respondents suspected that the assassination involved more than one person.^[38] A 2004 Fox News poll noted that 66% of Americans thought there had been a conspiracy while 74% believed that there was a cover-up.^[39] In 2009, 76% of people polled for CBS News said they believed the President had been killed as the result of a conspiracy.^[40] A 2013 Gallup Poll found that 61% of Americans, the lowest figure in nearly 50 years, believed other people besides Oswald were involved.^[41]

Circumstantial evidence of a cover-up

Background

After Oswald was shot dead by Ruby, FBI Director Hoover wrote a memo detailing that the Dallas Police would not have had enough evidence against Oswald without the FBI's information. He then wrote: "The thing I am concerned about, and so is [Deputy Attorney General] Mr. Katzenbach, is having something issued so we can convince the public that Oswald is the real assassin."^{[42][43][44]} Top government and intelligence officials were also finding that, according to CIA intercepts, someone had impersonated Oswald in phone calls and visits made to the Soviet and Cuban embassies in Mexico City several weeks before the assassination.^[45] Over the next 40 years this became one of the CIA's most closely guarded secrets on the Oswald case.^[46] A CIA career agency officer, Anne Goodpasture, admitted in sworn testimony that she had disseminated the tapes of these phone calls herself. She had earlier denied to congressional investigators in 1970 that she had any knowledge of recordings of Oswald's phone calls.^[47]

On November 23, 1963, the day after the assassination, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover's preliminary analysis of the assassination included the following:

The Central Intelligence Agency advised that on October 1st, 1963, an extremely sensitive source had reported that an individual identifying himself as Lee Oswald contacted the Soviet Embassy in Mexico City inquiring as to any messages. Special agents of this Bureau, who have conversed with Oswald in Dallas, Texas, have observed photographs of the individual referred to above and have listened to a recording of his voice. These special agents are of the opinion that the referred-to individual was not Lee Harvey Oswald.^{[48][49]}

That same day, Hoover had this conversation with President Johnson:

Johnson: "Have you established any more about the [Oswald] visit to the Soviet Embassy in Mexico in September?"

Hoover: "No, there's one angle that's very confusing for this reason. We have up here the tape and the photograph of the man at the Soviet Embassy, using Oswald's name. That picture and the tape do not correspond to this man's voice, nor to his appearance. In other words, it appears that there was a second person who was at the Soviet Embassy."^{[45][49]}

With the information that someone had been impersonating Oswald, President Johnson expressed concern that the public might come to believe that Soviet leader Nikita Khrushchev and/or Cuban leader Fidel Castro was implicated in the assassination — a situation that Johnson said might lead to "... a war that [could] kill 40 million Americans in an hour". Johnson relayed his concern to both Chief Justice Earl Warren and Senator Richard Russell, telling them that they could "serve America" by joining the commission Johnson had established to investigate the assassination, which would later become known unofficially as the Warren Commission.^{[46][50]} In turn, Katzenbach wrote a memorandum to Lyndon Johnson aide Bill Moyers that said, among other things, that the results of the FBI's investigation should be made public.^[51] Katzenbach also suggested that a commission be formed, composed of people with "impeccable integrity", to conduct a complete investigation of the assassination.^[52] Katzenbach wrote: "Speculation about Oswald's motivation ought to be cut off, and we should have some basis for rebutting thought that this was a Communist conspiracy or (as the Iron Curtain press is saying) a right-wing conspiracy to blame it on the Communists." He also wrote: "The public must be satisfied that Oswald was the assassin; that he did not have confederates who are still at large; and that the evidence was such that he would have been convicted at trial".^[51] Four days after Katzenbach's memo, Johnson formed the Warren Commission with Earl Warren as chairman and Senator Richard Russell as a member.^[53]

Alleged inconsistencies

Numerous researchers, author Mark Lane,^[54] Henry Hurt,^[55] Michael L. Kurtz,^[56] Gerald D. McKnight,^[57] Anthony Summers,^[58] and Harold Weisberg,^[59] have referred to what they see as inconsistencies, oversights, exclusions of evidence, errors, changing stories, or changes made to witness testimony in the official Warren Commission investigation, which they say could suggest a cover-up.

Michael Benson wrote that the Warren Commission received only information supplied to it by the FBI, and that its purpose was to rubber stamp the lone gunman theory.^[60]

Walter Cronkite, CBS News anchor, said, "Although the Warren Commission had full power to conduct its own independent investigation, it permitted the FBI and the CIA to investigate themselves — and so cast a permanent shadow on the answers."^[61]

United States Senator and U.S. Senate Select Committee on Intelligence member Richard Schweiker said, "The fatal mistake the Warren Commission made was to not use its own investigators, but instead to rely on the CIA and FBI personnel, which played directly into the hands of senior intelligence officials who directed the cover-up."^[62] Schweiker also told author Anthony Summers in 1978 that he "believe[d] that the Warren Commission was set up at the time to feed pabulum to the American public for reasons not yet known, and that one of the biggest cover-ups in the history of our country occurred at that time".^[63]

James H. Fetzer took issue with a 1998 statement from Federal Judge and Assassination Records Review Board (ARRB) Chairman John R. Tunheim, who stated that no "smoking guns" indicating a conspiracy or cover-up were discovered during their efforts to declassify documents related to the assassination in the early 1990s. Fetzer identified 16 "smoking guns" that he claims prove the official narrative is impossible, and therefore a conspiracy and cover-up occurred. He also claims that evidence released by the ARRB substantiates these concerns. These include problems with bullet trajectories; the murder weapon; the ammunition used; inconsistencies between the Warren Commission's account and the autopsy findings; inconsistencies between the autopsy findings and what was reported by witnesses at the scene of the murder; eyewitness accounts that conflict with x-rays taken of the President's body; indications that the diagrams and photos of the President's brain in the National Archives are not the President's; testimony by those who took and processed the autopsy photos that the photos were altered, created, or destroyed; indications that the Zapruder film had been tampered with; allegations that the Warren Commission's version of events conflicts with news reports from the scene of the murder; an alleged change to the motorcade route that facilitated the assassination; alleged lax Secret Service and local law enforcement security; and statements made by people who claim that they had knowledge of, or participated in, a conspiracy to kill the President.^[64]

In 1966, Roscoe Drummond voiced skepticism about a cover-up in his syndicated column, saying, "If there were a conspiracy to cover up the truth about the assassination, it would have to involve the Chief Justice, the Republican, Democratic, and non-party members of the commission, the FBI, the CIA, the Secret Service, the distinguished doctors of the armed services — and the White House — a conspiracy so multiple and complex that it would have fallen of its own weight."^[65]

Allegations of witness tampering, intimidation, and foul play

Alleged witness intimidation

Richard Buyer wrote that many witnesses whose statements pointed to a conspiracy were either ignored or intimidated by the Warren Commission.^[66] In JFK: The Last Dissenting Witness, a 1992 biography of Jean Hill, Bill Sloan wrote that Warren Commission assistant counsel Arlen Specter attempted to humiliate, discredit, and intimidate Hill into changing her story. Hill also told Sloan that she was abused by Secret Service agents, harassed by the FBI, and received death threats.^[67]

A later book by Sloan, entitled JFK: Breaking the Silence, quotes several assassination eyewitnesses as saying that Warren Commission interviewers repeatedly cut short or stifled any comments casting doubt on the conclusion that Oswald had acted alone.

In his book Crossfire, Jim Marrs gives accounts of several people who said they were intimidated by either FBI agents or anonymous individuals into altering or suppressing what they knew regarding the assassination. Some of those individuals include Richard Carr, Acquilla Clemmons, Sandy Speaker, and

A. J. Millican.^[68] Marrs also wrote that Texas School Book Depository employee Joe Molina was "intimidated by authorities and lost his job soon after the assassination",^[69] and that witness Ed Hoffman was warned by an FBI agent that he "might get killed" if he revealed what he observed in Dealey Plaza on the day of the assassination.^[70]

Warren Reynolds, who claimed that he saw the shooter of Police Officer J. D. Tippit and chased him, was shot in the head in January 1964, two days after first talking to the FBI. He survived. Reynolds later testified to the Warren Commission that, in February 1964, someone attempted to kidnap his 10-year-old daughter.^{[71][72][b][73]}

Witness deaths

Allegations of mysterious or suspicious deaths of witnesses connected with the Kennedy assassination originated with journalist Penn Jones Jr.,^{[74][75]} and were covered by Ramparts magazine in October 1966 (the story was picked up by Reuters, and multiple newspapers reported on it at the time). The Ramparts article cited 10 people^[c] who died within 3 years of the assassination, including:

- Jim Koethe (d. September 21, 1964), one of two reporters^[d] who, thanks to Koethe being acquainted with lawyers who had worked for Jack Ruby, was allowed in Ruby's apartment the night after Ruby shot Oswald. Koethe was killed with a "karate chop on the neck" in his own apartment by an intruder (or intruders).
- Bill Hunter (d. April 23, 1964), the other of the two reporters who went to Ruby's apartment the night after Ruby shot Oswald. Killed by a policeman with a gunshot at a police station; the gunshot was deemed accidental.
- William Whaley (d. December 1965), the taxi driver who took Oswald from the scene of the assassination. Died in a car crash, alongside the driver of the car which crashed into his cab. Described by Jones Jr. as the "first Dallas cab driver to die on duty since 1937".
- Earline Roberts (or Earlene Roberts, d. January 1966), Oswald's landlady (owner of the rooming rouse where Oswald lived). Died of a heart attack, aged 60 (no autopsy performed).
- Tom Howard (d. March 1965), one of Ruby's lawyers (the lead lawyer, according to Jones Jr.). Howard also went to Ruby's apartment with Koethe and Hunter the night after Ruby shot Oswald. Died of a heart attack, age 48, after behaving strangely for a few days and not recognizing his friends (no autopsy performed).
- Lee Bowers (d. August 1966), a witness who was in a railway interlocking tower that overlooked Dealey Plaza at the time of the assassination. Died after his car crashed into a bridge abutment.
- Hank Killam (d. March 1964), whose wife was a "cigarette girl" (or a dancer) at Ruby's club. Killam later moved to Florida, and died there; he received a phone call at 4 am, after which he went to a building in downtown Pensacola and "jumped or fell" out of a first floor window, and bled to death amid pieces of broken glass because his throat was cut.^[76]
- Edward Benavidez (d. February 1965), brother of Domingo Benavides, a key witness in the J. D. Tippit shooting (Domingo Benavides saw the shooter, and entered Tippit's car to radio for help^[e]). Died of a gunshot to the head in a bar; no one else was killed in the bar shooting. Jones Jr. implied it was a case of mistaken identity and that Domingo Benavides was the intended victim.
- Nancy Jane Mooney, aka Betty McDonald (d. February 1964), a stripper at Jack Ruby's club. Mooney was arrested for fighting with her roommate and reportedly hanged herself in her Dallas jail cell.^[77] Mooney had provided an alibi to the suspected shooter of Warren Reynolds, after Reynolds, who said he saw the killer of J. D. Tippit and reported this to the FBI, was shot in the head in January 1964.^[78]

The tenth death listed was that of Dorothy Kilgallen (see below). The Ramparts article also referenced witnesses who said that Ruby and Oswald knew each other^[78] and that Ruby had "gangland" connections.

Later, similar claims about suspicious deaths of witnesses were brought to national attention by the 1973 film Executive Action.^{[74][79]} Jim Marrs later presented a list of 103 people he believed had died "convenient deaths" under suspicious circumstances. He noted that the deaths were grouped around investigations conducted by the Warren Commission, New Orleans D.A. Jim Garrison, the Senate Intelligence Committee, and the House Select Committee on Assassinations.^[80] Marrs pointed out that "these deaths certainly would have been convenient for anyone not wishing the truth of the JFK assassination to become public."^[81] In 2013, Richard Belzer published Hit List: An In-Depth Investigation into the Mysterious Deaths of Witnesses to the JFK Assassination that examines the deaths of 50 people linked to the assassination and claims most of them were murdered as part of a cover-up.^[82]

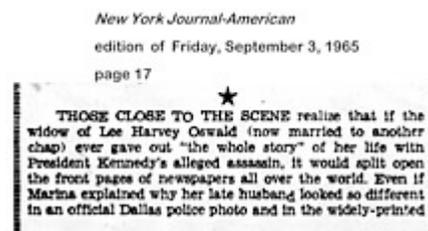

Vincent Bugliosi devoted two pages of his book Reclaiming History: The Assassination of President John F. Kennedy to journalist Dorothy Kilgallen. Kilgallen was publicly skeptical of the official version of the assassination of President Kennedy and Jack Ruby's shooting of Lee Oswald. During 1964 and 1965, she wrote several newspaper articles on the subject and many relevant short items in her daily column.^{[83][84][85]} On February 23, 1964, the New York City newspaper New York Journal-American, where Kilgallen had worked since its formation in 1937, published her article about a conversation she had had with Jack Ruby, when he was seated at his defense table during a recess in his murder trial.

Whether Kilgallen and Ruby had a second conversation in a private room in the Dallas County, Texas courthouse several days later has been disputed. If they did, she never wrote about it for publication.^[86] One of Kilgallen's biographers, Mark Shaw, contends that even if Ruby did not reveal sensitive information to Kilgallen about the assassination, she still could have learned sensitive information during a trip she made to New Orleans several weeks before she died.^[87]

Kilgallen's last brief item about the Kennedy assassination, published on September 3, 1965, ended with these words: "That story isn't going to die as long as there's a real reporter alive — and there are a lot of them alive."^{[88][89]}

Two months later, on November 8, 1965, Kilgallen was found dead in her Manhattan townhouse. Her death was determined to have been caused by a fatal combination of alcohol and barbiturates.^[90] Bugliosi referred to Kilgallen's 1965 death as "perhaps the most prominent mysterious death" cited by assassination researchers.^[91] He added that the presence of Kilgallen's husband and son in their five-story townhouse throughout the night when she died proves she could not have been murdered. Bugliosi said an intruder would have awakened her husband or her eleven-year-old son and then the husband would have called the police.^[92]

According to author Jerome Kroth, Mafia figures Sam Giancana, John Roselli, Carlos Prio, Jimmy Hoffa, Charles Nicoletti, Leo Mocer, Richard Cain, Salvatore Granello, and Dave Yaras were likely murdered to prevent them from revealing their knowledge.^[93] According to author Matthew Smith, others with some tie to the case who have died suspicious deaths include Lee Bowers, Gary Underhill, William Sullivan, David Ferrie, Clay Shaw, George de Mohrenschildt, four showgirls who worked for Jack Ruby, and Ruby himself.^[94]

full-length picture featured on the cover of Life magazine. It would cause a sensation. That story isn't going to die as long as there's a real reporter alive—and there are a lot of them alive.

Judy Garland, who announced during a California

Columnist Dorothy Kilgallen's last brief item related to the JFK assassination. She died two months later.

The House Select Committee on Assassinations investigated another alleged "mysterious death" — that of Rose Cheramie (sometimes spelled Cherami), whose real name was Melba Christine Mercades.^{[95][96]} The Committee reported that Louisiana State Police Lieutenant Francis Fruge traveled to Eunice, Louisiana, on November 20, 1963 — two days before the assassination — to pick up Cheramie, who had sustained minor injuries when she was hit by a car.^{[97][98]} Fruge drove Cheramie to the hospital and said that on the way there, she "... related to [him] that she was coming from Florida to Dallas with two men who were Italians or resembled Italians." Fruge asked her what she planned to do in Dallas, to which she replied: "... number one, pick up some money, pick up [my] baby, and ... kill Kennedy."^[98] Cheramie was admitted and treated at State Hospital in Jackson, Louisiana for alcohol and heroin addiction. After the assassination, Lt. Fruge contacted Dallas Police Captain Will Fritz regarding what he had learned from Cheramie, but Fritz told him he "wasn't interested".^[99]

State Hospital physician Dr. Victor Weiss later told a House Select Committee investigator that on November 25 — three days after the assassination — one of his fellow physicians told him that Cheramie had "stated before the assassination that President Kennedy was going to be killed".^[100] Dr. Weiss further reported that Cheramie told him after the assassination that she had worked for Jack Ruby and that her knowledge of the assassination originated from "word in the underworld".^[98] Cheramie was found dead by a highway near Big Sandy, Texas, on September 4, 1965; she had been run over by a car.^[101]

Another "suspicious death" cited by Jim Marrs was that of Joseph Milteer, director of the Dixie Klan of Georgia. Milteer was secretly tape-recorded thirteen days before the assassination telling Miami police informant William Somerset that the murder of Kennedy was "in the working". Milteer died in 1974 when a heater exploded in his house.^{[102][103][104]} The House Select Committee on Assassinations reported in 1979 that Milteer's information on the threat to the President "was furnished [to] the agents making the advance arrangements before the visit of the President" to Miami, but that "the Milteer threat was ignored by Secret Service personnel in planning the trip to Dallas." Robert Bouck, Special Agent-in-Charge of the Secret Service's Protective Research Section, testified that "threat information was transmitted from one region of the country to another if there was specific evidence it was relevant to the receiving region."^[105]

Concerning the Tippit shooting, the Warren Commission names 12 witnesses to the shooting and its aftermath.^[106] One of these witnesses, Warren Reynolds, was shot in the head 2 months after the Tippit shooting, but survived. Another witness, Domingo Benavides, who was close to the shooting and saw Tippit fall after being shot, lost his brother 15 months after the Tippit shooting; Benavides' brother was shot in the head in a bar and died.^[78]

The House Select Committee on Assassinations investigated the allegation "that a statistically improbable number of individuals with some direct or peripheral association with the Kennedy assassination died as a result of that assassination, thereby raising the specter of conspiracy".^[74] The committee's chief of research testified: "Our final conclusion on the issue is that the available evidence does not establish anything about the nature of these deaths which would indicate that the deaths were in some manner, either direct or peripheral, caused by the assassination of President Kennedy or by any aspect of the subsequent investigation."^[74]

Author Gerald Posner said that Marrs's list was taken from the group of about 10,000 people connected even in the most tenuous way to the assassination, including people identified in the official investigations, as well as the research of conspiracy theorists. Posner also said that it would be surprising if a hundred people out of ten thousand did not die in "unnatural ways". He noted that over half of the people on Marrs's list did not die mysteriously, but of natural causes, such as Secret Service agent Roy

Kellerman, who died of heart failure at age 69 in 1984, long after the Kennedy assassination, but is on Marris's list as someone whose cause of death is "unknown". Posner also pointed out that many prominent witnesses and conspiracy researchers continue to live long lives.^[107]

Allegations of evidence suppression, tampering, and fabrication

Many of those who believe in a JFK assassination conspiracy also believe that evidence against Oswald was either planted, forged, or tampered with.^[108]

Suppression of evidence

Ignored testimony

Some assassination researchers assert that witness statements indicating a conspiracy were ignored by the Warren Commission. Josiah Thompson stated that the Commission ignored the testimony of seven eyewitnesses who said they saw smoke in the vicinity of the grassy knoll at the time of the assassination, as well as an eighth witness who said he smelled gunpowder.^[109] Jim Marris wrote that the Commission did not seek the testimony of eyewitnesses on the triple underpass whose statements pointed to a shooter on the grassy knoll.^[69]

Confiscated film and photographs

Other researchers reported that witnesses who captured the assassination via photographs or film had their cameras confiscated by police or other authorities. Author Jim Marris and documentary producer Nigel Turner both presented the account of Gordon Arnold who said that his film of the motorcade was taken by two policemen shortly after the assassination.^{[70][110]} Another witness, identified as Beverly Oliver, came forward in 1970 and said she was the "Babushka Lady" who is seen, in the Zapruder film, filming the motorcade. She also said that after the assassination, she was contacted at work by two men who she thought "... were either FBI or Secret Service agents". According to Oliver, the men told her that they wanted to develop her film and return it to her within ten days, but they never did so.^{[111][110]}

Withheld documents

Richard Buyer and others have complained that many documents pertaining to the assassination have been withheld over the years, including documents from investigations made by the Warren Commission, the House Select Committee on Assassinations, and the Church Committee.^[66] These documents individually included the President's autopsy records. Some documents still are not scheduled for release until 2029. Many documents were released during the mid-to-late 1990s by the Assassination Records Review Board (ARRB) under the President John F. Kennedy Assassination Records Collection Act of 1992. However, some of the material released contains redacted sections. Tax return information, which identified employers and sources of income, has not yet been released.^[112]

The existence of several secret documents related to the assassination, as well as the long period of secrecy, suggests to some the possibility of a cover-up. One historian noted, "There exists widespread suspicion about the government's disposition of the Kennedy assassination records stemming from the beliefs that Federal officials (1) have not made available all Government assassination records (even to the Warren Commission, Church Committee, House Assassination Committee) and (2) have heavily redacted the records released under FOIA in order to cover up sinister conspiracies."^[113] According to the ARRB, "All Warren Commission records, except those records that contain tax return information, are (now) available to the public with only minor redactions."^[114] In response to a Freedom of Information Act request filed by journalist Jefferson Morley, the CIA stated in 2010 that it had over 1,100 documents in relation to the assassination, about 2,000 pages in total, that have not been released due to national security-related concerns.^[115]

Tampering with evidence

Some researchers have alleged that various items of physical evidence have been tampered with, including the "single bullet" (also known as the "magic bullet" by some critics of official explanations), various bullet cartridges and fragments, the presidential limousine's windshield, the paper bag in which the Warren Commission said Oswald hid the rifle, the so-called "backyard" photos depicting Oswald holding the rifle, the Zapruder film, the photographs and radiographs obtained at Kennedy's autopsy, and the president's dead body itself.^[116]

Photographs

Among the evidence against Oswald are photographs of him holding a Carcano rifle in his back yard, the weapon identified by the Warren Commission as the assassination weapon. The House Select Committee on Assassinations concluded that the Oswald photos are genuine^[117] and Oswald's wife Marina said that she took them.^[118] In 2009, the journal Perception published the findings of Hany Farid, a professor in the Department of Computer Science at Dartmouth College who used 3D modeling software to analyze one of the photographs.^{[119][120]} He demonstrated that a single light source could create seemingly incongruent shadows and concluded that the photograph revealed no evidence of tampering.^{[119][120]} Many researchers, including Robert Groden, assert that these photos are fake.^[121]

Oswald, carrying a rifle in his backyard

Groden said in 1979 that four autopsy photographs showing the back of Kennedy's head were forged to hide a wound fired from a second gunman.^[122] According to Groden, a photograph of a cadaver's head was inserted over another depicting a large exit wound in the back of the president's head.^[122] HSCA chief counsel G. Robert Blakey stated that the "suggestion that the committee would participate in a cover-up is absurd"^[123] and that Groden was "not competent to make a judgment on whether a photograph has been altered".^[124] Blakey stated that the photographic analysis panel for the Committee had examined the photographs and that they "considered everything" that Groden had to say "and rejected it."^{[123][124]}

Zapruder film

The House Select Committee on Assassinations described the Zapruder film as "the best available photographic evidence of the number and timing of the shots that struck the occupants of the presidential limousine".^[125] The Assassination Records Review Board said it "is perhaps the single most important assassination record."^[126] According to Vincent Bugliosi, the film was "originally touted by the vast majority of conspiracy theorists as incontrovertible proof" of a conspiracy, but is now believed by many conspiracy theorists to be a "sophisticated forgery".^{[127][f]} In 1996, the Assassination Records Review Board asked Kodak product engineer Roland Zavada to undertake a thorough technical study of the Zapruder Film.^[129] Zavada concluded that there was no detectable evidence of manipulation or image alteration on the film's original version.^[130]

David Lifton wrote that the Zapruder film was in the possession of the CIA's National Photographic Interpretation Center (NPIC) by the night of the assassination.^{[131][132]} Jack White was a researcher and photographic consultant to the House Select Committee on Assassinations, and he claimed that there were anomalies in the Zapruder film, including an "unnatural jerkiness of movement or change of focus... in certain frame sequences".^{[133][134]}

Former senior official at the CIA's National Photographic Interpretation Center, Dino Brugioni said that he and his team examined the 8mm Zapruder film of the John F. Kennedy assassination the evening of Saturday 23 November 1963 and into the morning of Sunday 24 November 1963. In a 2011 interview with Douglas Horne of the Assassination Record Review Board, Brugioni said the Zapruder film in the National Archives today, and available to the public, has been altered from the version of the film he saw and worked with on November 23–24. Brugioni recalls seeing a "white cloud" of brain matter, three or four feet above Kennedy's head, and says that this "spray" lasted for more than one frame of the film. The version of the Zapruder film available to the public depicts the fatal head shot on only one frame of the film, frame 313. Additionally, Brugioni is certain that the set of briefing boards available to the public in the National Archives is not the set that he and his team produced on November 23–24, 1963.^{[135][136]}

Kennedy's body

In his 1981 book Best Evidence, author David Lifton presented the thesis that President Kennedy's dead body had been altered between the Dallas hospital and the autopsy site at Bethesda for the purposes of creating erroneous conclusions about the number and direction of the shots.^[137] (See section below.)

Fabrication of evidence

Murder weapon

The Warren Commission found that the shots that killed Kennedy and wounded Connally were fired from an Italian 6.5mm Manlicher Carcano rifle owned by Oswald.^[138] Deputy Sheriff Eugene Boone and Deputy Constable Seymour Weitzman both initially identified the rifle found in the Texas School Book Depository as a 7.65 German Mauser. Weitzman signed an affidavit the following day describing the weapon as a "7.65 Mauser bolt action equipped with a 4/18 scope, a thick leather brownish-black sling on it".^{[139][140]} Deputy Sheriff Roger Craig claimed that he saw "7.65 Mauser" stamped on the barrel of the weapon.^[141] When interviewed in 1968 by researcher Barry Ernest, Craig said: "I felt then and I still feel now that the weapon was a 7.65 German Mauser I was there. I saw it when it was first pulled from its hiding place, and I am not alone in describing it as a Mauser."^[142]

Dallas District Attorney Henry Wade told the press that the weapon found in the book depository was a 7.65 Mauser, and the media reported this.^{[27][143]} But investigators later identified the rifle as a 6.5mm Carcano.^{[144][145]} In Matrix for Assassination, author Richard Gilbride suggested that both weapons were involved in the assassination and that Dallas Police Captain Will Fritz and Lieutenant J. Carl Day both might have been conspirators.^[146]

Addressing "speculation and rumors", the Warren Commission identified Weitzman as "the original source of the speculation that the rifle was a Mauser" and stated that "police laboratory technicians subsequently arrived and correctly identified the [murder] weapon as a 6.5 Italian rifle."^[147]

Bullets and cartridges

The Warren Commission determined that three bullets were fired at the presidential motorcade. One of the three bullets missed the vehicle entirely; another bullet hit President Kennedy and passed through his body before striking Governor Connally; and the third bullet was the fatal head shot to the President. Some claim that the bullet that passed through President Kennedy's body and hit Governor Connally — dubbed by critics of the Commission as the "magic bullet" — was missing too little mass to account for the total weight of bullet fragments later found by the doctors who operated on Connally at Parkland Hospital. Those making this claim included the governor's chief surgeon, Dr. Robert Shaw,^[148] as well as two of Kennedy's autopsy surgeons, Commander James Humes^[149] and Lt. Colonel Pierre Finck.^[150] However, in his book Six Seconds in Dallas, author Josiah Thompson took issue with this claim. Thompson added up the weight of the bullet fragments listed in the doctor reports and concluded that their total weight "could" have been less than the mass missing from the bullet.^[151]

With Connally's death in 1993, forensic pathologist Dr. Cyril Wecht and the Assassination Archives and Research Center petitioned Attorney General Janet Reno to recover the remaining bullet fragments from Connally's body, contending that the fragments would disprove the Warren Commission's single-bullet, single-gunman conclusion. The Justice Department replied that it "... would have [had] no legal authority to recover the fragments unless Connally's family gave [it] permission [to do so]." Connally's family refused permission.^[152]

Allegations of multiple gunmen

The Warren Commission concluded that "three shots were fired from the Texas School Book Depository in a time period ranging from approximately 4.8 to in excess of 7 seconds."^[153] Some assassination researchers, including Josiah Thompson and Anthony Summers, dispute the Commission's findings. They point to evidence that brings into question the number of shots fired, the origin of the shots, and Oswald's ability to accurately fire three shots in such a short amount of time from such a rifle.^{[154][155]} These researchers suggest that multiple gunmen were involved.^[156]

Dealey Plaza in 2003.

Number of shots

Based on the "consensus among the witnesses at the scene" and "in particular the three spent cartridges" found near an open window on the sixth-floor of the Book Depository, the Warren Commission determined that "the preponderance of the evidence indicated that three shots were fired".^[153] In 1979, the House Select Committee on Assassinations concluded that there were four shots, one coming from the grassy knoll.^{[9][157]}

The Warren Commission, and later the House Select Committee on Assassinations, concluded that one of the shots hit President Kennedy in "the back of his neck", exited his throat, and struck Governor Connally in the back, exited the Governor's chest, shattered his right wrist, and implanted itself in his left thigh.^[158] This conclusion became known as the "single-bullet theory".^[159]

Mary Moorman said in a TV interview immediately after the assassination that there were either three or four shots close together, that shots were still being fired after the fatal head shot, and that she was in the line of fire.^[160] In 1967, Josiah Thompson concluded from a close study of the Zapruder film and other forensic evidence, corroborated by the eyewitnesses, that four shots were fired in Dealey Plaza, with one wounding Connally and three hitting Kennedy.^[109]

On the day of the assassination, Nellie Connally was seated in the presidential car next to Governor Connally, who was her husband. In her book From Love Field: Our Final Hours, she said she believed that her husband was hit by a bullet separate from the two that hit Kennedy.^[161]

Origin of the shots

The Warren Commission concluded that all of the shots fired at President Kennedy came from the sixth-floor window at the southeast corner of the Texas School Book Depository. The Commission based its conclusion on the "cumulative evidence of eyewitnesses, firearms and ballistic experts and medical authorities", including onsite testing, as well as analysis of films and photographs conducted by the FBI and the US Secret Service.^[153]

In 1979, the House Select Committee on Assassinations agreed to publish a report from Warren Commission critic Robert Groden, in which he named "nearly [two] dozen suspected firing points in Dealey Plaza".^[162] These sites included multiple locations in or on the roof of the Texas School Book Depository, the Dal-Tex Building, the Dallas County Records Building, the triple overpass, a storm drain located along the north curb of Elm Street, and the Grassy Knoll.^[162] Josiah Thompson concluded that the shots fired at the motorcade came from three locations: the Texas School Book Depository, the Grassy Knoll, and the Dal-Tex Building.^[109]

The wooden fence on the grassy knoll, where many conspiracy theorists believe another gunman stood.

Testimony of eyewitnesses

According to some assassination researchers, the grassy knoll was identified by most witnesses as the area from where shots were fired.^{[70][163]} In March 1965, Harold Feldman wrote that there were 121 witnesses to the assassination listed in the Warren Report, 51 of whom indicated that the shots that killed Kennedy came from the grassy knoll, while 32 said the shots originated from the Texas School Book Depository.^[163] In 1967, Josiah Thompson examined the statements of 64 witnesses and concluded that 33 of them thought that the shots emanated from the grassy knoll.^[164]

In 1966, Esquire magazine credited Feldman with "advanc[ing] the theory that there were two assassins: one on the grassy knoll and one in the Book Depository".^[165] Jim Marrs also wrote that the weight of evidence suggested shots came from both the grassy knoll and the Texas School Book Depository.^[70]

Lee Bowers operated a railroad tower that overlooked the parking lot on the north side of the grassy knoll. He reported that he saw two men behind the grassy knoll's stockyard fence before the shooting took place. The men did not appear to be acting together or doing anything suspicious. After the shooting, Bowers said that one of the men remained behind the fence and lost track of the second man whose clothing blended into the foliage. When interviewed by Mark Lane, Bowers noted that he saw something that attracted his attention, either a flash of light or smoke from the knoll, allowing him to believe "something out of the ordinary" had occurred there. Bowers told Lane that he heard three shots, the last two in quick succession. He stated that there was no way they could have been fired from the same rifle.^[166] Bowers later purportedly said to his supervisor, Olan Degaugh, that he saw a man in the parking lot throw what looked like a rifle into one of the cars.^[167] However, in that same 1966 interview, Bowers clarified that the two men he saw were standing in the opening between the pergola and the fence, and that "no one" was behind the fence once the shots were fired.^{[168][169]}

Jesse Price was the building engineer for the Terminal Annex Building, which is located across from the Texas School Book Depository on the opposite side of Dealey Plaza. He viewed the presidential motorcade from the Terminal Annex Building's roof. In an interview with Mark Lane, Price said that he believed the shots came from "just behind the picket fence where it joins the [triple] underpass".^[171]

Bill and Gayle Newman drop to the grass and cover their children. The Newmans said that they thought the fatal shot came from "the garden" behind them.^[9]

Physical evidence

Several conspiracy theories posit that at least one shooter was located in the Dal-Tex Building, located across the street from the Texas School Book Depository.^[172] According to L. Fletcher Prouty, the physical location of James Tague when he was injured by a bullet fragment is not consistent with the trajectory of a missed shot from the Texas School Book Depository, leading Prouty to theorize that Tague was instead wounded by a missed shot from the second floor of the Dal-Tex Building.^[173]

Some assassination researchers claim that FBI photographs of the presidential limousine show a bullet hole in its windshield above the rear-view mirror, and a crack in the windshield itself. When Robert Groden, author of The Killing of a President, asked for an explanation, the FBI responded that what Groden thought was a bullet hole "occurred prior to Dallas".^{[174][175]} In 1993, George Whitaker, a manager at the Ford Motor Company's Rouge Plant in Detroit, told attorney and criminal justice professor Doug Weldon that after reporting to work on November 25, 1963, he discovered the presidential limousine in the Rouge Plant's B building with its windshield removed. Whitaker said that the limousine's removed windshield had a through-and-through bullet hole from the front. He said that he was directed by one of Ford's vice presidents to use the windshield as a template to fabricate a new windshield for installation in the limousine. Whitaker also said he was told to destroy the old one.^{[176][177]}

Film and photographic evidence

Film and photographic evidence of the assassination have led viewers to different conclusions regarding the origin of the shots. When the fatal shot was fired, the President's head and upper torso moved backwards — indicating, to many observers, a shot from the right front. Sherry Gutierrez, a certified crime scene and bloodstain pattern analyst, concluded that "the [fatal] head injury to President Kennedy was the result of a single gunshot fired from the right front of the President."^[178] Paul Chambers believes that the fatal head shot is consistent with a high velocity (approx. 1,200 m/s; 4,000 ft/sec) rifle rather than the medium-velocity (600 m/s; 2,000 ft/sec) Mannlicher–Carcano.^[179] Although it has been thought^[180] that Zapruder film frames 312 and 313 show Kennedy's head moving forward before moving backwards, that close inspection of the frames show Kennedy's head actually pivoted both forward and downwards; Anthony Marsh claims that it was the deceleration of the car by driver William Greer that allowed the President's head to move in that direction.^[181] Some, including Josiah Thompson, Robert Groden, and Cyril Wecht, state that the film shows that his head was hit by two near-simultaneous bullets: one from the rear and the other from the right front.^{[182][183][184]}

Acoustical evidence

In 1979, the House Select Committee on Assassinations analyzed a Dictabelt recording of the Dallas Police Department radio dispatch transmissions from the day of the assassination to "resolve questions concerning the number, timing, and origin of the shots fired in Dealey Plaza".^[185] The Committee concluded that the source of the recording was from an open microphone on the motorcycle of Dallas police officer H.B. McLain escorting the motorcade^[186] and that "the scientific acoustical evidence established a high probability that two gunmen fired at President John F. Kennedy."^[187]

However, the acoustical analysis that the HSCA presented as evidence for two gunmen has since been discredited.^{[10][11][12][13][14][15]} The HSCA acoustic experts said the Dictabelt evidence came from police officer McLain.^{[188][189]} However, McLain stated that he was not yet in Dealey Plaza when the assassination occurred.^[190] A skeptical McLain asked the Committee, "If it was my radio on my motorcycle, why did it not record the revving up at high speed plus my siren when we immediately took off for Parkland Hospital?"^[191]

Also, in 1982, a panel of 12 scientists appointed by the National Academy of Sciences, including Nobel laureates Norman Ramsey and Luis Alvarez, unanimously concluded that the HSCA's acoustic evidence was "seriously flawed". They concluded that the recording was made after the President had already been shot and that the recording did not indicate any additional gunshots.^[192] Their conclusions were later published in the journal Science.^[193]

In a 2001 article in Science & Justice, a publication of Britain's Forensic Science Society, D.B. Thomas wrote that the NAS investigation was itself flawed. Thomas analyzed audio recordings made during the assassination and concluded with a 96% certainty that a shot was fired from the grassy knoll in front of and to the right of the President's limousine.^{[194][195][196]} In 2005, Thomas's conclusions were rebutted in the same journal. Ralph Linsker and several members of the original NAS team reanalyzed the recordings and reaffirmed the earlier conclusion of the NAS report that the alleged shot sounds were recorded approximately one minute after the assassination.^[197] In a 2010 book, D.B. Thomas challenged the 2005 Science & Justice article and restated his conclusion that there actually were two gunmen.^[198]

Medical evidence

Some researchers have pointed to the large number of doctors and nurses at Parkland Memorial Hospital who reported that a major part of the back of the President's head was blown out.^{[156][199]} In 1979, the HSCA noted: "The various accounts of the nature of the wounds to the President ... as described by the staff at Parkland Memorial Hospital, differed from those in the [Bethesda] autopsy report, as well as from what appears in the autopsy photographs and X-rays". The HSCA concluded that the most probable explanation for the discrepancy between the Parkland doctors' testimony and the Bethesda autopsy witnesses was "that the observations of the Parkland doctors [were] incorrect".^[200] However, when researcher and ophthalmologist Gary Aguilar, examined the interviews of the Bethesda witnesses, which were declassified in the 1990s, he found that these witnesses also agreed that there was a large, avulsive hole in the rear of Kennedy's skull, suggesting an exit wound and that Kennedy was hit from the front.^{[201][202][203][19]}

Some critics skeptical of the official "single bullet theory" have stated that the bullet's trajectory, which hit Kennedy above the right shoulder blade and passed through his neck (according to the autopsy), would have had to change course to pass through Connally's rib cage and fracture his wrist.^{[204][205]} Kennedy's death certificate, which was signed by his personal physician George Burkley, locates the bullet at "about the level of the third thoracic vertebra" — which some claim was not high enough to exit his throat.^{[206][207]} Furthermore, since the shooter was in a sixth floor window of the Book Depository building, the bullet traveled downward. The autopsy descriptive sheet displays a diagram of the President's body with the same low placement at the third thoracic vertebra.^[208] The holes in the back of his shirt and jacket are also claimed to support a wound too low to be consistent with the "single bullet theory".^[209]

There is a conflicting testimony regarding the autopsy performed on Kennedy's body, particularly during the examination on his brain and whether or not the photos submitted as evidence are the same as those taken during the examination.^[16] Douglas Horne, the Assassination Record Review Board's chief analyst for military records, said he was "90 to 95% certain" that the photographs in the National Archives are not really of Kennedy's brain.^[18] Supporting Horne was Aguilar, who stated, "According to Horne's findings, the second brain — which showed an exit wound in the front — allegedly replaced Kennedy's real brain — which revealed much greater damage to the rear, consistent with an exit wound and thus evidence of a shot from the front."^[19]

Paul O'Connor, a laboratory technologist who assisted in the President's autopsy, claimed that the autopsy at Bethesda Naval Hospital was conducted in obedience to a high command^{[210][103]} and that nearly all the brain matter in Kennedy's skull was already missing before the autopsy at Bethesda hospital.^{[211][212]}

In his book JFK and the Unspeakable, James Douglass cites autopsy doctor Pierre Finck's testimony at the trial of Clay Shaw as evidence that Finck was "... a reluctant witness to the military control over the doctors' examination of the president's body".^{[213][214]}

A bone fragment found in Dealey Plaza by William Harper the day following the assassination was reported by the HSCA's Forensic Pathology Panel to have been from Kennedy's skull, a part of his parietal bone.^[215] Some critics of the lone gunman theory, including James Douglass, David Lifton, and David Mantick, contend that the bone fragment that Harper found is not parietal bone, but is actually a piece of Kennedy's occipital bone ejected from an exit wound in the back of his head.^[216] They allege this finding is evidence of a cover-up, as it proves that the skull radiographs taken during the autopsy, which do not show significant bone loss in the occipital area, are not authentic.^[216]

Oswald's marksmanship

The Warren Commission examined the capabilities of the Carcano rifle and ammunition, as well as Oswald's military training and post-military experience, and determined that Oswald had the ability to fire three shots within a time span of 4.8 to 5.6 seconds.^[217] According to their report, an army specialist using Oswald's rifle was able to duplicate the feat and even improved on the time. The report also states that the Army Infantry Weapons Evaluation Branch test fired Oswald's rifle 47 times and found that it was "quite accurate", comparing it to the accuracy of an M14 rifle. Also contained in the Commission report is testimony by Marine Corps Major Eugene Anderson confirming that Oswald's military records show that he qualified as "sharpshooter" in 1956.

According to official Marine Corps records, Oswald was tested in shooting in December 1956, scoring 212 (slightly above the minimum for qualification as a sharpshooter — the intermediate category), but in May 1959, he scored 191 (earning the lower designation of marksman).^[218] The highest marksmanship category in the Marine Corps is 'Expert' (220).^[219]

Despite Oswald's confirmed marksmanship in the USMC, conspiracy theorists like Walt Brown and authors such as Richard H. Popkin contend that Oswald was a notoriously poor shot, that his rifle was inaccurate, and that no reconstruction of the event has ever been able to duplicate his ability to fire three shots within the time frame given by the Warren Commission.^{[220][221]}

Role of Oswald

The Warren Commission concluded that "there is no evidence that [Oswald] was involved in any conspiracy directed to the assassination of the President."^[222] The Commission came to this conclusion after examining Oswald's Marxist and pro-Communist background, including his defection to Russia, the New Orleans branch of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee he had organized, and the various public and private statements made by him espousing Marxism.

Some conspiracy theorists have argued that Oswald's pro-Communist behavior was in fact a carefully planned ruse and part of an effort by U.S. intelligence agencies to infiltrate left-wing groups and conduct counterintelligence operations in communist countries. Others speculate that Oswald was either an agent or an informant of the U.S. government and that Oswald may have been trying to expose the plot behind the assassination.^{[223][224][225][226][227]}

Oswald himself claimed to be innocent, denying all charges and even declaring to reporters that he was "just a patsy". He also insisted that the photos of him holding a rifle had been faked, an assertion contradicted by statements made by his wife, Marina, and the analysis of photographic experts such as Lyndal L. Shaneyfelt of the FBI.

Oswald's role as FBI informant was investigated by Lee Rankin and others of the Warren Commission, but their findings were inconclusive. Several FBI employees had made statements indicating that Oswald was indeed a paid informant, but the Commission was nonetheless unable to verify the veracity of those claims.^{[228][229]} FBI agent James Hosty reported that his office's interactions with Oswald were limited to dealing with his complaints about being harassed by the Bureau for being a communist sympathizer. In the weeks before the assassination, Oswald made a personal visit to the FBI's Dallas branch office with a hand-delivered letter which purportedly contained a threat of some sort but, controversially, Hosty destroyed the letter by order of J. Gordon Shanklin, his supervisor.^{[230][231][232]}

Some researchers suggest that Oswald served as an active agent of the Central Intelligence Agency, often pointing to how he attempted to defect to Russia but was, however, able to return without difficulty (even receiving a repatriation loan from the State Department^{[233][234]}) as evidence of such. A former roommate of Oswald, James Botelho (who would later become a California judge) stated in an interview with Mark Lane that he believed Oswald was involved in an intelligence assignment in Russia,^{[235][236]} although Botelho did not mention this suspicion in his testimony to the Warren Commission years earlier. Oswald's mother, Marguerite, often insisted that her son was recruited by an agency of the U.S. Government and sent to Russia.^[223] New Orleans District Attorney (and later judge) Jim Garrison, who in 1967 brought Clay Shaw to trial for the assassination of President Kennedy, also held the opinion that Oswald was most likely a CIA agent drawn into the plot to be used as a scapegoat, even going as far as to say that Oswald "genuinely was probably a hero".^[237] Senator Richard Schweiker, a member of the U.S. Senate Select Committee on Intelligence remarked that "everywhere you look with [Oswald], there're fingerprints of intelligence".^[238] Schweiker also told author David Talbot that Oswald "was the product of a fake defector program run by the CIA."^[239] Richard Sprague, interim staff director and chief counsel to the U.S. House Select Committee on Assassinations, stated that if he "had to do it over again", he would have investigated the Kennedy assassination by probing Oswald's ties to the Central Intelligence Agency.^[240] In 1978, former CIA paymaster and accountant James Wilcott testified before the HSCA, stating that Lee Harvey Oswald was a "known agent" of the Central Intelligence Agency.^[241] Wilcott and his wife, Elsie (also a former employee of the CIA) later repeated those claims in an article in the San Francisco Chronicle.^[242]

Despite its official policy of neither confirming nor denying the status of agents, both the CIA itself and many officers working in the region at the time (including David Atlee Phillips) have "unofficially" dismissed the plausibility of any possible ties of Oswald to the agency. Robert Blakey, staff director and chief counsel for the U.S. House Select Committee on Assassinations, supported that assessment in his conclusions as well.^[243]

Alternative gunmen

In addition to Oswald, Jerome Kroth has named 26 people as "Possible Assassins In Dealey Plaza".^[93] They include: Orlando Bosch,^[93] James Files,^{[93][244]} Desmond Fitzgerald,^[93] Charles Harrelson,^{[93][245]} Gerry Hemming,^[93] Chauncey Holt,^[93] Howard Hunt,^[93] Charles Nicoletti,^{[93][245]} Charles Rogers,^[93] Johnny Roselli,^[93] Lucien Sarti,^{[93][245]} and Frank Sturgis.^[93]

Three tramps

Vincent Bugliosi provides a "partial list of assassins ... whom one or more conspiracy theorists have actually named and identified as having fired a weapon at Kennedy" in his book Reclaiming History.^[246] He also mentions the three tramps, men photographed by several Dallas-area newspapers under police escort near the Texas School Book Depository shortly after the assassination. Since the mid-1960s, various allegations have been made about the identities of the men and their involvement in a conspiracy to kill Kennedy. Records released by the Dallas Police Department in 1989 identified the men as Gus Abrams, Harold Doyle, and John Gedney.^[247]

The Three Tramps

Allegations of other conspirators

E. Howard Hunt

The theory that former CIA agent and Watergate burglar E. Howard Hunt was a participant in the assassination of Kennedy garnered much publicity from 1978 to 2000.^[248] In 1981, Hunt won a libel judgment against Liberty Lobby's paper The Spotlight, which in 1978 printed an allegation by Victor Marchetti stating that Hunt was in Dallas on the day of the assassination and suggesting Hunt's involvement in a conspiracy; the libel award was thrown out on appeal and the newspaper was successfully defended by Mark Lane in a second trial.^[249] After Hunt's death in 2007, an audio-taped "deathbed confession" in which Hunt claimed first-hand knowledge of a conspiracy, as a co-conspirator, was released by his son Saint John Hunt.^[250] In the confession, Hunt claimed to have been a "bench warmer" in Dallas during the events, and he named several high-level CIA operatives as those who likely carried out the logistics of the assassination. Hunt named Vice President Lyndon Johnson as the most likely figure behind the main impetus of the conspiracy.^[250] The authenticity of the confession was met with some skepticism.^{[248][251][252]}

J. D. Tippit

Dallas Police Officer J. D. Tippit has been named in some conspiracy theories as a renegade CIA operative sent to silence Oswald^{[253][254]} and as the "badge man" assassin on the grassy knoll.^[254] According to some Warren Commission critics, Oswald was set up to be killed by Tippit, but Tippit was killed by Oswald before he could carry out his assignment.^[255] Other critics doubt that Tippit was killed by Oswald and assert he was shot by other conspirators.^{[253][255]} (See section below.) Some critics have alleged that Tippit was associated with organized crime or right-wing politics.^[253]

Bernard Weissman

According to the Warren Commission, the publication of a full-page, paid advertisement critical of Kennedy in the November 22, 1963, Dallas Morning News, which was signed by "The American Fact-Finding Committee" and noted Bernard Weissman as its chairman, was investigated to determine whether any members of the group claiming responsibility for it were connected to Oswald or to the assassination.^[256] The Commission stated that "The American Fact-Finding Committee" was a fictitious sponsoring organization and that there was no evidence linking the four men responsible for the genesis of the ad with either Oswald or Ruby, or to a conspiracy to assassinate Kennedy.^[256]

Related to the advertisement, Mark Lane testified during the Warren Commission's hearings that an informant whom he refused to name told him that Weismann had met with Tippit and Ruby eight days before the assassination at Ruby's Carousel Club.^[256] The Commission reported that they "found no evidence that such a meeting took place anywhere at any time"^[257] and that there was no "credible evidence that any of the three men knew each other".^[258]

Lane later stated that he initially learned of the meeting through reporter Thayer Waldo of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.^[259] According to Lane, a "prominent Dallas figure" who frequented Ruby's Carousel Club told Waldo, and later Lane, that he observed the meeting of the three men at the club.^[259] He said, "I had promised the man he would not be involved; he was a leading Dallas citizen; he was married, and the stripper he was going with had become pregnant."^[259] Despite not having revealed to the Warren Commission that Waldo was his original source of the alleged meeting, Lane disputed their findings and complained that they failed to ask Waldo about it.^[260] According to Hugh Aynesworth, the source of the allegation whose identity Lane promised not to reveal was Carroll Jarnagin,^[261] a Dallas attorney who had also claimed to have overheard a meeting between Oswald and Ruby.^[262] Aynesworth wrote: "Several people in Dallas were well aware of Jarnagin's tale, and that he later admitted making it all up."^[261]

Advertisement in the November 22, 1963, Dallas Morning News, placed by Bernard Weissman and three others.

Unnamed accomplice(s) in the murder of J. D. Tippit

The Warren Commission concluded that Oswald killed President Kennedy and then "killed Dallas Police Officer J. D. Tippit in an apparent attempt to escape."^[217] Regarding the evidence against Oswald in the shooting of Tippit, the Commission cited: "(1) two eyewitnesses who heard the shots and saw the shooting of Dallas Police Patrolman J. D. Tippit and seven eyewitnesses who saw the flight of the gunman with revolver in hand positively identified Lee Harvey Oswald as the man they saw fire the shots or flee from the scene, (2) the cartridge cases found near the scene of the shooting were fired from the revolver in the possession of Oswald at the time of his arrest, to the exclusion of all other weapons, (3) the revolver in Oswald's possession at the time of his arrest was purchased by and belonged to Oswald, and (4) Oswald's jacket was found along the path of flight taken by the gunman as he fled from the scene of the killing."^[263]

Some researchers have alleged that the murder of Officer Tippit was part of a conspiracy to kill President Kennedy. Jim Marrs hypothesized that "the slaying of Officer J. D. Tippit may have played some part in [a] scheme to have Oswald killed, perhaps to eliminate co-conspirator Tippit or simply to anger Dallas police and cause itchy trigger fingers."^[264] Researcher James Douglass said that "... the killing of [Tippit] helped motivate the Dallas police to kill an armed Oswald in the Texas Theater [where Oswald was arrested], which would have disposed of the scapegoat before he could protest his being framed."^[265] Harold Weisberg offered a simpler explanation: "Immediately, the [flimsy] police case [against Oswald] required a willingness to believe. This was proved by affixing to Oswald the opprobrious epithet of 'cop-killer.'"^[265] Jim Garrison alleged that evidence was altered to frame Oswald, stating: "If Oswald was innocent of the Tippit murder the foundation of the government's case against him collapsed."^[266]

Some critics doubt that Tippit was killed by Oswald and assert he was shot by other conspirators.^{[253][255]} They allege discrepancies in witness testimony and physical evidence that they think call into question the Commission's conclusions regarding the murder of Tippit. According to Jim Marrs, Oswald's guilt in the assassination of Kennedy is placed in question by the presence of "a growing body of evidence to suggest that [he] did not kill Tippit".^[267] Others say that multiple men were directly involved in Tippit's killing. Conspiracy researcher Kenn Thomas has alleged that the Warren Commission omitted testimony and evidence that two men shot Tippit and that one left the scene in a car.^[268]

William Alexander — the Dallas assistant district attorney who recommended that Oswald be charged with the Kennedy and Tippit murders — later became skeptical of the Warren Commission's version of the Tippit murder. He stated that the Commission's conclusions on Oswald's movements "don't add up", and that "certainly [Oswald] may have had accomplices."^[269]

According to Brian McKenna's review of Henry Hurt's book, Reasonable Doubt, Hurt reported that "Tippit may have been killed because he impregnated the wife of another man" and that Dallas police officers lied and altered evidence to set up Oswald to save Tippit's reputation.^[270]

In the documentary JFK to 9/11, Francis Conolly claims that Tippit was shot because his looks resembled Kennedy's. Conolly speculates that the assassination plot did not go as planned, and that the conspirators needed a second body. He further theorizes that Tippit's body and JFK's body were switched on Air Force Two.^[271]

Allegations about witness testimony and physical evidence

The Warren Commission identified Helen Markham and Domingo Benavides as two witnesses who actually saw the shooting of Officer Tippit.^[272] Conspiracy theorist Richard Belzer criticized the Commission for, in his description, "relying" on the testimony of Markham whom he described as "imaginative".^[273] Jim Marrs also took issue with Markham's testimony, stating that her "credibility ...

was strained to the breaking point".^[267] Joseph Ball, senior counsel to the Commission, referred to Markham's testimony as "full of mistakes", characterizing her as an "utter screwball".^[274] The Warren Commission addressed concerns regarding Markham's reliability as a witness and concluded: "However, even in the absence of Mrs. Markham's testimony, there is ample evidence to identify Oswald as the killer of Tippit."^[272]

Domingo Benavides initially said that he did not think he could identify Tippit's assailant and was never asked to view a police lineup,^[275] even though he was the person closest to the killing.^[276] Benavides later testified that the killer resembled pictures he had seen of Oswald.^[277] Other witnesses were taken to police lineups. However, critics have questioned these lineups as they consisted of people who looked very different from Oswald.^{[276][278]}

Witnesses who did not appear before the Commission identified an assailant who was not Oswald. Aquilla Clemons said she saw two men near Tippit's car just before the shooting.^[237] She said that after the shooting, she ran outside of her house and saw a man with a gun whom she described as "kind of heavy". She said he waved to the second man, urging him to "go on".^[279] Frank Wright said he emerged from his home and observed the scene seconds after the shooting. He described a man standing by Tippit's body who had on a long coat and said the man ran to a parked car and drove away.^{[73][280]}

Critics have questioned whether the cartridge cases recovered from the scene were the same as those that were subsequently entered into evidence. Two of the cases were recovered by witness Domingo Benavides and turned over to police officer J. M. Poe. Poe told the FBI that he marked the shells with his own initials, "J.M.P." to identify them.^[281] Sergeant Gerald Hill later testified to the Warren Commission that it was he who had ordered police officer Poe to mark the shells.^[282] However, Poe's initials were not found on the shells produced by the FBI six months later.^{[281][283]} Testifying before the Warren Commission, Poe said that although he recalled marking the cases, he "couldn't swear to it".^{[283][284]} The identification of the cases at the crime scene raises more questions. Sergeant Gerald Hill examined one of the shells and radioed the police dispatcher, saying: "The shell at the scene indicates that the suspect is armed with an automatic .38 rather than a pistol."^[285] However, Oswald was reportedly arrested carrying a non-automatic .38 Special revolver.^{[73][286]}

Allegations about timeline

The Warren Commission investigated Oswald's movements between the time of the assassination and the shooting of Tippit, to ascertain whether Oswald might have had an accomplice who helped him flee the Book Depository. The Commission concluded "... through the testimony of seven witnesses [that] Oswald was always alone."^[287] According to their final report, Oswald was seen by his housekeeper, Earlene Roberts, leaving his rooming house shortly after 1:00 pm and had enough time to travel nine-tenths of a mile (1.4 km) to the scene where Tippit was killed at 1:16 pm.^{[288][289][h]}

Some Warren Commission critics believe that Oswald did not have enough time to get from his house to the scene where Tippit was killed.^[253] The Commission's own test and estimation of Oswald's walking speed demonstrated that one of the longer routes to the Tippit shooting scene took 17 minutes and 45 seconds to walk.^[291] No witness ever surfaced who saw Oswald walk from his rooming house to the murder scene.^[292]

Conspiracy researcher Robert Groden believes that Tippit's murder may have occurred earlier than the time given in the Warren Report.^[293] He notes that the Commission established the time of the shooting as 1:16 pm from police tapes that logged Domingo Benavides's use of the radio in Tippit's car.^[290] However, Benavides testified that he did not approach the car until "a few minutes" after the shooting, because he was afraid that the gunman might return.^[294] He was assisted in using the radio by witness T. F. Bowley who testified to Dallas police that at the time he arrived to help, "several people were at the scene", and that the time was 1:10 pm.^[295]

Witness Helen Markham stated in her affidavit to the Dallas Sheriff's department that Tippit was killed at "approximately 1:06 pm."^[296] She later affirmed the time in testimony before the Warren Commission, saying: "I wouldn't be afraid to bet it wasn't 6 or 7 minutes after 1."^{[297][298]} She initially told the FBI that the shooting occurred "possibly around 1:30 pm."^[299] In an unpublished manuscript titled When They Kill a President, Deputy Sheriff Roger Craig stated that when he heard the news that Tippit had been shot, he noted that the time was 1:06 pm.^[300] However, in a later statement to the press, Craig seemed confused about the time of the shooting.^[301]

Warren Burroughs, who ran the concession stand at the Texas Theater where Oswald was arrested, said that Oswald came into the theater between 1:00 and 1:07 pm; he also claimed he sold Oswald popcorn at 1:15 p.m. — the "official" time of Officer Tippit's murder.^{[302][237]} Julia Postal told the Warren Commission that Burroughs initially told her the same thing, although when she later discussed the event with him, she became skeptical about his version.^[303] A theatre patron, Jack Davis, also corroborated Burroughs's time, claiming he observed Oswald in the theatre prior to 1:20 pm.^[304]

Unidentified witnesses

Some conspiracy theories surrounding the Kennedy assassination have focused on witnesses to the assassination who have not been identified, or who have not identified themselves, despite the media attention that the Kennedy assassination has received.

Umbrella man

The so-called "umbrella man" was one of the closest bystanders to the president when he was first struck by a bullet. The "umbrella man" has become the subject of conspiracy theories after footage of the assassination showed him holding an open umbrella as the Kennedy motorcade passed, despite the fact that it was not raining at the time. One conspiracy theory, proposed by assassination researcher Robert Cutler, suggests that a dart with a paralyzing agent could have been fired from the umbrella, disabling Kennedy and making him a "sitting duck" for an assassination.^[305] (In 1975, CIA weapons developer Charles Senseney told the Senate Intelligence Committee that such an umbrella weapon was in the hands of the CIA in 1963.)^[306] A more prevalent conspiracy theory holds that the umbrella could have been used to provide visual signals to hidden gunmen.^[307]

Following the assassination of President Kennedy the "umbrella man" can be seen sitting on the sidewalk next to the "dark complected man" on the right side of the photograph.

In 1978, Louie Steven Witt came forward and identified himself as the "umbrella man". Testifying before the United States House Select Committee on Assassinations, Witt stated he brought the umbrella to heckle Kennedy and protest the appeasement policies of the president's father, Joseph Kennedy. He added: "I think if the Guinness Book of World Records had a category for people who were at the wrong place at the wrong time, doing the wrong thing, I would be No. 1 in that position, without even a close runner-up."^[308] Some researchers have noted a number of inconsistencies with Witt's story, however, and do not believe him to be the true "umbrella man".^[309]

The "umbrella man" is the subject of a 2011 documentary short by Errol Morris, for The New York Times.^[310]

Dark complected man

An unidentified individual who is referred to by some conspiracy theorists as the "dark complected man" can be seen in several photographs, taken seconds after the assassination, sitting on the sidewalk next to the "umbrella man" on the north side of Elm Street. Louie Steven Witt, who identified himself as the "umbrella man", said he was unable to identify the other individual, whose dark complexion has led some conspiracy theorists to speculate Cuban government involvement, or Cuban exile involvement, in the assassination of Kennedy.^[307]

Badge man

"Badge man" and "tin hat man" are figures on the grassy knoll who it is alleged can be seen in the Mary Moorman photo, taken approximately one-sixth of a second after President Kennedy was struck with the fatal head wound. The figures were first discovered by researchers Jack White and Gary Mack and are discussed in a 1988 documentary called The Men Who Killed Kennedy, where it is alleged a third figure can also be seen on the grassy knoll, possibly the eyewitness Gordon Arnold. The "badge man" figure — so called as he appears to be wearing a uniform similar to that worn by a policeman, with a badge prominent — helped fuel conspiracy theories linking Dallas Police officers, or someone impersonating a police officer, to the assassination.^[70]

Some conspiracy theorists believe that "badge man" could have fired the fatal shot that killed President Kennedy.

Black dog man

Another "figure" that has been the subject of conspiracy is the so-called "black dog man" figure who can be seen at the corner of a retaining wall in the Willis and Betzner photo of the assassination. In an interview, Marilyn Sitzman told Josiah Thompson that she saw a young black couple who were eating lunch and drinking Cokes on a bench behind the retaining wall and, therefore, it is possible that the "black dog man" figure is actually the black woman and her child.^[311] If so, the woman has never come forward to identify herself.

In The Killing of A President, Robert Groden argues that the "black dog man" figure can be seen in a pyracantha bush in frame 413 of the Zapruder film. The United States House Select Committee on Assassinations concluded that a head of an individual could be seen but that this individual was situated in front of, rather than behind the bushes.^[312] Bill Miller argues that this individual is actually the eyewitness Emmett Hudson.^[313]

"Black Dog Man"

Conspiracy theories

Conspiracy theorists consider four or five groups, alone or in combination, to be the primary suspects in the assassination of Kennedy: the CIA,^{[314][315]} the military-industrial complex,^{[314][315]} organized crime,^{[314][315][316]} the government of Cuba led by Fidel Castro,^{[315][316][317]} and Cuban exiles.^[315] Other domestic individuals, groups, or organizations implicated in various conspiracy theories include Lyndon Johnson,^{[317][315][316]} George H. W. Bush,^{[315][316]} Sam Giancana,^[317] Carlos Marcello,^[318] J. Edgar Hoover,^[316] Earl Warren,^[317] the Federal Bureau of Investigation,^[315] the United States Secret Service,^{[315][316]} the John Birch Society,^{[315][316]} and far-right wealthy Texans.^[315] Some other alleged foreign conspirators includes, the KGB and Nikita Khrushchev,^{[317][315]} Aristotle Onassis,^[316] the government of South Vietnam,^[319] and international drug lords,^[315] including a French heroin syndicate.^[319]

New Orleans conspiracy

Soon after the assassination of President Kennedy, Oswald's activities in New Orleans, Louisiana, during the spring and summer of 1963, came under scrutiny. Three days after the assassination, on November 25, 1963, New Orleans attorney Dean Andrews told the FBI that he received a telephone call from a man named Clay Bertrand, on the day of the assassination, asking him to defend Oswald.^{[320][321]} Andrews would later repeat this claim in testimony to the Warren Commission.^[322]

Also, in late November 1963, an employee of New Orleans private investigator Guy Banister named Jack Martin began making accusations that fellow Banister employee David Ferrie was involved in the JFK assassination. Martin told police that Ferrie "was supposed to have been the getaway pilot in the assassination."^[323] He said that Ferrie had outlined plans to kill Kennedy and that Ferrie might have taught Oswald how to use a rifle with a telescopic sight. Martin claimed that Ferrie had known Oswald from their days in the New Orleans Civil Air Patrol, and that he had seen a photograph, at Ferrie's home, of Oswald in a Civil Air Patrol group.^[324] Ferrie denied any association with Oswald.^[325]

It was later discovered that Ferrie had attended Civil Air Patrol meetings in New Orleans in the 1950s that were also attended by a teenage Lee Harvey Oswald.^[326] In 1993, the PBS television program Frontline obtained a photograph taken in 1955 (eight years before the assassination) showing Oswald and Ferrie at a Civil Air Patrol cookout with other C.A.P. cadets.^[326] Whether Oswald's and Ferrie's association in the Civil Air Patrol in 1955 is relevant to their later possible association in 1963 is a subject of debate.^{[326][327]}

According to several witnesses, in 1963, both Ferrie and Banister were working for lawyer G. Wray Gill on behalf of Gill's client, New Orleans Mafia boss Carlos Marcello, in an attempt to block Marcello's deportation to Guatemala.^{[328][329]} On the afternoon of November 22, 1963 — the day John F. Kennedy was assassinated and the day Marcello was acquitted in his deportation case — New Orleans private investigator Guy Banister and his employee, Jack Martin, were drinking together at a local bar. On their return to Banister's office, the two men got into a heated argument. According to Martin, Banister said something to which Martin replied, "What are you going to do — kill me like you all did Kennedy?". Banister drew his .357 magnum revolver and pistol-whipped Martin several times. Martin, badly injured, went by ambulance to Charity Hospital.^[330]

David Ferrie (second from left) with Lee Harvey Oswald (far right) in the New Orleans Civil Air Patrol in 1955.

Earlier, in the spring of 1963, Oswald had written to the New York City headquarters of the pro-Castro Fair Play for Cuba Committee, proposing to rent "a small office at my own expense for the purpose of forming a FPCC branch here in New Orleans".^[331] As the sole member of the New Orleans chapter of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee, Oswald ordered 1,000 leaflets with the heading, "Hands Off Cuba" from a local printer.^[332] On August 16, 1963, Oswald passed out Fair Play for Cuba leaflets in front of the International Trade Mart in New Orleans.^[333]

One of Oswald's leaflets had the address "544 Camp Street" hand-stamped on it, apparently by Oswald himself.^[334] The address was in the "Newman Building", which from October 1961 to February 1962 housed the Cuban Revolutionary Council, a militant anti-Castro group.^{[335][336]} Around the corner but located in the same building, with a different entrance, was the address 531 Lafayette Street — the address of "Guy Banister Associates", the private detective agency run by Guy Banister. Banister's office was involved in anti-Castro and private investigative activities in the New Orleans area. (A CIA file indicated that in September 1960, the CIA had considered "using Guy Banister Associates for the collection of foreign intelligence, but ultimately decided against it".)^{[337][338][339]}

In the late 1970s, the House Select Committee on Assassinations (HSCA) investigated the possible relationship of Oswald to Banister's office. While the committee was unable to interview Guy Banister (who died in 1964), the committee did interview his brother Ross Banister. Ross "told the committee that his brother had mentioned seeing Oswald hand out Fair Play for Cuba literature on one occasion. Ross theorized that Oswald had used the 544 Camp Street address on his literature to embarrass Guy."^[340]

Guy Banister's secretary, Delphine Roberts, would later tell author Anthony Summers that she saw Oswald at Banister's office, and that he filled out one of Banister's "agent" application forms. She said, "Oswald came back a number of times. He seemed to be on familiar terms with Banister and with the office."^[341] The House Select Committee on Assassinations investigated Roberts's claims and said that "because of contradictions in Roberts' statements to the committee and lack of independent corroboration of many of her statements, the reliability of her statements could not be determined."^[342]

In 1966, New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison began an investigation into the assassination of President Kennedy. Garrison's investigation led him to conclude that a group of right-wing extremists, including David Ferrie and Guy Banister, were involved with elements of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) in a conspiracy to kill Kennedy. Garrison would later claim that the motive for the assassination was anger over Kennedy's attempts to obtain a peace settlement in both Cuba and Vietnam.^{[343][344]} Garrison also came to believe that New Orleans businessman Clay Shaw was part of the conspiracy and that Clay Shaw used the pseudonym "Clay Bertrand".^[345] Garrison further believed that Shaw, Banister, and Ferrie conspired to set up Oswald as a patsy in the JFK assassination.^[346] On March 1, 1967, Garrison arrested and charged Shaw with conspiring to assassinate President Kennedy. On January 29, 1969, Clay Shaw was brought to trial on these charges, and the jury found him not guilty.

In 2003, Judyth Baker — whose employment records show that she worked at the Reily Coffee Company in New Orleans at the same time Oswald did — appeared in an episode of the television documentary series, The Men Who Killed Kennedy.^[347] Baker claimed that in 1963 she was recruited by Dr. Canute Michaelson to work with Dr. Alton Ochsner and Dr. Mary Sherman on a clandestine CIA project to develop a biological weapon that could be used to assassinate Fidel Castro. According to Baker, she and Oswald were hired by Reily in the spring of 1963 as a "cover" for the operation.^[348] Baker further claimed that she and Oswald began an affair, and that later Oswald told her about Merida, Mexico — a city where he suggested they might begin their lives over again.^{[347][349]} According to John McAdams, Baker presents a "classic case of pushing the limits of plausibility too far".^[350] Others on both sides of the research community have widely dismissed her claims.^[i] However, other researchers, including James Fetzer, have concluded that Baker's claims are credible.

CIA conspiracy

Addressing speculation that Oswald was a CIA agent or had some relationship with the Agency, the Warren Commission stated in 1964 that their investigation "revealed no evidence that Oswald was ever employed [by the] CIA in any capacity."^[351] The House Select Committee on Assassinations reported similarly in 1979 that "there was no indication in Oswald's CIA file that he had ever had contact with the Agency" and concluded that the CIA was not involved in the assassination of Kennedy.^[352]

Gaeton Fonzi, an investigator for the House Select Committee on Assassinations, wrote that investigators were pressured not to look into the relationship between Lee Harvey Oswald and the CIA. He stated that CIA agent David Atlee Phillips, using the pseudonym "Maurice Bishop", was involved with Oswald prior to the Kennedy assassination in connection with anti-Castro Cuban groups.^[353]

In 1995, former U.S. Army Intelligence officer and National Security Agency executive assistant John M. Newman published evidence that both the CIA and FBI deliberately tampered with their files on Lee Harvey Oswald both before and after the assassination. Furthermore, he found that both agencies withheld information that might have alerted authorities in Dallas that Oswald posed a potential threat to the President. Subsequently, Newman expressed the belief that CIA chief of counter-intelligence James Angleton was probably the key figure in the assassination. According to Newman, only Angleton "had the access, the authority, and the diabolically ingenious mind to manage this sophisticated plot." However, Newman surmised that the cover operation was not under James Angleton, but under Allen Dulles (the former CIA director, and later Warren Commission member, who had been dismissed by Kennedy after the failed Bay of Pigs invasion).^[354]

In 1977, the FBI released 40,000 files pertaining to the assassination of Kennedy, including an April 3, 1967 memorandum from Deputy Director Cartha DeLoach to Associate Director Clyde Tolson that was written less than a month after President Johnson learned from J. Edgar Hoover about CIA plots to kill Fidel Castro.^{[355][356]} The memorandum reads: "Marvin Watson [adviser to President Johnson] called me late last night and stated that the president had told him, in an off moment, that he was now convinced that there was a plot in connection with the [JFK] assassination. Watson stated the president felt that [the] CIA had had something to do with plot."^{[355][357][358][359][360]} Later, Cartha DeLoach testified to the Church Committee that he "felt this to be sheer speculation".^[361]

Shadow government conspiracy

One conspiracy theory suggests that a secret or shadow government including wealthy industrialists and right-wing politicians ordered the assassination of Kennedy.^[362] Peter Dale Scott has indicated that Kennedy's death allowed for policy reversals desired by the secret government to escalate the United States' military involvement in Vietnam.^[363]

Military-industrial complex

In the farewell speech given by U.S. President Dwight D. Eisenhower before he left office on January 17, 1961, warned the nation about the power of the military establishment and the arms industry. "In the councils of government, we must guard against the acquisition of unwarranted influence, whether sought or unsought, by the military-industrial complex. The potential for the disastrous rise of misplaced power exists, and will persist."^[364] Some conspiracy theorists have argued that Kennedy planned to end the involvement of the United States in Vietnam, and was therefore targeted by those who had an interest in sustained military conflict, including the Pentagon and defense contractors.^[365]

Former Texas Senator Ralph Yarborough in 1991 stated: "Had Kennedy lived, I think we would have had no Vietnam War, with all of its traumatic and divisive influences in America. I think we would have escaped that."^[366]

According to author James W. Douglass, Kennedy was assassinated because he was turning away from the Cold War and seeking a negotiated peace with the Soviet Union.^[367] Douglass argued that this "was not the kind of leadership the CIA, the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and the military-industrial complex wanted in the White House."^{[368][369]}

Oliver Stone's film, JFK, explored the possibility that Kennedy was killed by a conspiracy involving the military-industrial complex.^[370] L. Fletcher Prouty, Chief of Special Operations for the Joint Chiefs of Staff under Kennedy, and the person who inspired the character "Mr. X" in Stone's film, wrote that Kennedy's assassination was actually a coup d'état.^[371]

Secret Service conspiracy

The House Select Committee on Assassinations reported that it investigated "alleged Secret Service complicity in the assassination" and concluded that the Secret Service was not involved.^[352] However, the HSCA declared that "the Secret Service was deficient in the performance of its duties."^[372] Among its findings, the HSCA noted: (1) that President Kennedy had not received adequate protection in Dallas, (2) that the Secret Service possessed information that was not properly analyzed, investigated, or used by the Secret Service in connection with the President's trip to Dallas, and (3) that the Secret Service agents in the motorcade were inadequately prepared to protect the President from a sniper.^[373] The HSCA specifically noted:

No actions were taken by the agent in the right front seat of the presidential limousine Roy Kellerman to cover the President with his body, although it would have been consistent with Secret Service procedure for him to have done so. The primary function of the agent was to remain at all times in close proximity to the President in the event of such emergencies.^[374]

Some argue that the lack of Secret Service protection occurred because Kennedy himself had asked that the Secret Service make itself discreet during the Dallas visit.^[375] However, Vince Palamara, who interviewed several Secret Service agents assigned to the Kennedy detail, disputes this. Palamara reports that Secret Service driver Sam Kinney told him that requests — such as removing the bubble top from the limousine in Dallas, not having agents positioned beside the limousine's rear bumper, and reducing the number of Dallas police motorcycle outriders near the limousine's rear bumper — were not made by Kennedy.^{[376][177][377][378]}

In The Echo from Dealey Plaza, Abraham Bolden — the first African American on the White House Secret Service detail — claimed to have overheard agents say that they would not protect Kennedy from would-be assassins.^[379]

Questions regarding the forthrightness of the Secret Service increased in the 1990s when the Assassination Records Review Board — which was created when Congress passed the JFK Records Act — requested access to Secret Service records. The Review Board was told by the Secret Service that in January 1995, in violation of the JFK Records Act, the Secret Service destroyed protective survey reports that covered JFK's trips from September 24 through November 8, 1963.^{[380][381][382]}

Cuban exiles

The House Select Committee on Assassinations wrote: "The committee believes, on the basis of the evidence available to it, that anti-Castro Cuban groups, as groups, were not involved in the assassination of President Kennedy, but that the available evidence does not preclude the possibility that individual members may have been involved".^[352]

With the 1959 Cuban Revolution that brought Fidel Castro to power, many Cubans left Cuba to live in the United States. Many of these exiles hoped to overthrow Castro and return to Cuba. Their hopes were dashed with the failed Bay of Pigs Invasion in 1961, and many blamed President Kennedy for the failure.^[383]

The House Select Committee on Assassinations concluded that some militant Cuban exiles might have participated in Kennedy's murder. These exiles worked closely with CIA operatives in violent activities against Castro's Cuba. In 1979, the committee reported:

President Kennedy's popularity among the Cuban exiles had plunged deeply by 1963. Their bitterness is illustrated in a tape recording of a meeting of anti-Castro Cubans and right-wing Americans in the Dallas suburb of Farmer's Branch on October 1, 1963.^[384]

Author Joan Didion explored the Miami anti-Castro Cuban theory in her 1987 book Miami.^{[385][386]} She discussed Marita Lorenz's testimony regarding Guillermo Novo, a Cuban exile who, in 1964, was involved in shooting a bazooka at the headquarters of the United Nations building from the East River during a speech by Che Guevara. Allegedly, Novo was affiliated with Lee Harvey Oswald, and Frank Sturgis. Lorenz claimed that she, Oswald, and seven anti-Castro Cubans transported weapons from Miami to Dallas in two cars just prior to the assassination.^{[387][388]} These claims, though put forth to the House Assassinations Committee by Lorenz, have never been substantiated. Don DeLillo dramatized the Cuban theory in his 1988 novel Libra.

Organized crime conspiracy

In 1964, the Warren Commission found no evidence linking Ruby's killing of Oswald with any broader conspiracy to assassinate President Kennedy.^[27] The Commission concluded that Lee Harvey Oswald was the only person responsible for assassinating the President, asserting: "Based on its evaluation of the record, the Commission believes that the evidence does not establish a significant link between Ruby and organized crime. Both State and Federal officials have indicated that Ruby was not affiliated with organized criminal activity."^[389]

However, in 1979, the House Select Committee on Assassinations wrote: "The committee believes, on the basis of the evidence available to it, that the national syndicate of organized crime, as a group, was not involved in the assassination of President Kennedy, but that the available evidence does not preclude the possibility that individual members may have been involved".^[352] Robert Blakey, who was chief counsel for the House Select Committee on Assassinations, would later conclude in his book, The Plot to Kill the President, that New Orleans Mafia boss Carlos Marcello was likely part of a Mafia conspiracy behind the assassination, and that the Mafia had the means and the opportunity required to carry it out.^{[390][391]}

In a 1993 Washington Post article, Blakey added: "It is difficult to dispute the underworld pedigree of Jack Ruby, though the Warren Commission did it in 1964. Author Gerald Posner similarly ignores Ruby's ties to Joseph Civello, the organized crime boss in Dallas. His relationship with Joseph Campisi, the No.

2 man in the mob in Dallas, is even more difficult to ignore. In fact, Campisi and Ruby were close friends; they had dinner together at Campisi's restaurant, the Egyptian Lounge, on the night before the assassination. After Ruby was jailed for killing Oswald, Campisi regularly visited him. The select committee thought Campisi's connection to Marcello was telling; he told us, for example, that every year at Christmas he sent 260 pounds of Italian sausage to Marcello, a sort of Mafia tribute. We also learned that he called New Orleans up to 20 times a day."^[392]

Government documents have revealed that some members of the Mafia worked with the Central Intelligence Agency on assassination attempts against Cuban leader Fidel Castro.^[393] In summer 1960, the CIA recruited ex-FBI agent Robert Maheu to approach the West Coast representative of the Chicago mob, Johnny Roselli.^[394] When Maheu contacted Roselli, Maheu hid the fact that he was sent by the CIA, instead portraying himself as an advocate for international corporations. He offered to pay $150,000 to have Castro killed, but Roselli declined any pay. Roselli introduced Maheu to two men he referred to as "Sam Gold" and "Joe". "Sam Gold" was Sam Giancana; "Joe" was Santo Trafficante, Jr., the Tampa, Florida, boss and one of the most powerful mobsters in pre-revolution Cuba.^{[395][396]} Glenn Kessler of The Washington Post explained: "After Fidel Castro led a revolution that toppled a friendly government in 1959, the CIA was desperate to eliminate him. So the agency sought out a partner equally worried about Castro — the Mafia, which had lucrative investments in Cuban casinos."^[397]

In his memoir, Bound by Honor, Bill Bonanno, son of New York Mafia boss Joseph Bonanno, disclosed that several Mafia families had long-standing ties with the anti-Castro Cubans through the Havana casinos operated by the Mafia before the Cuban Revolution. Many Cuban exiles and Mafia bosses disliked President Kennedy, blaming him for the failed Bay of Pigs Invasion.^[398] They also disliked his brother, then United States Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy, who had conducted an unprecedented legal assault on organized crime.^{[399][400]} This was especially provocative because several Mafia "families" had allegedly worked with JFK's father, Joseph Kennedy, to get JFK elected.^[401] Both the Mafia and the anti-Castro Cubans were experts in assassination — the Cubans having been trained by the CIA.^[402] Bonanno reported that he recognized the high degree of involvement of other Mafia families when Jack Ruby killed Oswald, since Bonanno was aware that Ruby was an associate of Chicago mobster Sam Giancana.^[403]

Some conspiracy researchers have alleged a plot involving elements of the Mafia, the CIA, and the anti-Castro Cubans, including Anthony Summers, who stated: "Sometimes people sort of glaze over about the notion that the Mafia and U.S. intelligence and the anti-Castro activists were involved together in the assassination of President Kennedy. In fact, there's no contradiction there. Those three groups were all in bed together at the time and had been for several years in the fight to topple Fidel Castro."^[404] News reporter Ruben Castaneda wrote in 2012: "Based on the evidence, it is likely that JFK was killed by a coalition of anti-Castro Cubans, the Mob, and elements of the CIA."^[405] In his book, They Killed Our President, former Minnesota governor Jesse Ventura concluded: "John F. Kennedy was murdered by a conspiracy involving disgruntled CIA agents, anti-Castro Cubans, and members of the Mafia, all of whom were extremely angry at what they viewed as Kennedy's appeasement policies toward Communist Cuba and the Soviet Union."^[406]

Carlos Marcello allegedly threatened to assassinate the President to short-circuit his younger brother, Attorney General Robert Kennedy, who was leading the administration's anti-Mafia crusade.^{[407][408]} Information released in 2006 by the FBI has led some to conclude that Carlos Marcello confessed to his cellmate in Texas, Jack Van Lanningham, an FBI informant, using a transistor radio that was bugged by the FBI, to having organized Kennedy's assassination, and that the FBI covered up this information that it had in its possession.^[409]

In his book, Contract on America,^[410] David Scheim provided evidence that Mafia leaders Carlos Marcello, Santo Trafficante, Jr., and Jimmy Hoffa ordered the assassination of President Kennedy. Scheim cited in particular a 25-fold increase in the number of out-of-state telephone calls from Jack Ruby to associates of these crime bosses in the months before the assassination, and to an attempted confession by Jack Ruby while in prison. David E. Kaiser has also suggested mob involvement in his book, The Road to Dallas.^[411]

Investigative reporter Jack Anderson concluded that Fidel Castro worked with organized crime figures to arrange the JFK assassination. In his book Peace, War, and Politics, Anderson claimed that Mafia member Johnny Roselli gave him extensive details of the plot. Anderson said that although he was never able to independently confirm Roselli's entire story, many of Roselli's details checked out. Anderson said that Oswald may have played a role in the assassination, but that more than one gunman was involved. Johnny Roselli, as previously noted, had worked with the CIA on assassination attempts against Castro.

The History Channel program The Men Who Killed Kennedy presented additional claims of organized crime involvement.^[412] Christian David was a Corsican Mafia member interviewed in prison. He said that he was offered the assassination contract on President Kennedy, but that he did not accept it. However, he said that he knew the men who did accept the contract. According to David, there were three shooters. He provided the name of one — Lucien Sarti. David said that since the other two shooters were still alive, it would break a code of conduct for him to identify them. When asked what the shooters were wearing, David noted their modus operandi was to dress in costumes such as official uniforms. Much of Christian David's testimony was confirmed by former Corsican member Michelle Nicole, who was part of the DEA witness protection program.^[412]

The book Ultimate Sacrifice, by Lamar Waldron and Thom Hartmann, attempted to synthesize these theories with new evidence. The authors argued that government officials felt obliged to help the assassins cover up the truth because the assassination conspiracy had direct ties to American government plots to assassinate Castro. Outraged at Robert Kennedy's attack on organized crime, mob leaders had President Kennedy killed to remove Robert from power. A government investigation of the plot was thwarted, the authors allege, because it would have revealed embarrassing evidence of American government involvement with organized crime in plots to kill Castro.^[413]

Lyndon B. Johnson conspiracy

A 2003 Gallup poll indicated that nearly 20% of Americans suspected Lyndon B. Johnson of being involved in the assassination of Kennedy.^[414] Critics of the Warren Commission have accused Johnson of plotting the assassination because he "disliked" the Kennedys and feared that he would be dropped from the Democratic ticket for the 1964 election.^{[415][416]}

According to journalist Max Holland, the first published allegation that Johnson perpetrated the assassination of Kennedy appeared in Penn Jones, Jr.'s book Forgive My Grief, self-published in May 1966.^[417] In the book, Jones provided excerpts of a letter purported to have been authored by Jack Ruby charging LBJ with the murder of the President.^[417] With his 1968 book, The Dark Side of Lyndon Baines Johnson, Joachim Joesten is credited by Bugliosi as being the first conspiracy author to accuse Johnson of having a role in the assassination.^[418] According to Joesten, Johnson "played the leading part" in a conspiracy that involved

Johnson is sworn in on Air Force One by Judge Hughes. Mrs. Kennedy is to the right and Mrs. Johnson to the left.

"the Dallas oligarchy and ... local branches of the CIA, the FBI, and the Secret Service".^[418] Others who have indicated there was complicity on the part of Johnson include Jim Marrs,^[418] Ralph D. Thomas,^[418] J. Gary Shaw,^[418] Larry Harris,^[418] Walt Brown,^[418] Noel Twyman,^[418] Barr McClellan,^[418] Craig Zirbel,^[419] Phillip F. Nelson,^[420] and Madeleine Brown.^[421]

The fact that JFK was seriously considering dropping Johnson from the ticket in favor of NC Governor Terry Sanford should Kennedy run in 1964 has been cited as a possible motive for Johnson's complicity in the assassination. In 1968, Kennedy's personal secretary Evelyn Lincoln wrote in her book, "Kennedy and Johnson" that President Kennedy had told her that Lyndon B. Johnson would be replaced as Vice President of the United States. That conversation took place on November 19, 1963, just three days before the assassination of President Kennedy and was recorded that evening in her diary and reads as follows:

As Mr. Kennedy sat in the rocker in my office, his head resting on its back he placed his left leg across his right knee. He rocked slightly as he talked. In a slow pensive voice he said to me, 'You know if I am re-elected in sixty-four, I am going to spend more and more time toward making government service an honorable career. I would like to tailor the executive and legislative branches of government so that they can keep up with the tremendous strides and progress being made in other fields.' 'I am going to advocate changing some of the outmoded rules and regulations in the Congress, such as the seniority rule. To do this I will need as a running mate in sixty-four a man who believes as I do.' Mrs. Lincoln went on to write "I was fascinated by this conversation and wrote it down verbatim in my diary. Now I asked, 'Who is your choice as a running-mate?' 'He looked straight ahead, and without hesitating he replied, 'at this time I am thinking about Governor Terry Sanford of North Carolina. But it will not be Lyndon.'^[422]

In 2003, researcher Barr McClellan published the book Blood, Money & Power.^[423] McClellan claims that Johnson, motivated by the fear of being dropped from the Kennedy ticket in 1964 and the need to cover up various scandals, masterminded Kennedy's assassination with the help of his friend, Austin attorney Edward A. Clark. The book suggests that a smudged partial fingerprint from the sniper's nest likely belonged to Johnson's associate Malcolm "Mac" Wallace, and that Mac Wallace was, therefore, on the sixth floor of the Depository at the time of the shooting. The book further claims that the killing of Kennedy was paid for by oil magnates, including Clint Murchison and H. L. Hunt. McClellan states that the assassination of Kennedy allowed the oil depletion allowance to be kept at 27.5 percent. It remained unchanged during the Johnson presidency. According to McClellan, this resulted in a saving of over $100 million to the American oil industry. McClellan's book subsequently became the subject of an episode of Nigel Turner's ongoing documentary television series, The Men Who Killed Kennedy. The episode, "The Guilty Men", drew angry condemnation from the Johnson family, Johnson's former aides, and former Presidents Gerald Ford (who was a member of the Warren Commission^[424]) and Jimmy Carter following its airing on The History Channel. The History Channel assembled a committee of historians who concluded the accusations in the documentary were without merit, and The History Channel apologized to the Johnson family and agreed not to air the series in the future.^[425]

Madeleine Brown, who alleged she was the mistress of Johnson, also implicated him in a conspiracy to kill Kennedy. In 1997, Brown said that Johnson, along with H. L. Hunt, had begun planning Kennedy's demise as early as 1960. Brown claimed that by its fruition in 1963, the conspiracy involved dozens of persons, including the leadership of the FBI and the Mafia, as well as prominent politicians and journalists.^[426] In the documentary The Men Who Killed Kennedy, Madeleine Brown and May Newman (an employee of Texas oilman Clint Murchison) both placed FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover at a social gathering at Murchison's mansion the night before the assassination.^[427] Also in attendance, according to Brown, were John McCloy, Richard Nixon, George Brown, R. L. Thornton, and H. L. Hunt.^[428] Madeleine Brown claimed that Johnson arrived at the gathering late in the evening and, in a "grating whisper", told her that the "... Kennedys will never embarrass me again — that's no threat — that's a promise."^{[428][429][430]} In addition, Brown said that on New Year's Eve 1963, she met Johnson at the Driskill Hotel in Austin, Texas and that he confirmed the conspiracy to kill Kennedy, insisting that "the fat cats of Texas and [U.S.] intelligence" had been responsible.^[427] Brown reiterated her allegations against Johnson in the 2006 documentary Evidence of Revision. In the same documentary, several other Johnson associates also voiced their suspicions of Johnson.

Dr. Charles Crenshaw authored the 1992 book JFK: Conspiracy of Silence, along with conspiracy theorists Jens Hansen and J. Gary Shaw. Crenshaw was a third-year surgical resident on the trauma team at Parkland Hospital that attended to President Kennedy. He also treated Oswald after he was shot by Jack Ruby.^[431] While attending to Oswald, Crenshaw said that he answered a telephone call from Lyndon Johnson. Crenshaw said that Johnson inquired about Oswald's status, and that Johnson demanded a "death-bed confession from the accused assassin [Oswald]".^[431] Crenshaw said that he relayed Johnson's message to Dr. Shires, but that Oswald was in no condition to give any statement.^{[427][432]} Critics of Crenshaw's allegation state that Johnson was in his limousine at the moment the call would have been made, that no one in his car corroborated that the call was made, and that there is no record of such a call being routed through the White House switchboard.^{[433][434]}

Former CIA agent and Watergate figure E. Howard Hunt accused Johnson (along with several CIA agents whom he named) of complicity in the assassination in his posthumously released autobiography American Spy: My Secret History in the CIA, Watergate, and Beyond.^[435] Referencing that section of the book, Tim Weiner of The New York Times and Joseph C. Goulden of The Washington Times called into question the sincerity of the charges, and William F. Buckley, Jr., who wrote the foreword, said material "was clearly ghostwritten".^{[436][437][438]} Shortly afterwards, an audio-taped "deathbed confession" in which Hunt claimed first-hand knowledge of a conspiracy, as a co-conspirator, was released by his sons;^[250] the authenticity of the confession was also met with some skepticism.^{[248][251][252]}

In 1984, convicted swindler Billie Sol Estes made statements to a Grand Jury in Texas indicating that he had "inside knowledge" that implicated Johnson in the death of Kennedy and others.^{[439][440]}

Historian Michael L. Kurtz wrote that there is no evidence suggesting that Johnson ordered the assassination of Kennedy.^[441] According to Kurtz, Johnson believed Fidel Castro was responsible for the assassination and that Johnson covered up the truth because he feared the possibility that retaliatory measures against Cuba might escalate to nuclear war with the Soviet Union.^[441] In 2012, biographer Robert Caro published his fourth volume on Johnson's career, The Passage of Power, which chronicles Johnson's communications and actions as Vice President, and describes the events leading up to the assassination.^[442] Caro wrote that "nothing that I have found in my research" points to involvement by Johnson.^[443]

Political consultant and convicted felon Roger Stone believes that Johnson orchestrated Kennedy's assassination. He also claims that Rafael Cruz, father of Texas Senator and Republican presidential candidate for the 2016 elections Ted Cruz, is tied to Lee Harvey Oswald.^{[444][445][446]}

George H. W. Bush conspiracy

On November 29, 1963, exactly one week after the assassination, an employee of the FBI wrote in a memo that "Mr. George Bush of the Central Intelligence Agency" was given a briefing on the reaction to the assassination by Cuban exiles living in Miami. Some have alleged that the "George Bush" cited in this memo is the future U.S. president George H. W. Bush, who was appointed head of the CIA by president Gerald Ford in 1976, 13 years after the assassination. During Bush's presidential campaign in 1988, the memo resurfaced, prompting the CIA to claim that the memo was referring to an employee named George Williams Bush.^[447] However, George Williams Bush disputed this suggestion, declaring under oath that "I am not the George Bush of the Central Intelligence Agency referred to in the memorandum."^[448] On the website JFK Facts, author Jefferson Morley writes that any communication by Bush with the FBI or CIA in November 1963 does not necessarily demonstrate culpability in the assassination, and that it is unclear whether Bush had any affiliation with the CIA prior to his appointment to head the agency in 1976.^[449]

Bush biographer Kitty Kelley alleges that Bush was unable to remember his whereabouts on the day of Kennedy's assassination, despite the fact that this information is known. The day of the assassination, Bush flew to Tyler, Texas, to make an appearance ahead of his upcoming campaign for the U.S. Senate in 1964, and spoke to the FBI about a local who had threatened Kennedy. The previous day, Bush had been in Dallas to speak at an oil industry meeting. Morley has suggested the possibility that Bush's report to the FBI was a cover story, but cautioned that "speculation, however plausible, isn't evidence," and that Kelley is "not the most reliable of sources."^[449]

Those who believe that Bush may have been involved in the assassination have presented photographic evidence of a man resembling Bush in Dealey Plaza at the time of the assassination. However, Morley argues this evidence is weak, as no comparative measurements of the two men's facial features has been made. Bush was already an announced Senate candidate for several months by the time of the assassination and thus had received much press attention. No eyewitnesses have publicly recalled seeing Bush at the scene, though his opponent, incumbent Senator Ralph Yarborough, passed by in the presidential motorcade.^[449]

In September 1976, George de Mohrenschildt, a Dallas petroleum geologist and a friend of both Bush and Lee Harvey Oswald,^{[450][451][452][453]} wrote a letter to Bush, then director of the CIA, asking for his assistance.^{[454][455]} Mohrenschildt was being pressured by House Select Committee on Assassinations (HSCA) investigators to testify on the assassination, causing him to write the letter in distress. Bush responded to Mohrenschildt's letter, but said he would be unable to help.^{[CIA Exec Reg. # 76,51571 9.28.76]^[j]} Mohrenschildt committed suicide six months later, before testifying to the HSCA.^{[456][457][458]} Morley argues that the letter's existence, and Bush's response, does not demonstrate guilt for either man, but merely that Bush was uninterested in questioning the CIA's account of the assassination.^[449]

Cuban government conspiracy

In its report, the Warren Commission stated that it had investigated "dozens of allegations of a conspiratorial contact between Oswald and agents of the Cuban Government" and had found no evidence of Cuban involvement in the assassination of President Kennedy.^[459] The House Select Committee on Assassinations also wrote: "The committee believes, on the basis of the evidence available to it, that the Cuban Government was not involved in the assassination of President Kennedy".^[352] However, some conspiracy theorists continue to allege that Fidel Castro ordered the assassination of Kennedy in retaliation for the CIA's previous attempts to assassinate him.^[400]

In the early 1960s, Clare Boothe Luce, wife of Time-Life publisher Henry Luce, was one of a number of prominent Americans who sponsored anti-Castro groups. This support included funding exiles in commando speedboat raids against Cuba. In 1975, Clare Luce said that on the night of the assassination, she received a call from a member of a commando group she had sponsored. According to Luce, the caller's name was "something like" Julio Fernandez and he claimed he was calling her from New Orleans.^{[460][461]}

According to Luce, Fernandez told her that Oswald had approached his group with an offer to help assassinate Castro. Fernandez further claimed that he and his associates eventually found out that Oswald was a communist and supporter of Castro. He said that with this new-found knowledge, his group kept a close watch on Oswald until Oswald suddenly came into money and went to Mexico City and then Dallas.^[462] Finally, according to Luce, Fernandez told her, "There is a Cuban Communist assassination team at large and Oswald was their hired gun."^[463]

Luce said that she told the caller to give his information to the FBI. Subsequently, Luce would reveal the details of the incident to both the Church Committee and the HSCA. Both committees investigated the incident, but were unable to uncover any evidence to corroborate the allegations.^[464]

In May 1967, CIA Director Richard Helms told President Lyndon Johnson that the CIA had tried to assassinate Castro. Helms further stated that the CIA had employed members of the Mafia in this effort, and "... that CIA plots to assassinate Fidel Castro dated back to August of 1960 — to the Eisenhower Administration." Helms also said that the plots against Castro continued into the Kennedy Administration and that Attorney General Robert Kennedy had known about both the plots and the Mafia's involvement.^[465]

On separate occasions, Johnson told two prominent television newsmen that he believed that JFK's assassination had been organized by Castro as retaliation for the CIA's efforts to kill Castro. In October 1968, Johnson told veteran newsman Howard K. Smith of ABC that "Kennedy was trying to get to Castro, but Castro got to him first." In September 1969, in an interview with Walter Cronkite of CBS, Johnson said in regard to the assassination, "[I could not] honestly say that I've ever been completely relieved of the fact that there might have been international connections", and referenced unnamed "others". Finally, in 1971, Johnson told his former speechwriter Leo Janos of Time magazine that he "never believed that Oswald acted alone".^[465]

In 1977, Castro was interviewed by newsman Bill Moyers. Castro denied any involvement in Kennedy's death, saying:

It would have been absolute insanity by Cuba. ... It would have been a provocation. Needless to say, it would have been to run the risk that our country would have been destroyed by the United States. Nobody who's not insane could have thought about [killing Kennedy in retaliation].^{[402][466]}

When Castro was interviewed later in 2013 by Atlantic editor, Jeffrey Goldberg, Castro said:

There were people in the American government who thought Kennedy was a traitor because he didn't invade Cuba when he had the chance, when they were asking him. He was never forgiven for that.^[467]

Soviet government conspiracy

The Warren Commission reported that they found no evidence that the Soviet Union was involved in the assassination of President Kennedy.^[27] The House Select Committee on Assassinations also wrote: "The committee believes, on the basis of the evidence available to it, that the Soviet Government was not involved in the assassination of President Kennedy".^[352]

According to some conspiracy theorists, the Soviet Union, under the leadership of Nikita Khrushchev, was responsible for the assassination, motivated by the humiliation of having to back down during the Cuban Missile Crisis.^[400]

According to a 1966 FBI document, Colonel Boris Ivanov — chief of the KGB Residency in New York City at the time of the assassination — stated that it was his personal opinion that the assassination had been planned by an organized group, rather than a lone individual. The same document stated, "... officials of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union believed there was some well-organized conspiracy on the part of the 'ultraright' in the United States to effect a 'coup.'"^[468]

Much later, the high-ranking Soviet Bloc intelligence defector, Lt. Gen. Ion Mihai Pacepa, said that he had a conversation with Nicolae Ceaușescu who told him about "ten international leaders the Kremlin killed or tried to kill", including Kennedy. He claimed that "among the leaders of Moscow's satellite intelligence services there was unanimous agreement that the KGB had been involved in the assassination of President Kennedy."^[469] Pacepa later released a book, Programmed to Kill: Lee Harvey Oswald, the Soviet KGB, and the Kennedy Assassination, in 2007. Similar views on the JFK assassination were expressed by Robert Holmes, former First Secretary at the British Embassy in Moscow, in his 2012 book Spy Like No Other.

Decoy hearse and wound alteration

David Lifton presented a scenario in which conspirators on Air Force One removed Kennedy's body from its original bronze casket and placed it in a shipping casket, while en route from Dallas to Washington. Once the presidential plane arrived at Andrews Air Force Base, the shipping casket with the President's body in it was surreptitiously taken by helicopter from the side of the plane that was out of the television camera's view. Kennedy's body was then taken to an unknown location — most likely Walter Reed Army Medical Center^[470] — to surgically alter the body to make it appear that he was shot only from the rear.^{[471][472][473][103]}

Part of Lifton's theory comes from a House Select Committee on Assassinations report of an interview of Lt. Richard Lipsey on January 18, 1978, by committee staff members Donald Purdy and Mark Flanagan. According to the report, Lt. Richard Lipsey said that he and General Wehle had met President Kennedy's body at Andrews Air Force Base. Lipsey "... placed [the casket] in a hearse to be transported to Bethesda Naval Hospital. Lipsey mentioned that he and Wehle then flew by helicopter to Bethesda and took [the body of] JFK into the back of Bethesda." Lipsey said that "a decoy hearse had been driven to the front [of Bethesda]".^[474] With Lipsey's mention of a "decoy hearse" at Bethesda, Lifton theorized that the casket removed by Lipsey from Air Force One — from the side of the plane exposed to television — was probably also a decoy and was likely empty.^{[475][476]}

Laboratory technologist Paul O'Connor was one of the major witnesses supporting another part of David Lifton's theory that somewhere between Parkland and Bethesda the President's body was made to appear as if it had been shot only from the rear. O'Connor said that President Kennedy's body arrived at Bethesda inside a body bag in "a cheap, shipping-type of casket", which differed from the description of the ornamental bronze casket and sheet that the body had been wrapped in at Parkland Hospital.^[477] O'Connor said that the brain had already been removed by the time it got to Bethesda,^[477] and that there were "just little pieces" of brain matter left inside the skull.^[212]

Researcher David Wrone dismissed the theory that Kennedy's body was surreptitiously removed from the presidential plane, stating that as is done with all cargo on airplanes for safety precautions, the coffin and lid were held by steel wrapping cables to prevent shifting during takeoff and landing and in case of air disturbances in flight.^[473] According to Wrone, the side of the plane away from the television camera "was bathed in klieg lights, and thousands of persons watched along the fence that bent backward along that side, providing, in effect, a well-lit and very public stage for any would-be body snatchers".^[473]

Federal Reserve conspiracy

Jim Marrs, in his book Crossfire, presented the theory that Kennedy was trying to rein in the power of the Federal Reserve, and that forces opposed to such action might have played at least some part in the assassination.^{[478][479][480]} According to Marrs, the issuance of Executive Order 11110 was an effort by Kennedy to transfer power from the Federal Reserve to the United States Department of the Treasury by replacing Federal Reserve Notes with silver certificates.^[479] Actor and author Richard Belzer named the responsible parties in this theory as American "billionaires, power brokers, and bankers ... working in tandem with the CIA and other sympathetic agents of the government".^[481]

A 2010 article in Research magazine discussing various controversies surrounding the Federal Reserve stated that "the wildest accusation against the Fed is that it was involved in Kennedy's assassination."^[479] Critics of the theory note that Kennedy called for and signed legislation phasing out Silver Certificates in favor of Federal Reserve Notes, thereby enhancing the power of the Federal Reserve; and that Executive Order 11110 was a technicality that only delegated existing presidential powers to the Secretary of the Treasury for administrative convenience during a period of transition.^{[479][480]}

Israeli government conspiracy

Immediately following Kennedy's death, speculation that he was assassinated by a "Zionist conspiracy" was prevalent in much of the Muslim world.^[482] Among these views were that Zionists were motivated to kill Kennedy due to his opposition to an Israeli nuclear program, that Lyndon B. Johnson received orders from Zionists to have Kennedy killed, and that the assassin was a Zionist agent.^[482]

According to Michael Collins Piper in Final Judgment: The Missing Link in the JFK Assassination Controversy, Israeli Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion orchestrated the assassination after learning that Kennedy planned to keep Israel from obtaining nuclear weapons.^[483] Piper said that the assassination "was a joint enterprise conducted on the highest levels of the American CIA, in collaboration with organized crime — and most specifically, with direct and profound involvement by the Israeli intelligence service, the Mossad."^[484] The theory also alleges involvement of Meyer Lansky and the Anti-Defamation League.^[483] In 2004, Mordechai Vanunu stated that the assassination was Israel's response to "pressure [Kennedy] exerted on ... Ben-Gurion, to shed light on Dimona's nuclear reactor in Israel".^[485] In a speech before the United Nations General Assembly in 2009, Libyan leader Muammar Gaddafi also alleged that Kennedy was killed for wanting to investigate Dimona.^[486]

Other published theories

- Reasonable Doubt (1985) by Henry Hurt, who writes about his Warren Commission doubts. Hurt pins the plot on professional crook Robert Easterling, along with Texas oilmen and the supposed Ferrie/Shaw alliance. ISBN 0-03-004059-0.
- Behold a Pale Horse (1991) by William Cooper alleges that Kennedy was shot by the presidential limousine's driver, Secret Service agent William Greer. In the Zapruder film, Greer can be seen turning to his right and looking backwards just before speeding away from Dealey Plaza. This theory has come under severe criticism from others in the research community.^[487] ISBN 0-929385-22-5.
- Former Secret Service agent Abraham Bolden's The Echo from Dealey Plaza (2008) (ISBN 978-0-307-38201-6) and Kevin James Shay's Death of the Rising Sun (2017) (ISBN 978-1-881-36556-3) detail plots that occurred shortly before Kennedy's trip to Dallas in 1963, in Chicago and Florida. Within the Secret Service during those chaotic months, "rumors were flying" about Cuban dissidents and right-wing southerners who were stalking Kennedy for a chance to kill him, Bolden wrote. The security threat in Chicago in early November 1963 involved former Marine Thomas Arthur Vallee, who was arrested after police found an M-1 rifle, handgun, and 3,000 rounds of ammunition in his vehicle. A high-powered rifle was confiscated from another suspected conspirator in Chicago shortly before Kennedy's trip there was canceled, Bolden said. Authorities also cited similar threats in Tampa, Fla., and Miami about a week later.
- Mark North's Act of Treason: The Role of J. Edgar Hoover in the Assassination of President Kennedy, (1991) implicates the FBI Director. North documents that Hoover was aware of threats against Kennedy by organized crime before 1963, and suggests that he failed to take proper action to prevent the assassination. North also charges Hoover with failure to work adequately to uncover the truth behind Kennedy's murder, ISBN 0-88184-877-8.
- Mortal Error: The Shot That Killed JFK (1992) by Bonar Menninger (ISBN 0-312-08074-3) alleges that while Oswald did attempt to assassinate JFK and did succeed in wounding him, the shot that struck him in the head was accidentally fired by Secret Service agent George Hickey, who was riding in the Secret Service follow-up car directly behind the presidential limousine. The theory alleges that after the first two shots were fired the motorcade sped up while Hickey was attempting to respond to Oswald's shots and he lost his balance and accidentally pulled the trigger of his AR-15 and shot JFK. Hickey's testimony says otherwise: "At the end of the last report (shot) I reached to the bottom of the car and picked up the AR 15 rifle, cocked and loaded it, and turned to the rear." (italics added).^[488] George Hickey sued Menninger in April 1995 for what he had written in Mortal Error. The case was dismissed as its statute of limitations had run out. The theory received public attention in 2013 when it was supported by Colin McLaren's book and documentary titled JFK: The Smoking Gun (ISBN 978-0-7336-3044-6).
- Who Shot JFK? : A Guide to the Major Conspiracy Theories (1993) by Bob Callahan and Mark Zingarelli explores some of the more obscure theories regarding JFK's murder, such as "The Coca-Cola Theory". According to this theory, suggested by the editor of an organic gardening magazine, Oswald killed JFK due to mental impairment stemming from an addiction to refined sugar, as evidenced by his need for his favorite beverage immediately after the assassination. ISBN 0-671-79494-9.
- Passport to Assassination (1993) by Oleg M. Nechiporenko, the Soviet consular official (and highly placed KGB officer) who met with Oswald in Mexico City in 1963. He was afforded the unique opportunity to interview Oswald about his goals including his genuine desire for a Cuban visa. His conclusions were: (1) that Oswald killed Kennedy due to extreme feelings of inadequacy versus his wife's professed admiration for JFK, and (2) that the KGB never sought intelligence information from Oswald during his time in the USSR as they did not trust his motivations. ISBN 1-55972-210-X.

Photo showing Secret Service Agent George Hickey shortly after JFK was killed holding the AR-15 rifle that accidental-shooting theorists say killed Kennedy.

- Norman Mailer's Oswald's Tale: An American Mystery (1995) concludes that Oswald was guilty, but holds that the evidence may point to a second gunman on the grassy knoll, who, purely by coincidence, was attempting to kill JFK at the same time as Oswald. "If there was indeed another shot, it was not necessarily fired by a conspirator of Oswald's. Such a gun could have belonged to another lone killer or to a conspirator working for some other group altogether."^[489] ISBN 0-679-42535-7.
- The Kennedy Mutiny (2002) by Will Fritz (not the same as police captain J. Will Fritz), claims that the assassination plot was orchestrated by General Edwin Walker, and that he framed Oswald for the crime. ISBN 0-9721635-0-6.
- JFK: The Second Plot (2002) by Matthew Smith explores the strange case of Roscoe White. In 1990, Roscoe's son Ricky made public a claim that his father, who had been a Dallas police officer in 1963, was involved in killing the president. Roscoe's widow Geneva also claimed that before her husband's death in 1971 he left a diary in which he claims he was one of the marksmen who shot the President, and that he also killed Officer J. D. Tippit. ISBN 1-84018-501-5.
- David Wrone's The Zapruder Film (2003) concludes that the shot that killed JFK came from in front of the limousine, and that JFK's throat and back wounds were caused by an in-and-through shot originating from the grassy knoll. Three shots were fired from three different angles, none of them from Lee Harvey Oswald's window at the Texas School Book Depository. Wrone is a professor of history (emeritus) at the University of Wisconsin–Stevens Point. ISBN 0-7006-1291-2.
- The Gemstone File: A Memoir (2006), by Stephanie Caruana, posits that Oswald was part of a 28-man assassination team that included three U.S. Mafia hitmen (Jimmy Fratianno, John Roselli, and Eugene Brading). Oswald's role was to shoot John Connally. Bruce Roberts, author of the Gemstone File papers, claimed that the JFK assassination scenario was modeled after a supposed attempted assassination of President F.D. Roosevelt. Roosevelt was riding in an open car with Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago. Cermak was shot and killed by Giuseppe Zangara. In Dallas, JFK was the real target, and Connally was a secondary target. The JFK assassination is only a small part of the Gemstone File's account. ISBN 1-4120-6137-7.
- Joseph P. Farrell's LBJ and the Conspiracy to Kill Kennedy (2011) attempts to show multiple interests had reasons to remove President Kennedy: The military, CIA, NASA, anti-Castro factions, Hoover's FBI and others. He concludes that the person that allowed all of these groups to form a "coalescence of interests" was Vice President Lyndon Johnson. ISBN 978-1-935487-18-0
- In "Allegations of PFC Eugene Dinkin",^[490] the Mary Farrell Foundation summarizes and archives documents related to Private First Class Eugene B. Dinkin, a cryptographic code operator stationed in Metz, France, who went AWOL in early November 1963, entered Switzerland using a false ID, and visited the United Nations' press office and declared that officials in the U.S. government were planning to assassinate President Kennedy, adding that "something" might happen to the Commander in Chief in Texas. Dinkin was arrested nine days before Kennedy was killed, placed in psychiatric care (deemed a mad man?), and released shortly thereafter. His allegations eventually made their way to the Warren Commission, but, according to the Ferrell Foundation account, the Commission "took no interest in the matter, and indeed omitted any mention of Dinkin from its purportedly encyclopedic 26 volumes of evidence."^[491]
- Described by the Associated Press as "one of the strangest theories",^[492] Hugh McDonald's Appointment in Dallas stated that the Soviet government contracted with a rogue CIA agent named "Saul" to have Kennedy killed.^[493] McDonald said he worked for the CIA "on assignment for $100 a day" and met "Saul" at the Agency's headquarters after the Bay of Pigs Invasion.^[494] According to McDonald, his CIA mentor told him that "Saul" was the world's best assassin.^[495] McDonald stated that after the assassination, he recognized the man's photo in the Warren Commission report and eventually tracked him to a London hotel in 1972.^{[494][495]} McDonald stated that "Saul" assumed he, too, was a CIA agent and confided to him that he shot Kennedy from a building on the other side of the street from the Texas School Book Depository.^[492]

- Nomenclature On An Assassination Cabal (1970) by William Torbitt. The pseudonymous author claimed to be a lawyer with investigative skills working in the South. "Torbitt" was one of the earliest writers to publicly criticize the official Warren Commission report, and his book claimed that the Warren Commission report covered up the fact that the U.S government was aware of a plot to kill Kennedy and failed to take action against the plot. Despite the work's obscurity, the claim of government awareness and negligence regarding a plot to kill Kennedy has since become a key framework surrounding discussion about the Kennedy assassination. See The Internet Archive website \(https://archive.org/details/nsia-NomenclatureoftheAssassinationCabal-TorbittDocument/page/n0\)

Notes

- Two years after the publication of the Warren Report, Commission member Senator Richard Russell expressed doubt concerning parts of the Report. In a November 20, 1966 interview with The Atlanta Constitution, Russell said that he harbored a "lingering dissatisfaction" with the Commission's work and that he disagreed with the single bullet theory. On January 19, 1970, Russell again proclaimed his doubts in a television interview, saying that he "never believed that Lee Harvey Oswald assassinated President Kennedy without at least some encouragement from others." Russell added: "I think someone else worked with him."^[6]
- The Warren Commission never asked Reynolds what the man he saw was wearing, despite Reynolds saying he later learned that the man left his "coat" in a parking lot (in fact, a zipper jacket was found there.
- Jones Jr. named 10 specific people whose deaths he said he researched, but said at the time that there were 16 or 17 suspicious deaths in total.
- These two reporters, who were killed in 1964, were assisted by a photographer, William "Willie" Allen, who was still alive decades later.
- Benavides later testified the following about the shooter's hairstyle: I remember the back of his head seemed like his hairline was sort of - looked like his hairline sort of went square instead of tapered off, and he looked like he needed a haircut for about 2 weeks, but his hair didn't taper off, it kind of went down and squared off and made his head look flat in back.
- Among those who believe that the Zapruder film has been altered are John Costella,^[127] James H. Fetzer,^[127] David Lifton,^[127] David Mantik,^[127] Jack White,^[127] Noel Twyman,^[128] and Harrison Livingstone, who has called it "the biggest hoax of the 20th century".^[127]
- In Bill Newman's voluntary statement to the Sheriff's Department, signed and notarized on November 22, 1963, he wrote that the gunshot "had come from the garden directly behind me, that was on an elevation from where I was as I was right on the curb. I do not recall looking toward the Texas School Book Depository. I looked back in the vicinity [sic] of the garden."^[170]
- According to the Warren Commission, after Earlene Roberts saw Oswald standing near the bus stop outside his rooming house, "[he] was next seen about nine-tenths of a mile (1.4 km) away at the southeast corner of 10th Street and Patton Avenue, moments before the Tippit shooting."^[290]
- A partial list of those who consider Judyth Baker's claims to be a hoax includes: Attorney and author Vincent Bugliosi, researcher Mary Ferrell, researcher Barb Junkkarinen, Professor John McAdams of Marquette University and David A. Reitzes of jfk-online.com.
- Response of George H. W. Bush to the letter addressed to him by George de Mohrenschildt: "Let me say first that I know it must have been difficult for you to seek my help in the situation outlined in your letter. I believe I can appreciate your state of mind in view of your daughter's tragic death a few years ago, and the current poor state of your wife's health. I was extremely sorry to hear of these circumstances. In your situation I can well imagine how the attentions you described in your letter affect both you and your wife. However, my staff has been unable to find any indication of interest in your activities on the part of Federal authorities in recent years. The flurry of interest that attended your testimony before the Warren Commission has long subsided. I can only speculate that you may have become 'newsworthy' again in view of the renewed interest in the Kennedy assassination, and thus may be attracting the attention of people in the media. I hope this letter had been of some comfort to you, George, although I realize I am unable to answer your question completely." George H. W. Bush recalled, "I first met De Mohrenschildt in the early 1940s. He was an uncle to my Andover roommate." (The relationship would technically be "step-uncle" as the roommate, Edward G. Hooker, was actually Dimitri von Mohrenschildt's stepson).

References

1. "Findings" (<https://www.archives.gov/research/jfk/select-committee-report/part-1c.html#ruby4>). Report of the Select Committee on Assassinations U.S. House of Representatives. p. 149 – via National Archives.; HSCA Appendix to Hearings, vol. 9, p. 336, par. 917, Joseph Campisi (http://www.aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/hasca/reportvols/vol9/html/HSCA_Vol9_0172b.htm). Ancestry.com, Social Security Death Index [database on-line], Provo, Utah, USA: The Generations Network, Inc., 2007. Ancestry.com, Texas Death Index, 1903–2000 [database on-line], Provo, UT, USA: The Generations Network, Inc., 2006.; Summers, Anthony (1998). Not in Your Lifetime. New York: Marlowe & Company. p. 346. ISBN 1-56924-739-0.
2. Shenon, Philip. "Yes, the CIA Director Was Part of the JFK Assassination Cover-Up" (<https://www.politico.com/magazine/story/2015/10/jfk-assassination-john-mccone-warren-commission-cia-213197>). POLITICO Magazine. Retrieved February 5, 2020.
3. "Interview – G. Robert Blakey" (<https://www.pbs.org/wgbh/pages/frontline/shows/oswald/interviews/blakey.html>). FRONTLINE I Who Was Lee Harvey Oswald?. PBS. Retrieved January 5, 2019.; Maier, Thomas. "Inside the CIA's Plot to Kill Fidel Castro—With Mafia Help" (<http://politico.com/2osG9vA>). Politico Magazine. Retrieved January 5, 2019.
4. Summers, Anthony (2013a). "Six Options for History". Not in Your Lifetime (<http://www.openroadmedia.com/not-in-your-lifetime>). New York: Open Road. p. 238. ISBN 978-1-4804-3548-3.
5. "One JFK conspiracy theory that could be true" (<http://edition.cnn.com/2013/11/16/us/jfk-assassination-conspiracy-theories-debunked/>). CNN. November 18, 2013.
6. HSCA Report, Vol. 11 (http://www.aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/hasca/reportvols/vol11/pdf/HSCA_Vol11_WC_1_Operations.pdf) (PDF) (Report). p. 14.
7. "Findings" (<https://www.archives.gov/research/jfk/select-committee-report/part-1c.html>). Report of the Select Committee on Assassinations U.S. House of Representatives – via National Archives.
8. "Summary of Findings and Recommendations" (<https://www.archives.gov/research/jfk/select-committee-report/summary.html>). Report of the Select Committee on Assassinations of the U.S. House of Representatives (<https://www.archives.gov/research/jfk/select-committee-report/>). Washington, D.C.: United States Government Printing Office. 1979. p. 3.
9. HSCA Final Report (http://www.aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/hasca/report/html/HSCA_Report_0048a.htm) (Report). pp. 65–75.
10. Bugliosi 2007, p. 377.
11. Campbell, Ballard C. (2008). Disasters, Accidents, and Crises in American History: A Reference Guide to the Nation's Most Catastrophic Events (<https://books.google.com/books?id=VitlO1mWxzAC>). Infobase Publishing. p. 1936. ISBN 978-1-4381-3012-5. Retrieved September 1, 2013.
12. Holland, Max (June 1994). "After Thirty Years: Making Sense of the Assassination". Reviews in American History. 22 (2): 191–209. doi:10.2307/2702884 (<https://doi.org/10.2307%2F2702884>). JSTOR 2702884 (<https://www.jstor.org/stable/2702884>).
13. Martin, John (September 2011). "The Assassination of John F. Kennedy—48 Years On". Irish Foreign Affairs.
14. Knight 2007, p. 72 (<https://books.google.com/books?id=MRs2Tu714ZUC&pg=PA72>)

15. Olmsted, Kathryn S. (March 11, 2011). Real Enemies: Conspiracy Theories and American Democracy, World War I to 9/11 (<https://books.google.com/books?id=u7Sd5vyOOtEC&pg=PA170>). Oxford University Press. pp. 169–170. ISBN 978-0-19-975395-6. Retrieved September 4, 2013.
16. George Lardner Jr. (November 10, 1998). "Archive Photos Not of JFK's Brain, Concludes Aide to Review Board" (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-srv/national/longterm/jfk/jfk1110.htm>). The Washington Post. p. A03.
17. "Oliver Stone: JFK conspiracy deniers are in denial" (<https://www.usatoday.com/story/opinion/2013/11/20/oliver-stone-jfk-conspiracy-assassination-oswald-column/3657321/>). USA TODAY.
18. Fetzer, James H. (2000). Murder in Dealey Plaza, "Evidence of a Government Cover-Up: Two Different Brain Specimens in President Kennedy's Autopsy". Open Court. p. 185. ISBN 978-0812694222.
19. Aguilar, Gary L. (January 7, 1999). "Mystery of JFK's Second Brain" (<http://www.consortiumnews.com/1999/c010699b.html>). Consortium News.
20. Warren Commission 1964, p. 198 (<https://www.archives.gov/research/jfk/warren-commission-report/chapter-5.html#chronology>), "Chapter 5".
21. Tippit murder affidavit: text (http://www.history-matters.com/archive/jfk/wc/wcvols/wh20/html/WH_Vol20_0170a.htm), cover (http://www.history-matters.com/archive/jfk/wc/wcvols/wh20/html/WH_Vol20_0170b.htm). Kennedy murder affidavit: text (http://www.history-matters.com/archive/jfk/wc/wcvols/wh20/html/WH_Vol20_0171a.htm), cover (http://www.history-matters.com/archive/jfk/wc/wcvols/wh20/html/WH_Vol20_0171b.htm).
22. Knight 2007, p. 75 (<https://books.google.com/books?id=MRs2Tu714ZUC&pg=PA75>)
23. Krauss, Clifford (January 5, 1992). "28 Years After Kennedy's Assassination, Conspiracy Theories Refuse to Die" (<https://www.nytimes.com/1992/01/05/us/28-years-after-kennedy-s-assassination-conspiracy-theories-refuse-to-die.html>). The New York Times. Retrieved April 26, 2017.
24. Bugliosi, Vincent (2007). Reclaiming History: The Assassination of President John F. Kennedy (<http://archive.org/details/reclaiminghistor00bugl>). New York: W. W. Norton & Company. p. 989 (<https://archive.org/details/reclaiminghistor00bugl/page/989>). ISBN 978-0-393-04525-3.
25. "Oswald Innocent? A Lawyer's Brief" (https://web.archive.org/web/20130126122954/http://karws.gso.uri.edu/jfk/the_critics/lane/Natl-Guardian/Natl_Guardian.html). National Guardian (published December 19, 1963). November 22, 1963. Archived from the original (http://karws.gso.uri.edu/jfk/the_critics/lane/Natl-Guardian/Natl_Guardian.html) on January 26, 2013.
26. Donovan, Barna William (2011). Conspiracy Films: A Tour of Dark Places in the American Conscious (<https://books.google.com/books?id=bJkhqU1IXHAC>). Jefferson, North Carolina: McFarland & Company. p. 34. ISBN 978-0-7864-3901-0.
27. Warren Commission 1964, p. 374, "Chapter 6".
28. "Summary of Findings" (<https://www.archives.gov/research/jfk/select-committee-report/summary.html>). August 15, 2016.
29. "National Archives Releases JFK Assassination Records" (<https://www.archives.gov/press/press-releases/nr18-05>). October 26, 2017.
30. "Presidential Memorandum for the Heads of Executive Departments and Agencies" (<https://trumpwhitehouse.archives.gov/presidential-actions/presidential-memorandum-heads-executive-departments-agencies-3/>). whitehouse.gov – via National Archives.
31. Pruitt, Sarah. "Trump Holds Some JFK Assassination Files Back, Sets New 3-Year Deadline" (<https://www.history.com/news/final-jfk-files-assassination-documents-release>). HISTORY.
32. Krajicek, David. "JFK Assassination" (https://web.archive.org/web/20120419131446/http://www.trutv.com/library/crime/terrorists_spies/assassins/jfk/1.html). truTV.com. Turner Broadcasting System, Inc. p. 1. Archived from the original (http://www.trutv.com/library/crime/terrorists_spies/assassins/jfk/1.html) on April 19, 2012. Retrieved March 25, 2012.

33. Broderick, James F.; Miller, Darren W. (2008). "Chapter 16: The JFK Assassination" (<https://books.google.com/books?id=hOLDnJM91bkC&pg=PA203>). Web of Conspiracy: A Guide to Conspiracy Theory Sites on the Internet (<https://books.google.com/books?id=hOLDnJM91bkC>). Medford, New Jersey: Information Today, Inc./CyberAge Books. p. 203. ISBN 978-0-910965-81-1.
34. Perry, James D. (2003). Peter, Knight (ed.). Conspiracy Theories in American History: An Encyclopedia. Santa Barbara, California: ABC-CLIO, Inc. p. 383. ISBN 1-57607-812-4.
35. Bugliosi 2007, p. xiv.
36. Bugliosi 2007, p. 974.
37. Saad, Lydia (November 21, 2003). "Americans: Kennedy Assassination a Conspiracy" (<http://www.gallup.com/poll/9751/americans-kennedy-assassination-conspiracy.aspx>). Gallup, Inc.
38. Langer, Gary (November 16, 2003). "John F. Kennedy's Assassination Leaves a Legacy of Suspicion" (<https://abcnews.go.com/images/pdf/937a1JFKAssassination.pdf>) (PDF). ABC News. Retrieved May 16, 2010.
39. Blanton, Dana (June 18, 2004). "Poll: Most Believe 'Cover-Up' of JFK Assassination Facts" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20100416210237/http://www.foxnews.com/story/0,2933,102511,00.html>). Fox News. Archived from the original (<http://www.foxnews.com/story/0,2933,102511,00.html>) on April 16, 2010. Retrieved February 18, 2010.
40. Summers 2013, p. xii.
41. "Majority in U.S. Still Believe JFK Killed in a Conspiracy: Mafia, federal government top list of potential conspirators" (<http://www.gallup.com/poll/165893/majority-believe-jfk-killed-conspiracy.aspx>). Gallup, Inc. November 15, 2013.
42. "JFK files show Hoover wanted the public convinced Oswald acted alone" (<https://www.nbcnews.com/storyline/jfk-assassination-files/jfk-files-j-edgar-hoover-said-public-must-believe-lee-n814881>). NBC News.
43. "HSCA Hearings— Volume 3, pg 471-473" (https://history-matters.com/archive/jfk/hasca/reportvols/vol3/html/HSCA_Vol3_0238a.htm) – via History Matters Archive.
44. "Read J. Edgar Hoover's Memo on Oswald's Death" (<https://www.nytimes.com/interactive/2017/10/26/us/politics/document-Hoover-on-Oswald-Death.html>). The New York Times. October 26, 2017.
45. Telephone Conversation Between President Johnson and J. Edgar Hoover, November 23, 1963 (https://www.history-matters.com/archive/jfk/lbjlib/phone_calls/Nov_1963/html/LBJ-Nov-1963_0030a.htm), Declassified October 26, 1993.
46. "Oswald, the CIA, and Mexico City" (<https://www.pbs.org/wgbh/frontline/article/oswald-the-cia-and-mexico-city/>). FRONTLINE.
47. Bender, Bryan. "Why the last of the JFK files could embarrass the CIA" (<https://www.politico.com/story/2015/05/why-last-of-jfk-files-could-embarrass-cia-118233>). Politico Magazine.
48. Oswald, the CIA, and Mexico City ("Lopez Report") (https://www.history-matters.com/archive/jfk/hasca/lopezrpt/html/LopezRpt_0011a.htm), 1996 Release.
49. Summers 2013, p. 276.
50. "Telephone conversation between President Johnson and Senator Richard Russell, November 29, 1963" (http://americanradioworks.publicradio.org/features/prestapes/lbj_rr_092963.html). American Public Media.
51. Katzenbach, Nicholas (November 25, 1963). "Memorandum for Mr. Moyers" (https://www.history-matters.com/archive/jfk/fbi/105-82555/124-10010-10135/html/124-10010-10135_0002a.htm). Retrieved September 30, 2014 – via History Matters Archive.
52. "Testimony of Nicholas Katzenbach" (https://history-matters.com/archive/jfk/hasca/reportvols/vol3/pdf/HSCA_Vol3_0921_5_Katzen.pdf) (PDF). HSCA Report, Volume 3, Investigation of the Assassination of President John F. Kennedy. p. 644. Retrieved September 30, 2014 – via History Matters Archive.

53. Savage, David G. (May 10, 2012). "Nicholas Katzenbach dies at 90; attorney general under Johnson" (<http://articles.latimes.com/2012/may/10/local/la-me-nicholas-katzenbach-20120510>). Los Angeles Times. Los Angeles. Retrieved December 12, 2014.
54. Lane, Mark (January 19, 1993). Rush to Judgment (<https://archive.org/details/rushtojudgment00lane>). ISBN 1560250437.
55. Hurt, Henry (1986). Reasonable Doubt: An Investigation into the Assassination of John F. Kennedy (<https://archive.org/details/reasonabledoubti00hurt>). New York: Holt, Rinehart, and Winston. ISBN 0-03-004059-0.
56. Kurtz, Michael L. (November 2006). The JFK Assassination Debates: Lone Gunman versus Conspiracy (<https://archive.org/details/jfkassassination00mich>). University of Kansas Press.
57. McKnight, Gerald D. (October 2005). Breach of Trust: How the Warren Commission Failed the Nation and Why (<https://archive.org/details/breachoftrushow00mckn>). University of Kansas Press.
58. Summers, Anthony (2013). Not in Your Lifetime. New York: Open Road. ISBN 978-1-4804-3548-3.
59. Weisberg, Harold (1965). Whitewash: The Report on the Warren Report. Skyhorse Press; originally self-published.
60. Benson, Michael (2003) [1993]. Who's Who in the JFK Assassination: An A-to-Z Encyclopedia. New York: Citadel Press Books. p. xiii. ISBN 0-8065-1444-2.
61. "A CBS News Inquiry: The Warren Report - Part 4 - Why Doesn't America Believe the Warren Report?" (<https://www.c-span.org/video/?454598-1/cbs-news-inquiry-warren-report-part-4>). June 28, 1967.
62. Interview of Richard Schweiker, Face the Nation, CBS News, June 27, 1976.
63. Summers 2013, p. 243.
64. Fetzer, James H. (2000). "Murder in Dealey Plaza, Prologue: "Smoking Guns" in the Death of JFK" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20091213212741/http://www.jfkresearch.com/prologue.htm>). Open Court. Archived from the original (<http://www.jfkresearch.com/prologue.htm>) on December 13, 2009.
65. Drummond, Roscoe (November 3, 1966). "Those Warren Report Rumors" (<https://news.google.com/newspapers?nid=336&dat=19661103&id=bclOAAAIBAJ&pg=4883,718763>). The Deseret News. Salt Lake City, Utah. p. A26. Retrieved December 23, 2014.
66. Buyer, Richard (2009). Why the JFK Assassination Still Matters: The Truth for My Daughter Kennedy and for Generations to Come. Tucson, Arizona: Wheatmark. p. 162. ISBN 978-1-60494-193-7.
67. Sloan, Bill; Hill, Jean (1992). JFK: The Last Dissenting Witness (<https://books.google.com/books?id=BPko3kC3YtIC>). Gretna, Louisiana: Pelican Publishing Company. pp. 101, 186, 212, 219. ISBN 1-58980-672-7. Retrieved February 26, 2012.
68. Marrs, Jim (1989). Crossfire: The Plot that Killed Kennedy (<https://archive.org/details/crossfireplottha00marr>). New York: Carroll & Graf Publishers, Inc. pp. 318–319 (<https://archive.org/details/crossfireplottha00marr/page/318>). ISBN 978-0-88184-648-5.
69. Marrs 1989, p. 87.
70. Marrs 1989, p. 88.
71. Testimony of Warren Allen Reynolds (https://aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/wc/wcvols/wh11/html/WC_Vol11_0222b.htm), Warren Commission Hearings, vol. 11, pp. 434-442
72. http://mcadams.posc.mu.edu/russ/testimony/reynolds_w.htm
73. Marrs 1989, p. 342.
74. "Testimony of Jacqueline Hess" (<http://www.maryferrell.org/mffweb/archive/viewer/showDoc.do?absPageld=77882>). Hearings before the Select Committee on Assassinations of the U.S. House of Representatives (<http://www.maryferrell.org/mffweb/archive/viewer/showDoc.do?docId=957>). IV. Washington, D.C.: United States Government Printing Office. 1979. pp. 454–468 – via Mary Ferrell Foundation.
75. Bugliosi 2007, pp. 1012, 1276.

76. https://www.fox10tv.com/news/investigations/the-pensacola-connection-to-jfks-assassination/article_4eb6f966-0c84-11ea-b00a-4312c85daf11.html
77. Commission Exhibit No. 2589 (https://www.history-matters.com/archive/jfk/wc/wcvols/wh25/html/WC_Vol25_0451b.htm), Warren Commission Hearings, Volume XXV
78. 10 mystery deaths linked with assassination of JFK. The Ottawa Citizen, 25 October 1966.
79. Bugliosi 2007, p. 1012.
80. Marrs 1989, pp. 555–566.
81. Marrs, Jim; Schuster, Ralph (2002). "A Look at the Deaths of Those Involved" (<http://www.assassinationresearch.com/v1n2/deaths.html>). Assassination Research.
82. Elias, Marilyn (Winter 2013). "Conspiracy Act" (<http://www.splcenter.org/get-informed/intelligence-report/browse-all-issues/2013/winter/conspiracy-act>). Intelligence Report. Southern Poverty Law Center (152). Retrieved December 22, 2014.
83. Harrison, Ken (November 10, 2015). "Justice sought for newspaper woman dead since 1965" (<http://www.sandiegoreader.com/news/2015/nov/10/stringers-justice-newspaper-woman-dead-1965/#>). San Diego Reader. Retrieved December 19, 2016.
84. Armstrong, John. "Jack Ruby" (<http://www.harveyandlee.net/Ruby/Ruby.html>). www.harveyandlee.net. Retrieved March 12, 2018. "Journalist Dorothy Kilgallen wrote in the New York Journal American (June 6, 1964): "It is known that 10 persons have signed sworn depositions to the Warren Commission that they knew Oswald and Ruby to have been acquainted.""
85. "Editorial: Earl Warren's 'Lost Cause'" (<http://jfk.hood.edu/Collection/White%20Materials/White%20Assassination%20Clippings%20Folders/Ruby/Item%20312.pdf>) (PDF). National Guardian. New York City. August 29, 1964. "In the 'Journal American' it filled several pages over three days and was accompanied by revealing commentary by Miss Kilgallen who has reported on the assassination inquiry with a most unusual zeal. Her analysis of the testimony seemed accurate. "It is a fascinating document," she wrote. "fascinating for what it leaves unsaid, as well as for what it says." And, she might have added, fascinating for what was not asked of Ruby by the Chief Justice."
86. Israel, Lee (1979). Kilgallen. Delacorte Press. p. 369. ISBN 0-440-04522-3.
87. Shaw, Mark (2018). Denial of Justice: Dorothy Kilgallen, Abuse of Power, and the Most Compelling JFK Assassination in History (<https://books.google.com/books?id=SkdQuAEACAAJ>). New York: Simon & Schuster. pp. 309–311. ISBN 978-1-6429-3058-0.
88. Marrs 1989, pp. 424–425.
89. Israel 1979, pp. 403–404.
90. "Miss Kilgallen Death Ascribed to Mixture of Alcohol, Barbiturates". The Philadelphia Inquirer. Associated Press. November 16, 1965. p. 1.
91. Bugliosi 2007, p. 1014.
92. Bugliosi 2007, pp. 1016-1017.
93. Kroth, Jerome A. (2003). Conspiracy in Camelot: The Complete History of the Assassination of John Fitzgerald Kennedy. Algora Publishing. p. 195. ISBN 0-87586-247-0.
94. Smith, Matthew (2005). Conspiracy: The Plot to Stop the Kennedys (<https://books.google.com/books?id=clLqGmlwS6QC>). New York: Citadel Press. pp. 104–108. ISBN 978-0-8065-2764-2.
95. "Rose Cherami" — Mary Ferrell Foundation (https://www.maryferrell.org/pages/Rose_Cherami.html)
96. "Rose Cheramie" (<http://www.maryferrell.org/mffweb/archive/viewer/showDoc.do?docId=1212&relPageId=201>). Appendix to Hearings before the Select Committee on Assassinations of the U.S. House of Representatives (<http://www.maryferrell.org/mffweb/archive/viewer/showDoc.do?absPageId=156001>). X. Washington, D.C.: United States Government Printing Office. March 1979. pp. 197–205 – via Mary Ferrell Foundation.
97. Marrs 1989, p. 401.
98. Appendix to Hearings before the Select Committee on Assassinations of the U.S. House of Representatives, Volume X 1979, p. 201.

99. Appendix to Hearings before the Select Committee on Assassinations of the U.S. House of Representatives, Volume X 1979, p. 202.
00. Appendix to Hearings before the Select Committee on Assassinations of the U.S. House of Representatives, Volume X 1979, p. 200.
01. Appendix to Hearings before the Select Committee on Assassinations of the U.S. House of Representatives, Volume X 1979, p. 199.
02. Marrs 1989, p. 562.
03. Turner, Nigel (1991). "The Cover-Up". The Men Who Killed Kennedy.
04. HSCA Final Report \(http://www.aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/hasca/report/html/HSCA_Report_0131b.htm\) (Report). p. 232.
05. HSCA Final Report \(http://www.aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/hasca/report/html/HSCA_Report_0132a.htm\) (Report). p. 233.
06. By the evening of November 22, five of them (Helen Markham, Barbara Davis, Virginia Davis, Ted Callaway, Sam Guinyard) had identified Oswald in police lineups as the man they saw. A sixth (William Scoggins) did so the next day. Three others (Harold Russell, Pat Patterson, Warren Reynolds) subsequently identified Oswald from a photograph. Two witnesses (Domingo Benavides, William Smith) testified that Oswald resembled the man they had seen. One witness (L.J. Lewis) felt he was too distant from the gunman to make a positive identification. Warren Commission Hearings, CE 1968, Location of Eyewitnesses to the Movements of Lee Harvey Oswald in the Vicinity of the Tippit Killing \(http://www.aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/wc/wcvols/wh23/html/WH_Vol23_0425a.htm\).
07. Posner, Gerald (2003). Case Closed: Lee Harvey Oswald and the Assassination of JFK (<https://books.google.com/books?id=Er9LPgAACAAJ>). Anchor Books. pp. 489–491. ISBN 978-1-4000-3462-8. Retrieved July 8, 2013.
08. Bugliosi 2007, p. 984.
09. "'3 Gunmen Involved in JFK's Slaying; 4 Bullets Fired'" (<https://news.google.com/newspapers?id=4xNdAAAAIBAJ&pg=1431%2C2577977>). St. Joseph Gazette. St. Joseph, Missouri. UPI. November 16, 1967. pp. 1A–2A. Retrieved March 8, 2012.
10. Turner, Nigel (1991). "The Forces of Darkness". The Men Who Killed Kennedy.
11. Marrs 1989, p. 36.
12. "Final Report of the Assassination Records Review Board" \(https://fas.org/sgp/advisory/arrb98/part03.htm\). Assassination Records Review Board. September 1998.
13. Athan G. Theoharis (1992). "Final Report of the Assassination Records Review Board, Chapter 1: The Problem of Secrecy and the Solution of the JFK Act" (<https://fas.org/sgp/advisory/arrb98/part03.htm>).
14. "Final Report of the Assassination Records Review Board, Chapter 1: The Problem of Secrecy and the Solution of the JFK Act" \(https://fas.org/sgp/advisory/arrb98/part03.htm\).
15. Morley, Jefferson (November 22, 2010). "The Kennedy Assassination: 47 Years Later, What Do We Really Know?" (<https://www.theatlantic.com/national/archive/2010/11/the-kennedy-assassination-47-years-later-what-do-we-really-know/66722/>). The Atlantic.
16. "Evidence Tampering?" \(https://web.archive.org/web/20120501233857/http://www.maryferrell.org/wiki/index.php/Evidence_Tampering%3F\). Archived from the original (http://www.maryferrell.org/wiki/index.php/Evidence_Tampering%3F) on May 1, 2012. Retrieved July 15, 2013 – via Mary Ferrell Foundation.
17. Findings \(https://www.archives.gov/research/jfk/select-committee-report/part-1a.html#backyard\). Archives.gov. Retrieved on July 15, 2013.
18. Testimony of Mrs. Lee Harvey Oswald \(http://www.aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/wc/wcvols/wh1/html/WC_Vol1_0014a.htm\), Warren Commission Hearings, vol. 1, p. 15.

19. Farid, Hany (2009). "The Lee Harvey Oswald backyard photos: real or fake?" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20150924071158/http://www.perceptionweb.com/perception/editorials/p6580.pdf>) (PDF). Perception. 38 (11): 1731–1734. doi:10.1068/p6580 (<https://doi.org/10.1068%2Fp6580>). ISSN 1468-4233 (<https://www.worldcat.org/issn/1468-4233>). PMID 20120271 (<https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/20120271>). S2CID 12062689 (<https://api.semanticscholar.org/CorpusID:12062689>). Archived from the original (<http://www.perceptionweb.com/perception/editorials/p6580.pdf>) (PDF) on September 24, 2015. Retrieved January 8, 2015.
20. Ramer, Holly (November 5, 2009). "Lee Harvey Oswald photo not a fake, college professor says" (http://www.nola.com/news/index.ssf/2009/11/lee_harvey_oswald_photo_not_a.html). The Times-Picayune. New Orleans, Louisiana. Retrieved January 7, 2015.
21. Groden, Robert J. (1995). The Search for Lee Harvey Oswald: A Comprehensive Photographic Record. New York: Penguin Books. pp. 90–95. ISBN 978-0-670-85867-5.
22. "Autopsy photographs of JFK were forged: Technician" (<https://news.google.com/newspapers?nid=1926&dat=19790703&id=7VcrAAAIAIAJ&pg=4096,406241>). Daily Reporter. Spencer, Iowa. UPI. July 9, 1979. pp. 1, 3. Retrieved January 6, 2015.
23. "JFK Autopsy Photos Fake?" (<https://news.google.com/newspapers?nid=2519&dat=19790710&id=-vRdAAAIAIAJ&pg=3279,1121132>). Observer-Reporter. Washington, Pennsylvania. AP. July 10, 1979. p. A-6.
24. "Forgery Claim On JFK Photos Called 'False'" (<http://jfk.hood.edu/Collection/White%20Materials/White%20Magazines%20And%20Articles/Washington%20Post%207-10-74/Item%20001.pdf>) (PDF). The Washington Post. Washington, D.C. July 10, 1979. Retrieved January 6, 2015.
25. "I.A." (<https://www.archives.gov/research/jfk/select-committee-report/part-1a.html>). Report of the Select Committee on Assassinations of the U.S. House of Representatives (<https://www.archives.gov/research/jfk/select-committee-report/>). Washington, D.C.: United States Government Printing Office. 1979. p. 45.
26. "Chapter Six, Part II: Clarifying the Federal Record" (<https://www.archives.gov/research/jfk/review-board/report/chapter-06-part2.pdf>) (PDF). Final Report of the Assassination Records Review Board (<https://www.archives.gov/research/jfk/review-board/report/>). Washington, D.C.: United States Government Printing Office. September 30, 1998. p. 124.
27. Bugliosi 2007, pp. 504–512.
28. Twyman, Noel (1997). Bloody treason: on solving history's greatest murder mystery, the assassination of John F. Kennedy. Rancho Santa Fe, CA: Laurel Pub. ISBN 0-9654399-0-9.
29. "Final Report of the Assassination Records Review Board, Chapter 6, Part II" (<https://fas.org/sgp/advisory/arrb98/part09.htm>). fas.org. Retrieved February 5, 2020.
30. Roland Zavada. "Analysis of Selected Motion Picture Photographic Evidence" September 7, 1998. study I.
31. Lifton, David. Best Evidence: Disguise and Deception in the Assassination of John F. Kennedy, (New York: Carroll & Graf Publishers, 1988), pp. 555–557.
32. Fetzer, James. Assassination Science, (Chicago: Catfeet Press, 1998), pp. 209, 224. ISBN 0-8126-9366-3
33. Fetzer, James. Assassination Science, (Chicago: Catfeet Press, 1998), pp. 213–214. ISBN 0-8126-9366-3
34. Fetzer, James H. (2000). Murder in Dealey Plaza, "The Great Zapruder Film Hoax". Open Court. pp. 203–211. ISBN 978-0812694222.
35. "The Zapruder Film Mystery" (https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=J_Qluu6hsAc). Retrieved February 5, 2020 – via YouTube.
36. Janney, Peter (October 2016) [2013]. Mary's Mosaic: The CIA Conspiracy to Murder John F. Kennedy, Mary Pinchot Meyer, and Their Vision for World Peace (3 ed.). New York: Skyhorse Publishing, Inc. p. 292. ISBN 978-1-51070-8921.

37. Lifton, David. Best Evidence: Disguise and Deception in the Assassination of John F. Kennedy, (New York: Carroll & Graf Publishers, 1988), pp. 678–683, 692–699, 701–702.
38. Warren Commission 1964, pp. 18–19, "Chapter 1".
39. "Seymour Weitzman's affidavit" (<http://jfk.ci.dallas.tx.us/04/0433-001.gif>). November 23, 1963.
40. Ray La Fontaine; Mary La Fontaine (1996). Oswald Talked (<https://archive.org/details/oswaldtalkednewe00lafo>). Pelican. p. 372 (<https://archive.org/details/oswaldtalkednewe00lafo/page/372>). ISBN 978-1-56554-029-3.
41. Mark Lane interview of Roger Craig (1976). Two Men in Dallas. Tapeworm Video Distributors. ASIN B000NHDFBQ (<https://www.amazon.com/dp/B000NHDFBQ>).
42. Barry Ernest (2013). The Girl on the Stairs: The Search for a Missing Witness to the JFK Assassination. Pelican Publishing. p. 128. ISBN 9781455617838.
43. Warren Commission 1964, p. 235, "Chapter 5".
44. Marrs 1989, pp. 439–440.
45. Groden 1995, p. 118.
46. Gilbride, Richard (2009). Matrix for Assassination: The JFK Conspiracy (<https://books.google.com/books?id=l1VBURmaMPkC>). Trafford Publishing. p. 267. ISBN 978-1-4269-1390-7.
47. Warren Commission 1964, p. 645, "Appendix 12".
48. Testimony of Dr. Robert Shaw (http://www.aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/wc/wcvols/wh4/html/WC_Vol4_0061a.htm), Warren Commission Hearings, vol. 4, pp. 113–114.
49. Testimony of Commander James Humes (http://www.aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/wc/wcvols/wh2/html/WC_Vol2_0191b.htm), Warren Commission Hearings, vol. 2, pp. 374–376.
50. Testimony of Lieutenant Colonel Pierre Finck (http://www.aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/wc/wcvols/wh2/html/WC_Vol2_0195b.htm), Warren Commission Hearings, vol. 2, p. 382.
51. "Josiah Thompson, Six Seconds in Dallas, pages 147–151" (<http://mcadams.posc.mu.edu/wound5.txt>). Retrieved September 17, 2010.
52. Matthew P. Smith, Pittsburgh Post-Gazette, A-5, June 19, 1993.
53. Warren Commission 1964, "Chapter 3".
54. Shipman, Tim (July 1, 2007). "Oswald 'had no time to fire all Kennedy bullets'" (<https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/worldnews/1556184/Oswald-had-no-time-to-fire-all-Kennedy-bullets.html>). The Telegraph. Retrieved January 17, 2019.
55. Helinski, Paul (November 11, 2013). "Lee Harvey Oswald's Carcano Rifle – Shooting It Today" (<http://www.gunsamerica.com/digest/lee-harvey-oswalds-carcano-rifle-shooting-it-today/>). Guns America. Retrieved January 17, 2019.
56. Summers 2013, pp. 31-.
57. "Report of the Select Committee on Assassinations of the U.S. House of Representatives" (<https://www.archives.gov/research/jfk/select-committee-report/>). United States National Archives. 1979. Retrieved May 16, 2010.
58. Warren Report (http://www.aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/wc/wr/html/WCReport_0022a.htm), chapter 1, p. 19.
59. Report of the Select Committee on Assassinations of the U.S. House of Representatives, Chapter I, Section A 1979, p. 44.
60. "Was MARY MOORMAN In The Street?" (http://www.jfklancer.com/moorman_essay/moorman_essay_4.html). JFK Lancer.
61. Nellie Connally's statement (<http://news.bbc.co.uk/2/hi/americas/5309638.stm>) bbc.co.uk: September 3, 2006.

62. Appendix to Hearings before the Select Committee on Assassinations of the U.S. House of Representatives (<http://www.maryferrell.org/mffweb/archive/viewer/showDoc.do?docId=957>). VI. Washington, D.C.: United States Government Printing Office. 1979. pp. 306–308 – via Mary Ferrell Foundation.
63. Feldman, Harold (March 1965). Arnoni, Menachem (ed.). "Fifty-one Witnesses: The Grassy Knoll" (http://spot.acorn.net/jfkplace/09/fp.back_issues/12th_Issue/51_wits.html). The Minority of One. 64. Menachem Arnoni. 7 (3): 16–25. Retrieved March 3, 2012.
64. Bugliosi 2007, p. 847.
65. "A Primer of Assassination Theories: The Whole Spectrum of Doubt, from the Warren Commissioners to Ousman Ba" (https://web.archive.org/web/20120214235845/http://karws.gso.uri.edu/jfk/Conspiracy_theories/Primer/Primer_of_assassination_theories.html). Esquire: 205 ff. December 1966. Archived from the original (http://karws.gso.uri.edu/jfk/conspiracy_theories/Primer/Primer_of_assassination_theories.html) on February 14, 2012.
66. Lee Bowers (August 31, 1994) [1967]. Rush to Judgment / The Plot to Kill JFK: Rush to Judgment (movie / videotape). Judgment Films / Mpi Home Video. ISBN 9781556071461.
67. Matrix for Assassination: The JFK Conspiracy By Richard Gilbride (2009), p. 101.
68. Myers, Dale K. (2008). "The Testimony of Lee Bowers, Jr" (http://www.jfkfiles.com/jfk/html/badgeman_4.htm). Secrets of a Homicide: Badge Man. Oak Cliff Press. Retrieved November 17, 2014.
69. Myers, Dale K. (September 14, 2007). "Lee Bowers: The Man Behind the Grassy Knoll" (<http://jfkfiles.blogspot.com/2007/09/lee-bowers-man-behind-grassy-knoll.html>). Secrets of a Homicide: JFK Assassination. Oak Cliff Press. Retrieved November 26, 2012.
70. "Decker Ex 5323 - Dallas County Sheriff's Office record of the events surrounding the assassination". Warren Commission Hearings (<https://www.maryferrell.org/showDoc.html?docId=1136&relPageId=508>). XIX. 1964. p. 490 – via Mary Ferrell Foundation.
71. Marris 1989, p. 39.
72. "A Second Primer of Assassination Theories" (https://web.archive.org/web/20111007101304/http://karws.gso.uri.edu/jfk/conspiracy_theories/Second_Primer/Second_primer.html). Esquire: 104 ff. May 1967. Archived from the original (http://karws.gso.uri.edu/jfk/conspiracy_theories/Second_Primer/Second_primer.html) on October 7, 2011.
73. Prouty, L. Fletcher (2011) [2005]. JFK: The CIA, Vietnam, and the Plot to Assassinate John F. Kennedy. New York: Skyhorse Publishing. ISBN 978-1-61608-291-8.
74. Groden, Robert (1993). The Killing of a President. pp. 142–144.
75. Fetzer, James (1998). Assassination Science. Chicago: Catfeet Press. pp. 142–144. ISBN 0-8126-9366-3.
76. "Review of Murder in Dealey Plaza from The Citizens' Voice" (<http://www.assassinationscience.com/golais.html>). Retrieved September 30, 2014.
77. Turner, Nigel (2003). "The Smoking Guns". The Men Who Killed Kennedy.
78. Fiestier, Sherry Pool Gutierrez (Winter 1996). "What the Blood Tells Us" (<http://www.kenrahn.com/Marsh/Ballistics/BloodEvidence.html>). KenRahn.Com (originally published by "The Kennedy Assassination Chronicles"). Retrieved April 22, 2014.
79. G Paul Chambers. Head Shot. The Science Behind the JFK Assassination. Prometheus Books NY 2012 p 207.
80. Richard B. Trask, Pictures of the Pain (Danvers, Mass.: Yeoman, 1994), p. 124.
81. Circumstantial Evidence of a Head Shot From The Grassy Knoll (<http://mcadams.posc.mu.edu/d1487.txt>) W. Anthony Marsh, Presented at The Third Decade conference June 18–20, 1993
82. Bugliosi 2007, p. 994.

83. Simon, Art (1996). "Chapter 1: The Zapruder Film" (<https://books.google.com/books?id=hynlm5Aaa3EC&pg=PA35>). Dangerous Knowledge: The JFK Assassination in Art and Film (<https://books.google.com/books?id=hynlm5Aaa3EC>). Culture and the Moving Image. Philadelphia: Temple University Press. ISBN 978-1-56639-379-9.
84. Krajicek, David. "JFK Assassination" (https://web.archive.org/web/20120420014531/http://www.trutv.com/library/crime/terrorists_spies/assassins/jfk/11.html). truTV.com. Turner Broadcasting System, Inc. p. 11. Archived from the original (http://www.trutv.com/library/crime/terrorists_spies/assassins/jfk/11.html) on April 20, 2012. Retrieved March 25, 2012.
85. "I.B." (<https://www.archives.gov/research/jfk/select-committee-report/part-1b.html>). Report of the Select Committee on Assassinations of the U.S. House of Representatives (<https://www.archives.gov/research/jfk/select-committee-report/>). Washington, D.C.: United States Government Printing Office. 1979. p. 66.
86. Report of the Select Committee on Assassinations of the U.S. House of Representatives, Chapter I, Section B 1979, p. 78.
87. Report of the Select Committee on Assassinations of the U.S. House of Representatives, Chapter I, Section B 1979, p. 93.
88. Testimony of Mark Weiss and Ernest Aschkenasy (http://www.aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/hasca/reportvols/vol5/html/HSCA_Vol5_0311a.htm), 5 HSCA 617.
89. G. Robert Blakey and Richard N. Billings, The Plot to Kill the President, Times Books, 1981, p. 103. ISBN 978-0-8129-0929-6.
90. Greg Jaynes. "Afterward" (<http://mcadams.posc.mu.edu/jaynes/mclain.htm>). The Scene of the Crime.
91. "Separate Views of Hons. Samuel L. Devine and Robert W. Edgar" (http://www.aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/hasca/report/html/HSCA_Report_0261b.htm). HSCA Report. pp. 492–493.
92. Report of the Committee on Ballistic Acoustics (http://www.nap.edu/catalog.php?record_id=10264). Nap.edu. 1982. doi:10.17226/10264 (<https://doi.org/10.17226%2F10264>). ISBN 978-0-309-25372-7. Retrieved December 24, 2012.
93. Committee on Ballistic Acoustics, National Research Council (October 1982). "Reexamination of Acoustic Evidence in the Kennedy Assassination". Science. 218 (8): 127–133. doi:10.1126/science.6750789 (<https://doi.org/10.1126%2Fscience.6750789>).
94. George Lardner Jr. (March 26, 2001). "Study Backs Theory of 'Grassy Knoll'" (<http://whatreallyhappened.com/RANCHO/POLITICS/JFK/bbcgrassy.htm>). The Washington Post. p. A03.
95. Pellegrini, Frank (March 26, 2001). "The Grassy Knoll Is Back" (<http://www.time.com/time/nation/article/0,8599,103958,00.html>). Time Magazine.
96. Thomas DB (2001). "Echo Correlation Analysis and the Acoustic Evidence in the Kennedy Assassination Revisited" (<https://www.webcitation.org/5spmKztLK?url=http://pages.prodigy.net/whiskey99/thomas.pdf>) (PDF). Science & Justice. 41 (1): 21–32. doi:10.1016/S1355-0306(01)71845-X (<https://doi.org/10.1016%2FS1355-0306%2801%2971845-X>). PMID 11215295 (<https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/11215295>). Archived from the original (<http://pages.prodigy.net/whiskey99/thomas.pdf>) (PDF) on September 18, 2010. Retrieved April 10, 2010.
97. Linsker R, Garwin RL, Chernoff H, Horowitz P, Ramsey NF (2005). "Synchronization of the acoustic evidence in the assassination of President Kennedy" (http://jfk-records.com/ScienceAndJustice_45%284%29_207-226%282005%29.pdf) (PDF). Science & Justice. 45 (4): 207–226. doi:10.1016/S1355-0306(05)71668-3 (<https://doi.org/10.1016%2FS1355-0306%2805%2971668-3>). PMID 16686272 (<https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/16686272>).
98. Thomas, Donald Byron (2010). Hear No Evil: Social Constructivism and the Forensic Evidence in the Kennedy Assassination. ISBN 978-0980121391.
99. Marrs 1989, pp. 55–89.
00. "HSCA Appendix to Hearings—Volume 7, pg 37-39" (https://history-matters.com/archive/jfk/hasca/reportvols/vol7/html/HSCA_Vol7_0024a.htm) – via History Matters Archive.

01. DiEugenio, Jim (November 19, 2013). "Where New JFK Evidence Points" (<https://consortiumnews.com/2013/11/19/where-new-jfk-evidence-points/>). Consortiumnews.
02. "History Matters Essays—The 'Last' Investigation - The House Select Committee on Assassinations, Gary L. Aguilar, MD and Kathy Cunningham, May 2003" (https://www.history-matters.com/essays/jfkmed/How5Investigations/How5InvestigationsGotItWrong_5.htm).
03. Fetzer, James H. (2000). Murder in Dealey Plaza, "The Converging Medical Case for Conspiracy in the Death of JFK". Open Court. pp. 110–136. ISBN 978-0812694222.
04. Newton, Michael; French, John L. (2007). "Magic Bullet Theory". The Encyclopedia of Crime Scene Investigation. Infobase Publishing. p. 173. ISBN 978-1438129839.
05. Wecht M.D., J.D., Dr. Cyril, Cause of Death, Penguin Group, 1993. ISBN 0-525-93661-0.
06. "MD 6—White House Death Certificate (Burkley—11/23/63)" (http://history-matters.com/archive/jfk/arrb/master_med_set/md6/html/Image1.htm). p. 2. Retrieved February 7, 2013 – via History Matters Archive.
07. "Gerald Ford's Terrible Fiction" (<http://www.jfklancer.com/Ford-Rankin.html>). JFK Lancer.
08. Autopsy Descriptive Sheet (commonly called "Face Sheet") (http://www.history-matters.com/archive/jfk/arrb/master_med_set/md1/html/Image0.htm), Assassinations Records Review Board, MD 1, p. 1.
09. Fetzer, James. Assassination Science, (Chicago: Catfeet Press, 1998), p. 395. ISBN 0-8126-9366-3
10. Douglass, James W. (October 2010) [2008]. JFK and the Unspeakable: Why He Died and Why It Matters (<https://books.google.com/books?id=KS-6XrdalGkC>). New York: Touchstone/Simon & Schuster. p. 313. ISBN 978-1-4391-9388-4.
11. "On Trial: Lee Harvey Oswald (PART 18)" (<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=NgpvRv9oMs8>). David Von Pein's JFK Channel. September 2, 2013 – via YouTube.
12. Lifton, David. Best Evidence: Disguise and Deception in the Assassination of John F. Kennedy, (New York: Carroll & Graf Publishers, 1988), p. 604. ISBN 0-88184-438-1
13. Douglass 2010, pp. 311–312.
14. The Clay Shaw Trial Testimony of Pierre Finck (<http://jfkassassination.net/russ/testimony/finckshaw.htm>), State of Louisiana vs. Clay L. Shaw, February 24, 1969.
15. "Exit (outshoot) wound of the side of the head" (<http://www.maryferrell.org/mffweb/archive/viewer/showDoc.do?docId=82&relPagelId=132>). Appendix to Hearings before the Select Committee on Assassinations of the U.S. House of Representatives (<http://www.maryferrell.org/mffweb/archive/viewer/showDoc.do?absPagelId=39001>). VII. Washington, D.C.: United States Government Printing Office. March 1979. pp. 122–124 – via Mary Ferrell Foundation.
16. Douglass 2010, pp. 283–284, 461.
17. Warren Commission 1964, p. 195, "Chapter 4".
18. Warren Commission 1964, p. 191 (<https://www.archives.gov/research/jfk/warren-commission-report/chapter-4.html#marine>), "Chapter 4".
19. "Marine Corps Weapons Qualification Course" (<https://www.military.com/join-armed-forces/marine-corps-weapons-qualification-course.html>).
20. Aaronovitch, David (February 4, 2010). Voodoo Histories: The Role of the Conspiracy Theory in Shaping Modern History (<https://books.google.com/books?id=0t7lC3nmFq8C&pg=PT107>). Penguin. pp. 107–. ISBN 978-1-59448-895-5. Retrieved March 21, 2012.
21. Bugliosi 2007, p. xxxviii.
22. Warren Commission 1964, p. [1] (<https://www.archives.gov/research/jfk/warren-commission-report/chapter-7.html>), "Chapter 7".
23. Speculations and Rumors: Oswald and U.S. Government Agencies (http://www.aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/wc/wr/html/WCReport_0342b.htm), Warren Commission Report, Appendix XII, p. 660.
24. Broderick & Miller 2008, pp. 206–207.
25. Marrs 1989, pp. 189–196, 226–235.

26. Douglass 2010, pp. 222-223, 226-228, 332-337.
27. Goldman, Peter; Lindsay, John J. (April 28, 1975). "Dallas: New Questions and Answers" (<http://jfk.hod.edu/Collection/White%20Materials/White%20Magazines%20And%20Articles/Newsweek%2004-28-75/Item%2001.pdf>) (PDF). Newsweek. New York. p. 37. Retrieved January 3, 2013.
28. Rumors that Oswald was an undercover agent (<http://www.maryferrell.org/showDoc.html?docId=60439#relPagel=3&tab=page>), J. Lee Rankin, General Council for the Warren Commission – via Mary Ferrell Foundation.
29. Commission Exhibit 826 (https://aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/wc/wcvols/wh17/html/WH_Vol17_0392b.htm), Warren Commission Hearings, vol. 17, pp. 758–764.
30. HSCA Final Report (http://www.aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/hasca/report/html/HSCA_Report_0113a.htm) (Report). p. 195.
31. Destruction of the Oswald Note (http://www.maryferrell.org/wiki/index.php/Destruction_of_the_Oswald_Note) – via Mary Ferrell Foundation.
32. Summers 2013, p. 347.
33. Biography of Lee Harvey Oswald (http://www.aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/wc/wr/html/WCReport_0368b.htm), The Warren Report, Appendix 8, p. 712.
34. "Investigation of Assassination of President John F. Kennedy" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20120813044440/http://www.acorn.net/jfkplace/03/JA/DR/dr19.html>). Federal Bureau of Investigation. Archived from the original on August 13, 2012.
35. Marrs 1989, pp. 110–111.
36. Douglass 2010, p. 40.
37. Turner, Nigel (1991). "The Patsy". The Men Who Killed Kennedy.
38. The Village Voice, December 15, 1975.
39. Talbot, David (2007). Brothers: The Hidden History of the Kennedy Years (<https://archive.org/details/brothershiddenhi00talb>). New York: Free Press. p. 381 (<https://archive.org/details/brothershiddenhi00alb/page/381>). ISBN 978-0743269186.
40. Fonzi, Gaeton. The Last Investigation, (New York: Thunder's Mouth Press, 1993), p. 195. ISBN 1-56025-052-6
41. "Testimony of James B. Wilcott, a former employee of the Central Intelligence Agency" (http://www.aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/hasca/secclass/pdf/Wilcott_3-22-78.pdf) (PDF). HSCA hearings. March 22, 1978. (testimony commencing on page 27)
42. "Couple Talks about Oswald and the CIA", interview of James and Elsie Wilcott, former husband and wife employees of the Tokyo CIA Station, San Francisco Chronicle, September 12, 1978.
43. "Interview – G. Robert Blakey [2003 Addendum]" (<https://www.pbs.org/wgbh/pages/frontline/shows/oswald/interviews/blakey.html>). FRONTLINE | Who Was Lee Harvey Oswald?. PBS.
44. Fishel, Chris (2005) [1977]. "Chapter 10: Crime— 11 Possible Alternative Gunmen in the Assassination of John F. Kennedy". In Wallechinsky, David; Wallace, Amy (eds.). The New Book of Lists: The Original Compendium of Curious Information. New York: Canongate. pp. 309–312. ISBN 1-84195-719-4.
45. Fishel 2005, pp. 309–312.
46. Bugliosi 2007, pp. 1495–1498 (<https://archive.org/details/reclaiminghistor00bugl/page/1495>).
47. Bugliosi 2007, p. 933.
48. Trahair, Richard C. S.; Miller, Robert L. (2009) [2004]. Encyclopedia of Cold War Espionage, Spies, and Secret Operations (<https://books.google.com/books?id=g3LtFS3rI9MC>) (First paperback / Revised ed.). New York: Enigma Books. pp. 165–166. ISBN 978-1-929631-75-9.
49. "Key Players: E. Howard Hunt" (https://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-srv/onpolitics/watergate/howard_hunt.html). The Washington Post. Retrieved January 2, 2013.

50. Hedegaard, Erik (April 5, 2007). "The Last Confessions of E. Howard Hunt" (https://web.archive.org/web/20080618150441/http://www.rollingstone.com/news/story/13893143/the_last_confessions_of_e_howard_hunt/1). Rolling Stone. Archived from the original (https://www.rollingstone.com/news/story/13893143/the_last_confessions_of_e_howard_hunt/1) on June 18, 2008.
51. Williams, Carol J. (March 20, 2007). "Watergate plotter may have a last tale" (<http://articles.latimes.com/2007/mar/20/nation/na-hunt20>). Los Angeles Times. Los Angeles. Retrieved December 30, 2012.
52. Maier, Timothy W. (July 2, 2012). "Deathbed confession: Who really killed JFK?" (<http://baltimorepostexaminer.com/deathbed-confession-who-really-killed-jfk/2012/07/02>). Baltimore Post-Examiner.
53. Perry 2003, p. 391.
54. Barry, Bill (November 28, 2005). "In defense of Officer Tippit, an often forgotten police hero" (<https://news.google.com/newspapers?id=9uY0AAAIBAJ&pg=7102%2C3135374>). Lodi News-Sentinel. Lodi, California. p. 2. Retrieved April 14, 2012.
55. Bonokoski, Mark (November 22, 1973). "JFK's magic lives on ... and some called it Camelot's Court" (<https://news.google.com/newspapers?id=WpdQAAAIBAJ&pg=4533%2C2089418>). The Windsor Start. Windsor, Ontario. p. 39. Retrieved April 14, 2012.
56. Warren Commission 1964, pp. 293–299, "Chapter 6".
57. Warren Commission 1964, p. 298, "Chapter 6".
58. Warren Commission 1964, p. 663, "Appendix 12".
59. "Playboy Interview: Mark Lane" (<http://jfk.hood.edu/Collection/White%20Materials/White%20Magazines%20And%20Articles/Playboy%20Interview%20of%20Mark%20Lane/Item%20001.pdf>) (PDF). Playboy. 60–61. February 1967. Retrieved September 8, 2014.
60. Gavzer, Bernard; Moody, Sid (June 26, 1967). "Special Report; Who Really Killed President Kennedy" (<http://jfk.hood.edu/Collection/White%20Materials/Garrison%20News%20Clippings/1967/67-06/67-06-105.pdf>) (PDF). San Francisco Examiner. San Francisco. AP. p. 41. Retrieved September 10, 2014.
61. Aynesworth, Hugh; Michaud, Stephen G. (2003). "Bribery, Coercion and Opportunists in the "Big Easy" ". JFK: Breaking the News. Richardson, Texas: International Focus Press. p. 231. ISBN 9780963910363.
62. Eaton, Leslie (February 19, 2008). "New Trove Opened in Kennedy Killing" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2008/02/19/us/19dallas.html>). The New York Times. New York. Retrieved September 10, 2014.
63. Warren Commission 1964, p. 176, "Chapter 4".
64. Marris 1989, p. 585.
65. Douglass 2010, p. 287.
66. Garrison, Jim (1988). On the Trail of the Assassins: My Investigation and Prosecution of the Murder of President Kennedy (<https://archive.org/details/ontrailofassas00garr>). Sheridan Square Press. p. 197 (<https://archive.org/details/ontrailofassas00garr/page/197>). ISBN 978-0-941781-02-2.
67. Marris 1989, p. 340.
68. Thomas, Kenn, ed. (2000). "The Tippit Connection" (https://books.google.com/books?id=IBLhW_rNZcoC&pg=PA55). Cyberculture Counterconspiracy: A Steamshovel Web Reader (https://books.google.com/books?id=IBLhW_rNZcoC). 2. Escondido, California: The Book Tree. p. 63. ISBN 978-1-58509-126-3.
69. Summers 2013, p. 108.
70. McKenna, Brian (April 19, 1986). "JFK: A distinguished American journalist has joined the unofficial sleuths tracking the killers and those who covered up, from Montreal to Mexico City and back again" (<https://news.google.com/newspapers?id=S4s0AAAIBAJ&pg=1623%2C5250251>). The Gazette. Montreal. p. B7. Retrieved April 14, 2012.
71. "Everything Is A Rich Man's Trick (Full Movie)" (<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=M8nE-8ctbTI>). Unmatrix Yourself. May 4, 2019.
72. Warren Commission 1964, pp. 166–167, "Chapter 4".

73. Belzer, Richard (2000). "Hear No Evil, See No Evil, Speak No Evil" (<https://books.google.com/books?id=yDrJa9-7irUC&pg=PT50>). UFOs, JFK, and Elvis: Conspiracies You Don't Have to Be Crazy to Believe (<https://books.google.com/books?id=yDrJa9-7irUC>). New York: Ballantine Publishing Group. ISBN 978-0-345-42918-6.
74. Summers 2013, pp. 104–105.
75. Testimony of Domingo Benavides (http://www.aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/wc/wcvols/wh6/html/WC_Vol6_0231a.htm), Warren Commission Hearings, vol. 6, pp. 451–452.
76. Marrs 1989, p. 341.
77. Testimony of Domingo Benavides (http://www.aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/wc/wcvols/wh6/html/WC_Vol6_0231b.htm), Warren Commission Hearings, vol. 6, p. 452.
78. Turner, Nigel (1991). "The Witnesses". The Men Who Killed Kennedy.
79. Summers 2013, pp. 105–106.
80. Summers 2013, p. 106.
81. Commission Exhibit No. 2011 (http://www.aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/wc/wcvols/wh24/html/WH_Vol24_0217a.htm), Warren Commission Hearings, vol. 24, p. 415.
82. Testimony of Gerald Lynn Hill (http://www.aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/wc/wcvols/wh7/html/WC_Vol7_0029a.htm), Warren Commission Hearings, vol. 7, p. 49.
83. Marrs 1989, p. 343.
84. Testimony of J. M. Poe (http://www.aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/wc/wcvols/wh7/html/WC_Vol7_0039a.htm), Warren Commission Hearings, vol. 7, p. 69.
85. Commission Exhibit No. 1974 (http://www.aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/wc/wcvols/wh23/html/WH_Vol23_0451b.htm), Warren Commission Hearings, vol. 23, p. 870.
86. Summers 2013, p. 65.
87. Warren Commission 1964, p. 252, "Chapter 6".
88. Warren Commission 1964, p. 254, "Chapter 6".
89. Warren Commission 1964, p. 648, "Appendix 12".
90. Warren Commission 1964, p. 165, "Chapter 4".
91. Testimony of William W. Whaley (http://www.aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/wc/wcvols/wh6/html/WC_Vol6_0222b.htm), Warren Commission Hearings, vol. 6, p. 434
92. Groden 1995, p. 137.
93. Groden 1995, pp. 134–137.
94. Testimony of Domingo Benavides (http://www.aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/wc/wcvols/wh6/html/WC_Vol6_0229b.htm), Warren Commission Hearings, vol. 6, p. 448.
95. Commission Exhibit No. 2003 (http://www.aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/wc/wcvols/wh24/html/WH_Vol24_0110b.htm), Warren Commission Hearings, vol. 24, p. 202.
96. "Affidavit of Helen Markham" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20010812201049/http://jfk.ci.dallas.tx.us/04/0444-001.gif>). Archived from the original (<http://jfk.ci.dallas.tx.us/04/0444-001.gif>) on August 12, 2001 – via jfk.ci.dallas.tx.us.
97. Testimony of Mrs. Helen Markham (http://www.aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/wc/wcvols/wh3/html/WC_Vol3_0157b.htm), Warren Commission Hearings, vol. 3, p. 306.
98. Groden 1995, p. 136.
99. Commission Document 5 - FBI Gemberling Report of 30 Nov 1963 re: Oswald (<http://www.maryferrell.org/mffweb/archive/viewer/showDoc.do?docId=10406&relPagelId=82>) – via Mary Ferrell Foundation.
00. Craig, Roger. When They Kill a President, 1971, ASIN B00072DT18 (<https://www.amazon.com/dp/B00072DT18>)
01. Roger Craig (<http://mcadams.posc.mu.edu/craig.htm>), Mcadams.posc.mu.edu.

02. Douglass 2010, pp. 290, 466.
03. "Warren Commission Hearings, Volume VII" (http://history-matters.com/archive/jfk/wc/wcvols/wh7/html/WC_Vol7_0011a.htm) – via History Matters Archive.
04. Marrs 1989, p. 353.
05. Sprague, Richard E.; Cutler, Robert (June 1978). "The Umbrella System: Prelude to an Assassination" (<http://www.ratical.org/ratville/JFK/TUM.txt>). Gallery Magazine.
06. Testimony of Charles A. Senseney, Special Operations Division at Fort Detrick (<http://nsarchive.gwu.edu/NSAEBB/NSAEBB58/RNCBW25.pdf>), "Unauthorized Storage of Toxic Agents", Senate Select Committee to Study Governmental Operations with Respect to Intelligence Activities, pp. 159–178, September 18, 1975.
07. Marrs 1989, pp. 29–33.
08. The Miami News—Google News Archive Search (<https://archive.today/20130411021928/http://news.google.com/newspapers?id=xYE0AAAAIBAJ&sjid=2esFAAAAIBAJ&pg=4213,2390518>)
09. Marrs 1989, p. 30.
10. Morris, Errol (November 21, 2011). "The Umbrella Man" (<https://www.nytimes.com/video/opinion/10000001183275/the-umbrella-man.html>). The New York Times. Retrieved November 21, 2015.
11. "'Smoke' on the Grassy Knoll in the Wake of the JFK Assassination" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090415122213/http://mcadams.posc.mu.edu/organ3.htm>). Archived from the original (<http://mcadams.posc.mu.edu/organ3.htm>) on April 15, 2009. Retrieved September 30, 2014.
12. "HSCA Appendix to Hearings—Volume VI" (http://www.history-matters.com/archive/jfk/hasca/reportvols/vol6/html/HSCA_Vol6_0069a.htm). Retrieved September 30, 2014 – via History Matters Archive.
13. Miller, Bill. "The Myth of the Mystery Man in the Pyracantha Bush in Dealey Plaza" (<http://www.jfklancer.com/miller/mysteryman.html>). JFK Lancer. Retrieved September 30, 2014.
14. Benson 2003, p. xiv.
15. Meagher, Michael; Gragg, Larry D. (2011). John F. Kennedy: A Biography (https://books.google.com/books?id=sD_Lshj2PmYC). Greenwood Press. ISBN 978-0-313-35416-8.
16. Kurtz, Michael L. (1993) [1982]. Crime of the Century: The Kennedy Assassination from a Historian's Perspective (<https://books.google.com/books?id=pCftxLUdRFYC>) (2nd ed.). Knoxville, Tennessee: University of Tennessee Press. p. x. ISBN 978-0-87049-824-4.
17. Broderick & Miller 2008, p. 203.
18. Vaccara, Stefano. Carlos Marcello: The Man Behind the JFK Assassination. [[Enigma Books].
19. O'Leary, Brad; Seymour, L.E. (2003). Triangle of death: The Shocking Truth about the Role of South Vietnam and the French Mafia in the Assassination of JFK. Nashville, Tennessee: WND Books. p. Forward. ISBN 0-7852-6153-2.
20. Commission Exhibit No. 1931 (http://www.history-matters.com/archive/jfk/wc/wcvols/wh23/html/WH_Vol23_0379b.htm), Warren Commission Hearings, vol. 23, p. 726.
21. Commission Exhibit No. 3094 (http://www.history-matters.com/archive/jfk/wc/wcvols/wh26/html/WH_Vol26_0370b.htm), Warren Commission Hearings, vol. 26, pp. 704–705.
22. Testimony of Dean Andrews (http://www.history-matters.com/archive/jfk/wc/wcvols/wh11/html/WC_Vol11_0171a.htm), Warren Commission Hearings, vol. 11, pp. 331–334.
23. David Ferrie (http://www.aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/hasca/reportvols/vol10/html/HSCA_Vol10_0058b.htm), House Select Committee on Assassinations—Appendix to Hearings, Volume 10, 12, pp. 112–113.
24. FBI Interview of Jack S. Martin (<http://www.maryferrell.org/mffweb/archive/viewer/showDoc.do?docId=10477&relPagId=219>), November 25, 1963 & November 27, 1963, Warren Commission Document 75, pp. 217–218, 309–311 – via Mary Ferrell Foundation.
25. FBI Interview of David Ferrie (<http://www.maryferrell.org/mffweb/archive/viewer/showDoc.do?docId=10477&relPagId=288>), November 25, 1963, Warren Commission Document 75, p. 286 – via Mary Ferrell Foundation.

26. PBS Frontline "Who Was Lee Harvey Oswald" (<https://www.pbs.org/wgbh/pages/frontline/shows/oswald/glimpse/ferrie.html>), broadcast on PBS stations, November 1993 (various dates).
27. Summers 2013, pp. 284–285.
28. David Ferrie (http://www.aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/hasca/reportvols/vol10/html/HSCA_Vol10_0057a.htm), House Select Committee on Assassinations—Appendix to Hearings, Volume 10, 12, p. 109.
29. 544 Camp Street and Related Events (http://www.history-matters.com/archive/jfk/hasca/reportvols/vol10/html/HSCA_Vol10_0066a.htm), House Select Committee on Assassinations—Appendix to Hearings, Volume 10, 13, p. 127.
30. 544 Camp Street and Related Events (http://www.history-matters.com/archive/jfk/hasca/reportvols/vol10/html/HSCA_Vol10_0067b.htm), House Select Committee on Assassinations—Appendix to Hearings, Volume 10, 13, p. 130.
31. Lee \(Vincent T.\), Exhibit No. 2 (http://www.aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/wc/wcvols/wh20/html/WH_Vol20_0266b.htm), Warren Commission Hearings, vol. 20, p. 512.
32. FBI Report of Investigation of Lee Harvey Oswald's Activities for Fair Play for Cuba Committee in New Orleans (http://www.history-matters.com/archive/jfk/wc/wcvols/wh25/html/WC_Vol25_0402a.htm), Warren Commission Hearings, vol. 25, pp. 770, 773.
33. Summers 2013, pp. 247–.
34. 544 Camp Street and Related Events (http://www.history-matters.com/archive/jfk/hasca/reportvols/vol10/html/HSCA_Vol10_0064a.htm), House Select Committee on Assassinations—Appendix to Hearings, vol. 10, 13, p. 123.
35. 544 Camp Street and Related Events (http://www.aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/hasca/reportvols/vol10/html/HSCA_Vol10_0064a.htm), House Select Committee on Assassinations—Appendix to Hearings, vol. 10, 13, pp. 123–124.
36. Marrs 1989, p. 235.
37. Marrs 1989, pp. 100, 236.
38. 544 Camp Street and Related Events (http://www.aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/hasca/reportvols/vol10/html/HSCA_Vol10_0065b.htm), House Select Committee on Assassinations—Appendix to Hearings, vol. 10, 13, pp. 126–127.
39. Summers 1998, p. 230.
40. 544 Camp Street and Related Events (http://www.history-matters.com/archive/jfk/hasca/reportvols/vol10/html/HSCA_Vol10_0066b.htm), House Select Committee on Assassinations—Appendix to Hearings, vol. 10, 13, p. 128.
41. Summers 2013, p. 229.
42. 544 Camp Street and Related Events (http://www.aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/hasca/reportvols/vol10/html/HSCA_Vol10_0067a.htm), House Select Committee on Assassinations—Appendix to Hearings, vol. 10, 8, p. 129.
43. Jim Garrison Interview (<http://www.jfklancer.com/Garrison2.html>), Playboy magazine, Eric Norden, October 1967.
44. Garrison 1988, pp. 12–13, 43, 176–178, 277, 293.
45. Garrison 1988, pp. 85–86.
46. Garrison 1988, pp. 26–27, 62, 70, 106–110, 250, 278, 289.
47. Turner, Nigel (2003). "The Love Affair". The Men Who Killed Kennedy.
48. Baker, Judyth (2010). Me and Lee. Walterville: Trine Day. p. 150. ISBN 978-0-9799886-7-7.
49. Baker 2010, p. .
50. McAdams, John \(2011\). "Witnesses Who Are Just Too Good". JFK Assassination Logic: How to Think About Claims of Conspiracy (<https://books.google.com/books?id=2OJeNytAOZkC>). Washington, D.C.: Potomac Books. pp. 73–75. ISBN 9781597974899. Retrieved January 8, 2013.
51. Warren Commission 1964, pp. 659–660, "Appendix 12".

52. "I.C. The committee believes, on the basis of the evidence available to it, that President John F. Kennedy was probably assassinated as a result of a conspiracy. The committee was unable to identify the other gunmen or the extent of the conspiracy" (<https://www.archives.gov/research/jfk/select-committee-report/part-1c.html>). Report of the Select Committee on Assassinations of the U.S. House of Representatives (<https://www.archives.gov/research/jfk/select-committee-report/>). Washington, D.C.: United States Government Printing Office. 1979.
53. Fonzi, Gaeton (2008). The Last Investigation. The Mary Ferrell Foundation. pp. 126, 141–145, 164–170, 266, 284. ISBN 978-0-9801213-5-3.
54. Newman, John M. (2008). Oswald and the CIA: The Documented Truth About the Unknown Relationship Between the U.S. Government and the Alleged Killer of JFK. New York: Skyhorse Publishing. ISBN 978-1-60239-253-3.
55. "LBJ Reportedly Suspected CIA Link in JFK's Death". The Washington Post. December 13, 1977. p. A10.
56. Kantor, Seth (November 16, 1988). "Connally didn't believe Warren Commission verdict" (<https://news.google.com/newspapers?nid=1665&dat=19881116&id=SXBPA AAAI BAJ &pg=6660,3698532>). Times-News. 113 (322). Henderson, North Carolina. Cox News Service. p. 23. Retrieved January 3, 2015.
57. DeLoach to Tolson (<http://jfk.hood.edu/Collection/Weisberg%20Subject%20Index%20Files/J%20Disk/Johnson%20Lyndon%20Baines%20President/Item%2038.pdf>), FBI document 62-1090060-5075, April 4, 1967, p. 3.
58. "Lyndon Convinced of JFK Death Plot, FBI Files Show" (<http://archives.chicagotribune.com/1978/01/19/page/2/article/lyndon-convinced-of-jfk-death-plot-fbi-files-show>). Chicago Tribune. January 19, 1978. section 1, page 2.
 - "Lyndon Convinced of JFK Death Plot, FBI Files Show" (<https://chicagotribune.newspapers.com/image/385605782/>). Chicago Tribune. January 19, 1978. section 1, page 2.
59. Marris 1989, p. 298.
60. Schlesinger, Arthur. Robert Kennedy and His Times, Houghton Mifflin Harcourt: 1978, p. 616. ISBN 0618219285.
61. Testimony of Courtney Evans and Cartha DeLoach (http://www.aarclibrary.org/publib/church/reports/vol6/html/ChurchV6_0096b.htm), Church Committee Reports, vol. 6, Federal Bureau of Investigation, p. 182.
62. "40 years of doubts: Conspiracy theories still grip public" (http://seattletimes.nwsourc.com/html/nationworld/2001798376_conspiracy22.html). The Seattle Times. Associated Press. November 22, 2003. Retrieved March 9, 2012.
63. Fresia, Gerald John (1988). Toward an American Revolution: Exposing the Constitution and Other Illusions (<https://archive.org/details/towardamericanre00fres>). Brookline, Massachusetts: South End Press. ISBN 0-89608-297-0.
64. "Ike's Warning Of Military Expansion, 50 Years Later" (<https://www.npr.org/2011/01/17/132942244/ikes-warning-of-military-expansion-50-years-later>). Morning Edition. NPR. January 17, 2011.
65. Broderick & Miller 2008, p. 207.
66. Yarborough, Ralph; interviewed in the documentary The Men Who Killed Kennedy, Part 5, "The Witnesses"
67. Anderson, George M. (November 17, 2008). "Unmasking the Truth" (https://web.archive.org/web/20110512005751/https://www.americamagazine.org/content/article.cfm?article_id=11206&comments=1). America. Archived from the original (https://www.americamagazine.org/content/article.cfm?article_id=11206&comments=1) on May 12, 2011.
68. Douglass, James W. (November–December 2010a). "JFK, Obama, and the Unspeakable" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20101116161350/http://www.tikkun.org/article.php/november2010douglass>). Tikkun. Archived from the original (<http://www.tikkun.org/article.php/november2010douglass>) on November 16, 2010. Retrieved December 13, 2010.

69. Douglass 2010, p. 384.
70. Canby, Vincent (December 20, 1991). "J.F.K.; When Everything Amounts to Nothing" (<https://movies.nytimes.com/movie/review?res=9D0CE5DC1230F933A15751C1A967958260>). The New York Times.
71. "JFK: The CIA, Vietnam, and the Plot to Assassinate John F. Kennedy" (<http://www.publishersweekly.com/978-1-55972-130-1>). Publisher's Weekly. August 31, 1992.
72. HSCA Final Report (http://www.aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/hasca/report/html/HSCA_Report_0129a.htm) (Report). p. 227.
73. HSCA Final Report (http://www.aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/hasca/report/html/HSCA_Report_0130a.htm) (Report). pp. 229–235.
74. HSCA Final Report (http://www.aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/hasca/report/html/HSCA_Report_0132b.htm) (Report). pp. 234–235.
75. Bugliosi 2007, pp. 29, 38.
76. Mary Anne Lewis (January 26, 1998). "JFK's death is often focus of his research" (http://www.post-gazette.com/neigh_south/19980125bjfk5.asp). Pittsburgh Post-Gazette.
77. Palamara, Vince. The Third Alternative—Survivor's Guilt: The Secret Service and the JFK Murder, (Southlake: JFK Lancer Productions & Publications, 1997), ISBN 0-9656582-4-4
78. Fetzer, James H. (2000). Murder in Dealey Plaza, "Secret Service: On the Job in Dallas". Open Court. pp. 101–109. ISBN 978-0812694222.
79. Bolden, Abraham. The Echo from Dealey Plaza, (New York: Harmony Books, 2008), p. 19. ISBN 978-0-307-38201-6
80. Douglass 2010, pp. 218, 438–439.
81. Assassination Records Review Board (September 30, 1998). "Executive Summary" (<https://www.archives.gov/research/jfk/review-board/report/arrb-final-report.pdf>) (PDF). Final Report of the Assassination Records Review Board. Washington, D.C.: United States Government Printing Office. Retrieved June 10, 2015.
82. Assassination Records Review Board (<https://fas.org/sgp/advisory/arrb.html>), FY 1995 Report, The Record Review Process and Compliance with the JFK Act—U.S. Secret Service
83. Summers 2013, p. 205.
84. HSCA Final Report (http://www.aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/hasca/report/html/HSCA_Report_0081b.htm) (Report). p. 132.
85. James Chace (October 25, 1987). "Betrayals and Obsession" (<https://www.nytimes.com/books/99/01/24/nnp/miami.html>). The New York Times. Review of Joan Didion's book Miami.
86. Didion, Joan (1987). Miami. New York: Simon & Schuster.
87. Meskil, Paul (September 20, 1977). "Ex-Spy Says She Drove To Dallas With Oswald & Kennedy 'Assassin Squad'" (<http://jfk.hood.edu/Collection/Weisberg%20Subject%20Index%20Files/L%20Disk/Lorenz%20Marita/Item%2011.pdf>) (PDF). New York Daily News. New York. p. 5. Retrieved March 7, 2013.
88. "Former Castro witness links Oswald, Hunt" (<https://news.google.com/newspapers?id=ku8vAAAIBA&pg=4330%2C2089387>). The Ledger. Lakeland, Florida. February 6, 1985. p. 2B. Retrieved April 6, 2015.
89. Warren Commission 1964, "Appendix 16".
90. Blakey, Robert (1981). The Plot to Kill the President. New York: Times Books. ISBN 0812909291
91. PBS Frontline "Who Was Lee Harvey Oswald" (<https://www.pbs.org/wgbh/pages/frontline/biographies/oswald/interview-g-robert-blakey/>), Interview: G. Robert Blakey, November 19, 2013.
92. Blakey, G. Robert (November 7, 1993). "Murdered By The Mob?" (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/archive/opinions/1993/11/07/murdered-by-the-mob/590c014a-a3b4-4f6d-b5a2-189249cd5663/>). Washington Post.

93. CIA offered money to Mafia (<http://www.udel.edu/leipzig/texts2/cnn03077.htm>). Retrieved December 3, 2006.
94. Maier, Thomas (February 24, 2018). "Inside the CIA's Plot to Kill Fidel Castro—With Mafia Help" (<http://www.politico.com/magazine/story/2018/02/24/fidel-castro-cia-mafia-plot-216977>). Politico Magazine.
95. Memorandum for the Director of Central Intelligence, Subject: Roselli, Johnny (http://graphics8.nytimes.com/packages/pdf/national/familyjewels/20070626_ciaandmob.pdf), November 19, 1970.
96. Douglass 2010, p. 34.
97. Kessler, Glenn (June 27, 2007). "Trying to Kill Fidel Castro" (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2007/06/26/AR2007062601467.html>). The Washington Post. Washington, D.C. Retrieved May 23, 2013.
98. Summers 2013, pp. 205-.
99. Summers 2013, pp. 224-.
00. Broderick & Miller 2008, p. 208.
01. Kessler, Ronald. The Sins of the Father: Joseph P. Kennedy and the Dynasty He Founded, (New York: Warner Books, 1996), p. 376 ISBN 0446518840
02. Bill Moyers, "The CIA's Secret Army", CBS Reports, June 10, 1977.
03. Bonanno, Bill. Bound by Honor: A Mafioso's Story, (New York: St Martin's Press, 1999), ISBN 0-312-20388-8
04. Investigative Reports, cable TV program, interview by Bill Curtis, September 1991.
05. Ruben Castaneda, "Nixon, Watergate, and the JFK Assassination", Baltimore Post-Examiner, July 2, 2012.
06. Ventura, Jessie. They Killed Our President, (New York: Skyhorse Publishing, 2013), xii. ISBN 1626361398
07. Thomas L. Jones. "Deep in the Heart of Texas" (https://web.archive.org/web/20080509203506/http://www.crimelibrary.com/gangsters_outlaws/family_epics/marcello/11.html). Carlos Marcello: Big Daddy in the Big Easy. Archived from the original (http://www.crimelibrary.com/gangsters_outlaws/family_epics/marcello/11.html) on May 9, 2008.
08. The John F. Kennedy Assassination Information Center (<http://mcadams.posc.mu.edu/russ/jfkinfo/jfk9/hscv9e.htm>) information on Carlos Marcello from congressional investigation, "The Assassination of President John F. Kennedy and Organized Crime, Report of Ralph Salerno, Consultant to the Select Committee on Assassinations".
09. "A legacy of secrecy: the assassination of JFK" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20081227083509/http://www.abc.net.au/rn/bookshow/stories/2008/2438955.htm>). RN Book Show. ABCnet.au. December 9, 2008. Archived from the original (<http://www.abc.net.au/rn/bookshow/stories/2008/2438955.htm>) on December 27, 2008. Retrieved September 17, 2010.
10. Scheim, David (1988). Contract on America (<https://archive.org/details/contractonameric00davi>). Shapolsky Publishers. ISBN 0-933503-30-X.
11. Kaiser, David (March 2008). "The Road to Dallas" (<http://www.hup.harvard.edu/catalog/KAIASS.html>). Harvard University Press.
12. "The Men Who Killed Kennedy: The Definitive Account of American History's Most Controversial Mystery". History Channel, 1988, 1991, 1995. This information appears in part 2, "The Forces of Darkness" under the sections titled, "The Contract" and "Foreign Assassins".
13. Ultimate Sacrifice: John and Robert Kennedy, the Plan for a Coup in Cuba, and the Murder of JFK (2005), by Lamar Waldron, with Thom Hartmann; Carroll & Graf. ISBN 0-7867-1441-7.
14. Bugliosi 2007, p. 1273.
15. Broderick & Miller 2008, pp. 208–209.
16. Kroth, Jerry, Coup d'etat: The assassination of President John F. Kennedy, Genotype, 2013. ASIN: B00EXTGDS2

17. Holland, Max (April 5, 2004). "The British JFK Producer Who Brought Shame on the History Channel" (<http://historynewsnetwork.org/article/4487>). historynewsnetwork.org. History News Network. Retrieved August 30, 2015.
18. Bugliosi 2007, p. 1275.
19. Bugliosi 2007, p. 1276.
20. Nelson, Philip F., LBJ: The Mastermind of the JFK Assassination, Skyhorse Publishing 2011. ISBN 978-1-61608-377-9
21. Bugliosi 2007, p. 1280.
22. Lincoln, Evelyn (1968). Kennedy and Johnson (<https://books.google.com/books?id=PR9CAAAAIAAJ&q=sanford>) (1st ed.). Holt, Rinehart and Winston. p. 205. Retrieved November 21, 2015.
23. McClellan, Barr, Blood, Money & Power: How L.B.J. Killed J.F.K., Hannover House 2003. ISBN 0-9637846-2-5
24. Ford, Gerald R. (2007). A Presidential Legacy and The Warren Commission. The FlatSigned Press. ISBN 978-1-934304-02-0.
25. Kutler, Stanley I. "Why the History Channel Had to Apologize for the Documentary that Blamed LBJ for JFK's Murder" (<http://hnn.us/articles/why-history-channel-had-apologize-documentary-blamed-lbj-jfks-murder>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20120825180654/http://hnn.us/articles/why-history-channel-had-apologize-documentary-blamed-lbj-jfks-murder>) August 25, 2012, at the Wayback Machine. History News Network. Retrieved January 2, 2011.
26. Brown, Madeleine D. (1997), Texas in the Morning: The Love Story of Madeleine Brown and President Lyndon Baines Johnson, Conservatory Press. ISBN 0-941401-06-5
27. Turner, Nigel (2003). "The Guilty Men". The Men Who Killed Kennedy.
28. Brown, Madeleine D. (1997), Texas in the Morning: The Love Story of Madeleine Brown and President Lyndon Baines Johnson, Conservatory Press, p. 166. ISBN 0-941401-06-5
29. "LBJ Night Before JFK Assassination: "Those SOB's Will Never Embarrass Me Again" " (<http://www.informationliberation.com/?id=15167>). Retrieved December 20, 2011.
30. Fetzer, James. Assassination Science, (Chicago: Catfeet Press, 1998), pp. 368–369. ISBN 0-8126-9366-3
31. Altman, Lawrence K. (May 26, 1992). "The Doctor's World; 28 Years After Dallas, A Doctor Tells His Story Amid Troubling Doubts" (<https://www.nytimes.com/1992/05/26/health/doctor-s-world-28-years-after-dallas-doctor-tells-his-story-amid-troubling.html>). The New York Times. New York. Retrieved January 4, 2015.
32. Crenshaw, Charles. Trauma Room One, (New York: Paraview Press, 2001), pp. 132–133. ISBN 1931044309
33. McAdams, John (2011). "Witnesses Who Are Just Too Good" (<https://books.google.com/books?id=2OJeNytAOZkC&pg=PA70>). JFK Assassination Logic: How to Think about Claims of Conspiracy (<https://books.google.com/books?id=2OJeNytAOZkC>). Washington, D.C.: Potomac Books, Inc. pp. 69–71. ISBN 978-1-59797-489-9. Retrieved January 4, 2015.
34. Bugliosi 2007, pp. 416–420.
35. "Hunt Blames JFK Hit On LBJ" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20070403093040/http://www.nypost.com/seven/01142007/gossip/pagesix/pagesix.htm>). NY Post. Archived from the original (<http://www.nypost.com/seven/01142007/gossip/pagesix/pagesix.htm>) on April 3, 2007. Retrieved April 11, 2007.
36. Weiner, Tim (May 13, 2007). "Watergate Warrior" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2007/05/13/books/review/Weiner-t.html>). The New York Times. New York. Retrieved January 5, 2013.
37. Goulden, Joseph C. (April 7, 2007). "E. Howard Hunt's 'memoir' and its glitches" (<http://www.washingtontimes.com/news/2007/apr/07/20070407-095756-2489r/print/>). The Washington Times. Washington, D.C. Retrieved January 5, 2013.

38. Buckley, Jr., William F. (January 26, 2007). "Howard Hunt, R.I.P." (<https://web.archive.org/web/20120722232539/http://www.nationalreview.com/nrd/article/?q=MDYzM2MyMDIwMjRiNWZlY2RlZjc3ZDY4YjAxMjBiM2Q=>) National Review. New York: Universal Press Syndicate. Archived from the original (<http://www.nationalreview.com/nrd/article/?q=MDYzM2MyMDIwMjRiNWZlY2RlZjc3ZDY4YjAxMjBiM2Q=>) on July 22, 2012. Retrieved January 5, 2013.
39. King, Wayne (March 24, 1984). "Estes Links Johnson to Plot" (<https://www.nytimes.com/1984/03/24/us/estes-links-johnson-to-plot.html>). The New York Times. Houston. Retrieved February 25, 2017.
40. Assassination Records Review Board (September 30, 1998). "Chapter 6, Part I: The Quest for Additional Information and Records in Federal Government Offices" (<https://www.archives.gov/research/jfk/review-board/report/arrb-final-report.pdf>) (PDF). Final Report of the Assassination Records Review Board. Washington, D.C.: United States Government Printing Office. p. 109. Retrieved May 15, 2013.
41. Kurtz 1993, p. xxviii.
42. Italie, Hillel (April 30, 2012). "Robert Caro On His New Lyndon Johnson Book: 'Passage Of Power'" (http://www.huffingtonpost.com/2012/04/30/passage-of-power-robert-caro_n_1464067.html). The Huffington Post. AP. Retrieved January 3, 2013.
43. Caro, Robert A. (2012). The Passage of Power, p. 450. Alfred A. Knopf, New York. ISBN 978-0-679-40507-8
44. Finnegan, Michael (May 3, 2016). "Trump ties Cruz's father to JFK assassination. His source? The National Enquirer" (<https://www.latimes.com/politics/la-na-trump-cruz-oswald-20160503-story.html>). Los Angeles Times. Retrieved March 8, 2020.
45. Mayfield, Mandy; Chaitin, Daniel (October 21, 2017). "Roger Stone says he 'laid out the case' for Trump to allow release of JFK assassination files" (<https://www.washingtonexaminer.com/roger-stone-says-he-laid-out-the-case-for-trump-to-allow-release-of-jfk-assassination-files>). Washington Examiner. Retrieved March 8, 2020.
46. Willis, Oliver (March 10, 2017). "The Alex Jones influence: Trump's "deep state" fears come from his conspiracy theorist ally and adviser" (https://www.salon.com/2017/03/09/the-alex-jones-influence-trumps-deep-state-fears-come-from-his-conspiracy-theorist-ally-and-adviser_partner/). Salon. Retrieved March 8, 2020.
47. "1963 F.B.I. Memo Ties Bush to Intelligence Agency" (<https://www.nytimes.com/1988/07/11/us/63-fbi-memo-ties-bush-to-intelligence-agency.html>). The New York Times. July 11, 1988.
48. McBride, Joseph (August 13, 1988). "Where Was George? (cont.)=The Nation" (<https://www.cia.gov/library/readingroom/docs/CIA-RDP99-01448R000401580054-2.pdf>) (PDF).
49. Morley, Jefferson (December 4, 2018). "Now is a good time to lay to rest the JFK conspiracy theories about George Bush" (<http://jfkfacts.org/about-that-lame-bush-conspiracy-theory/>). JFK Facts.
50. Testimony of George S. de Mohrenschildt (http://www.history-matters.com/archive/jfk/wc/wcvols/wh9/html/WC_Vol9_0122a.htm), Warren Commission Hearings, vol. 9, p. 235.
51. George de Mohrenschildt (http://www.aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/hsca/reportvols/vol12/html/HSCA_Vol12_0029b.htm), House Select Committee on Assassinations – Appendix to Hearings, Volume 12, 4, p. 54.
52. Testimony of Jeanne de Mohrenschildt (http://www.aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/wc/wcvols/wh9/html/WC_Vol9_0161b.htm), Warren Commission Hearings, vol. 9, p. 314.
53. Summers 2013, p. 172.
54. CIA MFR Raymond M. Reardon SAG 9.20.76.
55. Baker, Russ (2009). Family of Secrets. New York: Bloomsbury Press. p. 268. ISBN 978-1-59691-557-2.
56. Bugliosi 2007, pp. 1207–1208.
57. Summers 1998, p. 368.

58. AP (March 31, 1977). "Man Who Knew Oswald Apparently Takes Own Life" (<https://www.newspapers.com/newspage/51921777/>). Aiken Standard.
59. Warren Commission 1964, pp. 305, 374, "Chapter 6".
60. Summers 2013, pp. 392-.
61. Fonzi, Gaeton. The Last Investigation, (New York: Thunder's Mouth Press, 1993), pp. 53–54. ISBN 1-56025-052-6
62. Fonzi, Gaeton. The Last Investigation, (New York: Thunder's Mouth Press, 1993), p. 54. ISBN 1-56025-052-6
63. Summers 1998, p. 323.
64. Findings of the Select Committee on Assassinations (http://www.aarclibrary.org/publib/jfk/hasca/report/vols/vol10/html/HSCA_Vol10_0044a.htm) Appendix to Hearings, Vol. X, pp. 83–87.
65. The Assassination Tapes, by Max Holland (<https://www.theatlantic.com/doc/prem/200406/holland>) The Atlantic Monthly, June 2004
66. Marrs 1989, p. 154.
67. Castro: 'Oswald Could Not Have Been the One Who Killed Kennedy', by Jeffrey Goldberg (<https://www.theatlantic.com/international/archive/2013/11/castro-oswald-could-not-have-been-the-one-who-killed-kennedy/281674/>) The Atlantic Monthly, November 2013
68. "JFK Assassination Records Review Board Releases Top Secret Records" (<http://www.indiana.edu/~oah/nl/98feb/jfk.html#d1>). Indiana.edu. Retrieved September 17, 2010.
69. "The Kremlin's Killing Ways" (<http://article.nationalreview.com/?q=MzY4NWU2ZjY3YWYxMDIINWQ5MjQ3ZGJmMzg3MmQyNjQ=>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20070808171854/http://article.nationalreview.com/?q=MzY4NWU2ZjY3YWYxMDIINWQ5MjQ3ZGJmMzg3MmQyNjQ%3D>) August 8, 2007, at the Wayback Machine, Ion Mihai Pacepa, National Review Online, November 28, 2006
70. Lifton, David. Best Evidence: Disguise and Deception in the Assassination of John F. Kennedy, (New York: Carroll & Graf Publishers, 1988), pp. 281, 283, 681–682, 684, 689. ISBN 0-88184-438-1
71. Lifton, David. Best Evidence: Disguise and Deception in the Assassination of John F. Kennedy, (New York: Carroll & Graf Publishers, 1988), pp. 678–683, 692–699, 701–702. ISBN 0-88184-438-1
72. Knight, Peter (2007). The Kennedy Assassination (<https://books.google.com/books?id=MRs2Tu714ZUC>). University Press of Mississippi. p. 95. ISBN 978-1-934110-32-4. Retrieved September 4, 2013.
73. Wrone, David R. (2003). The Zapruder Film: Reframing JFK's Assassination (<https://archive.org/details/zapruderfilmrefr0000wron/page/133>). Lawrence, Kansas: University Press of Kansas. pp. 133–137 (<https://archive.org/details/zapruderfilmrefr0000wron/page/133>). ISBN 978-0-7006-1291-8.
74. Interview of Lt. Richard A. Lipsey (<http://karws.gso.uri.edu/Marsh/Jfk-conspiracy/LIPSEY.TXT>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20060903145804/http://karws.gso.uri.edu/Marsh/Jfk-conspiracy/LIPSEY.TXT>) September 3, 2006, at the Wayback Machine, by House Select Committee on Assassinations investigators Andy Purdy and Mark Flanagan, JFK Document No. 014469, January 18, 1978.
75. "Testimony of David Lifton" (<http://mcadams.posc.mu.edu/arrb/index38.htm>). Mcadams.posc.mu.edu. Retrieved September 17, 2010.
76. Lifton, David. Best Evidence: Disguise and Deception in the Assassination of John F. Kennedy, (New York: Carroll & Graf Publishers, 1988), pp. 569–588. ISBN 0-88184-438-1
77. Turner, Nigel (1991). "The Coup D'Etat". The Men Who Killed Kennedy.
78. Marrs 1989, p. 275.
79. Silber, Kenneth (February 1, 2010). "The Fed and Its Enemies; The central bank is at the center of controversy. It has been there before" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20130226053000/http://www.advisorone.com/2010/02/01/the-fed-and-its-enemies>). Research. Archived from the original (<http://www.advisorone.com/2010/02/01/the-fed-and-its-enemies>) on February 26, 2013. Retrieved January 9, 2013.

80. Woodward, G. Thomas (1996). Money and the Federal Reserve System: Myth and Reality—CRS Report for Congress, No. 96-672 E (<http://home.hiwaay.net/~becraft/FRS-myth.htm>). Congressional Research Service.; reprinted with footnotes in Grey, George B., ed. (2002). Federal Reserve System: background, analyses and bibliography (https://books.google.com/books?id=8W2LEYUC_LkC&pg=PA83). Nova Science. pp. 73–102. ISBN 978-1-59033-053-1.
81. Belzer, Richard (1999). "The Usual Suspects" (<https://books.google.com/books?id=yDrJa9-7irUC&pg=PT104>). UFOs, JFK, and Elvis: Conspiracies You Don't Have to Be Crazy to Believe. The Ballantine Publishing Group. ISBN 978-0-345-42918-6. Retrieved January 9, 2013.
82. Bass, Warren (2003). "A Time To Cut Bait" (<https://books.google.com/books?id=npk0XuEHHpQC&pg=PA243>). Support Any Friend: Kennedy's Middle East and the Making of the U.S.-Israel Alliance (<https://books.google.com/books?id=npk0XuEHHpQC>). New York: Oxford University Press. pp. 243–244. ISBN 9780199884315. Retrieved January 16, 2013.
83. Goldwag, Arthur (2009). "Conspiracies: The Kennedy Assassinations" (<https://books.google.com/books?id=DDbM5GeMgXIC&pg=PA178>). Cults, Conspiracies, and Secret Societies: The Straight Scoop on Freemasons, the Illuminati, Skull & Bones, Black Helicopters, the New World Order, and Many, Many More (<https://books.google.com/books?id=DDbM5GeMgXIC>). New York: Vintage Books. p. 178. ISBN 9780307456663.
84. "College lecturers blame JFK's death on Israelis" (<https://news.google.com/newspapers?id=z1lpAAAAlBAJ&pg=3861%2C3207784>). Sun Journal. Lewiston, Maine. AP. August 22, 1997. p. 7A. Retrieved January 16, 2013.
85. "Vanunu warns Israel of 'second Chernobyl' risk" (<http://www.smh.com.au/articles/2004/07/25/1090693832691.html>). The Sydney Morning Herald. Sydney. Agence France-Presse. July 26, 2004. Retrieved January 16, 2013.
86. "Gadhafi points finger at Israel over JFK assassination" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20130501032813/http://www.jta.org/news/article/2009/09/23/1008075/work-on-gadhafis-ny-tent-halted>). JTA. JTA. September 23, 2009. Archived from the original (<http://www.jta.org/news/article/2009/09/23/1008075/work-on-gadhafis-ny-tent-halted>) on May 1, 2013. Retrieved January 16, 2013.
87. "Did the limousine driver shoot JFK?" (<http://www.jfklancer.com/greer.html>). JFK Lancer.
88. "George Hickey's Warren Commission testimony" (http://jfkassassination.net/russ/m_j_russ/Sa-hicke.htm). Jfkassassination.net. Retrieved September 17, 2010.
89. "Norman Mailer on Oswald" (<https://www.pbs.org/wgbh/pages/frontline/shows/oswald/forum/mailer.html>). Who Was Lee Harvey Oswald? | FRONTLINE. PBS. November 20, 2003. Retrieved September 17, 2010.
90. "Allegations of PFC Dinkin" (http://www.maryferrell.org/wiki/index.php/Allegations_of_PFC_Eugene_Dinkin) – via Mary Ferrell Foundation.
91. Chaney, Jen (April 9, 2013). "Mad Men JFK Assassination—Mad Men Pfc. Dinkins" (<http://www.esquire.com/blogs/culture/mad-men-jfk-assassination>). Esquire.
92. Graham, Victoria (November 23, 1975). "The Death of JFK: The Doubt Lingers" (<https://news.google.com/newspapers?id=3RJZAAAAlBAJ&pg=7054%2C3813305>). The Victoria Advocate. Victoria, Texas. AP. p. 8A. Retrieved April 16, 2015.
93. Tucker, William (January 20, 1976). "Russians contracted for Kennedy's death" (<https://news.google.com/newspapers?id=qawyAAAAlBAJ&pg=888%2C4178861>). The Miami News. Miami, Florida. p. 9A. Retrieved April 16, 2015.
94. Wiley, Doris B. (December 8, 1975). "For Hugh McDonald, the Answer Is 'Yes'" (<http://jfk.hood.edu/Collection/Weisberg%20Subject%20Index%20Files/M%20Disk/McDonald%20Hugh%20C/Item%2003.pdf>) (PDF). The Philadelphia Bulletin. Philadelphia. Retrieved April 17, 2015.
95. von Hoffman, Nicholas (November 27, 1975). "Is JFK's Killer Roaming The World?" (<https://news.google.com/newspapers?id=fEVQAAAAlBAJ&pg=7283%2C2691472>). Evening Independent. St. Petersburg, Florida. p. 15–A. Retrieved April 17, 2015.

- Warren Commission (1964). Report of the President's Commission on the Assassination of President John F. Kennedy (<https://www.archives.gov/research/jfk/warren-commission-report/>). Washington, D.C.: United States Government Printing Office – via National Archives.
 - "Chapter 1: Summary and Conclusions" (<https://www.archives.gov/research/jfk/warren-commission-report/chapter-1.html>) – via National Archives.
 - "Chapter 3: The Shots from the Texas School Book Depository" (<https://www.archives.gov/research/jfk/warren-commission-report/chapter-3.html>) – via National Archives.
 - "Chapter 4: The Assassin" (<https://www.archives.gov/research/jfk/warren-commission-report/chapter-4.html>) – via National Archives.
 - "Chapter 5: Detention and Death of Oswald" (<https://www.archives.gov/research/jfk/warren-commission-report/chapter-5.html>) – via National Archives.
 - "Chapter 6: Investigation of Possible Conspiracy" (<https://www.archives.gov/research/jfk/warren-commission-report/chapter-6.html>) – via National Archives.
 - "Chapter 7: Lee Harvey Oswald: Background and Possible Motives" (<https://www.archives.gov/research/jfk/warren-commission-report/chapter-7.html>) – via National Archives.
 - "Appendix 12: Speculations and Rumors" (<https://www.archives.gov/research/jfk/warren-commission-report/appendix-12.html>) – via National Archives.
 - "Appendix 16: A Biography of Jack Ruby" (<https://www.archives.gov/research/jfk/warren-commission-report/appendix-16.html>) – via National Archives.

External links

- Frontline: Who was L.H. Oswald (<https://www.pbs.org/wgbh/pages/frontline/shows/oswald/view/>)— PBS documentary on the man and his life
 - PBS News 2003 (https://www.pbs.org/newshour/bb/white_house/july-dec03/jfk_11-20.html)— The public's belief that a conspiracy existed
 - "Oswald's Ghost" (<https://www.pbs.org/wgbh/amex/oswald/>)— An episode of PBS series American Experience, which aired January 14, 2008
 - Tech Puts JFK Conspiracy Theories to Rest (<https://web.archive.org/web/20081225054037/http://ds.c.discovery.com/news/2008/11/13/jfk-forensics-tech-02.html>)— Discovery article on a simulation that partially discredits some conspiracy theories
 - JFK Lancer (<http://www.jfklancer.com/>)
-

Retrieved from "https://en.wikipedia.org/w/index.php?title=John_F._Kennedy_assassination_conspiracy_theories&oldid=1027654816"

This page was last edited on 9 June 2021, at 06:22 (UTC).

Text is available under the Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike License; additional terms may apply. By using this site, you agree to the Terms of Use and Privacy Policy. Wikipedia® is a registered trademark of the Wikimedia Foundation, Inc., a non-profit organization.

Reptilian conspiracy theory

Reptilians – also called reptoids,^[1] lizard people,^[2] reptiloids, saurians, or draconians^{[3][4][5]} – are supposed reptilian humanoids, which play a prominent role in fantasy, science fiction, ufology, and conspiracy theories.^{[6][7]} The idea of reptilians was popularised by David Icke, a conspiracy theorist who claims shapeshifting reptilian aliens control Earth by taking on human form and gaining political power to manipulate human societies. Icke has stated on multiple occasions that many world leaders are, or are possessed by, so-called reptilians.

Contents

Origins

Alien abduction

David Icke

Politics

See also

References

External links

An artist's conception comparing reptilians to humans

Origins

Michael Barkun, professor of political science at Syracuse University, posits that the idea of a reptilian conspiracy originated in the fiction of Conan the Barbarian creator Robert E. Howard.^[8] The first appearance of "serpent men" in literature was in Howard's story "The Shadow Kingdom", published in Weird Tales in August 1929. This story drew on theosophical ideas of the "lost worlds" of Atlantis and Lemuria, particularly Helena Blavatsky's The Secret Doctrine written in 1888, with its reference to "'dragon-men' who once had a mighty civilization on a Lemurian continent".^{[9][8]}

Howard's "serpent men" were described as humanoids (with human bodies and snake heads) who were able to imitate humans at will, and who lived in underground passages and used their shapechanging and mind-control abilities to infiltrate humanity.^[10] Clark Ashton Smith used Howard's "serpent men" in his stories, as well as themes from H. P. Lovecraft, and he, Howard and Lovecraft together laid the basis for the Cthulhu Mythos.^[11]

In the 1940s, Maurice Doreal (also known as Claude Doggins)^[12] wrote a pamphlet entitled "Mysteries of the Gobi" that described a "serpent race" with "bodies like man but...heads...like a great snake" and an ability to take human form.^[13] These creatures also appeared in Doreal's poem "The Emerald Tablets", in which he referred to Emerald Tablets written by "Thoth, an Atlantean Priest king". Barkun asserts that "in all likelihood", Doreal's ideas came from "The Shadow Kingdom", and that in turn, "The Emerald Tablets" formed the basis for David Icke's book, Children of the Matrix.^[14]

Historian Edward Guimont has argued that the reptilian conspiracy theory, particularly as expounded by Icke, drew from earlier pseudohistorical legends developed during the colonisation of Africa, particularly surrounding Great Zimbabwe and the mokele-mbembe.^[15]

Alien abduction

Alien abduction narratives sometimes allege contact with reptilian creatures.^[16] One of the earliest reports was that of Ashland, Nebraska police officer Herbert Schirmer, who under hypnosis recalled being taken aboard a UFO in 1967 by humanoid beings with a slightly reptilian appearance, who wore a "winged serpent" emblem on the left side of their chests.^{[17][18]} Skeptics consider his claims to be a hoax.^[19]

David Icke

According to British conspiracy theorist David Icke, who first published on this theme in his 1999 work The Biggest Secret, tall, blood-drinking, shape-shifting reptilian humanoids from the Alpha Draconis star system, now hiding in underground bases, are the force behind a worldwide conspiracy against humanity.^[20] He contends that most of the world's ancient and modern leaders are related to these reptilians, including the Merovingian dynasty, the Rothschilds, the Bush family and the British Royal family.^[21] Icke's conspiracy theories now have supporters in up to 47 countries and he has given lectures to crowds of up to 6,000 people.^{[22][23]}

American writer Vicki Santillano included Icke's conspiracy theory in her list of the 10 most popular conspiracy theories.^[24] A poll of Americans in 2013 by Public Policy Polling indicated that 4% of registered voters ($\pm 2.8\%$) believed in David Icke's ideas.^[25]

Politics

"Evil reptilian kitten-eater from another planet" was a pejorative used to refer to then Ontario Liberal Party opposition leader Dalton McGuinty in a press release disseminated by the Progressive Conservative Party of Ontario on September 12, 2003, during the provincial election campaign in Ontario, Canada.

In the closely fought 2008 U.S. Senate election in Minnesota between comedian and commentator Al Franken and incumbent Senator Norm Coleman, one of the ballots challenged by Coleman included a vote for Franken with "Lizard People" written in the space provided for write-in candidates.^[26] Lucas Davenport, who later claimed to have written the gag ballot, said, "I don't know if you've heard the conspiracy theory about the Lizard Men; a friend of mine, we didn't like the candidates, so we were at first going to write in 'revolution', because we thought that was good and to the point. And then, we thought 'the Lizard People' would be even funnier."^[27]

In February 2011, on the Opie and Anthony radio show, the comedian Louis C.K. jokingly asked former U.S. Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld a number of times if he and Dick Cheney were lizard people who enjoyed the taste of human flesh. Amused by Rumsfeld's refusal to directly answer the question, C.K. suggested it as a possible admission of guilt. He went on to further muse that perhaps those who are lizard people cannot lie about it; when asked if they are lizards, they either have to avoid answering the question or say yes.^[28]

On March 4, 2013, a video depicting a security agent with unusual features guarding a speech by U.S. President Barack Obama was spotlighted in a Wired report about shapeshifting reptilian humanoids. This led to a tongue-in-cheek response from chief National Security Council spokeswoman Caitlin Hayden who said "any alleged program to guard the president with aliens or robots would likely have to be scaled back or eliminated in the sequester".^[29]

See also

- Ancient astronauts
- Demon
- Dinosauroid
- Iron Sky: The Coming Race
- Gamehendge
- List of alleged UFO-related extraterrestrials
- List of conspiracy theories
- List of reptilian humanoids
- Lizard Man of Scape Ore Swamp
- Men in black
- Narn
- Silurians
- Sleestak
- They Live
- V
- Worldwar

A protest sign referring to reptilian politicians

References

1. Joyce, Judith (2011). The Weiser field guide to the paranormal abductions, apparitions, ESP, synchronicity, and more unexplained phenomena from other realms (<https://books.google.com/books?id=9aYqjnjDzBQC>). San Francisco: Weiser Books. pp. 80–81. ISBN 978-1609252984. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20190330024326/https://books.google.com/books?id=9aYqjnjDzBQC>) from the original on 30 March 2019. Retrieved 3 August 2014.
2. "How to Spot the Reptilians Running the U.S. Government" (<https://www.theatlantic.com/national/archive/2013/10/how-spot-reptilians-running-us-government/354496/>). TheAtlantic.com. Oct 31, 2013. Archived (<https://archive.today/20160408131009/http://www.theatlantic.com/national/archive/2013/10/how-spot-reptilians-running-us-government/354496/>) from the original on April 8, 2016. Retrieved June 22, 2017.
3. Marty Crump; Danté Bruce Fenolio (2015). Eye of Newt and Toe of Frog, Adder's Fork and Lizard's Leg: The Lore and Mythology of Amphibians and Reptiles (<https://books.google.com/books?id=ENYpCwAAQBAJ&pg=PA56>). University of Chicago Press. p. 56. ISBN 978-0-226-11600-6. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20190330024317/https://books.google.com/books?id=ENYpCwAAQBAJ&pg=PA56>) from the original on 30 March 2019. Retrieved 13 October 2017.
4. Alfred Lambremont Webre (17 November 2015). The Omniverse: Transdimensional Intelligence, Time Travel, the Afterlife, and the Secret Colony on Mars (<https://books.google.com/books?id=4FgoDwAAQBAJ&pg=PT53>). Simon and Schuster. p. 53. ISBN 978-1-59143-216-6. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20190330024320/https://books.google.com/books?id=4FgoDwAAQBAJ&pg=PT53>) from the original on 30 March 2019. Retrieved 13 October 2017.

5. Leo Lyon Zagami (2016). Confessions of an Illuminati, Volume II: The Time of Revelation and Tribulation Leading Up to 2020 (<https://books.google.com/books?id=1SbwCwAAQBAJ&pg=PA131>). CCC Publishing. p. 131. ISBN 978-1-888729-62-7. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20190330024315/https://books.google.com/books?id=1SbwCwAAQBAJ&pg=PA131>) from the original on 30 March 2019. Retrieved 13 October 2017.
6. Lewis, Tyson; Richard Kahn (Winter 2005). "The Reptoid Hypothesis: Utopian and Dystopian Representational Motifs in David Icke's Alien Conspiracy Theory" (<https://www.researchgate.net/publication/240595423>). Utopian Studies. 16 (1): 45–75. JSTOR 20718709 (<https://www.jstor.org/stable/20718709>). Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20180723011346/https://www.researchgate.net/profile/Richard_Kahn3/publication/240595423_The_Reptoid_Hypothesis_Utopian_and_dystopian_representational_motifs_in_David_Icke's_alien_conspiracy_theory/links/00b7d51e774aa92f22000000/The-Reptoid-Hypothesis-Utopian-and-dystopian-representational-motifs-in-David-Ickes-alien-conspiracy-theory.pdf?origin=publication_detail) (PDF) from the original on 2018-07-23.
7. Frel, Jan (1 September 2010). "Inside the Great Reptilian Conspiracy: From Queen Elizabeth to Barack Obama – They Live!" (<http://www.alternet.org/story/147967/>). Altnet. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20180612185132/https://www.alternet.org/story/147967/inside_the_great_reptilian_conspiracy:_from_queen_elizabeth_to_barack_obama_-_they_live!) from the original on 2018-06-12. Retrieved 2010-09-01.
8. Parramore, Lynn Stuart (2021-01-12). "The far right's lizard conspiracy is bonkers. But it's definitely not harmless" (<https://www.nbcnews.com/think/opinion/qanon-s-capitol-rioters-nashville-bomber-s-lizard-people-theory-ncna1253819>). NBC News. Retrieved 2021-01-12.
9. Trompf, Garry W.; Bernauer, Lauren (2012). "Producing Lost Civilisations: Theosophical Concepts in Literature, Visual Media and Popular Culture" (<https://books.google.com/books?id=5aRyJ-vbrJsC&pg=PA113>). In Cusack, Carole; Norman, Alex (eds.). Handbook of New Religions and Cultural Production. Leiden: Brill. pp. 113–114. ISBN 978-9004221871. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20190330024322/https://books.google.com/books?id=5aRyJ-vbrJsC&pg=PA113#v=onepage&q&f=false>) from the original on 30 March 2019. Retrieved 3 September 2014.
10. Barkun, Michael (2003). A Culture of Conspiracy: Apocalyptic Visions in Contemporary America (<https://archive.org/details/cultureofconspir0000bark>). Berkeley and Los Angeles: University of California Press. p. 121 (<https://archive.org/details/cultureofconspir0000bark/page/121>). ISBN 0520238052. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20190823161252/https://archive.org/details/cultureofconspir0000bark>) from the original on 23 August 2019. Retrieved 3 September 2014. "the shadow kingdom."
11. Mott, William Michael (2011). Caverns, Cauldrons, and Concealed Creatures: A Study of Subterranean Mysteries in History, Folklore, and Myth (<https://books.google.com/books?id=d0I7AwAAQBAJ&pg=PA27>). Grave Distractions Publications. p. 27. ISBN 978-0982912874. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20190330024316/https://books.google.com/books?id=d0I7AwAAQBAJ&pg=PA27#v=onepage&q&f=false>) from the original on 30 March 2019. Retrieved 3 September 2014.
12. Doreal, Maurice (D. 1963) (<https://www.encyclopedia.com/science/encyclopedias-almanacs-transcripts-and-maps/doreal-maurice-d-1963>), Encyclopedia.com
13. Barkun (2003), p. 119 (<https://books.google.com/books?id=-0wFZRWKdfoC&dq=Culture+of+Conspiracy%3A+Apocalyptic+Visions+in+Contemporary+America&q=%22the+shadow+kingdom%22#v=onepage&q=%22bodies%20like%20man%2C%20but...heads%22&f=false>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20190330024317/https://books.google.com/books?id=-0wFZRWKdfoC&dq=Culture+of+Conspiracy%3A+Apocalyptic+Visions+in+Contemporary+America&q=%22the+shadow+kingdom%22#v=onepage&q=%22bodies%20like%20man%2C%20but...heads%22&f=false>) 2019-03-30 at the Wayback Machine
14. Barkun (2003). A Culture of Conspiracy (<https://archive.org/details/cultureofconspir0000bark>). pp. 120–121 (<https://archive.org/details/cultureofconspir0000bark/page/120>). "Doreal's 'translation' of the tablets was used extensively by David Icke in his book on the reptilians, Children of the Matrix...Although Doreal and the others spoke of the serpent race as a confirmable historic reality, the idea almost certainly came from pulp fiction...In all likelihood, the notion of a shape-changing serpent race first came from the imagination of an obscure pulp fiction author, Robert E. Howard."

15. Guimont, Edward (18 March 2019). "Hunting Dinosaurs in Central Africa" (<https://contingentmag.org/2019/03/18/hunting-dinosaurs-africa/>). Contingent Magazine. Retrieved 11 September 2020.
16. "The Shadowlands Mysterious Creatures page" (<http://theshadowlands.net/creature2.htm#lizard>). Archived (<https://archive.today/20120715050816/http://theshadowlands.net/creature2.htm%23lizard>) from the original on 2012-07-15. Retrieved 2009-11-18.
17. "Police Officer Herbert Schirmer Abduction" (<http://www.ufoevidence.org/cases/case659.htm>). UFO Evidence. September 30, 2007. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20070930221758/http://www.ufoevidence.org/cases/case659.htm>) from the original on September 30, 2007. Retrieved November 3, 2017 – via Internet Archive.
18. Matteson, Cory (March 5, 2012). "Comic book artist finds inspiration in Ashland alien abduction story" (https://journalstar.com/lifestyles/misc/comic-book-artist-finds-inspiration-in-ashland-alien-abduction-story/article_27b87be2-3f05-5483-84a9-ad741241a8ba.html). Lincoln Journal Star. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20181021232255/https://journalstar.com/lifestyles/misc/comic-book-artist-finds-inspiration-in-ashland-alien-abduction-story/article_27b87be2-3f05-5483-84a9-ad741241a8ba.html) from the original on October 21, 2018. Retrieved 2018-10-21.
19. Newton, Michael. (2002). The Encyclopedia of Kidnappings. Facts on File, Inc. p. 6. ISBN 0-8160-4486-4
20. Ronson, Jon (16 March 2001). "Beset by lizards" (<https://www.theguardian.com/books/2001/mar/17/features.weekend>). The Guardian UK. Archived (<https://archive.today/20130830200500/http://www.theguardian.com/books/2001/mar/17/features.weekend>) from the original on 30 August 2013. Retrieved 4 August 2014.
21. Chidester, David (2005). Authentic Fakes: Religion and American Popular Culture (<https://books.google.com/books?id=QacwDwAAQBAJ&q=david+icke+british+royal+family+george+bush&pg=PA122>). University of California Press. p. 122. ISBN 978-0520242807. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20190330024315/https://books.google.com/books?id=QacwDwAAQBAJ&pg=PA122&lpg=PA122&dq=david+icke+british+royal+family+george+bush&source=bl&ots=xdHQelZn1L&sig=OKyCAuWk2slb2di4FzLN6H2iPuw&hl=en&sa=X&ved=0ahUKEwjP4O3Q9czZAhWqs1kKHROFDfE4ChDoAQgoMAA#v=onepage&q=david%20icke%20british%20royal%20family%20george%20bush&f=false>) from the original on 30 March 2019. Retrieved 2 March 2018.
22. Lauren Cox (Dec 12, 2008). "What's Behind Internet Conspiracy Empires?" (<https://abcnews.go.com/Health/MindMoodNews/story?id=6443988&page=1#.T08ij3nrrQk>). ABC News. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20091029062444/https://abcnews.go.com/Health/MindMoodNews/story?id=6443988&page=1#.T08ij3nrrQk>) from the original on October 29, 2009. Retrieved November 18, 2009.
23. Measure, Susie (28 October 2012). "David Icke is not the Messiah. Or even that naughty. But boy, can he drone on" (<https://www.independent.co.uk/news/uk/home-news/david-icke-is-not-the-messiah-or-even-that-naughty-but-boy-can-he-drone-on-8229433.html?origin=internalSearch>). The Independent. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20131216213924/http://www.independent.co.uk/news/uk/home-news/david-icke-is-not-the-messiah-or-even-that-naughty-but-boy-can-he-drone-on-8229433.html?origin=internalSearch>) from the original on 16 December 2013. Retrieved 11 June 2013.
24. Santillano, Vicki. "10 Conspiracy Theories that Won't Go Away" (<http://www.divinecaroline.com/entertainment/ten-conspiracy-theories-won%E2%80%99t-go-away>). Divine Caroline. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20160308140242/http://www.divinecaroline.com/entertainment/ten-conspiracy-theories-won%E2%80%99t-go-away>) from the original on 2016-03-08. Retrieved 2018-10-21.
25. "Conspiracy Theory Poll Results" (<http://www.publicpolicypolling.com/main/2013/04/conspiracy-theory-poll-results-.html>). Public Policy Polling. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170930093655/http://www.publicpolicypolling.com/main/2013/04/conspiracy-theory-poll-results-.html>) from the original on 2017-09-30. Retrieved 2013-04-03.
26. "Minnesota Senate Recount: Challenged ballots: You be the judge" (http://minnesota.publicradio.org/features/2008/11/19_challenged_ballots/). Minnesota Public Radio. 2008-11-19. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20081120230839/http://minnesota.publicradio.org/features/2008/11/19_challenged_ballots/) from the original on 2008-11-20. Retrieved 2008-11-22.

27. "Why would someone vote for the Lizard People?" (http://minnesota.publicradio.org/display/web/2008/11/23/so_why_would_someone_for_the_lizard_people/). 2008. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20090628173217/http://minnesota.publicradio.org/display/web/2008/11/23/so_why_would_someone_for_the_lizard_people/) from the original on 2009-06-28. Retrieved 2010-01-08.
28. Del Signore, John (February 25, 2011). "Louis CK Repeatedly Asks Donald Rumsfeld If He's a Lizard Alien" (https://web.archive.org/web/20111120152739/http://gothamist.com/2011/02/25/louis_ck_repeatedly_asks_donald_rum.php). Gothamist. Archived from the original (http://gothamist.com/2011/02/25/louis_ck_repeatedly_asks_donald_rum.php) on November 20, 2011. Retrieved June 29, 2012.
29. Beckhusen, Robert (March 26, 2013). "White House Can't Afford Its Shapeshifting Alien Reptile Guards" (<https://www.wired.com/dangerroom/2013/03/secret-service-reptile-aliens/>). Wired. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20131022101555/http://www.wired.com/dangerroom/2013/03/secret-service-reptile-aliens>) from the original on October 22, 2013. Retrieved October 15, 2013.

External links

- Dunning, Brian (May 21, 2007). "Skeptoid #46: Support Your Local Reptoid" (<https://skeptoid.com/episodes/4046>). Skeptoid.
-

Retrieved from "https://en.wikipedia.org/w/index.php?title=Reptilian_conspiracy_theory&oldid=1014247864"

This page was last edited on 26 March 2021, at 00:30 (UTC).

Text is available under the Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike License; additional terms may apply. By using this site, you agree to the Terms of Use and Privacy Policy. Wikipedia® is a registered trademark of the Wikimedia Foundation, Inc., a non-profit organization.

9/11 conspiracy theories

There are many conspiracy theories that attribute the planning and execution of the September 11 attacks against the United States to parties other than, or in addition to, al-Qaeda,^[1] including that there was advance knowledge of the attacks among high-level government officials. Government investigations and independent reviews have rejected these theories.^{[2][3]} Proponents of these theories assert that there are inconsistencies in the commonly accepted version, or that there exists evidence that was ignored, concealed, or overlooked.^[4]

The most prominent conspiracy theory is that the collapse of the Twin Towers and 7 World Trade Center were the result of controlled demolitions rather than structural failure due to impact and fire.^{[5][6]} Another prominent belief is that the Pentagon was hit by a missile launched by elements from inside the U.S. government^{[7][8]} or that a commercial airliner was allowed to do so via an effective stand-down of the American military. Possible motives claimed by conspiracy theorists for such actions include justifying the invasions of Afghanistan and Iraq (even though the U.S. government concluded Iraq was not involved in the attacks)^[9] to advance their geostrategic interests, such as plans to construct a natural gas pipeline through Afghanistan.^[10] Other conspiracy theories revolve around authorities having advance knowledge of the attacks and deliberately ignoring or assisting the attackers.^{[4][11][12]}

The National Institute of Standards and Technology (NIST) and the technology magazine Popular Mechanics have investigated and rejected the claims made by 9/11 conspiracy theorists.^{[13][14][15]} The 9/11 Commission and most of the civil engineering community accept that the impacts of jet aircraft at high speeds in combination with subsequent fires, not controlled demolition, led to the collapse of the Twin Towers,^{[16][17]} but some conspiracy theory groups, including Architects & Engineers for 9/11 Truth, disagree with the arguments made by NIST and Popular Mechanics.^{[18][19]}

The nature of the collapse of the two World Trade Center towers and the nearby WTC7 (in this photo, the brown building to the left of the towers) is a major focus of 9/11 conspiracy theories.

Contents

Background

History

Types

Theories

Foreknowledge

Suspected insider trading

Air defense stand down theory

Israeli agents

World Trade Center

The Pentagon

Flight 93

Hijackers

Foreign governments

Israel

Antisemitism in conspiracy theories

Saudi Arabia

No-planes theory

Cover-up allegations

Cockpit recorders

Bin Laden tapes

Hiding of CIA recruitment efforts

Motives

Pax Americana

Invasions

New World Order

Suggested historical precedents

Proponents

Dissecting the 9/11 Truth movement community

Media reaction

Criticism

In politics

Legal cases

See also

Notes

References

External links

Background

9/11 conspiracy theorists reject one or both of the following facts about the 9/11 attacks:

- Al-Qaeda suicide operatives hijacked and crashed United Airlines Flight 175 and American Airlines Flight 11 into the twin towers of the World Trade Center, and crashed American Airlines Flight 77 into the Pentagon. The impact and resulting fires caused the collapse of the Twin Towers and the destruction and damage of other buildings in the World Trade Center complex. The Pentagon was severely damaged by the impact of the airliner and the resulting fire. The hijackers also crashed a fourth plane into a field near Shanksville, Pennsylvania after the passengers and flight crew attempted to regain control of the aircraft.^[22]
- Pre-attack warnings of varying detail of the planned attacks against the United States by al-Qaeda were ignored due to a lack of communication between various law enforcement and intelligence personnel. For the lack of interagency communication, the 9/11 report cited bureaucratic inertia and laws passed in the 1970s to prevent abuses that caused scandals during that era, most notably the Watergate scandal. The report faulted both the Clinton and the Bush administrations with "failure of imagination".^[23]

This consensus view is backed by various sources, including:

- The reports from government investigations – the 9/11 Commission Report (that incorporated intelligence information from the earlier FBI investigation (PENTTBOM) and the Joint Inquiry of 2002), and the studies into building performance carried out by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA)^[24] and the National Institute of Standards and Technology (NIST)^[13]
- Investigations by non-government organizations that support the accepted account – such as those by scientists at Purdue University.^{[3][25]}
- Articles supporting these facts and theories appearing in magazines such as Popular Mechanics, Scientific American, and Time.^[15]
- Similar articles in news media throughout the world, including The Times of India,^[26] the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation (CBC),^[27] the BBC,^[28] Le Monde,^[29] Deutsche Welle,^[30] the Australian Broadcasting Corporation (ABC),^[31] and The Chosun Ilbo of South Korea.^[32]

History

Since the attacks, a variety of conspiracy theories have been put forward in Web sites, books, and films. Many groups and individuals advocating 9/11 conspiracy theories identify as part of the 9/11 Truth movement.^{[33][34][35]} Within six hours of the attack, a suggestion appeared on an Internet chat room suggesting that the collapse of the towers looked like an act of controlled demolition. "If, in a few days, not one official has mentioned anything about the controlled demolition part," the author wrote, "I think we have a REALLY serious problem."^[36] The first theories that emerged focused primarily on various perceived anomalies in the publicly available evidence, and proponents later developed more specific theories about an alleged plot.^[10] One false allegation that was widely circulated by e-mail and on the Web is that not a single Jew had been killed in the attack and that therefore the attacks must have been the work of the Mossad, not Islamic terrorists.^[10]

The first elaborated theories appeared in Europe. One week after the attacks, the "inside job" theory was the subject of a thesis by a researcher from the French National Centre for Scientific Research published in Le Monde. Other theories sprang from the far corners of the globe within weeks.^[37] Six months after the attacks, Thierry Meyssan's piece on 9/11, L'Effroyable Imposture, topped the French bestseller list. Its publication in English (as 9/11: The Big Lie) received little attention, but it remains one of the principal sources for "trutherism".^[38] 2003 saw the publication of The CIA and September 11 by former German state minister Andreas von Bülow and Operation 9/11 by the German journalist Gerhard Wisnewski; both books are published by Mathias Bröckers, who was at the time an editor at the German newspaper Die Tageszeitung.^[10]

While these theories were popular in Europe, they were treated by the U.S. media with either bafflement or amusement, and they were dismissed by the U.S. government as the product of anti-Americanism.^{[39][40]} In an address to the United Nations on November 10, 2001, President George W. Bush denounced the emergence of "outrageous conspiracy theories [...] that attempt to shift the blame away from the terrorists, themselves, away from the guilty."^[41]

The 9/11 conspiracy theories started out mostly in the political left but have broadened into what New York magazine describes as "terra incognita where left and right meet, fusing sixties countercultural distrust with the don't-tread-on-me variety".^[42]

By 2004, conspiracy theories about the September 11 attacks began to gain ground in the United States. One explanation is that the rise in popularity stemmed more from growing criticism of the Iraq War and the newly re-elected President George W. Bush than from any discovery of new or more compelling evidence or an improvement in the technical quality of the presentation of the theories.^[10] Knight Ridder news theorized that revelations that weapons of mass destruction did not exist in Iraq, the belated release of the President's Daily Brief of August 6, 2001, and reports that NORAD had lied to the 9/11 Commission, may have fueled the conspiracy theories.^[10]

Between 2004 and the fifth anniversary of the September 11 attacks in 2006, mainstream coverage of the conspiracy theories increased.^[10] The U.S. government issued a formal analysis by the National Institute of Standards and Technology (NIST) of the collapse of the World Trade Center.^[43] To address the growing publicity of the theories, the State Department revised a webpage in 2006 to debunk them.^[44] A 2006 national security strategy paper declared that terrorism springs from "subcultures of conspiracy and misinformation," and that "terrorists recruit more effectively from populations whose information about the world is contaminated by falsehoods and corrupted by conspiracy theories. The distortions keep alive grievances and filter out facts that would challenge popular prejudices and self-serving propaganda."^[45] Al-Qaeda has repeatedly claimed responsibility for the attacks, with chief deputy Ayman al-Zawahiri accusing Shia Iran and Hezbollah of denigrating Sunni successes in hurting America by intentionally starting rumors that Israel carried out the attacks.^{[46][47][48][49][50][51]}

Some of the conspiracy theories about the September 11 attacks do not involve representational strategies typical of many conspiracy theories that establish a clear dichotomy between good and evil, or guilty and innocent; instead, they call up gradations of negligence and complicity. Matthias Bröckers, an early proponent of such theories, dismisses the commonly accepted account of the September 11 attacks as being itself a conspiracy theory that seeks "to reduce complexity, disentangle what is confusing," and "explain the inexplicable".^[10]

Just before the fifth anniversary of the attacks, mainstream news outlets released a flurry of articles on the growth of 9/11 conspiracy theories,^[52] with an article in Time stating that "[t]his is not a fringe phenomenon. It is a mainstream political reality."^{[11][53]} Several surveys have included questions about beliefs related to the September 11 attacks. In 2008, 9/11 conspiracy theories topped a "greatest conspiracy theory" list compiled by The Daily Telegraph. The list was ranked by following and traction.^{[54][55]}

In 2010, the "International Center for 9/11 Studies," a private organization that is said to be sympathetic to conspiracy theories,^[56] successfully sued for the release of videos collected by NIST of the attacks and aftermath.^{[56][57][58]} According to the German daily Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung, the videos that were published shortly before the ninth anniversary of the attacks provide "new food for conspiracy theorists." Many of the videos show images of 7 World Trade Center, a skyscraper in the vicinity of the WTC towers that also collapsed on September 11, 2001.^[57] Eyewitnesses have repeatedly reported explosions happening before the collapse of both of the towers, while experts consider these theories to be unreasonable.^[56]

9/11 truth figures Steven E. Jones and Mike Berger have further added that the death of Osama bin Laden^[59] did not change their questions about the attacks, nor provide closure.^[60]

According to writer Jeremy Stahl, since Bush left office, the overall number of believers in 9/11 conspiracy theories has dipped, while the number of people who believe in the most "radical" theories has held fairly steady.^[61]

Types

The most prominent conspiracy theories can be broadly divided into three main forms:

- LIHOP ("Let it happen on purpose") – suggests that key individuals within the government had at least some foreknowledge of the attacks and deliberately ignored it or actively weakened United States' defenses to ensure the hijacked flights were not intercepted.^{[4][11][12]} Similar allegations were made about Pearl Harbor.
- MIHOP ("Make/Made it happen on purpose") – that key individuals within the government planned the attacks and collaborated with, or framed, al-Qaeda in carrying them out. There is a range of opinions about how this might have been achieved.^{[4][11][12]}
- Others – who reject the accepted account of the September 11 attacks are not proposing specific theories, but try to demonstrate that the U.S. government's account of the events is wrong. This, according to them, would lead to a general call for a new official investigation into the events of September 11, 2001. According to Jonathan Kay, managing editor for comment at the Canadian newspaper National Post,^[62] and author of the Among the Truthers: A Journey Through America's Growing Conspiracist Underground,^[63] "They feel their job is to show everybody that the official theory of 9/11 is wrong. And then, when everybody is convinced, then the population will rise up and demand a new investigation with government resources, and that investigation will tell us what actually happened."^[64]

Theories

Foreknowledge

Conspiracy theorists claim that action or inaction by U.S. officials with foreknowledge was intended to ensure that the attacks took place successfully. For example, Michael Meacher, former British environment minister and member of Tony Blair's government, said that the United States knowingly failed to prevent the attacks.^{[65][66]}

Suspected insider trading

Some conspiracy theorists maintain that just before 9/11, an "extraordinary" amount of put options were placed on United Airlines and American Airlines stocks and speculate that insiders may have known in advance of the coming events of 9/11 and placed their bets accordingly. An analysis into the possibility of insider trading on 9/11 concludes that:

A measure of abnormal long put volume was also examined and seen to be at abnormally high levels in the days leading up to the attacks. Consequently, the paper concludes that there is evidence of unusual option market activity in the days leading up to September 11 that is consistent with investors trading on advance knowledge of the attacks.^[67] —Allen M. Poteshman, The Journal of Business

This study was intended to address the "great deal of speculation about whether option market activity indicated that the terrorists or their associates had traded in the days leading up to September 11 on advance knowledge of the impending attacks."^[68]

In the days leading up to 9/11, analysis shows a rise in the put to call ratio for United Airlines and American Airlines, the two airlines from which planes were hijacked on 9/11. Between September 6 and 7, the Chicago Board Options Exchange recorded purchases of 4,744 "put" option contracts in UAL and 396 call options. On September 10, more trading in Chicago saw the purchase of 4,516 put options in American Airlines, the other airline involved in the hijackings, with a mere 748 call options in American purchased that day. No other airline companies had an unusual put to call ratio in the days leading up to the attacks.^[69] The 9/11 Commission concluded that all these abnormal patterns in trading were coincidental.^[70]

Insurance companies saw anomalous trading activities as well. Citigroup Inc., which has estimated that its Travelers Insurance unit may pay $500 million in claims from the World Trade Center attack, had about 45 times the normal volume during three trading days before the attack for options that profit, if the stock falls below $40. Citigroup shares fell $1.25 in late trading to $38.09. Morgan Stanley, which occupied 22 floors at the World Trade Center, experienced bigger-than-normal pre-attack trading of options that profited when stock prices fell. Other companies directly affected by the tragedy had similar jumps.^[71]

Raytheon, a defense contractor, had an anomalously high number of call options trading on September 10. A Raytheon option that makes money, if shares are more than $25 each had 232 options contracts traded on the day before the attacks, almost six times the total number of trades that had occurred before that day.

The initial options were bought through at least two brokerage firms, including NFS, a subsidiary of Fidelity Investments, and TD Waterhouse. It was estimated that the trader or traders would have realized a five million dollar profit. The Securities and Exchange Commission launched an insider trading investigation in which Osama bin Laden was a suspect after receiving information from at least one Wall Street Firm.^[72]

The 9/11 Commission Report concluded that "Exhaustive investigations by the Securities and Exchange Commission, FBI, and other agencies have uncovered no evidence that anyone with advance knowledge of the attacks profited through securities transactions."^[73] The report further stated:

Highly publicized allegations of insider trading in advance of 9/11 generally rest on reports of unusual pre-9/11 trading activity in companies whose stock plummeted after the attacks. Some unusual trading did in fact occur, but each such trade proved to have an innocuous explanation. For example, the volume of put options — investments that pay off only when a stock drops in price — surged in the parent companies of United Airlines on September 6 and American Airlines on September 10 — highly suspicious trading on its face. Yet, further investigation has revealed that the trading had no connection with 9/11. A single U.S.-based institutional investor with no conceivable ties to al Qaeda purchased 95 percent of the UAL puts on September 6 as part of a trading strategy that also included buying 115,000 shares of American on September 10. Similarly, much of the seemingly suspicious trading in American on September 10 was traced to a specific U.S.-based options trading newsletter, faxed to its subscribers on Sunday, September 9, which recommended these trades. These examples typify the evidence examined by the investigation. The SEC and the FBI, aided by other agencies and the securities industry, devoted enormous resources to investigating this issue, including securing the cooperation of many foreign governments. These investigators have found that the apparently suspicious consistently proved innocuous.^[74]

Air defense stand down theory

A common claim among conspiracy theorists is that the North American Aerospace Defense Command (NORAD) issued a stand down order or deliberately scrambled fighters late to allow the hijacked airplanes to reach their targets without interference. According to this theory, NORAD had the capability of locating and intercepting planes on 9/11, and its failure to do so indicates a government conspiracy to allow the attacks to occur.^[75] Conspiracy theorist Mark R. Elsis says: "There is only one explanation for this ... Our Air Force was ordered to Stand Down on 9/11."^{[2][76]}

One of the first actions taken by the hijackers on 9/11 was to turn off or disable each of the four aircraft's on board transponders. Without these transponder signals to identify the airplane's tail number, altitude, and speed, the hijacked airplanes would have been only blips among 4,500 other blips on NORAD's radar screens, making them very difficult to track.^{[75][77]}

On 9/11, only 14 fighter jets were on alert in the contiguous 48 states. There was no automated method for the civilian air traffic controllers to alert NORAD.^[78] A passenger airline had not been hijacked in the U.S. since 1979.^[79] "They had to pick up the phone and literally dial us," says Maj. Douglas Martin, public affairs officer for NORAD. Only one civilian plane—a chartered Learjet 35 with golfer Payne Stewart and five others on board—was intercepted by NORAD over North America in the decade prior to 9/11, which took one hour and 19 minutes.^[80]

Rules in effect at that time, and on 9/11, barred supersonic flight on intercepts. Before 9/11, all other NORAD interceptions were limited to offshore Air Defense Identification Zones (ADIZ). "Until 9/11 there was no domestic ADIZ," says FAA spokesman Bill Schumann. After 9/11, the FAA and NORAD increased cooperation. They set up hotlines between command centers while NORAD increased its fighter coverage and installed radar to watch airspace over the continent.^[2]

The longest warning NORAD received of the hijackings was some eight minutes for American Airlines Flight 11, the first flight hijacked. The FAA alerted NORAD to the hijacked Flight 175 at just about the same time it was crashing into the World Trade Center's South Tower. The FAA notified NORAD of the missing – not hijacked – Flight 77 three minutes before it struck the Pentagon. NORAD received no warning of the hijack of United Flight 93 until three minutes after it had crashed in Pennsylvania.^[81]

Israeli agents

It has been claimed that Israeli agents may have had foreknowledge of the attacks, and a persistent theory claimed Israeli and/or Jewish involvement.^[82] Four hours after the attack, the FBI arrested five Israelis who had been filming the smoking skyline from the roof of a white van in the parking lot of an apartment building, for "puzzling behavior." The Israelis were videotaping the events, and one bystander said they acted in a suspicious manner: "They were like happy, you know ... They didn't look shocked to me. I thought it was very strange." The van was found to be owned by an Israeli-owned company called Urban Moving, which the FBI believed was providing cover for an Israeli intelligence operation. The case was then moved to the FBI's Foreign Counterintelligence Section. According to a former CIA operations chief, "many people in the U.S. intelligence community believed that some of the men arrested were working for Israeli intelligence." A spokesperson for the Israeli Embassy in the United States said the men had not been involved in any intelligence operation in the United States. The FBI eventually concluded that the five Israelis probably had no foreknowledge of the attacks.^[83]

World Trade Center

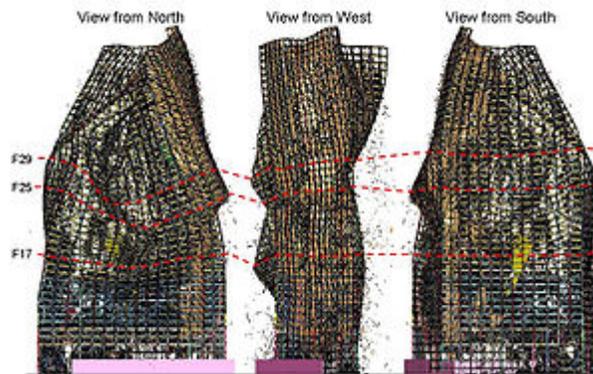

The plane crashes and resulting fires caused the collapse of the World Trade Center. Controlled demolition conspiracy theories say the collapse of the North Tower, South Tower, or of 7 World Trade Center was caused by explosives installed in the buildings in advance.

Demolition theory proponents, such as Brigham Young University physicist Steven E. Jones, architect Richard Gage, software engineer Jim Hoffman, and theologian David Ray Griffin, argue that the aircraft impacts and resulting fires could not have weakened the buildings sufficiently to initiate a catastrophic collapse, and that the buildings would not have collapsed completely, nor at the speeds that they did, without additional factors weakening the structures.

In the article "Active Thermotic Material Discovered in Dust from the 9/11 World Trade Center Catastrophe", which appeared in the Open Chemical Physics Journal, authors Niels Harrit of the University of Copenhagen's Department of Chemistry, Jeffrey Farrer of Brigham Young University's Department of Physics and Astronomy, Steven E. Jones, and others state that thermite and nano-thermite composites in the dust and debris were found following the collapse of the three buildings. The article contained no scientific rebuttal and the editor in chief of the publication subsequently resigned.^{[84][85][86]}

Jones has not explained how the amount of explosive needed to bring down the buildings could have been positioned in the two buildings without drawing attention, but mentioned efforts to research the buildings' maintenance activity in the weeks prior to the event. Federal investigators at the National Institute of Standards and Technology state that enormous quantities of thermite would have to be applied to the structural columns to damage them, but Jones disputed this, saying that he and others were investigating "superthermite".^[84] Brent Blanchard, author of "A History of Explosive Demolition in America",^[87] who corresponded with Jones, states that questions about the viability of Jones' theories remain unanswered, such as the fact that no demolition personnel noticed any telltale signs of thermite during the eight months of debris removal following the towers' collapse. Blanchard also said that a verifiable chain of possession needs to be established for the tested beams, which did not occur with the beams Jones tested, raising questions of whether the metal pieces tested could have been cut away from the debris pile with acetylene torches, shears, or other potentially contaminated equipment while on site, or exposed to trace amounts of thermite or other compounds while being handled, while in storage, or while being transferred from Ground Zero to memorial sites.

Jones also said that molten steel found in the rubble was evidence of explosives, as an ordinary airplane fire would not generate enough heat to produce this, citing photographs of red debris being removed by construction equipment, but Blanchard said that if there had been any molten steel in the rubble any excavation equipment encountering it would have been immediately damaged.^[84] Other sampling of the pulverized dust by United States Geological Survey and RJ Lee did not report any evidence of thermite or explosives. It has been theorized the "thermite material" found was primer paint.^[88] Dave Thomas of Skeptical Inquirer magazine, noting that the residue in question was claimed to be thermotic because of its iron oxide and aluminum composition, pointed out that these substances are found in many items common to the towers. Thomas said that in order to cut through a vertical steel beam, special high-temperature containment must be added to prevent the molten iron from dropping down, and that the thermite reaction is too slow for it to be practically used in building demolition. Thomas pointed out that when Jesse Ventura hired New Mexico Tech to conduct a demonstration showing nanothermite slicing through a large steel beam, the nanothermite produced copious flame and smoke but no damage to the beam, even though it was in a horizontal, and therefore optimal, position.^[89]

Criticism of the reports published by NIST on the destruction of the World Trade Center buildings plays a central role in theories about an alleged controlled demolition. The picture shows the simulated exterior buckling of 7 WTC during the collapse.

Excavating equipment was cooled by water spray due to concerns about melting from underground fires.

The National Institute of Standards and Technology (NIST) concluded the accepted version was more than sufficient to explain the collapse of the buildings. NIST and many scientists refuse to debate conspiracy theorists because they feel it would give those theories unwarranted credibility.^[90] Specialists in structural mechanics and structural engineering accept the model of a fire-induced, gravity-driven collapse of the World Trade Center buildings without the use of explosives.^{[91][92][93]} As a result, NIST said that it did not perform any test for the residue of explosive compounds of any kind in the debris.^[43]

Soon after the day of the attacks, major media sources published that the towers had collapsed due to heat melting the steel.^{[94][95]} Knowledge that the burning temperatures of jet fuel would not melt the steel support structure of the WTC contributed to the belief among skeptics that the towers would not have collapsed without external interference (something other than the planes). NIST does not claim that the steel was melted, but rather that the weakened steel, together with the damage caused by the planes' impacts, caused the collapses.^[43] NIST reported that a simulation model based on the assumption that combustible vapors burned immediately upon mixing with the incoming oxygen showed that "at any given location, the duration of [gas] temperatures near 1,000 °C was about 15 to 20 [minutes]. The rest of the time, the calculated temperatures were 500 °C or below."^[96]

Since 9/11, at least two steel-framed high-rise buildings have collapsed solely due to fires — the Plasco Building in Tehran, Iran on January 19, 2017,^{[97][98]} and the Wilton Paes de Almeida Building in São Paulo, Brazil, on May 1, 2018.^{[99][100][101][102][103]}

The Pentagon

Political activist Thierry Meyssan and filmmaker Dylan Avery claim that American Airlines Flight 77 did not crash into the Pentagon. Instead, they argue that the Pentagon was hit by a missile launched by elements from inside the U.S. government. Some claim that the holes in the Pentagon walls were far too small to have been made by a Boeing 757: "How does a plane 125 ft. wide and 155 ft. long fit into a hole which is only 60 ft. across?" Meyssan's book, L'Effroyable Imposture (published in English as 9/11: The Big Lie) became available in more than a dozen languages. When released, the book was heavily criticized by both the mainstream French and American press, and later, from within the 9/11 Truth movement. The French newspaper Liberation called the book "a tissue of wild and irresponsible allegations, entirely without foundation."^{[104][105][106]}

Security camera footage of Flight 77 hitting the Pentagon (at 1:26 in the video)

In response to the conspiracy theorists' claim of a missile hitting the Pentagon, Mete Sozen, a professor of civil engineering at Purdue University argues that: "A crashing jet doesn't punch a cartoon-like outline of itself into a reinforced concrete building. When Flight 77 hit the Pentagon, one wing hit the ground and the other was sheared off by the Pentagon's load-bearing columns."^{[104][107]} According to ArchitectureWeek, the reason the Pentagon took relatively little damage from the impact was because

Wedge One had recently been renovated.^[108] (This was part of a renovation program which had been begun in the 1980s, and Wedge One was the first of five to be renovated.^[109])

Evidence contradicting some conspiracy theorists' claim of a missile hitting the Pentagon have been described by researchers within the 9/11 Truth Movement, such as Jim Hoffman, in his essay "The Pentagon Attack: What the Physical Evidence Shows", and by others broadly refuting the role of other conspiracies in the attacks. The evidence refuting missile claims includes airplane debris including Flight 77's black boxes,^[110] the nose cone, landing gear,^[111] an airplane tire,^[112] and an intact cockpit seat^[113] were observed at the crash site. The remains of passengers from Flight 77 were indeed found at the Pentagon crash site and their identities confirmed by DNA analysis.^[114] Many eyewitnesses saw the plane strike the Pentagon. Further, Flight 77 passengers made phone calls reporting that their airplane had been hijacked. For example, passenger Renee May called her mother to tell her that the plane had been hijacked and that the passengers had been herded to the back of the plane. Another passenger named Barbara Olson called her husband (U.S. Solicitor General Theodore Olson) and said that the flight had been hijacked, and that the hijackers had knives and box cutters.^{[8][104][115][116]} Some conspiracy theories say the phone calls the passengers made were fabricated by voice morphing, the passengers' bodies disposed of, and a missile fired at the Pentagon.^{[117][118][119]}

The Pentagon, after collapse of the damaged section

Airplane debris scattered near the Pentagon on the day of the attack

The pressure group Judicial Watch filed a Freedom of Information Act request on December 15, 2004, to force the government to release video recordings from the Sheraton National Hotel, the Nexcomm/Citgo gas station, Pentagon security cameras and the Virginia Department of Transportation. On May 16, 2006, the government released the Pentagon security camera videos to Judicial Watch.^[120] The image of American Airlines Flight 77 which appears in the videos has been described as "[a] white blob" and "a white streak" (by the BBC),^[121] "a thin white blur" (by The Associated Press),^[122] and "a silver speck low to the ground" (in The Washington Post).^[123] A sequence of five frames from one of the videos already appeared in the media in 2002.^[124] Some conspiracy theorists believe the new video does not answer their questions.^[125]

Flight 93

Flight 93 crash site

The fourth plane hijacked on 9/11, United Airlines Flight 93, crashed in an open field near Shanksville, Pennsylvania, after the passengers revolted. Out of the four planes hijacked on that day, Flight 93 was the only one not to reach its target.^[126]

One conspiracy theory surrounding this event is claim Flight 93 was shot down by a U.S. fighter jet. David Ray Griffin and Alex Jones have asserted that large parts of the plane, including the main body of the engine, landed miles away from the main wreckage site, too far away for an ordinary plane crash. Jones says that planes usually leave a small debris field when they crash, and that this is not compatible with reports of wreckage found farther away from the main crash site. One person claimed that the main body of the engine was found miles away from the main wreckage site with damage comparable to that which a heat-seeking missile would do to an airliner.^{[104][126]}

According to some theories, the plane had to be shot down by the government because passengers had found out about the alleged plot.^[76]

According to Phil Molé of Skeptic magazine, "[this] claim rests largely on unsupported assertions that the main body of the engine and other large parts of the plane turned up miles from the main wreckage site, too far away to have resulted from an ordinary crash. This claim is incorrect, because the engine was found only 300 yards from the main crash site, and its location was consistent with the direction in which the plane had been traveling."^[75] Michael K. Hynes, an airline accident expert who investigated the crash of TWA Flight 800 in 1996, says that, at very high velocities of 500 mph or more, it would only take a few seconds to move or tumble across the ground for 300 yards.^{[75][104]}

Reports of wreckage discovered at Indian Lake by local residents are accurate. CNN reported that investigators found debris from the crash at least eight miles away from the crash site, including in New Baltimore.^[127] However, according to CNN, this debris was all very light material that the wind would have easily blown away, and a Pittsburgh Post-Gazette article from September 14, 2001, describes the material as "mostly papers", "strands of charred insulation", and an "endorsed paycheck". The same article quotes FBI agent Bill Crowley that, "Lighter, smaller debris probably shot into the air on the heat of a fireball that witnesses said shot several hundred feet into the air after the jetliner crashed. Then, it probably rode a wind that was blowing southeast at about 9 m.p.h."^[128] Also, the distance between the crash site and Indian Lake was misreported in some accounts. According to the BBC, "In a straight line, Indian Lake is just over a mile from the crash site. The road between the two locations takes a roundabout route of 6.9 miles—accounting for the erroneous reports."^[126]

Some conspiracy theorists believe a small white jet seen flying over the crash area may have fired a missile to shoot down Flight 93.^[129] However, government agencies such as the FBI assert this small plane was a Dassault Falcon business jet asked to descend to an altitude of around 1,500 ft to survey the impact.^[130] Ben Sliney, who was the FAA operation manager on September 11, 2001, says no military aircraft were near Flight 93.^[131]

Some internet videos, such as Loose Change, speculate that Flight 93 safely landed in Ohio, and a substituted plane was involved in the crash in Pennsylvania. Often cited is a preliminary news report that Flight 93 landed at a Cleveland airport;^[132] it was later learned that Delta Flight 1989 was the plane confused with Flight 93, and the report was retracted as inaccurate. Several websites within the 9/11 Truth Movement dispute this claim, citing the wreckage at the scene, eyewitness testimony, and the difficulty of secretly substituting one plane for another, and claim that such "hoax theories ... appear calculated to alienate victims' survivors and the larger public from the 9/11 truth movement". The editor of the article has since written a rebuttal to the claims.^[133]

Valencia McClatchey, a local woman who took the only photograph of the mushroom cloud from the impact of Flight 93 seconds after it hit the ground, says she has been harassed over the telephone and in person by conspiracy theorists, who claim she faked the photo. The FBI, the Somerset County authorities, the Smithsonian, and the National Park Service's Flight 93 National Memorial staff have all individually examined the photograph as well as the film negatives and all four agencies consider the photo to be authentic.^[134]

While some conspiracy theorists have claimed that passengers of Flight 93 and/or Flight 77 were murdered or that they were relocated, with the intent that they never be found,^[76] others within the 9/11 Truth Movement, such as Jim Hoffman and Scholars for 9/11 Truth & Justice, repudiate such claims.

Hijackers

During the initial confusion surrounding the immediate aftermath of the 9/11 attacks, the BBC published the names and identities of what they believed to be some of the hijackers.^[135] Some of the people named were later discovered to be alive, a fact that was seized upon by 9/11 conspiracy theorists as proof that the hijackings were faked.^{[135][136][137]} The BBC explained that the initial confusion may have arisen because the names they reported back in 2001 were common Arabic and Islamic names.^[135] In response to a request from the BBC, the FBI said that it was confident to have identified all nineteen hijackers, and that none of the other inquiries had raised the issue of doubt about their identities.^[135] The New York Times also acknowledged these as cases of mistaken identity.^[138]

According to John Bradley, the former managing editor of Arab News in Jeddah, Saudi Arabia, the only public information about the hijackers was a list of names issued by the FBI on September 14, 2001. When the FBI released photographs four days after the cited reports on September 27, the mistaken identities were quickly resolved. According to Bradley, "all of this is attributable to the chaos that prevailed during the first few days following the attack. What we're dealing with are coincidentally identical names." In Saudi Arabia, says Bradley, the names of two of the allegedly surviving attackers, Said al-Ghamdi and Walid al-Shari, are "as common as John Smith in the United States or Great Britain."^[136]

According to Thomas Kean, chair of the 9/11 Commission, "Sixteen of the nineteen shouldn't have gotten into the United States in any way at all because there was something wrong with their visas, something wrong with their passports. They should simply have been stopped at the border. That was sixteen of the nineteen. Obviously, if even half of those people had been stopped, there never would have been a plot."^[139]

Khalid al Mihdhar and Nawaf al Hazmi had both been identified as al-Qaeda agents by the CIA, but that information was not shared with the FBI or U.S. Immigration, so both men were able to legally enter the U.S. to prepare for the 9/11 attacks.^[140]

Foreign governments

There are allegations that individuals within the Pakistani Inter-Services Intelligence (ISI) may have played an important role in financing the attacks. There are also claims that other foreign intelligence agencies, such as the Israeli Mossad, had foreknowledge of the attacks, and that Saudi Arabia may have played a role in financing the attacks. General Hamid Gul, a former head of ISI, believes the attacks were an "inside job" originating in the United States, perpetrated by Israel or neo-conservatives.^[141] Francesco Cossiga, former President of Italy from 1985 until his 1992 resignation over Operation Gladio, said that it is common knowledge among the Italian center-left that the 9/11 attacks were a joint operation of the CIA and the Mossad.^[142] Subsequent reports indicated that he did not actually believe this.^{[143][144]}

Israel

A conspiracy theory documented by the Anti-Defamation League, Thom Burnett and others is that the state of Israel was involved in the attacks, and may have planned them. A variety of motives are suggested, including: to cause the United States to attack enemies of Israel; to divert public attention away from Israel's treatment of Palestinians; to help Zionists take control of world affairs; and to persuade Americans to support Israel. Variants of the theory contend that the attack was organized by

Ariel Sharon, Mossad, or the government of Israel.^{[145][146]} Kevin Barrett, a former lecturer at the University of Wisconsin is, according to Slate website, a "leading advocate of theories that Israel's Mossad orchestrated the 9/11 attacks."^[147]

Some proponents of this believe that Jewish employees were forewarned by Israeli intelligence to skip work on September 11, resulting in no Jewish deaths at the World Trade Center. According to Cinnamon Stillwell, some 9/11 conspiracy theorists put this number as high as 4,000 Jewish people skipping work.^[148] This was first reported on September 17 by the Lebanese Hezbollah-owned satellite television channel Al-Manar and is believed to be based on the September 12 edition of The Jerusalem Post that said "The Foreign Ministry in Jerusalem has so far received the names of 4,000 Israelis believed to have been in the areas of the World Trade Center and the Pentagon at the time of the attacks."^[149]

The number of Jews who died in the attacks is variously estimated at between 270 and 400.^{[149][a][150][151]} The lower figure tracks closely with the percentage of Jews living in the New York area and partial surveys of the victims' listed religion. The U.S. State Department has published a partial list of 76 in response to claims that fewer Jews/Israelis died in the WTC attacks than should have been present at the time.^{[149][152]} Five Israeli citizens died in the attack.^[153]

Antisemitism in conspiracy theories

In 2003, the Anti-Defamation League (ADL) published a report attacking "hateful conspiracy theories" that the 9/11 attacks were carried about by Israelis and Jews, saying they had the potential to "rationalize and fuel global anti-Semitism." It found that such theories were widely accepted in the Arab and Muslim world, as well as in Europe and the United States.

The ADL's report found that "The Big Lie has united American far-right extremists and white supremacists and elements within the Arab and Muslim world". It asserted that many of the theories were modern manifestation of the 19th century Protocols of the Elders of Zion, which purported to map out a Jewish conspiracy for world domination.^{[146][154]} The ADL has characterized the Jeff Rense website as carrying anti-Semitic materials, such as "American Jews staged the 9/11 terrorist attacks for their own financial gain and to induce the American people to endorse wars of aggression and genocide on the nations of the Middle East and the theft of their resources for the benefit of Israel".^[155]

Pedro A. Sanjuan, a former United Nations diplomat, alleged that antisemitic 9/11 conspiracy theories were quite common at high levels of the organization following the attacks.^[156]

Saudi Arabia

British investigative journalists Anthony Summers and Robbyn Swan claimed in their 2011 book The Eleventh Day that the Saudi Royal Family provided material and financial support to the hijackers and that the Bush Administration covered this up as well as their own alleged incompetence. The authors claim the 9/11 Truth movement helped this coverup by deflecting attention away from these actions.^[157] In September 2011 a "Lloyd's insurance syndicate" began legal action against Saudi Arabia demanding the repayment of £136m it paid out to victims of the 9/11 attacks. A number of prominent Saudi charities and banks as well as a leading member of the al-Saud royal family were accused of being "agents and alter egos" for the Saudi state that "knowingly" provided funding to al-Qaeda and encouraged anti Western sentiment.^[158]

Such theories have historically revolved around the putative content of the 28 pages of the 2002 report of the U.S. Congress Joint Inquiry^{[159][160]} that were withheld from publication until July 15, 2016.^[161]

Former Florida Senator Bob Graham, co-chairman of the Joint Inquiry, as well as other former officials who did read the entire version of the Joint Inquiry's report, still partly classified, believe there is a U.S. government's coverup on the Saudi government officials' substantial aid provided to the perpetrators of the 9/11 act,^[159] notably the role of Fahad al-Thumairy, a diplomat at the Saudi consulate in Los Angeles.^[162]

No-planes theory

Former chief economist within the Labor Department under the Bush administration, Morgan Reynolds, argues that no planes were used in the attacks. Reynolds claims it is physically impossible that the Boeing planes of Flights 11 and 175 could have penetrated the steel frames of the Towers, and that digital compositing was used to depict the plane crashes in both news reports and subsequent amateur video. "There were no planes, there were no hijackers", Reynolds insists. "I know, I know, I'm out of the mainstream, but that's the way it is". According to David Shayler, "the only explanation is that they were missiles surrounded by holograms made to look like planes", he says, which would be well beyond the capabilities of contemporaneous hologram technology. "Watch footage frame by frame and you will see a cigar-shaped missile hitting the World Trade Center". Most no-planes adherents, including Thierry Meyssan and Reynolds, assert that either CGI of a passenger plane was overlaid onto a winged cruise missile or military aircraft, or that computer-generated images of a passenger plane were inserted into the video footage and plane-shaped explosive cut-outs were planted in the buildings in order to create the impression of plane impact.^{[163][164][165]} Some truth movement veterans have repeatedly refuted the "no-plane" claims.^{[76][166]} In fact, discussion of no-plane theories has been banned from certain conspiracy theory websites and advocates have sometimes been threatened with violence by posters at other conspiracy theory websites.^[167]

The "no-plane theory", promoted via Internet videos, claims that this shot of the second impact, taken from a news helicopter, depicts a video composite of a Boeing 767 accidentally appearing from behind a Layer Mask.

Cover-up allegations

Paul Zarembka, in his book, The Hidden History of 9/11, states that the debris from ground zero was removed without a proper forensic investigation.^{[168][169]}

Cockpit recorders

According to the 9/11 Commission Report, both black boxes from Flight 77 and both black boxes from Flight 93 were recovered. However, the CVR from Flight 77 was said to be too damaged to yield any data. On April 18, 2002, the FBI allowed the families of victims from Flight 93 to listen to the voice recordings.^[170] In April 2006, a transcript of the CVR was released as part of the Zacarias Moussaoui trial.^[171]

Two men, Michael Bellone and Nicholas DeMasi, who worked extensively in the wreckage of the World Trade Center, said in the book Behind-The-Scenes: Ground Zero that they helped federal agents find three of the four "black boxes" from the jetliners:^[172]

At one point, I was assigned to take Federal Agents around the site to search for the black boxes from the planes. We were getting ready to go out. My ATV was parked at the top of the stairs at the Brooks Brothers entrance area. We loaded up about a million dollars worth of equipment and strapped it into the ATV. There were a total of four black boxes. We found three.^[173]

The cockpit voice recorder from Flight 77 was heavily damaged from the impact and resulting fire.

Bin Laden tapes

A series of interviews, audio and videotapes were released in the years following the 9/11 attacks that were reported to be from Osama bin Laden. In the first of these the speaker denied responsibility for the attacks. On September 17, 2001, in a statement issued to Al Jazeera, Bin Laden is quoted as saying: "The U.S. government has consistently blamed me for being behind every occasion its enemies attack it. I would like to assure the world that I did not plan the recent attacks, which seems to have been planned by people for personal reasons."^[174]

In a tape released in December 2001 known as 'the Jalalabad tape', the speaker is alleged to have foreknowledge of the attacks. The Central Intelligence Agency claimed the tape was probably from Osama bin Laden. Some observers, especially people in the Muslim world, doubted the authenticity of the tape.^[175] On December 20, 2001, German TV channel "Das Erste" broadcast an analysis of the White House's translation of the videotape. On the program Monitor, two independent translators and an expert on Oriental Studies found the White House's translation to be both inaccurate and manipulative, stating, "At the most important places where it is held to prove the guilt of bin Laden, it is not identical with the Arabic", and that the words used that indicate foreknowledge can not be heard at all in the original. Prof. Gernot Rotter, professor of Islamic and Arabic Studies at the Asia-Africa Institute at the University of Hamburg, said "The American translators who listened to the tapes and transcribed them apparently wrote a lot of things in that they wanted to hear but that cannot be heard on the tape no matter how many times you listen to it."^[176] Some members of Scholars for 9/11 Truth believe that the man in this videotape is not Osama bin Laden at all, citing differences in weight and facial features, along with his wearing of a gold ring, which is forbidden by Muslim law, and writing with his right hand although bin Laden was left-handed.^[177]

In an audiotape released in November 2007, Bin Laden claimed responsibility for the attacks and denied the Taliban and the Afghan government or people had any prior knowledge of the attacks.^{[178][179][180]} In an interview with al-Jazeera, Khalid Sheikh Mohammed and Ramzi bin al-Shibh, two of al-Qaeda's alleged masterminds of the attacks, also confessed their involvement in the attacks.^[181]

Hiding of CIA recruitment efforts

Richard Clarke, who headed the government's anti-terrorism efforts in 2001, theorized CIA director George Tenet ordered the agency to withhold information about Nawaf al-Hazmi and Khalid al-Mihdhar from the rest of the government in an effort to cover up the agency's recruitment of the two. George Tenet released a statement denying the agency deliberately withheld information about the pair and noted Clarke himself said he had no proof.^[182]

Motives

Pax Americana

In September 2000 the Project for a New American Century (PNAC) released a strategic treatise entitled Rebuilding America's Defences. The Defense Planning Guidance of 1992, was drafted by Paul Wolfowitz on behalf of then Secretary of Defense Dick Cheney. This was described as "a blueprint for permanent American global hegemony" by Andrew Bacevich in his book American Empire: The Realities and Consequences of U.S. Diplomacy.^[183]

Matt Taibbi argued in his book The Great Derangement that conspiracy theorists have taken what is written in the paper "completely out of context", and that the "transformation" referenced in the paper is explicitly said to be a decades-long process to turn the Cold War-era military into a "new, modern military" which could deal with more localized conflicts.^[184] He said that, for this to be evidence of motive, either those responsible would have decided to openly state their objectives, or would have read the paper in 2000 and quickly laid the groundwork for the 9/11 attacks using it as inspiration.^[184]

Invasions

Conspiracy theorists have questioned whether The Oil Factor and 9/11 provided the United States and the United Kingdom with a reason to launch a war they had wanted for some time, and suggest that this gives them a strong motive for either carrying out the attacks, or allowing them to take place. For instance, Andreas von Bülow, a former research minister in the German government, has argued that 9/11 was staged to justify the subsequent wars in Afghanistan and Iraq.^[185] Former Malaysian prime minister Mahathir Mohamad was quoted as saying that there was "strong evidence" that the attacks were faked so that the United States could go to war against Muslims.^[186] In spite of these allegations, the Bush administration specifically rejected proposals to immediately attack Iraq in response to 9/11,^[187] and acknowledged that there was no evidence of Iraqi involvement in the attacks.^[9]

New World Order

Alex Jones and other personalities hold that 9/11 was initiated by a disparate variety of banking, corporate, globalization, and military interests for the purpose of creating a globalist government. Such New World Order conspiracy theories predate 9/11.^[61]

Suggested historical precedents

Conspiracy theorists often point to Operation Northwoods as a model for the 9/11 attacks, theorizing the attacks were carried out by the U.S. government as a false flag operation and then blamed on Islamic extremists.^{[10][188]} Operation Northwoods was an unimplemented, apparently rejected, plan approved by the United States Joint Chiefs of Staff in 1962. One proposal in the plan suggested that covert operatives commit multiple acts of terrorism in U.S. cities and blame Cuba, thus providing a pretext for invasion.^[189]

Time magazine contrasted events which inspired past conspiracy theories with those that inspire 9/11 conspiracy theories such as the assassination of John F. Kennedy. Time called the public assassination of Kennedy a "private, intimate affair" when compared with the attack on the World Trade Center, which was witnessed by millions of people and documented by hundreds of videographers; and said, "there is no event so plain and clear that a determined human being can't find ambiguity in it."^[53]

Proponents

Many individuals and organizations that support or discuss 9/11 conspiracy theories consider themselves to be part of the 9/11 Truth movement.

Prominent adherents of the movement include, among others, radio talk show host Alex Jones, theologian David Ray Griffin, physicist Steven E. Jones, software engineer Jim Hoffman, architect Richard Gage (of Architects & Engineers for 9/11 Truth), film producer Dylan Avery, former Governor of Minnesota Jesse Ventura, former member of the U.S. House of Representatives Cynthia McKinney,^[190] actors Daniel Sunjata, Ed Asner, and Charlie Sheen, political science professor Joseph Diaferia and journalist Thierry Meyssan.^{[191][192][193]} Adherents of the 9/11 Truth movement come from diverse social backgrounds.^{[194][195][196]} The movement draws adherents from people of diverse political beliefs including liberals, conservatives, and libertarians.^{[75][196][197]} The Anti-Defamation League has named Alan Sabrosky as a key figure in anti-Semitic 9/11 conspiracy theories.^{[198][199]}

Alex Jones at a 9/11 Truth Movement event in 2007

Among the organizations that actively discuss and promote such theories are Architects & Engineers for 9/11 Truth, a group that focuses on the collapse of the World Trade Center buildings; 9/11 Truth, founded in 2004; Scholars for 9/11 Truth, founded in 2005, and Scholars for 9/11 Truth & Justice, a group that split from Scholars for 9/11 Truth in 2007 and runs the online publication Journal of 9/11 Studies; 9/11 Citizens Watch, which was already formed in 2002; and the Hispanic Victims Group. Several of these groups have collected signatures on petitions asking for further investigation of the September 11 attacks.^{[200][201][202]}

In 2004, John Buchanan ran for president on a "9/11 Truth" platform.^[203]

9/11 Conspiracy theory critic Jonathan Kay asserts that for the most part proponents are not out for financial gain and in some cases have left lucrative careers to become activists.^[204]

Dr Michael Wood and Dr Karen Douglas University of Kent psychologists who specialize in conspiracy theories^[205] examined the comments sections of over 2000 news articles relating to the collapse of World Trade Center 7. They found that proponents of 9/11 conspiracy theories were more likely to try and debunk the mainstream account than promote their own theories and also were more likely to believe in other conspiracy theories. Proponents of the mainstream account tended to argue for that account and showed a greater hostility toward conspiracy theory proponents.^[206]

Dissecting the 9/11 Truth movement community

According to a 2011 analysis in a Skeptical Inquirer article, people involved in this movement, which seemingly is a disparate group with very diversified backgrounds, could be classified into three groups. They join the movement for different reasons, loosely self-assemble to fill different roles and are united by their shared mistrust in experts and the establishment (government and reputable sources of knowledge), and conspiratorial stance. Through their engagement, they each find their own fulfillment and satisfaction. Together, they contribute to the persistence, resilience and exaggerated claims of acceptance (in general public) of the movement. These three groups are:^[207]

- Hard Core: The organizers and active members of the various 9/11 Truth Movement organizations. They produce the information, spot the anomalies and technical inconsistencies, provide the technical base and form the theories. While they claim to be only interested in facts and to use scientific method, they commit the logical fallacy of 'confirmation bias' by pre-determining the outcome, then searching for corroborating evidence while ignoring the vast body of peer-reviewed, independent, consensual research which contradict their theories. They supply the physical structure of the movement by organizing events, seminars, discussions, marches and distributing flyers and pamphlets. Their numbers are relatively small but they are tight-knit and highly connected. Their worldview favors 'super-conspiracy', a master plan that is behind conspiracies which they believe they are uncovering.^[207]
- Critically turned: They are the young students and political activists whose affiliation with the 9/11 Truth Movement often is rooted from their dissatisfaction and anger at the established political and social order. Their sense of justice and idealism propels them to activism against perceived oppression and social injustice. Their penchant to use Internet, especially social media, and tech savvy make them the propaganda machine for the movement. They produce YouTube videos and films with cool, countercultural content, make good use of pop culture parody and eye-catching graphics. The countercultural street cred of their productions buy them broad appeal and exposure to millions of people.^[207]
- Illiterati: They are the movement's mass membership backbone, a large, diffuse group which give the movement exaggerated claims of popularity and influence. Participation in the 9/11 Truth Movement, to this group of people, is as much a social and recreational pursuit as the quest for truth. Their partaking is mostly through web 2.0 social networking and YouTube. Their commentaries often are emotional and they make no pretense to be accurate, balanced or to show genuine intent to find truth. Involvement with the movement that fit their worldview gives them a sense of identity and belonging, which they find more appealing than the facts and evidences of the 9/11 terrorist attack itself.^[207]

Media reaction

While discussion and coverage of these theories is mainly confined to Internet pages, books, documentary films, and conversation, a number of mainstream news outlets around the world have covered the issue.

The Norwegian version of the July 2006 Le Monde diplomatique sparked interest when they ran, on their own initiative, a three-page main story on the 9/11 attacks and summarized the various types of 9/11 conspiracy theories (which were not specifically endorsed by the newspaper, only recensed).^[208] In December 2006, the French version published an article by Alexander Cockburn, co-editor of CounterPunch, which strongly criticized the alleged endorsement of conspiracy theories by the U.S. left-wing, alleging that it was a sign of "theoretical emptiness."^{[209][210]}

Also, on the Canadian website for CBC News: The Fifth Estate, a program titled, "Conspiracy Theories: uncovering the facts behind the myths of Sept. 11, 2001" was broadcast on October 29, 2003, stating that what they found may be more surprising than any theories.^[211] On November 27, 2009, The Fifth Estate aired a documentary entitled The Unofficial Story where several prominent members of the 9/11 Truth Movement made their case.^{[212][213]}

An article in the September 11, 2006, edition of Time magazine comments that the major 9/11 conspiracy theories "depend on circumstantial evidence, facts without analysis or documentation, quotes taken out of context and the scattered testimony of traumatized eyewitnesses", and enjoy continued popularity because "the idea that there is a malevolent controlling force orchestrating global events is, in a perverse way, comforting". It concludes that "conspiracy theories are part of the process by which Americans deal with traumatic public events" and constitute "an American form of national mourning."^[214]

Australian newspaper The Daily Telegraph published an article titled "The CIA couldn't have organised this ..." which said "The same people who are making a mess of Iraq were never so clever or devious that they could stage a complex assault on two narrow towers of steel and glass" and "if there is a nefarious plot in all this bad planning, it is one improvised by a confederacy of dunces". This article mainly attacked a group of scientists led by Professor Steven E. Jones, now called Scholars for 9/11 Truth and Justice. They said "most of them aren't scientists but instructors ... at second-rate colleges".^[215]

The Daily Telegraph also published an article in May 2007 that was highly critical of Loose Change 2, a movie which presents a 9/11 conspiracy theory.^[216]

Doug MacEachern in a May 2008 column for The Arizona Republic wrote that while many "9/11 truthers" are not crackpots that espouse "crackpot conspiracy theories", supporters of the theories fail to take into account both human nature and that nobody has come forward claiming they were participants in the alleged conspiracies.^[217] This view was seconded by Timothy Giannuzzi, a Calgary Herald op-ed columnist specializing in foreign policy.^[218]

On June 7, 2008, the Financial Times published a lengthy article on the 9/11 Truth Movement and 9/11 conspiracy theories.^[219]

Charlie Brooker, a British comedian and multimedia personality, in a July 2008 column published by The Guardian as part of its "Comment is free" series agreed that 9/11 conspiracy theorists fail to take in account human fallacies and added that believing in these theories gives theorists a sense of belonging to a community that shares privileged information thus giving the theorists a delusional sense of power.^[220] The commentary generated over 1700 online responses, the largest in the history of the series.^[221] In a September 2009 piece, The Guardian were more supportive of 9/11 conspiracy theories however, asking, "when did it become uncool to ask questions? When did questioners become imbeciles?"^[222]

On September 12, 2008, Russian State Television broadcast in prime time a documentary made by Member of the European Parliament Giulietto Chiesa entitled Zero, sympathetic to those who question the accepted account of the attacks according to Chiesa. According to Thierry Meyssan in conjunction with the documentary, Russian State Television aired a debate on the subject. The panel consisted of members from several countries including 12 Russians who hold divergent views. The motive of Russian State Television in broadcasting the documentary was questioned by a commentator from The Other Russia who noted that Russian State Television had a history of broadcasting programs involving conspiracy theories involving the United States government.^[223]

Nasir Mahmood in a commentary printed by the Pakistan Observer wrote favorably about a 9/11 truth lecture and film festival held in California and quoted a Jewish speaker at that festival who said that none of the 19 suspected hijackers had been proven guilty of anything and compared racism against Muslims resulting from what he called false accusations to the racism against Jews in the Nazi era.^[224]

On November 10, 2008, ITN broadcast a story summarizing various 9/11 conspiracy theories.^[225]

The emergence of the birther movement in 2009 has led to comparisons between that movement and the 9/11 Truth movement, with both movements seen in a very negative light. Moon landing conspiracy theories have also been compared to the birther and 9/11 conspiracy theories. James Borne, a journalist for The New York Times who covered the September 11 attacks, described his assignment covering a 9/11 truth meeting as "[p]erhaps the most intellectually scary assignment I have had in recent years".^{[226][227][228][229]}

On August 31, 2009, the National Geographic Channel aired the program 9/11 Science and Conspiracy, in which the Energetic Materials Research and Testing Center tested some of the claims frequently made by those who question the accepted 9/11 account. Specifically, the experiments concluded that burning jet fuel alone can sufficiently raise the temperature of a steel support column to the point of structural failure, that a controlled demolition using conventional techniques would leave clear evidence that was not found at Ground Zero, that using thermite is not an effective technique to melt a steel column, and that even if thermite chemical signatures were found, it would be impossible to tell if thermite was actually used or if the traces came from the reaction of aircraft aluminum with other substances in the fire. The testing also concluded that the type of hole found at the Pentagon was consistent with the standard scenario, and that damage from a bombing or missile attack would differ from the damage that occurred. In the program, several prominent 9/11 conspiracy theorists viewed rough edits of the experiments, and expressed their disagreement with the findings.^{[230][231]}

The British left wing magazine New Statesman listed David Ray Griffin as the 41st most important person who matters today. The magazine said that Griffin's "books on the subject have lent a sheen of respectability that appeals to people at the highest levels of government". The publication listed 9/11 conspiracy theories as "one of the most pernicious global myths".^[232] Griffin's book The New Pearl Harbor Revisited was chosen by Publishers Weekly as a "Pick of the Week" in November 2008.^[233]

Denver public television KBDI-TV has aired 9/11 truth documentaries several times. The stations spokesperson claimed airing these documentaries has been a boon for the stations fund raising efforts.^[234]

Glenn Beck, television and radio host, said of the allegations: "There are limits to debasement of this country, aren't there? I mean, it's one thing to believe that our politicians are capable of being Bernie Madoff. It's another to think that they are willing to kill 3,000 Americans. Once you cross that line, you're in a whole new territory."^[235]

In March 2010, The Washington Post editorialized against Yukihisa Fujita, a prominent Japanese politician who has espoused 9/11 conspiracy theories. They described Fujita as a man "susceptible to the imaginings of the lunatic fringe". It went on to say that the U.S.–Japan alliance would be "severely tested" if Fujita's party continued to tolerate these kinds of comments.^[236]

For the ninth anniversary of the attacks the Egyptian daily Al-masry Al-youm published an article questioning the U.S. Government story and promoting conspiracy theories. The senior analyst for the semi-official Al-Ahram Center for Political and Strategic Studies and a member of Parliament from the Muslim Brotherhood was quoted.

Gordon Farrer, the technology editor for The Age, theorized in a November 2010 column for the Sydney Morning Herald that the popularity of 9/11 conspiracy theories was a result of two main factors. One revolved around the personality traits of the theorists themselves (cynical, anxious, belief that they are freethinkers). The second revolved around the high internet search ranking 9/11 conspiracy theories receive, leading to a false air of authority to the theories. Speaking of the theorists. Farrer wrote that "when politicians and media don't give them voice they feel more threatened, more suspicious, cornered, helpless; and so they go on the attack".^[237]

Geraldo Rivera, the host of Geraldo at Large, a news magazine run by Fox News Channel, expressed openness towards claims that question the causes of the collapse of 7 World Trade Center.^[238] Andrew Napolitano, a legal analyst for Fox News and former judge at the New Jersey Superior Court, voiced support for skepticism about the collapse of the high-rise building, and for Rivera investigating the event.^[238]

Alex Jones syndicated radio program was dropped by 70 radio stations when he began espousing 9/11 conspiracy theories.^{[42][239]} On August 29, 2010, BBC Two broadcast a program entitled The Conspiracy Files: 9/11 – Ten Years On.^[88]

On September 5, 2011, The Guardian published an article entitled, "9/11 conspiracy theories debunked". The article noted that unlike the collapse of World Trade Centers 1 and 2 a controlled demolition collapses a building from the bottom and explains that the windows popped because of collapsing floors. The article also said there are conspiracy theories that claim that 7 World Trade Center was also downed by a controlled demolition, that the Pentagon being hit by a missile, that the hijacked planes were packed with explosives and flown by remote control, that Israel was behind the attacks, that a plane headed for the Pentagon was shot down by a missile, that there was insider trading by people who had foreknowledge of the attacks were all false.^[240]

Toure Neblett, who has Tweeted his suspicions about the attack on the Pentagon, is one of the hosts of the MSNBC program The Cycle, which debuted on June 25, 2012.^[241]

Criticism

Critics of these conspiracy theories say they are a form of conspiracism common throughout history after a traumatic event in which conspiracy theories emerge as a mythic form of explanation.^[242] A related criticism addresses the form of research on which the theories are based. Thomas W. Eagar, an engineering professor at MIT, suggested they "use the 'reverse scientific method'. They determine what happened, throw out all the data that doesn't fit their conclusion, and then hail their findings as the only possible conclusion." Eagar's criticisms also exemplify a common stance that the theories are best ignored. "I've told people that if the argument gets too mainstream, I'll engage in the debate." According to him, this happened when Steve Jones, a physics professor at Brigham Young University, took up the issue.^[243]

Michael Shermer, writing in Scientific American, said: "The mistaken belief that a handful of unexplained anomalies can undermine a well-established theory lies at the heart of all conspiratorial thinking. All the evidence for a 9/11 conspiracy falls under the rubric of this fallacy. Such notions are easily refuted by noting that scientific theories are not built on single facts alone but on a convergence of evidence assembled from multiple lines of inquiry."^[244]

Scientific American,^[244] Popular Mechanics,^[245] and The Skeptic's Dictionary^[246] have published articles that rebut various 9/11 conspiracy theories. Popular Mechanics has published a book entitled Debunking 9/11 Myths that expands upon the research first presented in the article.^[247] In the foreword for the book Senator John McCain wrote that blaming the U.S. government for the events "mars the memories of all those lost on that day" and "exploits the public's anger and sadness. It shakes Americans' faith in their government at a time when that faith is already near an all-time low. It trafficks in ugly, unfounded accusations of extraordinary evil against fellow Americans."^[248] Der Spiegel dismissed 9/11 conspiracy theories as a "panoply of the absurd", stating "as diverse as these theories and their adherents may be, they share a basic thought pattern: great tragedies must have great reasons."^[249]

Journalist Matt Taibbi, in his book The Great Derangement, discusses 9/11 conspiracy theories as symptomatic of what he calls the "derangement" of American society; a disconnection from reality due to widespread "disgust with our political system".^[184] Drawing a parallel with the Charismatic Movement, he argues that both "chose to battle bugbears that were completely idiotic, fanciful, and imaginary," instead of taking control of their own lives.^[184] While critical, Taibbi explains that 9/11 conspiracy theories are different from "Clinton-era black-helicopter paranoia", and constitute more than "a small, scattered group of nutcases [...] they really were, just as they claim to be, almost everyone you meet."^[184]

David Aaronovitch, a columnist for The Times, in his book entitled Voodoo Histories: The Role of the Conspiracy Theory in Shaping Modern History that was published in May 2009, claimed that the theories strain credulity.^[76] He charges that 9/11 conspiracy theorists have exaggerated the expertise of those supporting their theories, and says 9/11 conspiracy theorists, including David Ray Griffin, cross-cite each other.^[250] He also claims the popularity of 9/11 conspiracy theories has hurt the War on Terror. According to Aaronovitch, because a significant portion of educated Pakistanis believe that George W. Bush brought the towers down, dealing with the Taliban is difficult "because they actually don't believe the fundamental premise on which the war against terror was waged".^[251]

Harvard law professor Cass Sunstein co-authored a 2009 paper which used members of the 9/11 Truth movement and others as examples of people who suffer from "crippled epistemologies", to public trust and the political system. He wrote that "[t]hey do not merely undermine democratic debate [...] In extreme cases, they create or fuel violence. If government can dispel such theories, it should do so."^[42]

In June 2011, the Royal Institute of British Architects (RIBA) was criticized for hosting a lecture by Richard Gage, president of Architects & Engineers for 9/11 Truth. Rick Bell, the director of the American Institute of Architects (AIA) New York chapter, who was a witness to the 9/11 attacks, said that "no amount of money" would persuade him to allow the group to talk at his headquarters and said that Gage lacks credibility among the professional community. Eugene Kohn, former spokesperson for the AIA, said Gage's theories were "ridiculous", "[t]here were no explosives planted", and "[t]he buildings were definitely brought down by the planes". The decision to host the event was also criticized by the former president of RIBA and the founding president of the AIA's United Kingdom chapter. Gage has been warned by the AIA against giving a false impression that he has a relationship with it. A July 2012 article in the AIA's magazine criticized Gage for continuing to intimate that he has an association with the organization, and claimed that there were no architects at an Architects and Engineers for 9/11 Truth screening held in an AIA boardroom.^[252] RIBA released a statement saying the perception that it endorses events held in its buildings is "regrettable", and said it would review policy on "private hire" of its buildings.^[253] Anthony Summers and Robbyn Swan offer scathing criticism of many of the above theories in The Eleventh Day, their 2011 investigation of the attacks.^[254]

U.S. representative Peter T. King, chairman of the House Homeland Security Committee, said 9/11 conspiracy theorists "trivialize" the "most tragic event to affect the United States" and that "[p]eople making these claims are disgraceful, and they should be ashamed of themselves".^[255]

The hosts of "The Skeptics' Guide to the Universe" (the "SGU") have spoken repeatedly about the "absurdity of 9/11 conspiracy theories". In addition to critiquing the theories using the same or similar arguments as the above, the "SGU" hosts say that, like most conspiracy theories, this one collapses under its own weight and contradicts itself. In order for the 9/11 conspiracy theories to be correct, the U.S. government would not only have to orchestrate the claimed false flag operation regarding the airplanes that crashed into the World Trade Center, but they would also have to orchestrate a superfluous controlled demolition and cover their tracks so flawlessly that it becomes indistinguishable to physicists from the "official story", yet the plan would have to be flawed enough so that "losers in their mothers' basement" will discover the conspiracy.^[256]

In politics

Former Canadian Liberal Party leader Stéphane Dion forced a candidate from Winnipeg, Lesley Hughes, to terminate her campaign after earlier writings from Hughes surfaced in which Hughes wrote that U.S., German, Russian and Israeli intelligence officials knew about the 9/11 attacks in advance.^{[257][258]} Peter Kent, Deputy Editor of Global Television Network News and a Conservative Party candidate in the 2008 Canadian election, had earlier called for Hughes's resignation, saying that the 9/11 Truth movement is "one of Canada's most notorious hatemongering fringe movements" composed of "conspiracy theorists who are notorious for holding anti-Semitic views."^[259] On June 16, 2009, Hughes sued Kent, the Canadian Jewish Congress, the B'nai B'rith of Canada and four senior members of the two organizations, alleging the antisemitic allegations were untrue and defamatory and ruined her career.^[260] Later, another Conservative Party candidate called for the leader of the New Democratic Party to fire a candidate for her pro-9/11 truth views.^[261] Zijad Delic, head of the Canadian Islamic Congress, Canada's largest Muslim advocacy organization, is trying to remove 9/11 conspiracy theorists from its board, in an effort to what he describes as purifying within and totally canadianize the organization.^[262]

In 2008, calls for the resignation of Richard Falk, the special rapporteur on human rights in the Palestinian territories for the United Nations, were partially based on his support investigating the validity of 9/11 conspiracy theories.^[263] In 2011, Falk praised a book by David Ray Griffin. Falk was condemned for his remarks by United Nations Secretary General Ban Ki-moon and United States ambassador to the United Nations Susan Rice.^[264]

In February 2009, Aymeric Chauprade, a professor of geopolitics at CID military college in Paris, was fired by French Defence Minister Hervé Morin for writing a book entitled Chronicle of the Clash of Civilizations that espoused 9/11 conspiracy theories.^[265]

In September 2009, Van Jones, an adviser to US President Barack Obama, resigned after his signature on a 2004 petition calling for an investigation into whether government officials deliberately allowed the 9/11 attacks to occur and other controversial statements came to light drawing criticism. Van Jones said he was a victim of a smear campaign, adding that he does not currently, nor ever has agreed with that theory.^[266]

The 9/11 truth movement became an issue in the 2010 Texas Gubernatorial Republican primary when candidate Debra Medina replied when asked by Glenn Beck about US government involvement in the 9/11 attacks: "I think some very good questions have been raised in that regard, there are some very good arguments, and I think the American people have not seen all of the evidence there, so I have not taken a position on that." After being criticized for the remarks by opposing candidates, Medina said that she has never been a 9/11 truth movement member and believes the twin towers were attacked by Muslim terrorists.^{[267][268]}

On September 23, 2010, Iranian President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad in a speech to the United Nations said that "[t]he majority of the American people, as well as other nations and politicians, believe [...] some segments within the U.S. government orchestrated the attack to reverse the declining American economy and its grips on the Middle East in order to save the Zionist regime", and that "the majority of the American people as well most nations and politicians around the world agree with this view".^[269] The remarks prompted the United States delegation as well as others to walk out.^[270] U.S. President Barack Obama criticized Ahmadinejad's remarks before the United Nations General Assembly on the following day, saying that "[f]or him to make a statement like that was inexcusable" and called the remarks "offensive" and "hateful".^[271] Previously Ahmadinejad had described the 9/11 attacks as a "suspect event"^[272] and suggested that the Bush Administration was involved in 9/11.^{[273][274]} The Iranian president repeated his claims in 2011 with another appearance at the UN and was thereafter criticized in an article appearing in al-Qaeda's magazine, Inspire. The article claimed that Ahmadinejad was jealous of al-Qaeda because the stateless and under-fire Islamic terrorist organization did on 9/11 what Iran could not do.^[275]

Iranian president Mahmoud Ahmadinejad made statements that were skeptical of al-Qaeda executing the 9/11 attacks.

In 2012, Egyptian President Mohamed Morsi has called for a scientific conference to look into the events of 9/11 and speculated that the attacks were an inside job. According to an international poll that same year, huge majorities in Muslim countries prefer to believe baseless conspiracy theories rather than listen to the mainstream facts of what happened on September 11, 2001, in New York City and Washington. Although al-Qaeda occasionally brags about its "achievement," 75 percent of Egyptian citizens, for example, still deny that Arabs carried out the attacks, as a Pew study reported in July 2011.^[276]

Legal cases

Army specialist April Gallop filed suit claiming that Vice President Dick Cheney, Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld, and other Bush administration officials orchestrated the 9/11 attacks and that the Pentagon was hit by an attack ordered by Cheney. The suit was dismissed in 2010 by Judge Denny Chin, who said the claim was "the product of cynical delusion and fantasy". Her lawyers filed an appeal to the U.S. Court of Appeals which in April 2010 issued a show cause order why the lawyers and Gallop should not be sanctioned for filing a frivolous lawsuit. Her lawyers asked that the judges on the Court of Appeals recuse themselves because their emotions made them prejudice the case and abuse their power. On October 14, 2011, the judges sanctioned her lawyers $15,000 each for both the frivolous lawsuits and the accusations of prejudice. Gallop was not fined because of her unfamiliarity with the law.^[277]

See also

- Opinion polls about 9/11 conspiracy theories
- 1941 Pearl Harbor advance-knowledge conspiracy theory
- 2004 Madrid train bombings controversies
- 2005 London July bombings conspiracy theories

Notes

- A survey of the 1,700 victims whose religion was listed found approximately 10% were Jewish indicating around 270 in total. A survey based on the last names of victims found that around 400 (15½%) were possibly Jewish. A survey of 390 Cantor Fitzgerald employees who had public memorials (out of the 658 who died) found 49 were Jewish (12½%). According to the 2002 American Jewish Year Book, New York State's population was 9% Jewish. Sixty-four percent of the WTC victims lived in New York State.

References

- Norman, Joshua (September 11, 2011). "9/11 conspiracy theories won't stop" (<http://www.cbsnews.com/news/9-11-conspiracy-theories-wont-stop/>). CBS News. Retrieved May 29, 2014.

2. "Debunking the 9/11 Myths: Special Report" (https://web.archive.org/web/20101024055909/http://www.popularmechanics.com/911-myths?click=main_sr). Popular Mechanics. Archived from the original (http://www.popularmechanics.com/911-myths?click=main_sr) on October 24, 2010. Retrieved July 20, 2009.
3. Herman, Steve (June 20, 2007). "Purdue study supports WTC collapse findings" (https://www.usatoday.com/tech/news/2007-06-20-fireproofing-wtc-collapse_N.htm). USA Today. Retrieved July 20, 2009.
4. Sales, Nancy Jo (July 9, 2006). "Click Here For Conspiracy" (<https://www.vanityfair.com/ontheweb/features/2006/08/loosechange200608>). Vanity Fair. Retrieved May 29, 2014.
5. Summers, Anthony; Swan, Robbyn (2011). The Eleventh Day: The Full Story of 9/11 and Osama bin Laden (<https://archive.org/details/eleventhdayfulls0000summ>). New York: Ballantine. p. 104 (<https://archive.org/details/eleventhdayfulls0000summ/page/104>). ISBN 978-1-4000-6659-9.
6. "Debunking the 9/11 Myths: Special Report – The World Trade Center" (<http://www.popularmechanics.com/technology/military/news/debunking-911-myths-world-trade-center>). Popular Mechanics. Hearst Communication. February 3, 2005. "That explanation hasn't swayed conspiracy theorists, who contend that all three buildings were wired with explosives in advance and razed in a series of controlled demolitions."
7. Summers, Anthony; Swan, Robbyn (2011). The Eleventh Day: The Full Story of 9/11 and Osama bin Laden (<https://archive.org/details/eleventhdayfulls0000summ>). New York: Ballantine. p. 109 (<https://archive.org/details/eleventhdayfulls0000summ/page/109>). ISBN 978-1-4000-6659-9.
8. "Did a Plane Hit the Pentagon?" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20130315195123/http://www.america.gov/st/webchat-english/2009/April/20050628163417atlahtnevel0.1261103.html>). Bureau of International Information Programs, U.S. Department of State. April 19, 2009. Archived from the original (<https://www.america.gov/st/webchat-english/2009/April/20050628163417atlahtnevel0.1261103.html>) on March 15, 2013. Retrieved September 6, 2009.
9. U.S. Drops Last Link of Iraq to 9/11 (<https://www.nytimes.com/2002/05/02/world/us-drops-last-link-of-iraq-to-9-11.html>) New York Times May 2, 2002
10. Knight, Peter (2008). "Outrageous Conspiracy Theories: Popular and Official Responses to 9/11 in Germany and the United States". New German Critique. 35: 165–93. doi:10.1215/0094033X-2007-024 (<https://doi.org/10.1215/0094033X-2007-024>).
11. Summers, Anthony; Swan, Robbyn (2011). The Eleventh Day: The Full Story of 9/11 and Osama bin Laden (<https://archive.org/details/eleventhdayfulls0000summ>). New York: Ballantine. p. 92 (<https://archive.org/details/eleventhdayfulls0000summ/page/92>). ISBN 978-1-4000-6659-9.
12. "The evolution of a conspiracy theory" (<http://news.bbc.co.uk/1/hi/magazine/7488159.stm>). BBC News. July 4, 2008. Retrieved July 27, 2008.
13. "NIST NCSTAR 1: Federal Building and Fire Safety Investigation of the World Trade Center Disaster" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090529010501/http://wtc.nist.gov/NCSTAR1/>). NIST. September 2005. p. 146. Archived from the original (<http://wtc.nist.gov/NCSTAR1/>) on May 29, 2009. Retrieved May 29, 2014.
14. "Final Report on the Collapse of World Trade Center Building 7" (https://web.archive.org/web/20080928013317/http://wtc.nist.gov/media/NIST_NCSTAR_1A_for_public_comment.pdf) (PDF). NIST. August 2008. pp. 22–4. Archived from the original (http://wtc.nist.gov/media/NIST_NCSTAR_1A_for_public_comment.pdf) (PDF) on September 28, 2008. Retrieved May 29, 2014.
15. Meigs, James (October 13, 2006). "The Conspiracy Industry" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20061024062122/http://www.popularmechanics.com/science/research/4199607.html>). Popular Mechanics. Archived from the original (<http://www.popularmechanics.com/science/research/4199607.html>) on October 24, 2006.

16. Bažant, Z.K.P.; Verdure, M. (2007). "Mechanics of Progressive Collapse: Learning from World Trade Center and Building Demolitions" (<http://www.civil.northwestern.edu/people/bazant/PDFs/Papers/466.pdf>) (PDF). Journal of Engineering Mechanics. American Society of Civil Engineers. 133 (3): 308–319. doi:10.1061/(ASCE)0733-9399(2007)133:3(308) (<https://doi.org/10.1061%2F%28ASCE%290733-9399%282007%29133%3A3%28308%29>). "As generally accepted by the community of specialists in structural mechanics and structural engineering (though not by a few outsiders claiming a conspiracy with planted explosives), the failure scenario was as follows: [continues with a four-part scenario of progressive structural failure]."
17. Bažant, Z.K.P.; Le, J.L.; Greening, F.R.; Benson, D.B. (2008). "What Did and Did Not Cause Collapse of World Trade Center Twin Towers in New York?" (<http://www.civil.northwestern.edu/people/bazant/PDFs/Papers/00%20WTC%20Collapse%20-%20What%20Did%20%26%20Did%20Not%20Cause%20It.pdf>) (PDF). Journal of Engineering Mechanics. American Society of Civil Engineers. 134 (10): 892. doi:10.1061/(ASCE)0733-9399(2008)134:10(892) (<https://doi.org/10.1061%2F%28ASCE%290733-9399%282008%29134%3A10%28892%29>). "Universally though has the foregoing explanation of collapse been accepted by the communities of structural engineers and structural mechanics researchers, some outside critics have nevertheless exploited various unexplained observations to disseminate allegations of controlled demolition."
18. Blatchford, Andy (April 30, 2010). "U.S. skeptics to speak of 9–11 cover-up at three Canadian universities" (<https://www.thestar.com/news/canada/article/803231--u-s-skeptics-to-speak-of-9-11-cover-up-at-three-canadian-universities>). Toronto: Canadian Press. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20100504143115/http://www.thestar.com/news/canada/article/803231--u-s-skeptics-to-speak-of-9-11-cover-up-at-three-canadian-universities>) from the original on May 4, 2010. Retrieved May 1, 2010.
19. "Architects and Engineers Seek 9/11 Truth" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090802192109/http://www.kgoam810.com/Article.asp?id=1353865>). KGO Newstalk. June 3, 2009. Archived from the original (<http://www.kgoam810.com/Article.asp?id=1353865>) on August 2, 2009. Retrieved June 3, 2009.
20. "The Flight 93 Story" (<http://www.nps.gov/flni/historyculture/index.htm>). National Park Service. Retrieved September 22, 2011.
21. "Profiles of 9/11 – About 9/11" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090716140728/http://www.biography.com/profiles-of-9-11/about911.jsp>). Biography.com. September 11, 2001. Archived from the original (<http://www.biography.com/profiles-of-9-11/about911.jsp>) on July 16, 2009. Retrieved July 20, 2009.
22. [13][14][20][21]
23. Schmitt, Richard (June 23, 2004). "The 9/11 Commission Report; Panel Calls for Single Intelligence Chief" (<https://articles.latimes.com/2004/jul/23/nation/na-intel23>). Los Angeles Times.
24. "FEMA: World Trade Center Building Performance Study" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110430200952/http://www.fema.gov/rebuild/mat/wtcstudy.shtm>). Fema.gov. March 17, 2011. Archived from the original (<http://www.fema.gov/rebuild/mat/wtcstudy.shtm>) on April 30, 2011. Retrieved May 30, 2011.
25. "Behind Purdue's computing simulation on the 2001 World Trade Center attack ZDNET June 20, 2007" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20080530003552/http://blogs.zdnet.com/BTL/?p=5442>). Blogs.zdnet.com. Archived from the original (<http://blogs.zdnet.com/BTL/?p=5442>) on May 30, 2008. Retrieved September 11, 2013.
26. "Osama claims responsibility for 9/11" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20071027153604/http://timesofindia.indiatimes.com/articleshow/1550477.cms>). The Times of India. India. May 24, 2006. Archived from the original (<http://timesofindia.indiatimes.com/articleshow/1550477.cms>) on October 27, 2007. Retrieved May 29, 2014.
27. "Bin Laden claims responsibility for 9/11" (<https://www.cbc.ca/news/world/bin-laden-claims-responsibility-for-9-11-1.513654>). CBC (Canada). October 29, 2004.
28. "America's day of terror" (http://news.bbc.co.uk/1/hi/english/static/in_depth/americas/2001/day_of_terror/). BBC News. September 11, 2001. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20110527033533/http://news.bbc.co.uk/1/hi/english/static/in_depth/americas/2001/day_of_terror/) from the original on May 27, 2011. Retrieved May 30, 2011.

29. "Depuis le 11-Septembre, la menace terroriste est devenue permanente" (<http://www.lemonde.fr/web/article/0,1-0@2-3222,36-687756@51-641954,0.html>). Archived (<https://archive.today/20120804050128/http://www.lemonde.fr/web/article/0,1-0@2-3222,36-687756@51-641954,0.html>) from the original on August 4, 2012. Retrieved May 29, 2014.
30. "Sept. 11: One Year Later" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20071212142424/http://www.dw-world.de/dw/article/0%2C2144%2C623034%2C00.html>). Deutsche Welle – Dw-world.de. May 2, 2003. Archived from the original (<http://www.dw-world.de/dw/article/0,2144,623034,00.html>) on December 12, 2007. Retrieved May 29, 2014.
31. "Bin Laden tape shown days before 9/11 anniversary" (<http://www.abc.net.au/worldtoday/content/2006/s1736235.htm>). Australia: ABC. Retrieved May 30, 2011.
32. "Korean's Memories of 9/11 Still Fresh Five Years On" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20061012164148/http://english.chosun.com/w21data/html/news/200609/200609110002.html>). The Chosun Ilbo. Archived from the original (<http://english.chosun.com/w21data/html/news/200609/200609110002.htm>) on October 12, 2006. Retrieved May 29, 2014.
33. Feuer, Alan (June 5, 2006). "500 Conspiracy Buffs Meet to Seek the Truth of 9/11" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2006/06/05/us/05conspiracy.html>). The New York Times. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110512222259/http://www.nytimes.com/2006/06/05/us/05conspiracy.html>) from the original on May 12, 2011. Retrieved May 5, 2009.
34. Griffin, David Ray (2007). Debunking 9/11 Debunking: An Answer to Popular Mechanics and Other Defenders of the Official Conspiracy Theory. Olive Branch Press. ISBN 978-1-56656-686-5.
35. The following news media state that the movement is being known as or being called "9/11 Truth movement":
 - Hayes, Christopher (December 10, 2006). "The 9/11 Truth Movement's Dangers" (<http://www.cbsnews.com/stories/2006/12/08/opinion/main2242387.shtml>). CBS News. Retrieved June 8, 2009.
 - Barber, Peter (June 7, 2008). "The truth is out there" (<https://www.ft.com/cms/s/2/8d66e778-3128-11dd-ab22-000077b07658.html>). Financial Times. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090603164130/http://www.ft.com/cms/s/2/8d66e778-3128-11dd-ab22-000077b07658.html>) from the original on June 3, 2009. Retrieved May 23, 2009. "An army of sceptics, collectively described as the 9/11 Truth movement"
 - Powell, Michael (September 8, 2006). "The Disbelievers" (https://web.archive.org/web/20100723110251/http://seattletimes.nwsourc.com/html/nationworld/2003250424_911conspire09.html). The Washington Post. Archived from the original (http://seattletimes.nwsourc.com/html/nationworld/2003250424_911conspire09.html) on July 23, 2010. Retrieved June 13, 2010. "The loose agglomeration known as the '9/11 Truth Movement'"
 - Barry, Ellen (September 10, 2006). "9/11 Conspiracy Theorists Gather in N.Y." (<https://articles.latimes.com/2006/sep/10/nation/na-conspiracy10>) Los Angeles Times. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090617183636/http://articles.latimes.com/2006/sep/10/nation/na-conspiracy10>) from the original on June 17, 2009. Retrieved May 30, 2009. "a group known as the 9/11 Truth Movement"
 - Hunt, H.E. (November 19, 2008). "The 30 greatest conspiracy theories — part 1" (<https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/newsttopics/howaboutthat/3483477/The-30-greatest-conspiracy-theories-part-1.html>). The Daily Telegraph. London. Retrieved May 30, 2009. "A large group of people — collectively called the 9/11 Truth Movement"
 - Kay, Jonathan (April 25, 2009). "Richard Gage: 9/11 truther extraordinaire" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090605070241/http://www.nationalpost.com/story.html?id=1532386>). National Post. Archived from the original (<https://nationalpost.com/story.html?id=1532386>) on June 5, 2009. Retrieved May 29, 2014. "The '9/11 Truth Movement,' as it is now commonly called"
36. Summers, Anthony; Swan, Robbyn (2011). The Eleventh Day: The Full Story of 9/11 and Osama bin Laden (<https://archive.org/details/eleventhdayfulls0000summ>). New York: Ballantine. p. 93 (<https://archive.org/details/eleventhdayfulls0000summ/page/93>). ISBN 978-1-4000-6659-9.

37. Summers, Anthony; Swan, Robbyn (2011). The Eleventh Day: The Full Story of 9/11 and Osama bin Laden (<https://archive.org/details/eleventhdayfulls0000summ>). New York: Ballantine. p. 95 (<https://archive.org/details/eleventhdayfulls0000summ/page/95>). ISBN 978-1-4000-6659-9.
38. "German Protestors Marked 9/11 by Denouncing "Inside Job," "Reichstag Fire" Weekly Standard September 21, 2010" (<http://www.weeklystandard.com/blogs/german-protestors-marked-911-denouncing-inside-job-reichstag-fire>). Weeklystandard.com. September 21, 2010. Archived (<https://archive.today/20130209171015/http://www.weeklystandard.com/blogs/german-protestors-marked-911-denouncing-inside-job-reichstag-fire>) from the original on February 9, 2013. Retrieved October 15, 2010.
39. Knight, Peter (2008). "Outrageous Conspiracy Theories: Popular and Official Responses to 9/11 in Germany and the United States". New German Critique. 35: 165–93. doi:10.1215/0094033X-2007-024 (<https://doi.org/10.1215%2F0094033X-2007-024>). "Although immensely popular in Europe (and soon translated into Arabic), these early conspiracy accounts were treated by the U.S. media with either bafflement or amusement and were dismissed by the U.S. government as the product of anti-Americanism."
40. Johnson, Ian (September 29, 2003). "Conspiracy Theories about Sept. 11 Get Hearing in Germany" (<https://www.wsj.com/articles/SB106479068042179400>). The Wall Street Journal.
41. Bush, George Walker (November 10, 2001). "Remarks by the President To United Nations General Assembly" (<https://georgewbush-whitehouse.archives.gov/news/releases/2001/11/20011110-3.html>). White House.
42. Hagan, Joe (March 27, 2011). "How Radio Host Alex Jones Has Cornered the Bipartisan Paranoia Market" (<https://nymag.com/news/media/alex-jones-2011-4/>). New York Magazine. Retrieved May 30, 2011.
43. "NIST's Investigation of the Sept. 11 World Trade Center Disaster – Frequently Asked Questions" (http://wtc.nist.gov/pubs/factsheets/faqs_8_2006.htm). Wtc.nist.gov. Retrieved May 30, 2011.
44. "The Top September 11 Conspiracy Theories" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110228104436/http://www.america.gov/st/pubs-english/2006/September/20060828133846esnamfuaK0.2676355.html>). Bureau of International Information Programs, U.S. Department of State. September 16, 2006. Archived from the original (<https://www.america.gov/st/pubs-english/2006/September/20060828133846esnamfuaK0.2676355.html>) on February 28, 2011.
45. Bush, George W. (2009). The National Security Strategy of the United States of America (March 2006). Wordclay. p. 10. ISBN 978-1-60037-587-3.
46. "Al-Qaeda accuses Iran of 9/11 lie" (http://news.bbc.co.uk/2/hi/middle_east/7361414.stm). BBC News. April 22, 2008. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20110511123743/http://news.bbc.co.uk/2/hi/middle_east/7361414.stm) from the original on May 11, 2011. Retrieved May 30, 2011.
47. "USA Today" (https://www.usatoday.com/news/world/2008-04-22-al-qaeda-tape_N.htm). April 22, 2008. Retrieved October 15, 2010.
48. Michael, Maggie (September 11, 2001). "Al-Qaeda No 2 accuses Iran of 9/11 conspiracy theory" (<http://web.archive.org/web/20100926221502/http://news.scotsman.com/world/AlQaeda-No-2-accuses-Iran.4009088.jp>). The Scotsman. UK. Archived from the original (<http://news.scotsman.com/world/AlQaeda-No-2-accuses-Iran.4009088.jp>) on September 26, 2010. Retrieved May 30, 2011.
49. "Al Qaeda No. 2 Accuses Iran of Spreading 9/11 Conspiracy Rumor" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20080924071715/http://www.foxnews.com/story/0,2933,352066,00.html>). Fox News. April 22, 2008. Archived from the original (<http://www.foxnews.com/story/0,2933,352066,00.html>) on September 24, 2008. Retrieved May 30, 2011.
50. Lee Keath (April 23, 2008). "Al Qaeda audiotape blisters Iran over who executed 9/11" (<http://www.sfgate.com/cgi-bin/article.cgi?f=/c/a/2008/04/23/MN4U109VEJ.DTL&type=printable>). San Francisco Chronicle. Retrieved May 30, 2011.

51. "Al-Qaida No. 2 says 9/11 theory propagated by Iran" (https://web.archive.org/web/20090918035430/http://www.boston.com/news/world/middleeast/articles/2008/04/22/al_qaida_no_2_says_group_still_targeting_the_west/). Archived from the original (https://www.boston.com/news/world/middleeast/articles/2008/04/22/al_qaida_no_2_says_group_still_targeting_the_west/) on September 18, 2009. Retrieved May 29, 2014.
52. Wolf, Jim (September 2, 2006). "U.S rebuts 9/11 homegrown conspiracy theories" (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2006/09/02/AR2006090200527.html>). Reuters.
53. Grossman, Lev (September 3, 2006). "Why The 9/11 Conspiracies Won't Go Away" (<http://www.time.com/time/magazine/article/0,9171,1531304-1,00.html>). Time Magazine.
54. Hunt, H. E. (November 19, 2008). "The 30 greatest conspiracy theories The Telegraph November 19, 2008" (<https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/newstoppers/howaboutthat/3483477/The-30-greatest-conspiracy-theories-part-1.html>). The Daily Telegraph. London. Retrieved July 20, 2009.
55. "Audit Bureau of Circulations Ltd" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090501233741/http://www.nmauk.co.uk/nma/do/live/factsAndFigures>). Nmauk.co.uk. February 23, 2009. Archived from the original (<http://www.nmauk.co.uk/nma/do/live/factsAndFigures>) on May 1, 2009. Retrieved July 20, 2009.
56. "Neue Videos vom 11. September aufgetaucht – New videos of September 11 released" (<http://www.bild.de/BILD/news/2010/09/10/neue-videos-911-aufgetaucht/terror-anschlaege-world-trade-center.html>). Bild. September 10, 2010. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20100918084717/http://www.bild.de/BILD/news/2010/09/10/neue-videos-911-aufgetaucht/terror-anschlaege-world-trade-center.html>) from the original on September 18, 2010. Retrieved September 18, 2010. "Es heißt, die Organisation besitzt eine Affinität zu Verschwörungstheorien. [It is said that the organization is sympathetic to conspiracy theories.] ... Freigegeben wurden die Informationen nur, weil das "International Center for 9/11 Studies" geklagt hatte. [The information was released only because the "International Center for 9/11 Studies" complained.] ... Augenzeugen hatten immer wieder von Explosionen berichtet, bevor die beiden Türme zusammenbrachen. [Eyewitnesses have repeatedly reported explosions before the towers collapsed.] Experten halten diese Theorien für unsinnig. [Experts believe these theories are nonsense.]"
57. "Neue Videos vom 11. September -New videos of September 11" (<https://www.faz.net/artikel/C30721/terroranschlaege-neue-videos-vom-11-september-30306648.html>). Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung. September 10, 2010. Retrieved September 12, 2010. "Das private "International Center for 9/11 Studies" hatte erfolgreich auf Herausgabe der Videodokumente geklagt und sie nun auf seinem eigenen Kanal bei Youtube veröffentlicht. [The private "International Center for 9/11 Studies" had successfully sued for release of the videos, and they have now published them on their own channel on Youtube.] Das "National Institute of Standards and Technology" ... hatte die Videos ... jahrelang nicht freigegeben. [The "National Institute of Standards and Technology" ... had not released the videos for years.] ... Die bislang unbekanntenen Videos sollen als weitere Beweise für eine Verschwörung rund um den 11. September dienen. [The previously unknown videos are intended to serve as further evidence of a conspiracy surrounding September 11.] ... Eine Vielzahl der nun neu veröffentlichten Videos zeigt Bilder vom WTC7. [Many of the newly released videos show pictures of WTC7.]"
58. Wysling, Andres (September 7, 2010). "9/11 in Nahaufnahme –9/11 up close" (http://www.nzz.ch/nachrichten/panorama/911_1.7466811.html). Neue Zürcher Zeitung. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20100910092900/http://www.nzz.ch/nachrichten/panorama/911_1.7466811.html) from the original on September 10, 2010. Retrieved September 18, 2010.
59. Patrick, Maggy (May 2, 2011). "Osama Bin Laden's Death Greeted With Celebration, Anger" (<https://abcnews.go.com/International/osama-bin-ladens-death-celebration-relief-globe/story?id=13511120>). ABC World News. Retrieved May 3, 2011.
60. Baer, Susan (May 2, 2011). "Report of bin Laden's death spurs questions from conspiracy theorists" (https://www.washingtonpost.com/lifestyle/style/report-of-bin-ladens-death-spurs-questions-from-conspiracy-theorists/2011/05/02/AF90ZjBF_story.html). The Washington Post. Retrieved May 30, 2011.
61. Stahl, Jeremy. "Why Trutherism Lives On The 9/11 conspiracy movement has faded, but the conspiracy theory will never die" (<http://www.slate.com/id/2302853/>). Slate. September 9, 2011

62. Kay, Jonathan (February 9, 2010). "Black Helicopters Over Nashville" (<http://www.newsweek.com/id/233331/page/2>). Newsweek. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20100213061042/http://www.newsweek.com/id/233331/page/2>) from the original on February 13, 2010. Retrieved March 14, 2010.
63. Weigel, David (April 25, 2011). "You're All Nuts! How America became the land of Truthers, Triggers, Birthers, and Dan Brown fans" (<http://www.slate.com/id/2292081/pagenum/all/#p2>). Slate.com. Retrieved May 30, 2011.
64. "The Unofficial Theory" (http://www.cbc.ca/fifth/2009-2010/the_unofficial_story/) (Flash video, only available in Canada, no transcript). Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. November 27, 2009. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20091129081638/http://www.cbc.ca/fifth/2009-2010/the_unofficial_story/) from the original on November 29, 2009. Retrieved November 30, 2009.
65. "Michael Meacher: This war on terrorism is bogus Politics" (<https://www.theguardian.com/politics/2003/sep/06/september11.iraq>). The Guardian. London. December 4, 2003. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090715133257/http://www.guardian.co.uk/politics/2003/sep/06/september11.iraq>) from the original on July 15, 2009. Retrieved July 20, 2009.
66. MacAskill, Ewen (September 6, 2003). "Meacher sparks fury over claims on September 11 and Iraq war Politics" (<https://www.theguardian.com/politics/2003/sep/06/uk.iraq>). The Guardian. London. Retrieved July 20, 2009.
67. Poteshman, Allen M. (2006). "Unusual Option Market Activity and the Terrorist Attacks of September 11, 2001". The Journal of Business. 79 (4): 1703. doi:10.1086/503645 (<https://doi.org/10.1086%2F503645>). S2CID 153626942 (<https://api.semanticscholar.org/CorpusID:153626942>).
68. "Unusual Option Market Activity and the Terrorist Attacks of September 11, 2001", Allen M. Poteshman The Journal of Business Vol. 79, No. 4 (July 2006), pp. 1703–1726
69. Blackhurst, Chris (October 14, 2001). "Mystery of terror 'insider dealers' " (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110310025104/http://www.independent.co.uk/news/business/news/mystery-of-terror-insider-dealers-631325.html>). The Independent. London. Archived from the original (<https://www.independent.co.uk/news/business/news/mystery-of-terror-insider-dealers-631325.html>) on March 10, 2011.
70. "September 11 Put Call" (<http://www.snopes.com/rumors/putcall.asp>). Snopes. December 11, 2005. Retrieved May 12, 2017.
71. "SEC asks Goldman, Lehman for data". Bloomberg News. September 20, 2001.
72. "Profiting From Disaster?" (<http://www.cbsnews.com/stories/2001/09/19/eveningnews/main311834.shtml>). CBS News – 60 Minutes. September 19, 2001. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20100924195744/http://www.cbsnews.com/stories/2001/09/19/eveningnews/main311834.shtml>) from the original on September 24, 2010. Retrieved October 15, 2010.
73. "Final Report of the National Commission on Terrorist Attacks Upon the United States" (<http://govinfo.library.unt.edu/911/report/911Report.pdf>) (PDF). 9-11commission.gov. July 22, 2004. p. 172. Retrieved July 20, 2015.
74. "Final Report of the National Commission on Terrorist Attacks Upon the United States" (<http://govinfo.library.unt.edu/911/report/911Report.pdf>) (PDF). 9-11commission.gov. July 22, 2004. p. 499. Retrieved July 20, 2015.
75. Molé, P. (2006). "9/11 Conspiracy Theories: The 9/11 Truth Movement Perspective" (<http://www.skeptic.com/eskeptic/06-09-11>). ESkeptic. Vol. 12 no. 4. Altadena, California: The Skeptics Society. ISSN 1556-5696 (<https://www.worldcat.org/issn/1556-5696>). Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090606001336/http://www.skeptic.com/eskeptic/06-09-11>) from the original on June 6, 2009. Retrieved June 2, 2009.
76. David Aaronovitch (April 29, 2009). "9/11 conspiracy theories: The truth is out there ... just not on the internet" (http://women.timesonline.co.uk/tol/life_and_style/women/the_way_we_live/article6187493.ece). The Times. London. Retrieved September 6, 2009.
77. Dunbar & Reagan 2011, p. 33.
78. Dunbar & Reagan 2011, p. 32.

79. 9/11: The Conspiracy Files (http://news.bbc.co.uk/2/hi/programmes/conspiracy_files/6160775.stm) (Television production). BBC News. February 18, 2007. Retrieved January 1, 2010.
80. Dunbar & Reagan 2011, p. 38.
81. Summers, Anthony; Swan, Robbyn (2011). The Eleventh Day: The Full Story of 9/11 and Osama bin Laden (<https://archive.org/details/eleventhdayfulls0000summ/page/123>). New York: Ballantine. pp. 123– (<https://archive.org/details/eleventhdayfulls0000summ/page/123>). ISBN 978-1-4000-6659-9.
82. Greenberg, Richard. "The 9/11 Lie that Won't Die" (<https://www.jta.org/2006/08/31/lifestyle/the-911-lie-that-wont-die>). JTA. Retrieved November 13, 2019.
83. Were Israelis Detained on Sept. 11 Spies? (<https://abcnews.go.com/amp/2020/story?id=123885>) ABC News June 21, 2002
84. Jim Dwyer (September 2, 2006). "2 U.S. Reports Seek to Counter Conspiracy Theories About 9/11" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2006/09/02/nyregion/02conspiracy.html>). The New York Times. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110512221337/http://www.nytimes.com/2006/09/02/nyregion/02conspiracy.html>) from the original on May 12, 2011. Retrieved April 30, 2009.
85. Dean, Suzanne (April 10, 2006). "Physicist says heat substance felled WTC" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090510002116/http://www.deseretnews.com/article/1%2C5143%2C635198488%2C00.html>). Deseret Morning News. Archived from the original (<http://www.deseretnews.com/article/1,5143,635198488,00.html>) on May 10, 2009. Retrieved May 7, 2009.
86. Barber, Peter (July 8, 2008). "The truth is out there" (<https://www.ft.com/cms/s/2/8d66e778-3128-11d1d-ab22-000077b07658.html>). Financial Times. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090603164130/http://www.ft.com/cms/s/2/8d66e778-3128-11d1d-ab22-000077b07658.html>) from the original on June 3, 2009. Retrieved May 23, 2009.
87. Brent Blanchard (February 2002). "A History of Explosive Demolition in America". Proceedings of the Annual Conference on Explosives and Blasting Technique. International Society of Explosives Engineers. pp. 27–44. ISSN 0732-619X (<https://www.worldcat.org/issn/0732-619X>).
88. "9/11 conspiracy theories" (<https://www.bbc.co.uk/news/magazine-14665953>). BBC Magazine. August 28, 2011
89. Thomas, Dave (July–August 2011). "The 9/11 Truth Movement: The Top Conspiracy Theory, a Decade Later" (https://web.archive.org/web/20120923074425/http://www.csicop.org/si/show/the_9_11_truth_movement_the_top_conspiracy_theory_a_decade_later). Skeptical Inquirer. 35 (4): 34–40. Archived from the original (http://www.csicop.org/si/show/the_9_11_truth_movement_the_top_conspiracy_theory_a_decade_later/) on September 23, 2012. Retrieved September 11, 2012.
90. "9/11 Conspiracy Theorists Thriving" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20071224135836/http://www.cbsnews.com/stories/2006/08/06/ap/national/mainD8JB6LTG0.shtml>). CBS News. August 6, 2006. Archived from the original (<http://www.cbsnews.com/stories/2006/08/06/ap/national/mainD8JB6LTG0.shtml>) on December 24, 2007. Retrieved July 12, 2009.
91. Bažant, Zdenek P.; Verdure, Mathieu (2007). "Mechanics of Progressive Collapse: Learning from World Trade Center and Building Demolitions". Journal of Engineering Mechanics. 133 (3): 308–19. doi:10.1061/(ASCE)0733-9399(2007)133:3(308) (<https://doi.org/10.1061%2F%28ASCE%290733-9399%282007%29133%3A3%28308%29>). "As generally accepted by the community of specialists in structural mechanics and structural engineering (though not by a few outsiders claiming a conspiracy with planted explosives), the failure scenario was as follows..."
92. Gravois, John (June 23, 2006). "Professors of Paranoia?" (<http://chronicle.com/free/v52/i42/42a01001.htm>). The Chronicle of Higher Education. Retrieved September 26, 2009.
93. Asquith, Christina (September 7, 2006). "Conspiracies Continue to Abound Surrounding 9/11: On the Eve of the Fifth Anniversary, a Group of Professors Say the Attacks Were an 'Inside Job'" (<http://diverseeducation.com/article/6337/>). Diverse Issues in Higher Education. 23 (15).

94. Barter, Sheila (September 13, 2001). "How the World Trade Center fell" (<http://news.bbc.co.uk/2/hi/americas/1540044.stm>). BBC News. Retrieved December 2, 2009. "But steel melts, and 24,000 gallons (91,000 litres) of aviation fluid melted the steel. Nothing is designed or will be designed to withstand that fire."
95. Samuel, Eugenie; Damian Carrington (September 12, 2001). "Design choice for towers saved lives" (<https://www.newscientist.com/article/dn1281>). New Scientist. Retrieved December 2, 2009.
96. "NCSTAR 1. Final Report on the Collapse of the World Trade Center Towers" (<http://wtc.nist.gov/NCSSTAR1/PDF/NCSTAR%201.pdf>) (PDF). NIST. September 2005. p. 129. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20091108202443/http://wtc.nist.gov/NCSTAR1/PDF/NCSTAR%201.pdf>) (PDF) from the original on November 8, 2009. Retrieved December 1, 2009.
97. "Tehran fire: Many feared dead as high-rise collapses" (<https://www.bbc.com/news/world-middle-east-38675628>). BBC. January 19, 2017. Retrieved January 19, 2017.
98. Bengali, Shashank; Mostaghim, Ramin (January 19, 2017). "50 firefighters killed in Iran as burning high-rise collapses" (<https://latimes.com/world/la-fg-iran-high-rise-20170119-story.html>). Los Angeles Times. Retrieved January 19, 2017.
99. "Blazing building collapses in Sao Paulo" (<https://www.reuters.com/news/picture/blazing-building-collapses-in-sao-paulo-idUSRTS1PEAM>). Reuters. Retrieved May 1, 2018.
00. "Brazil fire: São Paulo building collapses in huge blaze" (<https://www.bbc.com/news/world-latin-america-43960778>). BBC News. Retrieved May 1, 2018.
01. Prengaman, Peter; Penner, Andre. "Building in Sao Paulo collapses in fire; at least 1 dead" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180507202016/http://www.bostonglobe.com/news/world/2018/05/01/building-sao-paulo-collapses-fire-least-dead/WbrPzmlOXTfqpCllidudKP/story.html>). The Boston Globe. Archived from the original (<https://www.bostonglobe.com/news/world/2018/05/01/building-sao-paulo-collapses-fire-least-dead/WbrPzmlOXTfqpCllidudKP/story.html>) on May 7, 2018. Retrieved May 1, 2018.
02. Bohone, Flavia. "Blazing building collapses in Sao Paulo; one dead, three missing" (<https://www.yahoo.com/news/blazing-building-collapses-sao-paulo-1-dead-3-094024949.html>). Yahoo!. Retrieved May 1, 2018.
03. Dilorenzo, Sarah; Prengaman, Peter. "'Occupied' Sao Paulo high rise collapses amid fire, 1 dead" (https://www.washingtonpost.com/world/the_americas/building-in-sao-paulo-collapses-during-fire-victims-unknown/2018/05/01/0d7f5192-4d17-11e8-85c1-9326c4511033_story.html). The Washington Post. Retrieved May 1, 2018.
04. "Popular Mechanics" (https://web.archive.org/web/20080329153037/http://www.popularmechanics.com/technology/military_law/1227842.html?do=print). Popular Mechanics. Archived from the original (http://www.popularmechanics.com/technology/military_law/1227842.html?do=print) on March 29, 2008. Retrieved July 20, 2009.
05. Henley, Jon (April 12, 2002). "US invented air attack on Pentagon, claims French book" (<https://www.theguardian.com/world/2002/apr/01/september11.france>). The Guardian. London. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090617172525/http://www.guardian.co.uk/world/2002/apr/01/september11.france>) from the original on June 17, 2009. Retrieved May 29, 2014.
06. Paul Reynolds (May 16, 2006). "Conspiracy theorists down but not out" (<http://news.bbc.co.uk/2/hi/americas/4990686.stm>). BBC News. Retrieved September 26, 2009.
07. Summers, Anthony; Swan, Robbyn (2011). The Eleventh Day: The Full Story of 9/11 and Osama bin Laden (<https://archive.org/details/eleventhdayfulls0000summ/page/111>). New York: Ballantine. pp. 111– (<https://archive.org/details/eleventhdayfulls0000summ/page/111>). ISBN 978-1-4000-6659-9.
08. "Pentagon Battered but Firm – 2001.1003" (http://www.architectureweek.com/2001/1003/news_1-1.html). ArchitectureWeek. October 3, 2001. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20110605050850/http://www.architectureweek.com/2001/1003/news_1-1.html) from the original on June 5, 2011. Retrieved May 30, 2011.

09. "The Pentagon Renovation Program" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20010804065429/http://www.dtic.mil/ref/html/Welcome/renovations.html>). Archived from the original (<http://www.dtic.mil/ref/html/Welco me/renovations.html>) on August 4, 2001.
10. "Searchers find Pentagon black boxes" (<https://www.usatoday.com/news/nation/2001/09/14/pentagon-fire.htm>). USA Today. September 14, 2001. Retrieved May 1, 2010.
11. Swift, Earl (September 9, 2002). "Inside the Pentagon on 9/11: The Call of Duty" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20040730074824/http://www.hamptonroads.com/pilotonline/special/911/pentagon3.html>). Pilot Online. Virginian-Pilot. Archived from the original (<http://hamptonroads.com/pilotonline/special/911/pentagon3.html>) on July 30, 2004. Retrieved May 1, 2010.
12. "Where were you when ..." (<http://wichita.bizjournals.com/wichita/stories/2002/09/09/story1.html>) Wichita Business Journal. September 6, 2002. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20100413203349/http://wichita.bizjournals.com/wichita/stories/2002/09/09/story1.html>) from the original on April 13, 2010. Retrieved May 1, 2010.
13. "On the ground at the Pentagon on Sept. 11" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20040526034459/http://msnbc.msn.com/id/3069699/>). MSNBC. September 28, 2001. Archived from the original (<https://msnbc.msn.com/id/3069699/>) on May 26, 2004. Retrieved May 1, 2010.
14. Kelly, Christopher C. (January 11, 2002). "Experts ID 184 Pentagon Fatalities" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20020815123251/http://www.armymedicine.army.mil/armymed/news/releases/afip.htm>). U.S. Army Medical Department. Archived from the original (<http://www.armymedicine.army.mil/armymed/news/releases/afip.htm>) on August 15, 2002. Retrieved May 7, 2010.
15. "The Top September 11 Conspiracy Theories" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090714061116/http://www.america.gov/st/webchat-english/2009/May/20060828133846esnamfuaK0.2676355.html>). America.gov. Archived from the original (<https://www.america.gov/st/webchat-english/2009/May/20060828133846esnamfuaK0.2676355.html>) on July 14, 2009. Retrieved July 20, 2009.
16. Summers, Anthony; Swan, Robbyn (2011). The Eleventh Day: The Full Story of 9/11 and Osama bin Laden (<https://archive.org/details/eleventhdayfulls0000summ>). New York: Ballantine. p. 112 (<https://archive.org/details/eleventhdayfulls0000summ/page/112>). ISBN 978-1-4000-6659-9.
17. Dunbar, D.; Reagan, B., eds. (2011). Debunking 9/11 Myths: Why conspiracy theories can't stand up to the facts. New York: Hearst. ISBN 978-1-58816-855-9. –[2006 edition] (<https://archive.org/details/debunking911myth00dunb>). Sterling Publishing Company, Inc. August 15, 2006. ISBN 978-1-58816-635-7.
18. McGreal, Chris (September 5, 2011). "September 11 conspiracy theories continue to abound" (<http://www.theguardian.com/world/2011/sep/05/september-11-conspiracy-theories>). the Guardian. London. Retrieved March 15, 2012.
19. Stahl, Jeremy (September 7, 2011). "The Theory vs. the Facts" (http://www.slate.com/articles/news_and_politics/trutherism/2011/09/the_theory_vs_the_facts.html). Slate. ISSN 1091-2339 (<https://www.worldcat.org/issn/1091-2339>). Retrieved March 15, 2012.
20. "US releases 9/11 Pentagon video" (<http://news.bbc.co.uk/2/hi/americas/4987716.stm>). BBC News. May 16, 2006.
21. "US releases 9/11 Pentagon tape" (http://news.bbc.co.uk/player/nol/newsid_4980000/newsid_4988000/4988038.stm?bw=nb&mp=rm&news=1&bbcws=1) (Video). BBC News. May 16, 2006. Retrieved May 5, 2011. "At first it's hard to make out the hijacked plane, but if one looks closely at the lower right-hand corner, the blurred white blob entering the frame appears to be the nose of the plane, skidding along the ground at high speed before crashing into the Pentagon, and not a missile. That adds to images from a second security camera, ten feet away, which show a white streak in the lower right-hand corner, then the explosion."
22. "Video of 9/11 plane hitting Pentagon is released" (<http://www.nbcnews.com/id/12818225>). NBC News. Associated Press. May 16, 2006. Retrieved May 5, 2011. "The airplane is a thin white blur on the video as it slams into the Pentagon at ground level."

23. Markon, Jerry (May 17, 2006). "Videos Released Of Plane Crashing Into Pentagon" (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2006/05/16/AR2006051600788.html>). The Washington Post. Retrieved May 5, 2011. "In one of the videos, [...] the plane shoots across the screen from the right, a silver speck low to the ground."
24. "In pictures: Pentagon crash" (<http://news.bbc.co.uk/2/hi/americas/1861977.stm>). BBC News. March 8, 2002. Retrieved May 6, 2011.
25. "US releases 9/11 Pentagon tape" (http://news.bbc.co.uk/player/nol/newsid_4980000/newsid_4988000/4988038.stm?bw=nb&mp=rm&news=1&bbcws=1) (Video). BBC News. May 16, 2006. Retrieved May 5, 2011. "[Conspiracy theorists] and other skeptics believe the new video does not answer any of their questions. [Michael Berger, 911 Truth Org:] Why did it take four and a half years to release more ambiguous frames that still do not prove the government's case definitively?"
26. "Programmes | Conspiracy Files | Q&A: What really happened" (http://news.bbc.co.uk/2/hi/programmes/conspiracy_files/6341851.stm#8). BBC News. February 16, 2007. Retrieved July 20, 2009.
27. "'Black box' from Pennsylvania crash found" (<http://edition.cnn.com/2001/US/09/13/penn.attack/>). CNN. September 13, 2001. Retrieved July 19, 2009.
28. O'Toole, James; Tom Gibb; Cindi Lash (September 14, 2001). "Flight data recorder may hold clues to suicide flight" (<http://www.post-gazette.com/headlines/20010914scene0914p2.asp>). Pittsburgh Post-Gazette. Retrieved July 12, 2009.
29. "Flight 93" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090704084428/http://www.popularmechanics.com/science/defense/1227842.html?page=7>). Debunking the 9/11 Myths: Special Report. Popular Mechanics. March 2005. Archived from the original (<http://www.popularmechanics.com/science/defense/1227842.html?page=7>) on July 4, 2009. Retrieved July 12, 2009.
30. Carlin, John (August 13, 2002). "Unanswered questions" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090713012007/http://www.independent.co.uk/news/world/americas/unanswered-questions-the-mystery-of-flight-93-639770.html>). The Independent. London. Archived from the original (<https://www.independent.co.uk/news/world/americas/unanswered-questions-the-mystery-of-flight-93-639770.html>) on July 13, 2009. Retrieved July 12, 2009.
31. 60 Seconds: Ben Sliney (http://www.metro.co.uk/fame/interviews/article.html?in_article_id=20603&in_page_id=11) October 4, 2006
32. "9/11 Conspiracy Theories: The 9/11 Truth Movement in Perspective" (<http://www.skeptic.com/eskeptic/06-09-11>).
33. WCPO.com's Flight 93 Story (https://web.archive.org/web/20060720083200/http://blogs.scripps.com/wcpo/staff/2006/02/wcpocoms_flight_93_story.html) (Archived by the Wayback Machine)
34. Hamill, Sean D. (September 10, 2007). "Picture Made on 9/11 Takes a Toll on Photographer" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2007/09/10/us/10cnd-shanksville.html>). The New York Times. Retrieved March 30, 2010.
35. Steve Herrmann (October 27, 2006). "9/11 Conspiracy Theory, by Steve Hermann, BBC Editor" (http://www.bbc.co.uk/blogs/theeditors/2006/10/911_conspiracy_theory_1.html). BBC. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20100108134031/http://www.bbc.co.uk/blogs/theeditors/2006/10/911_conspiracy_theory_1.html) from the original on January 8, 2010. Retrieved January 28, 2010.
36. "Panoply of the Absurd" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110604163010/http://www.spiegel.de/international/spiegel/0%2C1518%2C265160-2%2C00.html>). Der Spiegel. September 23, 2001. Archived from the original (<http://www.spiegel.de/international/spiegel/0,1518,265160-2,00.html>) on June 4, 2011. Retrieved May 30, 2011.
37. Summers, Anthony; Swan, Robbyn (2011). The Eleventh Day: The Full Story of 9/11 and Osama bin Laden (<https://archive.org/details/eleventhdayfulls0000summ>). New York: Ballantine. ISBN 978-1-4000-6659-9.
38. Sack, Kevin. "After the Attacks: Missed Cues; Saudi May Have Been Suspected in Error, Officials Say" (<https://query.nytimes.com/gst/abstract.html?res=F2071FF63D5F0C758DDDA00894D9404482>) The New York Times, September 16, 2001.

39. "The Secret History of 9/11: Terrorist Threats Ignored" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20070703045949/http://www.cbc.ca/documentaries/secrethistory/timeline6.html>). Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. September 10, 2006. Archived from the original (<http://www.cbc.ca/documentaries/secrethistory/timeline6.html>) on July 3, 2007. Retrieved May 29, 2014.
40. "The Secret History of 9/11: Planning 9/11" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20071031102129/http://www.cbc.ca/documentaries/secrethistory/timeline5.html>). Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. September 10, 2006. Archived from the original (<http://www.cbc.ca/documentaries/secrethistory/timeline5.html>) on October 31, 2007. Retrieved May 29, 2014.
41. "Fareed Zakaria GPS Mexican Crisis; India Terror Attacks CNN Transcript December 7, 2008" (<http://transcripts.cnn.com/TRANSCRIPTS/0812/07/fzgps.01.html>). Transcripts.cnn.com. Retrieved July 20, 2009.
42. "Osama-Berlusconi? "Trappola giornalistica" " (http://www.corriere.it/politica/07_novembre_30/osama_berlusconi_cossiga_27f4ccee-9f55-11dc-8807-0003ba99c53b.shtml). Corriere della Sera. November 30, 2007. Retrieved June 15, 2009. "in prima linea quelli del centrosinistra italiano, sanno ormai bene che il disastroso attentato è stato pianificato e realizzato dalla Cia americana e dal Mossad [those at the forefront of the Italian center now know well that the disastrous attack was planned and carried out by the American CIA and Mossad]"
43. Cossiga, Francesco (April 9, 2006). "La Realta' Travisata Si teorizzano i complotti per non vedere" (tps://web.archive.org/web/20100919004558/http://archivio.lastampa.it/LaStampaArchivio/main/History/tmpl_viewObj.jsp?objid=7190957). La Stampa (in Italian). Archived from the original (http://archivio.lastampa.it/LaStampaArchivio/main/History/tmpl_viewObj.jsp?objid=7190957) on September 19, 2010. Retrieved February 16, 2011. "mi sembra improbabile anzi impossibile che l'11 settembre sia stato frutto di un complotto americano. [it seems unlikely, indeed impossible, that September 11 was the result of an American plot.]"
44. Sassoon, Donald (August 18, 2010). "Francesco Cossiga obituary" (<https://www.theguardian.com/world/2010/aug/18/francesco-cossiga-obituary>). The Guardian. London. Retrieved February 16, 2011.
45.
 - Foxman, Abraham, Jews and money, Palmgrave Macmillan, 2010, p. 41
 - ADL, "Unraveling Anti-Semitic 9/11 Conspiracy Theories", Detailed report, 2003. online (http://www.adl.org/anti_semitism/9-11conspiracytheories.pdf) Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20070308145444/http://www.adl.org/anti_semitism/9-11conspiracytheories.pdf) March 8, 2007, at the Wayback Machine
 - Burnett, Thom, Conspiracy Encyclopedia, Franz Steiner Verlag, 2006, p. 262
 - Olmsted, Kathryn, Real Enemies: Conspiracy Theories and American Democracy, World War I to 9/11, Oxford University Press US, 2011, p. 221
 - Atkins, Stephen, Holocaust denial as an international movement, ABC-CLIO, 2009, p. 173
46. "Conspiracy Theories About Jews and 9/11 Cause Dangerous Mutations in Global Anti-Semitism" (http://www.adl.org/presrele/asint_13/4346_13.htm). Adl.org. September 2, 2003. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20110525143344/http://www.adl.org/PresRele/ASInt_13/4346_13.htm) from the original on May 25, 2011. Retrieved May 30, 2011.
47. Palmer, Brian (September 6, 2011). "The Rise of "Truth" How did 9/11 conspiracism enter the mainstream? Slate Magazine September 6, 2011" (<http://www.slate.com/id/2302834/>). Slate.com. Retrieved June 4, 2014.
48. Cinnamon Stillwell (April 19, 2006). "The Truth About 9/11 Conspiracy Theories" (<http://www.sfgate.com/cgi-bin/article.cgi?file=/gate/archive/2006/04/19/cstillwell.DTL>). San Francisco Chronicle. Retrieved September 6, 2009.

49. "The 4,000 Jews Rumor: Rumor surrounding Sept. 11th proved untrue. Internet Archive – which appeared in the September 12 Internet edition of the "Jerusalem Post". It stated, "The Foreign Ministry in Jerusalem has so far received the names of 4,000 Israelis believed to have been in the areas of the World Trade Center and the Pentagon at the time of the attacks." (https://web.archive.org/web/20050408072925/http://usinfo.state.gov/media/Archive/2005/Jan/14-260933.html). Archived from the original (http://usinfo.state.gov/media/Archive/2005/Jan/14-260933.html) on April 8, 2005. Retrieved October 15, 2010.
50. Gary Rosenblatt (September 5, 2002). "The Mitzvah To Remember" (https://web.archive.org/web/20021010020906/http://www.thejewishweek.com/bottom/specialcontent.php3?artid=362). Archived from the original (http://www.thejewishweek.com/bottom/specialcontent.php3?artid=362) on October 10, 2002. Retrieved May 29, 2014.
51. "The Resuscitation of Anti-Semitism: An American Perspective: An Interview with Abraham Foxman" (http://www.jcpa.org/phas/phas-13.htm). Jcpa.org. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20110608060311/http://www.jcpa.org/phas/phas-13.htm) from the original on June 8, 2011. Retrieved May 30, 2011.
52. "The 4,000 Jews Rumor" (https://web.archive.org/web/20130810083338/http://www.america.gov/st/pubs-english/2007/November/20050114145729atlahtnevel0.1679041.html). Bureau of International Information Programs, U.S. Department of State. November 16, 2007. Archived from the original (https://www.america.gov/st/pubs-english/2007/November/20050114145729atlahtnevel0.1679041.html) on August 10, 2013. Retrieved September 6, 2009.
53. Cashman, Greer Fay (September 12, 2002). "Five Israeli victims remembered in capital" (https://archive.today/20021104190710/http://www.jpost.com/servlet/Satellite?pagename=JPost/A/JParticle/ShowFull&cid=1031666147075). The Jerusalem Post. The Jerusalem Post. p. 3. Archived from the original (http://www.jpost.com/servlet/Satellite?pagename=JPost/A/JParticle/ShowFull&cid=1031666147075) on November 4, 2002. Retrieved October 17, 2006.
54. Abraham H. Foxman (September 8, 2006). "9/11 Conspiracy Theories Take Root in Arab/Muslim World" (https://web.archive.org/web/20110604144105/http://www.adl.org/ADL_Opinions/Anti_Semitism_Arab/911_Conspiracies.htm). Adl.org -This article originally appeared in Jewish News Weekly of Northern California. Archived from the original (http://www.adl.org/ADL_Opinions/Anti_Semitism_Arab/911_Conspiracies.htm) on June 4, 2011. Retrieved May 30, 2011.
55. Rense Web Site Promotes Anti-Semitic Views (http://www.adl.org/main_Extremism/Rense_Web_Site.htm) March 17, 2009 Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20121027104746/http://www.adl.org/main_Extremism/Rense_Web_Site.htm) October 27, 2012, at the Wayback Machine
56. Pedro A. Sanjuan. The UN Gang. Doubleday, 2005. p. 165
57. "Conspiracies and catastrophe Winnipeg Free Press August 14, 2011" (http://www.winnipegfreepress.com/opinion/fyi/a-convincing-argument--4-127648388.html). Winnipegfreepress.com. Retrieved June 4, 2014.
58. Cahal Milmo (September 19, 2011). "Lloyd's insurer sues Saudi Arabia for 'funding 9/11 attacks' The Independent September 19, 2008" (https://www.independent.co.uk/news/uk/home-news/lloyds-insurer-sues-saudi-arabia-for-funding-911-attacks-2356857.html). Independent.co.uk. Retrieved June 4, 2014.
59. Paul Sperry (December 15, 2013). "Inside the Saudi 9/11 coverup" (https://nypost.com/2013/12/15/inside-the-saudi-911-coverup/). New York Post.
60. Justin Elliott (September 7, 2011). "The enduring mysteries of 9/11" (http://www.salon.com/2011/09/07/sept_11_unanswered_questions/). Salon.
61. Demirjian, Karoun (July 15, 2016). "Congress releases long-classified '28 pages' on alleged Saudi ties to 9/11" (https://www.washingtonpost.com/world/national-security/congress-releases-long-classified-28-pages-on-alleged-saudi-ties-to-911/2016/07/15/e8671fde-4ab1-11e6-bdb9-701687974517_story.html). The Washington Post. Retrieved July 15, 2016.

62. "28 Pages: Former Sen. Bob Graham and others urge the Obama administration to declassify redacted pages of a report that holds 9/11 secrets" (<http://www.cbsnews.com/news/60-minutes-911-classified-report-steve-kroft/>). CBS. April 10, 2016.
63. Weekend Live, Fox News, September 10, 2006 [url=https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=reQZT9Hzvt8]
64. Henley, Jon (April 1, 2002). "US invented air attack on Pentagon, claims French book" (<https://www.theguardian.com/world/2002/apr/01/september11.france>). The Guardian. ISSN 0261-3077 (<https://www.worldcat.org/issn/0261-3077>). Retrieved April 25, 2019.
65. The Great Derangement, Matt Taibbi, New York, 2009
66. Michael Powell (September 8, 2006). "WP: 9/11 conspiracy theories" (https://web.archive.org/web/20100723110251/http://seattletimes.nwsourc.com/html/nationworld/2003250424_911conspire09.html). MSNBC. Archived from the original (http://seattletimes.nwsourc.com/html/nationworld/2003250424_911conspire09.html) on July 23, 2010. Retrieved June 13, 2010.
67. "The Yoda of 9/11" (<http://www.phoenixnewtimes.com/2007-08-09/news/the-yoda-of-9-11/5>). Phoenix News. Phoenixnewtimes.com. p. 5. Retrieved July 20, 2009.
68. Peter Tatchell (September 12, 2007). "9/11 – the big cover-up?" (<https://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/2007/sep/12/911thebigcoverup>). London: Guardian News and Media, Ltd. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20100110223812/http://www.guardian.co.uk/commentisfree/2007/sep/12/911thebigcoverup>) from the original on January 10, 2010. Retrieved January 12, 2010.
69. Paul Zermekka (2006). The hidden history of 9-11-2001 (https://books.google.com/books?id=o9jo_In37aEC&q=9/11+coverup+debris+removal&pg=PA95). Elsevier JAI. pp. 94, 95. ISBN 978-0-7623-1305-1.
70. Families hear tape from hijacked Flight 93 (<http://archives.cnn.com/2002/US/04/18/rec.flight.93/index.html>) April 18, 2002 Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090922042419/http://archives.cnn.com/2002/US/04/18/rec.flight.93/index.html>) September 22, 2009, at the Wayback Machine
71. "United 93: full transcript" (<https://www.theguardian.com/world/2006/apr/13/usa.september11>). The Guardian. London. April 13, 2006. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090825215713/http://www.guardian.co.uk/world/2006/apr/13/usa.september11>) from the original on August 25, 2009. Retrieved September 20, 2009.
72. Bunch, William (October 28, 2004). "9/11 "black box" cover-up at Ground Zero?" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20091124011925/http://www.pnionline.com/dnblog/extra/archives/001139.html>). Philadelphia Daily News. Philadelphia Newspapers, LLC. Archived from the original (<http://www.pnionline.com/dnblog/extra/archives/001139.html>) on November 24, 2009. Retrieved November 6, 2009.
73. Swanson, Gail (2003). Dennis Fisin (ed.). Ground Zero, A collection of personal accounts. TRAC Team.
74. "Bin Laden says he wasn't behind attacks CNN September 17, 2001" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090707090738/http://archives.cnn.com/2001/US/09/16/inv.binladen.denial/index.html>). CNN. September 17, 2001. Archived from the original (<http://archives.cnn.com/2001/US/09/16/inv.binladen.denial/index.html>) on July 7, 2009. Retrieved July 20, 2009.
75. U.S. urged to detail origin of tape (<https://www.theguardian.com/september11/story/0,11209,619188,00.html>) Guardian December 15, 2001.
76. "Bin-Laden-Video: Falschübersetzung als Beweismittel?" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20021218105636/http://www.wdr.de/tv/monitor/beitraege.phtml?id=379>) WDR, Das Erste, MONITOR Nr. 485 am December 20, 2001
77. Looking Glass News. "Osama Tape Appears Fake, Experts Conclude" (<http://www.lookingglassnews.org/viewstory.php?storyid=6233>). Looking Glass News. Retrieved March 23, 2010.
78. "Timeline: the al-Qaida tapes The Guardian Unlimited" (<https://www.theguardian.com/alqaida/page/0,12643,839823,00.html>). The Guardian. London. Retrieved July 20, 2009.

79. "Bin Laden urges Europe to quit Afghanistan Reuters UK November 29, 2007" (<http://uk.reuters.com/article/topNews/idUKL2912911920071129?pageNumber=2&virtualBrandChannel=0>). Uk.reuters.com. November 29, 2007. Retrieved July 20, 2009.
80. "U.S. says voice on Qaeda tape appears to be bin Laden" (<http://uk.reuters.com/article/idUKWAT00851220071129>). Reuters. November 29, 2007. Retrieved September 15, 2009.
81. "We left out nuclear targets, for now" (<https://www.theguardian.com/world/2003/mar/04/alqaida.terrorism>). The Guardian. London. March 3, 2003. Retrieved July 11, 2012.
82. Shenon, Philip. "An Explosive New 9/11 Charge" (<http://www.thedailybeast.com/articles/2011/08/11/september-11th-anniversary-richard-clarkes-explosive-cia-cover-up-charge.html>). The Daily Beast. August 11, 2011
83. Andrew J. Bacevich (2002). American Empire: The Realities and Consequences of U.S. Diplomacy. Cambridge, MA: Harvard University Press. p. 44.
84. Taibbi, Matt (2008). The Great Derangement (<https://archive.org/details/greatderangement00taib/page/9>). New York: Spiegel & Grau. pp. 9–12, 148–166 (<https://archive.org/details/greatderangement00taib/page/9>). ISBN 978-0-385-52034-8.
85. Connolly, Kate (November 20, 2003). "Telegraph, Nov 20, 2003" (<https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/worldnews/europe/germany/1447232/German-Sept-11-theory-stokes-anti-US-feeling.html>). The Daily Telegraph. Retrieved July 20, 2009.
86. "If US Could Create 'Avatar', It Could Fake 9/11 Attacks: Mahathir Jakarta Times January 21, 2010" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20100722015907/http://www.thejakartaglobe.com/home/if-us-could-create-avatar-it-could-fake-911-attacks-mahathir/354031>). Jakarta Globe. Archived from the original (<http://thejakartaglobe.com/home/if-us-could-create-avatar-it-could-fake-911-attacks-mahathir/354031>) on July 22, 2010. Retrieved October 15, 2010.
87. 9/11 Commission Report (<http://avalon.law.yale.edu/sept11/911Report.pdf>) pp. 334–336
88. Arshad Zaman (May 27, 2010). "On conspiracy theories" (<http://tribune.com.pk/story/16693/on-conspiracy-theories/>). The Express Tribune.
89. "U.S. Military Wanted to Provoke War With Cuba" (<https://abcnews.go.com/US/story?id=92662&page=1>). ABC News. May 1, 2001. Retrieved January 21, 2012.
90. Roff, Peter (September 9, 2009). "Charlie Sheen Joins the 'Truther' 9/11 Conspiracy Theory Fringe" (<https://www.usnews.com/blogs/peter-roff/2009/09/09/charlie-sheen-joins-the-truther-911-conspiracy-theory-fringe.html>). Retrieved September 19, 2009.
91. Powell, M. (September 9, 2006). "9/11 conspiracy theorists multiply" (https://web.archive.org/web/20140308001143/http://seattletimes.com/html/nationworld/2003250424_911conspire09.html). The Seattle Times. Archived from the original (http://seattletimes.nwsourc.com/html/nationworld/2003250424_911conspire09.html) on March 8, 2014. Retrieved September 21, 2009.
92. Manjoo, Farhad (June 27, 2006). "The 9/11 deniers" (https://web.archive.org/web/20061218041517/http://www.salon.com/ent/feature/2006/06/27/911_conspiracies/). Salon. Archived from the original (http://www.salon.com/ent/feature/2006/06/27/911_conspiracies/) on December 18, 2006.
93. "Conspiracy theories: The Speculation" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20031101052401/http://www.cbc.ca/fifth/conspiracytheories/speculation.html>). CBC. October 29, 2003. Archived from the original (<http://www.cbc.ca/fifth/conspiracytheories/speculation.html>) on November 1, 2003. Retrieved May 29, 2014.
94. Feuer, Alan (June 5, 2006). "500 Conspiracy Buffs Meet to Seek the Truth of 9/11" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2006/06/05/us/05conspiracy.html>). The New York Times.
95. Harvey, Adam (September 3, 2006). "9/11 myths busted" (<http://www.news.com.au/couriermail/story/0,23739,20341165-5007191,00.html>). The Sunday Mail (Qld).
96. Curiel, Jonathan (September 3, 2006). "The Conspiracy to Rewrite 9/11" (<http://www.sfgate.com/cgi-bin/article.cgi?f=/c/a/2006/09/03/INGR0KRCBA1.DTL>). The San Francisco Chronicle. Retrieved June 2, 2009.

97. Barber, Peter (June 7, 2008). "The truth is out there" (<https://www.ft.com/cms/s/2/8d66e778-3128-11dd-ab22-000077b07658.html>). Financial Times. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090603164130/http://www.ft.com/cms/s/2/8d66e778-3128-11dd-ab22-000077b07658.html>) from the original on June 3, 2009. Retrieved May 23, 2009. "an army of sceptics, collectively described as the 9/11 Truth movement"
98. "Decade of Deceit: Anti-Semitic 9/11 Conspiracy Theories 10 Years Later" (<https://www.adl.org/sites/default/files/documents/assets/pdf/anti-semitism/united-states/911-conspiracy-theories-2011-8-30.pdf>) (PDF).
99. "ADL: Anti-Semitic 9/11 theories still strong 10 years on" (<http://www.jpost.com/International/ADL-Anti-Semitic-911-theories-still-strong-10-years-on>). The Jerusalem Post | JPost.com. Retrieved December 14, 2017.
00. Jennifer Harper (February 22, 2010). "Explosive News" (http://www.washingtontimes.com/news/2010/feb/22/inside-the-beltway-70128635/?feat=home_columns). The Washington Times.
01. Sean Nicholls (November 25, 2009). "Utzon's son signs up for September 11 conspiracy theory" (<http://www.smh.com.au/world/utzons-son-signs-up-for-september-11-conspiracy-theory-20091124-jhf7.html>). The Sydney Morning Herald.
02. "1,000 Architects and Engineers ask for New 9-11 Investigation" (<http://macedoniaonline.eu/content/view/12598/2/>). Macedonian International News Agency. February 21, 2010.
03. Jonas, Jillian (January 25, 2004). "Challenge by 'honest Republican'" (http://www.upi.com/Business_News/Security-Industry/2004/01/25/Analysis-Challenge-by-honest-Republican/UPI-77191075046442/). United Press International. Retrieved May 29, 2011.
04. The Persistence of Conspiracy Theories Radio Free Europe Radio Liberty September 16, 2011 (http://www.rferl.org/content/the_persistence_of_conspiracy_theories/24330366.html).
05. Psychologists investigate online communication of conspiracy theories Medical Press July 10, 2013 (<http://medicalxpress.com/news/2013-07-psychologists-online-conspiracy-theories.html>).
06. Wood, Michael J.; Douglas, Karen M. (2013). "'What about building 7?' A social psychological study of online discussion of 9/11 conspiracy theories" (<https://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/pmc/articles/PMC3703523>). Frontiers in Psychology. 4: 409. doi:10.3389/fpsyg.2013.00409 (<https://doi.org/10.3389/fpsyg.2013.00409>). PMC 3703523 (<https://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/pmc/articles/PMC3703523>). PMID 23847577 (<https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/23847577>).
07. Bartlett, Jamie; Miller, Carl (2011). "A Bestiary of the 9/11 Truth Movement: Notes from the Front Line" (https://web.archive.org/web/20121001051753/http://www.csicop.org/si/show/a_bestiary_of_the_9_11_truth_movement_notes_from_the_front_line). Skeptical Inquirer. Committee for Skeptical Inquiry. 35.4 (July/August): 43–46. Archived from the original (http://www.csicop.org/si/show/a_bestiary_of_the_9_11_truth_movement_notes_from_the_front_line) on October 1, 2012. Retrieved May 29, 2014.
08. 11. September – en insidejobb? (<http://www.lmd.no/index.php?article=947>), Norwegian edition of Le Monde diplomatique, July 2006. See also English translation: Kim Bredesen, Was 9/11 an inside job? (<http://www.eurozine.com/articles/2006-07-21-bredesen-en.html>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20060813083428/http://www.eurozine.com/articles/2006-07-21-bredesen-en.html>) August 13, 2006, at the Wayback Machine

- 09.
- Alexander Cockburn (December 2, 2006). "Distractions from awful reality – US: the conspiracy that wasn't" (<http://mondediplo.com/2006/12/02conspiracy>). Le Monde diplomatique. Retrieved May 29, 2014.
 - Alexander Cockburn (December 2, 2006). "Scepticisme ou occultisme? Le complot du 11-Septembre n'aura pas lieu" (<http://www.monde-diplomatique.fr/2006/12/COCKBURN/14270>) (in French). Le Monde diplomatique. Retrieved May 29, 2014.
 - "The September 11 conspiracy will resume on" توطئه ۱۱ سپتامبر سرنخواهد گرفت (<http://ir.monediplo.com/article1024.html>) (in Persian). Retrieved May 29, 2014.
 - "PODERES IMAGINÁRIOS – A "conspiração" das Torres Gêmeas" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20070107091414/http://diplo.uol.com.br/2006-12%2Ca1465>) (in Portuguese). Archived from the original (<http://diplo.uol.com.br/2006-12,a1465>) on January 7, 2007. Retrieved May 29, 2014.
10. Debunking the Myths of 9/11 (<http://www.counterpunch.org/ninelevenconsp11252006.html>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20070119110741/http://www.counterpunch.org/ninelevenconsp11252006.html>) January 19, 2007, at the Wayback Machine, by Alexander Cockburn and Jeffrey St. Clair, CounterPunch, November 28, 2006.
11. CBC News: the fifth estate: Conspiracy Theories (<http://www.cbc.ca/fifth/conspiracytheories/>) at cbc.ca Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20130917233125/http://www.cbc.ca/fifth/conspiracytheories/>) September 17, 2013, at the Wayback Machine
12. Ryan, Andrew (November 26, 2009). "Was 9/11 a conspiracy? 'Truthers' make their case Toronto Globe and Mail November 26, 2009" (<https://www.theglobeandmail.com/news/arts/was-911-a-conspiracy-truthers-make-their-case/article1378976/>). The Globe and Mail. Canada. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20100927222044/http://www.theglobeandmail.com/news/arts/was-911-a-conspiracy-truthers-make-their-case/article1378976/>) from the original on September 27, 2010. Retrieved October 15, 2010.
13. "CBC Website The Unofficial Story Webpage" (http://www.cbc.ca/fifth/2009-2010/the_unofficial_story/). Canada: CBC. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20110511082113/http://www.cbc.ca/fifth/2009-2010/the_unofficial_story/) from the original on May 11, 2011. Retrieved May 30, 2011.
14. Grossman, Lev. (2006) Time.com (<http://www.time.com/time/magazine/article/0,9171,1531304-1,00.html>) – Why The 9/11 Conspiracies Won't Go Away.
15. Michael Sheldon (September 8, 2006). "The CIA couldn't have organised this ..." (<https://www.telegraph.co.uk/arts/main.jhtml?xml=/arts/2006/09/08/ftterror08.xml&page=4>) The Daily Telegraph. London. Retrieved September 23, 2009.
16. Blair, Tim (May 5, 2007). "Virgin's 9/11 Farce" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090705224534/http://www.news.com.au/dailytelegraph/opinion/story/0%2C22049%2C21671628-5001031%2C00.html>). The Daily Telegraph. News.com.au. Archived from the original (<http://www.news.com.au/dailytelegraph/opinion/story/0,22049,21671628-5001031,00.html>) on July 5, 2009. Retrieved July 20, 2009.
17. "Truthers are overlooking key point about 9/11 Human nature Doug MacEachern for the Arizona Republic May 11, 2008" (<https://azcentral.com/arizonarepublic/viewpoints/articles/0511vip-maceachern0511.html>). Azcentral.com. May 11, 2008. Retrieved July 20, 2009.
18. Calgary, The (July 10, 2008). "Washington can't live up to standards of 9/11 'truthers' Timothy Giannuzzi for the Calgary Herald July 10, 2008" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090918100543/http://www.canada.com/calgaryherald/news/theeditorialpage/story.html?id=0bc82ffe-1e2e-4991-93ea-0f384b864bad&p=2>). Canada.com. Archived from the original (<http://www.canada.com/calgaryherald/news/theeditorialpage/story.html?id=0bc82ffe-1e2e-4991-93ea-0f384b864bad&p=2>) on September 18, 2009. Retrieved July 20, 2009.
19. Peter Barber (June 7, 2008). "The Truth Is Out There" (<https://www.ft.com/cms/s/2/8d66e778-3128-11dd-ab22-000077b07658.html>). Financial Times. Retrieved September 20, 2009.

20. Charlie Brooker (July 14, 2008). "So, you believe in conspiracy theories, do you? You probably also think you're the Emperor of Pluto Charles Brooker for The Guardian Unlimited July 14, 2008" (<https://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/2008/jul/14/september11.usa>). The Guardian. London. Retrieved September 20, 2009.
21. Dan Hind (July 17, 2008). "Who knows what happened on 9/11? Dan Hind for the Guardian Unlimited July 17, 2008" (<https://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/2008/jul/17/september11>). The Guardian. London. Retrieved September 20, 2009.
22. Charlie Skelton (September 11, 2009). "9/11 anniversary: a lovely day for a spot of protesting at the BBC Charlie Skelton for The Guardian Unlimited September 11, 2009" (<https://www.theguardian.com/media/organgrinder/2009/sep/11/ground-zero-bbc-protest>). The Guardian. London. Retrieved January 9, 2010.
23. "DPA News Agency Filmmaker Urges International Tribunal to Probe 9/11 September 9, 2008" (<http://www.dw-world.de/dw/article/0,2144,3626100,00.html>). Dw-world.de. Retrieved July 20, 2009.
24. Nasir Mahmood (September 15, 2008). "19 Muslims involved in 9/11 never proved guilty by anybody" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20080918020434/http://pakobserver.net/200809/15/news/topstories07.asp>). Pakistan Observer. Archived from the original (<http://pakobserver.net/200809/15/news/topstories07.asp>) on September 18, 2008. Retrieved May 29, 2014.
25. "9/11 conspiracy theories exposed ITN November 10, 2008" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090122213036/http://itn.co.uk/news/eb25eb27b4c1315a34017442fb7831a7.html>). Itn.co.uk. Archived from the original (<https://itn.co.uk/news/eb25eb27b4c1315a34017442fb7831a7.html>) on January 22, 2009. Retrieved July 20, 2009.
26. James Bone (August 4, 2009). "World Agenda: To tell you the truth, these conspiracists scare me" (<https://www.thetimes.co.uk/article/world-agenda-to-tell-you-the-truth-these-conspiracists-scare-me-c0fxqfnx3jk>). The Times.
27. Cohen, Ben (July 23, 2009). "Why the Birthers Matter" (https://huffingtonpost.com/ben-cohen/why-the-birthers-matter_b_243647.html). Huffington Post. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20110511213243/http://www.huffingtonpost.com/ben-cohen/why-the-birthers-matter_b_243647.html) from the original on May 11, 2011. Retrieved May 30, 2011.
28. "Birthers Versus Truthers" (<http://www.theatlanticwire.com/politics/2009/08/birthers-versus-truthers/27374/>). Atlantic Monthly August 3, 2009
29. "Conspiracy theorists seek order in a terrifying world" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110218132405/http://www.irishtimes.com/newspaper/opinion/2009/0808/1224252235086.html>). The Irish Times. August 8, 2009. Archived from the original (<https://www.irishtimes.com/newspaper/opinion/2009/0808/1224252235086.html>) on February 18, 2011. Retrieved May 30, 2011.
30. "9/11 Science and Conspiracy Theory Website" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110518135528/http://channel.nationalgeographic.com/episode/9-11-science-and-conspiracy-4067/>). Channel.nationalgeographic.com. Archived from the original (<http://channel.nationalgeographic.com/episode/9-11-science-and-conspiracy-4067/>) on May 18, 2011. Retrieved May 30, 2011.
31. National Geographic Channel 9/11 Science and Conspiracy.
32. "The 50 people who matter today: 41–50" (<http://www.newstatesman.com/global-issues/2009/09/world-fashion-gay-india-church>). New Statesman. UK. September 24, 2009. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110607182955/http://www.newstatesman.com/global-issues/2009/09/world-fashion-gay-india-church>) from the original on June 7, 2011. Retrieved May 30, 2011.
33. Henry, Kendra (April 29, 2010). "Full 9/11 story is not told, says visiting WU speaker" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20100503223325/http://media.www.webujournal.com/media/storage/paper245/news/2010/04/29/News/Full-911.Story.Is.Not.Told.Says.Visiting.Wu.Speaker-3914619.shtml>). Webster University Journal. Archived from the original (<http://media.www.webujournal.com/media/storage/paper245/news/2010/04/29/News/Full-911.Story.Is.Not.Told.Says.Visiting.Wu.Speaker-3914619.shtml>) on May 3, 2010. Retrieved May 1, 2010.

34. Carroll, Vincent (September 26, 2009). "Carroll: Public TV and the Truthers" (http://www.denverpost.com/opinion/ci_13422315). The Denver Post. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20110605033035/http://www.denverpost.com/opinion/ci_13422315) from the original on June 5, 2011. Retrieved May 30, 2011.
35. Taranto, James (January 18, 2010). "'Nobody's Watching Charlie Rose'" (<https://www.wsj.com/articles/SB10001424052748703436504574641192528461858>). Wall Street Journal. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20100119061813/http://online.wsj.com/article/SB10001424052748703436504574641192528461858.html>) from the original on January 19, 2010. Retrieved January 22, 2010.
36. "A leading Japanese politician espouses a 9/11 fantasy Washington Post March 8, 2010" (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2010/03/07/AR2010030702354.html>). The Washington Post. March 8, 2010. Retrieved October 15, 2010.
37. Farrer, Gordon (November 5, 2010). "Don't get caught in the web of conspiracy theory truthiness" (<https://www.smh.com.au/technology/technology-news/blogs/untangling-the-web/dont-get-caught-in-the-web-of-conspiracy-theory-truthiness/20101105-17gq1.html>). Sydney Morning Herald – Smh.com.au. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110315183816/http://www.smh.com.au/technology/technology-news/blogs/untangling-the-web/dont-get-caught-in-the-web-of-conspiracy-theory-truthiness/20101105-17gq1.html>) from the original on March 15, 2011. Retrieved May 30, 2011.
38. "Fox takes heat from left and right over analysts" (<http://politicalticker.blogs.cnn.com/2010/12/01/fox-takes-heat-from-left-and-right-over-analyst/>). CNN. December 1, 2010. Retrieved December 8, 2010.
39. Zaitchik, Alexander (March 2, 2011). "Meet Alex Jones, the Talk Radio Host Behind Charlie Sheen's Crazy Rants" (<https://www.rollingstone.com/politics/news/talk-radios-alex-jones-the-most-paranoid-man-in-america-20110302>). Rolling Stone. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110628221649/http://www.rollingstone.com/politics/news/talk-radios-alex-jones-the-most-paranoid-man-in-america-20110302>) from the original on June 28, 2011. Retrieved May 30, 2011.
40. McGreal, Chris (September 5, 2011). "9/11 conspiracy theories debunked" (<https://www.theguardian.com/world/2011/sep/05/9-11-conspiracy-theories-debunked>). The Guardian. Washington, D.C. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20160205131010/http://www.theguardian.com/world/2011/sep/05/9-11-conspiracy-theories-debunked>) from the original on February 5, 2016. Retrieved February 5, 2016.
41. MSNBC show stars 9/11 conspiracy theorist Washington Times June 25, 2012 (<http://times247.com/articles/msnbc-show-to-star-9-11-conspiracy-theorist>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20120915142251/http://times247.com/articles/msnbc-show-to-star-9-11-conspiracy-theorist>) September 15, 2012, at the Wayback Machine
42. Barkun, M. (2003). A Culture of Conspiracy: Apocalyptic Visions in Contemporary America. University of California Press. ISBN 978-0-520-23805-3.
43. Walch, Tad (2006). "Controversy dogs Y.'s Jones" (<http://deseretnews.com/dn/view/0,1249,645200098,00.html>). Utah news. Deseret News Publishing Company. Retrieved September 9, 2006.
44. Shermer, Michael (June 2005). "Fahrenheit 2777, 9/11 has generated the mother of all conspiracy theories" (<http://www.scientificamerican.com/article.cfm?id=fahrenheit-2777>). Scientific American. 292 (6): 38. PMID 15934650 (<https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/15934650>).
45. "Debunking The 9/11 Myths — Mar. 2005 Cover Story" (<http://www.popularmechanics.com/technology/military/news/1227842>). Popular Mechanics. March 2005.
46. Carroll, Robert Todd (March 30, 2006). "Mass Media Bunk – 9/11 conspiracies: the war on critical thinking" (<http://skepdic.com/refuge/bunk27.html>). The Skeptic's Dictionary.
47. "Debunking The 9/11 Myths blog" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20060813114159/http://www.popularmechanics.com/blog/911mythsblog>). Popular Mechanics. Archived from the original (<http://www.popularmechanics.com/blog/911mythsblog>) on August 13, 2006. Retrieved May 29, 2014.

48. McCain, John (August 4, 2006). "Foreward" (https://web.archive.org/web/20090714131744/http://www.popularmechanics.com/technology/military_law/3491861.html?page=4). In Dunbar, D.; Reagan, B. (eds.). Debunking 9/11 myths. Popularmechnics.com. Archived from the original (http://www.popularmechanics.com/technology/military_law/3491861.html?page=4) on July 14, 2009. Retrieved July 20, 2009.
49. Czesche, Dominik; Jürgen Dahlkamp; Ulrich Fichtner; Ulrich Jaeger; Gunther Latsch; Gisela Leske; Max F. Ruppert (September 8, 2003). "Panoply of the Absurd" (<http://www.spiegel.de/international/spiegel/0,1518,265160,00.html>). Der Spiegel.
50. Aaronovitch, David (December 19, 2009). "A Conspiracy-Theory Theory" (<https://www.wsj.com/article/SB10001424052748704238104574602042125998498>). The Wall Street Journal. Retrieved October 6, 2020.
51. Aaronovitch, David (January 30, 2010). "Debunking Conspiracy Theories In 'Voodoo Histories' National Public Radio (United States) January 30, 2010" (<https://www.npr.org/templates/story/story.php?storyId=123127032>). Npr.org. Retrieved October 23, 2010.
52. Architects Shy From Truther 9/11 Conspiracy Theory Architect Magazine July 19, 2012 (http://www.architectmagazine.com/architecture/architects-shy-from-truther-conspiracy-theory_1.aspx) Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20130616211232/http://www.architectmagazine.com/architecture/architects-shy-from-truther-conspiracy-theory_1.aspx) June 16, 2013, at the Wayback Machine
53. Petrunia, Paul. "RIBA comes under fire for hosting 'bonkers' 9/11 talk" (<http://archinect.com/news/article/11045427/riba-comes-under-fire-for-hosting-bonkers-9-11-talk>), Archinect News. Retrieved June 28, 2011.
54. Summers, Anthony; Swan, Robbyn (2011). The Eleventh Day: The Full Story of 9/11 and Osama bin Laden (<https://archive.org/details/eleventhdayfulls0000summ/page/91>). New York: Ballantine. pp. 91– (<https://archive.org/details/eleventhdayfulls0000summ/page/91>). ISBN 978-1-4000-6659-9.
55. Undaunted, 9/11 Conspiracy Theorists Offer Alternate Theories for How Sept. 11 Terror Attacks Were Carried Out ABC News September 9, 2011 (https://abcnews.go.com/US/September_11/911-truthers-continue-offer-alternate-claims-sept-11/story?id=14478915).
56. SGU Productions. "The Skeptics Guide #430 – Oct 12 2013." (<http://www.theskepticsguide.org/podcast/sgu/430>) The Skeptics Guide to the Universe. SGU Productions: October 12, 2013. October 17, 2013.
57. Champion-Smith, Bruce (September 26, 2008). "Dion drops candidate over 9/11 remarks Toronto Star September 26, 2008" (<https://www.thestar.com/FederalElection/article/506806>). Toronto Star. Retrieved July 20, 2009.
58. "Be wary of those who say 9/11 was a fake" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20081006123037/http://www.canada.com/victoriatimescolonist/news/comment/story.html?id=efc419f6-7030-45c7-b431-8976158b23df>). October 5, 2008. Archived from the original (<http://www.canada.com/victoriatimescolonist/news/comment/story.html?id=efc419f6-7030-45c7-b431-8976158b23df>) on October 6, 2008. Retrieved September 20, 2009.
59. Conservative Party Of Canada (September 26, 2008). "Dion must fire his anti-israel candidate Conservative Party Press Release September 26, 2008" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20081103175309/http://www.conservative.ca/EN/1091/106439>). Conservative.ca. Archived from the original (<https://www.conservative.ca/EN/1091/106439>) on November 3, 2008. Retrieved July 20, 2009.
60. Martin, Nick (June 23, 2009). "Hughes sues MP, B'Nai Brith Says anti-Semite accusations have ruined career Winnipeg Free Press June 23, 2009" (<http://www.winnipegfreepress.com/local/hughes-sues-mp-bnai-brith-says-anti-semite-accusations-have-ruined-career-48864447.html>). Winnipegfreepress.com. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090628115751/http://www.winnipegfreepress.com/local/hughes-sues-mp-bnai-brith-says-anti-semite-accusations-have-ruined-career-48864447.html>) from the original on June 28, 2009. Retrieved July 20, 2009.

61. Conservative Party Of Canada. "Ottawa NDP continue to flirt with fringe Conservative Party Press release September 30, 2008" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20081103175808/http://www.conservative.ca/EN/1091/106644>). Conservative.ca. Archived from the original (<https://www.conservative.ca/EN/1091/106644>) on November 3, 2008. Retrieved July 20, 2009.
62. "Saturday Interview: The CIC's Canadian imam National Post October 2010" (<https://nationalpost.com/news/saturday-interview-the-cics-canadian-imam>). National Post. Canada. Retrieved March 5, 2021.
63. Abrams, Joseph (July 15, 2008). "Critics Demand Resignation of U.N. Official Who Wants Probe of 9/11 'Inside Job' Theories Fox News June 19, 2008" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090715133257/http://www.foxnews.com/story/0%2C2933%2C369122%2C00.html>). Fox News. Archived from the original (<http://www.foxnews.com/story/0,2933,369122,00.html>) on July 15, 2009. Retrieved July 20, 2009.
64. Liel, Alon (January 25, 2011). "Falk's 9-11 remarks are 'condemned' by UN sec.-gen" (<http://www.jpost.com/International/Article.aspx?id=205192>). Jerusalem Post. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110511172523/http://www.jpost.com/International/Article.aspx?id=205192>) from the original on May 11, 2011. Retrieved May 30, 2011.
65. "French lecturer sacked over 9/11 conspiracy claims AFP/Expatica February 6, 2009" (http://www.expatica.com/fr/news/local_news/French-lecturer-sacked-over-9_11-conspiracy-claims_49327.html). Expatica.com. Retrieved July 20, 2009.
66. "Obama did not order Van Jones' resignation, adviser says" (<http://www.cnn.com/2009/POLITICS/09/06/obama.adviser.resigns/>). CNN. September 6, 2009. Retrieved September 6, 2009.
67. "Perry, KBH blast Medina" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20100216135306/http://firstread.msnbc.msn.com/archive/2010/02/11/2200374.aspx>). MSNBC. February 11, 2010. Archived from the original (<http://firstread.msnbc.msn.com/archive/2010/02/11/2200374.aspx>) on February 16, 2010. Retrieved October 23, 2010.
68. "Debra Medina self-destructs on Glenn Beck radio show Cristian Science Monitor February 11, 2010" (<http://www.csmonitor.com/USA/Politics/The-Vote/2010/0211/Debra-Medina-self-destructs-on-Glenn-Beck-radio-show>). Csmonitor.com. February 11, 2010. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20101022025158/http://www.csmonitor.com/USA/Politics/The-Vote/2010/0211/Debra-Medina-self-destructs-on-Glenn-Beck-radio-show>) from the original on October 22, 2010. Retrieved October 23, 2010.
69. "'9/11 was an inside job': Full speech by Mahmoud Ahmadinejad at UN" (<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=k4phNuwx8Hs>). YouTube. RT. Retrieved March 25, 2020.
70. "President Obama 'Deeply Offended' by Ahmadinejad Comments On 9/11 ABC September 23, 2010" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20101026200250/http://blogs.abcnews.com/politicalpunch/2010/09/ahmadinejad-suggests-911-conspiracy-theories-by-us-government.html>). Blogs.abcnews.com. September 23, 2010. Archived from the original (<http://blogs.abcnews.com/politicalpunch/2010/09/ahmadinejad-suggests-911-conspiracy-theories-by-us-government.html>) on October 26, 2010. Retrieved October 23, 2010.
71. Goldsmith, Samuel (September 24, 2010). "Iranian President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad: United Nations needs to investigate my 9/11 conspiracy theory" (<http://www.nydailynews.com/new-york/iranian-president-mahmoud-ahmadinejad-united-nations-investigate-9-11-conspiracy-theory-article-1.439238>). Daily News. New York. Retrieved October 23, 2010.
72. Stuart Williams (April 16, 2008). "Iran president casts doubt on 'suspect' 9/11" (<http://www.mg.co.za/article/2008-04-16-iran-president-casts-doubt-on-suspect-911>). Mail & Guardian. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20091002080136/http://www.mg.co.za/article/2008-04-16-iran-president-casts-doubt-on-suspect-911>) from the original on October 2, 2009. Retrieved September 20, 2009.
73. Adam Harvey (September 3, 2006). "9/11 myths busted" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20081008090742/http://www.news.com.au/couriermail/story/0%2C%2C20341165-5003406%2C00.html>). The Courier-Mail. Archived from the original (<http://www.news.com.au/couriermail/story/0,20341165-5003406,00.html>) on October 8, 2008. Retrieved May 29, 2014.

74. "Ahmadinejad quotes" (<http://fr.jpost.com/servlet/Satellite?cid=1145961353170&pagename=JPost/JP/Article/ShowFull>). The Jerusalem Post. May 22, 2006. Retrieved September 20, 2009.
75. Hanrahan, Mark (September 28, 2011). "Al Qaeda Calls On Mahmoud Ahmadinejad To End 'Ridiculous' 9/11 Conspiracy Theories" (https://huffingtonpost.com/2011/09/28/al-qaeda-ahmadinejad-end-911-theories_n_985265.html). Huffington Post. Retrieved June 4, 2014.
76. "Getting Egypt's Morsi to give up his 9/11 'truther' talk by Robert Satloff and Eric Trager of the Washington Post September 11, 2012" (https://www.washingtonpost.com/opinions/getting-egypts-morsi-to-give-up-911-conspiracy-rhetoric/2012/09/11/4ca304ea-fb97-11e1-8adc-499661afe377_story.html). Washingtonpost.com. Retrieved June 4, 2014.
77. Hamblett, Mark (October 17, 2010). "Circuit Levels $15,000 in Sanctions Against 9/11 Conspiracy Theorists" (<http://www.newyorklawjournal.com/PubArticleNY.jsp?id=1202519035977&slreturn=1>). New York Law Journal. Retrieved June 4, 2014.

External links

United States government sources

- 9/11 Commission Report \(http://govinfo.library.unt.edu/911/report/index.htm\)
- NIST and the World Trade Center \(http://wtc.nist.gov/\)
 - Questions and Answers about the NIST WTC 7 Investigation \(https://www.nist.gov/public_affairs/factsheet/wtc_qa_082108.cfm\)
 - Final NIST Report on the collapse of World Trade Center 7 \(http://wtc.nist.gov/NCSTAR1/PDF/NCSTAR%201A.pdf\)
- U.S. Department of State Article: The Top September 11 Conspiracy Theories \(http://iipdigital.usembassy.gov/st/english/article/2006/08/20060828133846esnamfuak0.2676355.html#axzz3BISxBn7d\), August 28, 2006

Engineering publications

- Eagar, Thomas. "Why Did the World Trade Center Collapse? Science, Engineering, and Speculation" \(http://www.tms.org/pubs/journals/JOM/0112/Eagar/Eagar-0112.html\).
- Popular Mechanics: Debunking the 9/11 Myths. \(http://www.popularmechanics.com/military/a49/1227842/\)

Retrieved from "https://en.wikipedia.org/w/index.php?title=9/11_conspiracy_theories&oldid=1028088977"

This page was last edited on 11 June 2021, at 19:36 (UTC).

Text is available under the Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike License; additional terms may apply. By using this site, you agree to the Terms of Use and Privacy Policy. Wikipedia® is a registered trademark of the Wikimedia Foundation, Inc., a non-profit organization.

9/11 truth movement

The 9/11 Truth movement supports a conspiracy theory that disputes the general consensus of the September 11 attacks in 2001. This theory disputes the consensus that Al-Qaeda terrorists hijacked four airliners, crashed them into the Pentagon and the original World Trade Center Twin Towers, where the crashes led to their collapse. The primary focus is on missed information that adherents allege is not adequately explained in the official National Institute of Standards and Technology (NIST) report, such as the collapse of 7 World Trade Center. They suggest a cover-up and, at the least, complicity by insiders.^{[1][2][3][4][5][6][7][8]}

They analyze evidence from the attacks, discuss different theories about how the attacks happened and call for a new investigation into the attacks.^{[9][10][11][12][13][14][15]} Some of the organizations assert that there is evidence that individuals within the United States government may have been either responsible for or knowingly complicit in the September 11 attacks. Motives suggested by the movement include the use of the attacks as a pretext to fight wars in Iraq and Afghanistan and to create opportunities to curtail American civil liberties.^{[2][16]} Support for the movement is negligible from professionals in relevant fields, such as civil and aerospace engineering.^[17]

Supporters of the 9/11 Truth movement at an anti-war demonstration in Los Angeles, October 2007

Contents

Characteristics

Name

Adherents

Views

Communication

History

9/11 Commission Report reaction

NIST Report reaction

Pamphlets at National September 11 Museum

Organizations

Architects & Engineers for 9/11 Truth

9/11 Truth

Scholars for 9/11 Truth

Scholars for 9/11 Truth & Justice

9/11 Citizens Watch

9/11 Commission Campaign

Hispanic Victims Group

Conferences

OpponentsIn popular culture*MediaBooksFilmsReferences*Further reading*External linksMedia coverage

Characteristics

Name

"9/11 Truth movement" is a term that has been applied to loosely affiliated^{[16][18]} organizations and individuals that question whether the United States government, agencies of the United States or individuals within such agencies were either responsible for or purposefully complicit in the September 11 attacks.^{[3][4][5][6][7][19][20][21]} The term is also being used by the adherents of the movement,^{[22][23]} who call themselves "9/11 skeptics",^[24] "truth activists",^[25] or "9/11 Truthers",^[26] while generally rejecting the term "conspiracy theorists".^{[18][25]}

Truth movement sticker

Adherents

Adherents of the 9/11 Truth movement come from diverse social backgrounds.^{[1][23][25]} The movement draws adherents from people of diverse political beliefs including liberals, conservatives, and libertarians.^{[3][20][25]}

Lev Grossman of Time magazine has stated that support for the 9/11 Truth movement is not a "fringe phenomenon", but "a mainstream political reality."^[22] Others, such as Ben Smith of Politico and the Minneapolis Star Tribune have stated that the movement has been "relegated to the fringe".^{[27][28]} The Washington Post editorial staff went further describing the movement as "lunatic fringe."^[29] Mark Fenster, a University of Florida law professor and author of the book Conspiracy Theories: Secrecy and Power in American Culture,^[30] says that "the amount of organisation" of the movement is significantly stronger than the organization of the movement related to doubts about the official account of the assassination of John F. Kennedy,^[3] though this is likely the result of new media technologies, such as online social networks, blogs, etc.

The 9/11 Truth movement is active in the United States as well as in other countries.^[15]

In 2004, John Buchanan ran for president on a 9/11 Truth platform.^{[31][32]} Jeff Boss ran in the 2008, 2012, 2016, and 2020 US presidential elections on a 9/11 Truth platform.^[33]

In a 2011 article in Skeptical Inquirer, Jamie Bartlett and Carl Miller gave an overview and analyzed the members of the 9/11 Truth movement community. The authors found that people involved in this movement, which seemingly is a disparate group with very diversified backgrounds, could be classified into three groups. They join the movement for different reasons, loosely self-assemble to fill different roles, and are united by their shared mistrust in experts and the establishment (government and reputable sources of knowledge) and have a conspiratorial stance. Through their engagement, they each find their own fulfillment and satisfaction. Together, they contribute to the persistence, resilience, and exaggerated claims of acceptance (in general public) of the movement.^[34]

Views

Many adherents of the 9/11 Truth movement suspect that United States government insiders played a part in the attacks, or may have known the attacks were imminent, and did nothing to alert others or stop them.^[24] Some within the movement who argue that insiders within the United States government were directly responsible for the September 11 attacks often alleging that the attacks were planned and executed in order to provide the U.S. with a pretext for going to war in the Middle East, and, by extension, as a means of consolidating.^{[22][23]}

According to these allegations, this would have given the Bush administration the justification for more widespread abuses of civil liberties and to invade Afghanistan and Iraq to ensure future supplies of oil.^[24] In some cases, even in the mainstream media, "hawks" in the White House, especially then Vice-President Dick Cheney and members of the Project for the New American Century, the neoconservative think-tank, have been accused of either being aware of, or involved in, the alleged plot.^{[35][36][37]}

A relatively common, but not exclusive view within the 9/11 Truth movement alleges that the buildings of the World Trade Center were destroyed by controlled demolition.^{[1][20][38][39]}

Communication

The Internet plays a large role both in the communication between adherents and between local groups of the 9/11 Truth movement and in the dissemination of the views of the movement to the public at large.^{[2][3][6][22][36]} Colorado Public Television has aired several films produced by the movement such as 9/11 Explosive Evidence: Experts Speak Out, a documentary produced by Architects and Engineers for 9/11 Truth, which once was one of the "most shared" and "most watched" programs on the national PBS site. The station's airing of such films has been controversial for the affiliate and PBS.^{[40][41]}

History

In the aftermath of the September 11 attacks, different interpretations of the events that questioned the account given by the U.S. government were published. Among others, Michael Ruppert^[42] and Canadian journalist Barrie Zwicker,^[43] published criticisms or pointed out purported anomalies of the accepted account of the attacks. French author Jean-Charles Brisard^[44] and German authors Mathias Bröckers^[45] and Andreas von Bülow^[46] published books critical of media reporting and advancing the controlled demolition thesis of the destruction of the World Trade Center towers. In September 2002, the first "Bush Did It!" rallies and marches were held in San Francisco and Oakland, California, organized by The All People's Coalition.^[47]

In October 2004, the organization 9/11 Truth released a statement, signed by nearly 200 people, including many relatives of people who perished on September 11, 2001, that calls for an investigation into the attacks. It also asserted that unanswered questions would suggest that people within the administration of President George W. Bush may have deliberately allowed the attacks to happen. Actor Edward Asner, former presidential candidate Ralph Nader, former congresswoman Cynthia McKinney, former assistant secretary of housing Catherine Austin Fitts, author Richard Heinberg, Enver Masud, founder of The Wisdom Fund, professors Richard Falk of the University of California, Mark Crispin Miller of New York University, Douglas Sturm of Bucknell University, Burns H. Weston of the University of Iowa College of Law and others signed the statement.

In 2009, Van Jones, a former advisor to President Obama, said he had not fully reviewed the statement before he signed and that the petition did not reflect his views "now or ever."^{[48][49][50]}

A 9/11 Truth movement protest sign, October 2009

In 2006, Steven E. Jones, who became a leading advocate of the demolition theory,^[2] published the paper "Why Indeed Did the WTC Buildings Completely Collapse?"^[51] He was placed on paid leave by Brigham Young University following what they described as Jones's "increasingly speculative and accusatory" statements in September 2006, pending a review of his statements and research. Six weeks later, Jones retired from the university.^[52] Skepticism arose as to the scientific claims made by Jones and the efficacy of the peer-review process involved in the publication of his hypotheses, and conspiracy theorists responded to criticism by positing still more elaborate ostensible cover-ups.^[53]

In the same year, 61 legislators in the U.S. state of Wisconsin signed a petition calling for the dismissal of a University of Wisconsin lecturer Kevin Barrett, after he joined the group Scholars for 9/11 Truth. Citing academic freedom, the university provost declined to take action against Barrett.^{[54][55][56]}

Several organizations of family members of people who have died in the attacks are calling for an independent investigation into the attacks.^[57] In 2009, a group of people, including 9/11 Truth movement activist Lorie Van Auken and others who have lost friends or relatives in the attack, appealed to the City of New York to investigate the disaster. The New York City Coalition for Accountability Now collected signatures to require the New York City Council to place the creation of an investigating commission on the November 2009 election ballot.^[58] The group collected more than enough signatures to put the proposal before the voters, but New York Supreme Court Justice Edward Lehner stated that the petition overstepped what is allowable by city law, and ruled that, despite wording in the petition to allow for elements ruled invalid to be stricken, it would not be allowed to appear on the ballot.^{[59][60]}

9/11 Commission Report reaction

According to some adherents of the 9/11 Truth movement, many of the questions that the 9/11 Family Steering Committee put to the 9/11 Commission, chaired by former New Jersey Governor Thomas Kean, were not asked in either the hearings nor in the Commission Report.^[61] Lorie Van Auken, one of the Jersey Girls, estimates that only 30% of their questions were answered in the final 9/11 Commission Report, published July 22, 2004.

The 9/11 Family Steering Committee produced a website summarizing the questions they had raised to the Commission, indicating which they believe had been answered satisfactorily, which they believe had been addressed but not answered satisfactorily, and which they believe had been generally ignored in or omitted from the Report.^[62]

In addition, The 9/11 Commission Report: Omissions and Distortions written by David Ray Griffin, claimed the report had either omitted information or distorted the truth, providing 115 examples of his allegations.^{[63][64][65]} Griffin has characterized the 9/11 Commission Report as "a 571-page lie".^[66]

On May 26, 2008, adjunct religious studies professor Blair Gadsby began a protest and a hunger strike outside the offices of Senator and Republican Party nominee for President John McCain's office requesting McCain meet with the principal scientists and leaders of the 9/11 Truth movement, specifically Richard Gage, Steven E. Jones, and David Ray Griffin. McCain had written the foreword to the book Debunking 9/11 Myths: Why Conspiracy Theories Can't Stand Up to the Facts, published by the magazine Popular Mechanics.^[67]

Arizona Republican State Senator Karen Johnson joined the protest in support. On June 10, Johnson with Gadsby as her guest and other 9/11 Truth movement members in the audience, spoke before the Arizona State Senate espousing the controlled demolition theory and supporting a reopening of the 9/11 investigation.^{[14][67]}

NIST Report reaction

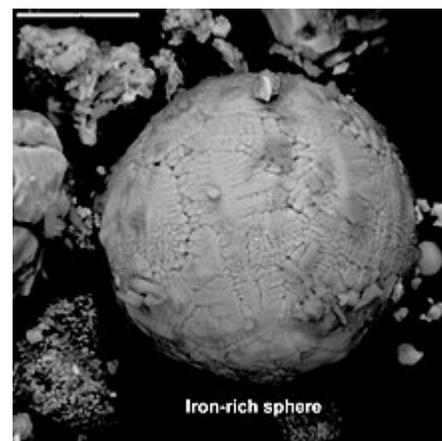

Following the initial government investigation, the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) Report (May 2002) NIST Report, numerous responses were written by members of the 9/11 Truth movement. Many of these responses claimed that it ignored key evidence suggesting an explosive demolition, "distorted reality" by using deceptive language and diagrams, and attacked straw man arguments, such as the 2005 article by Jim Hoffman entitled Building a better mirage: NIST's 3-year $20,000,000 Cover Up of the Crime of the Century.^[74]

In late 2005, Steven E. Jones, then a professor at Brigham Young University, announced a paper criticizing the NIST Report and describing his hypothesis that the WTC towers had been intentionally demolished by explosives. This paper garnered some mainstream media attention, including an appearance by Jones on MSNBC. This was the first such programming on a major cable news station. Jones was criticized by his university for making his claims public before vetting them through the approved peer review process. He was placed on paid leave and has since retired.^{[52][75][76]}

Accordingly, in April 2007, some 9/11 victims' family members and some members of the new Scholars for 9/11 Truth and Justice submitted an additional request for correction to NIST, containing their own views on the defects in the report.^[77] NIST responded to this request in September 2007 supporting their original conclusions;^[78] the originators of the request wrote back to them in October 2007, asking them to reconsider their response.

Pamphlets at National September 11 Museum

Members of the movement distributed pamphlets that they say told the "truth" about the attacks at the National September 11 Memorial & Museum when the Museum opened in May 2014.^[79]

An iron-rich sphere, found in the dust of the World Trade Center, as documented by the United States Geological Survey and RJ LeeGroup, Inc. RJ Lee's report states the spheres are indicative of molten iron.^{[68][69]} Members of the 9/11 Truth movement claim the spheres indicate the presence of temperatures much hotter than office fires, or the presence of thermite reactions.^{[70][71][72]} However, such spheres have been found to form when iron particles are affected by normal fuel fires.^[73]

Organizations

Since the publication of the official reports, a number of interconnected 9/11 Truth movement organizations have been formed.

Architects & Engineers for 9/11 Truth

Architects & Engineers for 9/11 Truth is an organization of architectural and engineering professionals^[80] who support the World Trade Center controlled demolition conspiracy theories and are calling for a new investigation into the destruction of the Twin Towers and WTC 7.^{[10][81]} The group is collecting signatures for a petition to the United States Congress that demands "a truly independent investigation with subpoena power" of the September 11 attacks, which, according to the organization, should include an inquiry into the possible use of explosives in the destruction of the World Trade Center buildings.^{[82][83]} Richard Gage, a San Francisco Bay area-based architect,^[84] founded Architects & Engineers for 9/11 Truth in 2006.^{[2][85]}

Two people holding a banner of Architects & Engineers for 9/11 Truth

Investigations by the Federal Emergency Management Agency and the National Institute of Standards and Technology (NIST) have concluded that the buildings collapsed as a result of the impacts of the planes and of the fires that resulted from them.^{[51][86]} Gage criticized NIST for not having investigated the complete sequence of the collapse of the World Trade Center towers in its report,^[87] and claims "the official explanation of the total destruction of the World Trade Center skyscrapers has explicitly failed to address the massive evidence for explosive demolition."^[88] To support its position, the group Architects & Engineers for 9/11 Truth points to the "free fall" pace of the collapse of the buildings, the "lateral ejection of steel", and to the "mid-air pulverization of concrete", among other things.^[89]

9/11 Truth

9/11 Truth was launched in June 2004 and has become a central portal for many 9/11 Truth movement organizations. It is run by Janice Matthews (Executive Director),^{[90][91]} David Kubiak (International Campaign Advisor)^[92] and Mike Berger (Media Coordinator),^[93] among others, and its advisory board includes Steven E. Jones and Barrie Zwicker.^[94]

The organization co-sponsored opinion polls conducted by the U.S. market research and opinion polling firm Zogby International that have shown substantial numbers of people believing the government did not tell the full truth about the September 11 attacks.

Scholars for 9/11 Truth

The original Scholars for 9/11 Truth was founded by James H. Fetzer, a former philosophy professor, and physicist Steven E. Jones, in December 2005. It was a group of people of differing backgrounds and expertise who rejected the mainstream media and government account of the September 11 attacks.^{[3][95]} Initially the group invited many ideas and hypotheses to be considered. However, leading members soon came to feel that the inclusion of some theories advocated by Fetzer—such as the use of directed energy weapons or miniature nuclear bombs to destroy the Twin Towers—were insufficiently supported by evidence and were exposing the group to ridicule. By December 2006, Jones and others set up a new scholars group, Scholars for 9/11 Truth and Justice, which described its focus as the use of scientific analysis.^[96] The original members took a vote on which group to join and the majority voted to move to the new group.^[97]

Scholars for 9/11 Truth & Justice

Scholars for 9/11 Truth & Justice (STJ) formed in January 2007 and is a self-described "group of scholars and supporters endeavoring to address the unanswered questions of the September 11, 2001 attack through scientific research and public education".^[98] The group is composed of more than 900 members,^[99] including Richard Gage, Steven E. Jones, Jim Hoffman, David Ray Griffin, and former Congressman Daniel Hamburg. Most members support the conspiracy theory that the World Trade Center Towers and the third skyscraper, WTC 7, were destroyed through explosive demolition.

In 2008 and 2009, several members of the Scholars for 9/11 Truth & Justice published essays in science and engineering journals. In April 2008, a letter by some of its members, was published in The Open Civil Engineering Journal.^[100] In July 2008, an article by Steven E. Jones and others was published in The Environmentalist.^[101]

In October 2008, a comment by STJ member James R. Gourley describing what he considers fundamental errors in a Bažant and Verdure paper was included in an issue of the Journal of Engineering Mechanics.^[102] In April 2009, Danish chemist and STJ member Niels H. Harrit, of the University of Copenhagen, and eight other authors, including some STJ members, published a paper in The Open Chemical Physics Journal, entitled Active Thermitic Material Discovered in Dust from the 9/11 World Trade Center Catastrophe. The paper, which caused the editor and only peer-reviewer, Professor Pileni, to resign, claiming it was published without her knowledge,^[103] concludes that chips consisting of unreacted and partially reacted nano-thermite ("super-thermite") appear to be present in samples of the dust.^{[71][104]}

9/11 Citizens Watch

9/11 Citizens Watch was formed in 2002 by John Judge and Kyle Hence and, along with the Family Steering Committee, played an active role in calling for the establishment of the 9/11 Commission, and monitoring the commission closely.^[105]

9/11 Commission Campaign

Founded in 2011 by Senator Mike Gravel, the 9/11 Commission Campaign's objective is to enact subpoena-capable, state-level commissions through state ballot initiatives, namely in Oregon, Alaska and California.^[106] These commissions are envisioned as citizen-driven, independent organizations that would form a semi-unified grassroots national presence by exercising joint powers authority.

Hispanic Victims Group

The Hispanic Victims Group is a group created after the 9/11 attacks, founded by William Rodriguez,^[107] a supporter of the 9/11 Truth movement. The group was one of the key forces behind the creation of the 9/11 Commission.^[105] William Rodriguez, as founder of the group, was a member of the Families Advisory Council for the Lower Manhattan Development Corporation (LMDC).^[108]

Conferences

Members of the 9/11 truth organizations, such as 911truth.org and Scholars for 9/11 Truth and Justice, held meetings and conferences to discuss ongoing research about 9/11 and to strategize about how best to achieve their goals during the early 2000s and 2010s. Many of these conferences are organized by 911truth.org, and some have been covered by the international media.^[109]

Opponents

Matt Taibbi of Rolling Stone assessed that the movement "gives supporters of Bush an excuse to dismiss critics of this administration", and expressed concerns about the number of people who believe in 9/11 conspiracy theories.^[110]

Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) engineering professor Thomas W. Eagar was at first unwilling to acknowledge the concerns of the movement, saying that "if (the argument) gets too mainstream, I'll engage in the debate". In response to Steven E. Jones' publication of a hypothesis that the World Trade Center was destroyed by controlled demolition, Eagar said that adherents of the 9/11 Truth movement would use the reverse scientific method to arrive at their conclusions, as they "determine what happened, throw out all the data that doesn't fit their conclusion, and then hail their findings as the only possible conclusion".^[111]

Calling conspiracy theorists "the truthers", Bill Moyers has quoted journalist Robert Parry by stating that the theorists "...threw out all the evidence of al-Qaeda's involvement, from contemporaneous calls from hijack victims on the planes to confessions from al-Qaeda leaders both in and out of captivity that they had indeed done it. Then, recycling some of the right's sophistry techniques, such as using long lists of supposed evidence to overcome the lack of any real evidence, the 'truthers' cherry-picked a few supposed 'anomalies' to build an 'inside-job' story line".^[112]

Al-Qaeda has sharply criticized Iran's ex-president, Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, over his suggestions that the U.S. government was behind the September 11 attacks, dismissing his comments as "ridiculous".^[113]

Some skeptics^[114]—who oppose conspiracy as the a priori explanation to events, and who find most of the questions posed by the Truthers to be either easily answered^[115] or based on misleading or false ideas^[116]—have claimed that some of the Truthers are knowingly disseminating false information with no care for the grieving families, and have accordingly called them "disrespectful" or even "sickos".^[117]

In popular culture

In Louis CK's special 2017, he recounts a story in which his daughter, having heard the phrase "nine-eleven-deniers" on NPR, misunderstood the group's purpose. The bit goes on to describe a conspiracy group of nine people who deny the existence of the number 11.

Media

Books

William Rodriguez at American Scholars Symposium: 9/11 and the NeoCon Agenda in Los Angeles, California, June 24–25, 2006

In September 2004, the interactive "Complete 9/11 Timeline" website by Paul Thompson, a collection of mainstream media reports presented chronologically, was made into the book, entitled The Terror Timeline.^[118]

Films

Films made by people associated with the 9/11 Truth movement include:

- The Great Conspiracy: The 9/11 News Special You Never Saw (2005) by Barrie Zwicker^[119]
- Martial Law 9/11: Rise of the Police State (2005) by Alex Jones^[120]
- 9/11: Press for Truth (2006) by Ray Nowosielski^{[121][122]}
- 911 Mysteries Part 1: Demolitions (2006) by Sofia Shafquat^[123]
- Zeitgeist: The Movie (part ii) (2007) by Peter Joseph
- 9/11: Blueprint for Truth (2007) and updated 9/11: Blueprint for Truth – The Architecture of Destruction (2008)^[124] by Richard Gage
- The New American Century (2007) by Massimo Mazzucco^[125]
- Loose Change: An American Coup (2009) by Dylan Avery
- New World Order (2009) by Luke Meyer and Andrew Neel^{[126][127]}
- 9/11: Explosive Evidence – Experts Speak Out (2012) by Architects & Engineers for 9/11 Truth^[128]
- September 11: The New Pearl Harbor (2013), a five-hour documentary by Massimo Mazzucco^[129]
- David Hooper's The Anatomy of a Great Deception (2014)^[130]

References

1. Feuer, Alan (June 5, 2006). "500 Conspiracy Buffs Meet to Seek the Truth of 9/11" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2006/06/05/us/05conspiracy.html>). New York Times. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110512222259/http://www.nytimes.com/2006/06/05/us/05conspiracy.html>) from the original on May 12, 2011. Retrieved May 24, 2009. "the movement known as "9/11 Truth", a society of skeptics and scientists who believe the government was complicit in the terrorist attacks."
2. Rudin, Mike (July 4, 2008). "The evolution of a conspiracy theory" (http://news.bbc.co.uk/2/low/uk_news/magazine/7488159.stm). BBC. Retrieved May 23, 2009.
3. Barber, Peter (June 7, 2008). "The truth is out there" (<https://www.ft.com/cms/s/2/8d66e778-3128-11dd-ab22-000077b07658.html>). Financial Times. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090603164130/http://www.ft.com/cms/s/2/8d66e778-3128-11dd-ab22-000077b07658.html>) from the original on June 3, 2009. Retrieved May 23, 2009. "an army of sceptics, collectively described as the 9/11 Truth movement"
4. Powell, Michael (September 8, 2006). "The Disbelievers" (https://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2006/09/07/AR2006090701669_pf.html). Washington Post. Retrieved May 30, 2009. "The loose agglomeration known as the '9/11 Truth Movement'"
5. Barry, Ellen (September 10, 2006). "9/11 Conspiracy Theorists Gather in N.Y." (<https://articles.latimes.com/2006/sep/10/nation/na-conspiracy10>) Los Angeles Times. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090617183636/http://articles.latimes.com/2006/sep/10/nation/na-conspiracy10>) from the original on June 17, 2009. Retrieved May 30, 2009. "a group known as the 9/11 Truth Movement"
6. Hunt, H.E. (November 19, 2008). "The 30 greatest conspiracy theories – part 1" (<https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/newstopics/howaboutthat/3483477/The-30-greatest-conspiracy-theories-part-1.html>). Daily Telegraph. London. Retrieved May 30, 2009. "A large group of people – collectively called the 9/11 Truth Movement"

7. Kay, Jonathan (April 25, 2009). "Richard Gage: 9/11 truther extraordinaire" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20100701172048/http://www.financialpost.com/scripts/story.html?id=f54cf9ee-4637-44de-8819-19d918b3241b&k=21893>). Financial Post. Archived from the original (<http://www.financialpost.com/scripts/story.html?id=f54cf9ee-4637-44de-8819-19d918b3241b&k=21893>) on July 1, 2010. Retrieved August 4, 2010. "The '9/11 Truth Movement,' as it is now commonly called"
8. Ravensbergen, Jan (May 2, 2010). "9/11 skeptics to speak at UQAM" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20100504062139/http://www.montrealgazette.com/news/skeptics%2Bspeak%2BUQAM/2976659/story.html>). Montreal Gazette. Archived from the original (<https://montrealgazette.com/news/skeptics+spea+k+UQAM/2976659/story.html>) on May 4, 2010. Retrieved May 3, 2010. "two leading voices of what's known as the 9/11 truth movement"
9. Morales, Frank (June 11, 2009). "9/11 Truth comes home; Pols back new investigation" (https://web.archive.org/web/20090614224623/http://www.thevillager.com/villager_319/talkingpoint.html). Villager. Archived from the original (http://www.thevillager.com/villager_319/talkingpoint.html) on June 14, 2009. Retrieved June 21, 2009.
10. Olivier, Clint (May 26, 2009). "Controversial Group Re-Examines 9/11 In Clovis" (https://web.archive.org/web/20090912013237/http://www.kmph.com/Global/story.asp?S=10427820&nav=menu612_2_2). KMPH Fox News. Archived from the original (http://www.kmph.com/Global/story.asp?S=10427820&nav=menu612_2_2) on September 12, 2009. Retrieved May 28, 2009.
11. Lake, Eli (April 10, 2008). "U.N. Official Calls for Study Of Neocons' Role in 9/11" (<http://www.nysun.com/news/foreign/un-official-calls-study-neocons-role-911>). New York Sun. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090529075002/http://nysun.com/news/foreign/un-official-calls-study-neocons-role-911>) from the original on May 29, 2009. Retrieved June 21, 2009.
12. "Citizens Petition New York Attorney General to Open 9-11 Inquiry" (<http://www.ens-newswire.com/ens/oct2004/2004-10-29-06.asp>). Environment News Service. October 29, 2004. Retrieved June 21, 2009.
13. Siegel, Jefferson (June 18, 2008). "'Pentagon Papers senator' calls for new 9/11 probe" (https://web.archive.org/web/20090912171656/http://www.thevillager.com/villager_268/pentagonpapers.html). Villager. Archived from the original (http://www.thevillager.com/villager_268/pentagonpapers.html) on September 12, 2009. Retrieved June 21, 2009.
14. "Sen. Karen Johnson's floor speech about 9/11" (http://eastvalleytribune.com/article_6294b160-5bf3-5925-b34b-856202b2f397.html). East Valley Tribune. June 9, 2008. Retrieved December 13, 2010.
15. Sutton, Tori (February 18, 2010). "Seeking the truth about 9/11" (<http://www.stratfordgazette.com/stratford/article/86274>). Stratford Gazette. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20100324192812/http://www.stratfordgazette.com/stratford/article/86274>) from the original on March 24, 2010. Retrieved February 19, 2010.
16. Manjoo, Farhad (June 27, 2006). "The 9/11 deniers" (https://web.archive.org/web/20091127063119/http://www.salon.com/ent/feature/2006/06/27/911_conspiracies). Salon. Archived from the original (http://www.salon.com/ent/feature/2006/06/27/911_conspiracies) on November 27, 2009. Retrieved September 19, 2010.
17. Debunking 9/11 Myths: Why Conspiracy Theories Can't Stand Up to the Facts, by David Dunbar and Brad Reagan, Sterling Publishing Company, Inc., 2006, p.x-xix et passim
18. Bunch, Sonny (September 24, 2007). "The Truthers Are Out There" (<http://www.weeklystandard.com/Content/Public/Articles/000/000/014/113zubvo.asp>). Weekly Standard. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20071003222637/http://www.weeklystandard.com/Content/Public/Articles/000/000/014/113zubvo.asp>) from the original on October 3, 2007. Retrieved September 19, 2011.
19. Kennedy, Gene (September 8, 2006). "BYU Professor on Paid Leave for 9-11 Theory" (<http://www.ksl.com/?nid=148&sid=476951>). KSL TV. "Jones is a physics professor involved in what's called the "9-11 Truth Movement"."

20. Molé, Phil (2006). "9/11 Conspiracy Theories: The 9/11 Truth Movement Perspective" (<http://www.skeptic.com/eskeptic/06-09-11>). Skeptic. 12 (4). Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090606001336/http://www.skeptic.com/eskeptic/06-09-11>) from the original on June 6, 2009. Retrieved June 2, 2009. "a larger coalition known as the "9/11 Truth Movement""
21. Sales, Nancy Jo (August 2006). "Click Here for Conspiracy" (<https://www.vanityfair.com/ontheweb/features/2006/08/loosechange200608>). Vanity Fair. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090530062159/http://www.vanityfair.com/ontheweb/features/2006/08/loosechange200608>) from the original on May 30, 2009. Retrieved June 2, 2009. "a nationwide collection of doubters known as the "9/11 Truth" movement"
22. Grossman, Lev (September 3, 2006). "Why the 9/11 Conspiracy Theories Won't Go Away" (<http://www.time.com/time/magazine/article/0,9171,1531304,00.html>). Time.
23. Harvey, Adam (September 3, 2006). "9/11 myths busted" (<http://www.news.com.au/couriermail/story/0,23739,20341165-5007191,00.html>). Courier Mail. The Sunday Mail (Qld).
24. "Conspiracy theories: The Speculation" (<http://www.cbc.ca/fifth/conspiracytheories/speculation.html>). CBC. October 29, 2003. Retrieved June 2, 2009.
25. Curiel, Jonathan (September 3, 2006). "The Conspiracy to Rewrite 9/11" (<http://www.sfgate.com/cgi-bin/article.cgi?f=/c/a/2006/09/03/INGR0KRCBA1.DTL>). San Francisco Chronicle. Retrieved June 2, 2009.
26. Gravois, John (June 23, 2006). "Professors of Paranoia?" (<http://chronicle.com/free/v52/i42/42a01001.htm>). The Chronicle of Higher Education. Retrieved September 19, 2011.
27. Bob von Sternberg, Star Tribune, (Minneapolis, MN) – September 6, 2006, Metro Section: News, p. 1A.
28. "Culture Of Conspiracy: The Birthers" (<http://www.cbsnews.com/stories/2009/03/01/politics/politico/main4836526.shtml>). CBS News. March 1, 2009.
29. "A leading Japanese politician espouses a 9/11 fantasy" (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2010/03/07/AR2010030702354.html>). Washington Post. March 8, 2010.
30. Fenster, Mark (2008). Conspiracy Theories: Secrecy and Power in American Culture. Minneapolis; London: University of Minnesota Press. ISBN 978-0816654949.
31. Jonas, Jillian (January 25, 2004). "Analysis: Challenge by 'honest Republican'" (http://www.upi.com/Business_News/Security-Industry/2004/01/25/Analysis-Challenge-by-honest-Republican/UPI-77191075046442). United Press International. Retrieved May 29, 2011.
32. Buchanan, John. "Is George Bush guilty of treason?" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20040326051601/http://johnbuchanan.org/news/newsitem.php?section=INF&id=1504&showcat=4>). Archived from the original (<http://johnbuchanan.org/news/newsitem.php?section=INF&id=1504&showcat=4>) on March 26, 2004. Retrieved September 19, 2011. "On September 1, 2000, before Mr. Bush took office, the Project for a New American Century proposed the invasions, without provocation or attack, of Afghanistan and Iraq. The motive? 'to protect America's oil interests.' The signatories to that sinister plan – Dick Cheney, Paul Wolfowitz, and Richard Perle, to name but a few – cleverly and dishonorably set the stage for all that would follow, including the horrifying spectacle of 9/11, when they noted that since well-fed and materially-comfortable Americans would lack the will and focus to fight such 'interventionist' wars – now known as 'The Bush Doctrine' – there must be a galvanizing incident on the order of Pearl Harbor."
33. "Jeff Boss's name is in box F10" (<http://www.co.gloucester.nj.us/civica/filebank/blobload.asp?BlobID=5945>). www.co.gloucester.nj.us.
34. Bartlett, Jamie; Miller, Carl (2011). "A Bestiary of the 9/11 Truth Movement: Notes from the Front Line" (https://web.archive.org/web/20121001051753/http://www.csicop.org/si/show/a_bestiary_of_the_9_11_truth_movement_notes_from_the_front_line). Skeptical Inquirer. 35.4 (July/August): 43–46. Archived from the original (http://www.csicop.org/si/show/a_bestiary_of_the_9_11_truth_movement_notes_from_the_front_line) on October 1, 2012. Retrieved September 27, 2012.

35. Sullivan, Will (September 3, 2006). "Viewing 9/11 From a Grassy Knoll – You won't believe what the conspiracy theorists are claiming-or will you?" (https://web.archive.org/web/20090422134537/http://www.usnews.com/usnews/news/articles/060903/11conspiracy_2.htm). U.S. News & World Report. Archived from the original (https://www.usnews.com/usnews/news/articles/060903/11conspiracy_2.htm) on April 22, 2009. Retrieved May 24, 2009.
36. Jacobson, Mark (March 20, 2006). "The Ground Zero Grassy Knoll" (<https://nymag.com/news/features/16464>). New York Magazine. Retrieved June 2, 2009.
37. Manjoo, Farhad (August 7, 2008). "The Anthrax Truth Movement" (<http://www.slate.com/id/2196986>). Slate.
38. Tobin, Hugh (May 21, 2008). "Conspiracy theory lunacy" (<http://www.abc.net.au/unleashed/stories/s2250663.htm>). Australian Broadcasting Corporation.
39. Jones, Steven; Korol, Robert; Szamboti3, Anthony; Walter, Ted (2016). "15 Years Later: On the Physics of High-rise Building Collapses" (<http://www.europhysicsnews.org/articles/e pn/pdf/2016/04/e pn2016-47-4.pdf>) (PDF). Europhysicsnews – the Magazine of the European Physical Society. 47 (7): 21–26. Bibcode:2016ENews..47d..21J (<https://ui.adsabs.harvard.edu/abs/2016ENews..47d..21J>). doi:10.1051/e pn/2016402 (<https://doi.org/10.1051%2Fepn%2F2016402>).
40. Getler, Michael (September 17, 2012). "The Disaster That Keeps on Giving" (https://www.pbs.org/ombudsman/2012/09/the_disaster_that_keeps_on_giving_1.html). PBS. Retrieved December 3, 2012.
41. Ostrow, Joanne (August 21, 2009). "KBDI pushes limits on controversial pledge tie-ins" (http://www.denverpost.com/ostrow/ci_13163170). Denver Post. Retrieved December 3, 2012.
42. Brzezinski, Zbigniew (October 1, 2004). Crossing the Rubicon: The Decline of the American Empire at the End of the Age of Oil. New Society Publishers. ISBN 978-0865715400.
43. Ray, David (2006). Towers of Deception: The Media Cover-up of 9/11 (<https://archive.org/details/towersofdeceptio00barr>). New Society Publishers. ISBN 978-0865715738.
44. Shaffer, Anthony (2002). "Forbidden Truth: U.S.-Taliban Secret Oil Diplomacy Saudi Arabia And The Failed Search For Bin Laden" (<https://www.amazon.com/dp/B0029E9RAE>). Nation Books. Retrieved May 30, 2011.
45. Ray, David (2006). Conspiracies, Conspiracy Theories, and the Secrets of 9/11. Progressive Press. ISBN 978-0930852238.
46. Die CIA und der 11. September. Internationaler Terror und die Rolle der Geheimdienste. Piper. 2003. ISBN 978-3-492-04545-2.
47. Bush Did It: Pictures From 9/11 Protest in Oakland (<https://www.indybay.org/newsitems/2002/09/14/1486451.php>), by Z, September 14, 2002, San Francisco Bay Area Indymedia website; accessed February 26, 2014.
48. Rossmeier, Vincent (September 11, 2009). "Would you still sign the 9/11 Truth petition?" (http://www.salon.com/news/feature/2009/09/11/truth_petition). Salon. Retrieved September 11, 2009.
49. Keating, Joshua; Downie, James (September 10, 2009). "The World's Most Persistent Conspiracy Theories" (https://foreignpolicy.com/articles/2009/09/10/the_worlds_most_popular_conspiracy_theories). Foreign Policy. Retrieved September 13, 2009.
50. Burnham, Michael (September 8, 2009). "Embattled Van Jones Quits, but "Czar" Debates Rage On" (<https://www.nytimes.com/gwire/2009/09/08/08greenwire-embattled-van-jones-quits-but-czar-debates-rage-9373.html>). New York Times. Retrieved April 23, 2010.
51. Jim Dwyer (September 2, 2006). "2 U.S. Reports Seek to Counter Conspiracy Theories About 9/11" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2006/09/02/nyregion/02conspiracy.html>). New York Times. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110512221337/http://www.nytimes.com/2006/09/02/nyregion/02conspiracy.html>) from the original on May 12, 2011. Retrieved April 30, 2009.

52. Walch, Tad (September 8, 2006). "BYU places '9/11 truth' professor on paid leave" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090108144212/http://deseretnews.com/article/1%2C5143%2C645199800%2C00.html>). Deseret Morning News. Archived from the original (<http://www.deseretnews.com/article/1,5143,645199800,00.html>) on January 8, 2009. Retrieved January 4, 2009. Sullivan, Will (September 11, 2006). "BYU takes on a 9/11 conspiracy professor" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090430003625/http://www.usnews.com/usnews/news/articles/060911/11conspiracy.htm>). U.S. News & World Report. Archived from the original (<https://www.usnews.com/usnews/news/articles/060911/11conspiracy.htm>) on April 30, 2009. Retrieved April 26, 2009. "BYU Professor Who Believes WTC Brought Down by Explosives Resigns" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090620085444/http://www.foxnews.com/story/0%2C2933%2C223318%2C00.html>). Fox News. October 21, 2006. Archived from the original (<http://www.foxnews.com/story/0,2933,223318,00.html>) on June 20, 2009. Retrieved May 15, 2009. Walch, Tad (October 22, 2006). "BYU professor in dispute over 9/11 will retire" (<http://deseretnews.com/dn/view/0,1249,650200587,00.html>). Deseret Morning News. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090531100558/http://www.deseretnews.com/dn/view/0%2C1249%2C650200587%2C00.html>) from the original on May 31, 2009. Retrieved May 15, 2009. "Steven E. Jones. Retired Professor" (<http://www.physics.byu.edu/research/energy>). Brigham Young University. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090422055623/http://www.physics.byu.edu/research/energy>) from the original on April 22, 2009. Retrieved May 6, 2009.
53. The Theory vs. the Facts (http://www.slate.com/articles/news_and_politics/trutherism/2011/09/the_theory_vs_the_facts.html), Slate, Jeremy Stahl, September 7, 2011. Retrieved August 20, 2018.
54. Ruethling, Gretchen (August 1, 2006). "A Skeptic on 9/11 Prompts Questions on Academic Freedom" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2006/08/01/education/01madison.html>). New York Times. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20121110164623/http://www.nytimes.com/2006/08/01/education/01madison.html>) from the original on November 10, 2012. Retrieved May 17, 2009.
55. "Wisconsin academic: 9/11 report a fraud" (<http://edition.cnn.com/CNN/Programs/anderson.cooper.360/blog/2006/11/wisconsin-academic-911-report-fraud.html>). CNN. November 20, 2006. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090604004531/http://edition.cnn.com/CNN/Programs/anderson.cooper.360/blog/2006/11/wisconsin-academic-911-report-fraud.html>) from the original on June 4, 2009. Retrieved May 7, 2009.
56. Asquith, Christina (September 5, 2006). "Who really blew up the twin towers?" (<https://www.theguardian.com/education/2006/sep/05/internationaleducationnews.highereducation>). The Guardian. London, UK. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090501185220/http://www.guardian.co.uk/education/2006/sep/05/internationaleducationnews.highereducation>) from the original on May 1, 2009. Retrieved May 6, 2009.
57. Diffalah, Sarah (July 23, 2009). "11/09: le crash du Pentagone toujours contesté". Nouvel Observateur.
58. "Group calls for renewed Sept. 11 probe" (http://www.upi.com/Top_News/2009/08/10/Group-calls-for-renewed-Sept-11-probe/UPI-81561249924847). United Press International. August 10, 2009. Retrieved August 12, 2009.
59. "New York Judges Fight New Investigation of 9/11" (http://www.salem-news.com/articles/october132009/911_review_10-13-09.php). Salem-News.com. October 13, 2009. Retrieved July 27, 2010.
60. "Christopher Burke, et. al against Michael McSweeney, City Clerk, and the Board of Elections, City of New York" (<https://www.scribd.com/doc/21193128/09-10-09-Lehner-Order>). Supreme Court of the State of New York. scribd.com. October 8, 2009. Retrieved July 27, 2010.
61. de Vries, Lloyd (July 20, 2004). "9/11 Report: The Open Question" (<http://www.cbsnews.com/stories/2004/07/21/iraq/main630797.shtml>). CBS News. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090603175951/http://www.cbsnews.com/stories/2004/07/21/iraq/main630797.shtml>) from the original on June 3, 2009. Retrieved June 1, 2009.
62. "The Family Steering Committee" (<http://www.911independentcommission.org>). 911independentcommission.org. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110606114246/http://911independentcommission.org/>) from the original on June 6, 2011. Retrieved May 30, 2011.

63. Harmanci, Reyhan (March 30, 2006). "An inside job?" (<http://www.sfgate.com/cgi-bin/article.cgi?f=/c/a/2006/03/30/NSGB3HTBQ61.DTL>). The San Francisco Chronicle. Retrieved September 17, 2009.
64. Abrams, Joseph (July 15, 2008). "Critics Demand Resignation of U.N. Official Who Wants Probe of 9/11 'Inside Job' Theories" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090805030754/http://www.foxnews.com/story/0%2C2933%2C369122%2C00.html>). Fox News. Archived from the original (<http://www.foxnews.com/story/0,2933,369122,00.html>) on August 5, 2009. Retrieved September 17, 2009.
65. Bhaerman, Steve (June 14–20, 2006). "Unquestioned Answers" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20100218083349/http://www.bohemian.com/bohemian/06.14.06/david-ray-griffin-0624.html>). Bohemian. Archived from the original (<http://www.bohemian.com/bohemian/06.14.06/david-ray-griffin-0624.html>) on February 18, 2010. Retrieved September 17, 2009.
66. Solomon, Evan (August 25, 2006). "9/11: Truth, Lies and Conspiracy" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20080611112401/http://www.cbc.ca/sunday/911griffin.html>). CBC News. Archived from the original (<http://www.cbc.ca/sunday/911griffin.html>) on June 11, 2008. Retrieved September 17, 2009.
67. "Lawmaker asks McCain to talk with 9/11 theorists" (<https://www.azcentral.com/arizonarepublic/local/articles/0604johnson0604.html>). Arizona Republic. June 3, 2008. Retrieved May 30, 2011.
68. "Particle Atlas of World Trade Center Dust" (http://pubs.usgs.gov/of/2005/1165/table_1.html). United States Geological Survey. September 23, 2005. Retrieved June 29, 2010.
69. "WTC Dust Signature Report" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20091122142837/http://www.nyenvirolaw.org/WTC/130%20Liberty%20Street/Mike%20Davis%20LMDC%20130%20Liberty%20Documents/Signature%20of%20WTC%20dust/WTC%20Dust%20Signature.Composition%20and%20Morphology.Final.pdf>) (PDF). RJ LeeGroup, Inc. December 2003. Archived from the original (<http://www.nyenvirolaw.org/WTC/130%20Liberty%20Street/Mike%20Davis%20LMDC%20130%20Liberty%20Documents/Signature%20of%20WTC%20dust/WTC%20Dust%20Signature.Composition%20and%20Morphology.Final.pdf>) (PDF) on November 22, 2009. Retrieved June 29, 2010.
70. Phillips, Peter (2007). "Chapter 2: Censored Déjà Vu" (<https://books.google.com/books?id=Hg3DR7bIYgAC&pg=PA140>). Censored 2008: The Top 25 Censored Stories. Seven Stories Press. p. 140. ISBN 978-1-58322-772-5. Retrieved August 6, 2010.
71. Harrit, Niels H. "Active Thermite Material Discovered in Dust from the 9/11 World Trade Center Catastrophe" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110202230446/http://www.bentham.org/open/tocpj/articles/V002/7TOCPJ.pdf>) (PDF). Archived from the original (<http://www.bentham.org/open/tocpj/articles/V002/7TOCPJ.pdf>) (PDF) on February 2, 2011. Retrieved October 11, 2010.
72. Abel, Jennifer (January 29, 2008). "Theories of 9/11" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20080430203236/http://www.hartfordadvocate.com/article.cfm?aid=5546>). Hartford Advocate. Archived from the original (<http://www.hartfordadvocate.com/article.cfm?aid=5546>) on April 30, 2008. Retrieved August 6, 2010.
73. Thomas, Dave (July–August 2012). "New Info Challenges 9/11 Thermite Claims" (<http://www.nmsr.org/millette.pdf>) (PDF). Retrieved October 9, 2012.
74. "KPFA 94.1, Guns and Butter" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110614070353/http://www.kpfa.org/archive/id/17162>). Kpfa.org. September 28, 2005. Archived from the original (<http://www.kpfa.org/archive/id/17162>) on June 14, 2011. Retrieved May 30, 2011.
75. Walch, Tad (September 8, 2006). "BYU places '9/11 truth' professor on paid leave" (<http://deseretnews.com/dn/view/0,1249,645199800,00.html>). Deseret Morning News.
76. Sullivan, Will (September 11, 2006). "BYU takes on a 9/11 conspiracy professor" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090430003625/http://www.usnews.com/usnews/news/articles/060911/11conspiracy.htm>). US News & World Report. Archived from the original (<https://www.usnews.com/usnews/news/articles/060911/11conspiracy.htm>) on April 30, 2009.
77. "Request for Correction" (https://wayback.archive-it.org/all/20150418063156/http://ocio.os.doc.gov/ITPolicyandPrograms/Information_Quality/ssLINK/PROD01_004108). Archived from the original (http://ocio.os.doc.gov/ITPolicyandPrograms/Information_Quality/ssLINK/PROD01_004108) on April 18, 2015. Retrieved May 30, 2011.

78. "Communication re Information Quality Request #07-06" (https://web.archive.org/web/20110721034908/http://www.ocio.os.doc.gov/s/groups/public/@doc/@os/@ocio/@oitpp/documents/content/prod01_004622.pdf) (PDF). Archived from the original (http://www.ocio.os.doc.gov/s/groups/public/@doc/@os/@ocio/@oitpp/documents/content/prod01_004622.pdf) (PDF) on July 21, 2011. Retrieved May 30, 2011.
79. "9/11 truthers to distribute propaganda at museum opening" (<http://www.washingtontimes.com/news/2014/may/20/911-truthers-plan-propaganda-brochures-museum-open/>). Washington Times. Retrieved May 21, 2014.
80. Wagh, Manasee (March 25, 2011). "Group's 9/11 theories draw controversy and indignation" (https://web.archive.org/web/20110501042246/http://www.phillyburbs.com/news/local/courier_times_news/group-s-theories-draw-controversy-and-indignation/article_01d72cec-5573-59e8-9890-57edac492d37.html). phillyBurbs.com. Archived from the original (http://www.phillyburbs.com/news/local/courier_times_news/group-s-theories-draw-controversy-and-indignation/article_01d72cec-5573-59e8-9890-57edac492d37.html) on May 1, 2011. Retrieved April 15, 2011.
81. Sutcliffe, Thomas (July 7, 2008). "Yet more tall stories with no foundation" (<https://www.independent.co.uk/arts-entertainment/tv/reviews/the-weekends-tv-the-conspiracy-files-911-ndash-the-third-tower-sun-bbc2br-george-gently-sun-bbc2-861141.html>). Independent Extra. London, UK: The Independent. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090414093451/http://www.independent.co.uk/arts-entertainment/tv/reviews/the-weekends-tv-the-conspiracy-files-911-ndash-the-third-tower-sun-bbc2br-george-gently-sun-bbc2-861141.html>) from the original on April 14, 2009. Retrieved May 24, 2009.
82. "Un arquitecto estadounidense presenta en Madrid su versión alternativa al 11-S" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090309183324/http://www.telecinco.es/informativos/internacional/noticia/51928/Un+arquitecto+estadounidense+presenta+su+version+alternativa+al+11S+en+Madrid>). Telecinco. November 8, 2008. Archived from the original (<http://www.telecinco.es/informativos/internacional/noticia/51928/Un+arquitecto+estadounidense+presenta+su+version+alternativa+al+11S+en+Madrid>) on March 9, 2009. Retrieved May 23, 2009.
83. Mounir, Roderic (November 13, 2008). "Les attentats du 11-Septembre: "une démolition contrôlée!" " (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110525215901/http://www.lecourrier.ch/index.php?name=NewsPaper&file=article&sid=440823>). Le Courrier. Archived from the original (<http://www.lecourrier.ch/index.php?name=NewsPaper&file=article&sid=440823>) on May 25, 2011. Retrieved May 23, 2009.
84. Moskowitz, Eric (November 29, 2007). "Airing of 9/11 film ignites debate" (https://www.boston.com/news/local/articles/2007/11/29/airing_of_911_film_ignites_debate). Boston Globe. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20090604101255/http://www.boston.com/news/local/articles/2007/11/29/airing_of_911_film_ignites_debate) from the original on June 4, 2009. Retrieved May 23, 2009.
85. Barber, Peter (June 7, 2008). "The truth is out there" (<https://www.ft.com/cms/s/2/8d66e778-3128-11dd-ab22-000077b07658.html>). Financial Times. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090603164130/http://www.ft.com/cms/s/2/8d66e778-3128-11dd-ab22-000077b07658.html>) from the original on June 3, 2009. Retrieved May 23, 2009.
86. Glanz, James (March 29, 2002). "Towers Fell as Intense Fire Beat Defenses, Report Says" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2002/03/29/nyregion/nation-challenged-trade-center-towers-fell-intense-fire-beat-defenses-report.html>). New York Times. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090604181451/http://www.nytimes.com/2002/03/29/nyregion/nation-challenged-trade-center-towers-fell-intense-fire-beat-defenses-report.html>) from the original on June 4, 2009. Retrieved May 23, 2009.
87. Potocki, P. Joseph (August 27, 2008). "Down the 9-11 Rabbit Hole" (<http://www.bohemian.com/bohemian/08.27.08/cover-911.truth-0835.html>). Bohemian. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090604091229/http://www.bohemian.com/bohemian/08.27.08/cover-911.truth-0835.html>) from the original on June 4, 2009. Retrieved May 25, 2009.
88. Beam, Alex (January 14, 2008). "The truth is out there ... Isn't it?" (https://www.boston.com/ae/tv/articles/2008/01/14/the_truth_is_out_there___isnt_it). The Boston Globe. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20090603232630/http://www.boston.com/ae/tv/articles/2008/01/14/the_truth_is_out_there___isnt_it) from the original on June 3, 2009. Retrieved May 23, 2009.

89. Beam, Christopher (April 8, 2009). "Heated Controversy" (<http://www.slate.com/id/2215703>). Slate. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090518074848/http://www.slate.com/id/2215703>) from the original on May 18, 2009. Retrieved May 23, 2009.
90. Arkin, William M. (May 26, 2006). "9/11 Truth? I Don't Think So" (https://web.archive.org/web/20061110135208/http://blog.washingtonpost.com/earlywarning/2006/05/911_truth_i_dont_think_so.html). Washington Post. Archived from the original (http://blog.washingtonpost.com/earlywarning/2006/05/911_truth_i_dont_think_so.html) on November 10, 2006.
91. Hargrove, Thomas (August 1, 2006). "Third of Americans suspect 9-11 government conspiracy" (<http://web.archive.org/web/20100107092038/http://www.scrippsnews.com/911poll>). Scripps Howard News Service. Archived from the original (<http://www.scrippsnews.com/911poll>) on January 7, 2010. Retrieved December 18, 2009.
92. "Half of New Yorkers Believe US Leaders Had Foreknowledge of Impending 9-11 Attacks and "Consciously Failed" To Act..." (<https://web.archive.org/web/20040831092509/http://www.zogby.com/news/ReadNews.dbm?ID=855>) Zogby International. August 30, 2004. Archived from the original (<http://www.zogby.com/news/ReadNews.dbm?ID=855>) on August 31, 2004. Retrieved May 30, 2011.
93. "Charlie Sheen Questions Official 9/11 Explanations; "Young and Restless" Star Weighs in on Political Topics" (<http://transcripts.cnn.com/TRANSCRIPTS/0603/22/sbt.01.html>). CNN. March 22, 2006.
94. "911truth.org "About Us" " (<https://web.archive.org/web/20080210123422/http://www.911truth.org/article.php?story=20061014120445472#about>). Archived from the original (<http://www.911truth.org/article.php?story=20061014120445472#about>) on February 10, 2008. Retrieved July 29, 2007.
95. Pope, Justin (August 6, 2006). "9/11 Conspiracy Theories Persist, Thrive" (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2006/08/06/AR2006080600393.html>). Washington Post. Retrieved September 17, 2009. "[...] Barrett will teach a class on Islam at the University of Wisconsin this fall, over the protests of more than 60 state legislators. Jones is a tenured physicist at Brigham Young University [...] co-founder James Fetzer, a retired philosophy professor at the University of Minnesota Duluth [...]"
96. "Scholars for 9/11 Truth and Justice" (<http://stj911.org/index.html>). Scholars for 9/11 Truth and Justice.
97. "Scholars for 9/11 Truth and Justice" (<http://stj911.org/faq.html#quest7>).
98. "Scholars for 9/11 Truth & Justice" (<http://stj911.org/index.html>). Stj911.org. Retrieved May 20, 2014.
99. "STH911 Members" (<http://stj911.org/members/index.html>). Stj911.org. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110716221732/http://stj911.org/members/index.html>) from the original on July 16, 2011. Retrieved July 30, 2011.
00. Jones, Steven E. (2008). "Fourteen Points of Agreement with Official Government Reports on the World Trade Center Destruction" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20080610080428/http://www.bentham-open.org/pages/content.php?TOCIEJ%2F2008%2F00000002%2F00000001%2F35TOCIEJ.SGM>). Bentham Science Publishers. Archived from the original (<http://www.bentham-open.org/pages/content.php?TOCIEJ/2008/00000002/00000001/35TOCIEJ.SGM>) on June 10, 2008.
01. Jones, Steven E. (2008). "Environmental anomalies at the World Trade Center: evidence for energetic materials" (<https://doi.org/10.1007%2Fs10669-008-9182-4>). The Environmentalist. 29: 56–63. doi:10.1007/s10669-008-9182-4 (<https://doi.org/10.1007%2Fs10669-008-9182-4>).
02. James R. Gourley (2008). "Discussion of "Mechanics of Progressive Collapse: Learning from World Trade Center and Building Demolitions" by Zdenek P. Bažant and Mathieu Verdure" (<http://ascelibrary.aip.org/dbt/dbt.jsp?KEY=JENMDT&Volume=134&Issue=10#DISCUSSIONS%20AND%20CLOSURES>). ASCE Publications, Reston, VA.
03. "Chefredaktør skrider efter kontroversiel artikel om 9/11" (<http://videnskab.dk/teknologi/chefredaktor-skrider-efter-kontroversiel-artikel-om-911>). Vindeskab.dk. Retrieved July 23, 2012.

04. Politiken: Konspirationsteorier om 9/11 får nyt liv (<http://politiken.dk/indland/article684567.ece>), Jyllands-Posten: Forskere: Sprængstof i støvet fra WTC (<http://jp.dk/nyviden/article1654301.ece>), Ekstra Bladet: Mystik om WTC: Nano-termit i tårne (<http://ekstrabladet.dk/nationen/article1151442.ece>), Kristeligt Dagblad: Dansker genopliver konspirationsteori om 11. september (<http://www.kristeligt-dagblad.dk/artikel/319661:Danmark--Dansker-genopliver-konspirationsteori-om-11--september>), Videnskab: Dansk forsker: Eksplosivt nanomateriale fundet i støvet fra World Trade Center (<http://videnskab.dk/kultur-samfund/dansk-forsker-eksplosivt-nanomateriale-fundet-i-stovet-fra-world-trade-center>). The journal Videnskab is sponsored by the Danish Ministry for Science and Technology.
05. "The Christian Science Monitor – A key force behind the 9/11 commission" (<http://www.csmonitor.com/2004/0325/p03s01-usgn.htm>). Csmonitor.com. March 25, 2004. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090913044931/http://www.csmonitor.com/2004/0325/p03s01-usgn.htm>) from the original on September 13, 2009. Retrieved May 30, 2011.
06. "About the 9-11 Commission Campaign" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110716220127/http://9-11cc.org/>). 9-11cc.org. July 3, 2011. Archived from the original (<http://9-11cc.org/>) on July 16, 2011. Retrieved July 3, 2011.
07. Senior, Jennifer. "The Memorial Warriors" (<https://nymag.com/news/articles/wtc/1year/families.htm>). New York Magazine. Retrieved August 14, 2009.
08. "Chairman Whitehead Announces LMDC Advisory Councils" (<http://www.renewnyc.com/displaynews.aspx?newsid=5a791121-7404-4553-92ec-19c9b64237ad>). Lower Manhattan Development Corporation. January 31, 2002.
09. "Canada National Post: A theory that just won't die" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20120212210153/http://www.canada.com/nationalpost/news/story.html?id=2bcf9f07-6407-4b2c-9f4e-7d4a15afcb98&k=46273>). Canada.com. July 28, 2006. Archived from the original (<http://www.canada.com/nationalpost/news/story.html?id=2bcf9f07-6407-4b2c-9f4e-7d4a15afcb98&k=46273>) on February 12, 2012. Retrieved May 30, 2011.
10. Taibbi, Matt (2006). "The Low Post: I, Left Gatekeeper" (https://web.archive.org/web/20061017051120/http://www.rollingstone.com/politics/story/11818067/the_low_post_the_hopeless_stupidity_of_911_conspiracies/1). Politics. Rolling Stone. Archived from the original (https://www.rollingstone.com/politics/story/11818067/the_low_post_the_hopeless_stupidity_of_911_conspiracies/1) on October 17, 2006. Retrieved September 29, 2006.
11. Walch, Tad (2006). "Controversy dogs Y.'s Jones" (<https://www.deseret.com/2006/9/11/19973114/controversy-dogs-y-s-jones>). Utah news. Deseret News Publishing Company. Retrieved December 18, 2020.
12. Moyers, Bill. "Is This a Private Fight or Can Anyone Get In It?" (<http://www.commondreams.org/view/2011/02/15-7>). Common Dreams. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110628201056/http://www.commondreams.org/view/2011/02/15-7>) from the original on June 28, 2011. Retrieved May 30, 2011.
13. Youssef, Maamoun. "Al Qaeda says Iran's 9/11 theory 'ridiculous'" (<http://www.washingtontimes.com/news/2011/sep/29/al-qaeda-says-irans-911-theory-ridiculous/print/>). Associated Press. Retrieved September 29, 2011.
14. Summers, Anthony; Swan, Robbyn (August 14, 2012). The Eleventh Day: The Full Story of 9/11 (<http://archive.org/details/eleventhdayfulls0000summ>). Ballantine Books. Retrieved August 28, 2018 – via Internet Archive.
15. Such as the fall of several buildings besides tower 7, the collapse of tower 7, the elevator shaft fires in the mid floors during the plane crashes, the actually seen free-fall speed, and many other facts in answer to questions. For example, see Myles Power, "Debunking 9/11 conspiracy theorists", a seven part series on YouTube.
16. The Thermate/Thermite mixup, the vanishing wing of Flight 175 (hidden by a building close by, etc.)
17. Donald Prothero, "Yet Another Crazy Conspiracy Theory". The Skeptic Magazine, January 2013.

18. Knight, Peter (2008). "Outrageous Conspiracy Theories: Popular and Official Responses to 9/11 in Germany and the United States" (http://ngc.dukejournals.org/cgi/reprint/35/1_103/165.pdf) (PDF). New German Critique. 35 (1 103): 165. doi:10.1215/0094033X-2007-024 (<https://doi.org/10.1215%2F0094033X-2007-024>). Retrieved June 9, 2009.
19. "The Great Conspiracy: The 9/11 News Special You Never Saw (2005)" (<https://www.imdb.com/title/tt0462318/reference>). IMDb. Retrieved August 28, 2018.
20. "Martial Law 9/11: Rise of the Police State (2005)" (<https://www.imdb.com/title/tt0462415/reference>). IMDb. Retrieved August 28, 2018.
21. "Press for Truth (2006)" (<https://www.imdb.com/title/tt0867134/reference>). IMDb. Retrieved August 28, 2018.
22. 9/11 Press for Truth (2006) documents the struggle by the Jersey Widows to open a full investigation of the events, and their frustration while monitoring the 9/11 Commission as part of the Family Steering Committee.
23. "911 Mysteries Part 1: Demolitions (Video 2006)" (<https://www.imdb.com/title/tt0884319/reference>). IMDb. Retrieved August 28, 2018.
24. "9/11: Blueprint for Truth – The Architecture of Destruction (2008)" (<https://www.imdb.com/title/tt1791438/reference>). IMDb. Retrieved August 28, 2018.
25. "The New American Century (Video 2007)" (<https://www.imdb.com/title/tt5329238/reference>). IMDb. Retrieved August 28, 2018.
26. Alex Jones, 9/11 and New World Order conspiracy theorists are the subject of the documentary film New World Order, directed by Luke Meyer and Andrew Neel, that debuted on the Independent Film Channel on May 26, 2009. The documentary, while not endorsing the movement, is described as giving the movement "more sympathetic, or less critical, airing than they've yet had (except among the converted)". Ridley, Jim (May 19, 2009). "Doc Hangs with Conspiracy Theorists in New World Order" (<https://www.villagevoice.com/2009/05/20/doc-hangs-with-conspiracy-theorists-in-new-world-order/>). The Village Voice. Retrieved July 11, 2020.
27. Lee, Nathan (May 26, 2009). "Movie Review: 'New World Order': Conspiracy Theorists Examined" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2009/05/22/movies/22orde.html>). The New York Times. Retrieved July 11, 2020.
28. "9/11: Explosive Evidence – Experts Speak Out (2012)" (<https://www.imdb.com/title/tt2628664/reference>). IMDb. Retrieved August 28, 2018.
29. "September 11: The New Pearl Harbor (2013)" (<https://www.imdb.com/title/tt3828916/reference>). IMDb. Retrieved August 28, 2018.
30. "The Anatomy of a Great Deception (2014)" (<https://www.imdb.com/title/tt3842468/reference>). IMDb. Retrieved August 28, 2018.

Further reading

- Kay, Jonathan (2011). Among the Truthers: A Journey Through America's Growing Conspiracist Underground. Harper. ISBN 978-0-06-200481-9.
- Summers, Anthony (2011). The Eleventh Day: The Full Story Of 9/11 and Osama Bin Laden (<https://archive.org/details/eleventhdayfulls0000summ>). Random House. ISBN 978-1-4000-6659-9.

External links

Media coverage

- Asquith, Christina (September 5, 2006). "Who really blew up the twin towers?" (<http://education.guardian.co.uk/higher/worldwide/story/0,,1864657,00.html>). The Guardian. London. Retrieved April 23, 2010.
- Barber, Peter (June 7, 2008). "The Truth Is Out There – Part I" (<https://archive.vn/piYuW>). Financial Times. Archived from the original (<https://www.ft.com/cms/s/0/a3e2879e-342c-11dd-869b-0000779fd2ac.html>) on May 7, 2015. Retrieved July 12, 2020.
- Barber, Peter (June 7, 2008). "The Truth Is Out There – Part II" (<https://archive.vn/C7RTk>). Financial Times. Archived from the original (<https://www.ft.com/cms/s/0/e46f11d8-342c-11dd-869b-0000779fd2ac.html>) on May 7, 2015. Retrieved July 12, 2020.
- Barber, Peter (June 7, 2008). "The Truth Is Out There – Part III" (<https://archive.vn/dh6cb>). Financial Times. Archived from the original (<https://www.ft.com/cms/s/0/8a580372-342b-11dd-869b-0000779fd2ac.html>) on May 7, 2015. Retrieved July 12, 2020.
- Curiel, Jonathan (September 3, 2006). "The Conspiracy to Rewrite 9/11" (<http://www.sfgate.com/cgi-bin/article.cgi?f=/c/a/2006/09/03/INGR0KRCBA1.DTL>). San Francisco Chronicle.
- Fish, Stanley (August 23, 2010). "Truth and Conspiracy in the Catskills" (<http://opinionator.blogs.nytimes.com/2010/08/23/truth-and-conspiracy-in-the-catskills/>). The New York Times.
- Sales, Nancy Jo (August 2006). "Click Here for Conspiracy" (<https://www.vanityfair.com/ontheweb/features/2006/08/loosechange200608>). Vanity Fair.
- Swan, Robbyn; Summers, Anthony (August 2011). "The Kingdom and the Towers" (<https://www.vanityfair.com/politics/features/2011/08/9-11-2011-201108>). Vanity Fair.
- Senior, Jennifer (September 15, 2002). "The Memorial Warriors" (https://web.archive.org/web/20041212004428/http://newyorkmetro.com/nymetro/news/sept11/features/n_7691/index1.html). New York. Archived from the original (http://newyorkmetro.com/nymetro/news/sept11/features/n_7691/index1.html) on December 12, 2004. Retrieved September 19, 2011.

Retrieved from "https://en.wikipedia.org/w/index.php?title=9/11_truth_movement&oldid=1027070437"

This page was last edited on 5 June 2021, at 22:51 (UTC).

Text is available under the Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike License; additional terms may apply. By using this site, you agree to the Terms of Use and Privacy Policy. Wikipedia® is a registered trademark of the Wikimedia Foundation, Inc., a non-profit organization.

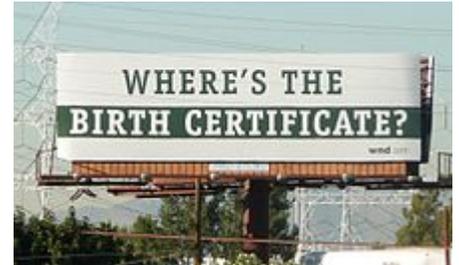

Barack Obama citizenship conspiracy theories

During Barack Obama's campaign for president in 2008, throughout his presidency, and afterwards, "there was extensive news coverage of Obama's religious preference, birthplace, and of the individuals questioning his religious belief and citizenship – efforts eventually known as the 'birther movement'",^[2] by which name it is widely referred to across media.^{[3][4][5][6][7][8][9]} The movement falsely asserted Obama was ineligible to be President of the United States because he was not a natural-born citizen of the U.S. as required by Article Two of the Constitution. Birther conspiracy theories were predominantly held by conservatives and Republicans, as well as individuals with anti-black attitudes.^{[10][11]}

Theories alleged that Obama's published birth certificate was a forgery – that his actual birthplace was not Hawaii but Kenya. Other theories alleged that Obama became a citizen of Indonesia in childhood, thereby losing his U.S. citizenship. Still others claimed that Obama was not a natural-born U.S. citizen because he was born a dual citizen (British and American). A number of political commentators have characterized these various claims as a racist reaction to Obama's status as the first African-American president of the United States.^[12]

These claims were promoted by fringe theorists (pejoratively referred to as "birthers"), the most prominent among whom was then-businessman-and-television-personality Donald Trump, who would later succeed Obama as president. Some theorists sought court rulings to declare Obama ineligible to take office, or to grant access to various documents which they claimed would support such ineligibility; none of these efforts succeeded. Some political opponents, especially in the Republican Party, expressed skepticism about Obama's citizenship or were unwilling to acknowledge it; some proposed legislation that would require presidential candidates to provide proof of eligibility.^[13]

Theories have persisted despite Obama's pre-election release of his official Hawaiian birth certificate in 2008,^[14] confirmation by the Hawaii Department of Health based on the original documents,^[15] the April 2011 release of a certified copy of Obama's original Certificate of Live Birth (or long-form birth certificate), and contemporaneous birth announcements published in Hawaii newspapers.^[16] Polls conducted in 2010 (before the April 2011 release) suggested that at least 25% of adult Americans said that they doubted Obama's U.S. birth,^{[17][18]} and a May 2011 Gallup poll found that the percentage had fallen to 13% of American adults (23% of Republicans).^[19] The fall has been attributed to Obama's release of the long form in April 2011.^{[20][21][22]}

A 2010 billboard displayed in South Gate, California, questioning the validity of Barack Obama's birth certificate and by extension his eligibility to serve as President of the U.S. The billboard was part of an advertising campaign by WorldNetDaily, whose web address appears on the billboard's bottom right corner.

Contents

Background

Early life of Barack Obama

Origins of the claims

Release of the birth certificates

Short form, 2008

Long form, 2011

False claims

Born in Kenya

Not born in Hawaii

Lost U.S. citizenship

Disputes over "natural-born citizen" requirements

Parental citizenship

Dual citizenship

Campaigners and proponents

Donald Trump

Joe Arpaio

Matthew Hill

Roy Moore

Richard Shelby

Roy Blunt

Jean Schmidt

Nathan Deal

Sarah Palin

Tracey Mann

David Vitter

Newt Gingrich

Andy Martin

Mike Huckabee

Michele Bachmann

Mike Coffman

Arizona electors

Political impact

Opinion surveys

Dilemma for Republicans

Commentary and criticism

Legislation and litigation

Impact on the 2012 presidential election and beyond

White House responses

Press secretary's response

Barack Obama's response

See also

References

External links

In response to the conspiracy theories, the White House released copies of the President's long-form birth certificate on April 27, 2011, and posted an image of it to the White House website,^[1] reaffirming that he was born on August 4, 1961, in Honolulu, Hawaii.

Background

Early life of Barack Obama

People who express doubts about Obama's eligibility or reject details about his early life are often informally called "birthers", a term that parallels^[23] the nickname "truthers" for adherents of 9/11 conspiracy theories.^{[24][25]} These conspiracy theorists reject at least some of the following facts about his early life:

Barack Obama was born on August 4, 1961, at Kapi'olani Maternity & Gynecological Hospital (now called Kapi'olani Medical Center for Women & Children) in Honolulu, Hawaii,^{[26][27][28][29]} to Ann Dunham,^[30] from Wichita, Kansas,^[31] and her husband Barack Obama Sr., a Luo from Nyang'oma Kogelo, Nyanza Province (in what was then the Colony and Protectorate of Kenya), who was attending the University of Hawaii. Birth notices for Barack Obama were published in The Honolulu Advertiser on August 13 and the Honolulu Star-Bulletin on August 14, 1961.^{[26][31]} Obama's father's immigration file also clearly states Barack Obama was born in Hawaii.^[32] One of his high school teachers, who was acquainted with his mother at the time, remembered hearing about the day of his birth.^[30]

Obama's parents were divorced in 1964. He attended kindergarten in 1966–1967 at Noelani Elementary School in Honolulu.^{[26][33]} In 1967, his mother married Indonesian student Lolo Soetoro,^[26] who was also attending the University of Hawaii, and the family moved to Jakarta, Indonesia,^[34] where Obama attended the Catholic St. Francis of Assisi School before transferring to State Elementary School Menteng 01, an elite Indonesian public school in Menteng. As a child in Indonesia, Obama was called "Barry", sometimes Barry Soetoro, reflecting his stepfather's surname, and sometimes Barry Obama, using his father's surname.^{[35][36][37]} When he was ten years old, Obama returned to Honolulu to live with his maternal grandparents, Madelyn and Stanley Dunham, and has resided continuously in the United States since 1971.

Origins of the claims

Conspiracy theories about Obama's religion appeared at least as early as his 2004 U.S. Senate campaign in a press release by Illinois political candidate Andy Martin,^[38] and, according to a Los Angeles Times editorial, as Internet rumors.^[39]

From the start of March 2008, rumors that Obama was born in Kenya before being flown to Hawaii were spread on conservative websites, with the suggestion that this would disqualify Obama from the presidency.^[40] In April of that year, some supporters of Hillary Clinton circulated anonymous chain emails repeating the same rumor,^[41] among them was an Iowa campaign volunteer, who was fired when the story emerged.^{[42][43]} These and numerous other chain e-mails during the subsequent presidential election circulated false rumors about Obama's origin, religion, and birth certificate.^{[44][45]}

On June 9, 2008, Jim Geraghty of the conservative website National Review Online suggested that Obama release his birth certificate.^{[46][47]} Geraghty wrote that releasing his birth certificate could debunk several false rumors circulating on the Internet, namely: that his middle name was originally Muhammad rather than Hussein; that his mother had originally named him "Barry" rather than "Barack"; and that Barack Obama Sr. was not his biological father, as well as the rumor that Barack Obama was not a natural-born citizen.^{[47][48][49]}

In August 2008, Philip J. Berg, a former member of the Democratic State Committee of Pennsylvania, brought an unsuccessful lawsuit against Obama, which alleged "that Obama was born in Mombasa, Kenya."^{[50][51]}

In October 2008, an NPR article referred to "Kenyan-born" Senator Barack Obama.^[52] Also that month, anonymous e-mails circulated claiming that the Associated Press (AP) had reported Obama was "Kenyan-Born".^[53] The claims were based on an AP story that had appeared five years earlier in a Kenyan publication, The Standard.^{[53][54]} The rumor-checking website Snopes.com found that the headline and lead-in sentence describing Obama as born in Kenya and misspelling his first name had been added by the Kenyan newspaper, and did not appear in the story issued by the AP or in any other contemporary newspaper that picked up the AP story.^{[53][55]}

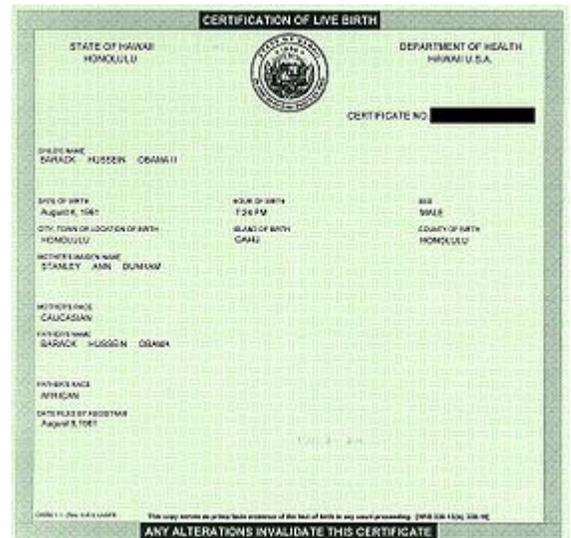

In 2012, the far-right website Breitbart published a copy of a promotional booklet that Obama's literary agency, Acton & Dystel, printed in 1991 (and later posted to their website, in a biography in place until April 2007) which misidentified Obama's birthplace and states that Obama was "born in Kenya and raised in Indonesia and Hawaii". When this was posted by Breitbart, the booklet's editor said that this incorrect information had been her mistake, not based on anything provided to her agency by Obama.^[56]

Release of the birth certificates

Short form, 2008

On June 12, 2008, Obama's campaign responded to the rumors by posting an image of Obama's birth certificate on the "Fight The Smears" website.^{[57][58]}

The image is a scan of a laser-printed document obtained from and certified by the Hawaii Department of Health on June 6, 2007. It is a "Certification of Live Birth", sometimes referred to as a short form birth certificate, and contains less information than the longer "Certificate of Live Birth", which Hawaii no longer issues.^{[59][60]} Asked about this, Hawaiian Department of Health spokeswoman Janice Okubo explained that Hawaii stopped issuing the longer "Certificate" in 2001 when their birth records were "put into electronic files for consistent reporting", and therefore Hawaii "does not have a short-form or long-form certificate".^[61] A "record of live birth", partially handwritten and partially typed, was created and submitted in 1961 when Obama was born, and is "located in a bound volume in a file cabinet on the first floor of the state Department of Health". The document was used to create the state's electronic records, and has been examined by state officials multiple times since the controversy began.^[60]

Scanned image of Barack Obama's birth certificate released by his presidential campaign in June 2008.^[31]

In releasing the certificate, the Obama website declared that the rumors "aren't actually about that piece of paper – they're about manipulating people into thinking Barack is not an American citizen."^[58] The campaign also provided the Daily Kos blog with a copy of the document.^{[62][63]} Referring to this release, National Review columnist Jim Geraghty, wrote on June 12, 2008:

... this document is what he or someone authorized by him was given by the state out of its records. Barring some vast conspiracy within the Hawaii State Department of Health, there is no reason to think his [original] birth certificate would have any different data.^[62]

Frequent arguments of those questioning Obama's eligibility related to the fact that he did not originally release a copy of his "original" or "long form" birth certificate, but rather a "short form" version that did not include all of the information given on 1961 Hawaii-issued birth certificates. It was claimed that the use of the term "certification of live birth" on the first document means it is not equivalent to a "birth certificate". These arguments have been debunked numerous times by media investigations,^[18] every judicial forum that has addressed the matter, and Hawaiian government officials – among whom a consensus has been reached that the document released by the Obama campaign is indeed his official birth certificate.^[64] The director of the state Department of Human Health confirmed that the state "has Senator Obama's original birth certificate on record in accordance with state policies and procedures".^{[15][65]} The short form is "prima facie evidence of the fact of birth in any court proceeding."^[31]

Rejection by conspiracy theorists

The release of the certificate in 2008 resulted in a fresh round of questions. It was asserted that the certificate had been digitally forged with Adobe Photoshop and lacked a stamped seal of the state, which led them to demand that Obama release his "original" 1961 birth certificate.^[48] Jerome Corsi, author of the book The Obama Nation: Leftist Politics and the Cult of Personality, told Fox News that "the campaign has a false, fake birth certificate posted on their website ... it's been shown to have watermarks from Photoshop. It's a fake document that's on the Web site right now, and the original birth certificate the campaign refuses to produce."^[31] This view was rejected by FactCheck.org, which viewed the Obama campaign's hard copy of the Certification of Live Birth and reported that:

FactCheck.org staffers have now seen, touched, examined and photographed the original birth certificate. We conclude that it meets all of the requirements from the State Department for proving U.S. citizenship. Claims that the document lacks a raised seal or a signature are false. We have posted high-resolution photographs of the document as "supporting documents" to this article. Our conclusion: Obama was born in the U.S.A. just as he has always said.^[31]

Corsi continued to cast doubt on Obama's birth certificate as late as March 2019. In a CNN interview, he stated, "I want to see the original 1961 birth records from Kenya, that'll settle it ... the State of Hawaii will not show those records to anyone." Corsi's attorney, Larry Klayman, falsely asserted during the same interview, "the birth certificate uses the word 'African-American' in 1961."^{[66][67]}

Hawaii Department of Health response

The director of Hawaii's Department of Health, Chiyome Fukino, issued a statement confirming that the state held Obama's "original birth certificate on record in accordance with state policies and procedures".^{[15][65]} Noting "there have been numerous requests for Senator Barack Hussein Obama's official birth certificate," Fukino explained that the department was prohibited by state law from releasing it to "persons who do not have a tangible interest in the vital record". She said: "No state official, including Governor Linda Lingle, has ever instructed that this vital record be handled in a manner different from any other vital record in the possession of the State of Hawaii."^{[15][68][69]}

According to the website TVNewser, CNN's researchers stated in 2009 that the original birth certificate no longer existed, as Hawaii discarded all paper birth records in 2001, and the certification of live birth was the official copy.^[70] Contradicting this report, Janice Okubo, public information officer for the Hawaii DOH, said "We don't destroy vital records."^[71] The Health Department's director emphasized the assertion:

I, Dr. Chiyome Fukino, director of the Hawaii State Department of Health, have seen the original vital records maintained on file by the Hawaii State Department of Health verifying Barack Hussein Obama was born in Hawaii and is a natural-born American citizen. I have nothing further to add to this statement or my original statement issued in October 2008, over eight months ago.^{[71][72]}

Joshua Wisch, a spokesman for the Hawaii Attorney General's office, stated in 2011 that the original "long form" birth certificate – described by Hawaiian officials as a "record of live birth" kept in the archives of the Hawaii Department of Health is "... a Department of Health record and it can't be released to anybody", including President Obama. Wisch added that state law does not authorize photocopying such records.^[60]

Long form, 2011

On April 22, 2011, Obama asked Loretta Fuddy, director of the Hawaii Department of Health, for certified copies of his original Certificate of Live Birth ("long-form birth certificate").^[73] Accompanying the letter was a written request from Judith Corley, Obama's personal counsel, requesting a waiver of the department's policy of issuing only computer-generated certificates. Corley stated that granting the waiver would relieve the department of the burden of repeated inquiries into the President's birth records.^[74]

On April 25, 2011, Fuddy approved the request and witnessed the copying process as the health department's registrar issued the certified copies. The same day, Corley personally visited the department headquarters in Honolulu to pay the required fee on Obama's behalf, and received the two requested certified copies of the original birth certificate, an accompanying letter from Fuddy attesting to the authenticity of same, and a receipt for the processing fee. Fuddy said that she had granted the exception to its normal policy of issuing only computer-generated copies by virtue of Obama's status, in an effort to avoid ongoing requests for the birth certificate.^{[75][76]}

On April 27, 2011, White House staffers gave reporters a copy of the certificate, and posted a PDF image of the certificate on the White House website.^{[77][78]} The certificate reconfirmed the information on the official short-form certificate released in 2008, and provided additional details such as the name of the hospital at which Obama was born.^{[79][80]}

Rejection by conspiracy theorists

A claim put forth by the Drudge Report^[81] that the newly released document was a forgery made with image editing software quickly spread on the Internet.^[82] Nathan Goulding, chief technology officer of the National Review magazine, dismissed the matter of "layered components" found in the White House PDF by suggesting "that whoever scanned the birth certificate in Hawaii forgot to turn off the OCR setting on the scanner." Nathan added, "I've confirmed that scanning an image, converting it to a PDF, optimizing that PDF, and then opening it up in Illustrator, does in fact create layers similar to what is seen in the birth certificate PDF. You can try it yourself at home."^[83]

"Showing papers"

Goldie Taylor, a commentator for the African American news site The Grio, characterized the demand that Obama provide his birth certificate as an equivalent of making him "show his papers", as blacks were once required to do under Jim Crow laws.^[84] Sociologist Matthew W. Hughey has cited many of the claims as evidence of racial "othering" of Obama against the conflation of the White Anglo-Saxon Protestant (WASP) subject as the ideal and authentic American citizen.^[85]

False claims

Born in Kenya

Some opponents of Obama's presidential eligibility claim that he was born in Kenya and was therefore not born a United States citizen. Whether Obama having been born outside the U.S. would have invalidated his U.S. citizenship at birth is debated. Political commentator Andrew Malcolm, of the Los Angeles Times, wrote that Obama would still be eligible for the presidency, regardless of where he was born, because his mother was an American citizen, saying that Obama's mother "could have been on Mars when wee Barry emerged and he'd still be American."^[86] A contrary view is promoted by UCLA Law Professor Eugene Volokh, who has said that in the hypothetical scenario that Obama was born outside the U.S., he would not be a natural-born citizen, since the then-applicable law^[87] would have required Obama's mother to have been in the U.S. at least "five years after the age of 14", but Ann Dunham was three months shy of her 19th birthday when Obama was born.^[88]

Obama's paternal step-grandmother's version of events

An incorrect but popularly reported claim is that his father's stepmother, Sarah Obama, told Anabaptist Bishop Ron McRae in a recorded transatlantic telephone conversation that she was present when Obama was born in Kenya.^[89]

The McClatchy newspapers gave an explanation of how the story about Obama's step-grandmother began. The tape is cut off in the middle of the conversation, before the passage in which she clarifies her meaning: "'Obama was not born in Mombasa. He was born in America,' the translator says after talking to the woman. ... Another response later says, 'Obama in Hawaii. Hawaii. She says he was born in Hawaii.'"^[90]

Sarah Obama shed more light on the controversy in a 2007 interview with the Chicago Tribune. In the interview, Obama's paternal step-grandmother stated that six months after Barack Obama Sr. and Ann Dunham were married, she received a letter at her home in Kenya announcing the birth of Barack Obama II, who was born August 4, 1961.^[91]

In a June 2012 interview at her Kenyan home, Sarah Obama was asked: "Some people want to believe that the president was born in Kenya. Have these people ever bothered you or asked for his birth certificate?" Her response was: "But Barack Obama wasn't born in Kenya."^[92]

Fake Kenyan birth certificate

On August 2, 2009, Orly Taitz released and attached to court documents a purported Kenyan birth certificate which she said, if authenticated and shown to be genuine, would significantly narrow and shorten the discovery and pre-trial litigation period in the Keyes v. Bowen lawsuit, in which the plaintiffs asked for a judicial order that Obama provide documentation that he is a natural-born citizen of the United States. Legal papers submitted describe the document as an "unauthenticated color photocopy of certified copy of registration of birth".^{[93][94]} The document was almost immediately revealed to be a forgery. It purports to have been issued by the "Republic of Kenya", when in fact, such a state did not yet exist at the time of Obama's birth as indicated on the document (Kenya was a British Colony until 1963).^[95]

Subsequently, evidence was unearthed that the alleged Kenyan birth certificate was a modified version of a 1959 Australian birth certificate found on an online genealogy website.^{[96][97]} The Washington Independent website cited an anonymous blogger^[98] as having taken responsibility for the forgery and posting four photos substantiating his claim.^[99]

Not born in Hawaii

Despite the existence of Obama's Hawaii certification of live birth, Terry Lakin's attorney, among others, have claimed that anyone, including foreign-born children, could acquire a Hawaiian certification of live birth, and so Obama's possession of such a certificate does not prove that he was born in Hawaii.^[100] However, the suggestion that this could have applied to Obama was rejected by Janice Okubo, director of communications for the Hawaii Department of Health: "If you were born in Bali, for example, you could get a certificate from the state of Hawaii saying you were born in Bali. You could not get a certificate saying you were born in Honolulu. The state has to verify a fact like that for it to appear on the certificate."^[101] Another fact that refutes this specific claim is that the law allowing foreign-born children to obtain Hawaiian birth certificates did not exist until 20 years after Obama was born, while Obama's published birth certificate says his birth information was recorded four days after his birth in 1961, and explicitly states that he was born in Honolulu.^[102]

Additionally, some people claim that the information in the birth certificate only has to be based on the testimony of one parent.^[102]

On July 27, 2009, Fukino issued a statement explicitly stating she has "seen the original vital records maintained on file by the Hawaii State Department of Health verifying Barack Hussein Obama was born in Hawaii and is a natural-born American citizen".^{[103][104]}

Hawaiian Department of Health spokeswoman Janice Okubo elaborated on state policy for the release of vital records: "If someone from Obama's campaign gave us permission in person and presented some kind of verification that he or she was Obama's designee, we could release the vital record."^[105]

A hospital spokesperson at Kapi'olani Medical Center for Women & Children has said that their standard procedure is to neither confirm nor deny Obama was born there, "even though all the information out there says he was born at Kapiolani Hospital", citing federal privacy laws.^[26]

91-939 Kalapu St., Ewa Beach, Ewa, daughter, Aug. 5.
Mr. and Mrs. Barack H. Obama,
6085 Kalanianaʻole Hwy., son, Aug. 4.
Mr. and Mrs. Norman Asing, 2135
Ani Aniku St., son, Aug. 4.
Mr. and Mrs. Andrew A. M.

Obama's birth announcement, published in The Honolulu Advertiser on August 13, 1961

In 1961, birth notices for Barack Obama were published in both the Honolulu Advertiser and the Honolulu Star-Bulletin on August 13 and 14, 1961, respectively, listing the home address of Obama's parents as 6085 Kalanianaʻole Highway in Honolulu.^{[26][31]} On November 9, 2008, in response to the persistent rumors, the Advertiser posted on its web site a screenshot of the announcement taken from its microfilmed archives. Such notices were sent to newspapers routinely by the Hawaii Department of Health.^[26]

In an editorial published on July 29, 2009, the Star-Bulletin pointed out that both newspapers' vital-statistics columns are available on microfilm in the main state library. "Were the state Department of Health and Obama's parents really in cahoots to give false information to the newspapers [...]" the newspaper asked.^[106]

Lost U.S. citizenship

It has been suggested that Obama obtained Indonesian citizenship (and thus may have lost U.S. citizenship) when he lived there as a child.^[107] As an attempt to prove that Obama was no longer a U.S. citizen (or held dual citizenship), some claim his 1981 trip to Pakistan took place at a time when there was supposedly a ban on United States passport holders entering that country, which would in turn have required him to use a non-U.S. passport. There was in fact no such ban. A The New York Times article and U.S. State Department travel advisories from 1981 make it clear that travel to Pakistan by U.S. passport holders was legal at that time.^{[108][109][110]}

An April Fools' Day hoax email circulated on the Internet starting in 2009. It falsely claimed that Obama applied to Occidental College under the name "Barry Soetoro" claiming to be "a foreign student from Indonesia" in order to obtain a Fulbright scholarship (which does not exist for undergraduate students from Indonesia).^[111]

Disputes over "natural-born citizen" requirements

Another theory of Obama's ineligibility is that, regardless of his place of birth, he does not meet the constitutional definition of a natural-born citizen.

The Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution states: "All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States ..." According to law professor Gabriel J. Chin, "there is agreement that 'natural born citizens' include those made citizens by birth under the 14th Amendment."^{[112][113]}

Despite this agreement, two similar but distinct theories nonetheless contend Obama, although born in Hawaii, does not qualify as a "natural-born citizen".^{[114][115]}

Parental citizenship

Some campaigners, such as the Tennessee-based Liberty Legal Foundation, contend that in order for a person to be a natural-born citizen within the meaning of Article II, Section 1, it is necessary that both parents be U.S. citizens at the time of that person's birth. Those who subscribe to this theory argue that since Obama's father was not a U.S. citizen, Obama could not have been a natural-born citizen, and is therefore ineligible to be President of the United States. The Liberty Legal Foundation has cited a passage in the decision on an 1875 voting rights case which came before the U.S. Supreme Court – Minor v. Happersett – in which the court stated there was no doubt that "all children born in a country of parents who were its citizens" were natural-born citizens.^{[116][117]} This legal theory on Obama's eligibility was unsuccessfully litigated several times, most notably in Ankeny v. Governor of the State of Indiana (2008).

Dual citizenship

Others, including New Jersey attorney Leo Donofrio, have falsely claimed that a person cannot be a natural-born citizen if he is a dual citizen at birth. Those who subscribe to this theory argue that because Obama's father was a Citizen of the United Kingdom and Colonies at the time Obama was born, Obama was born a dual citizen and therefore was not a natural-born citizen.^[115]

In August 2008, the Rocky Mountain News ran an online article asserting that Obama is both a U.S. and a Kenyan citizen.^[118] Obama actually was born a citizen of the United Kingdom and Colonies (CUKC) under British law, by virtue of his descent from a Kenyan father at a time when Kenya was a British colony, but lost CUKC citizenship and became a Kenyan citizen when Kenya gained independence in 1963. However, Kenya's 1963 constitution prohibited dual citizenship in adulthood; Obama therefore automatically lost his Kenyan citizenship on his 23rd birthday in 1984, by failing to formally renounce any non-Kenyan citizenship and swear an oath of allegiance to Kenya.^[119] The Rocky Mountain News apologized for the error and published a correction,^[120] but the article continued to fuel online rumors about Obama's eligibility for the presidency. The current Kenyan constitution, effective since 2010, permits dual citizenship, but requires those who lost Kenyan citizenship prior to 2010 to complete a registration process to regain it.^[121]

Campaigners and proponents

Notable advocates of the view that Obama may not be eligible for the Presidency include Philip J. Berg, a Pennsylvania attorney and 9/11 conspiracy theorist. Berg describes himself as a "moderate to liberal" Democrat who backed Hillary Clinton for president.^[122] Another notable advocate is Alan Keyes, who was defeated by Obama in the 2004 Illinois U.S. Senate election, served as a diplomat in the Reagan administration, and is currently a media personality and self-described "conservative political activist".^[123] Orly Taitz, a California dentist and attorney who emigrated from the Soviet Union to Israel, then to the United States, and holds dual U.S. and Israeli citizenship, has been called the "queen bee of the birthers", because she is often seen as the face of the movement.^[124]

Other notable advocates include Andy Martin, a perennial candidate who was "widely credited with starting the cyberwhisper campaign" that Obama is a secret Muslim,^[125] and Robert L. Schulz, a tax protester and activist who placed full-page advertisements in the Chicago Tribune in December 2008 arguing that Obama had been born in Kenya or had subsequently renounced U.S. citizenship.^[126] Larry Klayman, founder of both Judicial Watch and Freedom Watch, expressed doubts about Obama's natural-born citizenship.^[127] The

A protester questioning the legitimacy of Obama's birth certificate

Constitution Party, a paleoconservative third party, also campaigned for release of Obama's original long-form certificate.^[128] In December 2008, Alex Koppelman, a senior writer for Salon, characterized nearly all of the prominent people promoting the story Obama was not eligible to be president – including Jerome Corsi, Philip Berg, Andy Martin, and Robert Schultz – as having a "history of conspiracist thought".^[64]

The website AmericaMustKnow.com encouraged visitors to lobby members of the Electoral College to vote against Obama's confirmation as President and become faithless electors.^[48] Electors around the country received numerous letters and e-mails contending that Obama's birth certificate is a forgery and that he was born in Kenya, and requesting that Obama be denied the presidency.^[129] Some of the online campaigners coordinated their efforts with weekly conference calls, in which they discussed the latest news and how to advance the story.^[130]

The campaign was supported by the conservative WorldNetDaily (WND) website, which sponsored a letter-writing campaign to the Supreme Court.^[48] WND's publisher Joseph Farah has written a number of editorials arguing that Obama's eligibility needs to be confirmed. WND has mounted an advertising campaign, using electronic billboards to ask "Where's The Birth Certificate?"^{[131][132]}

The talk radio hosts Michael Savage, G. Gordon Liddy, Brian Sussman, Lars Larson, Bob Grant, Jim Quinn, Rose Tennent, Barbara Simpson, Mark Davis, and Fred Grandy have all promoted the ineligibility claims on their radio shows. Rush Limbaugh, Sean Hannity and Lou Dobbs have also broached the issue several times on their shows.^{[13][133]} Savage, during an episode of his nationally syndicated radio show The Savage Nation, said that "We're getting ready for the Communist takeover of America with a noncitizen at the helm."^[130]

Some celebrities have promoted or touched upon the ineligibility claims. In August 2009, actor Chuck Norris, while not embracing the eligibility claims, wrote an open letter to Obama urging that he officially release his "original birth certificate", saying, "Refusing to post your original birth certificate is an unwise political and leadership decision that is enabling the 'birther' controversy."^[134] In December 2010, Baltimore Orioles baseball player Luke Scott asserted in a Yahoo! interview that Obama "was not born here" and that his birth certificate was never released.^[135] The Huffington Post reported that, in April 2011 during his stage show, Charlie Sheen said, "For starters, I was fucking born here, how about that? And I got proof! Nothing photoshopped about my birth certificate."^[136]

According to Mark Potok of the Southern Poverty Law Center, "the birther movement has gained a large following on the radical right ... it has been adopted by the most noxious elements out there." Some of those "noxious elements" include a number of avowed white-supremacist and neo-Nazi groups.^{[137][138]} James Wenneker von Brunn, an avowed white supremacist charged as the gunman in the June 10, 2009, United States Holocaust Memorial Museum shooting, had previously posted messages to the Internet accusing Obama and the media of hiding documents about his life.^{[139][140]}

In March 2017, after Obama was no longer the president, Malik Obama, his paternal half brother, posted on Twitter an image of a fake Kenyan birth certificate, which had been "debunked" in 2009 when it was first presented as part of one of the failed lawsuits that challenged Obama's ineligibility.^[141]

Donald Trump

Trump was the most prominent promoter of birther conspiracy theories.^{[142][143]} This elevated Trump's political profile in the years leading up to his successful 2016 presidential campaign.^{[142][143][144]} According to political scientists John Sides, Michael Tesler, and Lynn Vavreck, Trump "became a virtual spokesperson for the 'birther' movement. The strategy worked: when Trump flirted with running for president in 2011, his popularity was concentrated among the sizable share of Republicans who thought that President Obama was foreign born or a Muslim or both."^[143]

In 2010, at the urging of Donald Trump's lawyer Michael Cohen, the National Enquirer began promoting a potential Trump presidential campaign, and with Cohen's involvement, the tabloid began questioning Obama's birthplace and citizenship.^[145]

In March 2011, during an interview on Good Morning America, Donald Trump said he was seriously considering running for president, that he was a "little" skeptical of Obama's citizenship, and that someone who shares this view should not be so quickly dismissed as an "idiot"^[146] (as Trump considers the term "birther" to be "derogatory"^[147]). Trump added, "Growing up no one knew him,"^[146] a claim ranked Pants-on-Fire by Politifact.^[148] Later, Trump appeared on The View repeating several times that "I want him [Obama] to show his birth certificate." He speculated that "there [was] something on that birth certificate that [Obama] doesn't like", a comment which host Whoopi Goldberg described as "the biggest pile of dog mess I've heard in ages".^[149] On the March 30, 2011, edition of CNN Newsroom, anchor Suzanne Malveaux commented on Trump's statements, pointing out that she had made a documentary for which she had gone to Hawaii and spoken with people who knew Obama as a child.^{[150][151]} In an NBC TV interview broadcast on April 7, 2011, Trump said he would not let go of the issue, because he was not satisfied that Obama had proved his citizenship.^[152] After Trump began making his views public, he was contacted by Joseph Farah of WorldNetDaily, who was reportedly on the phone with Trump every day for a week, providing Trump with a "birther primer", answers to questions, and advice.^[153] After Obama released his long-form birth certificate on April 27, 2011, Trump said "I am really honored and I am really proud, that I was able to do something that nobody else could do."^[154]

On October 24, 2012, Trump offered to donate five million dollars to the charity of Obama's choice in return for the publication of his college and passport applications before October 31, 2012.^[155]

On September 16, 2016, as the Republican Party presidential nominee, Trump conceded that "President Barack Obama was born in the United States. Period." Trump gave himself credit for putting the controversy to rest and also repeated a false claim that Hillary Clinton, his opponent in the 2016 U.S. presidential election and one of Obama's opponents in the 2008 Democratic presidential primaries, had started the controversy concerning Obama's place of birth. While those who did so were Clinton supporters, there is no evidence of Clinton or her campaign questioning Obama's birthplace.^[156]

Joe Arpaio

Volunteer investigators working under the direction of Maricopa County, Arizona, Sheriff Joe Arpaio have asserted that Obama's birth certificate is a computer-generated forgery. Rejecting this claim, an assistant to Hawaii's attorney general stated in July 2012 that "President Obama was born in Honolulu, and his birth certificate is valid. ... Regarding the latest allegations from a sheriff in Arizona, they are untrue, misinformed and misconstrue Hawaii law."^[157] Arizona state officials, including Governor Jan Brewer and Secretary of State Ken Bennett, have also dismissed Arpaio's objections and accepted the validity of Obama's birth certificate.^{[158][159]} Alex Pareene, a staff writer for Salon, wrote regarding a May 2012 trip to Hawaii by Arpaio's people that "I think we have long since passed the point at which I'd find this story believable in a fictional setting."^[160] In December 2016, Arpaio presented "9 points of forgery" that he said proved that the digital image of Obama's long form birth certificate was not authentic. He said he would submit his evidence to federal authorities.^{[161][162]}

Matthew Hill

Rep. Matthew Hill, one of a handful of Tennessee General Assembly members widely reported at the time to be birthers, demanded in 2009 that newly-elected president Obama should be compelled to present Hill and other Tennessee state legislators with a certified copy of his Hawaiian birth certificate.

Hill interviewed birther conspiracy advocate Orly Taitz at the National Religious Broadcasters Convention in Nashville for a February 10, 2009, segment podcasted online by the IRN/USA Radio Network. During The Matthew Hill Show he stated:

We've said on this program many times ... we've had people call in and say why are you picking on him? And I've said, "Look it's really simple. If he is a U.S. citizen you produce the papers. If he's not a U.S. citizen, what does he do? He hides them. He's hiding them. We need the truth. We need the documents unsealed. We need to know what's going on."^[163]^[164]

TNGA Rep. Matthew Hill speaking during 2008 Republican primary debate, Jonesborough, Tennessee

Roy Moore

U.S. Senate candidate and former Chief Justice of the Alabama Supreme Court Roy Moore first questioned Obama's citizenship in 2008, and said in 2016 that he didn't believe Obama had natural-born citizenship.^[165]

Richard Shelby

In February 2009, the Cullman Times, an Alabama newspaper, reported that at a town hall meeting there, U.S. Senator from Alabama Richard Shelby was asked if there was any truth to the rumors that Obama was not a natural-born citizen. According to the Times report, Shelby said, "Well his father was Kenyan and they said he was born in Hawaii, but I haven't seen any birth certificate. You have to be born in America to be president."^[166]

A Shelby spokesperson denied the story, but the newspaper stood by it.^[167]

Roy Blunt

On July 28, 2009, Mike Stark approached Missouri Congressman Roy Blunt asking him about the conspiracy theory that Barack Obama is not a natural-born citizen. Blunt responded: "What I don't know is why the President can't produce a birth certificate. I don't know anybody else that can't produce one. And I think that's a legitimate question. No health records, no birth certificate."^[168] Blunt's spokesperson later claimed that the quote was taken out of context.^[169]

Jean Schmidt

After giving a speech at the Voice of America Freedom Rally in West Chester, Ohio on September 5, 2009, Republican congresswoman Jean Schmidt replied to a woman who commented that Obama was ineligible for the Presidency, "I agree with you. But the courts don't."^[170] Schmidt's office subsequently responded that a video clip of this comment was "taken out of context", and reiterated that her stated position is that Obama is a citizen.^[171]

She had earlier voted to certify the Electoral College vote affirming his presidency, and had said she believes Obama is a U.S. citizen.^[172]

Nathan Deal

In November 2009, then-Representative Nathan Deal replied to a question about whether he believed that Obama "is a native-born American citizen who is eligible to serve as president" with a statement that "I am joining several of my colleagues in the House in writing a letter to the President asking that he release a copy of his birth certificate so we can have an answer to this question."^[173] Contrasting the differing fates of Deal, who won the 2010 gubernatorial election in Georgia, and former Democratic Representative Cynthia McKinney, who lost her primary after endorsing 9/11 conspiracy theories, David Weigel of Slate noted: "Dipping a toe into the birtherism fever swamp didn't stop Deal from winning a statewide primary."^[174]

Sarah Palin

During a December 3, 2009 interview on Rusty Humphries' radio talk show, Humphries asked Sarah Palin if she would make Obama's birth certificate a campaign issue in 2012, should she decide to run. Palin responded, "I think the public rightfully is still making it an issue. I don't have a problem with that. I don't know if I would have to bother to make it an issue, because I think that members of the electorate still want answers ... I think it's a fair question, just like I think past association and past voting records – all of that is fair game. The McCain-Palin campaign didn't do a good enough job in that area."^[175]

After news organizations and blogs picked up the quotation,^[176] Palin stated on her Facebook page that voters have the right to ask questions, and that she had herself never asked Obama to produce a birth certificate. She likened the questioning of Obama's birth certificate to questions raised during the 2008 presidential elections about her maternity to her son, Trig.^[177] This analogy was criticized by Mark Milian of the Los Angeles Times, who said: "It's not like Barack Obama hosted a radio show and called her a baby faker."^[178]

Tracey Mann

Tracey Mann, a candidate running for Congress from Kansas in 2010, stated at a candidate forum that Obama should release his birth certificate to resolve the issue. In a radio interview, he said: "I think the president of the United States needs to come forth with his papers and show everyone that he's an American citizen and put this issue to bed once and for all." In response, on July 21, 2010, The Hutchinson News, a local paper in Hutchinson, Kansas, withdrew their endorsement of Mann, saying that Mann "questions the citizenship of President Barack Obama despite evidence that is irrefutable to most objective, rational people – including a birth certificate released by the Hawaii secretary of state and birth announcements printed in Honolulu's two major newspapers".^[179] Mann responded that he was "disappointed and mystified" by the decision and that they had misunderstood his position, as he was "not interested in pursuing this issue in Congress" and had "never had any interest in spending any time on the matter".^[180] Mann was defeated in the Republican primary by state senator Tim Huelskamp.^[181]

David Vitter

At a townhall meeting in Metairie, Louisiana on July 11, 2010, Senator David Vitter said: "I personally don't have standing to bring litigation in court, but I support conservative legal organizations and others who would bring that to court. I think that is the valid and most possibly effective grounds to do it." His campaign provided no additional comments.^{[182][183]}

Newt Gingrich

On September 11, 2010, former Speaker of the House Newt Gingrich stated that Obama could only be understood by people who "understand Kenyan, anti-colonial behavior".^[184] While Gingrich did not define this behavior, White House Press Secretary Robert Gibbs accused Gingrich of "trying to appeal to the fringe of people who don't believe the president was born in this country ... You would normally expect better of somebody who held the position of Speaker of the House, but look, it is political season, and most people will say anything, and Newt Gingrich does that on a, genuinely, on a regular basis."^[185]

Andy Martin

In December 2010, Andy Martin (plaintiff in Martin v. Lingle and self-described "King of the Birthers") announced his candidacy to seek the 2012 Republican nomination for the President of the United States.^[186] In February 2011, Martin's planned appearance at a Republican meeting in Deering, New Hampshire, was cancelled after his anti-Semitic past was discovered.^[187]

Mike Huckabee

On February 28, 2011, on Steve Malzberg's radio program Mike Huckabee, a 2008 candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, falsely claimed that Obama had been raised in Kenya^[188] and that "[Obama] probably grew up hearing that the British were a bunch of imperialists who persecuted his grandfather."^[188] Huckabee, speaking on The O'Reilly Factor, said that he misspoke and intended to say Indonesia, characterizing his comment as a "verbal gaffe".^[189]

Michele Bachmann

In March 2011, Representative Michele Bachmann told conservative radio host Jeff Katz: "I'll tell you one thing, if I was ever to run for president of the United States, I think the first thing I would do in the first debate is offer my birth certificate, so we can get that off the table." Previously on Good Morning America, when asked about Obama's origins, she replied, "Well, that isn't for me to state. That's for the president to state."^[190]

Mike Coffman

On May 12, 2012, Mike Coffman, a congressman running for re-election in the Sixth Congressional District of Colorado, addressed a Republican fundraising event in Elbert County. Coffman stated that he did not know where Obama was born, and that Obama was "in his heart ... just not an American." Coffman issued an apology on May 16, saying that he had misspoken and that he had confidence in Obama's citizenship and legitimacy as president.^[191] In a May 23 Denver Post op-ed piece, Coffman described his comment as "inappropriate and boneheaded".^[192]

Arizona electors

In December 2012, three of the eleven electors from Arizona who cast their votes for Mitt Romney raised doubts about Obama's birthplace. One was the chair of the Republican Party of Arizona, Tom Morrissey. Morrissey later insisted that he was not a birther, but said he was not convinced the birth certificate produced by Obama was real.^[193]

Political impact

Although claims about Obama's citizenship were evaluated in 2008 by the McCain campaign and ultimately rejected,^[195] they became a significant issue among sections of the political right. Activists unsuccessfully lobbied Republican members of Congress to reject the 2008 Electoral College vote and block Obama's election when it came before Congress for certification on January 8, 2009.^[196] By mid-2009, the natural born citizen issue was one of the hottest and most lucrative sources of fundraising for organizations on the right that raise funds through direct mail and telemarketing. Online petition sites such as that of Alan Keyes, who has been collecting signatures on the birth certificate issue, are a major source for generating mailing lists of movement conservatives.^[197] The web site WorldNetDaily published more than 200 articles on the subject by July 2009^[198] and has sold billboards, bumper stickers and postcards asking "Where's the birth certificate?" and similar slogans in an effort which has "already raised tens of thousands of dollars".^[199]

Moderate conservatives soon found themselves "bombarded with birther stuff".^[197] Protesters at the Tea Party protests in 2009 carried signs about the birth certificate issue,^[200] some of which were recommended by protest organizers.^[197] In an incident that attracted widespread media coverage, moderate Republican Representative Michael Castle was booed and heckled during a July 2009 town hall meeting in Georgetown, Delaware, when he told a woman protesting about Obama's birth certificate: "if you're referring to the president there, he is a citizen of the United States."^[201]

NBC Nightly News reported that other members of Congress often hear the issue too; an anonymous congressman told the program that he was reluctant to advertise his own town hall meetings for fear of this issue drowning out everything else.^[202]

"Here is what the Republican party needs to do: we have to say that's crazy. So I'm here to tell you that those who think the president was born somewhere other than Hawaii you're crazy ... let's knock this crap off and talk about the real differences we have.

—Republican U.S. Senator Lindsey Graham, October 1, 2009^[194]

A birth certificate-related bumper sticker, below two other stickers

A number of Republican legislators have proposed legislation and constitutional amendments at the state and federal levels to address issues raised by the birth certificate campaigners. Some Republicans are said to "want the issue to go away", seeing it as a distraction. Democratic commentators have criticized the reluctance of some Republicans to distance themselves from the proponents of the conspiracy theories, suggesting that "Republican officials are reluctant to denounce the birthers for fear of alienating an energetic part of their party's base."^[13] NBC News' "First Read" team commented: "the real story in all of this is that Republican Party has a HUGE problem with its base right now."^[203]

Republican National Committee Chairman Michael Steele released a statement through his spokesperson saying, "Chairman Steele believes that this is an unnecessary distraction and believes that the president is a U.S. citizen."^[204]

Conservative Joel Pollak, writing for The American Thinker, has stated that the reason the "Birther theory" has caught on particularly among conservatives, is the weakness of the Republican opposition, stating:

In the absence of strong Republican leadership, some find the Birther theory a compelling, if desperate, solution. Yet it is ultimately a self-destructive one – not just because it is almost certainly false, but because it contradicts the essential spirit of the conservative movement.^[205]

Political analyst Marc Ambinder of The Atlantic and CBS News suggests this phenomenon goes to the heart of the dilemma now facing the Republican Party, positing that

Republican presidential candidates need to figure out how to diffuse [sic] angry birthers who are bound to show up and demand their attention. If they give credence to the birthers, they're not only advancing ignorance but also betraying the narrowness of their base. If they dismiss this growing movement, they might drive birthers to find more extreme candidates, which will fragment a Republican political coalition.^[206]

Political analyst Andrew Sullivan, writing in The Sunday Times, stated

The demographics tell the basic story: a black man is president and a large majority of white southerners cannot accept that, even in 2009. They grasp conspiracy theories to wish Obama – and the America he represents – away. Since white southerners comprise an increasing proportion of the 22% of Americans who still describe themselves as Republican, the GOP can neither dismiss the crankery nor move past it. The fringe defines what's left of the Republican centre.^[207]

On July 27, 2009, the House of Representatives passed a resolution commemorating the 50th anniversary of Hawaii's statehood. The resolution, containing language recognizing Hawaii as President Obama's birth state, passed by a vote of 378–0.^[208]

Opinion surveys

In October 2008, the Orange County Register's OC Political Pulse poll found that a third of responding Republicans believed that Obama had been born outside the United States.^[209] As a result of the widespread publicity given to the citizenship controversy, 60% of respondents in an Ohio State University survey carried out in November 2008 had heard of the issue. However, only 10% believed the claims that Obama was not a citizen.^[210]

An opinion poll carried out for Daily Kos by Research 2000 in July 2009 found that 77% of Americans believed that Obama was born in the U.S., while 11% didn't, and 12% were unsure. However, Republicans and Southerners were far more likely than other political or demographic groups to doubt that Obama was born in the United States. 58% of Republicans either believed that Obama was not born in the U.S. (28%) or were not sure (30%), with 42% believing that he was. An overwhelming majority of Democrats (93%) and independents (83%) believed that he was born in the U.S. Support for the belief that Obama was born outside the U.S. was strongest in the South, where only 47% of those polled believed he was born in the U.S., compared with an average of 90% of residents of the Northeast, Midwest and West.^[211] A marked racial disparity in the South was also apparent. Politico's congressional reporter, Glenn Thrush, commented that the Research 2000 poll "explains why Republicans, including Roy Blunt, are playing footsie with the Birther fringe".^[211] Writing on National Journal's Pollster.com blog, Brendan Nyhan observed that the poll "suggests that the encouragement of the birth certificate myth by conservative pundits and Republican politicians has begun to activate the GOP base on this issue".^[212]

A Public Policy Polling survey carried out in August 2009 found that 32% of Republicans in Virginia thought that Obama was born in the U.S., 41% thought he was foreign-born and the remaining 27% were unsure.^[213]

In Utah, an August 2009 poll carried out for the Deseret News and KSL-TV found that 67% of Utahns accepted the evidence that Obama was born in the U.S. The poll found that those who do not believe that Obama was born in the United States, or do not know, are predominantly middle-aged, lower-income Republican-leaning individuals without a college education.^[214]

A Pew Research Center poll found that 80% of Americans had heard about the Obama citizenship claims by August 2009. The poll found a significant partisan divide in views of the news coverage, with 58% of Democrats saying that the allegations had received too much attention from the media. Republicans were more inclined to say that the allegations had received too little attention, with 39% expressing this view against only 26% saying that the controversy had received too much attention.^[215]

In a Harris Poll online survey of 2,320 adults conducted in March 2010, 25% of the respondents said they believed that Obama was "not born in the United States and so is not eligible to be president".^[17] In a July 2010 CNN poll of adult Americans, 16% said they had doubts that Obama was born in the United States, and a further 11% were certain that he was not.^[18]

The percentage of doubters plummeted after President Obama released the long form certificate in April 2011.^{[20][21][22]} A Gallup telephone poll of 1018 adults conducted in May 2011 found that 5% of respondents believed that Obama was "definitely born in another country" and 8% believed he was "probably born in another country", versus 47% believing he was "definitely" and 18% "probably" born in the US.^[19] Broken down by political affiliation, the same poll found that 23% of self-identified Republicans, 14% of independents, and 5% of Democrats thought Obama was definitely or probably born in another country.^[19]

In July 2016, four months before Donald Trump was elected to the presidency, 41 percent of Republicans disagreed that Obama was born in the United States and 31 percent neither agreed nor disagreed, per an NBC poll.^[216]

A 2015 study found that among individuals who held birther views, they were predominantly conservative/Republican and held anti-Black attitudes.^[10] A 2019 study found that "among white Americans, birther beliefs are uniquely associated with racial animus."^[11]

Dilemma for Republicans

Because a portion of Republican voters and their Tea Party supporters believed Obama was not eligible to hold public office (see Opinion surveys section), Republicans sometimes found themselves caught in a dilemma between losing support or damaging their credibility.^{[217][218]} They had "to walk the fine line of humoring conspiracy-minded supporters without explicitly questioning Obama's legitimacy ..."^[219] Other Republicans, including former Minnesota governor Tim Pawlenty and former Pennsylvania senator Rick Santorum, however, have plainly rejected these claims.^[220]

An example of these situations was Michael Castle, then Representative for Delaware, who ran in 2010 for the Senate seat vacated by Vice President Joe Biden. At a town hall meeting, Castle was confronted by constituents who jeered him for insisting that Obama is a citizen of the United States.^[221] Castle, one of the leading Republican moderates in the House, was later defeated by Tea Party-backed Christine O'Donnell in the Republican primary,^{[222][223]} who herself later lost the general election to Democratic nominee Chris Coons.

Commentary and criticism

Proponents of claims doubting Obama's eligibility have been dubbed "birthers" by their critics, who have drawn a parallel with 9/11 conspiracy theorists or "truthers". Leslie Savan of The Nation has compared the so-called "birthers" to other groups as well, including those who deny the moon landing, the Holocaust or global warming; "Teabaggers who refuse to believe they must pay taxes" and creationists who believe the earth is 6,000 years old.^[225] MSNBC political commentator Rachel Maddow has defined a "birther" as:

A specific new breed of American conspiracy theorists who believe that the real problem with Barack Obama being president is that he can't possibly have been born in the United States. He's not eligible to be president. The birth certificate is a fake. He's a foreigner. Once this has been exposed, I guess, he will be run out of the White House ... ^[226]

A number of conservative commentators have criticized its proponents and their effect on the wider conservative movement. Talk show host Michael Medved has also been critical, calling them "the worst enemy of the conservative movement" for making other conservatives "look sick, troubled and not suitable for civilized company".^[227] Conservative columnist Ann Coulter has referred to them as "just a few cranks".^[228] During the 2008 presidential campaign, conservative pundit Steve Sailer similarly dismissed birthers' claims, considering the theory that Obama was born in Kenya to be especially implausible:

A man carrying a sign at a Tea Party protest in Austin, Texas, on July 4, 2009^{[101][224]}

Do you know how many different flights she [Ann Dunham] would have had to take to get to Kenya in 1961? Honolulu to California, California to the East Coast, the East Coast (refueling at Gander Bay) to London, London to maybe Cairo, Cairo to Nairobi. How much would that have cost? And then you would be stuck having your baby in Africa rather than in a modern American hospital in Honolulu. Or you could go the other way around the world – it's about the same distance either way.^[229]

An editorial in the Honolulu Star-Bulletin dismissed the claims about Obama's eligibility as proposing "a vast conspiracy involving Obama's parents, state officials, the news media, the Secret Service, think-tanks and a host of yet-to-be-uncovered others who have connived since Obama's birth to build a false record so that he could eventually seek the presidency 47 years later."^[230] The St. Petersburg Times' fact-checking website, PolitiFact.com, concluded its series of articles on the birth certificate issue by saying:

There is not one shred of evidence to disprove PolitiFact's conclusion that the candidate's name is Barack Hussein Obama, or to support allegations that the birth certificate he released isn't authentic. And that's true no matter how many people cling to some hint of doubt and use the Internet to fuel their innate sense of distrust.^[231]

In November 2008, commentator and social critic Camille Paglia criticized the "blathering, fanatical overkill" of the topic, but also questioned Obama's response: "Obama could have ended the entire matter months ago by publicly requesting Hawaii to issue a fresh, long-form, stamped certificate and inviting a few high-profile reporters in to examine the document and photograph it," she said.^[232] A parenthetical in the same article noted that "the campaign did make the 'short-form' certificate available to Factcheck.org."^[232]

Factcheck.org noted, "The Hawaii Department of Health's birth record request form does not give the option to request a photocopy of your long-form birth certificate, but their short form has enough information to be acceptable to the State Department."^{[31][233]}

Writing in December 2008, Alex Koppelman discussed the validity of the common argument – that Obama should release a copy of his full, original certificate and the rumors and doubts would disappear.^[64] Conspiracy theory experts told Koppelman that when committed conspiracists are presented with more data debunking their theory, they refuse to accept the new evidence. "Whatever can't be ignored can be twisted to fit into the narrative; every new disclosure of something that should, by rights, end the controversy only opens up new questions, identifies new plotters," he wrote.^[64] Because Obama's release of the short-form had only "stoked the fever of conspiracy mongers", Koppelman predicted that releasing the long-form certificate "would almost certainly" continue the rumor cycle.^[64]

In response to the notion that Obama's grandparents might have planted a birth announcement in newspapers just so their grandson could some day be president, FactCheck suggested that "those who choose to go down that path should first equip themselves with a high-quality tinfoil hat."^[31] Brooks Jackson, the director of FactCheck, comments that "it all reflects a surge of paranoid distress among people who don't like Barack Obama" and who want the election results to go away.^[234] Chip Berlet, a journalist who has studied the spread of conspiracy theories, notes:

For some people, when their side loses an election, the only explanation that makes sense to them – that they can cope with – is that sinister, bad, evil people arranged some kind of fraud.^[235]

American political writer Dana Milbank, writing for The Washington Post, described the Obama citizenship theories of Bob Schulz (chairman of the We the People Foundation, which in 2008 publicly challenged Obama's citizenship) as "tales from the tinfoil-hat brigade".^[236] Colorado presidential elector Camilla Auger, responding to lobbying of members of the Electoral College, commented: "I was concerned that there are that many nutty people in the country making depressing, absurd allegations."^[129]

Some commentators have asserted that racism is a factor motivating the promotion of Obama citizenship conspiracy theories.^{[12][237]} J. Richard Cohen, the President of the Southern Poverty Law Center, an organization that monitors hate groups and extremism, wrote an e-mail to supporters in July 2009 declaring: "This conspiracy theory was concocted by an anti-Semite and circulated by racist extremists who cannot accept the fact that a black man has been elected president."^[238] An academic psychologist commented that a study published in the Journal of Experimental Social Psychology supported a conclusion that racism has played a role.^[239] Donald Trump's questioning how Obama gained admission to two Ivy-League institutions, as well as his comment, "I have a great relationship with the blacks", led David Remnick, David Letterman and Bill Maher,^[240] among others, to accuse Trump of racism,^{[239][241][242]} and an increased attention on race with respect to Obama.^[241] In April 2011, Marilyn Davenport, a Tea Party activist and member of the executive committee of the Republican Party's local Orange County, California, organization, created a nationwide controversy^[243] when she circulated a photograph by email, widely seen as racist, that had been edited to depict Barack Obama as the child of two chimpanzees, and^[244] to which she had added the caption, "Now you know why no birth certificate".^[245] Following the release of Obama's long-form certificate later that month, The New York Times remarked in an editorial that, "It is inconceivable that this campaign to portray Mr. Obama as the insidious 'other' would have been conducted against a white president."^[245]

Legislation and litigation

The controversy over Obama's citizenship and eligibility for the presidency prompted a number of Republican state and federal legislators to propose legislation aimed at requiring future presidential candidates to release copies of their birth certificates. Some legislators also lent their support to birth certificate-related litigation against Obama, joining as co-plaintiffs.^[246]

Although Obama was confirmed as president-elect by Congress on January 8, 2009,^[247] and sworn in as President on January 20,^[248] litigation continued into his presidency. Numerous individuals and groups filed state or federal lawsuits seeking to have Obama disqualified from standing or being confirmed for the Presidency, or to compel him to release additional documentation relating to his citizenship.^[249] By mid-December 2008, at least 17 lawsuits had been filed challenging Obama's eligibility in states including North Carolina,^[250] Ohio,^[251] Pennsylvania,^[252] Hawaii,^[253] Connecticut,^[254] New Jersey, Texas and Washington.^{[253][255]} No such suit resulted in the grant of any relief to the plaintiffs by any court; all of the cases were rejected in lower courts.^[256] Three post-election suits were dismissed by the Supreme Court of the United States.^{[48][257]}

In April 2011, the Arizona legislature became the first to pass a bill "requiring President Obama and other presidential candidates to prove their U.S. citizenship before their names can appear on the state's ballot".^[258] The bill, HB 2177, was vetoed by Governor Jan Brewer on April 18.^[259]

Obama is not the first President to be the subject of controversy surrounding the location of his birth. Andrew Jackson was the subject of similar claims, although it is not certain that they were raised during his presidency. Some said that Chester A. Arthur was born outside the United States, with his birth records later allegedly falsified to show he was born in Vermont.^{[260][261]}

Impact on the 2012 presidential election and beyond

In May 2012, the Arizona Secretary of State, Ken Bennett, asked Hawaii to verify Obama's Hawaiian birth to ensure his eligibility to appear on the November ballot.^[262] After Bennett proved that he needed the information as part of the regular course of official business, Hawaii officially confirmed that the information in the copy of the Certificate of Live Birth for the President matches the original record in their files.^{[263][264]} Later the same month, the Mississippi state Democratic Party requested Hawaii to verify that the long-form image on the White House website matched the copy on file and they were provided with a certified verification, bearing the state seal and signed by state registrar Alvin T. Onaka, who had certified both released birth certificates.^[265]

In September 2012, the State Objections Board of Kansas, composed of "three of the state's top elected Republicans", delayed acting on a petition to remove Barack Obama's name from the ballot, requesting information from Hawaii regarding his birth certificate;^[266] but later voted unanimously to accept Obama's citizenship and retain him on the state's ballot, despite objections from the floor by Orly Taitz.^[267]

White House responses

A common claim among those arguing that President Obama was not born in Hawaii is that all doubt would be settled if Obama released his "long form" birth certificate. However, commentators noted that doing so would be disadvantageous to Obama. First, it would encourage speculation as to why it took so long to release the document. Second, caving in to his political adversaries' demands would embolden them by giving them a victory. Finally, it would open the door to demands for other personal records unrelated to his birth certificate.^[268] Despite these concerns, both Obama and his press secretary have responded to reporters' questions about the issue.

Press secretary's response

At the end of the May 27, 2009, press briefing, WorldNetDaily reporter Lester Kinsolving asked about Obama's birth certificate. White House press secretary Robert Gibbs replied "It's on the Internet," to which Kinsolving responded "No, no, no – the long form listing his hospital and physician." Gibbs responded as follows:

Lester, this question in many ways continues to astound me. The state of Hawaii provided a copy with the seal of the President's birth. I know there are apparently at least 400,000 people (laughter) that continue to doubt the existence of and the certification by the state of Hawaii of the President's birth there, but it's on the Internet because we put it on the Internet for each of those 400,000 to download.^[269]

At a July 27, 2009, press briefing, radio talk show host Bill Press asked Gibbs if there was anything he could say to make the issue go away. Gibbs answered, "No. I mean, the God's honest truth is no," because "nothing will assuage" those who continue to pursue what he called "made-up, fictional nonsense" despite the evidence that Obama had already provided.^{[270][271]}

On August 6, 2009, Gibbs commented, "You couldn't sell this script in Hollywood," and summarized the contentions that he considered "totally crazy":

A pregnant woman leaves her home to go overseas to have a child – who there's not a passport for – so is in cahoots with someone ... to smuggle that child, that previously doesn't exist on a government roll somewhere back into the country and has the amazing foresight to place birth announcements in the Hawaii newspapers? All while this is transpiring in cahoots with those in the border, all so some kid named Barack Obama could run for President 46 and a half years later.^[272]

Barack Obama's response

At the February 2010 National Prayer Breakfast, Obama commented, "Surely you can question my policies without questioning my faith. Or for that matter my citizenship."^[273] He directly addressed the issue in August 2010, in an interview with Brian Williams. Williams asked Obama about the fact that a fifth of the American people do not believe that he is either American born or a Christian. Obama responded that "there is a mechanism, a network of misinformation that in a new media era can get churned out there constantly." He then added, "I can't spend all my time with my birth certificate plastered on my forehead."^[274]

On a few occasions, Obama has joked about the conspiracy theories surrounding his birth certificate and citizenship. At the 2010 White House Correspondents' Dinner, Obama said there are few things in life harder to find and more important to keep than love, and then added, "Well, love and a birth certificate."^[275] At the 2011 Gridiron Dinner, Obama referred to Bruce Springsteen's song, "Born in the U.S.A.", and commented, "Some things just bear repeating."^[276] On March 17, 2011 (Saint Patrick's Day), Obama said, "Now, speaking of ancestry, there has been some controversy about my own background. Two years into my presidency, some are still bent on peddling rumors about my origins. So today, I want to put all those rumors to rest. It is true my great-great-great-grandfather really was from Ireland. It's true. Moneygall, to be precise. I can't believe I have to keep pointing this out."^[277] On January 17, 2012, during a televised tribute to actress Betty White on her 90th birthday, Obama taped a segment in which he wrote White a letter saying that, given her appearance and vitality, he not only could not believe she was 90, he did not believe her, and requested to see her birth certificate.^[278]

In an April 2011 interview with George Stephanopoulos, Obama said, "I think that over the last two and a half years there's been an effort to go at me in a way that is politically expedient in the short-term for Republicans, but creates, I think a problem for them when they want to actually run in a general election where most people feel pretty confident the President was born where he says he was, in Hawaii. He doesn't have horns. We may disagree with him on some issues and we may wish that you know, the unemployment rate was coming down faster and we want him to know his plan on gas prices. But we're not really worrying about conspiracy theories or ... birth certificates. And so ... I think it presents a problem for them."^[279]

On April 27, 2011, referring to "sideshow and carnival barkers",^[280] Obama appeared in the White House press room an hour after the release of the long form and said, "I know there is going to be a segment of people for which no matter what we put out this issue will not be put to rest. But I am speaking to the vast majority of the American people, as well as to the press. We do not have time for this kind of silliness. We've got better stuff to do."^{[154][280]}

Later in 2011, Obama's re-election campaign offered for sale mugs with a picture of Obama (captioned "Made in the USA") and the image of the birth certificate. The campaign states, "There's really no way to make the conspiracy about President Obama's birth certificate completely go away, so we might as well laugh at it – and make sure as many people as possible are in on the joke."^[281]

See also

- Early life and career of Barack Obama
- Barack Obama religion conspiracy theories
- Birthright citizenship in the United States
- Chester A. Arthur
- Security paper
- Where's the Birth Certificate?
- Dreams from My Real Father

References

1. "Certificate of Live Birth" (https://obamawhitehouse.archives.gov/sites/default/files/rss_viewer/birth_certificate.pdf) (PDF). whitehouse.gov. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20170125144906/https://obamawhitehouse.archives.gov/sites/default/files/rss_viewer/birth_certificate.pdf) (PDF) from the original on January 25, 2017. Retrieved March 8, 2012 – via National Archives.
2. Jardina, Ashley; Traugott, Michael (2019). "The Genesis of the Birther Rumor: Partisanship, Racial Attitudes, and Political Knowledge" (<https://doi.org/10.1017%2Frep.2018.25>). Journal of Race, Ethnicity and Politics. 4 (1): 60–80. doi:10.1017/rep.2018.25 (<https://doi.org/10.1017%2Frep.2018.25>).
3. "House Majority Leader Kevin McCarthy met with birther movement activists in his office in 2013" (<https://edition.cnn.com/2018/01/17/politics/kfile-mccarthy-birther-meeting/index.html>). CNN. January 17, 2018. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180223043553/https://edition.cnn.com/2018/01/17/politics/kfile-mccarthy-birther-meeting/index.html>) from the original on February 23, 2018. Retrieved March 13, 2020.
4. McGreal, Chris (July 28, 2009). "Anti-Obama 'birther movement' gathers steam" (<https://www.theguardian.com/world/2009/jul/28/birther-movement-obama-citizenship>). The Guardian. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20200218225614/https://www.theguardian.com/world/2009/jul/28/birther-movement-obama-citizenship>) from the original on February 18, 2020. Retrieved March 13, 2020.
5. Eichler, Alex (April 28, 2011). "Was the Birther Movement Always About Race?" (<https://www.theatlantic.com/politics/archive/2011/04/emerging-consensus-birther-movement-was-always-about-race/350097/>). The Atlantic. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20181226175920/https://www.theatlantic.com/politics/archive/2011/04/emerging-consensus-birther-movement-was-always-about-race/350097/>) from the original on December 26, 2018. Retrieved March 13, 2020.
6. "Birther Movement (Obama Birth Certificate)" (<https://www.nytimes.com/topic/subject/birther-movement-obama-birth-certificate>). The New York Times. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20191212142234/https://www.nytimes.com/topic/subject/birther-movement-obama-birth-certificate>) from the original on December 12, 2019. Retrieved March 13, 2020.

7. "birther movement" (<https://www.npr.org/tags/126141350/birther-movement>). NPR. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20181121023734/https://www.npr.org/tags/126141350/birther-movement>) from the original on November 21, 2018. Retrieved March 13, 2020.
8. "birther movement" (<https://www.pbs.org/newshour/tag/birther-movement>). PBS. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170213134208/http://www.pbs.org/newshour/tag/birther-movement/>) from the original on February 13, 2017. Retrieved March 13, 2020.
9. Green, Joshua (May 30, 2012). "The Democratic Roots of the Birther Movement" (<https://www.bloomberg.com/news/articles/2012-05-30/the-democratic-roots-of-the-birther-movement>). Bloomberg. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20200107033912/https://www.bloomberg.com/news/articles/2012-05-30/the-democratic-roots-of-the-birther-movement>) from the original on January 7, 2020. Retrieved March 13, 2020.
10. Pasek, Josh; Stark, Tobias H.; Krosnick, Jon A.; Tompson, Trevor (2015). "What motivates a conspiracy theory? Birther beliefs, partisanship, liberal-conservative ideology, and anti-Black attitudes" (<http://www.sciencedirect.com/science/article/pii/S026137941400105X>). Electoral Studies. 40: 482–489. doi:10.1016/j.electstud.2014.09.009 (<https://doi.org/10.1016%2Fj.electstud.2014.09.009>). ISSN 0261-3794 (<https://www.worldcat.org/issn/0261-3794>). Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20191226132228/https://www.sciencedirect.com/science/article/pii/S026137941400105X>) from the original on December 26, 2019. Retrieved February 17, 2021.
11. Jardina, Ashley; Traugott, Michael (2019). "The Genesis of the Birther Rumor: Partisanship, Racial Attitudes, and Political Knowledge" (<https://www.cambridge.org/core/journals/journal-of-race-ethnicity-and-politics/article/genesis-of-the-birther-rumor-partisanship-racial-attitudes-and-political-knowledge/8C13EDF7D45A475E97B5D2B35BC8979E>). Journal of Race, Ethnicity and Politics. 4 (1): 60–80. doi:10.1017/rep.2018.25 (<https://doi.org/10.1017%2Frep.2018.25>). ISSN 2056-6085 (<https://www.worldcat.org/issn/2056-6085>). Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20201125024722/https://www.cambridge.org/core/journals/journal-of-race-ethnicity-and-politics/article/genesis-of-the-birther-rumor-partisanship-racial-attitudes-and-political-knowledge/8C13EDF7D45A475E97B5D2B35BC8979E>) from the original on November 25, 2020. Retrieved February 17, 2021.
12. Tomasky, Michael (April 27, 2011). "Birthers and the persistence of racial paranoia" (<https://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/michaeltomasky/2011/apr/27/barack-obama-obama-administration>). The Guardian. London. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20130930035057/http://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/michaeltomasky/2011/apr/27/barack-obama-obama-administration>) from the original on September 30, 2013. Retrieved July 20, 2011.
 - Vergano, Dan (May 1, 2011). "Study: racial prejudice plays role in Obama citizenship views" (<http://content.usatoday.com/communities/sciencefair/post/2011/04/social-scientists-look-at-racisms-role-in-birther-viewpoint/1>). USA Today. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110809100206/http://content.usatoday.com/communities/sciencefair/post/2011/04/social-scientists-look-at-racisms-role-in-birther-viewpoint/1>) from the original on August 9, 2011. Retrieved July 20, 2011.
 - "A Certificate of Embarrassment" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2011/04/28/opinion/28thu1.html>). The New York Times. April 27, 2011. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110429060847/http://www.nytimes.com/2011/04/28/opinion/28thu1.html>) from the original on April 29, 2011. Retrieved July 20, 2011.
 - Zakaria, Fareed (April 22, 2011). "Fareed Zakaria on Donald Trump and coded racism" (<http://globalpublicsquare.blogs.cnn.com/2011/04/22/fareed-zakaria-on-the-donald-trump-fantasy/>). Global Public Square. CNN. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110714075313/http://globalpublicsquare.blogs.cnn.com/2011/04/22/fareed-zakaria-on-the-donald-trump-fantasy/>) from the original on July 14, 2011. Retrieved July 20, 2011.
13. Crary, David (July 23, 2009). "New burst of attention for old doubts about Obama" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20120326205720/http://www.omaha.com/article/20090723/AP09/307239793>). Omaha Press. Associated Press. Archived from the original (<http://www.omaha.com/article/20090723/AP09/307239793>) on March 26, 2012. Retrieved May 1, 2011.

14. "'Birthers' claim Gibbs lied when he said Obama's birth certificate is posted on the Internet" (<http://www.politifact.com/truth-o-meter/statements/2009/jul/28/worldnetdaily/birthers-claim-gibbs-lied-when-he-said-obamas-birt/>). Politifact. July 28, 2009. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20120315121801/http://www.politifact.com/truth-o-meter/statements/2009/jul/28/worldnetdaily/birthers-claim-gibbs-lied-when-he-said-obamas-birt/>) from the original on March 15, 2012. Retrieved March 8, 2012.
15. Reyes, B.J. (October 31, 2008). "Certified" (<http://blogs.starbulletin.com/inpolitics/certified/>). Honolulu Star-Bulletin. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170313130313/http://blogs.starbulletin.com/inpolitics/certified/>) from the original on March 13, 2017. Retrieved January 1, 2010.
16. "Donald, You're Fired!" (<http://www.factcheck.org/2011/04/donald-youre-fired/>). FactCheck.org. April 9, 2011. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20150812044637/http://www.factcheck.org/2011/04/donald-youre-fired/>) from the original on August 12, 2015. Retrieved August 17, 2015. "There also were public announcements of Obama's birth published in Hawaii newspapers shortly after his birth in 1961"
17. "'Wingnuts' and President Obama" (<http://www.harrisinteractive.com/NewsRoom/HarrisPolls/tabid/447/ctl/ReadCustom%20Default/mid/1508/ArticleId/223/Default.aspx>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110109084535/http://www.harrisinteractive.com/NewsRoom/HarrisPolls/tabid/447/ctl/ReadCustom%20Default/mid/1508/ArticleId/223/Default.aspx>) January 9, 2011, at the Wayback Machine, Harris Polls, March 24, 2010. Retrieved July 18, 2010
18. Travis, Shannon (April 4, 2010). "CNN Poll: Quarter doubt Obama was born in U.S." (<http://politicalticker.blogs.cnn.com/2010/08/04/cnn-poll-quarter-doubt-president-was-born-in-u-s/>) politicalticker ... CNN. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110424025320/http://politicalticker.blogs.cnn.com/2010/08/04/cnn-poll-quarter-doubt-president-was-born-in-u-s/>) from the original on April 24, 2011. Retrieved April 18, 2011.
19. Obama's Birth Certificate Convinces Some, but Not All, Skeptics (<http://www.gallup.com/poll/147530/obama-birth-certificate-convinces-not-skeptics.aspx>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20111109113647/http://www.gallup.com/poll/147530/obama-birth-certificate-convinces-not-skeptics.aspx>) November 9, 2011, at the Wayback Machine, Gallup (May 13, 2011).
20. Welch, Susan et al. Understanding American Government (<https://books.google.com/books?id=KeQWAAAQBAJ&pg=PA26>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20190717010916/https://books.google.com/books?id=KeQWAAAQBAJ&pg=PA26>) July 17, 2019, at the Wayback Machine, p. 26 (Cengage Learning, 2013).
21. Keller, Bill. "A Theory of Conspiracy Theories" (<https://www.nytimes.com/2011/06/05/magazine/a-theory-of-conspiracy-theories.html>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170914081803/http://www.nytimes.com/2011/06/05/magazine/a-theory-of-conspiracy-theories.html>) September 14, 2017, at the Wayback Machine, The New York Times Magazine (June 3, 2011).
22. Cohen, Jon. "Poll: Number of 'birthers' plummets" (https://www.washingtonpost.com/blogs/behind-the-numbers/post/number-of-birthers-plummets/2011/05/04/AF3GAZxF_blog.html) Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20170913232144/https://www.washingtonpost.com/blogs/behind-the-numbers/post/number-of-birthers-plummets/2011/05/04/AF3GAZxF_blog.html) September 13, 2017, at the Wayback Machine, The Washington Post (May 5, 2011).
23. Savan, Leslie (November 23, 2009). "An -er is not an -ist; An -er is not an -ist" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20140610060507/http://www.highbeam.com/doc/1P1-173402915.html>). International Herald Tribune. Archived from the original (<http://www.highbeam.com/doc/1P1-173402915.html>) on June 10, 2014. Retrieved October 23, 2012. "Call it a vast linguistic conspiracy: proponents of the major conspiracy theories of the day – the truthers, the birthers, the deathers – share a suffix that makes them all sound like whackdoodles." – via HighBeam Research (subscription required)
24. Kay, Jonathan (July 31, 2009). "Jonathan Kay: Don't insult 9/11 'Truthers' by comparing them to brain-dead 'Birthers'" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20111227231800/http://nationalpost.tumblr.com/post/153274772/jonathan-kay-dont-insult-9-11-truthers-by-comparing>). National Post. Toronto. Archived from the original (<https://nationalpost.tumblr.com/post/153274772/jonathan-kay-dont-insult-9-11-truthers-by-comparing>) on December 27, 2011. Retrieved February 19, 2012.

25. Spillius, Alex (March 2, 2009). "Barack Obama fights presidential eligibility claims" (<https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/worldnews/northamerica/usa/barackobama/4929005/Barack-Obama-fights-presidential-eligibility-claims.html>). The Daily Telegraph. London. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20100219095811/http://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/worldnews/northamerica/usa/barackobama/4929005/Barack-Obama-fights-presidential-eligibility-claims.html>) from the original on February 19, 2010. Retrieved December 15, 2009.
26. Hoover, Will (November 9, 2008). "Obama's Hawaii boyhood homes drawing gawkers" (<http://the.honoluluadvertiser.com/article/2008/Nov/09/ln/hawaii811090361.html>). Honolulu Advertiser. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110402082725/http://the.honoluluadvertiser.com/article/2008/Nov/09/ln/hawaii811090361.html>) from the original on April 2, 2011. Retrieved September 14, 2010.
27. Dan Nakaso, "Twin sisters, Obama on parallel paths for years" (<http://the.honoluluadvertiser.com/article/2008/Dec/22/ln/hawaii812220320.html>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110129023832/http://the.honoluluadvertiser.com/article/2008/Dec/22/ln/hawaii812220320.html>) January 29, 2011, at the Wayback Machine, The Honolulu Advertiser, December 22, 2008. Documents hospital's name change.
28. Maraniss, David (August 24, 2008). "Though Obama Had to Leave to Find Himself, It Is Hawaii That Made His Rise Possible" (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2008/08/23/AR2008082301620.html>). The Washington Post. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20190328164728/http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2008/08/23/AR2008082301620.html>) from the original on March 28, 2019. Retrieved August 24, 2017.
29. Serafin, Peter (March 21, 2004). "Punahou grad stirs up Illinois politics" (<http://archives.starbulletin.com/2004/03/21/news/story4.html>). Honolulu Star-Bulletin. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20190328164918/http://archives.starbulletin.com/2004/03/21/news/story4.html>) from the original on March 28, 2019. Retrieved December 9, 2008.
30. Voell, Paula. (January 20, 2009). "Teacher from Kenmore recalls Obama was a focused student" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110722055908/http://mysite.ncnetwork.net/res10o2yg/obama/Teacher%20from%20Kenmore%20recalls%20Obama%20was%20a%20focused%20student%20%20Don%27t%20Miss%20%20The%20Buffalo%20News.htm>). The Buffalo News (New York State). Retrieved June 12, 2010 (archived from the original (<http://mysite.ncnetwork.net/res10o2yg/obama/Teacher%20from%20Kenmore%20recalls%20Obama%20was%20a%20focused%20student%20%20Don't%20Miss%20%20The%20Buffalo%20News.htm>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110121022452/http://mysite.ncnetwork.net/res10o2yg/obama/Teacher%20from%20Kenmore%20recalls%20Obama%20was%20a%20focused%20student%20%20Don't%20Miss%20%20The%20Buffalo%20News.htm>) January 21, 2011, at the Wayback Machine on July 22, 2011)
31. Henig, Jess; Miller, Joe (November 1, 2008). "Born in the U.S.A.: The truth about Obama's birth certificate" (https://web.archive.org/web/20091231175922/http://www.factcheck.org/elections-2008/born_in_the_usa.html). FactCheck.org. Archived from the original (<http://www.factcheck.org/2008/08/born-in-the-usa/>) on December 31, 2009. Retrieved December 19, 2009.
32. Smathers, Heather (April 26, 2011). "The Untold Story Of Barack Obama Sr.: Immigration File Sheds New Light" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20120119234801/http://www.azinews.com/2011/05/05/the-untold-story-of-barack-obama-sr-immigration-file-sheds-new-light/>). The Arizona Independent. Mohave County, AZ. Archived from the original (<http://www.azinews.com/2011/05/05/the-untold-story-of-barack-obama-sr-immigration-file-sheds-new-light/>) on January 19, 2012. Retrieved May 11, 2011.

33. Trifonovitch, Kelli Abe (October 2008). "Being local, Barry and Bryan" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20140807085834/http://www.hawaiibusiness.com/Hawaii-Business/October-2008/Being-Local-Barry-and-Bryan/>). Hawaii Business Magazine. Archived from the original (<http://hawaiibusiness.com/Hawaii-Business/October-2008/Being-Local-Barry-and-Bryan>) on August 7, 2014. Retrieved November 26, 2008.
Dingeman, Robbie (December 3, 2008). "Obama childhood locales attracting more tourists" (<http://the.honoluluadvertiser.com/article/2008/Dec/03/ln/hawaii812030386.html>). The Honolulu Advertiser. p. A1. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110712220246/http://the.honoluluadvertiser.com/article/2008/Dec/03/ln/hawaii812030386.html>) from the original on July 12, 2011. Retrieved January 15, 2011.
34. Obama, Barack (1995). Dreams from My Father: A Story of Race and Inheritance (https://archive.org/details/dreamsfrommyfath00bara_0/page/44). New York: Crown Publishers. pp. 44–45 (https://archive.org/details/dreamsfrommyfath00bara_0/page/44). ISBN 978-0-307-38341-9.
35. Pickler, Nedra (January 24, 2007). "Obama Debunks Claim About Islamic School" (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2007/01/24/AR2007012400371.html>). The Washington Post. Associated Press. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20121104064625/http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2007/01/24/AR2007012400371.html>) from the original on November 4, 2012. Retrieved January 31, 2014.
36. Dobbs, Michael (June 13, 2008). "Was Obama ever a Muslim?" (http://voices.washingtonpost.com/fact-checker/2008/06/was_obama_a_muslim.html). The Washington Post. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20130730110947/http://voices.washingtonpost.com/fact-checker/2008/06/was_obama_a_muslim.html) from the original on July 30, 2013. Retrieved January 31, 2014.
37. Sabarini, Prodit (January 31, 2007). "Impish Obama couldn't sit still, says school pal" (<http://www.asiamedia.ucla.edu/article-southeastasia.asp?parentid=62743>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20080228144442/http://www.asiamedia.ucla.edu/article-southeastasia.asp?parentid=62743>) February 28, 2008, at the Wayback Machine. The Jakarta Post Retrieved January 28, 2014.
38. Andy Martin's columns at Out2.com (August 10, 2004). "Columnist Says Barack Obama 'Lied To The American People;' Asks Publisher to Withdraw Obama's Book" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180406160925/https://www.prnewswire.com/news-releases/columnist-says-barack-obama-lied-to-the-american-people-asks-publisher-to-withdraw-obamas-book-71586122.html>) (Press release). New York: Andy Martin Worldwide Communications. PR Newswire. Archived from the original (<http://www.prnewswire.com/news-releases/columnist-says-barack-obama-lied-to-the-american-people-asks-publisher-to-withdraw-obamas-book-71586122.html>) on April 6, 2018. Retrieved January 4, 2019. "Obama is a Muslim who has concealed his religion. I am a strong supporter of the Muslim community, and I believe Muslims have been scapegoated. Obama has a great opportunity to be forthright. Instead, he has treated his Muslim heritage as a dark secret. His grandfather was named 'Hussein'. That is an Arabic-Muslim, not African, name."
39. "Smears 2.0" (<https://articles.latimes.com/2007/dec/03/opinion/ed-obama3>). Opinion. Los Angeles Times. December 3, 2007. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20160921170747/http://articles.latimes.com/2007/dec/03/opinion/ed-obama3>) from the original on September 21, 2016. Retrieved October 14, 2016. "So it's worth considering the persistence of the Internet rumors that Obama, well known to Chicagoans as a Christian, is actually a stealth Muslim, a "Manchurian candidate" who would take the presidential oath with his hand on the Koran. The rumors first surfaced during Obama's run for Senate but took off in a viral e-mail campaign in 2006."
40. Loren Collins. "The Secret Origins of Birtherism" (<http://www.bullspotting.com/articles/the-secret-origins-of-birtherism/>). Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20190210044455/http://www.bullspotting.com/articles/the-secret-origins-of-birtherism/>) from the original on February 10, 2019. Retrieved February 9, 2019.
41. Emery, David (September 17, 2016). "Did Clinton Supporters Start the 'Birther' Movement?" (<http://www.snopes.com/hillary-clinton-started-birther-movement/>). Snopes. Archived (<https://archive.today/20180330054933/https://www.snopes.com/fact-check/hillary-clinton-started-birther-movement/>) from the original on March 30, 2018. Retrieved September 17, 2016.

42. DAVID GOLDSTEIN. "2 Clinton supporters in '08 reportedly shared Obama 'birther' story" (<http://www.mcclatchydc.com/news/politics-government/election/article102354777.html>). McClatchy DC. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20161115205806/http://www.mcclatchydc.com/news/politics-government/election/article102354777.html>) from the original on November 15, 2016. Retrieved November 14, 2016.
43. Scott, Eugene. "Clinton's '08 campaign chief: We didn't start 'birther' movement" (<http://edition.cnn.com/2016/09/16/politics/hillary-clinton-patti-solis-doyle-birther-donald-trump/>). CNN. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20161114234211/http://edition.cnn.com/2016/09/16/politics/hillary-clinton-patti-solis-doyle-birther-donald-trump/>) from the original on November 14, 2016. Retrieved November 14, 2016.
44. Hollyfield, Amy (June 28, 2008). "For true disbelievers, the facts are just not enough" (<http://www.tampabay.com/news/for-true-disbelievers-the-facts-are-just-not-enough/648060>). Tampa Bay Times. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20150327234422/http://www.tampabay.com/news/for-true-disbelievers-the-facts-are-just-not-enough/648060>) from the original on March 27, 2015. Retrieved March 30, 2015.
45. Smith, Ben; Tau, Byron (April 22, 2011). "Birtherism: Where it all began" (<http://www.politico.com/news/stories/0411/53563.html>). Politico. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110501045531/http://www.politico.com/news/stories/0411/53563.html>) from the original on May 1, 2011. Retrieved March 30, 2015.
46. Karen Tumulty (June 12, 2008). "Will Obama's Anti-Rumor Plan Work" (<http://www.time.com/time/nation/article/0,8599,1813663,00.html>). Time. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20081102000349/http://www.time.com/time/nation/article/0%2C8599%2C1813663%2C00.html>) from the original on November 2, 2008. Retrieved February 2, 2011.
47. Geraghty, Jim (June 9, 2008). "Obama Could Debunk Some Rumors By Releasing His Birth Certificate" (<http://campaignspot.nationalreview.com/post/?q=ZTgxZmlwNTg0OWVhMWJkODNmZjI4ZjY4Mjg2OWRmNzI=>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090223005411/http://campaignspot.nationalreview.com/post/?q=ZTgxZmlwNTg0OWVhMWJkODNmZjI4ZjY4Mjg2OWRmNzI%3D>) February 23, 2009, at the Wayback Machine, The Campaign Spot, National Review Online.
48. Weigel, David (December 4, 2008). "Change They Can Litigate" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090301163352/http://www.slate.com/id/2206033/pagenum/all/>). Slate. Archived from the original (<http://www.slate.com/id/2206033/pagenum/all/>) on March 1, 2009. Retrieved December 15, 2009.
49. Tumulty, Karen (June 23, 2008). "Can Obama Shred The Rumors?". Time.
50. Swaine, Jon. "Birther row began with Hillary Clinton supporters" (<https://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/worldnews/barackobama/8478044/Birther-row-began-with-Hillary-Clinton-supporters.html>). The Daily Telegraph. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20161114233855/http://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/worldnews/barackobama/8478044/Birther-row-began-with-Hillary-Clinton-supporters.html>) from the original on November 14, 2016. Retrieved November 14, 2016. "Then in August 2008 Phil Berg, an ex-deputy attorney general for Pennsylvania and a renowned conspiracy theorist, filed a lawsuit alleging that Mr Obama was ineligible to be a candidate ..."
51. Hinkelman, Michael (October 25, 2008). "Judge rejects Montco lawyer's bid to have Obama removed from ballot" (https://web.archive.org/web/20081028103254/http://www.philly.com/dailynews/local/20081025_Judge_rejects_Montco_lawyer_s_bid_to_have_Obama_removed_from_ballot.html). The Philadelphia Daily News. Archived from the original (http://www.philly.com/dailynews/local/20081025_Judge_rejects_Montco_lawyer_s_bid_to_have_Obama_removed_from_ballot.html) on October 28, 2008. Retrieved November 14, 2016. "Philip J. Berg alleged in a complaint filed in federal district court on Aug. 21 against Obama, the Democratic National Committee and the Federal Election Commission, that Obama was born in Mombasa, Kenya."
52. Trial and Triumph: Stories Out Of Africa (<https://web.archive.org/web/20091020224623/http://www.npr.org/templates/story/story.php?storyId=95550177>), NPR, October 9, 2008
53. "Trip Wire" (<http://www.snopes.com/politics/obama/birthers/ap.asp>). Snopes.com. October 19, 2009. Retrieved May 6, 2011.

54. "Kenyan-born Obama all set for US Senate" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20040627142700/http://eastandard.net/headlines/news26060403.htm>). The Standard. Nairobi. Associated Press. June 27, 2004. Archived from the original (<http://eastandard.net/headlines/news26060403.htm>) on June 27, 2004.
55. Lannan, Maura Kelly (June 25, 2004). "Ryan drops out of race for Illinois Senate amid damaging sex club allegations" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110702060119/http://legacy.signonsandiego.com/news/politics/20040625-1644-illinoissenate.html>). U-T San Diego. Associated Press. Archived from the original (<http://legacy.signonsandiego.com/news/politics/20040625-1644-illinoissenate.html>) on July 2, 2011. Retrieved May 6, 2011.
56. Dylan Stableford (May 16, 2012). "'Born in Kenya': Obama's Literary Agent Misidentified His Birthplace in 1991" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20120706093227/https://abcnews.go.com/Politics/OTUS/born-kenya-obamas-literary-agent-misidentified-birthplace-1991/story?id=16372566#.Vj6h4r9mqjc>). ABC News. Archived from the original (<https://abcnews.go.com/Politics/OTUS/born-kenya-obamas-literary-agent-misidentified-birthplace-1991/story?id=16372566>) on July 6, 2012. Retrieved November 8, 2015.
57. "Obama hits back at Internet slanders" (<http://afp.google.com/article/ALeqM5juMJpMhCS5TDzEF2Ds-frHSuHQLQ>). Agence France-Presse. June 12, 2008. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20080615040334/http://afp.google.com/article/ALeqM5juMJpMhCS5TDzEF2Ds-frHSuHQLQ>) from the original on June 15, 2008. Retrieved December 9, 2008.
58. "The truth about Barack's birth certificate" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20080922222958/http://fightthesmears.com/articles/5/birthcertificate>). Obama for America. June 12, 2008. Archived from the original (<http://fightthesmears.com/articles/5/birthcertificate>) on September 22, 2008. Retrieved February 2, 2011.
59. "Applying for Hawaiian Home Lands" (<http://hawaii.gov/dhhl/applicants/appforms/applyhhl>). State of Hawaii Department of Hawaiian Homelands. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090706011650/http://hawaii.gov/dhhl/applicants/appforms/applyhhl>) from the original on July 6, 2009. Retrieved July 23, 2009.
60. "Ex-Hawaii official denounces 'ludicrous' birther claims" (<http://www.nbcnews.com/id/42519951>). NBC News. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20131215181521/http://www.nbcnews.com/id/42519951>) from the original on December 15, 2013. Retrieved April 19, 2011.
61. Watanabe, June (June 6, 2009). "Born Identity" (http://archives.starbulletin.com/content/20090606_kokua_line). Honolulu Star-Bulletin. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20110214115506/http://archives.starbulletin.com/content/20090606_kokua_line) from the original on February 14, 2011. Retrieved January 1, 2010.
62. Geraghty, Jim (June 12, 2008). "Obama's Certification of Live Birth Found and Posted at Daily Kos" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20100715161516/http://www.nationalreview.com/campaign-spot/9471/obamas-certification-live-birth-found-and-posted-daily-kos>). National Review. Archived from the original (<http://campaignspot.nationalreview.com/post/?q=NWVjN2l1MjJjZjRjYzBkODAxZjZkZGQyYWNkMDk=>) on July 15, 2010.
63. "Fight the Smears" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110203021238/http://fightthesmears.com/>). Archived from the original (<http://fightthesmears.com/>) on February 3, 2011. Retrieved February 1, 2011.
64. Koppelman, Alex (December 5, 2008). "Why the stories about Obama's birth certificate will never die" (http://www.salon.com/news/feature/2008/12/05/birth_certificate). Salon. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20100131045201/http://www.salon.com/news/feature/2008/12/05/birth_certificate) from the original on January 31, 2010. Retrieved January 1, 2010. "Barack Obama was, without question, born in the U.S., and he is eligible to be president, but experts on conspiracy theories say that won't ever matter to those who believe otherwise."
65. "Hawaii: Obama born in U.S." (http://seattletimes.nwsourc.com/html/presidentialrace/2008337771_rumorside01.html) The Seattle Times. Associated Press. November 1, 2008. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20091223032518/http://seattletimes.nwsourc.com/html/presidentialrace/2008337771_rumorside01.html) from the original on December 23, 2009. Retrieved January 1, 2010.

66. "CNN Interview Goes Off the Rails After Jerome Corsi's Lawyer Insists Obama's Birth Certificate is Fraudulent" (<https://www.mediaite.com/tv/cnn-interview-goes-off-the-rails-after-jerome-corsi-lawyer-insists-obamas-birth-certificates-fraudulent/>). Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20190305115801/https://www.mediaite.com/tv/cnn-interview-goes-off-the-rails-after-jerome-corsi-lawyer-insists-obamas-birth-certificates-fraudulent/>) from the original on March 5, 2019. Retrieved March 5, 2019.
67. "FACT CHECK: Is Barack Obama's Birth Certificate Fake?" (<https://www.snopes.com/fact-check/birth-certificate/>). Snopes.com. Archived (<https://archive.today/20180808081108/https://www.snopes.com/fact-check/birth-certificate/>) from the original on August 8, 2018. Retrieved February 17, 2021.
68. Nakaso, Dan (November 1, 2008). "Obama's certificate of birth OK, state says" (<https://pqasb.pqarchiver.com/honoluluadvertiser/access/1694336321.html?dids=1694336321:1694336321&FMT=ABS&FMTS=ABS:FT&date=Nov+1%2C+2008&author=Dan+Nakaso&pub=Honolulu+Advertiser&edition=&startpage=A.1&desc=Obama%27s+certificate+of+birth+OK%2C+state+says>). The Honolulu Advertiser. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20121108023103/http://pqasb.pqarchiver.com/honoluluadvertiser/access/1694336321.html?dids=1694336321:1694336321&FMT=ABS&FMTS=ABS:FT&date=Nov+1%2C+2008&author=Dan+Nakaso&pub=Honolulu+Advertiser&edition=&startpage=A.1&desc=Obama%27s+certificate+of+birth+OK%2C+state+says>) from the original on November 8, 2012. Retrieved July 5, 2017.
69. Hawaii Revised Statutes §338-18 Disclosure of records (http://www.capitol.hawaii.gov/hrscurrent/Vol06_Ch0321-0344/HRS0338/HRS_0338-0018.htm) Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20110427033036/http://www.capitol.hawaii.gov/hrscurrent/vol06_ch0321-0344/HRS0338/HRS_0338-0018.htm) April 27, 2011, at the Wayback Machine, January 4, 2011
70. Gold, Matea (July 24, 2009). "CNN President Jon Klein declares Obama birther story 'dead'" (<http://latimesblogs.latimes.com/showtracker/2009/07/cnn-president-jon-klein-declares-birther-story-dead.html>). Los Angeles Times. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090726113942/http://latimesblogs.latimes.com/showtracker/2009/07/cnn-president-jon-klein-declares-birther-story-dead.html>) from the original on July 26, 2009. Retrieved July 24, 2009.
71. Nakaso, Dan (July 28, 2009). "Hawaii officials confirm Obama's original birth certificate still exists" (<http://the.honoluluadvertiser.com/article/2009/Jul/28/ln/hawaii907280345.html>). The Honolulu Advertiser. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110401130033/http://the.honoluluadvertiser.com/article/2009/Jul/28/ln/hawaii907280345.html>) from the original on April 1, 2011. Retrieved April 8, 2011.
72. Hawaii Department of Health News Release: statement by Health Director Chiyome Fukino MD" (<http://hawaii.gov/health/about/pr/2009/09-063.pdf>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20100611160151/http://hawaii.gov/health/about/pr/2009/09-063.pdf>) June 11, 2010, at the Wayback Machine July 27, 2009.
73. "Correspondence with the Hawaii State Department of Health" (https://web.archive.org/web/20110502024801/http://www.whitehouse.gov/sites/default/files/rss_viewer/birth-certificate-correspondence.pdf) (PDF). Archived from the original (https://whitehouse.gov/sites/default/files/rss_viewer/birth-certificate-correspondence.pdf) (PDF) on May 2, 2011. Retrieved April 27, 2011.
74. "Attachments to Certificate of Live Birth Release" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110809165634/http://hawaii.gov/gov/newsroom/press-releases/AttachmentsToCertificateOfLiveBirthRelease.pdf>) (PDF). Archived from the original (<http://hawaii.gov/gov/newsroom/press-releases/AttachmentsToCertificateOfLiveBirthRelease.pdf>) (PDF) on August 9, 2011. Retrieved April 27, 2011.
75. Jackson, David (April 27, 2011). "Obama releases his Hawaii birth certificate" (<http://content.usatoday.com/communities/theoval/post/2011/04/obama-releases-birth-records/1>). USA Today. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110429102815/http://content.usatoday.com/communities/theoval/post/2011/04/obama-releases-birth-records/1>) from the original on April 29, 2011. Retrieved April 27, 2011.
76. "Hawaii Health Department Grants President Obama's Request for Certified Copies of 'Long Form' Birth Certificate" (<https://archive.today/20120724095254/http://us2.campaign-archive1.com/?u=71462e6edb79c23595f73fe38&id=9d8904b9d5>). Archived from the original (<http://us2.campaign-archive1.com/?u=71462e6edb79c23595f73fe38&id=9d8904b9d5>) on July 24, 2012. Retrieved April 27, 2011.

77. "Barack Obama's long form birth certificate" (https://web.archive.org/web/20110429013125/http://www.whitehouse.gov/sites/default/files/rss_viewer/birth-certificate-long-form.pdf) (PDF). Archived from the original (https://whitehouse.gov/sites/default/files/rss_viewer/birth-certificate-long-form.pdf) (PDF) on April 29, 2011. Retrieved April 27, 2011.
78. "Obama releases detailed U.S. birth certificate" (<http://www.nbcnews.com/id/42779923>). NBC News. April 27, 2011. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110501013419/http://www.nbcnews.com/id/42779923/>) from the original on May 1, 2011. Retrieved April 27, 2011.
79. Page, Susan; Jackie Kucinich (April 27, 2011). "Obama releases long-form birth certificate" (https://www.usatoday.com/news/washington/2011-04-27-obama-birth-certificate_n.htm?csp=34news). USA Today. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20110430145603/http://www.usatoday.com/news/washington/2011-04-27-obama-birth-certificate_n.htm?csp=34news) from the original on April 30, 2011. Retrieved April 27, 2011.
80. Silverleib, Alan (April 27, 2011). "Obama releases original long-form birth certificate" (<http://edition.cnn.com/2011/POLITICS/04/27/obama.birth.certificate/index.html>). CNN. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110429045607/http://edition.cnn.com/2011/POLITICS/04/27/obama.birth.certificate/index.html>) from the original on April 29, 2011. Retrieved April 27, 2011.
81. Benjy Sarlin (April 29, 2011). "With Drudge Report's Help, Birthers Latch Onto Phony Forgery Theory" (<http://tpmdc.talkingpointsmemo.com/2011/04/with-drudge-reports-help-birthers-latch-onto-phony-forgery-theory.php>). Talking Points Memo. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110429202744/http://tpmdc.talkingpointsmemo.com/2011/04/with-drudge-reports-help-birthers-latch-onto-phony-forgery-theory.php>) from the original on April 29, 2011. Retrieved April 30, 2011.
82. Richardson, Valerie (May 18, 2011). "Birth papers hit book sales" (<http://www.washingtontimes.com/news/2011/may/18/birth-papers-hit-book-sales/>). The Washington Times. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110519231313/http://www.washingtontimes.com/news/2011/may/18/birth-papers-hit-book-sales/>) from the original on May 19, 2011.
83. Goulding, Nathan. "PDF Layers in Obama's Birth Certificate" (<http://www.nationalreview.com/corner/265767/pdf-layers-obamas-birth-certificate-nathan-goulding>). National Review. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110522025007/http://www.nationalreview.com/corner/265767/pdf-layers-obamas-birth-certificate-nathan-goulding>) from the original on May 22, 2011. Retrieved May 22, 2011.
84. Taylor, Goldie (April 27, 2011). "Why Obama shouldn't have had to 'show his papers'" (https://archive.today/20120711174949/http://maddowblog.msnbc.msn.com/_news/2011/04/27/6547023-why-obama-shouldnt-have-had-to-show-his-papers-full-version). The Rachel Maddow Show. Archived from the original (https://maddowblog.msnbc.msn.com/_news/2011/04/27/6547023-why-obama-shouldnt-have-had-to-show-his-papers-full-version) on July 11, 2012. Retrieved July 21, 2011.
85. Hughey, Matthew (2012). "Show Me Your Papers! Obama's Birth and the Whiteness of Belonging". Qualitative Sociology. 35 (2): 163–181. doi:10.1007/s11133-012-9224-6 (<https://doi.org/10.1007%2Fs11133-012-9224-6>). S2CID 145812135 (<https://api.semanticscholar.org/CorpusID:145812135>).
86. Malcolm, Andrew (June 30, 2009). "More questions about Barack Obama's birth certificate, still" (<http://latimesblogs.latimes.com/washington/2009/06/barack-obama-birth-certificate.html>). Los Angeles Times. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090703070147/http://latimesblogs.latimes.com/washington/2009/06/barack-obama-birth-certificate.html>) from the original on July 3, 2009. Retrieved July 8, 2009.
87. "PUBLIC LAW 4 14-JUN E 27, 1952" (<https://www.govinfo.gov/content/pkg/STATUTE-66/pdf/STATUTE-66-Pg163.pdf#page=74>) (PDF). govinfo.gov. Section 301(a)(7). Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20190129175216/https://www.govinfo.gov/content/pkg/STATUTE-66/pdf/STATUTE-66-Pg163.pdf#page=74>) (PDF) from the original on January 29, 2019. Retrieved February 17, 2021.

88. Volokh interpreted the law differently in Janega, James (October 30, 2008). "Rumor calls Obama's birth certificate fake But his critics don't appear to have proof" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20081227063603/http://www.chicagotribune.com/news/nationworld/chi-birth-certificate-30-oct30,0,1742172.story>). Chicago Tribune. Archived from the original (<http://www.chicagotribune.com/news/nationworld/chi-birth-certificate-30-oct30,0,1742172.story>) on December 27, 2008. Retrieved February 1, 2011., but later posted a correction at Volokh, Eugene (December 1, 2008). "Correction About Natural-Born Citizen Law" (http://volokh.com/archives/archive_2008_11_30-2008_12_06.shtml#1227910730). The Volokh Conspiracy. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20090708201948/http://volokh.com/archives/archive_2008_11_30-2008_12_06.shtml) from the original on July 8, 2009. Retrieved July 8, 2009.
89. Koppelman, Alex (July 23, 2009). "No, Obama's grandmother didn't say he was born in Kenya" (<http://www.salon.com/2009/07/24/liddy/>). Salon. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170203213719/http://www.salon.com/2009/07/24/liddy/>) from the original on February 3, 2017. Retrieved April 14, 2017.
90. Thomma, Steven (July 30, 2009). "Here's the truth: 'Birther' claims are just plain nuts" (<http://www.mcclatchydc.com/227/story/72794.html>). McClatchy Newspapers. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090731193049/http://www.mcclatchydc.com/227/story/72794.html>) from the original on July 31, 2009. Retrieved July 31, 2009.
91. Jones, Tim (March 27, 2007). "Barack Obama: Mother not just a girl from Kansas" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090821054242/http://www.courant.com/news/nationworld/world/chi-0703270151mar27-archive%2C0%2C2145571.story>). Hartford Courant. Archived from the original (<http://www.courant.com/news/nationworld/world/chi-0703270151mar27-archive,0,2145571.story>) on August 21, 2009.
92. Carmon, Irin (June 22, 2012). "Barack Obama wasn't born in Kenya" (http://www.salon.com/2012/06/22/barack_obama_wasnt_born_in_kenya/). Salon. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20120623174221/https://www.salon.com/2012/06/22/barack_obama_wasnt_born_in_kenya/) from the original on June 23, 2012. Retrieved June 23, 2012.
93. Weiner, Rachel (August 3, 2009). "Kenyan Birth Certificate: Obama Birthers Latch On To Forgery" (https://huffingtonpost.com/2009/08/03/kenyan-birth-certificate_n_249850.html). The Huffington Post. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20170606215710/http://www.huffingtonpost.com/2009/08/03/kenyan-birth-certificate_n_249850.html) from the original on June 6, 2017. Retrieved December 11, 2019.
94. "Kenya 'birth certificate' said to be fake" (http://www.upi.com/Top_News/2009/08/04/Birther-She-has-Obama-birth-certificate/UPI-75631249420557/) Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20090807091357/http://www.upi.com/Top_News/2009/08/04/Birther-She-has-Obama-birth-certificate/UPI-75631249420557/) August 7, 2009, at the Wayback Machine, United Press International. August 4, 2009.
95. Snopes.com: Kenyan Mistake. (<http://www.snopes.com/politics/obama/birthers/kenyacert.asp>) Archived (<https://archive.today/20200616024917/https://www.snopes.com/fact-check/kenyan-mistake/>) June 16, 2020, at archive.today February 15, 2011.
96. Rosendorff, Dina. "Adelaide man caught up in bid to oust Obama" (<http://www.abc.net.au/pm/content/2008/s2646009.htm>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090805192904/http://www.abc.net.au/pm/content/2008/s2646009.htm>) August 5, 2009, at the Wayback Machine, PM, Australian Broadcasting Corporation. Transcript of program aired August 4, 2009.
97. Koppelman, Alex (August 4, 2009). "Source for forged Kenyan birth certificate found?" (http://www.salon.com/politics/war_room/2009/08/04/australia_certificate/) Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20090807025005/http://www.salon.com/politics/war_room/2009/08/04/australia_certificate/) August 7, 2009, at the Wayback Machine, Salon.
98. See anonymous blogger (<http://fearlessblogging.com/comment/view/6816>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090810020800/http://fearlessblogging.com/comment/view/6816>) August 10, 2009, at the Wayback Machine.

99. Weigel, David (August 5, 2009). "Punkin' the Birthers: Priceless" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090808043052/http://washingtonindependent.com/54104/punkin-the-birthers-priceless>). The Washington Independent. Archived from the original (<http://washingtonindependent.com/54104/punkin-the-birthers-priceless>) on August 8, 2009.
100. Cooper, Anderson (August 6, 2010). "Release birth certificate, military doctor demands" (<http://ac360.blogs.cnn.com/2010/08/06/video-release-birth-certificate-military-doctor-demands-2/>). CNN: Anderson Cooper 360. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20101108051128/http://ac360.blogs.cnn.com/2010/08/06/video-release-birth-certificate-military-doctor-demands-2/>) from the original on November 8, 2010. Retrieved November 24, 2010.
101. Weigel, David (July 17, 2009). "'Birther' Movement Dogs Republicans" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110725043238/http://washingtonindependent.com/51489/birther-movement-picks-up-steam>). Washington Independent. Archived from the original (<http://washingtonindependent.com/51489/birther-movement-picks-up-steam>) on July 25, 2011. Retrieved July 20, 2011.
102. Kornhaber, Spencer (June 17, 2009). "Meet Orly Taitz, Queen Bee of People Obsessed With Barack Obama's Birth Certificate" (<http://www.ocweekly.com/2009-06-18/news/orly-taitz/1>). OC Weekly. Costa Mesa, CA. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090623063731/http://www.ocweekly.com/2009-06-18/news/orly-taitz/1>) from the original on June 23, 2009. Retrieved June 23, 2009.
103. "Statement by Health Director Chiyome Fukino, M.D." (<http://hawaii.gov/health/about/pr/2009/09-063.pdf>) (PDF) (Press release). Hawaii State Department of Health. July 27, 2009. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20100611160151/http://hawaii.gov/health/about/pr/2009/09-063.pdf>) (PDF) from the original on June 11, 2010. Retrieved June 12, 2010.
104. Nakaso, Dan (July 27, 2009). "Obama Hawaii born, insist Isle officials" (<http://the.honoluluadvertiser.com/article/2009/Jul/27/br/hawaii90727082.html>). Honolulu Advertiser. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110610044239/http://the.honoluluadvertiser.com/article/2009/Jul/27/br/hawaii90727082.html>) from the original on June 10, 2011. Retrieved June 12, 2010.
105. Roig, Suzanne (October 18, 2008). "Suit targets Obama document: Foe of presidential candidate wants birth certificate, related files" (<http://the.honoluluadvertiser.com/article/2008/Oct/18/ln/hawaii810180353.html>). Honolulu Advertiser. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090721040552/http://the.honoluluadvertiser.com/article/2008/Oct/18/ln/hawaii810180353.html>) from the original on July 21, 2009. Retrieved March 24, 2009. Martin was seeking "a copy of Obama's birth certificate, and related files and records".
106. "No doubt about Obama's birth" (http://archives.starbulletin.com/content/20090729_No_doubt_about_Obamas_birth). Honolulu Star-Bulletin. July 29, 2009. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20120515004859/http://archives.starbulletin.com/content/20090729_No_doubt_about_Obamas_birth) from the original on May 15, 2012. Retrieved February 27, 2011.
107. Kornhaber 2009, p. 4 (<http://www.ocweekly.com/2009-06-18/news/orly-taitz/4>)
108. Barbara Crossette (June 14, 1981). "Lahore, a Survivor With a Bittersweet History" (<https://www.nytimes.com/1981/06/14/travel/lahore-a-survivor-with-a-bittersweet-history.html>). The New York Times. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110220094017/http://www.nytimes.com/1981/06/14/travel/lahore-a-survivor-with-a-bittersweet-history.html>) from the original on February 20, 2011. Retrieved March 23, 2011.
109. Brims, John S. (August 23, 1981). "Lahore; Letters to the Travel Editor" (<https://www.nytimes.com/1981/08/23/travel/l-lahore-243000.html?sec=&spon=&scp=3&sq=lahore%20travel%201981&st=cse>). The New York Times. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20100804103501/http://www.nytimes.com/1981/08/23/travel/l-lahore-243000.html?sec=&spon=&scp=3&sq=lahore%20travel%201981&st=cse>) from the original on August 4, 2010. Retrieved March 23, 2011.
110. "Travel Advisory No. 81-33A" (https://web.archive.org/web/20110806051033/http://dosfan.lib.uic.edu/ERC/travel/cis/southasia/TA_Pakistan1981.pdf) (PDF). Passport Services/Bureau of Consular Affairs. U.S Department of State. August 17, 1981. Archived from the original (http://dosfan.lib.uic.edu/ERC/travel/cis/southasia/TA_Pakistan1981.pdf) (PDF) on August 6, 2011. Retrieved March 23, 2011.

11. "The Occidental Tourist" (<http://www.snopes.com/politics/obama/birthers/occidental.asp>). September 17, 2009. Retrieved July 1, 2013.
12. Chin, Gabriel (April 21, 2011). "Who's really eligible to be president?" (<http://www.cnn.com/2011/OPINION/04/20/chin.natural.born/index.html>). CNN. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20121110025558/http://www.cnn.com/2011/OPINION/04/20/chin.natural.born/index.html>) from the original on November 10, 2012. Retrieved April 22, 2011.
13. "Native Son" (<http://www.snopes.com/politics/obama/citizen.asp>). Snopes. October 17, 2008. Archived (<https://wayback.archive-it.org/all/20180519202009/https://www.snopes.com/fact-check/native-son/>) from the original on May 19, 2018. Retrieved September 15, 2009.
14. Jones, Tim (December 8, 2008). "Court won't review Obama's eligibility to serve" (<http://www.chicagotribune.com/news/nationworld/chi-obama-birth-certificate1dec08,0,7258812.story>). Chicago Tribune. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20101024151754/http://www.chicagotribune.com/news/nationworld/chi-obama-birth-certificate1dec08%2C0%2C7258812.story>) from the original on October 24, 2010. Retrieved November 12, 2010.
15. Barnes, Robert (December 2008). "Obama Citizenship – Supreme Court Declines To Hear Challenge" (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2008/12/08/AR2008120803710.html>). The Washington Post. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20161201020503/http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2008/12/08/AR2008120803710.html>) from the original on December 1, 2016. Retrieved August 24, 2017.
16. Ross, Jamie (October 28, 2011). "Birthers Sue Democratic National Committee" (<http://www.courthouseenews.com/2011/10/28/41005.htm>). Courthouse News Service. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20120402032524/http://www.courthouseenews.com/2011/10/28/41005.htm>) from the original on April 2, 2012. Retrieved June 13, 2012.
17. Class Action Complaint for Declaratory and Injunctive Relief (<https://web.archive.org/web/2021022211212/http://www.libertylegalfoundation.net/wp-content/uploads/2011/10/Federal-DNC-Complaint.pdf>), pp. 3, 5.
18. "Things you might not know about Barack Obama" (<http://www.rockymountainnews.com/news/2008/aug/06/things-you-might-not-know-about-barack-obama/>). Rocky Mountain News. Denver, CO. August 6, 2008. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090107233743/http://www.rockymountainnews.com/news/2008/aug/06/things-you-might-not-know-about-barack-obama/>) from the original on January 7, 2009. Retrieved January 10, 2009.
19. Miller, Joe (September 3, 2009). "Obama's Kenyan Citizenship?" (<http://www.factcheck.org/2008/08/obamas-kenyan-citizenship/>). FactCheck.org. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20190703230349/https://www.factcheck.org/2008/08/obamas-kenyan-citizenship/>) from the original on July 3, 2019. Retrieved March 13, 2020.
20. Temple, John (August 15, 2008). "TEMPLE: 8-word gaffe ripples across Web" (<http://www.rockymountainnews.com/news/2008/aug/15/eight-word-gaffe-ripples-across-web/>). Rocky Mountain News. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20130409235004/http://www.rockymountainnews.com/news/2008/aug/15/eight-word-gaffe-ripples-across-web/>) from the original on April 9, 2013. Retrieved August 11, 2014.
21. "eFNS Information Pack" (<https://fns.immigration.go.ke/infopack/citizenship/regaining/>). fns.immigration.go.ke. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20181023195912/https://fns.immigration.go.ke/infopack/citizenship/regaining/>) from the original on October 23, 2018. Retrieved October 23, 2018.
22. Rizo, Chris (December 8, 2008). "Supreme Court declines to hear Obama citizenship challenge" (<http://www.legalnewsline.com/news/217841-supreme-court-declines-to-hear-obama-citizenship-challenge>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20081210235428/http://www.legalnewsline.com/news/217841-supreme-court-declines-to-hear-obama-citizenship-challenge>) December 10, 2008, at the Wayback Machine, LegalNewsline.com.

23. Malcolm, Andrew (February 21, 2009). "Alan Keyes stokes Obama birth certificate controversy" (<http://latimesblogs.latimes.com/washington/2009/02/obama-birth-cer.html>). Los Angeles Times. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090225193037/http://latimesblogs.latimes.com/washington/2009/02/obama-birth-cer.html>) from the original on February 25, 2009. Retrieved March 1, 2009.
24. Winant, Gabriel (August 13, 2009). "What Orly Taitz Believes" (http://www.salon.com/news/feature/2009/08/13/orly_taitz). Salon. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20100225020415/http://www.salon.com/news/feature/2009/08/13/orly_taitz/) from the original on February 25, 2010. Retrieved April 23, 2010.
25. Rutenberg, Jim (October 12, 2008). "The Man Behind the Whispers" (https://www.nytimes.com/2008/10/13/us/politics/13martin.html?_r=1&hp). The New York Times. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20170129130632/http://www.nytimes.com/2008/10/13/us/politics/13martin.html?_r=1&hp) from the original on January 29, 2017. Retrieved January 31, 2017.
26. Olkon, Sara; Janega, James (December 3, 2008). "Tax activist's ad challenges Obama's eligibility for office" (<http://www.chicagotribune.com/news/politics/obama/chi-obama-ad-03-dec03,0,3124041.story>). Chicago Tribune. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20081206051951/http://www.chicagotribune.com/news/politics/obama/chi-obama-ad-03-dec03,0,3124041.story>) from the original on December 6, 2008. Retrieved December 8, 2008.
27. Nelson, Steven (October 3, 2014). "Lawyer Who Beat the NSA Files Obama 'Deportation Petition'" (<https://www.usnews.com/news/blogs/washington-whispers/2014/10/03/lawyer-who-beat-the-nsa-files-obama-deportation-petition>). U.S. News & World Report. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170828103540/https://www.usnews.com/news/blogs/washington-whispers/2014/10/03/lawyer-who-beat-the-nsa-files-obama-deportation-petition>) from the original on August 28, 2017. Retrieved August 24, 2017.
28. Weigel, Dave (December 12, 2008). "Stay Classy, Constitution Party" (<http://reason.com/blog/show/130542.html>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20081213184115/http://reason.com/blog/show/130542.html>) December 13, 2008, at the Wayback Machine, Reason. Also see "Got Birth Certificate? Constitution Party Calls For Barack Obama To Prove Eligibility For Office" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110725193742/http://constitutionparty.org/news.php?aid=811>), Constitution Party Website (December 9, 2008) (archived from the original (<http://constitutionparty.org/news.php?aid=811>) on July 25, 2011).
29. Crummy, Karen E. (December 12, 2008). "State's 9 electors unmoved by anti-Obama pitch" (http://www.denverpost.com/president08/ci_11201168). The Denver Post. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20081213044903/http://www.denverpost.com/president08/ci_11201168) from the original on December 13, 2008. Retrieved December 12, 2008.
30. Barr, Andy (December 7, 2008). "Whisper campaign persists despite election" (https://web.archive.org/web/20081211013725/http://news.yahoo.com/s/politico/20081207/pl_politico/16257). The Politico. Archived from the original (https://news.yahoo.com/s/politico/20081207/pl_politico/16257) on December 11, 2008. Retrieved December 10, 2008.
31. Louis, Errol (July 22, 2009). "Obama's critics launch the birth of a nutty nation" (http://www.nydailynews.com/opinions/2009/07/23/2009-07-23_obamas_critics_launch_the_birth_of_a_nutty_nation.html). Daily News. New York. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20090826045636/http://www.nydailynews.com/opinions/2009/07/23/2009-07-23_obamas_critics_launch_the_birth_of_a_nutty_nation.html) from the original on August 26, 2009. Retrieved June 2, 2010.
32. Folkenflik, David (July 31, 2009). "Dobbs' Focus On Obama Birth Draws Fire To CNN" (<https://www.npr.org/templates/story/story.php?storyId=111409944>). NPR. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20100423144052/http://www.npr.org/templates/story/story.php?storyId=111409944>) from the original on April 23, 2010. Retrieved June 2, 2010.
33. Lynda Waddington (March 8, 2011). "Congressman 'Gopher' off Beltway airwaves" (<https://archive.today/20130126161239/http://iowaindependent.com/53494/congressman-gopher-off-beltway-airwaves>). Iowa Independent. Archived from the original (<http://iowaindependent.com/53494/congressman-gopher-off-beltway-airwaves>) on January 26, 2013. Retrieved March 8, 2011.

34. "What Obama and My Wife Have in Common" (<http://www.creators.com/conservative/chuck-norris/what-obama-and-my-wife-have-in-common.html>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110629024750/http://www.creators.com/conservative/chuck-norris/what-obama-and-my-wife-have-in-common.html>) June 29, 2011, at the Wayback Machine, Chuck Norris, August 9, 2009
35. Meet Luke Scott: He's a Baseball Birther (<http://hypervocal.com/politics/2010/meet-luke-scott-hes-a-baseball-birther/>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20101213154517/http://hypervocal.com/politics/2010/meet-luke-scott-hes-a-baseball-birther/>) December 13, 2010, at the Wayback Machine, HyperVocal.com, December 9, 2010
36. Zakarin, Jordan (April 20, 2011). "Charlie Sheen A Birther: Doubts President Obama's Birth Certificate" (https://huffingtonpost.com/2011/04/20/charlie-sheen-a-birther-obama-birth-certificate_n_851346.html). The Huffington Post. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20170318045337/http://www.huffingtonpost.com/2011/04/20/charlie-sheen-a-birther-obama-birth-certificate_n_851346.html) from the original on March 18, 2017. Retrieved December 11, 2019.
37. Dion B. (Skeeter) Lawyer-Sanders (August 3, 2009). "The 'Skeeter Bites Report: Letter From the Editor: 'Birther' Movement Reeks With the Rotten Stench of Racism" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090808025316/http://www.zimbio.com/Current+News+Events+by+Marc+Chamot+-NEW/articles/JnpzDIzmJel/Letter+Editor+Birther+Movement+Reeks+Rotten>). Skeeterbitesreport.com. Archived from the original (<http://www.zimbio.com/Current+News+Events+by+Marc+Chamot+-NEW/articles/JnpzDIzmJel/Letter+Editor+Birther+Movement+Reeks+Rotten>) on August 8, 2009. Retrieved March 31, 2018.
38. Stein, Sam (June 10, 2009). "James Von Brunn Apparently Part Of Obama "Birther" Movement" (https://huffingtonpost.com/2009/06/10/james-von-brunn-apparentl_n_214006.html). The Huffington Post. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20180518002530/https://www.huffingtonpost.com/2009/06/10/james-von-brunn-apparentl_n_214006.html) from the original on May 18, 2018. Retrieved December 11, 2019.
39. Smith, Ben (June 10, 2009). "Shooter was a Birther" (http://www.politico.com/blogs/bensmith/0609/Shooter_was_a_Birther.html). The Politico. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20110502012321/http://www.politico.com/blogs/bensmith/0609/Shooter_was_a_Birther.html) from the original on May 2, 2011. Retrieved June 11, 2009.
40. "James W. von Brunn: 'Obama Is Missing'" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090612231329/http://www.talkingpointsmemo.com/documents/2009/06/james-w-von-brunn-obama-is-missing.php?page=1&ref=fpblg>). Talking Points Memo. December 2008. Archived from the original (<http://www.talkingpointsmemo.com/documents/2009/06/james-w-von-brunn-obama-is-missing.php?page=1&ref=fpblg>) on June 12, 2009.
41. Bump, Philip (March 10, 2017). "A conspiracy site with White House press credentials revives a debunked birther story" (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/news/politics/wp/2017/03/10/a-conspiracy-site-with-white-house-press-credentials-revives-a-debunked-birther-story/>). The Washington Post. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170330003037/https://www.washingtonpost.com/news/politics/wp/2017/03/10/a-conspiracy-site-with-white-house-press-credentials-revives-a-debunked-birther-story/>) from the original on March 30, 2017. Retrieved March 10, 2017.
42. Abramovitz, Alan (2018). The Great Alignment: Race, Party Transformation, and the Rise of Donald Trump. Yale University Press. p. 123.
43. Identity Crisis: The 2016 Presidential Campaign and the Battle for the Meaning of America. Princeton University Press. 2018. p. 5.
44. Tesler, Michael (2018). "Islamophobia in the 2016 Election". Journal of Race, Ethnicity and Politics. 3 (1): 153–155. doi:10.1017/rep.2018.8 (<https://doi.org/10.1017%2Frep.2018.8>). ISSN 2056-6085 (<http://www.worldcat.org/issn/2056-6085>).

45. "National Enquirer hid Trump secrets in a safe, removed them before inauguration" (<https://www.nbcnews.com/politics/donald-trump/national-enquirer-hid-trump-secrets-safe-removed-them-inauguration-n903356>). NBC News. August 23, 2018. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20180824080029/http://www.nbcnews.com/politics/donald-trump/national-enquirer-hid-trump-secrets-safe-removed-them-inauguration-n903356>) from the original on August 24, 2018. Retrieved August 23, 2018.
46. Marr, Kendra (March 17, 2011). "Donald Trump, birther?" (<http://www.politico.com/news/stories/0311/51473.html>). Politico. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110320173350/http://www.politico.com/news/stories/0311/51473.html>) from the original on March 20, 2011. Retrieved March 17, 2011.
47. Wing, Nick (June 5, 2012). "Donald Trump: 'Birther' Is A 'Derogatory Term'" (https://huffingtonpost.com/2012/06/05/donald-trump-birther-derogatory_n_1571871.html). The Huffington Post. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20170318045216/http://www.huffingtonpost.com/2012/06/05/donald-trump-birther-derogatory_n_1571871.html) from the original on March 18, 2017. Retrieved December 11, 2019.
48. "Pants on Fire: Donald Trump says people who went to school with Obama never saw him" (<http://www.politifact.com/truth-o-meter/statements/2011/feb/14/donald-trump/donald-trump-says-people-who-went-school-obama-nev/>). Politifact. February 14, 2011. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20120328063929/http://www.politifact.com/truth-o-meter/statements/2011/feb/14/donald-trump/donald-trump-says-people-who-went-school-obama-nev/>) from the original on March 28, 2012. Retrieved March 21, 2012.
49. "Donald Trump, Whoopi Goldberg, Spar Over Obama on 'The View'" (https://blogs.wsj.com/speakeasy/2011/03/24/donald-trump-discusses-president-obama-on-the-view/?mod=google_news_blog). The Wall Street Journal. March 24, 2011. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20110427143558/http://blogs.wsj.com/speakeasy/2011/03/24/donald-trump-discusses-president-obama-on-the-view/?mod=google_news_blog) from the original on April 27, 2011. Retrieved March 25, 2011.
50. Mirkinson, Jack (March 30, 2011). "CNN's Carol Costello Tears Into Donald Trump: 'A Joke,' 'Ridiculous'" (https://huffingtonpost.com/2011/03/30/carol-costello-trump-joke-ridiculous-cnn_n_842619.html). The Huffington Post. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20110330215916/http://www.huffingtonpost.com/2011/03/30/carol-costello-trump-joke-ridiculous-cnn_n_842619.html) from the original on March 30, 2011. Retrieved March 31, 2011.
51. "Time to Fire Donald Trump from Political Arena?" (<http://archives.cnn.com/TRANSCRIPTS/1103/30/cnr.04.html>). CNN. March 30, 2011. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20120308105455/http://archives.cnn.com/TRANSCRIPTS/1103/30/cnr.04.html>) from the original on March 8, 2012. Retrieved March 31, 2011.
52. "Trump goes after Obama on US citizenship, says citizenship questions remain unanswered" (https://web.archive.org/web/20190709072306/https://www.washingtonpost.com/politics/trump_goes_after_obama_on_us_citizenship_says_citizenship_questions_remain_unanswered/2011/04/07/AFVRFstC_story.html?wprss=rss_politics). The Washington Post. Associated Press. April 7, 2011. Archived from the original (https://www.washingtonpost.com/politics/trump_goes_after_obama_on_us_citizenship_says_citizenship_questions_remain_unanswered/2011/04/07/AFVRFstC_story.html?wprss=rss_politics) on July 9, 2019. Retrieved April 7, 2011.
53. Smith, Ben (April 14, 2011). "Trump and the blacks" (http://www.politico.com/blogs/bensmith/0411/Trump_and_the_blacks.html). Politico. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20110430214621/http://www.politico.com/blogs/bensmith/0411/Trump_and_the_blacks.html) from the original on April 30, 2011. Retrieved April 18, 2011.
54. "Birtherism Is Dead, But the Birther Industry Continues" (<http://swampland.time.com/2011/04/27/birtherism-is-dead-but-the-birther-industry-continues/>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110427224850/http://swampland.time.com/2011/04/27/birtherism-is-dead-but-the-birther-industry-continues/>) April 27, 2011, at the Wayback Machine. Time. April 27, 2011

55. Goldman, Russell (October 24, 2012). "Donald 'Bombshell' Fails to Blow Up" (<https://abcnews.go.com/Politics/OTUS/donald-trump-fails-drop-bombshell-offers-cash-obama/story?id=17553670>). ABC News. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20121025024916/https://abcnews.go.com/Politics/OTUS/donald-trump-fails-drop-bombshell-offers-cash-obama/story?id=17553670>) from the original on October 25, 2012. Retrieved October 24, 2012.
56. Pramuk, Jacob (September 16, 2016). "Trump: 'President Barack Obama was born in the United States. Period'" (<https://www.cnn.com/2016/09/16/trump-president-obama-was-born-in-the-united-states-period.html>). CNN. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170906091854/https://www.cnn.com/2016/09/16/trump-president-obama-was-born-in-the-united-states-period.html>) from the original on September 6, 2017. Retrieved September 6, 2017.
57. "Joe Arpaio: Obama birth certificate a fraud" (<http://www.politico.com/news/stories/0712/78645.html>). Politico. July 17, 2012. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20120720021149/http://www.politico.com/news/stories/0712/78645.html>) from the original on July 20, 2012. Retrieved July 20, 2012.
58. "Brewer disagrees with Arpaio findings, believes Obama birth record real" (http://www.eastvalleytribune.com/arizona/politics/article_7ceda460-67e1-11e1-977c-0019bb2963f4.html). East Valley Tribune. Tempe, AZ. March 6, 2012. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20120620164718/http://www.eastvalleytribune.com/arizona/politics/article_7ceda460-67e1-11e1-977c-0019bb2963f4.html) from the original on June 20, 2012. Retrieved July 20, 2012.
59. "Arizona Officially Accepts Obama's Birth Record" (<http://latino.foxnews.com/latino/news/2012/05/23/arizona-officially-accepts-obama-birth-record/>). Fox News Latino. May 23, 2012. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20120702095746/http://latino.foxnews.com/latino/news/2012/05/23/arizona-officially-accepts-obama-birth-record/>) from the original on July 2, 2012. Retrieved July 20, 2012.
60. "Arpaio goons sent to Hawaii for important birther investigation" (http://www.salon.com/2012/05/22/arpaio_goons_sent_to_hawaii_for_important_birther_investigation/). Salon. May 22, 2012. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20120719205610/http://www.salon.com/2012/05/22/arpaio_goons_sent_to_hawaii_for_important_birther_investigation/) from the original on July 19, 2012. Retrieved July 20, 2012.
61. Cassidy, Megan (December 15, 2016). "Sheriff Joe Arpaio: Probe proves Obama birth certificate is fake" (<https://www.usatoday.com/story/news/nation-now/2016/12/15/sheriff-joe-arpaio-probe-proves-obama-birth-certificate-fake/95500958/>). USA TODAY. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20161216042625/http://www.usatoday.com/story/news/nation-now/2016/12/15/sheriff-joe-arpaio-probe-proves-obama-birth-certificate-fake/95500958/>) from the original on December 16, 2016. Retrieved December 16, 2016.
62. Phippen, J. Weston (December 15, 2016). "The Last of the Birthers" (<https://www.theatlantic.com/news/archive/2016/12/sheriff-joe-arpaio-the-birther/510857/>). The Atlantic. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20161216023101/https://www.theatlantic.com/news/archive/2016/12/sheriff-joe-arpaio-the-birther/510857/>) from the original on December 16, 2016. Retrieved December 16, 2016.
63. "In State House, Another Obama 'Birther' Steps Forward" (https://web.archive.org/web/20090321180032/http://blogs.nashvillescene.com/pitw/2009/03/in_the_state_house_another_ob.php), Wednesday, March 18, 2009. Retrieved from the Internet Archive, September 19, 2016.
64. "Tennessee Republicans get more unstable by the day" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090518203621/http://www.nashvillescene.com/2009-05-14/news/tennessee-republicans-get-more-unstable-by-the-day>), May 13, 2009. Retrieved from the Internet Archive, September 19, 2016.
65. Kaczynski, Andrew; LeBlanc, Paul (August 22, 2017). "GOP Senate candidate Roy Moore has said he doesn't believe Obama is a natural-born citizen" (<http://www.cnn.com/2017/08/22/politics/kfile-roy-moore-birther-comments/index.html>). CNN. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20170823001631/http://www.cnn.com/2017/08/22/politics/kfile-roy-moore-birther-comments/index.html>) from the original on August 23, 2017. Retrieved August 23, 2017.

66. McCreless, Patrick (February 23, 2009). "Update: Shelby comments draw fire nationally" (https://archive.today/20120908113318/http://www.cullmantimes.com/local/local_story_052203445.html). The Cullman Times. AL. Archived from the original (http://www.cullmantimes.com/local/local_story_052203445.html) on September 8, 2012.
67. Smith, Ben (February 22, 2009). "Alabama paper stands by Shelby story" (http://www.politico.com/blogs/bensmith/0209/Alabama_paper_stands_by_Shelby_story.html?showall). Politico.com. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20090418154805/http://www.politico.com/blogs/bensmith/0209/Alabama_paper_stands_by_Shelby_story.html?showall) from the original on April 18, 2009. Retrieved July 20, 2009.
68. Weigel, David (July 29, 2009). "And Now, Roy Blunt" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090802212412/http://washingtonindependent.com/53127/and-now-roy-blunt>). Washington Independent. Archived from the original (<http://washingtonindependent.com/53127/and-now-roy-blunt>) on August 2, 2009.
69. Messenger, Tony (July 30, 2009). "Roy Blunt on birthers: Barack Obama born in U.S., BUT ..." (<https://archive.today/20090802223526/http://www.stltoday.com/blogzone/political-fix/political-fix/2009/07/roy-blunt-on-birthers-barack-obama-born-in-us-but/>) St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Archived from the original (<https://stltoday.com/blogzone/political-fix/political-fix/2009/07/roy-blunt-on-birthers-barack-obama-born-in-us-but/>) on August 2, 2009.
70. Zapanta, Victor (September 5, 2009). "Rep. Jean Schmidt Tells Birther: 'I Agree With You'" (<http://thinkprogress.org/2009/09/08/jean-schmidt-birther/>). Think Progress. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090910073952/http://thinkprogress.org/2009/09/08/jean-schmidt-birther/>) from the original on September 10, 2009. Retrieved September 10, 2009.
71. "Debate Over Video of Congresswoman At Tea Party" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20091014020744/http://www.local12.com/news/local/story/Debate-Over-Video-of-Congresswoman-At-Tea-Party/ftCQktMFS0C-LSP99lcM5A.csp>). Cincinnati: WKRC-TV. September 10, 2009. Archived from the original (<http://www.local12.com/news/local/story/Debate-Over-Video-of-Congresswoman-At-Tea-Party/ftCQktMFS0C-LSP99lcM5A.csp>) on October 14, 2009. Retrieved March 8, 2012.
72. Miller, David (July 31, 2009). "Jean Schmidt Not A Birther: Firedoglake couldn't get an answer – Loveland Magazine does" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110110051030/http://www.lovelandmagazine.com/2009/07/jean-schmidt-not-a-birther.html>). Loveland Magazine. Loveland, OH. Archived from the original (<http://www.lovelandmagazine.com/2009/07/jean-schmidt-not-a-birther.html>) on January 10, 2011.
73. Galloway, Jim (November 5, 2009). "Nathan Deal says he'll ask for Barack Obama's birth certificate" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20091108105514/http://blogs.ajc.com/political-insider-jim-galloway/2009/11/05/nathan-deal-says-hell-ask-for-barack-obamas-birth-certificate/>). Atlanta Journal-Constitution. Archived from the original (<http://blogs.ajc.com/political-insider-jim-galloway/2009/11/05/nathan-deal-says-hell-ask-for-barack-obamas-birth-certificate/>) on November 8, 2009. Retrieved November 9, 2009.
74. Weigel, David (August 11, 2010). "Nathan Deal: Exhibit A of Why Birtherism Isn't a Career Killer" (<http://www.slate.com/blogs/blogs/weigel/archive/2010/08/11/nathan-deal-exhibit-a-of-why-birtherism-isn-t-a-career-killer.aspx>). Slate. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20100812103741/http://www.slate.com/blogs/blogs/weigel/archive/2010/08/11/nathan-deal-exhibit-a-of-why-birtherism-isn-t-a-career-killer.aspx>) from the original on August 12, 2010. Retrieved August 12, 2010.
75. Smith, Ben (December 3, 2009). "Palin: Obama birth certificate 'a fair question'" (http://www.politico.com/blogs/bensmith/1209/Palin_Obama_birth_certificate_a_fair_question.html?showall). Politico. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20091208004529/http://www.politico.com/blogs/bensmith/1209/Palin_Obama_birth_certificate_a_fair_question.html?showall) from the original on December 8, 2009. Retrieved December 4, 2009.
76. Franke-Ruta, Garance (December 4, 2009). "Palin flirts with Obama birth certificate question" (<http://voices.washingtonpost.com/44/2009/12/palin-flirts-with-obama-birth.html?wprss=44>). The Washington Post. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20120112215953/http://voices.washingtonpost.com/44/2009/12/palin-flirts-with-obama-birth.html?wprss=44>) from the original on January 12, 2012. Retrieved December 4, 2009.

77. Shapiro, Lila (March 18, 2010) [December 3, 2009]. "Sarah Palin Goes 'Birther': Obama Birth Certificate 'A Fair Question' (Video)" (https://huffingtonpost.com/2009/12/03/palin-goes-birther-obama_n_379634.html). The Huffington Post. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20091207072717/http://www.huffingtonpost.com/2009/12/03/palin-goes-birther-obama_n_379634.html) from the original on December 7, 2009. Retrieved April 30, 2010.
78. Milian, Mark (December 4, 2009). "Sarah Palin revives 'stupid conspiracy' of Obama's birth certificate" (<http://latimesblogs.latimes.com/washington/2009/12/sarah-palin-obama-birth-certificate.html>). Los Angeles Times. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20100510062918/http://latimesblogs.latimes.com/washington/2009/12/sarah-palin-obama-birth-certificate.html>) from the original on May 10, 2010. Retrieved April 30, 2010.
79. "U.S. House News withdraws endorsement of Tracey Mann for 'birther' views" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20100725064435/http://www.hutchnews.com/Editorialblogs/edit-congress-withdraw-endorsement--1>). The Hutchinson News. July 21, 2010. Archived from the original (<http://www.hutchnews.com/Editorialblogs/edit-congress-withdraw-endorsement--1>) on July 25, 2010.
80. "Kansas Congressional Candidate Just Can't Stop Accidentally Being a Birther" (http://nymag.com/daily/intel/2010/07/kansas_congressional_candidate.html). New York. July 23, 2010. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20100725213330/http://nymag.com/daily/intel/2010/07/kansas_congressional_candidate.html) from the original on July 25, 2010. Retrieved July 25, 2010.
81. Clarkin, Mary (August 27, 2010), "Republican from Fowler takes 1st Congressional District primary" (<http://www.hutchnews.com/Todaystop/huelskampwin>) Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110505052158/http://www.hutchnews.com/Todaystop/huelskampwin>) May 5, 2011, at the Wayback Machine, The Hutchinson News
82. Kleefeld, Eric (July 12, 2010). "Vitter: I Support Birther Lawsuits (VIDEO)" (<http://tpmdc.talkingpointsmemo.com/2010/07/vitter-i-support-birther-lawsuits-video.php>). Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20100714191749/http://tpmdc.talkingpointsmemo.com/2010/07/vitter-i-support-birther-lawsuits-video.php>) from the original on July 14, 2010. Retrieved July 13, 2010.
83. "Republican Senator Says He Backs Birther Lawsuits" (<https://abcnews.go.com/Politics/wireStory?id=11147438>). ABC News. Associated Press. July 12, 2010. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20100714183245/https://abcnews.go.com/Politics/wireStory?id=11147438>) from the original on July 14, 2010. Retrieved July 13, 2010.
84. Costa, Robert (September 12, 2010). "Gingrich: Obama's 'Kenyan, anti-colonial' worldview" (<http://www.nationalreview.com/corner/246302/gingrich-obama-s-kenyan-anti-colonial-worldview-robert-costa>). National Review. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20100913163132/http://www.nationalreview.com/corner/246302/gingrich-obama-s-kenyan-anti-colonial-worldview-robert-costa>) from the original on September 13, 2010. Retrieved September 13, 2010.
85. Stephanopoulos, George (September 13, 2010). "Will Boehner's 'Blink' Make A Difference on Tax Cuts? Not Before Lame-Duck" (<http://blogs.abcnews.com/george/2010/09/will-boehners-blink-make-a-difference-on-tax-cuts-not-before-lame-duck.html>). ABC News. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20100914115216/http://blogs.abcnews.com/george/2010/09/will-boehners-blink-make-a-difference-on-tax-cuts-not-before-lame-duck.html>) from the original on September 14, 2010. Retrieved September 13, 2010.
86. Dwyer, Devin (December 30, 2010). "Birther King Andy Martin Seeks GOP Presidential Nomination" (<https://abcnews.go.com/Politics/birther-king-andy-martin-seeks-gop-presidential-nomination/comments?type=story&id=12508838>). ABC News. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110105031938/https://abcnews.go.com/Politics/birther-king-andy-martin-seeks-gop-presidential-nomination/comments?type=story&id=12508838>) from the original on January 5, 2011. Retrieved December 31, 2010.
87. Millerick, Shawn (February 20, 2011). "Behind the scenes: The GOP's birther, anti-Semite debacle" (<http://nhjournal.com/2011/02/20/behind-the-scenes-the-gop%E2%80%99s-birther-anti-semite-debacle/>). NH Journal. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110305154026/http://nhjournal.com/2011/02/20/behind-the-scenes-the-gop%E2%80%99s-birther-anti-semite-debacle/>) from the original on March 5, 2011. Retrieved March 1, 2011.

88. Shear, Michael (March 1, 2011). "Huckabee Questions Obama Birth Certificate" (<http://thecaucus.blogs.nytimes.com/2011/03/01/huckabee-questions-obama-birth-certificate-claims-he-was-raised-in-kenya/>). The New York Times. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110302054113/http://thecaucus.blogs.nytimes.com/2011/03/01/huckabee-questions-obama-birth-certificate-claims-he-was-raised-in-kenya/>) from the original on March 2, 2011. Retrieved March 1, 2011.
89. Loeb, Steven (March 3, 2011). "Huckabee: I Misspoke When I Said Obama Was From Kenya, What I Meant Was He Was Never A Boy Scout" (<http://www.businessinsider.com/bill-oreilly-mike-huckabee-obama-kenya-madrassa-2011-3>). Business Insider. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110429141924/http://www.businessinsider.com/bill-oreilly-mike-huckabee-obama-kenya-madrassa-2011-3>) from the original on April 29, 2011. Retrieved April 19, 2011.
90. Marr, Kendra (March 14, 2011). "Michele Bachmann: No birth flap for me" (<http://www.politico.com/news/stories/0311/51245.html>). Politico. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110317031734/http://www.politico.com/news/stories/0311/51245.html>) from the original on March 17, 2011. Retrieved March 15, 2011.
91. Clark, Kyle (May 16, 2012). "Coffman Speech in Elbert County" (http://www.denverpost.com/breakingnews/ci_20642001/mike-coffman-says-obama-not-an-american-at). The Denver Post. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20120520210655/http://www.denverpost.com/breakingnews/ci_20642001/mike-coffman-says-obama-not-an-american-at) from the original on May 20, 2012. Retrieved June 2, 2012.
92. Coffman, Mike (May 24, 2012). "Mike Coffman: Obama comment was boneheaded" (http://www.denverpost.com/opinion/ci_20694265/mike-coffman-comment-was-inappropriate-boneheaded). The Denver Post. Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20120529005833/http://www.denverpost.com/opinion/ci_20694265/mike-coffman-comment-was-inappropriate-boneheaded) from the original on May 29, 2012. Retrieved June 3, 2012.
93. Hendley, Matthew (December 18, 2012). "Arizona GOP Chairman Tom Morrissey Says He's Not a "Birther," but Obama's Birth Certificate Doesn't Seem Real" (http://blogs.phoenixnewtimes.com/valleyfever/2012/12/arizona_gop_chairman_tom_morri.php). Archived (https://web.archive.org/web/20121230193046/http://blogs.phoenixnewtimes.com/valleyfever/2012/12/arizona_gop_chairman_tom_morri.php) from the original on December 30, 2012. Retrieved December 20, 2012.
94. "Video of U.S. Senator Lindsey Graham speaking before The Atlantic's First Draft of History conference, October 1, 2009" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20120515162142/http://link.brightcove.com/services/player/bcpid30183074001?bctid=42981023001>). Archived from the original (<http://link.brightcove.com/services/player/bcpid30183074001?bctid=42981023001>) on May 15, 2012. Retrieved October 18, 2009.
95. Weigel, David (July 24, 2009). "McCain Campaign Investigated, Dismissed Obama Citizenship Rumors" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090725131435/http://washingtonindependent.com/52474/mccain-campaign-investigated-dismissed-obama-citizenship-rumors>). The Washington Independent. Archived from the original (<http://washingtonindependent.com/52474/mccain-campaign-investigated-dismissed-obama-citizenship-rumors>) on July 25, 2009.
96. Weigel, David (January 8, 2009). "GOP Senators Give Hope to Anti-Obama Activists" (<https://web.archive.org/web/20090117002638/http://washingtonindependent.com/24362/gop-senators-letters-give-anti-obama-activists-hope>). Washington Independent. Archived from the original (<http://washingtonindependent.com/24362/gop-senators-letters-give-anti-obama-activists-hope>) on January 17, 2009. Retrieved January 9, 2009.
97. Bernstein, David S. (July 22, 2009). "Birthers In The Mainstream" (<http://thephoenix.com/BLOGS/talkingpolitics/archive/2009/07/22/birthers-in-the-mainstream.aspx>). The Boston Phoenix. Archived (<https://web.archive.org/web/20110430034208/http://thephoenix.com/blogs/talkingpolitics/archive/2009/07/22/birthers-in-the-mainstream.aspx>) from the original on April 30, 2011. Retrieved July 23, 2009.
